

Source: The Northwestern Lumberman, August 6, 1887

The DSS&A line, now being constructed, crosses the Montreal river about six miles above Hurley, Wi., and then goes due east to the northend of Lake Gogebic. Passing this it deflects south east to a point east of the center of the lake, thence east and north to Three Lakes. It passes some distance of Rock Island, the terminus of the Ontonagon & Brule River road and saves 350 miles between Boston and Duluth.