

Source: The Mining Journal
Marquette, Mi.
July 7, 1888

Saturday

Three more of the new South Shore coaches are expected in a day or two now. The color adopted for these coaches is known as the "Pennsylvania Central Standard," and is rapidly acquiring popularity on all the leading roads of the country. Pencillings has tried to make out whether it is a dark cherry, a maroon, a mauve or a wine color, but has become so mixed up on the matter that he can only declare that it is a handsome color and is neither black nor white.

✓BSS&A
Equipment
RWB