When our citizens saw our dry goods box that was being built by the Railway company for a depot, they became disgusted and were not slow in expressing their opinion of it. Being determined, however, to have something worthy of the name of a depot, a subscription was taken up and in a short time enough money was raised to build one three times the size of the one the company was erecting. They are now at work on the addition and when finished will be a great improvement on the original plan.
