THE SIGN PAINTER'S WORK.

The Minneapolis Road Practically Finished to the Soo-The Third Road.

Legitimate Trade Active But Embarrassed the Soo-The Third Road.

Legitimate Trade Active But Embarrassed vertisements We See on Fences. 'That man is a sign painter by trade,' marked a contractor, pointing to a man who was erecting a fence before a building that was to be torn down, "but he finds it pays better to put up fences where building is going on and let out the spaces to adver-tisers. The big profits in the business have brought about a healthy competition, and everything is now reduced to a fine art. remember a few years ago this sign painted came to me and offered to put up a new fence free of cherge in front of a building I was erecting providing he could use the boards for advertising purposes. I jumped at the offer and thought the man was a fool for making it. The shoe was on the other foot, however, for I should have received several hundred dollars to boot for the privilege.
"This man has brought the business dow a science. He has scores of agents scouring a science. He has scores in agents scoring the city for eligible sites, as well as can-vassers to drum up advertisements. His fences, which are very neat and attractive, are built in uniform sections and join together on the groove principle. An adver-tiser can thus have his announcement changed to different localities at will without going to the expense of having a new sign painted The old method of building a new fence every time made this mode of advertising very exsensive, and the lessess often lost money by cost is now reduced to a minimum by making send upon the location. A sign on Broadway osts the most, but many of the cross streets re nearly as desirable. The big advertisers the nearly as desirable. The big advertisers hake contracts by the year. Some of their igns are very claborate. As soon as one milding is finished they are put up elsewhere. The lesses who has a number of bese contracts runs no risk in leasing a priv-lege, because he has his advertisers before hand, and their signs are ready to slide into position. The first charge is made for the painting of the sign, and then so much per day for its use as an advertisement. The artistic appearance of the signs has improved very much since the introduction of the movable section, for enterprising houses no longer look upon it as extravagant to have trade-New York, Dec. 9.—New York business marks or pictures of specialties correctly painted on a fence. He was away out a long time, but recently turned up again in the county somewhat the worse for wear, and the victim of a hallucination. He has relatives here with whom he has made his home for a time. His various queer act ions have attracted much attention here Yesterday the reporter observed "Johnny" coming down the street on a brisk run. Every few feet he would spy a small piece of paper, and, scarcely stopping his rapid gait, would pick it up and stuff it in his pocket. Pretty soon marshal Cunningham picked him up and stuffed him in a cell in the city jail. His relatives here want him sent away somewhere, as they are afraid to have him around. His hallucinations are of a harmless nature, but his folks fear that he may take it into his head to burn down the house. When the reporter asked him yesterday why he was picking up scraps of paper, he said: "Because God desired me to; it was his design." Arrangements will probably be made to-day

The upper peninsula mined this year something over 4,000,000 tons of iron ore. The duty on this ore, when imported, is, we believe, 50 cents per ton. That is, were it not for the tariff on iron ore, we, to find a market as against imported ores, would be obliged to sell our ores at 50 cents a ton less, or $2,000,000 less for the output than we did during the past season. Iron ore is, we believe, classed as raw material, and, according to the president's suggestion, should be on the free list.

Of course the books on etiquette tell us not to put our feet on the table or in other people's laps, but they dismiss the subject of subject without further attention and go on making rules about the hands, letting people commit gross errors with their feet all their lives without knowing it. There is some thing pathetic in the thought that a man who has been studying etiquette for years and has got to such a point that he can eat a meal without committing a single breach of propriety may be displaying a gross disre-

JAMES RUSSELL, P. M.

A Community Shut Out. CLARKSBURG, Mich., Dec. 8, 1887.

To the Mining Jonnal:
Our postmaster to-day received notice that after the 15th, inst., the postoffice here would be discontinued. Why the government should take this step I cannot understand; but very likely at the suggestion of postoffice inspector New-berger, though he gave no intimation to that effect when here.

The office accommodates some sixty families, or three hundred people, who will be obliged to go to Humbold here-after to do their business. The American and Dexter mines also get their mail here The office has always been kept open on business hours, though for some time past the cancellations have averaged only $8

The discontinuance is certainly a great injustice, and more especially, as the Humboldt office is open only at mail hours. Yours Truly,

Flat Chests in Fashion. It is growing, so says a woman who has a private ladies' gymnasium, the fashion to be flat chested. This woman says that the great difficulty she finds in her profession is that most of the young women who are sent to her by doctors for a course in gymnastics to cure some disorder, utterly refuse to take off their stays, and she will not let them practice in them. So matters are pretty much at a standstill. "Women come to me," she says,
"who have not drawn an unfettered breath for years. Perfectly sound girls of 20 are very rare," she continued, "and they are not, as a rule, developed sufficiently. Flat chested women are so much in the majority that it has become fashionable to be so, and young girls who are just growing up lace themselves in with corsets and flatten themselves down with tight bodies until it is absolutely im-possible they shall obtain their normal development.
