A SCALY DECISION.

Ruling of Treasury Department As To Duty on Fish Caught in Canadian Made Nets.

ADMITTED FREE IF APPARATUS IS OWNED BY CITIZENS OF U. S.

Revolution in Honduras—Relief For New York Money Market—Gold In The Treasury—Bond Purchases.

WASHINGTON INTELLIGENCE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 12.—A decision was rendered by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Spaulding today which is looked upon as extremely important to the fishing and fish importing interests of the great lakes. It is addressed to the collector of customs at Detroit and says: "This department is in receipt of your letter enclosing the communication of George Clark concerning fish he desires to import free of duty. It is understood that the fish in question were caught in fresh waters by nets or other devices owned by citizens of the United States. By a decision of the general appraisers it is held that fish so caught are exempt from duty regardless of the question as to whether the nets and devices were purchased in the United States or not. This decision the department sees NO REASON TO DISSENT FROM and it should govern your action. It may be mentioned, however, that the department is of the opinion that the term 'other devices' covers boats which may be used by fishermen gathering fish from nets and in transferring fish to the vessels in which they are imported to the United States and that importers of salt fish who may claim free entry should be warned that unless the boats are the property of citizens of the United States the fish cannot be passed free. In case you have reliable information or proof that nets or other devices which may be of Canadian manufacture are in fact the property of Canadian fishermen and are only turned over to citizens of the United States for the purpose of evading the payment of duty on the fish, importations made of fish caught in this manner should be seized and proceedings taken for a forfeiture.

REVOLUTION IN HONDURAS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—A telegram dated Guatemala City has been received at the state department from Mr. Misme, minister to Central America, stating that a revolution is now in progress in the capital of Honduras. The president of that republic has been driven from the city, but is now collecting a force of troops and is expected, says the minister, to make a fight for the recapture of the government.

BELIEF FOR WALL STREET.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The secretary of the treasury today authorized the assistant treasurer at San Francisco to receive deposits of funds from bankers desiring to transfer the same by telegraph to the assistant treasurer at New York. This is done to enable persons in New York having funds in San Francisco that are needed there to transfer them for immediate use in New York. The department will also accord the privilege to other points at which there are sub-treasuries, should as a means of affording any relief at the present time.

GOLD IN THE TREASURY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The statement showing the amount of gold and silver bullion in the treasury and of gold certificates outstanding for the last ten day period ending today, which will be issued tomorrow, will show that the total gold in the treasury, coin and bullion, is $298,514,150; gold certificates in treasury, $39,437,550; gold certificates in circulation, $134,963,760; net gold in the treasury, coin and bullion, $157,550,381.

The remains of the late Major-General George Crook were brought to this city this morning from Oakland, Md., and were interred with military honors in the National cemetery at Arlington in the presence of a few long-time friends of the dead general.

The amount of 44 per cent bonds redeemed today up to the circular of October 9 was $87,000, making the total to date $4,688,550.

The controller of the currency today authorized the Metropolitan National bank of Kansas City, Mo., to begin business with a capital of $750,000.

A question involving the rights and privileges of Canadian in the transportation of American merchandise over American territory was the subject of a hearing at the treasury department today. The treasury department was represented by Secretary Winlow, Assistant Secretary Spaulding and Special Agent Tingle; the state department by Secretary Blaine and the department of justice by solicitor Hepburn.

Adjutant General Kelton, who has been very ill for some time past, has so far improved in condition as to be able to be about and hopes to resume the duties of his office in a few weeks.

THAT NEW YORK CENSUS AFFAIR.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Mr. Kenny, the representative of the mayor of the city of New York, called on Superintendent Porter today at the census office and presented to him the resolutions recently adopted by the common council of the city requesting the superintendent to furnish Mr. Kenny for their use a list of the names of persons in the Second ward enumerated by the census enumerators in June last. As this request came from the representatives of the municipal government of the city as contemplated by the law, it was at once granted by Mr. Porter, who instructed Mr. W. C. Hunt, who is the chief of the population division, to furnish the names as requested.

WEDDING BELLS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Mrs. Teresa

Blackburn Stewart, daughter of Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, and Capt. Wm. Proble Hall of the army were married in St. John's Episcopal church at 2 o'clock this afternoon by the Rev. Dr. Douglas.

A PARDON DENIED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—A pardon has been denied by the president in the case of J. G. Clark, convicted of a violation of the internal revenue laws and sentenced April 2, 1889, to imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary for one year and to pay a fine of $1,000 and costs.

CHOLERA IN COREA.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—A letter from Corea, received through the department of state by the marine hospital bureau, states that the Japanese minister has been informed that up to August 26th, seventy-one Japanese residents in Corea had died of cholera, the number of Japanese reported as having contracted the disease being 109. The disease is reported to be very violent in Vladivostok, Russia. Both soldiers and the people are suffering from it. At Fusan the disease has taken a very severe form and great alarm exists among the Koreans. The number of deaths among Koreans is not known.

GOOD FOR PASSAGE.

Minnesota Supreme Court Holds That Excursion Tickets Are Negotiable.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 12.—Judge Vanderburg, of the supreme court, handed down a decision which settles the question as to a railroad ticket purchased of a ticket broker or scalper. In August 1888, the Northern Pacific railroad issued certain excursion tickets from Detroit, Minn., to Minneapolis and return. Casper Carsten bought the return coupon of a Minneapolis broker and took passage from Minneapolis to Detroit. The conductor would not accept this ticket. Carsten brought action against the railroad company, and the lower court held that he could not sue. He then appealed to the supreme court and the decision was reversed, the court holding that a round trip ticket used by a purchaser in going to the station named and then sold and transferred, no restrictions appearing, is valid in the hands of a holder and entitles him to a return passage subject to the prescribed limitations as to time, etc., and actual damages may be collected.

THE LOTTERY BUSINESS

Will be Done by the Adams Express Company—Official Action Taken.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The board of members of the Adams Express company today held its first meeting since the passage of the United States anti-lottery act. The board was unanimously of the opinion that the provisions of the act are morally obligatory upon the company as they are legally binding upon the postal authorities. The attention of the board was called to the fact that the postoffice department had issued regulations to all its subordinates as to the manner in which they should effectuate the provisions and intent of the act, and the board adopted a resolution making such regulations applicable to the employees of the company in like manner as if such employees had been specifically named therein.

BURNED TO WATER'S EDGE.

The Steamer Messenger Takes Fire at the Dock at Rogers City.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., Nov. 12.—The steamer Messenger, partly laden with cedar, burned to the water's edge shortly after 6 o'clock last evening at a dock at Rogers City. The fire was discovered in the hold and it shot up around the engine and boilers and soon enveloped the whole boat. The lines were cut and the Messenger drifted out five miles into the lake where she was last seen burning fiercely. The crew arrived here on the Flora this morning. The Messenger was insured for $3,000.

NO SHOW AGAINST VILAS.

Friends of General Bragg Think He Stands No Show for Senatorship.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Nov. 12.—While the people of this city would be pleased to see Gen. E. S. Bragg go to the United States senate, but they do not believe he stands any show against Colonel Vilas. The impression prevails here even among General Bragg's political allies that Vilas will be chosen. The understanding here is that the party managers in Milwaukee who controlled the last democratic convention promised the election to Vilas and that they are prepared to fulfill their pledge.

ONE MORE SENATOR

Claimed By Illinois Democrats—Successful Republican Candidate Not Eligible.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 12.—The democrats in the Rock Island legislative district now claim that W. C. Collins (rep) of that city, who received a majority of the votes, is ineligible, not having been a resident of this state for the statutory time. If this claim should prove correct it would reduce by one the number of republicans on joint ballot and give the democrats a majority in the ballot for United States senator.

KILLED BY FALLING ROCK.

An Italian Miner Loses His Life in No. 2 Shaft of the Calumet.

CALUMET, Mich., Nov. 12.—[Special.]—Bart Halonen Benando, an Italian miner, aged 29, within three minutes of quitting time last night, was killed in No. 2 shaft by a piece of rock falling on him. He leaves a wife in the old country.

THE RAID CHECKED.

Action of New York Clearing House Committee Saves The Stock Market.

Better Feeling and Renewed Confidence Evident In Yesterday's Trading—Situation Changed For The Better.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The stock market today showed a materially better feeling both in the street and outside and there was a most gratifying confidence displayed that not only was the worst over but that the improvement would be quick and sharp. The action of the clearing house committee in coming to the relief of the banks in difficulty was the means of restoring the confidence of many while the improvement in the situation abroad was also a powerful factor to that end. Not only were the active stocks much higher all day long but the inactive specialties, which yesterday at any price, to-day were taken at constantly advancing figures, and the heavy slump in those shares was in great measure made up. The liquidation in the Wall Street stocks is now believed to have marked the culmination of the efforts to force a complete liquidation in the street, as these stocks had resisted the force applied for a much longer time than any other group of stocks on the list. The impression is that now the whole situation has been changed for the better, and the improvement in the condition of affairs will be followed by higher prices all along the line. There is to be expected considerable selling of the Northern Pacific securities and some others, to liquidate loans, as was witnessed to-day, but the market now shows no pressure of other stocks, and the offerings of the past few days have undoubtedly been taken by strong parties.

THE FARMERS ALLIANCE.

National Organ of the New Party Calls for Preparatory Work for Ninety Two.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12.—What figure will the Farmers Alliance party put in the coming presidential struggle? Is a question that suggests itself, in view of the recent developments of strength by the new organization. The question is answered for the farmers by the national organ, the Advocate, in its issue of this week. The journal says: "The party will at once commence to marshal the hosts of the people for the conflict of 1892. It is a great work there are many prejudices to be overcome. Sectional lines must be abolished. The people simply ask for justice—that alone, and that, by the Eternal, they will have. Down with all sectional lines! Away with all sectional prejudices! Let the fires of patriotism that still burn in the hearts of the people consume the prejudices of the past. Let one flag float over us, and one spirit so perfectly pervade our hearts that we shall be able and willing to stand shoulder to shoulder in the great army that must make a lasting conquest of the hosts of corporate greed that are fattening upon the stolen substance of the people!"

FAILED TO TID OVER.

North River Bank, of New York City, Closes Its Doors Temporarily.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Notwithstanding the announcement made early in the day that the North River bank had failed over their losses of yesterday and made satisfactory arrangements with the clearing house, that institution closed its doors at 2:15 and posted a notice saying: "This bank has suspended temporarily." All efforts to obtain further information were futile. The doors were locked and admittance was denied to all. There were a number of depositors congregated in front of the entrance to the bank, and they were much exercised over the sudden suspension.

Two of the McDougall "whaleback" vessels will be launched from the company's shipyard at Superior Saturday afternoon next, and the event is to be made the occasion of a great demonstration by the people of that city.

The mayor has officially requested them to observe the afternoon of the day as a holiday by closing their places of business and suspending work of all kinds, and arrangements have been made for an imposing street parade and the ordinary concomitants of a big celebration.

The vessels to be launched are the first of the McDougall steel barges built at the Superior yards, and the people of that city are warranted in regarding the event as of sufficient importance to justify them in formally celebrating it.

The Engineering and Mining Journal gives this information concerning copper in its last issue:

The market continues very dull, and the transactions have almost all been of a retail character, but the little business that has been done was at full prices. As it is now nearly time for navigation by the lakes to cease, when the companies will have to pay a half cent more for all rail shipments, it seems very questionable whether or not they will give way in price. Up to now they have been firmly holding out for 17 cents, and seem to be confident they can keep the market there.

We have had some reports lately to the effect that heavy stocks have accumulated at the lakes, but we have not been able to verify them, and as far as we can judge, they are greatly exaggerated. Still it must be conceded that there is a rather flat feeling in the market, and unless orders come in more freely, it is not unlikely that prices will have to be reduced. Lake copper we still quote at 17 cents, with ingot copper in New York obtainable at 16 1/2 cents.

As to Arizona and casting copper, we hear that the prices we quoted last week have been fully upheld, and that if not a large, certainly a fair business has been done. Considering that prices for these sorts must be called cheap with lake at 17c, it is not astonishing that consumers should operate somewhat more freely in them. We quote Arizona at 15 1/2c, and casting at 14 1/2c.

Advices received by mail from Europe report a fair business. The decrease in statistics for the first half of October amounted to 1833 tons, while the second half shows an increase of about 200 tons, making the decrease for the month about 1,600 tons.

In spite of this Chili bars show a not unimportant decrease for the week in consequence of some heavy realizing by speculators. The market opened on Monday last at 258 5/8 @ 7 1/2, and gradually overed from day to day until 256 1/2 @ 7 1/2, 56 1/2, spot; with three months five shillings higher was touched to day.

DON'T WANT HIM SHELVED. Wisconsin republicans do not look with favor on the idea of having Senator Spooner, of that state "taken care of" by the administration in the manner suggested by some of his admirers, either by appointment to the supreme bench of the United States as the successor of Justice Miller, or to take the seat now held by Judge Gresham, if the latter should be appointed to fill the existing vacancy on the supreme bench. They desire that the brilliant young senator shall not be shelved in that way, as they look forward to the time when they will require his services in politics to assist them in wresting the state from the democrats, and anticipate for him a career in which his talents can be employed more advantageously for them and himself than on the bench of even the supreme court of the United States.

It is hardly likely that they will be called on to mourn the practical retirement of Senator Spooner from politics by reason of his acceptance of any judicial appointment in the gift of the president. Apparently speaking by authority, the Evening Wisconsin, of Milwaukee, says: "Senator Spooner belongs to the republicans of Wisconsin. He realizes this fact, and he is prepared, whenever called upon, to be their standard-bearer. He will lead the republican column in 1892 in this state, and meanwhile he will not bury himself in any government office." The Wisconsin further states that Mr. Spooner will take up his residence in Milwaukee after the expiration of his term as a senator of the United States, to again resume the practice of law.

Just what the Wisconsin means by the prediction that Mr. Spooner will be the republican standard-bearer in his state in the election of 1892 can only be conjectured, but the plainest construction to be placed on it is that he is to be the republican candidate for governor in the next state election. Very likely he is on the cards for the gubernatorial nomination in 1892, for the party will need just such a candidate as he would make, and such leadership as he is capable of giving it, in the campaign of that year to enable it to dislodge the democracy from the vantage ground in which it will be entrenched in Wisconsin when it comes into possession of all that it won in the late election.

THE STAY-AT-HOMES DID IT. Strange as it may appear to our hurrahing democratic friends, they wouldn't have anything to hurrah over but for the help indirectly given them by republicans who didn't vote at all in the election of last week.

Perhaps they may not believe this. Then let the figures (and figures, unlike politicians, never lie) be put in evidence. The democrats have elected their candidate for sheriff in this county by a plurality of 605, on a total vote of 2,669 cast for him in the county. In 1888 the same gentleman was a candidate on the democratic ticket against Mr. Adams, the present sheriff, and received 2,773 votes in the county, or 104 more than were cast for him in the late election, yet he was defeated by a plurality of 954 in 1888. To state the facts concisely, he polled 104 more votes in the county two years ago, when he failed of election by an adverse plurality of 954, than he did this year, when he has a plurality of 605 over his republican competitor. What is the explanation of this apparently contradictory showing? A very simple one. Fully 1,300 republicans who voted the party ticket in 1888 failed to vote this year, and by their failure to discharge that duty to their party defeated the republican candidate for sheriff in the county. Hundreds of republicans voted for Mr. Seely, or even the apathy of those who didn't vote at all would not have given him the victory, but he also received a large republican vote in 1888, when he was defeated by nearly a thousand in the county, so the matter of his personal popularity, which is conceded, in no way affects the comparison here made.

Now let us carry the comparison to a few of the other offices for which candidates were before the people in 1888 and again this year, and see what it will disclose. Two years ago Mr. Gad Smith, running for county clerk and register of deeds, received 4,441 votes. His democratic opponent received 2,122 votes, Mr. Smith's majority that year being 2,319. This year Mr. Smith was again the republican candidate for the same offices, and received 3,082 votes in the county, against 1,802 cast for the democratic nominee. Compared with the vote cast in 1888, the republican vote, taking the figures on these candidates as the basis for calculation, shows a falling off of 1,359, and the democratic vote of 319, from that cast two years ago, though the vote of the county has largely increased in the meantime. The vote cast for the other county officers in the election of 1888 and this year discloses the same facts, and the comparison made fully establishes what was asserted at the outset of this article—that the democrats owe whatever success they have had in the election of this year to the republicans who, from one cause or another, remained away from the polls on election day, and not to a gain in their own vote.

In 1888 Luce, for governor, received a total vote of 4,308 in the county, against 2,204 cast for Burt, the democratic candidate. This year Turner's vote was 3,074, or 1,234 less than that cast for Luce two years ago, while Mr. Winans received 1,861 votes in the county in the late election, or within 340 of the vote cast for the democratic candidate for governor in 1888. It will be seen from the facts presented that the republican loss in this county is attributable to the failure of republicans to get out and vote this year, and that there actually has been a democratic loss here in the vote cast, though at the same time there has been a reduction of fully 1,000 in the republican majority, and that party was defeated on the head of its county ticket.

The MINING JOURNAL ventures to suggest that if its jubilant democratic friends will study the returns they will discover that when they accomplished such wonderful things in the recent election they did not engage the whole force of the republican party, and the same is as true of the country generally as it is of this county. The circumstances favored them this year, and they are warranted in feeling frustrated over the outcome of the elections throughout the nation, but an analysis of the returns will be apt to render the thoughtful among them disinclined to anticipate an easy victory two years hence, with no better ground for expecting it than is afforded by their unlooked for successes in the elections of this year.

ATTACKED BY A BEAR.

After Many Injuries Mr. Best Saves His Life by Feigning Death.

Mr. Best, of Durango, came very near losing his life by being devoured by a ferocious bear, and his escape is probably the most miraculous in the history of the state.

Mr. Best was an Lighthouse creek looking for horses, and was coming down the side of a steep canyon about ten miles from town, and as he drew near a portion of the trail where the brush and undergrowth was very thick he heard a cracking and smashing of the scrub oak on one side.

Suddenly a low growl met his ear, and without further warning the brush parted and Mr. Best was confronted by a large, ugly looking silver tip or range bear, that stood hardly two feet away. For a moment Brain stood as if considering what tactics to pursue. Then, raising herself upon her hind feet and waving her paws in the air, she rushed for Mr. Best, who, not knowing how to escape the infuriated animal.

As she approached closer and closer until he could feel her hot breath against his face he managed to catch her by the feet, and being possessed on ordinary occasions of enormous strength, which now in this exciting moment became superhuman, he held her feet in such a manner that she was unable, although trying her best, to strike or tear him with her claws.

For a moment both paused for wind, and Mr. Best was looking for some way to let go, but no way was found. The bear finding herself powerless to crush her victim, and as he held her feet so widely apart that she could do nothing with them, saw her way clear to end Mr. Best's career by eating his head and face, which, as both his hands were employed in holding her feet, she could do, and he could not prevent it unless he should turn her feet loose, and then she would have more advantage than before.

Slowly she leaned her ugly face toward him and then opened her enormous mouth and took Mr. Best's head inside and leisurely began to crush in his face and head with her teeth. Mr. Best was of course unable to stop her, and was compelled to let her pursue her muzzling course.

Finally, overcome with pain and loss of blood, Mr. Best fell backward, the bear falling on top, and being now so weak that he could offer no further resistance Brain, finding herself free, proceeded to tear and devour Mr. Best's face and scalp.

While she was inflicting her punishment upon him she heard, as well as did he, a faint, who had not yet lost consciousness, a lot of noise from the brush, accompanied by a few sharp growls, which evidently came from her cubs. Leaving Mr. Best she started to investigate the trouble there and disappeared.

Mr. Best, half unconscious and blinded by the blood that was flowing from the many wounds that had been inflicted on his face and head, was unable to rise, but turned over on his face and tried to think what to do. Just as he had determined to try to stop her, and was crawling or creeping he heard the bushes crash and knew that the bear was returning.

Having heard that they will not bite or touch anything they think dead, he resolved to find out, and as the bear approached again he kept perfectly still. Brain came up and waited for him to jump or move, and seeing that he did not, she fit him on the arm, and then, finding he did not move, she nipped him a little, and after a few farewell bites returned to her cubs and plunged into the bush.

Mr. Best succeeded in dragging himself to a perch five miles distant, and medical assistance was summoned.—Denver Republican.

The Fault of the Typewriter. I must tell you how my typewriter came near losing me one of my best friends. He had written me asking me to do a certain thing if I could do so without too much bother. He wanted me to do it because he didn't want to put me out in the least. It happened that I could not do what he asked me to do, although it was not on account of any lack of disposition on my part. In addressing him a reply I did so on my typewriter. I met him a few days after he said that I had not discussed the fact that his request was annoying and he desired to apologize. I saw that he was hurt and upon my pressing him for the reason he pulled out my letter and handed it to me. He directed me to read the first—the address portion. I did so. I had addressed him "My Dear Brother." That typewriter had dropped out the "r" in the address. I had meant to address him "My Dear Brother." It was a long time before I could make that man believe that I hadn't considered him a bother instead of a brother.—Interview in Chicago Tribune.

Guess This Conundrum. What is the reason that a physician will not endorse a good thing when he knows as well as he knows anything that the article in question has been used for years and is a valid remedy, but because it is a proprietary medicine they cry it down. There is not a prescription case in any drug store in all this broad land that does not hold this same article. There are few if any physicians who do not prescribe it. And yet, while he says this article is made and sold in larger packages, and the price is so much below a prescription that is where the shoe pinches. But there are physicians who are willing to endorse a good thing, as the following will show.

I have used quite extensively in my practice of late Luce's Extract Red Clover for Indigestion, Constipation, Dyspepsia and Stomach Troubles, with the best results, and have found it worthy of all and more than is claimed for it. The only indication to physicians is that it exceeds its recommendation.

To-day the patient was free from fever and the ulcers were covered with scabs similar to those on a person r-covering from an eruptive fever or from eczema. To Wash Blankets.

In washing woolen blankets, to avoid shrinkage do not have the detergent water of widely different degrees of heat, and do not apply soap directly to them. The best way is to dissolve two table-spoonsful of borax in hot water, and add the solution to a tub half full of very hot water; put in the blankets and let them remain one hour, stirring often and rubbing with the hands, but never on a washboard. Squeeze them out of the soda, prepare another water of the same temperature, containing but one table-spoonful of borax, and enough fine white soap to make a nice suds; immerse the blankets and repeat the same process of cleaning as at first. Afterward rinse through two clean waters, of the same temperature as the others, and dry.—Good Housekeeping.

Facts Worth Knowing.

For faded green blinds, rub on a little limesud.

Put bits of camphor gum in trunks or drawers to prevent the mice from doing any injury.

To freshen leather chair seats, valises, bags, etc., rub them with the well beaten white of an egg.

To prevent tin pans from rusting, rub fresh lard on them, and set in a hot oven until thoroughly heated.

Soak clothes that fade over night in water in which has been dissolved one ounce of sugar of lead to a pailful of rain water.—Good Housekeeping.

Nursing Becoming Fashionable.

As showing that nursing is becoming fashionable, it is asserted by a writer in The British Medical Journal that Princess Helen Gusa is a nurse in the children's hospital, Jassy; Countess Asta Blucher has been nursing the invalids of Capt. Wiseman's force at Zanzibar; Miss Godolphin Osborne, niece of the duke of Leeds, is matron of the Lamington Hospital for incurables; Lady Leveson Gower is a nurse in one of the metropolitan hospitals, and Lady Amberley and Baroness Ebba Boston were trained at St. Mary's hospital, Paddington, a few years ago.

A Lover of Fans.

"The Swedish Nightingale," Christine Nilsson, is an enthusiast in the matter of fans. She has a collection of rare and beautiful specimens. Among the number is one which was presented to her by the ex-Empress Eugenia. It formerly belonged to Mme. Dalary; possibly it is the famous one valued at many thousand francs. Another of the fair singer's fans is one which was given to her by the crown prince of Russia, and is an exact copy of the one that belonged to the queen of Guade.—New York World.

To Put the Child Asleep.

Under no circumstances give a child drops, stimulants or syrups to produce sleep. Let the physician be made responsible for this dangerous practice. The excitement of being tossed and jumped by a too ardent nurse, the glare of the dinner table or a tardy rumpling about the room often unstrung the delicate nerves and chase away sleep. Hunger is often the cause of distress at bed time, and negligence on the part of the nurse to observe it is another reason for fretfulness.—Exchange.

There are now 120 women in the Berlin telephone exchange. It has been decided to use only women in the future, as it has been found that their voices are much more audible than men's, owing to the higher pitch.

WOMAN AND HOME.

THE GOOD OLD FASHIONED PRIVATE SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

Progressive Conversations—She Will Not Be Familiar—How Children Are Spoiled—Brilliant Lady Macdonald—A Woman's Hair.

Every state in the Union has been generous to the public schools—munificent individuals have built and endowed with lavish hands universities and colleges for young men, and within the last two decades woman has had doled out to her, with great reluctance, with much reserve and many misgivings, some of the crumbs which fall from the tables of the great universities. And four colleges, exclusively for women, have been built and generously endowed. The question as to her capacity to receive this blessing is not yet decided, and the fear that it will subvert the purposes of nature and unfit her for the functions of domestic life is finding nervous and incoherent expression in the periodical literature and after dinner speeches of the day. Meanwhile there is a great and powerful arm of the educational force of this country which has no literature, no written history, which is seldom referred to by periodical, scientist, or the orator of the day, except in some flippant allusion to point a moral or adorn a tale—this is the "private school for girls."

For 200 years this institution has held a dignified and responsible place in the educational and social system of this country. To this the American woman, such as she has been in times past and such as we find her today, owes the character, the culture, the grace and the embellishments which enable her to take her stand, not blushing for her ignorance or her stupidity, side by side with the cultivated and representative woman of other countries.

It has no favor from the state. Being private property it cannot hold endowments; it has paid its own taxes and supported itself. European educators have marveled that American writers should leave the world to learn by accident that American ladies were not all educated in their famous public schools.

The French commissioner of education to the Centennial exhibition, whom I afterward met, could not forgive the committee which waited on him in New York that it had not afforded him an opportunity to visit the schools in which the accomplished women whom he had met in this country were trained.—Mrs. Sylvanus Reed in Scribner's.

Progressive Conversations.

A new amusement particularly adapted to the traditional talent of fair women is the "progressive conversation party," which had its birth in the east. Its popularity is established by its possibility to entertain any number of guests, though more than twenty cannot be easily managed. Its modus operandi is somewhat as follows: As many chairs as are required by the number of guests invited are arranged in pairs in a continuous line, one behind the other, and each chair is furnished with broad ribbons of different colors. The topics of conversation for the evening are announced on the invitation cards.

A card on which is written a topic of conversation is tied with a narrow ribbon to the connecting ribbons on the chairs, and tally cards, as in progressive euchre, with a tiny ribbon here which matches the colors on the chairs, are arranged for both ladies and gentlemen, as in the game when played with cards. When all the guests have drawn a card they take their seats according to the color designated by the tally card, the ladies on the left and the gentlemen on the right, the hostess taps a bell, and the buzz of conversation begins.

Ten minutes are allowed for each topic, and the topic on each set of chairs differs from all the others. The judges chosen pass down the line and criticize, and at the end of the time specified affix a gold star on the card of the best conversationalist, a silver star on the card of the vanquished.

The entire company change seats, the gentleman retreating one seat, the lady advancing one, and the buzz begins again. When ten changes have been made, ten topics are discussed, and the person having the greatest number of gold stars is the winner.—Chicago News.

She Will Not Be Familiar.

What strikes the pilgrim from other lands is the predominance of women in London. Women everywhere—in the restaurants, behind the lunch counters, in the shops, in the offices, women seem to be doing all the work. I don't find any fault with this arrangement. They are more civil than the men. I only wish they could manage street car conductors. Probably they may some day.

Down at Nantasket beach you find the same superabundance of the fair sex. They reside at the popcorn booths with all the dignity of long lineage and great mental development. Foreigners from New York or Chicago, ignorant of the customs of the native "foreigners" just mentioned to be sure, sometimes make an effort to be pleasant with these young ladies. The result is always disastrous to the foreigner.

"I'll wait upon you, but I'll not be familiar with you."

That's the shibboleth of the Boston serving lady.

I was much amused at the attempt of one of these "foreigners" just mentioned to bestow a small fee upon one of these young women. She drew herself up with all the hauteur of family pride—for no doubt her name was Winthrop, or Adams, or Hancock, or Winslow—and then she remarked:

"Excuse me, sir, we are liberally rewarded for our services by the corporate trustees of the beach, and, consequently, the offer of any gratuity is entirely a supererogatory act." Then turning to a small boy she murmured:

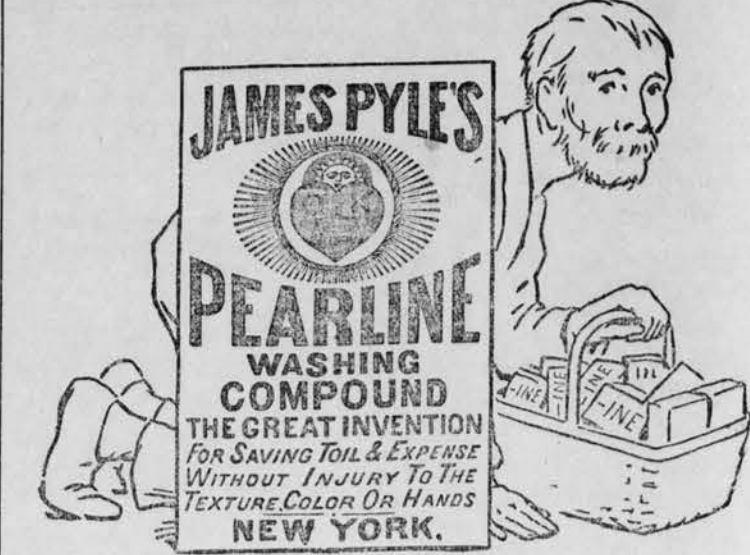

"Johnny, accept the gentleman's nickel."

"We keep him for that purpose, in order not to offend those who may be strangers in Boston."—Cor. Philadelphia Press.

How Children Are Spoiled.

It is easy enough to spoil a child. No great art is demanded. Only three or four things are requisite to complete the work. Make all the nurses wait on him and fly at his bidding; let him learn never to go for a drink, but always have it brought to him; at 10 years of age have Bridget tie his shoe strings; let him strike auntie because she will not get him a sugar plum. He will soon learn that the house is his realm, and he is to rule it. He will come up into manhood one of those precious spirits that demand obedience and service, and with the theory that the world is his oyster, which, with knife, he will proceed to open.

If that does not spoil him buy him a horse; it is exhilarating and enlarging for a man to own such an animal. A good horseback ride shakes up the liver and helps the man to be virtuous; for it is almost impossible to be good with too much bile, an enlarged spleen, or a stomach off duty. We congratulate any man who can

There's safety behind it as well as in the use of it

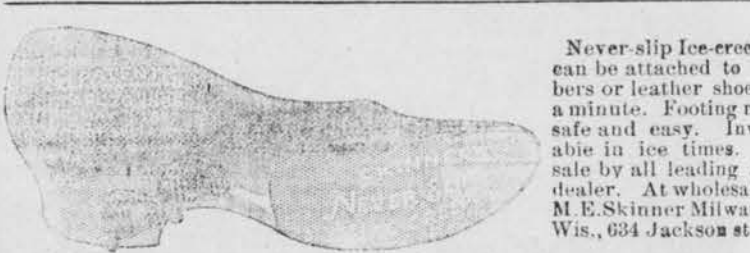

But there's nothing ahead of it. The reputation of Pearline covers a multitude of imitations. Their names may end in "ine," but their use may end in trouble. Don't be persuaded that they are "the same as Pearline," or "as good as Pearline." The peddlers who try to sell them will tell you that they are; if you're reckless enough to try them, you will know that they are not. Get your Pearline of some good grocer, for it's never peddled. It's the best thing to get, and it's the only way to get it.

Pearline is manufactured only by JAMES PYLE, New York.

A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

An Ishpeming Mine That was Supposed to be Worked Out Again To Become a Producer.

ANTICS OF A RESIDENT OF ISHPEMING WITH A "JAG" ABOARD.

The Pythian Celebration Next Week Will be a Great Affair—Interment of Mrs. Hughes.

At the Saginaw.

A considerable degree of activity has prevailed at the Saginaw mine for a number of months past. It will be remembered by older residents of the county that this mine was abandoned as "worked out" some six years ago, and that Mr. Lee Peck and the company represented by him have been exploring the property for the past four years, with very satisfactory results. The mine has been unwatered, and mining work has been carried on actively for the past eight months, under Mr. Peck as superintendent, and Capt. Thos. Phillips as mining captain. The mine is now looking well, and there is a large amount of ore in sight.

A new boiler and compressor plant are being put at the mine, and the management expects to run a dozen or more power drills steadily during the winter, as soon as the plant is in position to furnish power. This, as all mining men will know, means that the Saginaw will be a shipper of some prominence during the coming year. The work done for the past four years has been largely exploratory, but from now on active mining will be prosecuted. Mr. Peck and his company have displayed a great deal of pluck and foresight in their operations on an abandoned property, where large amount of money has been expended without any income being derived from the work, and the MINING JOURNAL hopes that the shipments from the mine for the next two years will make up for all the money expended, and leave a handsome profit beside. Incidentally the mine will employ quite a large force of men, all of whom will do their trading in this city, and it will therefore be of considerable help to business here.

Had a Circus of His Own.

A certain resident of the Cleveland location in this city, who shall be nameless because of his exemplary conduct while sober, had the misfortune to get a little too large a jag aboard Tuesday afternoon. It was his misfortune to acquire the jag, but after he got it aboard the misfortune was transferred to those who happened to fall in with him.

His first outbreak was in Mose Toulloff's saloon, which he entered in a condition of inebriety, and started to "clean out" the place. In this laudable ambition he was foiled, and was, after much difficulty, landed on the sidewalk, when the door was locked to prevent his return. At this juncture Jim Thomas happened along with a couple of pasties, one of which was intended for Toulloff. The inebriated resident of the Fourth ward made a dash for Thomas, who fled into the alley-way to save his pasties. A wall blocked further passage, and Thomas was forced to turn and defend the pasties. This he did most valiantly with one arm, while with the other he held the pasties, but as things grew too hot he was forced to drop the pasties and "paste" his assailant. The pasting was so effectual that the gentleman from the Fourth ward is out of the alley in a demoralized condition, while Thomas repaired his hurts with a few yards of court plaster.

The next exploit of the amateur slugger from the eastern end of town was to knock over an inoffensive Swede, newly landed, who happened to be in his road. The gentleman from Sweden, who had read of the rowdy west, at once purchased a return ticket, and is probably on his way home by this time. The last exploit of the man from the Cleveland was to tackle Joe Novalle, the drayman. But Joe and a policeman proved too much for him, and he was carried off to the city coop, where he slumbered that night. Yesterday he paid a round fine. The exploits of this mighty fighting man were witnessed by several hundred people, none of whom seemed inclined to risk their own safety in an endeavor to subdue him. The pasties were rescued in a somewhat damaged condition by Mr. Toulloff shortly after the sanguinary battle in the alley.

The Pythian Celebration

The organization of a regiment of Pythian troops in the upper peninsula, the ceremonies attending which will take place in this city of Monday evening and Tuesday next, will afford a spectacle to which the people of Ishpeming are unaccustomed. The citizen soldiery of the uniform rank of the Knights of Pythias of the upper peninsula will be well represented in the Homatic city on that occasion, and the parade, review and banquet that will form part of the ceremonies will present quite a gorgeous spectacle to the people here.

Arrangements for the institution of the regiment are in the hands of competent committees, and the affair will be well managed. It is expected that there will be a large attendance of visitors from Sault Ste. Marie, Marquette, Ironwood, Escanaba, Menominee, Crystal Falls, Champion, Ontonagon, Hancock and the other upper peninsula towns that have lodges of the order. A good time is anticipated by all, and it will not be the fault of the knights in Ishpeming if the visitors are not right royally entertained.

Death of Mrs. Hughes.

Mrs. Michael Hughes died Saturday evening, after an illness of about two weeks, and was buried Wednesday morning from St. John's church. The high esteem in which the deceased was held was shown by the remarkably large attendance at the funeral ceremonies at the church, and that followed the remains to the cemetery. The funeral procession was the largest seen in the city for two years. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were among the oldest residents of the city, and were known to nearly everyone living here. Mr. Hughes has the sympathy of a large circle of friends in his great bereavement.

Attention, Sir Knights!

American Women's False Teeth.

"Did you ever notice how many American young women have false teeth nowadays?" said a well known dentist. "Perhaps you never have; the fair wearers use every means to prevent detection, especially by their gentlemen friends. It is quite safe to calculate that out of every twenty American young women—I mean those moving in the fashionable society of our great cities—at least five have entire sets, while the others will exhibit partial sets, or it will be demonstrated on examination that their natural teeth have been filled and manipulated very extensively. If you doubt my assertions go into any ballroom of the elite in the season, or attend any prominent society reception, and see for yourself.

"You doubtless think it strange that the teeth, being such a prime factor in woman's vanity, should be so neglected, and it is strange, considering the prevailing but pardonable vanity of the fair sex on the subject of personal appearance. But, nevertheless, there is a way of accounting for it, and that is upon the basis of the supreme laziness of the average fashionable lady.

"Late hours in the winter season, when the theatres, the opera and all the tony social amusements are in full blast, are responsible in fact for this laziness, which might, perhaps, rather be styled chronic weariness, and the dread work of completing the transformation of the society young lady into a confirmed idler is done during the summer by the habits engendered at the watering places and other heated term resorts of the creme de la creme. The teeth should be thoroughly cleaned on arising in the morning and on retiring for the night, but they are frequently given the 'go-by' altogether or brushed at irregular periods, and thus tartar and decay get a lead which they steadily maintain until the precious teeth, though occasionally patched up by a dentist, are ruined beyond repair.

"Of course all intelligent ladies are aware of the importance of cleaning their teeth, and are sadly annoyed and frightened when they are compelled to have false ones put in, but all this does not seem to teach them prudence, and every year it is the old story over again, but with a decidedly progressive tendency."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Experiments with Starch.

The mealy substance known by the name of starch forms the basis of some very simple and easily performed chemical experiments. Rasp some potatoes on a grater, knead the pulp thus obtained with water and squeeze it in a linen cloth; the fibrous particles of the cells remain behind, but the juice, together with a large proportion of the starch, runs through. Let the liquid remain quiet for some hours; it becomes clear because the heavier starch settles at the bottom. Pour off the liquid, wash the starch several times with fresh water, allowing it to settle each time, and then dry in a moderately warm place, and starch will be the result.

Heat in a flask the liquid poured from the starch, and after boiling a few moments it deposits a flaky substance, which is vegetable albumen.

If starch is placed in a ladle and gently heated, with constant agitation till dried up, hard, horny granules are obtained, which swell when boiling water is poured on them. These granules are called sago.

Heat in a vessel half a dram of starch, with an ounce and a half of water, stirring till it boils and you have starch as it is used for stiffening linen.

If starch paste is allowed to stand for a length of time in a warm place it gradually is converted into lactic acid—the same acid that gives to butter-milk its well known sour taste.—Youth's Companion.

NEW LANDS OPENING UP.

Luther Smith Tells About His Trip Through the Red Lake Country of Minnesota.

MANY MILLION ACRES OF LANDS TO BE OPENED FOR SETTLEMENT.

Thanks From Marquette's Recent Guests—New Wood-Working Mill Going Up—Interesting Homestead Contest.

The Red Lake Country.

Luther Smith has just returned from a three month's trip through northern Minnesota. He was a member of a government party of twelve that was sent through the Rainy Lake and Red Lake countries to see what sort of a land it was and to look after timber thieves. Mr. Smith came back enthusiastic over this new and as yet scarcely known region, which he declares to be one of the finest in the country. As these lands will soon be surveyed and opened to settlement his observations will be of much interest to Michigan and Wisconsin farmers and lumbermen. "We went from Duluth to Tower by rail," said Mr. Smith to a MINING JOURNAL man last night. "There we fitted out our party with Indian guides and started across country to the Little American River. Very little of that region west of the Vermillion range has been surveyed and you will find the stream laid down very inaccurately on the maps. Down this river we proceeded in canoes until we reached Rainy Lake river. Up this stream, which is a fine one, we went to Fort Francis, near the foot of Rainy Lake. Rainy Lake river is from 60 to 100 feet wide and navigable for good sized steamers from Fort Francis to Lake of the Woods. At Fort Francis there is a magnificent water power, a fall 30 feet high and as fine a site for a city as I ever saw. Above this fall Canadian steamers run the full length of Rainy Lake, some 60 miles farther eastward. We took one of them to the head of the lake and came back by canoes through a sort of interior route, a chain of small lakes with occasional portages. Then we proceeded down Rainy Lake river, making excursions inland up all the principal streams on the American side until we reached Lake of the Woods. There we took steamer for Rat Portage and came home by rail by way of Winnipeg and St. Paul.

"What sort of a country is that region?" asked the reporter. "One of the finest agricultural and timber countries I ever saw," said Mr. Smith. "Along the Rainy Lake river I saw fields corn fully matured. Why it is I do not know but that country really seems to be somewhat warmer than the latitude of Duluth. Along the Canadian side of the Rainy Lake river the country is pretty well filled with farmers and they all seemed to have fine crops. On the American side little settlement has been made and the woods are unbroken. The Red Lake reservation reaches from Lake of the Woods about half way to Rainy Lake and east of that there has been little surveying done. There is much open land. In fact rich prairies alternate with the belts of pine and hardwood, though there is not a great deal of the latter. A treaty has been made with the Red Lake Indians by which they are to be settled in the southern end of the reservation, about and south and west of Red Lake. Then the rest of the country, excepting the timber lands, will be surveyed and thrown open to settlement. The pine will be appraised in 40 acre lots and sold for the benefit of the Indians. At the same time the country this side of the Red Lake reservation, lying south and east to the Vermillion range, will be surveyed and opened for settlement. It is a country of great advantages, agricultural, mineral and for lumbering. It is intersected by a dozen fine streams reaching well up to the head waters of the Mississippi and on these I saw a large number of magnificent water powers. I think the country is destined to support a very large population. The Duluth and Winnipeg railway is now building through the heart of it, a direct line from Winnipeg to the head of Lake Superior. The market for its products will be both westward and eastward and the great and growing Vermillion iron region is close at hand.

"Has there been much timber stealing along the border?" "A large amount has been stolen, most of which has gone to the big mills near Rat Portage. The Canadian government keeps much closer watch over its forests than ours so that the principal field for the thieves has been on the American side. There have been many small gangs of pirates and some large American firms have been engaged."

"How long before this new country may be expected to open up for settlement?"

"I should say, not under a year. The Indian matters must be adjusted and the land surveyed. The appraisal of the Indian pine will take a good deal of time. Some settlers are now going in east of the Indian country and taking up lands without waiting for the survey but of course this cannot be done on the reserved lands. I understand that six or seven surveying contracts have been let and that much of the work will be done this winter. It is a great country and offers great opportunities for young men of energy and ambition."

Much Pleased With Their Visit.

The recent English and German visitors told the Associated Press reporters on their arrival in Washington that the pleasantest part of their journey through the United States was that spent in the upper peninsula of Michigan. They were treated as honored guests throughout. No one asked them to invest a dollar in anything. In fact a number of leading mining men and prominent citizens when asked by several of the visitors to advise them as to investments replied:

"We do not want you to invest a dollar in the upper peninsula now. See all you can and if you believe our industries are good investments come back. If you put any money in here now and your investment should turn out badly you would blame us. Come back when you get ready and we will talk business with you, but not now."

The experience of the northern party was far different from that of the southern section. The latter was constantly besieged and worried with prospectuses, schemes of all kinds and requests to buy stocks in mines and mills. These things became known when the two parties united and the facts redounded to the advantage of the upper peninsula, whose people made no attempt to get money out of their guests.

Mr. R. A. Parker of the Marquette committee, is in receipt of the following letter from Mr. J. F. Lewis, chairman of the New York local committee and who had charge of the northern excursion.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 8, 1890.
Mr. R. A. Parker, Marquette, Mich.

My DEAR MR. PARKER—The northern excursion of the Iron and Steel Institute and the Verein Deutscher Eisenhuettenleute arrived safely in New York by the way of Niagara Falls and Washington, after one of the most delightful trips that could be imagined and I wish to extend the hearty thanks of the party to you and your committee in Marquette for the arrangements made and so well carried out to the great pleasure of the visitors. Will you please extend to Mr. Peter White also, our thanks for the delightful reception which was given at his house. Our friends were delighted, and came away from Marquette filled with sweet memories that will be retained by them for a long time.

Again thanking you all, I remain,
Yours very sincerely,
J. F. LEWIS.

Mr. Lewis' letter, as showing how well the efforts of the people of Marquette and of the upper peninsula to entertain their guests were appreciated, will be read with interest. The well known hospitality of Lake Superior men never received a better endorsement.

New Factory Going Up.

The Hager & Johnson Manufacturing company is getting along well with the factory now under construction on West Washington street for its own use and that of the Michigan Polygonal Turning company. The piles for the big two story mill, 100 by 200 feet, have been driven and the posts are being set up. The stone foundations for the boiler house, 35 by 100 feet, are going in as fast as a dozen masons can make them. Some forty men are now employed and more carpenters are wanted. The South Shore has begun to lay the side track through the property and yesterday dumped a half dozen more carloads of ties for that purpose. The side track starts some distance east of the mill, opposite the coal dump, and runs for a good part of the way along the old plank road cut down which ore was hauled by mule teams in the early days of Marquette.

The new factory has the old tannery grounds and some besides, making in all eight acres. It is near Washington street on the one side and the railway on the other. The water for building operations was obtained in a rather curious way. Several holes were dug but no water could be found. One of the workmen by accident stumbled across an old pit filled with discarded machinery and saw water at the bottom. This proved to be the old tannery well. It was cleared out and affords an ample supply.

The building will be finished in a rather novel way on the outside. It will be sheathed with specially grooved boards and on these will be laid a heavy coat of adamant plaster. Thus the building will be enclosed in a shell of stone, making it thoroughly weather-proof and warm. The polygonal lathes have already been purchased and other new machinery secured. The work on the factory will be pushed as rapidly as possible and when it is done Hager & Johnson will abandon their present plant on Main street. The two concerns represent a capital of $300,000 and their organization marks an era in the industrial progress of Marquette.

Resigned the Principalship.
Mr. F. D. Wells, principal of the high school, has been compelled to resign that position owing to ill-health produced by the confinement of the school room. Having been advised to do so by his physician he sent in his resignation to take effect at once and last evening the school board accepted it with regret. Miss Chandler will take charge of Mr. Wells' work until another instructor can be secured.

Mr. Wells is a graduate of the University of Michigan in the class of 1886 and is a young man of attainments and ability. During his short stay here he has made a most favorable impression upon all who met him and his pupils regret his departure. He will probably remain in the upper peninsula, however, engaging in some business that will permit him to be out of doors a good share of the time.

As to Holding Back Lands.

A case of considerable interest to homesteaders and to lawyers as well was on trial before Register Royce and Receiver Meads in the local land office yesterday. It involves questions as to the exact date when the act of congress for leasing the Ontonagon & Brule River railroad grant went into effect and whether the register and receiver of the local land office erred in not receiving applications for entry previous to May 1, 1889.

The act forfeiting the grant was signed by President Cleveland on March 3, 1889. It appears from the evidence that on March 5th George Gamble came into the land office and tendered a filing and fees for a tract in the primary limits of the Ontonagon & Brule River grant. This filing was rejected, apparently because the then register and receiver had no official information that the forfeiture act had been passed. On March 13th the commissioner of the general land office sent a letter to the local register and receiver, notifying them of the passage of the act and directing them to advertise for at least 30 days the opening of the lands to settlement. On March 7th Edwin Powell appears to have made some settlement on the tract. Afterward Gamble also made settlement and the question now comes up in a contest between the two. Messrs. Mapes and Maynard appear for Gamble and Messrs. Cochran and Byrne for Powell. In his argument before the register and receiver yesterday Mr. Mapes contended that the forfeiture act went into effect from the moment of its signature by President Cleveland; that the register and receiver erred in not receiving Gamble's filing as no officer had power to suspend the operation of a statute; that having made application to file in due form and such application having been erroneously rejected, Gamble retained all his rights in the premises; that the refusal of the register and receiver to take filings before May 1st was an illegal suspension of the statute and made a favored class of those who could make immediate settlement as against those who could not. The hearing of the case will continue to-day when the other side will get its innings.

Careless Street Railway Men.

George E. French while riding up Front street last evening was thrown headlong into the mud by his horse stepping into a hole dug by the street railway employes near the Main street crossing. Fortunately no bones were broken but Mr. French went home with some painful bruises and ruined clothing. There is little use in the street railway men guarding their trenches if they leave small holes into which a horse can conveniently set his foot scattered about the streets. That which caused Mr. French's accident was noted by a MINING JOURNAL man yesterday afternoon. For what purpose it was dug was not discernible but it was just above the Main street crosswalk and was an elegant trap for a horse.
