It is well known that all cases of sickness, both medical and surgical, do better under sanatorium care and treatment than at home. All cases are helped and many seemingly

COLORADO MINES FLOODED.

Americus and Sleepy Hollow Workings at Central City Filled
by Rush of Water.

BROKE THROUGH FROM ADJOIN- ING PROPERTY.

Thirteen Men Believed to Have Been Lost but Fate Cannot Be Ascertained at Present.

CAUGHT LIKE RATS IN A TRAP CENTRAL CITY, Col., Aug. 29.—The accidental flooding of the Americus and Sleepy Hollow mines this afternoon caused the death, it is believed, of thirteen miners. Every effort is being made to rescue the unfortunate men
but little hope is entertained.

A little after 3 the water in the lower workings of the Fisk mine broke through the workings of a vein that had not been worked for a number of years. Coursing eastward it struck the Americus, where two Italian miners, whose names were not learned, were at work. They were both drowned. In its course the water diverted to Sleepy Hollow mine, on the easterly portion of the Fisk vein. Fourteen men were working in the Sleepy Hollow, three of whom escaped. The water went from there to the adjacent mines but all the men escaped.

The sounding of whistles gave the first signal of the disaster and soon the shaft building of the Sleepy Hollow mine was crowded with the families and relatives of the imprisoned miners. A number of miners offered their services.
The farthest depth attained was 330 feet, the accumulated gas forced up by the rising water being such that a candle would not burn at a greater depth.

A second effort was made, a larger sized safety lamp having been placed in the bucket. The rescuer who first descended in the bucket, H. Prisk, was found at the 330-foot level. On reaching surface he was almost in an insensible condition. Other volunteers went down afterward but were not successful in reaching a lower point in the shaft, owing to the rising water.
The water is now being lowered in the mine.

The two in the Americus are without doubt dead. Those in the Sleepy Hollow, unless they can be found in some of the stopes, met death in a similar manner.

TO MAKE REPARATION.

Evident Desire of China in Regard to Injury Done Americans.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The Chinese minister informed Acting Secretary of State Adee today that he had received advice from Peking to the effect that the investigation into the missionary massacres was proceeding satisfactorily.
He gave renewed assurances of the determination of China to punish the perpetrators. The minister assured the secretary that he called upon the express direction of his government, as received in a cable dispatch from the Chinese foreign office, to convey direct official assurance of a desire on the part of the Peking authorities to make adequate reparation for the injury done
American interests by Chinese rioters and set at rest the reports which represent a different spirit on the part of the Chinese.

He said the cablegram brought assurance of the co-operation of the Chinese authorities in getting at the facts in the riots and confirmed the information already received that Consul Hixon was sitting in the inquiry at Ku Cheng with a Chinese official who holds equal rank with Hixon in accordance with the treaty regulations. He also says that several rioters had already been convicted, but the extent of their punishment had not yet been determined. The visit was a formal one and was made in strict accord with diplomatic etiquette. Everything was done, apparently, to convince the government of an earnest desire on the part of China to maintain the most cordial relations with the people of this country.

OTHER NOTES FROM WASHINGTON.
As a result of the recommendations of the Chicago drainage canal board of engineers the war department will make observations and take measurements so as to determine the probable effect of the operation of the proposed canal upon the level of the great lakes.
No further steps can be taken until this is accomplished and it is announced that the observations will be started as soon as practicable.

Librarian of Congress Spofford today
forwarded to the treasury department
a statement of his accounts, covering a period of several years. The figures will not be given out pending the action of the department on the report.

THE PACING CHAMPIONS.

Raced at Fleetwood Yesterday and Robert J Carried Off Palm.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—A contest between the champions of the pacing brigade attracted a large crowd to Fleetwood Park this afternoon. The number present was conservatively estimated at twelve thousand and some enthusiasts placed it at eighteen thousand. There was quite a lively speculation, the prevailing odds being: Joe Patchen, 4 to 5; Robert J, 7 to 5, and Gentry, 3 to 1. Mascot drew the pole and they went away in the first heat at a clip that took them to the quarter in 31 seconds, Robert J a length in the lead. The half was reached in 1:02.
Going up the hill in the third quarter
Joe Patchen made a disastrous break
just as Curry was preparing to make his drive. Robert J now looked to have the heat safe but a second later he, too, went up and Mascot came on and assumed a lead of five lengths. Robert J, however, quickly recovered, rapidly

overhauled Mascot, passed him a hundred yards from the wire and won amid great applause.

In the second heat Joe Patchen dashed the hopes of his backers by a bad break just after getting the word.
When he recovered he was hopelessly out and Curry wisely gave him an easy mile. Again Robert J swung out in the lead, both Gentry and Mascot hanging to his flanks with a grip that he could not shake off. The quarter was reached a quarter of a second faster than the previous heat, the intense interest of the crowd being manifested by a subdued murmur as the time was announced. At the half the pace quickened, the timers announcing it reached 1:00, showing the second quarter paced in two-minute clip. The three-quarter post was reached in 1:33. In the stretch McHenry shook Robert J
under the wire first by an open length in 2:04, the fastest heat ever paced or trodden on the Fleetwood track.

The first part of the third heat was much like the others, except that Joe Patchen seemed to be in his element, and the clip was even faster. Robert J again assumed the lead, the others close up. The horses went well bunched to the half. A second later Joe Patchen stepped into Gentry's wheel, tearing the tire off Gentry came on with a wabby sulky and beat Mascot for place. Geers pulled Robert J to a mere jog and let Patchen in, and finished in 2:04. Five thousand dollars went to the winner.

FOUL PLAY IS FEARED.

Chicago Traveling Man Has Been Missing Since Aug. 1.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—W. F. Slater, a traveling salesman for Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., of Chicago, has been missing since Aug. 1. On that day he was seen in Oshkosh but since then nothing has been heard from him. His accounts are reported to be straight and it is feared he has been foully dealt with. The last person in Oshkosh known to have had a conversation with Slater is the clerk of the Athearn Hotel.
He says it was after supper when he paid his bill and ordered his trunks sent to the depot. The hotel clerk positively stated that Slater had not been drinking and he showed no signs of mental disturbance. A floater found in Milwaukee was thought to be Slater but his friends late tonight were unable to tell whether it is him or not. They said, however, that the facial description was excellent for Slater and that he wore clothing "something like" that found on the floater. Further than that they could not go. Mrs. Slater could not be seen tonight.

DEFENDER WON AGAIN.

Showed Superiority Over Vigilant in All Kinds of Weather Yesterday.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The second trial race between the Defender and the Vigilant over a triangular course of eight miles to a leg, starting from the Scotland lightship, was one of the most interesting events that ever took place in New York harbor. There was all kind of wind from almost a dead
calm to a blow of forty miles an hour.
In every point of sailing and in every kind of weather the Defender showed herself to be far superior to the Vig-ilant. The Valkyrie made a little bit of show herself while the racers were at work, but it was so little that no estimate could be placed on her qualities as compared with either that of the Defender or Vigilant. The regatta committee of the New York Yacht club had the races in charge. America's cup committee, however, do not seem to be satisfied that the Defender is the better boat, for they have ordered another trial race for tomorrow. The Defender started at 11:30:25 and finished at 4:10:05; Vigilant, 11:30:40, finishing at 4:28:23.

DID NOT WRITE LETTER.

Denied Campos Stated Cuban Rebellion
Could Not Be Put Down.

HAVANA, Aug. 29.—The reports recently published in reference to a pretended letter from General Campos relative to the great proportions assumed by the rebellion in Cuba and the proposition for the establishment of autonomy for the island are pronounced incorrectly as entirely false. General Campos has not written any letter to the Spanish consul at Jamaica,
it is claimed, nor to anyone else, concerning the prospect of autonomy and the progress of the troubles in Cuba.
The merchants of Havana are preparing for a public demonstration on the occasion of the arrival of the troops from Spain. The city will be gayly decorated and brilliantly illuminated.
Public officials say they are more confident than ever that Campos will soon be able to bring about an era of peace and good feeling in Cuba.

MANY HOMES IN DANGER.

Idaho Town Surrounded by Fierce Forest Fires.

WALLACE, Ida., Aug. 29.—The town of Osborn is surrounded by immense forest fires and is momentarily threatened with destruction. The fire department of this city has gone to its aid. Grave fears are entertained, as wire communications have been cutoff.

LATER—Through the united efforts of the citizens and the Wallace fire department, which labored nearly all night, the mining town of Osborn was saved from destruction by the forest fires which threatened it on all sides.

RESPONSIBLE FOR COLLAPSE.

Verdict Returned Against Six Men in Ireland Building Investigation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The jury in the Ireland building inquest returned a verdict this afternoon placing the responsibility for the collapse on John H. Parker, contractor; Thomas Walker and Thomas Murray, foremen; Charles
B. Behrens, architect, and Edward J.
Yondale and Dennis E. Buckley, building inspectors. The jury exonerated Joseph Gulder. Fifteen workmen lost their lives in the collapse of the building.

VISIT ENDED DISASTROUSLY

Liveryman Romberg of Decatur, Ind., Arrested While Sejourning in Germany.

HAD WHIPPED ARMY OFFICER MANY YEARS AGO.

Tried and Convicted and Sentenced to Twelve Years—Prominent in Indiana Political Circles.

NEWS CAUSED A SENSATION.

DECATUR, Ind., Aug. 29.—H. M. Romberg, a prominent liveryman of this city, left here two months ago to visit his old home, Hamburg, Germany.
Word has just been received here to the effect that he had been taken by the German officials and sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment. The crime with which he is charged is that of whipping an official in the army prior to his coming to this country. Romberg came here twelve years ago and during his stay here accumulated quite a fortune. He is a prominent member of the Democratic state central committee.
He has a wife and five children here.
The news is the one topic of conversation in Decatur.

URGED TO ACTIVE WORK.

National Republican League Issues a Proclamation to Republicans.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—The National Republican league today issued a proclamation to all state leagues, league clubs and the Republican party at large. The proclamation says that in view of the probable shortening of the next presidential campaign it is important that all the work of organization should be started at once and pushed in the most energetic manner.
It is further stated in the proclamation
that danger threatens the Republic
from within, and it cites what it calls
"the un-American blunders" of the present administration as an incentive to active work on the part of the Republican party. The document is signed by E. A. McAlpin, president of the National Republican league.

GUMMY OWNERS BLAMED.

Had No Business Making Engineer
Work Sixteen Hours a Day.

DENVER, Aug. 29.—The coroner's jury after a six days investigation of the Gundry hotel disaster made a report tonight. It says the testimony is conflicting; that it is impossible to fix the responsibility for the disaster upon any one person, but that the owners, Peter Gundry and Owen Geimer, were blamable for allowing their engineer to work sixteen hours of the twenty-four and for employing an engineer whose habits were dissipated and unreliable. The city boiler inspector is condemned for failing to inspect the boiler after the recent repairs were made upon it.

CLAIMS THREE TOWNSHIPS.

Heavy Suit for Recovery of Lands in Cherokee Strip.

PERRY, Ok., Aug. 29.—Mary J.
Palmer, the widow of a Cherokee Indian, has brought suit for all the lands
on which the towns of Blackwell, Virginia City and Cleveland are located.
She says the lands were allotted to her deceased husband, Joe Palmer, a half-bred Cherokee, herself and her two children. She claims she was defrauded out of the allotments and implicates John W. Jordan of Cleveland, who was an important factor in bringing about the settlement between the United States and the Cherokee Indians for the Cherokee strip.

A WISCONSIN FATALITY.

Father Killed and Son Injured by Dynamite Explosion.

COLBY, Wis., Aug. 29.—Andrew Kreutzer of Athens, Marathon county, was blown to pieces today by an explosion of dynamite and his little son, who was with him, had both arms blown off.
It is impossible now to tell how the accident happened as the only witness was the little boy, who is unable to tell.

FATAL BOILER EXPLOSION.

WARSAW, Ind., Aug. 29.—Quincy Nebruner, a fireman, and James Hoffman, a teamster, were killed here this afternoon by a boiler explosion at the car factories.

EVIDENCE AGAINST HOLMES.

What Search at Indianapolis Brought to Light Yesterday.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 29.—The drug with which Howard Pitzel was killed before the body was burned was found buried in the barn today. It was part of a bottle of cyanic potassium.
Boys digging under the cottage found Howard Pitzel's feet. They had been burned, but not destroyed, and were evidently too bulky to put into the chimney hole with the other fragments.
A five quart can with some coal oil was also found. The grand jury is hearing Holmes' case today.

SHOOK UP THE MEXICANS.

Several Shocks of Earthquake Felt in Various Parts of Country.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 29.—There were several light shocks of earthquake yesterday and last night the same was also felt in Oaxaca. Subterranean shocks continue at Pipetonon, on the coast of Oaxaca, and the sea is violently disturbed at each quake and loud roarings are heard, frightening
the fishermen.

Child Burned to Death.

LA CROSSE, Wis., Aug. 29.—A fire, caused by the explosion of a lamp,
burned Andrew Roth's house tonight.
His five-year old child burned to death.

THE boss appears to be getting to the front in politics again. Witness the recent achievements of Brice in Ohio and Quay in Pennsylvania. The people don't amount to much in politics any longer. The bosses are "the people."

SUPERIOR'S municipal council is now engaged in an endeavor to reduce city expenses, and is considering a scheme which has in view cutting down the forces of the police and fire departments and weeding out needless employees, besides scaling down the salaries of city officers. It is estimated that a reduction of $25,000 in the cost of running the city government can be made if the plan under consideration is adopted. That would be a big saving, and that it is believed to be possible to make it shows plainly how extravagant they have been conducting their affairs at the "Eye of the Northwest."

AN advance has taken place in the lake rate on ore from upper lake Superior ports and Escanaba. The Duluth rate has gone up to a dollar and the Escanaba rate went up to sixty cents this week. The strike in this county has practically done away with shipments from the port for the present, so the Marquette rate is not quoted. The loss of nearly two months of the very best of the season cuts a hole in the shipments from the port that cannot possibly be filled before navigation closes. It also makes a hole in the earnings of the men that will let in lots of cold next winter.

EDITOR FRANK FLOWER asserts the broad principle, in his paper at Superior, that the man who lobbies a bill into being creating an office is entitled to all the perquisites and emoluments of that of office, and that the appointing power has no right to select some one else to fill the place. He holds that Governor Upham has grossly violated this axiom, and he proceeds to rub it into Upham on every possible occasion.—Minneapolis Journal.

FLOWER is doing all he can to prove that Governor Upham has more sense than the legislature showed when it created an office to please that rapacious individual. There were many who sympathized with Flower in his escapement when he failed to get the office, but his whining over it excites only contempt.

SAYS THE SUPERIOR LEADER:

The Journal-Press of St. Cloud claims that Congressman Towne of Duluth does not represent his district upon the currency question. And the Pioneer Press of St. Paul, in a column editorial, re-echoes the sentiment of the Journal-Press, enlarging upon it. Mr. Towne, who has made some speeches in different parts of his district, asserts that it is overwhelmingly in favor of real bimetallism by the quickest and most practical way. One thing is sure, a great controversy has been precipitated in the Duluth district.

The Republican press is considerably divided. The Princeton Union, State Auditor Dun's paper, is very pronounced for free silver; still perhaps more of the Republican newspapers of that congressional district are following the course of the twin city newspapers. Congressman Towne's Duluth support is undoubtedly very strong.

IT is now hinted that the president has about decided to appoint Wilson S. Bissell, late postmaster general, to the vacant seat on the supreme bench. That might not be a popular appointment, but it would certainly be a good one. Mr. Bissell is profoundly learned in the law, is a man of great capacity for work, and his integrity is above question. He did much to improve the postal service and promote economy in it while he held the position of postmaster general, showing remarkable executive capacity in his management of the vast machinery of the postoffice department. He is in the full possession of his powers of mind and body, and is full of energy and ambition. Mr. Bissell did not meet the wishes of the extreme partisans of his party as postmaster general, perhaps, but that was because he held the needs of the service paramount to partisan claims. Yet he did much to raise the standard of efficiency in every branch of the service and is entitled to the gratitude of the people for that good work.

SENATOR QUAY again demonstrated in the Republican state convention held Wednesday at Harrisburg that he has the Republican party in Pennsylvania entirely under his control. In naming him for chairman of the state committee, the place he fought to secure, Congressman Stone gave a sketch of his career which was fulsome in its praise of the great boss. "A poor country boy with nothing but the pious example of his Presbyterian father and the prayers of his christian mother for his inheritance, he has risen step by step on the ladder of political fame until he stands the acknowledged leader of the Republican party, not only in Pennsylvania, but in the nation," the speaker declared. This may be true, but if so it is all the worse for the Republican party. If it is to continue to be led by its Quays and its Platts the party will not much longer hold the voters whose loyalty is given to Republican principles and not to the men whose only aim is the retention of power in their own hands and whose methods are as reprehensible as their motives are sordid and selfish.

UN UNEVEN RACE.

The Desperate Run of a Brave California Bronco.

He Keeps Ahead of a Thoroughbred Race-horse Until He Falls from Exhaustion—A Thrilling Narrative.

An exciting story is told by Cromwell Galpin, in St. Nicholas, of a race between a bronco and a big thoroughbred horse. The former was ridden by a mere boy, a Californian, who had to file a certain paper in court before noon in order to retain possession of a farm. The writer says: There was still wanting the one thing that stirs a racer to his utmost endeavor. Felipe had almost forgotten the horse behind him. Two-eyes had not. He had been on the alert, horse fashion, with one ear now and again turned, and increased his speed as the thoroughbred drew near. Felipe turned his head with a sick feeling that in a minute more he would not be obliged to turn his head to see. One sidelong glance showed him a bay horse with his head in the air, his dainty ears upright and his frothing mouth wide open. The rider stood in his stirrups, leaning over his horse's neck with the reins wound around his hands. White foam had gathered at the saddle girth, and sweat dropped from the horse's body as he ran.

Felipe shut his teeth, and turned his face toward Los Angeles. He did not need to look long nor to know very much about horses to see that this one was a true race horse, and the man a steady and a skillful rider.

And Two-eyes? Two-eyes heard the quick hoof-beats, and the "huh-huh, huh-huh" of a horse at speed, and felt hot breath on his flanks as the thoroughbred drew alongside. Not the unmusical cry of Tomas, not the fierce shriek of the savage who in the old days rode him—neither beating with knotted rope, nor cruel stroke of sharper spur—could have gained from the bronco horse the response he gave to the challenge of the thoroughbred. The big head came down closer to the ground, the hairy ears were laid back till the mane concealed them, and the deep lungs labored as, through blazing nostrils, the horse sucked in the strong salt breeze.

So far the race had been run over level ground; but as the riders approached the city, the country became hilly and the road rougher.

It was not for nothing that Two-eyes had spent five wild years in the Sierra Madres, where the gray wolf and the mountain lion are always swift and always hungry; nor was it without advantage that Felipe's tomboy sister, Ignacia, had reared the pinto horse over this road till it was as familiar to him as the stableyard at home. To the bronco horse, used to the mountains from colthood, the hilly road appeared to be rather a relief. He galloped laboriously up the little hills and rushed down the opposite sides with a speed that took away his rider's breath; he jumped from hillock to hollow, and across the little gulches; he dodged the spots where reedlike grass showed that the ground was wet and soft; and whether running or trotting or progressing by irregular jumps, he went on his way with scarcely lessened speed.

The thoroughbred had never been allowed to run except on a smooth arid level track. He refused to leap the first gully which crossed the road, though it was scarcely a foot wide. When Harry made him face it again, he jumped ten feet farther than was necessary, and stopped stock-still upon the opposite side. Then he bolted sideways, and ran in the wrong direction; and Harry felt as if his arms were being pulled off as he forced his horse to return to the road.

As for Two-eyes, he did what he could. He was old, as horses' years are counted. He had run many races for Apache masters who jerked his head from side to side, and threw him out of his stride, in their ignorant and ferocious efforts to make him go faster. In all his life there had been but one year in which his feed was regular and good; of all the masters he had ever known this was the only one who had called upon him for speed, riding with steady hand and watchful eye and inspiring voice, sparing him needless pain.

It is bronco nature to respond heartily to these things, and Two-eyes tried desperately to keep away from the clattering hoofs behind him. His breath came in gasps; his mouth was dry, and his sight was dim; his trembling legs grew weak as side by side the horses raced down the street leading to the courthouse, now hardly a mile away.

As in a nightmare, Felipe saw the thoroughbred forge ahead, the boy's head outstretched and down to the level of the withers, the dainty ears laid flat, the crimson nostrils widely spread, and the eyes glaring with fierce eagerness.

The bronco ran on, but unsteadily. Felipe drew his legs out from under the rope, and as he did so the bronco's feet sank in the soft earth where a little stream crossed the street. The horse's courage was greater than his strength. He plunged forward half a dozen stumbling strides, and fell just at the edge of the little stream.

Felipe slid over his horse's head into a patch of tules, and lay, half stunned but not hurt, while the thoroughbred horse passed out of sight and hearing, and the dust his flying feet had raised settled down upon the quiet street.

Singular Case of Blindness.

Mrs. Jonathan Rowe, of South Atkinson, Me., who has been totally blind for twenty years, experienced an odd partial recovery of her sight a few days ago. She suddenly became able to see quite distinctly one afternoon about two o'clock, but her vision was totally obscured again in two hours. Since then she has been able to see every day between about two and four o'clock in the afternoon, but during the rest of the twenty-four hours is as blind as formerly.

JOCKEYS OF THE SEA.

Birds That Perch on the Backs of Floating Fishes.

"Yes, we see curious things once in awhile," said a San Pedro fisherman. "A few days ago I made a trip over the Santa Catalina channel for a load of abalones that they pile up at the isthmus for me every few months, and when I got off there about ten miles I saw a big loon sitting on what seemed like a spar.

"But while I watched it seemed to fall off, then circled around several times and alighted again, retaining its position with much difficulty.

"We slowly drifted up until we were within fifty feet of it, when I saw what the roost was—not a spar at all, but a big fish—one of these fellows the Italians call the luna, because it was like the moon.

"The fish lay almost flat on the water, with one big fin sticking out, the other being under water, and the weight of the bird made it lie over to one side. As we neared it the bird rose and flew away, and the fish straightened up.

"I saw something about as curious last year," continued the fisherman. "In August the waters of the islands off here from San Clemente up are filled with fish that are spawning. The water will then be covered in places with small birds that look like snipe.

"On this trip I kept my eye out for whales. When about half-way over, right in midchannel, I saw the spout of a big gray whale, and the next minute saw the back of the whale, about twenty feet of it, black as ink, on the blue water. To my surprise it did not disappear, and I soon concluded that the big creature was either asleep or lying on the surface sunning itself.

"As we came nearer I saw at least fifty little birds running about on its back, feeding, evidently having a feast upon the various parasites on the whale's back.

"They ran up and down just as they would on a beach, and it occurred to me that it was not an accident, but that there was some understanding between the whale and the birds; in other words, the whale knew that the birds were relieving it of many parasites that it could not get rid of in any other way, and consequently submitted to their running over it.

"On another occasion, as I was cruising down by Ensenada, I ran into a little bay one day, and saw what I supposed to be a log floating on the surface. On it were numerous birds walking about, others apparently asleep. As we ran in nearer I saw that it was a big sea turtle, asleep on the surface, and the birds had alighted upon its broad back as they would have done upon floating timber."

There are other sea jockeys than those mentioned. The writer some time ago caught a large hammerhead shark off Redondo beach. The big creature towed the boat about for nearly an hour, and when brought in sight of the boat it was seen to have several riders—fish, almost pure black and a foot in length—which were attached to the shark.

They were clinging to the shark by a curious sucker on the back of the head that resembled the slats of a Venetian blind, and the suction was so powerful that when the plate or sucker was attached it was extremely difficult to pull it off by main force.—Boston Globe.

DON'T DODGE A BICYCLE.

It Only Confuses the Rider and May Cause an Accident. Before bicycling will ever become a success a meeting must be called for the purpose of allowing the wheelmen and the pedestrian to arrive at some understanding. I am in favor of a convention or some thing of that sort, said a prominent wheelman recently.

As it is now, a rider comes down the street and sees ahead of him at a crossing a man who is supposed to be endowed with reasonable intelligence. This person is in the act of crossing the street. He looks up, sees the rider coming and stands right in the middle of the street. Of course, he is mentally calculating his chances of getting across safely. One can see the workings of his mind in the muscular contortions of his face.

In the meantime the rider is getting closer and closer and is in a study equally as profound as to what the person is going to do. The pedestrian takes a step forward, takes another glance up the street, stops, starts back, makes an effort to reach the pavement, stops again, starts forward, stops—

Of course, by this time the cyclist is almost at a standstill and is also zig-zagging from one side to the other waiting and muttering. What he says depends upon whether he is a man or a woman. The pedestrian seems to give up all possibility of escape, faces the rider, both arms extended, jumps from one foot to the other and the two collide. The cyclist is thrown to the ground, his wheel twisted and he gets the blame.

And how easily all this can be avoided. Let the pedestrian instead of performing all these trying evolutions merely walk along as though there was nothing behind him, keep his course and the cyclist will know what to do. He will turn his wheel to one side and slide past with perfect ease and safety. On the crossings let a man walk along as though there were not a bicycle in the state, and the wheelman will judge his course accordingly. He has control of his wheel, and is as anxious not to collide as the other fellow. That's all we want. We merely ask that people walk along about their business and we shall not molest them.

In the case of a horse which is not readily managed the rider or driver may be on the alert and skillful, and there may be a collision; but with a bicycle the rider has control, and if the pedestrian will only go along and not get rattled there will be no collisions. This is what I want the people to know, and the only way it seems for them to learn this is to hold a convention or something.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

HANCOCK.
Following is the program for the athletic exercises to take place next Monday at the Hancock Driving park at the field day of the copper country Y. M. C. A. league.

FORENOON.
In the forenoon for association members only, barring those who have taken medals or prizes before: 100-yard dash, 130-yard hurdle race, one-mile bicycle race. Each association enters these three events separately, and the first three winners of the different associations in each event will run for the prize or medal.

AFTERNOON.
The afternoon events are open to any resident of the county: Running hop, step and jump, 100-yard dash, throwing the 15-pound hammer, one-mile bicycle race, 200-yard dash, one-mile race, running broad jump, half-mile bicycle race, pole vaulting, 130-yard hurdle race, half-mile run, running high jump, quarter-mile bicycle race, 400-yard dash, putting 16-pound shot, relay race.

Handsome gold or silver medals will be awarded the winner of each event.

Dr. Horace B. Patton, who has been visiting friends here, left yesterday for Duluth, on his way home to Golden, Colorado, where he holds a chair in the state school of mines.

The Hotel Northwestern will be continued under its present management for the present. Mr. Charles Linder, the late proprietor, having made all arrangements for the smooth running of his property during a protracted absence in Europe, in search of the health which he was not to find.

President Jacob Baer, accompanied by his wife and children, went to Milwaukee yesterday evening for a two weeks' visit with relatives.

HOUGHTON.
THE MINING JOURNAL owes an apology to James Fleming, deputy sheriff of this county, who succeeded the late Mr. Ferguson as representative of the majority of the law at Sidnaw. The party who was brought here recently and is now incarcerated in the county jail awaiting trial on the charge of misappropriating to his own use a horse which was the property of the Nester estate is Michael Mooney, and not Jax, Fleming, as incorrectly stated. A transposition of the names in the reportorial notebook is responsible for the necessity of this explanation.

Fred Dagenais of Calumet is the thirtieth person now partaking of the third supplied boarders by Sheriff Dunn. He is accused by the agent of the Singer Sewing Machine company of monkeying with collections, which was bad, and of forging a receipt, which is a great deal more serious, and will stand trial at the November term.

Tim Smith of Lake Linden has been released from custody by Sheriff Dunn and was very glad to get away. His parents made the charge against him, but as nearly all the money he took was recovered, they failed to appear to substantiate the charge and with the consent of the prosecuting attorney the case was dropped.

V. J. Payment, for several years with the opening steam laundry, will have personal charge of the Twin City laundry here.

The tug Valerie went to Lac la Belle Thursday morning, returning in the evening with the party of catarrh who have been enjoying life in the woods for the past week.

Dr. W. J. Spencer has returned from a visit to his parents at Cleveland.

CALUMET.
The Calumet News in its issue of Wednesday evening contained the statement in its columns on the first page that there is a great deal of typhoid fever at Calumet, Red Jacket and Laurium. An examination of the facts does not bear out this assertion as made by The News, the physicians reporting that there is very little sickness of a zymotic nature. The water is rather prolific of animalcules, as is asserted by The News, but it does not follow that these little wrigglers are especially dangerous. The principal danger in contaminated water arises from the albuminoids and free ammonia, both of which cannot be distinguished in any other way than by chemical analysis. There is excuse for newspapers published at a distance printing the story that there are many cases of typhoid fever here, but it remains to be seen just what excuse the editor of The News will have to make for "stretching the truth" so atrociously about his own town.

William Cocking, Sr., and his sons Ralph and William were poisoned on Sunday through eating canned salmon. Dr. Hosking of the Allouez location was hastily summoned to the home of the Cocking family at the Wolverine location and with the aid of a stomach pump and suitable antidotes managed to save all three patients, although the poison had already made them very sick on their arrival.

The contract for a new standpipe at Sweetdown has been let by the Calumet & Hecla to a structural iron firm of Harrisburg, Pa. The standpipe will be thirty-five feet in diameter and twice as high, giving a heavy head to all points where the waterworks extend, and acting to some extent as a reservoir in case of breakage of the pumps at Lake Superior. Work is to be begun at once, the foundation having already been made.

there will not be too much room even with these additions.
Captain W. E. Daniel left yesterday noon for Meriden, Conn., to attend the annual session of the supreme court of Foresters.

GLADSTONE'S GREAT POWER.
No Other Man of the Century Has Wielded as Wide an Influence.
Happy the man who can sit on the fence and wait! Happy the politician who is old enough to have gone through all the turmoil of electioneering and is not too old to find enjoyment as a looker-on! Happy the man smoking the pipe of peace and listening to the echoes of the fight and turning them to the music of his own reminiscences! Mr. Gladstone, says the Newcastle Chronicle, finds it hard to sit still. He hears the trumpet call and the roll of the drum and would gladly be in the contest once more, but the joints are stiff and the eyes are dim. He does not hear so well as he did and he must be content with the reports of the fighting and a passing remark of commendation or dissent.

There is something peculiarly pathetic in the situation of Mr. Gladstone, still moved by the desire to fight but without the power of physical impulse. It might have been better for the world had he confined his vast intellect to moral philosophy or to abstruse theology, or had been a priest or even a soldier, than to have put his heart and soul into politics. A soldier, would he not have smitten the enemy hip and thigh? A priest, who could have stood against his aggressive theology? A philosopher, what subtle theories he would have launched against the schools? Now that he is old and still brave as a lion, we can only rejoice that he has done less harm as a political dictator than might have been permitted to him had time renewed his lease of active life.

No man of our day has exercised such a fascination upon his followers. His personality was sufficient to impress the Scotch into acquiescence with his least practical schemes. The spell of his name and his remarkable individuality withdrawn, Scotland gradually assumes her normal characteristics. It was the same in England as in Scotland. Mr. Gladstone, not his policy, was the mainspring of his party success; and his opponents may be forgiven for believing the desire to have the same influence over the Irish brought about his strange and sudden conversion to home rule.

Anyhow, he is a remarkable man, a statesman whom all parties are willing to honor, a figure and a personality that will always fill a deeply interesting chapter of British history, and a scholar who will hold a high place in the esteem and respect of the learned all the world over. While the new lights of statecraft are flashing upon the horizon of a general election fraught with tremendous issues to the country, his lantern burns dimly, his soul is settling, and if "England to herself prove true," the popular statesman will have reason to exercise the patience that belongs to age and to philosophy when the last echoes of the present contest reach Hawarden.

The Kaiser as an Actor.
The German emperor is ambitious to win success also in amateur theatricals. This is the most difficult undertaking he has yet ventured on, and if he could be assured of absolutely unprejudiced criticism he might learn that there are metes and bounds beyond which even emperors cannot pass.

PITTSBURG GETS THE PLUM

Smoky City Chosen as Place for Next Knights Templar Triennial Conclave.

GRAND ENCAMPMENT ELETED OFFICERS YESTERDAY.

Warren Thomas of Kentucky Selected as the Grand Master—Brilliant Reception in the Evening.

THE GREAT BOSTON CONCLAVE.

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—At the session of the grand encampment this forenoon the Right Eminent Sir Warren Ladue Thomas of Kentucky was elected grand master to succeed the Most Eminent Sir Hugh McCurdy. Very Eminent Sir Ruben H. Lloyd of San Francisco was elected deputy grand master. The other grand officers elected were: Grand generalissimo, Very Eminent Sir Henry D. Stoddard, Texas; captain general, Very Eminent Sir George M. Moss, Illinois; senior warden, Very Eminent Sir Henry W. Rung, Rhode Island; junior warden, Very Eminent Sir W. B. Meisen, Cincinnati; treasurer, Very Eminent Sir H. Wales, Connecticut. Pittsburg was selected as the next convocation city.

At the afternoon session of the grand encampment there was a contest for the grand recordership and four ballots were necessary. Eminent Sir W. H. May secured the coveted position. Sir Knights May is grand recorder of the grand commandery of Missouri and resides at St. Louis. The appointment of the grand prelate, grand standard bearer, grand warden and grand captain of the guard will be made tomorrow after the installation of the officers-elect. The election of officers ended the encampment took up the question of revising the code, which consumed the time until adjournment tonight and which will be resumed tomorrow.

The glory of the Knights Templar convocation reached its supreme climax tonight when the triennial convocation of the grand commandery of Massachusetts and Rhode Island gave a reception and banquet to Most Eminent Sir Hugh McCurdy and to the officers and members of the grand encampment at the Hotel Vendome. It was one of the most brilliant social functions ever seen in Boston. The banquet hall was beautifully decorated with flowers and potted palms. When the dinner was completed General Lawrence in a few words welcomed the grand encampment and introduced the toastmaster of the evening, Right Eminent Sir Charles G. Hutchinson. The first toast was "the Grand Encampment," to which Most Eminent Sir Hugh McCurdy responded briefly. The second toast, "Fidelity, an Eminent Characteristic of Templarism," was responded to by Right Eminent Sir Warren Larue Thomas. Others also responded to appropriate toasts.

the Associated Press for its enterprise, which, he said, would doubtless be productive of much good. "It is a cause for moral congratulation," the president said, "that the adjoining republics of the United States and Mexico are brought into closer communication through the enterprise of the Associated Press, and I am sure this last demonstration of the Associated Press and its advanced ideas will result in great benefit to the people of both countries."

THEIR PLEASURE MARRED BY DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.

Attorney Joy of Detroit Fell Overboard but Bravely Rescued by Judge Dickinson of Tennessee.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

DETROIT, Aug. 29.—At today's session of the American Bar association reports of the standing committees were in order. After hearing the reports and after the transaction of some business of technical interest the convention adjourned until evening and the delegates left for a cruise on several steam yachts to the St. Clair flats. The trip was without a noteworthy incident until the return to the city, when a distressing accident occurred. As one of the boats landed the venerable James F. Joy, eighty-eight years old and the oldest member of the Detroit bar, in some way lost his footing on the gang plank and stepped off into the river. Joy would probably have been drowned had it not been for the promptness and bravery of Judge Dickinson of Tennessee, assistant attorney general of the United States, who gallantly leaped into the water and supported Joy until the officers and crew of the yacht came to their assistance. Judge Dickinson was the recipient of many compliments from those who witnessed his brave act.

At the evening session Justice Brewer of the supreme court of the United States read a paper on "Better Education—the Great Need of the Profession." At the conclusion of Justice Brewer's address a general discussion followed on the subject, brief remarks being made by President Carter, Judge Noah W. Cheever of Ann Arbor, Judge Sherman of Illinois and others. The committee on nomination of officers reported the names of Chancellor McLean of Iowa for president and George M. Sharps of Maryland for secretary, who were unanimously elected.

CORRECT CONVERSATION.

Pleasant Talk is Connected with Finesty and Ease. Many a girl, intelligent, educated, as our ideal is, is mortified by her lack of ease in conversation. She finds other girls, inferior in actual ability, ever ready in the shifting round game we call small talk, and is forced to the conclusion that shallowness is the passport to social favor. But she is mistaken; she is simply in the condition of a person overloaded with large bills when there is need for a little small change. Perhaps she is self-conscious; perhaps—let me whisper it—she is selfish, like the man in "Punch," who said: "Oh, Robinson is such a bore; he's always talking about himself and his affairs when I want to talk about myself and my affairs."

There is one great reason for this lack of conversational power; in too many cases the art is never practiced inside the home circle. No attempt at pleasant converse is ever made save when visitors are present; the various members of the family may gossip a little, or discuss purely personal affairs, but they make no attempt at entertaining talk. In point of fact, the art of conversation is like a game of billiards and shuttlecock, one needs the quickness and dexterity of constant practice. In many busy households the only general gathering of the family is at mealtime—a time above all others when worry should be banished, if only for the sake of physical comfort. Yet this is the very time when the mother will complain of domestic worry, the father of business cares, and the daughters of shabby frocks.

All this should be changed; it ought to be a rule in all households that disagreeable are to be banished at mealtime. If complaints must be made let them come at a proper time, but do not imperil your digestion by eating while you are in an irritated and discontented frame of mind. Pleasant talk, relieved by an occasional laugh, will be more beneficial than pounds of pills. In the household there should not only be an avoidance of unpleasant topics, but an attempt to find agreeable ones. Each member of the family should come to the table prepared to say something pleasant. Any bright little story or merry joke, any bit of world's news that will lighten the tongues and cause animated talk—how it will increase the brightness of a working day! There need be no profound discussions, no hobby-riding; it should be lively touch-and-go talk. Let the girls talk just a bit about gowns and chiffons if they will; let the boys talk athletics, for in this family parliament everyone should have a right to be heard. But let the general range be of the newspaper order—what all the world is doing. It is far better to discuss the delinquencies of powers and potentates than of our neighbors; and she who keeps herself acquainted with the doings of all great people and places can not be provincial, however narrow her horizon. Now, there is one fact to note especially; the girl who wants topics for conversation must read the newspapers. There is no doubt that newspapers and periodicals are most useful in giving subjects for general conversation. The information thus gleaned is both timely and popular—just what one needs in society. General information of a popular type is the prime requisite for easy conversation, and when to this is added good temper and the ability to appreciate a joke, there should be no complaint of inability to talk with fluency and ease.—Ladies' Home Journal

Not So Much After All.

A Frenchman was boasting that he had thoroughly mastered the English language, when he was asked to write from dictation the following choice specimen of our choice eccentric vernacular: "As Hugh Hughes was heading a yule log from a yew tree a man dressed in garments of dark hue came up to Hugh and said: 'Have you seen my eyes?' To which he replied: 'If you will wait until I hew this yew I will go with you to look for your eyes.'" After an attempt the Frenchman admitted his mistake. He used to imagine he was used to English speaking, but he would be more careful how he used the language in future.

CAUGHT ON THE FLY

Increasing cloudiness and warmer wind veering to southeast. Rev. Joel Martin of Gladstone is in the city for a few days. J. S. Kirkpatrick and family were in from Palmer yesterday.

William Rothschild of Ironwood is in town on one of his semi-occasional visits to friends here. Grabower has a new line of hats and leather coats which he is offering at greatly reduced prices and ladies will find the stock well worth inspection.

The North Stars, a newly organized baseball team of boys, defeated the Alerts yesterday by a score of 16 to 14. The batteries were Hanley and Rose for the Stars and Hodgkins and Meads for the Alerts.

A. H. Palmer advertises fruit jars, for today and tomorrow only, at 60c, 65c and 75c per dozen for the three sizes respectively. This is a special bargain sale for the benefit of ladies who wish to put up fruit.

Miss Eva L. Davis returned to the city yesterday to resume her duties as instructor of music in the public schools. During the vacation she was engaged at several summer assemblies to sing and give instruction.

Mrs. Jane Hopkins' communication to the mothers who have boys of school age will be found in another column of this morning's paper and will undoubtedly prove of service to those that will take good advice.

The news that the steam shovels are to start at the mines and that ore shipping is likely to be resumed in a few days was spread quite generally about the city last night and caused much satisfaction.

All visitors to Guiver & Halsey's law office are complimenting the firm on the very pretty little safe which they have recently put in. It is a curiosity in the line of strong boxes and well worth looking at more than once.

The Ladies Sewing society of the Swedish Methodist church will have an auction of fancy articles at the church on Ridge street Friday evening at 8 o'clock, to which the public is invited. Refreshments will be served.

The series of games between the Duluth and Marquette teams on Saturday, Sunday and Monday will undoubtedly be the best played here this season. The home team is trying a new pitcher who will probably relieve Smith in at least one game.

Mrs. James Pratt of this city, a lineal descendant of the chiefs of the Ottawa tribe of Indians and well-known for her many efforts in behalf of her people, will take part in the entertainment to be given by the Swedish church at Ishpeming and will show the dress she would wear as an Indian princess.

COMMON COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS. OFFICIAL. A special meeting of the common council of the city of Marquette was held in the council chamber on Monday, the 28th day of August, A. D. 1895, at 8 o'clock p. m., Mayor Jacobs presiding.

There were present Aldermen Blanchard, Hoch, Holley, Pendill, Rossetter, Robertson, Schoch, Sherman, Stafford, Shea, Tobin and Vandenberg. Nays—None. On motion of Alderman Sherman the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the amount of the moneys now in the electric light fund and the amount of the net earnings of the city electric lighting plant for the current year and the same is hereby appropriated to the use of the light and power commission to be expended for the improvement of said city water power and electric lighting plant.

CHOLERA THIS YEAR.

It Exists in Many Countries and Its Victims Are Numerous. But the Health Authorities Say That This Country Will Be Free from the Scourge—Efficiency of Sanitary Agencies.

For another year this country may be regarded as safe against the cholera. Up to the opening of the month of August it had not appeared in any country of western Europe, and the autumnal weather will prevent it from approaching the European ports with which New York is in communication.

The health officer of the port, who made all preparations early in the spring for dealing with immigrants bound hither from the infected districts of Russia, believes that any danger which might thus be incurred has passed away, and, though the Jewish Russians are yet closely inspected upon their arrival at quarantine, the inspection is rather for general sanitary purposes than for any apprehension of the cholera.

Advices upon the subject have been received from all parts of the world by the authorities of the marine hospital service, and Dr. Wyman believes that there ever was any ground for fear, there is not now the least.

During the present year, and up to this time, cholera has existed in European Russia, Arabia, India, China and Japan. It is unfortunate that trustworthy statistics concerning it cannot be obtained from Russia, or from any of the other countries in which it exists, with the exception of Japan.

It ravaged several of the western Russian provinces last summer; it did not entirely disappear last winter, and it has been epidemic since the early spring season. During the month of July it has prevailed largely in the provinces of Volhynia and Podolia, near the territory of Austria, and, also, to some extent, in the Vistula provinces, on the confines of Prussia.

It is said to be of an unusually malignant type, and its victims are speedily carried off. In order to keep it out of Germany, the Berlin government has established a "sanitary cordon" along the frontier, and all travelers from Russia are again this year, as they were last year, subjected to a most rigorous inspection.

Austria also has made some provision for guarding the border, but it is much less complete than that made by Germany, and there have been many cases of the disease in Galicia and Bukovina.

The cholera appeared in Arabia on the borders of the Red sea, early in the spring, brought there, as in other years, by the Mohammedan pilgrims from India to Mecca. Alarming accounts of its fatality were sent out in the spring months and up to June, but nothing has been heard of it for some weeks, and its ravages doubtless have been allayed.

All the efforts made during the past two years by the international sanitary commission to induce Turkey to adopt the precautionary measures by which its baneful power might be checked have been unsuccessful.

From that part of India in which the cholera is nearly always epidemic there have been reports this year similar to those of other years. The permanent headquarters of it are in the valley of the Ganges, and it is from there that its infection is carried into other countries.

It is only from the British East Indian records that any knowledge of the number of cases of it can be obtained. There can be merely guesses as to the extent to which the disease prevails in China. In the dispatches there are occasional references to its existence in the Liao-Tong peninsula and in the kingdom of Corea, and there is every reason to believe that it has been very destructive in these regions.

It was by the Japanese soldiers returning home from the Liao-Tong peninsula that it was introduced into Japan a few months ago. From the trustworthy statistics that are kept by the Japanese authorities, it is learned that up to the close of July there had been nine thousand five hundred cases of the disease in Japan, more than one-half of which had proved fatal.

This fatality may be regarded as part of the price paid by Japan for her victory over the Chinese, but that price was greater yet, for many of the Japanese soldiers who are yet in China have fallen under the disease. It has recently been epidemic over a large part of the Japanese empire.

In some other countries besides those here mentioned, including Mexico and Cuba, there have been cases of cholera during the year, but it has not been epidemic in any of them. It has been estimated by good authorities that the average yearly number of deaths from cholera the world over is close upon a quarter of a million. It is now known that in Russia alone last year there were nearly one hundred thousand cases of the disease, about forty-five per cent. of which proved fatal; but the ravages of the disease among the Russians are light as compared with that among Asiatics.

HE DIDN'T SUCCEED.

The Man Who Started Out to See a New York Editor. I fell in with a man the other day who introduced himself as the editor and proprietor of a weekly paper in Pennsylvania. He had come in to New York for a brief vacation, and being in town he felt it his duty to pay his respects to the leading editors.

"I didn't want 'em to think I didn't know what belonged to good manners," he explained to me, "and so I thought I'd call and pass the time of day. I went to the office of one big paper and told 'em I wanted to see the editor. I shall never forget how I was used."

"Didn't you see him?" I asked. "No. I waited till nine o'clock in the morning, so as to be sure to catch him down, but they said he didn't show up till noon. Then they wanted my card, and wanted to know what particular business I had with him, and they were so finicky about it that I finally told 'em to go to pot. The idea of an editor not getting down till noon or after! The idea of having to go to all that trouble to see him! Why, he couldn't hold a place two weeks on any weekly paper in our state!"

"Yes, it's rather hard to get at a New York editor," I said, "unless you have important business." "I can't say as my business was so dreadfully important, I just wanted to shake hands and tell him I was in New York to purchase a paper-cutter and look around for a day or two. Maybe I should have asked him out to take a glass of beer."

"Did you try any other paper?" "Oh! yes. I went over to another office. Two years ago I had an article in my paper saying that this paper was the favorite in our town, and I sent 'em a marked copy. I didn't want any thanks for it, but I thought I'd run up and shake hands with the editor and ask him how job work was and get his advice about a paper-cutter. I got up stairs and found a fence across the room and a boy on the inside who wanted my card. It was ten o'clock, and yet the editor hadn't come down, nor sent any word when he would come! Seems to me that's a funny way to edit a newspaper. There isn't a morning in the year that I ain't down to my office at half-past seven o'clock, and nobody has to wait at the foot of the stairs and send me up his card."

"It's the New York way, you know," I said as I saw that his feelings were hurt. "Yes, and I don't like it! I tried it again at the office of another daily paper. They said the editor was in, but so awfully busy that I must excuse him. If he was figuring on the cost of a thousand hand-bills or a big circus advertisement it was all right to refuse to see any one, but I sort o' got the idea that he didn't care a continental whether I was in town or not. All right if he don't. I was thinking of getting some new wood type for my job office, and wanted to ask his opinion about it, but I'm not going to crawl to anyone. It was about the same thing over at the fourth place I tried. I've had many a notice in my paper about the founder of this paper, and supported him when he was a candidate for president, and only last year I let one of my subscribers publish a poem on the present editor. I thought I'd run up and see him for a few minutes, and answer any questions about crops out our way, but I found another boy waiting for my card, and another message that the editor was out. They said he was in Europe, but I didn't swallow that. How's a man in Europe going to run a newspaper in New York? Could I edit my paper from here?"

"Then you didn't get to see any New York editors?" I asked. "Not a one, I don't want to!" he indignantly replied. "If the New York editors can do without me I can do without them. I'll send 'em word by letter that I'm in town, and if they want me to come up, all right; otherwise they can go to grass! And let me tell you something. Some of these high-toned, way-up chaps will take in my town some day and decide to call at the Banner office. I'll have a boy at the foot of the stairs, and another at the head, and a rail fence across the office, and when the card comes up I'll be figuring on how many auction bills I can print for two dollars in cash and I'll send down word:"

"Tell that New York editor I'm so cussedly busy to-day that I can't even see the advance agent of a circus who wants to run a four-column ad!"—M. Quad, in Detroit Free Press.

THE BEAUTY OF MULL. How it May Be Used in the Making of a Pretty Costume. The beauty of mull is something that can never be denied, and while it is not a particularly expensive material, it becomes rather costly to make it up, inasmuch as silk or satin is required for its lining. That girl who is at once fond of pretty clothes and economical, has saved the white silk or white satin party dress that has served its time, and utilizes it, after it has been thoroughly cleaned, as a foundation for the mull skirt, under which it looks so well. It might be that instead of white it was a pale pink or blue that did service, for this would also be in good taste and make a very effective background for the thin mull. Instead of being plaited the mull skirt is carefully gathered and falls over its silky lining in fine curves. Its trimming consists of three narrow flounces carefully hemmed by hand, and headed by a quille, which is, in reality, a triple box-pleat of very narrow pink satin ribbon. Broad pink ribbon, that which is known as the sash width, makes the yoke; and the lower part of the bodice, which is full, is filled to it. This fullness is evenly laid on the yoke edge, but at the waist it is drawn to the center so that a pointed effect is achieved.

The yoke is overlaid with rather coarse lace, white in color, and the collar, which is of the folded mull, has an edge of lace turned over on it as if it were a specially-made rolling collar. The pointed belt is of folded pink ribbon, and the sleeves are of the mull, very full, but drooping.—Ladies' Home Journal, in New York.

Ishpeming Mining Companies Determined to Resume Shipping Ore.

STEAM SHOVELS MAY BE STARTED TODAY.

Old Employees Will Be Given Preference but New Men Will Be Secured if They Refuse to Work.

SHOVELS MAY START TODAY.

There is a possibility that the steam shovels of the Lake Angeline, Cleveland Cliffs and Lake Superior companies may be started today, although it is probable that work will not be resumed until tomorrow, or perhaps Monday. It is a fact, however, that the companies are determined to begin loading ore from their stockpiles just as soon as arrangements to that end can be perfected. The Lake Superior company began getting its shovels in order for service yesterday and the mechanics working on the Lake Angeline shovels are pushing the repairs with all possible speed, so that both companies may begin operations at the same time. The steam shovel men have about concluded to go back to work and take chances on the result. The members of their union some time since announced their willingness to return to work. They have been almost unanimous on that point for the past three weeks. The steam shovel men and other mechanics held a meeting Tuesday night and it is said they agreed that it was for the interest of all concerned that the steam shovel operators return to work if such is the desire of the companies. It is said that President Coad and other prominent members of the miners' union were present and that quite a lively discussion took place. Coad and his supporters would not consent to grant the shovel men permission to resume operations. The shovel men got together again yesterday morning and sent a delegation to the miners' union asking that they be allowed to resume work, but under the influence of Coad and his adherents the union refused to grant the request. The shovel men are thus put face to face with the alternative of dis-regarding the miners' union or of seeing outsiders take their places. They are anxious to get back to work and the companies have given them a limited time in which to decide what they will do. The mine officials are waiting for their answer and as soon as this is given the shovels will be started. In case the old hands refuse to go back outside men will be immediately sent for and will be on the ground within a few hours. A mine official yesterday informed THE MINING JOURNAL that good men had been procured and that they are ready to come here on short notice. He said, however, that the companies much preferred getting their old employees back, as they know that these are capable of doing.

It is now very evident that the companies propose starting their shovels, no matter what the result may be, and will give the operators protection. If a corps of special police officers are not attempted to prevent any interference with the shovels. Several Government Rich will be called on to furnish military protection for the workmen. Sheriff Broad was up from Marquette yesterday. He consulted with the different mine officials regarding the situation and went home prepared to return on short notice in case his services are needed. Several deputies have been sworn in and will be on hand as soon as the shovels are started.

While the mine officials do not anticipate that the strikers will interfere with the shovels they are prepared for any opposition that may develop. They say they will not tolerate interference of any kind. The mine managers assert that their companies have submitted to a stoppage of all work as long as they can afford to. They are not very particular whether their mines are wrought for the present or not, but they are determined to send the ore they have stocked to market.

It is thought by many, and it is certainly generally hoped, that the strikers will not oppose the operation of the shovels. Many of the strikers say that after the ore has left the mines here the union men at Cleveland and elsewhere will refuse to handle it.

Entertained the Visitors.
The members of the local lodge of the Daughters of St. George entertained the officers and delegates of the supreme lodge, which is in session at Negaunee this week, also the Daughters of Negaunee, at their assembly hall in the Heinenman block last evening. Members of Sir Humphrey Davey lodge were also in attendance and a most happy time was had. A short program, made up of speeches, musical selections, etc., was rendered and refreshments were served.

Stole the Brasses.
The brasses which were intended for the shaftings of the new engine which is being put in at the Excelsior furnace were stolen Wednesday night. Manager Nelson missed them yesterday morning and the police officers are now in search of the thief. It is possible that they were carried off by boys, who frequently come around the furnace, but they were rather heavy for boys to carry any great distance.

Must Vacate the Houses.
The mining companies owning dwelling houses in Ishpeming which are occupied by their striking employees who have refused to accept the scale of wages offered them have concluded to order the premises vacated. Legal notices will be served on the occupants of the dwellings within the next few days in case the men do not return to work. THE MINING JOURNAL understands that the notices may be served tomorrow and that the tenants will be given seven days in which to find other places. In case they do not vacate the premises in the stipulated time they will be ejected. A mine official who was seen regarding the matter yesterday said that the companies had ordered the local officials to take the necessary steps to get the tenants out, as they did not intend to furnish houses for men who show no disposition to go to work.

COATING COTTON WITH SILK.
A Process Similar to Silver Plating Tried on Textile Fabrics.
A great deal of tableware is made of an alloy containing copper, zinc and nickel, plated with silver. Similarly, it has now been found practicable to give a silk coating to cotton and linen fabrics, thus imparting to the goods a beautiful luster and a soft feeling not found in the untreated material. The silk used for the purpose is waste that could not be devoted to any other service.
A French publication, the "Monteur de la Teinture," recently described the apparatus and process required for this work. The solid framework of all vegetable fiber is composed mainly of a chemical compound, called cellulose. Any cellulose tissue may be treated successfully by this system. The yarn or woven goods is first run through a bath of strong sulphuric acid or caustic potash. If there be any animal fiber intermixed with the cellulose, the acid bath is preferable. By compressing the material with rollers the air is forced out of the pores, and the liquid is more readily absorbed. Then, after going through a washing machine, the cloth is dried under tension to keep it from creasing. The tissue has now only been freed from certain impurities and become whiter, but its nature has been slightly modified. Another bath is prepared, in which silk waste has been dissolved. The liquid used for this purpose is a solution of very pure hydrated oxide of copper or nickel in ammonia, although here again an acid may be used instead of an alkali. Special provision is made through water-jackets, for keeping all these liquids cool. The temperature must be maintained at or below forty-five degrees Fahrenheit. At length the goods to be coated are run through the silk solution, and squeezed as before to exclude air and absorb the liquid. The silk thus penetrates all through the cellulose. In the next drying the cloth loses the ammonia, which is carefully recovered in the form of vapor, condensed and used again. The material is therefore soaked in a weak solution of an acid having a special affinity for that metal, and forming therewith a salt which easily dissolves. After fresh washing, then, the cellulose is left with a coating of silk and nothing more. If this first coat is not as thick as is desired, a second and third may be applied, and then the silk-tissues are mechanically finished by beetling, calendaring, brushing, polishing and pressing. If any dye is to be imparted to the goods, it is used just before they are immersed in the silk solution.—N. Y. Tribune.

WHEN MEN ARE HELPLESS.

It is on a Shopping Expedition or When Piled into a Tea-Room.

"Of course," said the social philosopher, according to the Philadelphia Times getting interested in her subject, "you understand about the shopping question. You must never, under any circumstances, take a man into a dry goods store with you, for the first thing he'll say will be an emphatic 'There's not another man in this whole place except the clerks,' or a soft, meek 'little I feel like a fish out of water.' There is something about the heaps of dress materials and the hanging rows of gloves and hosiery that makes a man appear ridiculously funny to the feminine eye, and you don't dare laugh, because if you do he will be highly indignant, and will be very likely to march off in a towering rage.
"And never, never, under any circumstances, take him into a downtown tea-room. The short trip in the elevator, along with a dozen hurrying women and six dozen bundles, is enough to make him swear words under his breath, and if he happens to be big and broad-shouldered, he seems as out of place as a washtub in a drawing-room. Unless he is especially good-natured, he will tag along behind you like a criminal shunning the detectives, and when he scrolls toward the table he looks around in the vain hope of finding a fellow-sufferer in the same miserable predicament. If he locates any such shipwrecked male being, his face brightens perceptibly; if he sees only a wriggling mass of bonnets, he is crosser than ever. He rebels at the idea of eating off a little dessert plate and sneers silently at the silly little sugar bowl. But he can't help it, for he probably feels as uncomfortable as a girl would were she in a barber shop or a men's clothing store."

News Indeed.

A geography published in 1812 contains the following startling description of that section of our country which Charles Dudley Warner has baptized "Our Italy": "California is a wild and almost unknown land, covered throughout the year by dense fogs, damp as they are unhealthy. On the northern shores live anthropophagi, and in the interior are active volcanoes and vast plains of shifting snows, which sometimes shoot up columns to inconceivable heights." The book adds that some of these statements would seem incredible were they not so well authenticated by trustworthy travelers!

BEING WELL ENTERTAINED. Visiting Daughters of St. George Pleased With Negaunee Hospitality. GRAND LODGE SESSION A GRAND SUCCESS. Strikers Turned Out Strong Yesterday. Only One Arrest in Two Months.

HAVING A GOOD TIME. The ladies who are attending the supreme lodge session of the Daughters of St. George are spending a very pleasant week in Negaunee. The session has thus far proved of much interest and the business presented is being transacted in a very harmonious and agreeable manner.

Another Good Turnout. The strikers of Negaunee and Ishpeming had another good turnout yesterday. A brass band was at the head of the procession from each place and the men were out in much larger numbers than the previous day.

A Remarkable Record. Only one man has been arrested on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct in Negaunee during the past two months. The only arrest made was that of a vagrant who got full and undertook to sleep off his jag on the sidewalk.

Stenglein-Piggott Nuptials. John Stenglein of Marquette and Miss Julia Piggott of Negaunee were united in marriage yesterday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Paul's church, Rev. Langner, the pastor, officiating. Following the nuptial ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother.

LOCAL LACONICS. Alex Steele is on the sick list. Miss Mary Cuddihy of Calumet is visiting Negaunee friends. Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Scully were up from Marquette yesterday.

Several members of the Negaunee High school enjoyed a picnic at Rock's Kilns, three miles west of Ishpeming, yesterday. H. Lucas will resume business at his old stand in a few days. A new roof has been put on the building which was badly damaged by fire Monday night.

Miss Ceilia O'Leary has given up her place as teacher in the school here and has accepted a similar position at Leadville, Colo. She attended a teachers' convention at Leadville recently and secured the position while there.

BEARS THAT CATCH SALMON. Easy Fishing and Good Fish in the Teeming Waters of Alaska. "Most bears catch fish if they have a chance," said Dr. Tarkenton H. Bean, formerly ichthyologist of the United States fish commission and now superintendent of the New York aquarium.

The delegates present are Alice Wicks, A. S. Fowle, Mary Hermann and Emma Oliver, of Cleveland, O.; M. A. Catchett, of Philadelphia; Kate Holden, of Providence, R. I.; Alice C. Todd, of Chicago; Mary Pickering, Fannie France and Diana Carless of Pittsburg; Elizabeth W. Bridge, of East Liverpool, O.; Catherine Cruze, of Red Jacket; Ruth Pierson, of Columbus, O.; Kate Dale, of Rochester, N. Y.; Louise Moore, of Detroit; Emilia Whinnen, of Republic; P. A. Trathen, of Ishpeming, and Caroline J. Voden of Negaunee.

"The bear is a good swimmer, but he doesn't need to do any swimming here. He stands with his hind feet in the bank and his fore feet in shoal water and looks straight ahead. The fish swim past in endless procession and close into the banks, looking for springs and little streams, cool places, where they like to deposit their eggs. The bear looks ahead intently. I have never stood near enough to a bear that was fishing to see that he did so, but I have no doubt that he selects out of the many constantly passing a particular fish, one that pleases his fancy. He slaps the salmon out of the water and up on the bank, and turns and eats it while it is still alive. She bears take their cubs to the river and feed them there on salmon, and incidentally teach them to fish.

"There is a species of elderberry that grows luxuriantly near these salmon grounds, a showy berry, that looks like the elderberry of this part of the country, except that instead of being black it is red. The bear is fond of these berries, and often after eating salmon he eats a quantity of them by way of dessert before he goes back to the woods. "Frequently near the bear, as he feeds, is seen a fox, the common gray fox of Alaska, standing perhaps fifteen inches high, measuring to the tip of its extended tail three and a half feet, and weighing twenty-five or thirty pounds. The fox is not afraid of the bear, but still he takes care not to get too near him; he likes fish, however, and he knows the habits of the bear, and he comes before the bear gets through his meal and waits; and after the bear has gone away the fox cleans up what the bear has left."

"Whoever has looked inside an elephant's mouth has seen a strange sight," said an elephant trainer. "Elephants have no front teeth, and they never eat flesh or any food that requires tearing apart. Eight teeth are all they have, two above and below on each side, huge yellow molars as wide as a man's hand and a couple of inches thick. Over these hay or fodder is shifted by the queerest, ugliest tongue in the whole animal kingdom, a tongue that is literally hung at both ends, having no power of movement except in the middle, where it shifts back and forth from side to side, arching up against the roof of the big mouth like an immense wrinkling, pink serpent. There is nothing stranger than the working of an elephant's tongue, unless it be the working of his breathing apparatus when he sleeps. Elephants, like human beings, have two sets of teeth; the milk teeth, which are smaller than the permanent molars, fall out when the animals are about fourteen years old. These baby teeth, which are nevertheless enormous, are occasionally picked up by circus men among the fodder and preserved as curiosities. Such a thing as an elephant having the toothache or a decayed molar is absolutely unknown."

Bird of Brilliant Plumage. There are few birds whose plumage is so variable as the ptarmigan. Three times in the year its plumage changes; it has separate coats for spring, autumn and winter. At the beginning of November it puts on the last costume of the season. Its spring brown and summer gray serve well to hide it among the scrawny herbage of its haunts from the keen eye of the soaring falcon.

"James river was named after James II., at the first English settlement it was called the "River of the Holy Ghost." The Indians called it Paw-thanne, "the river of life."

A RUINED CAPITAL. The Fall of Cahaba, Once Chief City of Alabama. Before the Days of Railroads It Was the Center of Culture and Learning—Now a Cotton Plantation.

It was Father Ryan, the southern poet, first who said: "A land without ruins is a land without memories." If such be the truth, Alabama is not without memories. A visit to the plantation of Capt. Cliff Kirkpatrick, situated about twelve miles from Selma, in Dallas county, beside the rippling waters of the Alabama river, where the once city of Cahaba, for many years the capital of the state, and the seat of culture and learning, stood, will convince one of this fact. What was once the streets and boulevards of the gay city are now broad fields, where stately stalks of corn and spreading plants of cotton grow in luxuriance, nourished by the fertile soil upon which famous men in Alabama's history half a century ago gathered to solve grave problems of state or to enjoy the unalloyed pleasures of antebellum times.

The decline of Cahaba began before the war, when railroads missed it and were built to Selma and Montgomery. The days of river transportation were numbered, and Cahaba's trade began to leave for the more favored cities, and with it went the population gradually. Then the capital was removed, and next the courthouse. The population continued to diminish. Then came the trials of war, the raid of Wilson's cavalry and the devastation that followed. By the end of the war Cahaba's glory had departed. It was a veritable deserted village. The more substantial of its buildings still stood, but its people had sought other climes.

A visit to the ancient place—now a cotton plantation—a few days ago disclosed some curious sights. It demonstrated what wonderful changes time had wrought. Nearly one hundred old houses, relics of the past, still stand, and around them the cotton plants are just now disclosing their white blooms. These old structures, built of brick, will for years to come continue to mark the spot where the proud city once stood, for the owner of the plantation does not contemplate pulling them down. Some were stores, others were churches and schoolhouses, and others still lordly mansions. All are crumbling to ruins, and while a few are inhabited by negro families who labor on the farm, the majority are tenanted only by bats and owls.

On a hill not far from the river stands what was once the capitol building in whose walls the eloquence of William L. Yancy and other famous Alabamians of by-gone days resounded. The old building, a substantial three-story stone and brick structure, still stands, and is utilized now as a gristmill and steam purposes. Across from it are two blocks of brick stores, time having made sad inroads into them.

The once fashionable church of the town, which cost many thousands of dollars, is now used by a colored congregation. It was, when built, the costliest and handsomest house of worship in the state. The old Dallas academy, where Senator John T. Morgan attended school, is now only a towering mass of ruins. The place where the historic Craig family resided is planted in corn, and the broad expanse where Gen. E. W. Pettus' costly house stood is now used as a pasture. The ruins of the famous old Pettus mansion, which cost sixty thousand dollars, were torn away last year and the brick used for other purposes. A solitary magnolia tree marks the spot where it stood.

At one time Cahaba was a city of many thousand people. Lots sold for as high as fifteen thousand to twenty thousand dollars. Now the entire site, with land adjoining, embracing nine hundred acres, is owned by one man, Capt. Cliff Kirkpatrick, who came out of the war penniless, but by pluck and perseverance has built up his lost fortune until now he possesses one of the finest plantations in the south. He resides with his charming family in one of the twenty-thousand-dollar antebellum mansions, which has been refitted. It is hospitality's own abode. The property which Capt. Kirkpatrick now owns could not have been bought fifty years ago for ten million dollars. Some thirty artesian wells, which quenched the thirst of our ancestors, still flow freely, but only the wandering herds and the thirsty farm laborer imbibe their sparkling waters. If the story of Cahaba's rise and fall could have been pictured by Father Ryan he would have immortalized the dead city.

SOME WOMEN CAN VOTE

If They Pay School Taxes, or Are Parents or Guardians of Children,

THEY CAN VOTE FOR SCHOOL OFFICERS.

The Law of the Matter and What the Law Means When It Is Unraveled.

AND SO CAN MOST MEN.

Quite a number of persons seem to be at sea regarding the qualifications of voters in the school election to be held Monday and particularly as to what women are allowed to vote. The city charter says: "Every person shall be entitled to vote at such election who is a qualified voter of the city, or who is qualified by the laws of the state to vote at any election for school officers." The first clause of this provision is plain enough and evidently takes in all voters who were qualified at the last charter election. The second clause refers to such persons as are not qualified voters of the city in ordinary elections, such as women, but who under the general laws of the state are qualified to vote in an election for school officers. The last legislature amended slightly the former law as to the qualifications of voters in school elections but such amendment did not affect the right of certain women to vote for school officers. The act as amended went into effect yesterday and is as follows:

§ 24. SECTION 17. Every citizen of the age of twenty-one years who has property assessed for school taxes in any school district and who has resided therein three months next preceding any school meeting held in said district, or who has resided three months next preceding such meeting on any territory belonging to such district at the time of holding said meeting, shall be a qualified voter in said meeting upon all questions; and all other citizens who are twenty-one years of age and are the parents or legal guardians of any children included in the school census of the district, and who have for three months as aforesaid, been residents of said district or upon any territory belonging thereto at the time of holding any school meeting, shall be entitled to vote on all questions arising in said district, which do not directly involve the raising of money by tax.

Leaving out of sight for the moment the first clause of the provision of the city charter, it then follows that under the state law the right to vote for school officers depends upon the following conditions: All persons, male or female, offering to vote in such elections must be:

1. Twenty-one years of age.
  2. Citizens by birth or by naturalization.
  3. Residents in the district for the three months next preceding the school election.
  - 4a. Owners of property assessed for school taxes in the district, or
  - 4b. The parents or legal guardians of children included in the school census of the district.
- All persons, whether male or female, who comply with the first three provisions as above stated, and with either the provision 4a or 4b, can vote for school officers. Only such persons, male or female, as can comply with the first three provisions as given, and also with the provision 4b, can vote in the school meeting, as distinguished from the election of school officers. In other words, only taxpayers can vote in the school meeting, but persons who are parents or guardians of children included in the school census can vote for school officers.

Such are the provisions of the state law referred to in the second clause of the charter provision, quoted above. But the charter extends the right to vote for school officers to "every person who is a qualified voter of the city." This means that every man who is a qualified voter, even though he be neither taxpayer, parent nor guardian, can vote for school officers. Women, however, who are neither taxpayers, parents nor guardians, are denied that privilege, the extension of the school suffrage granted by the charter not reaching to them. In other words, any man of legal age and legal residence and possessing citizenship can vote for school trustees, but women must be taxpayers, parents or guardians before they have that privilege. And the charter does not extend the right to vote in the school meeting, as distinguished from the school election, to persons who are not taxpayers.

The charter also provides that the school board shall be inspectors of the election and that for the purpose of ascertaining who are legal voters they shall have access to the registration books of the several wards. No provision is made, however, for the registration of voters not already registered, and it would seem that hereafter voters who take an interest in the school election will have to be sure that they are registered at the charter election in the spring.

The foregoing is published in response to several requests for a statement of the law bearing on the subject and it is hoped will make the matter clear to all interested.

Work on the Breakwater.

Work has progressed far enough on the revised breakwater of this port to show clearly what it will look like when completed. By the end of this week even three hundred feet of the new structure will have been finished, and it is intended to carry on the work as much longer this year as the weather will permit. The great sea wall of solid concrete looks as though it might endure for ages and successfully resist any attack the winds and waves could make upon it. The plan of the structure is new, originating with Major Sears, and Marquette will have the first breakwater ever constructed containing the combination of a double slope sea-wall with an interior gallery. As such work goes the new form is not expensive, what has been and will be done this year costing only $25,000, which is little more than the expense of stone-filled cribs. Of course in this case the foundation was in already but that it also true of practically all the harbors on the lakes. If in service the new style of sea-wall meets the expectations of the engineers it will undoubtedly go into use at other harbors as their existing timber breakwaters need repair or replacing.

"An Esteemed Contemporary."

There will be published tomorrow the first issue of "Chips," an illustrated weekly journal of literature and society. The first issue contains a cartoon concerning the chief municipal event of the week, the decision of the council to give the electric light commission a free hand in its plans for the improvement and enlargement of the city's plant. Mayor Jacobs is shown as the benevolent dispenser of large slices of frosted cake to Messrs. Adams, Mack, Pencil and Powell. The drawing is well conceived and the likenesses will be instantly recognized. There are also many other clever pictures and illustrated headings of departments, including a picture of "Chips" himself, a fat boy in a Pierrot dress, presenting an open copy of the paper. Advance sheets show that the new paper is brightly and amusingly written, sharply at times but always in good temper and with a hearty hatred of shams.

The editor and proprietor and also in part the artist is Willie Adams, who though a painful malady has confined him to his bed for more months than his friends like to remember, has not allowed his wits to rust and takes a keen interest in public and social affairs. With the assistance of several of his young friends he has undertaken the publication of the paper and from the couch to which he is tied has written, drawn, edited and directed until the journal is an accomplished fact. The result is a publication that is much more than a curiosity and has decided merit of its own. It represents an amount of courage, resolution and fortitude on the part of its young publisher which cannot be too highly applauded and which ought to silence many an older invalid who complains over ills much more sufferable than those so cheerfully endured by the author, artist and editor of "Chips."

The MISSES' JOURNAL welcomes its esteemed contemporary and hopes that its wit will always be as bright and its wit as clever as in the initial number. To make extracts of the good things in "Chips" is unnecessary, for every one will read it for himself or herself.

"Millie, the Quadroom."

Among the features of the play to be produced by the Tuxedo club at the opera house Monday evening will be a number of musical specialties. Between the acts Mrs. Anderson will sing "Sawancee River" and "My Old Kentucky Home" and various songs will be introduced in the course of the action. The club has been working hard on the piece and hopes to do very much better than in its first attempt. "Enlisted for the War." The reserved seat chart is open at Bigelow's. The club is composed of young people who are trying to do something for the amusement of the public and as a production of home talent the performance Monday evening deserves liberal patronage.

Information Wanted.

Anyone who can give any information regarding the whereabouts of a girl about fifteen years of age, last seen about 8:30 o'clock Thursday evening going north on Third street, will confer a favor by communicating with Marshal Maloney. She was when last seen dressed in a blue sailor suit and blue Tam cap, has short and curly dark hair, and is quite stout and fleshy for her years. Anyone who saw her at any time since the hour given is asked to make the fact known.

SCOLDING.

The cook within the kitchen stood,
Her hands upon her hips,
And many were the angry words
Came pouring from her lips.
Her victim was the grocery-boy,
And hotly thus spake she:
Oh, what a little fool you are,
To bring such stuff to me.

Take high price baking powder back,
And bring me "Calumet."
And if he did not go straightway,
She's likely scolding yet.
