Nansen's wonderfully successful polar expedition gained for him not only fame but wealth as the following will indicate. Considering the long years of training which he put in before entering upon the undertaking, however, and the hardship and exposure undergone, it cannot be said that he is reaping too much of a reward

Some sworn testimony which has been filed in the court of chancery in London in suit indicates that the enterprise which sometimes leads American newspapers to international interest is not entirely unknown on the other side of the water.

The affidavits in question show that the Daily Chronicle paid Dr. Nansen, the famous artic explorer, $5,000 for a telegram of little more than a column when he recently returned from his unsuccessful effort to discover the north pole, and that for an article of 15,000 words, with sixteen illustrations and a map, which he recently furnished the same publication, he was

They have a picturesque collections. Stocks and bonds bought character to deal with. Nansen is a hero in Norway, and that simply because he is a hero, or because at any rate in his character and achievements he approaches closer to the popular interpretation of that title than any man that one knows Rothschild & Bending, that title than any man that one knows of. He has the build of one to begin with. He has been compared with the vikings of old by the poets of his country, since his return, but this comparison had who knows nothing of the extraordinary feats of endurance and courage which he has performed, is enough to remind one of the old Norse heroes, who infused into the Anglo-Saxon race those qualities of endurance which have made the English-speaking people what it is, the predominant race of the world. He is a man of extraordinary strength, and as to this there are a hundred stories current. As a lad he could hold his own against six boys of his own age, so his biographers relate, and as a man he has certainly maintained his propor tions. One has heard of the London pickpocket who, baving attempted to snatch Dr. Nansen's watch, was gripped by the young Norwegian and held fast with one hand in a grip so powerful that, as Mr. Bain has related, "his wrist was nearly crushed and he said that he would rather go to jail for a month than let that gentleman get hold of him again." At Tromso. the other day, when at the feast of welome he was proposing Captain Sverdrup's health, he suddenly lifted his shipmate up and held him aloft with one arm so that everybody in the crowded hall could get a sight of the comrade to whom he admits so great an obligation. And these things are as nothing compared to the feats of sheer muscular strength, which, with characteristic modesty, are described in his book on "The First Crossing of Greenland" and in the book which he is

Rev. John Burgus, Keokuk, Iowa, writes "I have been a Minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church for 50 years or more and have never found anything so beneficial, or that gave me such speedy relief as Dr. King's New Discovery." Try this Ideal Cough Remedy now. Trial bottles free at E. Farnham's Drug Store.

When most needed it is not unusual for your family physician to be away from nome. Such was the experience of Mr. J. Y. Schenck, editor of the Caddo, Ind. Ter. Banner, when his little girl, two years of age, was threatened with a severe attack of croup. He says: "My wife insisted that I go for the doctor, but as our family physician was out of town I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved her immediately. I will not be without it in the future." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by The Stafford Drug Co.

Li and the Monocle. Li Hung Chang, the famous Chinaman who visited this country a short time ago, made quite an impression in England for his wit and apparent ingenuousness, although it was more than suspected that some of the old gentleman's remarks were not so bland as they seemed. One incident especially amused the Britishers. It was when Li Hung Chang met Joseph Chamberlain, who affects a monocle. FRAUD IN BIRDS OF PLUMAGE. Brilliant Feathers on Show Birds Produced by Artificial Means.

Bird faking have been brought to perfection, indeed, when expert judges are unable to detect where imposition begins. A great deal of humbug is permitted to escape unrevealed at many of the best stores. Of prizes a handsome cinnamon-colored linnet received a lion's share, and the elegant bird was acknowledged a formidable rival. The songster had passed through many experienced hands and invariably came off with flying colors. It possessed as many first and second honors as feathers in its pinions and its perfect shade was the envy of the local fanciers.

his suspicions aroused, and the rumor escaped that the darling of the aviary was artistically doctored. Its form was believed to be nature's own molding, but the exquisite tint which had hitherto been the charm par excellence reference to the pole of figure, along a was decreed to be the work of a cunning dye. The secret out, the owner made a plain statement, and the dye went the rounds of inspection. It was a blonde preparation for the human hair, but the fancier had discovered that its virtues were not limited to the beautifying of hoary locks. The judge was a cute old fellow. He observed that he had noticed a resemblance between the hair of the fancier and the feathers of the bird, after which some of the latter were put to careful analysis.

A snow-wite bantam cock was at one time a conspicuous prize winner at some of the north county shows. Its points were, according to the rules of the show run, as near perfection as could be obtained. This ideal in white brought its lucky owner many substantial trophies and it was his proud boast that the superb creature paid the expense of his poultry yard, which, with its numerous houses and runs, were somewhat expensive.

The customary fall awaited his pride. Somebody discovered that the tail feathers betrayed not the elastic characteristic of this appendage. Examination published the fact that their brittleness was due to some bleaching preparation or chemical. The perfect bird had an imperfect plume, and the yellow shades on the large feathers had been bleached to the approved state of whiteness. After this discovery the fowl was ignominiously banished to the remoteness of a back yard, and the owner's name was canceled from the list of exhibitors. Worthy of a better object was the exceeding care bestowed on the head and neck of a mallard. This drake was a worthy specimen of his class but his possessor deemed the feathers of head and throat to lack the metallic luster which imparts a beauty so striking to the flawless bird. In this case a luminous paint of extravagant composition was employed and the green feathers received that tint of gold and purple essential to undisputed magnificence. As the dye was perfectly fixed the drake passed successfully, and was awarded a second prize. Elated with success the fakist cheered his soul unwisely, and betrayed his unscrupulousness while in a state of insobriety. -Pearson's Weekly.

A Boy's Improvement on the Usual Programme in Fairy Stories.

"Business" is the watchword of the day and the small boy is developing on that line with a rapidity which astonishes the previous generation. But the practical side of his nature has not obseured the poetry of childhood. The remarked at breakfast: "I had a beautiful dream last night."

"What was it?" his father asked. "I thought I was out in the woods and I saw a most gorgeously dressed lady coming toward me."

"That is a good deal like some of the stories that you have been reading." "Yes. It doesn't get very different until the end. I knew by her looks that she was the fairy queen, and I made up guys, they'll have to look like guys if my mind that I wasn't going to lose chances like some of the boys in story books, who didn't know a good chance of Latitude.

CHANGES IN THE EARTH'S AXIS Continual Slight Changes in All Parallels

Of all the astronomical problems under discussion of late years, one of the most interesting has been that of changes in the earth's axis. It has been found that the imaginary line about which the earth rotates once a day is not invariably fixed with reference to the earth, but is continually changing and sold burners.

DUQUETTE & METZ Clothing, Gents Furnishing Goods Hats and Caps. its position in that body. The term "pole" has, therefore, to be taken in "pole" has, therefore, to be taken in two different senses: (1) As the end J. H. LA ROCHELLE Millinery, No-tions, Butterof the shortest diameter of the earththis is a fixed point, with reference to the earth, as long as the earth keeps its shape, and may be called the "pole of But eventually a vigilant judge had figure;" (2) the pole may be defined as the end of the diameter about which the earth is revolving, and this pole may be J. called the "pole of rotation."

It is found that the pole of rotation is continually shifting its position with curved line of considerable complexity. The distance between the poles is very small, never as much as 40 feet. Largely through the unwearied researches of Dr. S. C. Chandler the motion has been shown to be mainly composed of two parts. One part is a motion of the pole of rotation about the pole of figure in a circle of radius 12 feet, with a time of revolution of about 428 days. The second motion is of somewhat the same character, but with a period of one year, and the amplitude of this motion has varied during the lest half century from | WILLIAM STEWART Livery and Boardfour to twenty feet.

Some idea of the actual motion may be got by imagining a crank-arm 12 feet long attached to the pole of figure and long attached to the pole of figure and Nester Block and 525 N. Retail—Meats Poultry, Eggs etc. ing end of this crank-arm is attached another, which gradually changes in length and revolves once a year. The free end of this traces out the path of the pole of rotation. The actual path is apparently quite complicated.

One of the principal effects of this shifting of the pole is that the latitudes of all places on the earth are continually changing. In fact, it was by this periodic variation in the latitude that the motion of the pole was detected. All parallels of latitude are continually shifting, with a range of motion of less than 40 feet from the mean position. There is little or no astronomical evidence of any progressive change in the position of the pole of rotation, by virtue of which it occupied a position greatly different from the present. Apparently the former existence of tropical plants and animals in what are now polar regions of the earth could be explained on such a hypothesis; but no Fraternity Block. one has yet been able to suggest a probable cause in the axis of rotation, and an explanation must be looked for elsewhere. The small, periodic variations are the only ones about which we can be at all certain.—Popular Science News.

There is soon to be a new country to visit and a new way of going round the world. It seems only the other day that Jules Verne's man went around in 80 days, and thought it a considerable feat. The record for circumnavigation is now 66 days, or thereabouts. Baron Hilkoff, the combination of American mechanic and Russian prince who was in this country recently, said that when the railroad across Siberia is finished, which, he thinks, will be in four or five years, the time of getting around will be cut in two, and from 30 to 33 days will suffice for it. He allows ten days to cross Siberia from St. Petersburg, ten days from Vladivostok to San Francisco, and 13 days from there to St. Petersburg again. Early in the next century, then, the tired American may fairy tale, says the Washington Star, is as potent as ever, and there was a smile on his month's vacation, and keep it of pleasure on the face of the lad who turned that way until he gets home, just about in time to resume his work .-Harper's Weekly.

People have died of laughter. From Austria comes a curious account of a man suffering from a nervous disease that manifested itself in paroxysms of laughter. The patient was 30 years of age and had been subject for three years to fits of laughter, which occurred at first every two or three months, gradually increasing in frequency to a dozen or more a day. The attacks occurred especially between nine o'clock in the evening and 6:30 o'clock in the morning, and in greatest frequency between five and 6:30 o'clock. In the intervals between the attacks, and immediately before and afterward, the man was perfectly well. The attacks commenced from a tickling sensation arising from the toes of the left foot. The patient would fall to the ground, where he could lie down. As to Children and Dogs.

Washington Irving has often been accused of saying that little dogs and the United States I never noticed that close and sentimental intimacy between human beings and quadrupeds I believe that their importance is equally great in all countries; but it asserts itself in a more noisy manner in America than anywhere else. Everything is sacrificed to them, for they represent the future, which is all that counts in a country whose past is very short, and whose present is a period of high-pressure development. Yet no one must suppose that, before presenting an apalogy for French children, I intend to malign American children, as certain travelers have taken the liberty of doing very thoughtlessly, although they had met them only on steamships, cars, or at hotels, enjoying a holiday with that buoyancy which is the characteristic mark of the whole race. Bought Some Timber.

About 900,000 feet of timber which was cut last winter near Sidnaw and (12-7-2m) placed on the skids ready to load, and which a number of jobbers of this section have been endeavoring to buy for some time past, was last week purchased by Taylor & Anthony of Negaunee. The timber was owned by A. G. Bergiund of Milwaukee, who also owns the saw mill at Sidnaw. On Saturday Taylor & Anthony disposed of a large amount of the timber which they will deliver to the purchasers this week. With good sleighing it will not take them long to get the material out of the woods as the haul is short.

Taylor & Anthony will finish cutting | Star. at their camp near Ewen in about two weeks. They have had fifty-five men working steadily there ever since they began operations early in the fall. Their cut for the season will nearly reach two million feet. The haul to the railroad is less than two miles, so that operations at the camps will be finished early in the winter. The greater part of the timber has already been sold to the mining companies here and at Ishpeming.

We had eaten enough before; that addition distends the stomach beyond natural bounds, makes more difficult the digestion of what has gone before, perhaps brings on stupidity, or dyspepsia, or headache, or insomnia. Who was that sage who said: "The worst place to throw away anything is inside of us?" Probably it was this insensate desire for saving which gave rise to the rule which used to prevail in many families, that the children must eat everything that was set before them. I have heard an elderly man say that in his childhood one of the parental precepts which constituted the chief of table morals was: "My son, clear your plate." THE PINKHAM CURES.

Attracting Great Attention Among Thinking Women.

MUST BE SOMETHING BEHIND IT ALL.

Miss Van Horn, of Philadelphia Adds Her Testimonial and Relates Her Experiences-She Is Only One of Thousands Who Have Received. Like Benefit During Last Few Months, andWhose Letters Are On File.

When Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies were first introduced, sceptics all over the country frowned upon their curative claims, but as year after year has gone by, and the little group of women who have been cured by the new discovery has grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands, doubts and scepticisms have been swept away as by a mighty flood, until to-day the great good Mrs. Pinkham's remedies are dong among our female population, is attracting the attention of many of our leading scientists and thinking people.

The following letter is only one of many thousands which are on file in the Pinkham office, and go to prove beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound must be an article of great merit; otherwise it could not produce the results which are a positive fact, and not a mere claim :-Dear Mrs. Pinkham:-I write to thank you for the good your Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. Before taking your remedies I was so bad with backache, liver and kidney trouble, that I thought I would never find relief. At the time of menstruction, I suffered so that I could hardly stand, but I had to go to work and stand in misery all day. My blood was in an awful state. I suffered with headache and local discharges. I was sick all over. I doctored for a long time, tried three different doctors, but they did me no good. I did not get any help until I tried your remedies. After taking several bottles of your Vegetable Compound and using five packages of your Sanative Wash, I am completely cured, and have no one to thank for it but you. Hoping some other suffering woman may take warning in time, I remain, yours truly, Miss Celia Van Horn, 1912 Sharswood St. Phila., Pa.

Won't Buck Pingree.

Hon. T. B. Dunstan of Houghton, lieutenant governor elect, has been in Lansing the last few days. He went primarily for the purpose of securing quarters for the winter, as it is his intention to take his wife and daughters to the capital. While there he looked over the political field and met a number of the senators elect who were fishing for appointments on various com-

He fell a prey to the interviewer and said to a reporter for the Lausing Journal: "This talk that the upper peninsula delegation is coming down here to antagonize Governor Pingree and whatever matters of legislation he may propose is the rankest kind of nonsense.
