MARQUETTE, MICH., MARCH 20.

Entered as mail matter of the second class in the postoffice at Marquette, Mich.

There are many people in the state who will agree with the house committee's views that the legislature should enact a statewide primary law or else frankly toss the whole business in the air and return to the convention system. They are tired of half way laws, 40 per cent provisions and the various other compromises of the past few years. If direct nominations is a good thing, they are inclined to hold, the state ought to consistently apply the good thing wherever it is applicable. If they are a bad thing they should not be countenanced on any terms. There are, however, many shades of opinion on this subject in the legislature, and there is a good deal of doubt as to what its members will ultimately decide to do.

There appears to have been a much wider distribution of important senate committee places than in former years. The members from the west are given more recognition than they have previously received. This is, perhaps, a recognition of the growing discontent with the old order under which the best committee places were monopolized by comparatively few members, many of whom held places on three and four of the most important. Whatever the cause of the change, it is a gratifying one. It also reflects credit on the wisdom of the senate leaders that they have recognized that there is a certain justice in the attitude of the members who have chafed under the old conditions, and have made concessions to their views before a struggle was precipitated.

Addressing a meeting held at Escanaba for the organization of a body to take up the fight against tuberculosis, Dr. Breitenbach said, among other things, that there was necessity in Escanaba for a close scrutiny of the sources of milk supply. Cases of tuberculosis in children, he asserted, were to be traced to infected milk, and he cited an instance where a tubercular cow was being used as a source of public milk supply. This menace could be avoided at Escanaba, as it could in Marquette, by the passage and enforcement of a reasonable and adequate ordinance dealing with the subject. There is throughout the upper peninsula a general agitation of the necessity of guarding against the menace of tuberculosis. It is strange that it does not take the direction of asking the boards of aldermen in the various cities for ordinances that will insure pure milk. But doubtless this will be done in time. At the last meeting of the Marquette council the health committee was instructed to investigate the subject. Perhaps it will have a report ready for the next session.

Congress has now passed a bill for the taking of the next census that reflects former President Roosevelt's ideas of what such a bill should be, made known when he vetoed the measure originally sent to him by that body. The latest measure gives the civil service commission control of the appointment of the enumerators, which congress first proposed should rest with its members. In other words the "spoils" feature of the original bill has been eliminated. While we haven't heard anything definite on that point, it is generally believed among the informed that President Taft was quietly "sounded" by the members who would like to have had the original bill made a law, to see whether he would accept it. The developments prove that President Taft informed whoever may have approached him on this delicate subject that his ideas in regard to it coincided with those of Mr. Roosevelt. As the same thing was true of the public's ideas, generally speaking, there was nothing for congress to do but to fall into line.

The Iron Mountain Press says that, in the light of a recent decision of the supreme court, the Dickinson county board of supervisors erred in permitting the withdrawal of names on the local option petitions recently presented, on the presentation of a counter-petition signed by the persons who wanted their names withdrawn. The supreme court has held that the names of all qualified petitioners appearing on the local option petition should stand, irrespective of any later representations made by the men who signed them. If the withdrawal of names had been ruled against by the board the petitions would have been found adequate and it would have become the supervisors' duty to submit the prohibition question at the spring election. It does not appear, however, that the prohibition forces have any chance of securing a reversal of the board's ruling, despite the fact that it was based on an incorrect interpretation of the law, and they will have to postpone their fight until another year.

"At one time," said an old Chicago settler, "I could have bought the entire site of the city for an old pair of boots." And, in answer to the query why he did not, he replied: "I didn't have the boots." It makes little difference how cheap any kind of goods are, unless consumers have the wherewithal to purchase them. In this connection the San Francisco Chronicle, commenting on a recent report of the bureau of commerce to the effect that the price of raw materials throughout the world has greatly declined, rightly declares that this fact gives small comfort to manufacturers who find no market for their products, even when they offer the temptation of cheapness. There is a great deal of deception in the term "cheap." Its relative character prevents exact inferences being drawn from it. To a man who has no money the cheapest thing is dear; and to one who has plenty of all things are cheap, the ability to get things is the test, and in the country whose policy is best adapted to promoting that ability is the one which is most wisely governed, no matter what the doctrinaire economist may declare to the contrary. The American protective policy, which secures employment and good wages to workers and fair profits to farmers, manufacturers and others, has demonstrated its wisdom by its results—for through it consumers generally have been enabled to get the wherewithal to buy the things they want.

Governor Warner decided stand in favor of the abolition of contracts in the state prisons will have no small influence in giving impetus to the sentiment favorable to that step that has developed in the legislature since it convened the first of the year and it is now certain that before an adjournment is taken legislation will be enacted forbidding the making of any more contracts for the employment of convicts, and providing some new system for keeping them busy. The sentiment against the contracts, which has heretofore existed principally in the ranks of organized labor, has now spread to the mass of the people, and a feeling that it ought to be possible to devise some system by which the labor of convicts could be used with greater returns to the state has become general. Governor Warner favors the employment of the convicts in industries that will offer the minimum of competition with free labor in the state. One of his ideas is that the binder twine plant at Jackson can be enlarged and its scope increased. Whether the prisons will be less of a burden on the taxpayers under a new order will depend entirely on the conditions that are fixed for the employment of the convict labor. If the boards of control and wardens are given free scope to manufacture what they please and to sell where they please, every prison in the state ought to be made a money-making institution. There will, however, be many restrictions thrown about the employment of the convicts on state account. In proportion that these restrictions are liberal the prisons will demonstrate ability to care for themselves. A disposition of the problem that the investigations into the subject of convict labor has given rise to is one of the most important matters with which the legislature will have to deal.

NEAR DEATH IN BIG POND.
 It was a thrilling experience to Mrs. Ida Soper to face death. "For years a severe lung trouble gave me intense suffering," she writes, "and several times nearly killed my dear husband. All remedies failed and doctor said I was incurable. Then Dr. King's New Discovery brought quick relief and a cure so permanent that I have not been troubled in twelve years." Mrs. Soper lives in Big Pond, Pa. It works wonders in Coughs and Colds, Sore Throats, Whooping Cough, La Grippe, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough and all Bronchial affections. 50c and $1. A RELIGIOUS AUTHOR'S STATEMENT.
 Rev. Joseph H. Pesperman, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my back, and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed some frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy." Sold by all druggists.

THE NEW TARIFF.
 The proposed new tariff, as reported to the house by Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee, contains few surprises. The schedules are of the general character that those who followed the hearings before the committee expected.

There is revision, and revision downward, but it is protectionist revision. The American market is still safeguarded to the American producer, and there is no invitation for the incoming flood of foreign goods. Apparently, conscientious effort has been made to apply the rule laid down by the Republican platform and by President Taft—namely, that duties should be high enough to equalize the difference between production costs at home and abroad. The committee also seems to have given due weight to the revenue necessities of the country, and there is reason for believing that the new schedules, supplemented by the inheritance tax, will be ample to wipe out the deficit. In any event, the authorization of an issue of $140,000,000 in Panama bonds to reimburse the treasury for canal expenditures, and the provision increasing the amount of short-time notes that the treasury may issue, seem to guard sufficiently against financial embarrassment.

The principal changes are free entry to coal and iron ore and 40 to 50 per cent reduction in the iron and steel schedule; a reduction of the lumber duty from $1 to 50 cents per 1,000 feet; a reduction of from 20 to 30 per cent in the duty on raw wools; the admission of wood pulp free, and a reduction on print paper from $6 to $2 a ton; the abolition of the present 15 per cent duty on hides. The principal increases are on articles of luxury and voluntary use, and on chemical products in respect to which Germany has so largely dominated our market, and in the transference of ex-coal from the free list to the dutiable list at 4 cents a pound, and in an eight-cent-a-pound tax on tea. The prayer of Joplin has been heard, and the committee returns zinc by making the duty on zinc ore specific at 1 per cent per pound of its metallic contents.

The chief attack on this tariff bill will be on the iron and steel schedules and on the free hide provision—attacks from different groups and for radically different reasons. The agricultural west has vociferously asked a reduction in iron and steel duties, yet it is opposed to free hides, in which Massachusetts and the shoe manufacturers are so much interested. On the other hand, steel and iron representatives will seek to frighten by saying that a duty of $3.50 per ton on steel rails is too low to enable American steel makers to maintain their wage scales. It would indeed be a curious outcome if the hide protectionists of the plains and the steel protectionists of Pittsburgh should make an alliance in insurgency. It would illustrate again that this is a large country, with the most diverse interests, and that one section cannot have its way without conceding something to other sections.

In its internal revenue sections the bill imposes a tax on inheritances that is estimated will produce $20,000,000 a year—approximately the sum realized under the similar levy during and after the Spanish war. In view of the fact that the states are more and more resorting to this source of revenue there will be strong opposition to a federal intrusion that implies that the states must repeal their laws if there is not to be double taxation. On reflection the committee wisely concluded not to impose stamp taxes on checks and legal papers, and the exchanges may breathe a sigh of relief over the non-inclusion of any levy on sales of securities and commodities. On the other hand, the cigarette smoker will discover his refreshment a little higher in price or lighter in weight because of a 30 to 50 per cent increase in taxes.

The general public will be disposed to accept this bill as representing a careful and conscientious effort to balance equitably a large number of rival claims. Without pretending that the bill is perfect, or that it is not in any respect to be amended, there will be disposition to frown on captious fault-finding and efforts to wreck the whole project by artful attacks on its part. As before, when tariff bills were put, the country is willing to shut its eyes a little and bolt the bolus. The principal preoccupation now is over the desire to have full prosperity arrive and it is universally recognized that tariff uncertainty is one of the impediments. The average man doesn't expect a tariff exactly to his taste and interest, and has small hope that congress should sit for a year, would be able to reconcile the irreconcilable. So he asks congress to act quickly, even though it knows, and the country knows, that its work is not to be flawless.

THE VERY HIGHEST QUALITY

STATE PRISONS, DEFICITS AND PROFITS.

The recommendation which the governor makes in his message to the legislature, to abolish contract prison labor and, in the three state penal institutions in which it is now operative, to replace it with convict labor worked on state account, suggests some interesting aspects of the two systems. These Michigan prisons now dispose of their convict labor by contract. They are Jackson, Ionia and Marquette. In these three institutions contract labor produces annual deficits. These prisons, particularly Marquette, are a source of large expense to the people of Michigan. They have been successful uniformly only in making money for outside contractors and losing money for the state. This fact may or may not be a fair and logical argument against contract prison labor.

On the other hand, the taxpayers of Detroit have some convincing arguments to prove that the output of prison labor, sold in the open market, can be made a source of profit, if capably managed. The Detroit House of Correction is not only self-sustaining, but annually turns in a large surplus to the city government. In the last decade, from 1899 to 1908, this surplus was $347,000, an average yearly profit for the city of $34,700.

That is a gratifying showing, requiring unusual capacity on the part of the warden. There is a natural prejudice against prison-made goods. It is difficult to dispose of them unless legitimate manufacturers be undersold and prices be cut, which is, manifestly, an intolerable and impossible exponent. Nevertheless, the administration of the Detroit House of Correction has now for years succeeded in disposing of its entire output at current market prices.

It is eminently possible, even probable, that the men who have made and kept the Detroit House of Correction a profitable public enterprise, first Captain "Joe" Nicholson and after him the man whom he trained to succeed him, Superintendent John L. McDonell, are men of unusual capacity, experience and fitness for the position. Wardens of their type must be not only penologists, but men technically trained in manufacturing industries, experienced and resourceful in business and in possession of the full confidence of the community and the business men with whom they come in contact. It would be difficult, maybe impossible, to find in any other institution as Captain "Joe" and Superintendent McDonell to put in charge of the state's prisons and as state enterprises make them self-sustaining.

The history of the Detroit House of Correction may be only one of those gratifying isolated instances that prove the exceptions. However, Detroit's experience should prove of some value to the legislature in deciding what is to be done to take Jackson, Ionia and Marquette out of the debit column.—Detroit Journal.

TWO CENT FARES.

The Gazette believes that it would be wise legislation to have a two-cent a mile passenger rate applicable in the upper peninsula of Michigan. We have hoped that the policy of legislating on methods calculated to injure the railroad business in this state had passed by. We based that hope on the general change in sentiment all over the country. Corporation baiting is not as popular as it used to be, and the legislators, in most states, realize the fact that the public sentiment is against the imposition of any further legal burdens on the transportation companies. However, somebody has introduced a bill for two-cent fares in the upper peninsula. The bill should not be passed. We know there is no demand for it in this section and even if there was a demand, it would work an injustice to the railroads. And we want to be fair to all concerned and give railroads a chance to make enough money to pay the interest on their bonded indebtedness. A two-cent rate is impracticable everywhere except in the densely populated sections of the east and its application to the sparsely settled districts of the upper peninsula would work a decided hardship. Conditions in our section of Michigan differ from those in the southern section and the difference should be considered in framing legislation. Take the case of the South Shore for instance. Consider the run from Marquette to Mackinaw or from Marquette to Sault Ste. Marie. One or two little towns along the whole line. Except for the through passenger business there is no reason in continuing the service. Take the run from Nescora to Duluth. Practically all through business and nothing local. This road runs through hundreds of miles of barren waste lands. In the iron and copper producing sections it does a fair passenger business but at best it can just about make enough money to pay interest on its bonds. To further cripple this road by legislative act would be unfair and unwise and impolitic. The passage of a two-cent passenger rate bill would simply mean that the service would be crippled that much or the difference in income added to our freight rates. The proposed bill ought to be killed in committee and we hope it will be.—Houghton Gazette.

Will Make Academy Much Larger—
 The original plans for improvement of the site made to the Lerette academy at the Sea have been considerably enlarged and the work will cost to exceed $30,000. Captures a Wolf Alive—
 The biggest live wolf seen in Menominee in many months has been taken there in custody of John Housa, a Holmes township Indian. It measured over four feet from tip to tip. The Indian brought it to the court house, or at least in front of the court house, so early he said, "I don't like to keep, so I want to sell him." John Housa when asked what he intended to do with the animal, Housa is hopeful of selling the wolf to a salmon keeper. He caught the animal in a trap net far from his home and by the assistance of several other redskins managed to carry it to the court house in a small dry goods box.

MAGAZINE REVIVES TALE OF LIFE SAVERS' RACE FROM HOUGHTON TO MARQUETTE.

In the current number of one of the Munsey magazines, the Railroad Man's magazine, some space is devoted to articles of particular interest in the copper and iron countries. One of the stories that has been told so often and in so many places here in copperdom is a story of the removal of the Longyear home from Marquette to Brookline, Mass.

In this last story "Adolph Charlevoix," said to have been star engineer of the South Shore road twenty years ago, is the central figure. The story contains many inaccuracies, still it is interesting.

Reviewed briefly, it is as follows: The evening of Nov. 18, 1886, word was received in Houghton from Marquette that two big vessels had been blown ashore in a northwest gale. They were going to pieces and were in danger of sinking.

The train was made up of two flat cars on which were a life boat and a Lytle gun and other life saving apparatus, and a passenger coach in which were the members of the life saving crew from the canal under the command of Captain Albert Oba.

In those days sixty miles an hour by a train was a speed almost unthought of, but the life saving special, it is stated, attained this speed for a great part of the way, and did it in the teeth of a snow storm.

The train made but one stop, that at Michigamme, and reached Marquette at 11:30 o'clock at night. The time consumed in making the trip therefore was three hours and forty-five minutes, which is just forty minutes better than the time made now by the regular daily trains between Houghton and Marquette, which is four hours and twenty-five minutes.

It is stated that Charlevoix practically wrecked his engine to make the trip in the time that he did. What fortune attended the life savers after they reached Marquette and the two wrecked crews is not related in the Munsey article.

WANT A NEW SCHOOL. Residents of the Concord City location and the school board of District No. 4 of Franklin township are at once the question of a school house of which the Concord people say they stand in need.

The situation is given in a petition now being circulated and to be sent to State Superintendent Wright. The residents say that seventy children of school age in the district are without school facilities because they are not permitted to attend the school at Franklin and the road to the Arcadian school is impassible in the winter months.

Applications for the erection of a school house have not been acted upon by the board of No. 4 district. Twenty-nine heads of families have signed the petition.

PAYING POULTRY

What's the use of spending your time and energy in trying to make a little money out of hens with natural conditions against you?

There is no more trying or difficult or bothersome work than taking care of poultry—making it pay, yet poultry, exactly the same as with stock—horses or cattle—you must have it in a healthy condition, otherwise you can't make it pay.

INTERNATIONAL POULTRY POWDER is just as effective in keeping your poultry in a healthy, strong, paying condition as nature is in keeping your stock in good condition. Keeping your hens in good condition, so that they will be healthy, and so that you will get the most good out of them is just as important as keeping your stock in good condition. INTERNATIONAL POULTRY POWDER is away ahead of any other poultry powder that we have ever come in contact with. If you have not already tried it, do so at your very earliest opportunity. Use it regularly according to directions, and you will find it is not expensive at all, but productive of the very best results. 25c PACKAGE, 5 PACKAGES FOR $1.00.

Court has been adjourned by Judge Stone until next Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Vanderstine went to North Grand, Wis., last evening.

D. J. Reynolds, of Shtaw, was a business visitor in Marquette yesterday.

The Saturday Music club will meet with Miss Winnie Mathews this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Hanson, 131 East Michigan street, Thursday evening.

Miss Clara Kuhn has returned from Detroit, where she has spent the last ten weeks visiting with friends.

Charles G. Maywood, brother of the pastor of the Methodist church, is visiting at the Methodist parsonage and will sing at the church tomorrow.

S. A. Williams, manager of the Marquette steam laundry, arrived home yesterday, after a week's absence in Chicago, where he attended the Illinois state convention of laundrymen.

Dan Kehoe arrived home yesterday, after nearly three weeks spent at Guelph, Ont., whether he had been called on account of the serious illness of his father, who is now convalescent. Mr. Kehoe, Sr., is eighty-four years old.

H. O. Bell, Dr. M. W. Anderson, A. E. Miller, Mr. Manos, E. O. Stafford and John H. Godwin went to Hancock yesterday, where they will take part in the bowling tournament held last night and today. The Marquette men are to compete in both the five-men, two-men and single contests.

Three New Boarders—Three new boarders were received at the county jail yesterday afternoon, one from Champion, one from Negaunee and one from Ishpeming. Drunkenness was the charge in every case. They will spend fifteen days in the county bastille.

City Team vs. El Portanas—The City basketball team and the El Portanas will again come together this evening at Levee Hall. The two games already played have been won by the City team by very narrow margins and the El Portanas are determined to get revenge tonight for the defeats. Dancing will follow the game.

Last Day of Winter—Today marks the last official day of winter. It is the last upon which Marquette people may say "has not this been a lovely winter?" Sunday it will be proper to say "this spring weather is so delightful." Winter will resign its official title tomorrow morning at 1:13 o'clock, when the sun enters the vernal equinox and spring begins.

Sterilized Drinking Cups—The board of education has decided to provide two sets of drinking cups at the school buildings, one of which is to be sterilized each day, while the other is in use. This is a sanitary precaution and by its adoption it is hoped to prevent further spread of a throat infection that has been prevalent at some of the school buildings.

Normal Won—The high school basketball team was defeated by the Normal team at the Normal gymnasium last evening by the score of 29 to 9. Rev. Ames Maywood acted as referee and Mr. Eklberry, of Ishpeming, as umpire. An informal social party followed the game. Music was furnished by Claude Penhill and Peter Behan of the High school orchestra.

No School Inspectors—L. L. Wright, state superintendent of public instruction, has received numerous letters from township officers asking if school inspectors should be elected at the spring election. The department answers that they should not. The revised constitution does away with the office of township school inspector. In the past the sole duty of these inspectors was to settle school boundary questions. A bill recently passed by the house provides that township boards shall have power to arrange school boundaries.

Lien Placed on Logs—Sheriff Lehman returned from Big Bay yesterday, where he placed a lien on 102,000 feet of logs in the possession of the Lake Independence Lumber company, pending the result of a suit brought by Van Petrie and Peck, which will be tried before Judge Cray's week from today. Van Petrie & Peck, by whom the logs were cut, have not been paid because of some dispute, and the suit is brought for the purpose of forcing the company to pay the amount alleged by the plaintiffs to be due them.

No Decision Reached—The manufacturers committee of the Commercial club received a letter yesterday from the Ferguson & Wheeler Land, Timber & Lumber company of Arkansas, who for some months have under consideration the establishment of a finishing plant for pulp and its by-products in this city. The letter stated that the company had not come to any decision in this matter and that it is impossible to state what will be done. The fact that it is almost impossible to get skilled labor in the South and that a considerable amount of the company's product is utilized in the mines and railroads of the Northwest are the considerations which may bring the plant to this city.

Will Teach Sewing—At the last meeting of the board of education it was decided to allow sewing to be taught at the North Marquette school, in compliance with a request from the Visiting Nurse association. Many of the girls in this school complete their education with the fourth grade and so, under the present arrangement, do not get any of the public instruction in domestic science. It is planned to have sewing classes at the North Marquette school during the coming week, which will be conducted by persons selected and compensated by the Visiting Nurse association. Only plain sewing will be taught and it is thought that the instruction given in this way will result in the girls of that school being better equipped for housekeeping when they go out into the world.

Saloon Warrants Served—Deputy Sheriff Trevarrow came down from Ishpeming on the afternoon train yesterday, and served the warrants against six Marquette saloon keepers sworn out by Rev. C. H. Rutledge before Justice Andrews the day before. The saloons which are alleged in the warrants to have been kept open on Sunday are Thoney Bros., Front street; T. Foley's, Front street; Frank Suszek's, Front street; Mr. Lattrell's, Lake street; Wm. Fennessy's, Washington street, and Mr. Kezelski's, Front street. The owners of these saloons are to appear before Justice Andrews in Ishpeming Monday. Frank Suszek, against whom two warrants were issued, stated to Mr. Trevarrow that he did not believe that his saloon had been open either Oct. 4 or Feb. 21, the dates charged in the warrant, and intimated that he was going to fight the case.

INSURE WITH PETER WHITE & CO.

Northern Normal Notes.

The Faculty club will hold no meeting next week, as many extra duties are crowded into the week on account of examinations.

Miss Spalding has been invited to deliver an address before the National Drawing Teachers' association, which meets in St. Louis, Mo., early in April.

Last evening a game of basket ball was played between the Normal boys and the high school team. Music was provided and dancing was indulged in until 11 o'clock.

School will close for a week's vacation Friday next at noon. The last two days will be taken up with examinations. Most of the students and several members of the faculty will spend the time at their homes.

Ohris literary society took a sleigh ride Monday evening last, to Lakewood. The party consisted of a beautiful supply of good things to eat and spent a delightful evening at the cottage owned by H. R. Patrick. There were thirty-five in the company.

Arrangements were made for an athletic rally to be held during Assembly hour last Tuesday, but it was thought best to change the plan and instead a banquet will be held next Monday evening at the Hotel Clifton at 8 o'clock. President Kaye will be toastmaster and toasts will be responded to by a few members of the faculty and several prominent students.

It is a matter for congratulation that Professor J. Carter Troop, whose course of lectures in the summer of 1905 was so enthusiastically received, will return for another series next summer. Another lecturer of national reputation, E. O. Hovey, curator in the American Museum of Natural History in New York, will deliver a series of illustrated lectures upon travel.

At Thursday morning Assembly, Dr. Anderson read a speech which he had translated from the French. It was originally delivered by Dr. E. La Visse, a famous French scholar, before a class of school children in his native village, Monville. The speech was an interesting account of the changes in the school and home life of French children which had taken place since the childhood of the speaker.

Tuesday morning Dr. E. R. Downing and charge of Assembly and told the story of the life, work and martyrdom of Giordano Bruno, an Italian philosopher and scientist. He believed and taught the theories of Copernicus, and for this and other doctrines promulgated by him, he was burned as a heretic in the year 1600 at Rome. His tomb is today one of the places of interest for visitors, especially scientists.

A representative of the Rand-McNally publishing house of Chicago, Eugene Van Lee, visited the school Thursday in the interests of his firm. Mr. Van Lee is not an ordinary bookman, but is a scholar as well, and an expert in the modelling of relief maps and globes. He was invited by Mr. Mills to speak before the geography classes on the subject of map modelling. The address was received with much interest. Later in the day he lectured on the subject of climate.

Wednesday afternoon, the junior class entertained the seniors and faculty at an informal party. The ladies were invited to bring their sewing and the gentlemen to talk to them. The guests were received by the Misses: Caroline Sigel, and Hazel Bush. Tables had been daintily arranged and from these were served chocolate and wafers; the making of the chocolate was supervised by Mrs. Ward M. Mills. About one hundred and fifty guests were present.

The regular Saturday night hop will be given at Fraternity Hall tonight. Music by the Peerless orchestra. (3-19-09)

Upper Peninsula

Hasn't a Hardware Store—Bessmer is probably the only city of 5,000 people in the state that has not an up-to-date hardware establishment. As it is all supplies in the line of tools, pipes, fittings and hardware specialties must be ordered out-of-town, to the great inconvenience of the citizens in need of goods in that line.

Customs Force May Be Cut—A feature of the tariff question is which the Soc is vitally interested relates to the placing of pulp and hides on the free list. The receipts from customs revenue at the Soc amount to about 98 per cent of the entire upper peninsula district. Of this between 60 and 70 per cent is derived from pulp and hides. The total receipts for the year will amount to about $130,000. With the removal of the tariff on hides and pulp it is easily seen to what extent the Soc's receipts would be diminished. The remaining percentage is made up of miscellaneous articles. It is impossible to state whether new legislation would increase the loss or offset it to some extent. Were the Soc's customs receipts to be so hard hit, it would mean a material reduction in the force. There are at present nineteen men employed. "It would make our customs force look sick," was the way the deputy collector, George P. McCallum, put it.

Those Interested in Sunday Schools to Enjoy Treat Next Friday Night.

The church and Sunday school people of Marquette are assured a rare treat next Friday night, at which time Herbert Moninger, one of the greatest Sunday school specialists in the country, will speak in this city. His reputation is such that the capacity of the First Methodist Episcopal church will probably be taxed to its utmost. Mr. Moninger, although young in years, has so completely mastered his specialty that he is said to be the greatest exponent in the world of Sunday school teacher training. The object of his tour through the upper peninsula is to arouse the Christian people of the cities to a realization of the importance and possibilities of better qualified workers in our Sunday schools, and the audience will be put through a course of training on Bible study and characters from the Bible that will be a surprise. The afternoon meeting will be held at 3 o'clock and the evening meeting at 7:30. A thousand people should hear Mr. Moninger in the evening.

THINKS HERMIT HER FATHER.

According to a letter received from her, Mrs. M. Lee, 335 Center street, Chicago, believes that she is the daughter of the late James James, who ended his life in his lonely cabin in the east end of the upper peninsula four years ago by blowing out his brains. Mrs. Lee says that her knowledge of the death of James came through the published reports of his suicide, which were brought about through the fact that the final proceedings in disposing of his estate were about to be taken. She says that James left his family about seven years ago, since which time she had heard nothing about him, until the recent article was called to her attention. She says that she is in possession of samples of her father's writing and through that will endeavor to prove her relationship to the dead man. James, before his death, lived the life of a hermit, four miles from Peck, where he was buried outside after a spouse. He would never speak of his past life or of his family, which have since remained a mystery to the authorities. His personal property was left to a Mrs. Tom Hansen, a woman who had befriended him.

PRICES WELL MAINTAINED.

Steel Concerns Are Reported to Be Receiving Considerable New Business.

A comfortable amount of new business is being received by the steel mills, and prices are for the most part being well maintained, says the Iron Trade Review. At Chicago, the leading interest received well distributed orders amounting to 32,000 tons, the largest amount for any week in the last eighteen months. Buyers of all kinds of machinery are urging reductions in prices and some manufacturers are yielding to the pressure. Some very low prices are being made on fabricated steel, but the price of the plain material seems to be maintained. The closing of nine plants having high production costs seems inevitable. The Eastern district of the Amalgamated association has declined to accept reductions in wage schedules and strikes may result. Although no additional orders for iron ore have been placed, some of the important consumers have made reservations with the understanding that orders will be placed as soon as prices are announced, and it is estimated that the shipments this year will exceed by about 4,000,000 tons those of last year. Leading ore interests are strongly opposed to any reduction of ore prices. There is considerable activity in structural iron. The demand for sheets has improved in the West, but there is some shading, especially on the corrugated product.

The Carnegie Steel company has made a second contract for steel wheels for a Chicago traction interest, which, including a previous contract, calls for about 20,000 wheels. The same company has also contracted with the Pennsylvania railroad for 10,000 steel wheels.

RESIGNS PRESIDENCY OF OLIVER COMPANY

THOMAS F. COLE WILL TAKE A WELL-EARNED REST AFTER THIRTY-NINE YEARS IN THE HARNESS—RUMOR SAYS W. J. OLCOTT WILL SUCCEED HIM.

Thomas F. Cole, formerly of Negaunee, has resigned the presidency of the Oliver Iron Mining company. The resignation will take effect in the near future. It is generally believed that William J. Olcott, vice president of the Oliver Iron Mining company and president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway, will be chosen to take Mr. Cole's place. Mr. Cole declined to make any statement as to his successor except to say that the place will be filled in due time. Mr. Olcott is in New York.

In an interview Mr. Cole said: "I have been actively engaged in mining and railroad work in the copper and iron districts of Lake Superior for thirty-nine consecutive years, with but little rest. The work during the past ten years has been particularly arduous, and the major portion of my time having been spent on railroad trains at night and around and in the mines during the day time. The business detail requiring careful attention during this period has been enormous in volume, the entire work taxing my physical strength severely. I have resigned to take effect in the near future and have planned to hereafter enjoy necessary recreation and adequate rest. I have formed no plans for the future except as above noted."

It is believed that Mr. Cole will not leave Duluth, but will continue to make his residence there. He has been closely associated with Duluth's growth and development, and is a large owner of real estate in that city. He is connected with several large business concerns at the head of the lakes. Mr. Cole is president of Oliver Iron Mining company, the Minnesota Iron Mining company, the Chandler Iron Mining company, and is largely identified with many other important mining enterprises. He is a director and one of the largest stockholders in the American exchange bank of Duluth and is identified with several valuable copper mining companies, notably the North Butte, Green Cananea, Calumet & Arizona, Giroux Consolidated Mines, company, Butte Coalition Mining Co., and a number of others. Owing to the success of these enterprises it is presumed that Mr. Cole feels that he will be much freer to devote his time to them with the duties of the president of the Oliver Iron Mining company eliminated.

Rumors that Mr. Cole would resign from his position have been current for several months, but confirmation could not be obtained until Wednesday, when he announced that he was glad to be relieved of the extensive duties devolving upon his office. It has been rumored that Joseph H. Cotton, general solicitor of the Oliver Iron Mining company and of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway, would resign simultaneously with Mr. Cole. Mr. Cole, however, made no statement in regard to the matter, and Mr. Cotton is in Chicago.

LABOR CANDIDATES HAD THEIR INNING

FIRST ORATORICAL GUNS OF THE CAMPAIGN FIRED AT THE OPERA HOUSE LAST NIGHT.

QUIET AND ORDERLY MEETING

Fair Sized Crowd Gathered to Hear What the Men Endorsed by the Labor Campaign Club Had to Say.

A crowd that comfortably filled the lower floor of the opera house attended the political mass meeting, held under the auspices of the Labor Campaign club last evening, and listened to talks by several of the candidates endorsed by the club. It was expected that some one would make an address, but as one candidate explained, no suitable man was found, and that part of the program was dispensed with. Although no wild and boisterous demonstration of political enthusiasm was manifested at the meeting, the speakers were one and all given close and respectful attention.

Kilmer's boys, who furnished the music for the evening, playing several selections on the street just before the meeting and later delighted those present in the opera house. This band, made up of twelve boys, ranging from nine to sixteen years, plays remarkably well, considering that they have been practicing less than three months, and they are a credit, not only to their director, but to the whole city as well.

Con Wellman, president of the club, presided at the meeting, and introduced Mayor Robertson, the present and next mayor, as the first speaker. Mr. Robertson stated that the office of mayor of Marquette was a hard one to fill, as everything that he did was certain to arouse opposition. While in office, he stated that he had done his very best, and was asking for reelection, not for the sake of getting the office, but for the solicitation of friends. Moreover, he was anxious to remain in the mayor's chair until the water problem had been solved. Speaking of the high taxes charged against his administration, he said that this city was made up of ambitious people, who now enjoyed the best of schools, most excellent streets and many other city improvements not enjoyed by other cities, and that the people would not be satisfied with anything less. He stated that he would strive to carry out much the same policies as had characterized his present term. He declared he had done the best that was in him for the welfare of the city and that he had little to be ashamed of and was willing to stand on his record. He spoke of the Washington street improvement as having been a wise expenditure, as it gave labor to home workmen in dull times.

William A. Ross, candidate for city recorder, was the next speaker introduced. He said that he had come to this city twenty-nine years ago, as a laboring man and had worked as a painter for Freeman Bros. He worked at his trade for many years and finally became manager of the opera house, which position he resigned in 1896 to become county clerk, serving in that capacity eight years. He hoped for a large vote and believed there was now more interest in local politics than at any time since he had been in the city. He considered this a good omen, as it meant a political awakening and education, that the bosses will not control ward politics, but that the voters will cast their ballots for the best men as determined by their own investigations. "If the ticket endorsed by the Labor Campaign club wins in this election, it will mean success for the labor interests of the city as well as for the candidates themselves," he said.

Walter T. Ward, candidate for alderman in the Fifth ward, devoted a large part of his remarks to a defense of Mayor Robertson and his administration. Having served as mayor and alderman and having been in city politics for twenty years, he said that he had found that every mayor during that time had come in for severe criticism and had been accused of grafting, but that none of the charges had ever been proved. He defended the higher taxes, saying that no one had suffered thereby and that all had benefited by the improvements for which the taxes had been expended. To give the mayor a second term, he said, would be a benefit to the taxpayers, as he knew what was needed and how to get it better than a new man. In conclusion he said: "If elected, I will use my experience and influence to the best of my ability for the benefit of the whole city. I have always been open in my actions and have never been nor am I now afraid to stand up for what I believe to be right."

William Clendenning, candidate for alderman in the Fourth ward, said that he had lived in the city twenty-nine years and that people ought to know pretty near what kind of a man he was. He stated that the statement had been made that he was once a station keeper, which he declared to be untrue. It has also been charged, he said, that he was in cahoots with Mayor Robertson and, if elected, would work to further some of the mayor's pet schemes. In reply, he asked the audience if, from their knowledge of him, they thought him that kind of a man. After stating that if elected he would do nothing that he need be ashamed of after the close of his term, he set down amid cries of "That will do," you will be elected."

Martin Sweder, candidate for a second term as supervisor from the Fourth ward, spoke very briefly and simply stated that he always had stood and expected to stand for honesty and to do what was right.

Henry Patenaude, candidate for alderman in the Third ward, said that it was the first time he had ever spoken to so large a crowd. He said that he was a laboring man and even now wore the overalls. He had lived in the Third ward on a homestead twenty-five years ago, and had ever since been a resident. He stated that he wanted the office for

LAND SPECULATORS OPPOSE MORRICE BILL

STRONG LOBBY FIGHTING MEASURE WHICH WOULD PUT THEM OUT OF BUSINESS.

Land speculators are said to be taking an exceedingly strong interest in the Morrice reforestation bill which would put a stop to this class of deals, and there are indications that the legislature will have to face the efforts of a strong lobby framed to kill the bill if possible.

The books in the auditor general's department show that in some counties there are over 7,000 descriptions of land delinquent for state taxes, to every 500 voters in the county. The reason for this very large number is furnished, not voluntarily, of course, by interests that are working hard to defeat the Morrice house bill, which provides for the better conservation of all state lands and the creation of forestry reserves. These interests are land speculators.

In some parts of the state speculators have for several years or more been selling alleged "sites" for summer cottages. Some of these "sites" are said to be a mile or more back from the water in the brush. More instances of suckers buying "unsight and unseen." Most of these "sites" get back on the delinquent tax roll, every one of them as a separate lot, and one paper in the county gets annually from the state treasury forty cents for advertising each description.

Carl E. Schmidt, of the special commission on forestry and tax lands, says that over one-half of the state tax lands have been on the auditor general's books for more than five years. Every year some party organ gets forty cents for advertising each description of these delinquent lands, and after they have been advertised the state once more, in a large majority of cases, has to bid them in and pay forty cents per description from the state treasury to reconvert them.

The Morrice bill, if enacted into a law, would put the class of speculators referred to out of business, for speculators could get no more state lands at bargain prices. It would also cut off about $30,000 of advertising annually, paid from the state treasury, which is always considered pure political pap. The paper that gets it is under obligations to boost the giver. Yet there is a lobby trying to defeat the Morrice bill so the old system can be retained.
