Some weeks ago Representative Mc Cabe introduced in the house at Lansing a perfectly good uniform ballot box bill which, if enacted into a law, would throw additional safeguards about the sanctity of the ballot and would apply the les sons that the press of the state was a unit last fall in asserting should be about the bill latterly, and fear that it is buried with the committee on elections and will, perchance, fail to see the before their constituents, trying to make interest at a rate not exceeding 5 pe light of day. In the meantime measures of much less consequence successively occupy the center of the stage.

No doubt about it at all, Mr. Fair banks of Indiana would do very nicely at St. James. He has a front of imperturbable dignity, a faculty of being able to talk on almost any subject and sufficient means to keep the embassy larder well stocked. Diplomatic circles at St. James would doubtless be well enough pleased to receive Mr. Fairbanks into their midst, and Mr. Fairbanks himself would doubtless be gratified to be asked to accept such an important post. Some weeks ago Alderman Downey, of the First ward, introduced a resolution in the council requesting the health committee to investigate into the conditions surrounding the conduct of the dairy business in Marquette and to make report. The committee, apparently, made no effort to carry out the instructions of the council. At least no one has heard all departments. of any report. At the first meeting of the new council Alderman Downey GENTLE BUT POSITIVE POINTERS, tiff in the assault and battery case is should reintroduce his resolution and have it referred to the new health committee. Perchance the results will be better. It is a matter of common knowiedge here that the dairy conditions leave much room for improvement. The dairies are run without supervision and many people are selling milk taken from eattle kept under unsanitary and disease breeding conditions. Not only the council, but the physicians of the city are dereliet in not demanding a proper supervision of all dairies and persons supplying milk to the public. Bad milk is a fruitful source of disease, particularly for infants and young children, and a community that permits the business of retailing milk without any measure of supervision cannot make any claim to being abreast of the times in the matter of safeguarding the public health.

Taking up the benefits obtained by unionism, Mr. Mitchell cited the decrease of 25 per cent in the annual death rate from tuberculosis among the cigar makers between 1888 and 1908. The decrease was barely noticeable among the nonunion workers. The speaker was especially severe in his denunciation of the conditions where women and children are compelled to work while strong mer chafe in idleness. He declared that this is due to lack of regulation in child labor, and said it was singular that it was allowed to go on when production
