

PROSECUTOR ORDERS AN INVESTIGATION

Grand Jury Will Look Into an Alleged Bribery Scandal Involving Both the Legislature and the Chicago City Council.

This the Outcome of a Suit Instituted by the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad for the Recovery of $525,000, Out of Which It Claims It Has Been Defrauded—Part of the Money Went to 'Influence' Legislation, Says the Defendant.

Chicago, April 29.—An investigation of an alleged bribery scandal involving the Chicago & Western Indiana railroad, the Illinois legislature as composed two years ago, the city council of Chicago and sums of money which may run between $500,000 and $1,000,000 and which were paid to State's Attorney Wayman here today.

Mr. Wayman ordered the impounding of a special grand jury. His action is based on allegations made by John C. Fetzer, who was sued today by the Chicago & Western Indiana for the recovery of $525,000, which sum the railroad avers that Fetzer defrauded the company out of in real estate transactions. Fetzer has asked an injunction to enjoin the prosecution, alleging that parts of the money which the road seeks to recover went to influence legislation both at Springfield and Chicago.

Story of the Case. About three years ago Fetzer, with Benjamin Thomas, then president of the Western Indiana, and Charles R. Kappes, a real estate expert, set about to acquire a right-of-way into this city. The road alleges that Fetzer acted as its agent, while Fetzer declares that he simply was a speculator who purchased land and sold it to the company. In February last charges were made that Fetzer, Thomas and Kappes had defrauded the company out of $850,000 in these deals. Suit was threatened by the road, but later the matter, under agreement, was referred to former Judge E. G. Field as arbitrator. Judge Field's award held that gross fraud had been perpetrated upon the railroad and ordered the refunding of $525,000. Recently, it leaked out today, Thomas and Kappes were retained by the company a total of $75,000, stating that this sum exhausted their individual resources. Fetzer refused to abide by the award, and today suit was brought against him. The suit also names Thomas and Kappes.

Confidential Letter Is Offered. Fetzer's bill for an injunction included an exhibit in which he offered to the Western Indiana, and the representative of that road on the board of directors of the Western Indiana. The letter, which is dated March 1, 1907, marked confidential and addressed to Thomas, reads: "I enclose a letter from C. N. Travous, which explains itself. This is written as a result of a conference which Mr. Travous had with Judge Henley at the time we sold our notes to Boston parties. I believe we should, in a quiet way, get the legislation which Judge Henley and our counsel have concluded is desirable. It is a bad thing to have something of this kind brought up by the bankers every time we have to do any negotiating for the sale of securities. It might give us very serious trouble. We are kind of on the Burlington, where a rather unscrupulous lawyer got hold of a technicality of this kind and gave us a great deal of trouble."

Mr. Delano said today that the meaning of the letter would stand out in innocuous innocence had Fetzer appended the letter of Mr. Travous.

He Explains the Matter. Mr. Delano said that when the Western Indiana and two smaller roads were consolidated three years ago, the consolidation contained a technical flaw, according to some lawyers, including Travous. Under the Illinois law two roads might consolidate but three. They might consolidate and take in a third. The Western Indiana was formed in the former way, and upon the occasion of the sale of the $8,000,000 notes of the road three years ago Attorney Travous pointed out the alleged flaw. Mr. Delano said that it was plain that if some unscrupulous lawyer discovered the situation, he might make trouble, and particularly for the innocent bondholders. He said that in all the road had $46,000,000 in bonds which might be involved. Hence the road wished for the validation of the act and wanted it done in a "quiet" way to avoid perturbing the bondholders, who might exaggerate the technicality.

Mr. Delano said that the only opposition to the bill (No. 777) was in connection with a story which came out that the bill was introduced to validate certain financial operations of the Chicago & Alton. The bill had then gone to the second reading. Mr. Delano said that he personally explained to several members of the legislature the exact nature of the bill, and that Thomas personally stated to Morton D. Hull, a member of the legislature, that no money was being used or would be used to bring about the passage of the act.

Slush Fund Story an Invention. Mr. Delano said that the story of a slush fund was gotten up by Fetzer or his counsel to divert attention from the real issue. He said that the road was robbed, and it demanded restitution. He declared that it was no adequate defense to say that this money, though stolen, was used for the benefit of the

CUMMINS PLAN IS BOWLED OVER

Iowa Insurgent's Substitute for the Crawford-Elkins Traffic Agreement Provision Is Defeated in the Senate, 29 to 35.

This Vote Is the First Test of the Strength of Contending Sides and Is Taken to Indicate the Passage of the Railroad Bill by a Safe Majority—LaFollette Assails the Measure and Is Heard by the 'Regulars' With Manifest Impatience.

Washington, April 29.—By a vote of thirty-five to twenty-nine, and in the midst of intense excitement, the administration Republicans today defeated the Cummins substitute for the Crawford-Elkins agreement provision of the railroad bill. This is one of the most important sub-divisions of the bill. The vote was generally accepted as a test of the strength of the contending sides, respectively, and it is believed it presages the passage of the bill by a safe majority.

Of the total membership of ninety-two, twenty-eight senators did not vote, and of these four were absent without being paired. All were Democrats. All eighteen Democrats present voted for the Cummins provision, so that if the Democrats absent and unpaired had voted for the amendment, the vote in favor would have been thirty-three, or still less by two than that voted against the provision. Eleven Republicans voted for the Cummins substitute, as follows: Beveridge, Borah, Bristow, Burkett, Clapp, Cummins, Dixon, Dooliver, Gamble, LaFollette and Nelson.

Anti-Trust Law Involved. The Cummins provision was offered as a substitute for the amendment introduced by Senator Crawford and which was favored by the administration supporters. The insurgents and the Democrats contended that the purpose of the Crawford provision was to take the railroads out from under the Sherman anti-trust law. It would permit traffic agreements to be made with the approval of the commerce commission, but would not require that each rate, fare and charge be submitted to the commission in advance of going into effect. This was required by the Cummins substitute.

Senator Cummins, after the defeat of his provision today, gave notice of another amendment intended to accomplish his purpose. The Iowa senator also seeks to insert a proviso declaring that no increased or revised classification shall take effect until it shall have received the approval of the commission. It is general understanding that the voting will be resumed tomorrow, and it is expected that all the amendments, including the Cummins provision, will be voted down and that the Crawford provision will be adopted.

Senator LaFollette Speaks. Before the vote today Senator LaFollette came in with a personal appeal. His speech was a plea against the annulment of the Sherman anti-trust law as applicable to the railroads without supplying adequate protection in its absence. It was a remarkable speech, in many respects, and it was delivered under somewhat trying circumstances. The senate, as well as its presiding officer, evidently wanted to vote, and while most of the senators retained their seats there was manifest impatience, at least among the advocates of the bill. Senator Frye presided.

Declaring that the standard in the senate had declined since 1890, when the anti-trust law was enacted, and asserting that law to be, next to the Constitution, the principal bulwark of the liberties of the people, Mr. LaFollette warned his colleagues, and especially the Western senators, against being the first to impair the law.

Raps the Administration. "We are come upon a time when the country has an administration which is ready to stand for legislation which never before could have been attempted with any prospect of success, and we must vote," shouted Mr. LaFollette, with tremendous earnestness, "whether we will make the first breach in this statute under the best of those who have been attacking it for ten years." Taking up the Republican platform, Senator LaFollette asserted that the party platforms frequently came nearer representing the views of interested parties than those of the people at large, and that in reality the senate committee's recommendation did not coincide with the party declarations. Rising to his tiptoes and stretching an arm toward the Republican side, he proceeded to present his view of the transactions at the Chicago convention. "When," he said, "the hour came to call together the committee on resolutions, there were the heads of the greatest trusts in the country."

The Wisconsin senator declared that not only the Republican party, but the Democratic party also, would find it necessary to protect itself from these influences, for, he said, "the same gentlemen that were in Chicago went also to Denver." He asserted that not only must the Republican party disentangle itself from such encumbrances, but it must free itself from certain leadership in both branches of congress.

House Also Considers the Bill. In the house also the railroad bill was under consideration all day. Numerous amendments were offered, most of

BULLS ON COTTON HAVE UPPER HAND

Close of the Day's Transactions on the New York Exchange Apparently Finds Them More Strongly Entrenched Than Ever

Two Hundred Thousand Bales Are Turned Over to Them and Are Absorbed Without So Much as a Tremor, Although the Process Is One Involving $15,000,000—This and Other Things Help the Stock Market, and Prices Improve Materially.

New York, April 29.—Two hundred thousand bales of cotton were swallowed up by the bulls en masse on the New York Cotton exchange on this, the first day of the May "notices," without so much as a tremor. Fifteen millions dollars, it is estimated, went from the bull pockets in the course of the transactions, but so easy was the cotton absorbed that, after a preliminary flurry, there was no great excitement. At the end of the day's operations, the bull leaders—Patten, Scates, Hayne and Brown—were apparently more strongly entrenched than ever. The transactions were twice as large as any previous day's business in the history of the exchange.

Stock Market Improves.

New York, April 29.—The stock market today felt the benefit of the corrective measures which have been applied to weak points in the situation. The effect of these measures was especially notable in the money market, where the call rate ran off to the lowest of the week, contrasted with a 2 per cent rate yesterday, the highest since the first of the year. As today's loans on the stock exchange carry over until Monday, this rate represents a satisfactory end of the month condition. The settlements not being sufficient to keep the rate up. An important factor in this was the cotton market settlement, the heavy notices on May contracts being taken care of by the bull leaders in that market. The amounts recalled from the stock market for this purpose are believed to have been very large and to account for much of the flurry yesterday. The settlement demonstrated the strength of the bull position in cotton and emphasized the precarious position of the shorts in May cotton. The estimates of the week's currency movement showed a substantial inflow of cash from other points and a corresponding relief from the drain of the week's gold exports and sub-treasury operations. Confidence is growing that with the actual adoption of the British budget, which was accomplished today, the London money market will find itself amply prepared to meet the special requirements involved.

Strong influence was felt from a report that the Western railroads had notified the interstate commerce commission that they will file schedules for increased freight rates next Monday. The March reports for some of the largest of the Western systems, including Union Pacific, published today, show so heavy an expansion in operating cost as to overbalance the gains in the gross earnings and thus establish a material reduction in the net earnings from March of last year. The spreading movement for increased wages emphasizes the tendency of the railroad managers to increase the compensation for transportation. This factor was notably effective in the case of St. Paul, although the whole railroad list responded to the decision to increase the freight-carrying rates.

FREIGHT RATES ARE GOING UP.

Railroads Take Steps to Meet Their Increased Operating Expenses.

Washington, April 29.—Freight tariffs showing increases over the present rates from the Western territory to the Atlantic seaboard will be filed with the interstate commerce commission to become effective June 1. This is the first step taken by the railroads which appears to indicate a purpose generally to increase freight rates throughout the country in order to enable them to meet the increased operating expenses. Already tariffs have been filed increasing the rate on wool 20 per cent from Minneapolis and St. Paul to New York and other Atlantic points. An increase also has been made in the freight rate on live hogs between Minneapolis and St. Paul and Chicago of two and half cents a hundred pounds. This is an increase of 12 per cent. Higher meat tariffs also was expected. The tariffs have already been filed for all the roads in the Western freight association territory.

HITS THE WESTERN UNION.

Court Decision Largely Increases the Company's Taxation in Kansas.

St. Louis, April 29.—The United States circuit court of appeals today decided that the Western Union must pay taxes on $3,150,322 in Kansas, instead of on $848,100. The company made a sworn return that the value of its property was but $848,100, but the state commission increased it to more than three million.

The missionaries had about twenty converts, and only nine escaped. Both missionaries were bound and left lying on the beach in the tropical sun for hours. Later they were butchered and eaten.

THINK WHITE SLAVERS HAVE KIDNAPPED THEM.

Police of Half a Dozen Cities Are Searching for Two Girls Who Disappeared from Milwaukee Ten Days Ago.

Appleton, Wis., April 29.—The police of a half dozen cities tonight are searching for Lillian Nelson, of Appleton, nineteen years old, and Sylvia Grimes, of Columbus, Ohio, seventeen years old, and the persons who are said to be holding them captives. The girls were kidnapped, it is charged, from Milwaukee ten days ago by alleged white slave traffickers. Detectives learned today that the girls and their alleged captors were at International Falls, Minn., and were on the way to Canada. A letter bearing the names of Miss Grimes, but in a man's handwriting, was received today from International Falls, saying that the girls would be taken across the border. Miss Nelson's younger brother died two days after she disappeared. Her grandmother, Mrs. Martha Doran, who is wealthy, is critically ill from worry, while her mother is also ill. Mrs. Doran declares that she will spend a fortune in the search. At Milwaukee, according to the detectives, the party was joined by an elderly man and a gray-haired woman, who furnished railroad tickets for the pair to Duluth, Superior, St. Paul and International Falls.

Revolted Traffic Disclosed at New York.

New York, April 29.—Although the Rockefeller grand jury appointed to inquire into the white slave traffic has made no formal report, District Attorney Whitman has obtained proof that it is possible to buy girls for immoral purposes in New York. Tonight four girls, all under eighteen, who were purchased by special agents of the district attorney, are in the care of his office. Mr. Whitman announced that three persons accused of violating the law against procuring are under arrest. Two women and a man formerly connected with the government service were employed as agents in the case. In negotiating for the purchase of the girls, they represented themselves as procuring agents for disorderly houses in Seattle, Wash., and Juneau, Alaska. The district attorney said his agents established friendly and confidential relations with the most influential procurers and dealers. The agents in some cases told of corrupt relations existing between the traders and certain police officials.

Chicago, April 29.—After fifty-one minutes and thirty-one seconds of strenuous wrestling by Stanislaus Zbysko, the Pole, and Jesse Westergaard, of Iowa, here tonight, the bout came to an abrupt end through the severe wrenching of the ligaments of Westergaard's left leg. Under the rules of the game, the bout was given to Zbysko, but later he refused to accept the victory, saying that he would like to meet Westergaard again, as Westergaard is a good wrestler. Only once was there a probability of a fall, and when the Pole seemed a sure winner, Westergaard, with a quick turn, however, threw himself out of danger.

DUTCH GREET HIM WITH ENTHUSIASM

Roosevelt's Reception in the Land of His Forefathers Is One of the Most Notable Recorded in All His Travels.

At Every Station on the Journey from the Frontier, Cheering Crowds Are Met With and Everybody Wants a Speech—The Royal Castle Is Visited, and Then Amsterdam and The Hague—The Cordiality of the People Remarkable.

The Hague, April 30.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt and Ethel and Kermit Roosevelt were the guests of The Netherlands today, arriving this morning from Brussels. They were escorted from the frontier station, Rosendaal to Het Loo, where at the royal chateau they were received by Queen Wilhelmina. The greeting of the queen and Prince Henry was most cordial. Later a luncheon was served. At every station of the route from Rosendaal to Arnhem, cheering crowds were met with, and everybody wanted a speech. Occasionally Mr. Roosevelt responded. Tonight the party went to Amsterdam, where they were entertained at dinner by the burgomaster. They will arrive in The Hague at midnight. The lavishly gilded coach used by the royal family upon gala occasions has been placed by the queen at the disposal of Mr. Roosevelt during his stay here.

Big Demonstration at The Hague.

The Hague, Saturday, April 30.—Theodore Roosevelt was welcomed here at midnight with an astonishing demonstration. Masses were waiting at the railway station and when he alighted from the train they swept him along toward his carriage. The police were powerless to check the rushes, in which many were thrown to the ground. Mr. Roosevelt and Kermit were driven through decorated streets to the hotel. Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel had left Amsterdam on an earlier train. A great crowd, cheering and waving the stars and stripes, remained outside the hotel. Mr. Roosevelt was compelled to appear on the balcony. The crowd remained some time, singing patriotic songs. Mr. Roosevelt and his family will be received today by the queen mother. Altogether Theodore Roosevelt's visit to the land of his forefathers was a notable one. From the time that his train reached Rosendaal, on the frontier, until he retired here early today, the cordiality of the people was remarkable.

Visit to the Royal Castle.

When Mr. Roosevelt arrived at the summer home of Queen Wilhelmina at Het Loo, the prince consort was on the front steps, awaiting him. Prince Henry, without introduction, shook the American's hand and assisted him to alight from the royal automobile, which had brought the party from Arnhem. After meeting Mrs. Roosevelt, Ethel and Kermit, the prince escorted them shown to their rooms. Afterward they were received by the queen. Wilhelmina took Colonel Roosevelt's arm when luncheon was announced, and the prince escorted Mrs. Roosevelt. The queen could not show the little baby princess, as the baby and her nurse had been vaccinated yesterday morning. The Roosevelts spent about two hours at Het Loo and then took a train to Amsterdam.

The Burgomaster and distinguished citizens received the party in Amsterdam. There was a great assembly at the station. The crowd uncovered as the ex-president appeared and followed this with noisy shouts of welcome as the American drove about the city, sight-seeing. At a public meeting in the free square, awaiting him, Prince Roosevelt spoke from the pulpit to about eight hundred persons.

His Glad Song Makes Hit.

"I am glad to come back to the home of my forefathers," Mr. Roosevelt began. "I am proud of the fact that I have good Dutch blood in my veins. My people left here before Rembrandt and the Ruyter were known. I am sorry that I cannot speak the Dutch that my grandparents taught me. One cradle son, however, I still remember." Here Mr. Roosevelt recited a lullaby in which he figured, to the delight of his hearers. He then spoke on citizenship. He was cheered enthusiastically, and the organ burst forth with the "Star Spangled Banner."

Early in the evening the municipality of Amsterdam gave a dinner to the former president. After the dinner Mr. Roosevelt left for this city.

Washington, April 29.—Prince Tsai Tao, brother of the prince regent of China, this morning visited the Washington navy yard and the Capitol. The prince was later given a luncheon by Secretary Knox and then boarded the president's yacht Mayflower for Mount Vernon. The prince placed a wreath upon Washington's tomb.

Kern, endorsed as the Democratic candidate for the United States senate in Indiana, was a candidate when Senator Shively was elected, and there was a strong feeling that he should have been elected at that time. He is one of the warhorses of the Indiana Democracy and was the party candidate for vice president in the campaign of 1908. He is much the strongest candidate the Indiana Democrats can put forward. If Senator Beveridge is unable to save the state and secure the election of a Republican majority in the legislature he will join Senator Shively in Washington shortly after the first of the new year.

Deputy Game Warden Hogan of Ne-ganee has, apparently, violated a rule of the department. He has reported to the newspapers a half dozen convictions of violators and other cases now pending, despite the fact that we were given to understand it was against the policy of the department to make public such information. However that may be, the public is doubtless pleased to learn that Mr. Hogan has been active in the enforcement of the game laws, investigation of complaints and punishment of violators. We hope he will continue to give reports of the progress of his work to the newspapers, for such a course will conduce to a good understanding of the value of his service and, if the record revealed is a creditable one, will result in his hands being strongly upheld by the people. As far as Mr. Hogan has gone, he appears to have done well, and we are emboldened to believe that creditable reports will continue to be received from him.

OSBORN VS. MCKINLAY.

At the Zach Chandler banquet at Lansing, Representative McKinlay of Illinois, the chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, saw fit to attack the honesty and integrity of the American press, and repeated the mauling slur that the newspapers are questioning the wisdom of recent tariff legislation because they did not get free pulp for their print paper. Representative McKinlay charged that the public is not able to get the real news in the published reports of happenings in Washington and that the press reports are distorted and colored to serve the ulterior purposes of the publishers.

Representative McKinlay doubtless expected to get away with this and a lot of similar rot, but he didn't. His statements and the whole line of his argument was vigorously assailed by Chase S. Osborn in a spirited address that awakened the assemblage to the greatest enthusiasm it displayed during the evening. And when Mr. Osborn had paid his respects to the arrant nonsense that Representative McKinlay had, with such solemn mien, put forward as "food for thought," Amos Musselman said a hearty Amen to Mr. Osborn's counter-attack, and took a few side jabs at the Illinois statesman, to insure good measure.

"We have 400,000 publications in America which have a readership of practically all the people in this nation," said Mr. Osborn, in part. "In this state there are over 600 newspapers alone, more than 300 of which are fighting the battles of the Republican party. When many of us are at home each week or day, these papers come out preaching the gospel of Republicanism and if perchance they disagree with some measure or some man, it is no indication that they are dishonest, or subsidized and I believe that if they were the future would be gloomy indeed." Great applause greeted this statement.

Mr. Osborn declared that the censorship of the press lies in two directions, first with the newspaper reading public and, second, with the libel laws. "Mr. McKinlay tells you you cannot get the truth from Washington," he said; "I know many correspondents at Washington and I know they are honest. Some support the insurgents and some do not. But they are honest. If you believe that it is impossible to find the truth of doings in Washington in the newspapers, get the congressional records. You will find it there. He never mentioned that route."

Again Mr. Osborn said: "Mr. McKinlay declares that insurgency will pass away like a summer cloud. I believe insurgency is a pretty good thing if you insure for the right things. If insurgency means progress, if insurgency means better men, if insurgency means greater honesty, if insurgency means higher ideals, if insurgency means the good of the many at the expense of the few, then, my friends, that is a good thing and the Republican party can afford it."

Mr. Osborn's reference to gubernatorial politics was brief, but he pledged his undeviating and loyal support to the whole ticket, no matter what the outcome of the primaries. His remarks are commented on by the lower state press as having taken the assemblage by storm, and their reception brought the applause and enthusiasm to the highest point it reached during the evening. His valiant and impressive defense of the American press against the attack of Representative McKinlay struck a popular chord with his audience, as was shown by the emphatic approval given it, and his expression of sympathy with enlightened insurgency, wherever it is found, the insurgency that makes for better men in office, greater honesty in public service and a higher regard for the welfare of the many against the coddling of the few, brought a demonstration of approval that showed Mr. Osborn's sentiments were echoed by all his hearers.

It will afford newspaper men particular satisfaction that Mr. Osborn so vigorously contradicted Representative McKinlay in his repetition of baseless charges against their profession. Too many men of McKinlay's ilk are making these attacks and getting away with them. They are themselves muckrakers of the school that it is their wont to deery, and it is a pleasure to know that at least one of their number was called to an accounting.

INRUSH OF IMMIGRATION.

It is said that ex-President Roosevelt's talks and the receptions which are being extended to him by crowned heads and populace wherever he goes, are stimulating emigration to the United States. This is probably true, although other influences are at work in the same direction. It is noted that the bookings for passage to the United States from Hamburg, Liverpool and other big ports in Europe at the present moment are beyond the capacity of the vessels, and that several weeks more will elapse before the shipping can catch up with the work already cut out for it.

For several months past there has been a rapid expansion in immigration. Europe is quick to learn when times are good in the United States, and, with the present facilities for passage, it is quick to take advantage of them. The volume of trade here is larger than it ever was before. This fact is brought out in many ways—in the aggregate of railway traffic, in the swelling bank clearings, and in the unexampled importation of foreign goods. Our own producers are not able to keep up with the home demand, and manufacturers and consumers are compelled to go to Europe and the rest of the world for supplies. Americans have more money than a year ago and are spending it freely. Seldom has there been so few idle men in the United States as are here at this time.

In the fiscal year 1910, which closes on June 30, the immigration record will not be broken, and possibly it will not be broken in the calendar year which ends on December 31. The 1,000,000 mark, however, will be crossed in the fiscal year. That line was never touched except three times. The immigration was 1,027,000 in 1905, 1,000,000 in 1906 and 1,285,000 in 1907. The panic which struck the country in the closing months of 1907 sent the immigration down to 782,000 in 1908 and to 751,000 in 1909. Then came the upward turn, and for the past few weeks the biggest record of 1907 was broken. From present indications 1911 will score a new "highest" in the inflow of homeseekers. The lure of America is still strong in Europe and elsewhere. For intelligent, forceful, ambitious persons in all parts of the Old World the United States is emphatically still the land of promise.

A LAUGH OR TWO.

He Was of Another Clan.

Scotch Highlanders, who still speak the Gaelic at times, settled much of the country north of Toronto. One day Dr. Rutherford, locally famous, was looking for some men to do some work for him. He went to a village blacksmith shop and found several of these Scotchmen standing about. "Are you a mechanic?" he asked one of them. "Nay," he replied. "I'm a McCuig," Saturday Evening Post.

Ransom's Reformation.

A few years ago there was a shiftless colored boy named Ransom Blake, who after being caught in a number of petty delinquencies, was at last sentenced to a short term in the penitentiary, where he was sent to learn a trade. On the day of his return home he met a friendly white acquaintance who asked: "Well, what did they put you at in the prison, Rans?" "They started in to make an honest boy out of me, sah," "That's good, Rans, and I hope they succeeded," "I did, sah," "And how did they teach you to be honest?" "They done put me in the shoe shop, sah, makin' pasteboard outer shoes for leather soles, sah,"—Salt Lake City Herald.

Just then the door bell rang. "May I see the head of the house a moment?" asked the waiting maid. "He is not at home," said the suffragette, slamming the door, and resuming her oratory. "Let me see, where was I?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

WAITRESS ON DINING CAR.

This One of Few Is Wife of Steward and Shuns Flippancy.

Mrs. Alma Garnier of Carroll, Ia., has the distinction of being one of the few waitresses on a dining car in the United States. Mrs. Garnier does the serving on the diner between Sioux City and Carroll on the Northwestern road.

The little waitress says she likes her job; that people are nice to her, and she is going to "stay at it." She has been on the run for a little more than five months, and her appearance has been a revelation to many of the wearied travelers who enter the diner for a meal as much as to pass away the time as to satisfy an appetite.

Even though the waitress' name begins with a "Mrs." her position possesses its romantic side. On the same car with her works as steward a dapper, black-haired young man, of whom she appears to take no more notice while at work than of any of her customers. That man is her husband, Alma Garnier.

Before coming to western Iowa, Mr. Garnier was employed in one of the big restaurants of Chicago. It was while he was there that R. R. Matters, superintendent of dining cars for the Northwestern, asked Garnier to take a job as steward on one of his dining cars. Garnier said he was married and could not. He did not want to be away from his wife.

Mr. Matters kept asking Garnier to accept a railroad position, and Garnier finally said, as much in a spirit of humor as of seriousness, that he would come West and go a diner if Mr. Matters would get his wife a job, too. Two weeks later Mr. Matters told him he had decided to let Mrs. Garnier and her husband have a tryout on a diner between Sioux Falls and Carroll.

While at work Mrs. Garnier wears a white waist and a black skirt. Her pretty attractiveness draws the eyes of all who see her, yet her air warns away all flirtatious remarks or "You look good to me" glances.—Sioux City Journal.

THE CALL OF THE BLOOD.

S.S.S. CURES RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is a specific blood fermentation, a souring of the circulation from an excess of uric acid accumulating in the blood stream. This uratic impurity comes usually as a result of constipation, weak kidneys, indigestion and stomach disturbances. These systemic irregularities may not be of marked severity or of long duration, but each has a direct effect on the eliminative members of the body, which prevents the proper removal of the waste products. This refuse remains in the stomach and bowels, and souring forms uric acid, which the blood quickly absorbs.

Rheumatism is usually manifested in the joints and muscles. It is here its sharpest twinges of pain are felt, and stiffening of ligaments and tendons first commences. The pain of Rheumatism is caused by the contact of the sensory nerves with the gritty, acid formation which uric acid causes to accumulate in the corpuscles of the blood about the joints. The stiffening of muscles and joints is usually gradual. As the blood deposits the uric acid into the joints, and slowly the natural fluids are dried up and destroyed. Then Rheumatism becomes chronic and serious. Rheumatism is sometimes inherited, for like all blood diseases it can be transmitted to offspring. This explains why some persons are afflicted with the disease, and suffer its pains, who have otherwise been perfectly healthy.

S.S.S. cures Rheumatism and cures it permanently. It goes into the circulation, and removes the uric acid, purifies the blood, and in this way destroys the cause. S.S.S. changes the blood from a sour, acid-steeped stream to a rich, healthy fluid, which quiets the excited nerves, eases the throbbing muscles and painful joints, and filters out of the circulation the irritating matter which causes every painful symptom of the disease. When the blood has been purified and enriched by S.S.S., it nourishes the different members that have been weakened and starved because of imperfect blood. RHEUMATISM FORTY YEARS. I suffered with lumbago for a long time, and speaking of it to a friend one day he told me to try S.S.S. I did so, and was cured. It was helping me. I had rheumatism for more than forty years, having contracted it in the army, but S.S.S. cured me sound and well, and have had no return of the trouble. I think S.S.S. has no equal for curing Rheumatism. THOS. POTTS, 111 Main St., Johnston City, Pa.

When asked regarding the big merger that the railroad commission held up because of lack of information concerning its valuation, he stated that instead of asking the state for bonds for one big company, that each branch of the syndicate of power plants, electric lines, etc., would issue bonds separately. He declared that it would be a good many years before the An. Sable and other streams which they have in view as possible power producers could be placed on a paying basis.

He retreated, and pulled his trusty pocketknife to sever the hose. Again he rushed into the chilling stream and again he retreated. Satisfied that the wife had finally backed off and the goods still remain in the possession of the wife.

MUSKOGEE—An ordinance changing the ratio of one saloon to every 700 population, as allowed by the Warner-Crampton law, to be one to about every 700 population, is being considered by the new administration. Its object is to thwart the ambitions of a number of would-be saloonkeepers who are awaiting the census returns to make application for licenses. The present number of saloons in Muskogee is forty-two, the limit as based on the Warner-Crampton law. The new census will show a population of more than 30,000, leaving the field open for at least eighteen more saloons. It is to check this proposed increase in the number of saloons and head off a possible local option fight that the ordinance is being considered by the city council.

Mr. Hill has sold the remainder of his herd of elk to the National Canadian park at Banff and the animals will be shipped as soon as they can be corralled. Copper Country Concern Is Formed to Deal in Arkansas Lands.

A Houghton county corporation has been formed to deal in farm lands in Union county, Arkansas. It is known as the Superior Fruit & Land company. This concern has procured an option on 4,200 acres owned by B. T. Murphy, of which 1,200 acres are under cultivation. On this land are peach and pear groves and a cotton gin. The purchase price is approximately $64,000, on which the company has already paid $1,000. It has decided to dispose of 3,000 shares of stock at $25 per share to raise the balance. John E. MacKay of Hancock is secretary. The other officers are: President, Henry Fisher, superintendent of Calumet & Hecla stamp mill at Lake Linden; vice president, Dr. W. G. Orr of Lake Linden; treasurer, Henry Opal, president of First National bank of Hubbell.

ANNUAL TAX SALE.

County Treasurer Rashleigh Will Offer Delinquents Tuesday.

County Treasurer Rashleigh will hold the annual sale of delinquent tax lands at his office in the county building Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. It is expected that not more than 200 descriptions will be offered for sale as is shown in the publication of the official notice a number of owners have come in and paid their taxes. Fully 200 descriptions have been taken from the list in this way.

Mr. Rashleigh says that the list of delinquent taxpayers in Houghton county is growing smaller annually. Taxes for 1907 and 1908 are being paid daily in his office and the county's standing in the matter of taxes is growing better in consequence. The delinquent tax list of Houghton county is the smallest in the state and it looks every year as if eventually, and at no distant date, it will be a thing of the past.

PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

Spanish War Veterans Take Initiative—Military Orders Aid.

The Spanish War Veterans have taken the initiative in planning a proper observance of Memorial Day, May 30, and the other military orders of Houghton and Hancock are co-operating. A joint committee of George Millar camp, United Spanish War Veterans; Stiles post, G. A. R.; the Houghton Light Infantry, and the Hancock Naval Reserve will meet Sunday to discuss the program of observance. The following is the committee:

ESTIMATE OF POPULATION.

One Enumerator Believes Houghton Will Not Exceed Six Thousand.

The work of the census enumerators is virtually completed in Houghton and it is possible to estimate the population of Houghton. For some reason the enumerators are chary about giving out information, having the idea that the law forbids, but one enumerator says that he knows of nothing in the rules to this effect. This enumerator had the West Houghton territory, west from Dakota street. In that territory he registered only 1,725 persons.

Mining News

ORE EXTRACTION AT MIAMI.

The Miami Copper company intends to adopt the auxiliary-raise and sub-level stopping method, and the mining officials of the company are confident that this will be a great success. As mining progresses the width of the rooms may be increased, or a great many of the pillars may be broken and drawn with the ore mined by this method. At the same time the mine is being blocked out so that a change to the top slicing or sub-level caving methods may be effected without great trouble, if such a change be at any time desired. The management is of the opinion that the auxiliary-raise and sub-level stopping method affords the greatest safety to the men and will give a large tonnage per man, besides securing a high percentage of extraction and clean ore. At the same time the mining operations are free of loss of backing or by caving or admixture of capping will be eliminated.

THE PORPHYRY COPPERS.

The porphyry coppers are going to make good (of course we refer only to those that have been properly engineered), says the Engineering and Mining Journal. There is no question about this, Utah and Nevada having amply demonstrated their possibilities. Nevertheless, there are going to be disappointments among them, as we have previously indicated. This is going to result from over-estimation of grade of ore, extractions of copper, and cost of mining.

One of the absurdities of porphyry promotions is the uniform assumption that their copper is going to cost nine cents per pound. Mr. Channing, an expert on these matters, has announced this estimate for Miami, in which case there appears to be an excellent probability of realization, and ever since the same has been adopted by nearly everyone else without consideration in all cases.

Now, it is manifestly unlikely that all of the Arizona porphyries are going to realize the same figure. For one thing this does not recognize the effect of difference in grade of ore. For example, take two mines of identical physical characteristics, permitting a mining and milling cost of $2 per ton in each case, whereof one yields thirty pounds and the other forty pounds of copper per ton. The cost per pound of copper up to this stage will be respectively 62.3 and 5 cents per ton, which is a material difference. As between two mines, this difference may, of course, be reduced by some condition favorable to mining and milling, but on the other hand, it may be increased. So we look for some of the new porphyry copper to cost ten, eleven and even twelve cents, instead of the nine cents that looks so well in promoters' prospectuses.

In the steam-shovel mining of these thick ore bodies, covered usually by a thick overburden, many problems have had to be solved and conditions have

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organs and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic. "Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits. It makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. tially with only the concentrates from the Utah Copper and Boston Consolidated companies. At the present time the Garfield has only enough crude ore to run it a few months, and some of the flux from Nevada Consolidated mine is being shipped in. The United States company has not finished construction work on its copper furnaces as yet. In the meantime this furnace is developing some copper. Mr. Cushing, vice president, and his engineers in the field inspecting other prospective copper fields near the local market.

The threatened litigation by certain minority stockholders of the Parrot Silver & Copper company will not materialize. John J. Cushing, who has been employed as counsel to care for the interests of some 20,000 shares of minority stock, the bulk of which was held in New Jersey, now says that his clients have in some way been "satisfied" with the result that there will be no controversy. His clients went so far as to have Mr. Cushing make arrangements by telegraph with a Butte attorney to represent them in that city should litigation actually be commenced. The Amalgamated management has considerably more than sufficient proxies to carry out the proposed plan for selling the Parrot property to the Anaconda company in exchange for 90,000 shares of Anaconda. Many small stockholders, desirous of obtaining additional information regarding the merger plans, have recently visited 42 Broadway, New York, and have left feeling satisfied and have given their proxies to be voted in favor of the merger.

Contracts for grading the railroad to be built by the Utah company from its mine in Bingham to the mills at Garfield and Coperton have been let. This work will cost $1,000,000. The laying of the track and equipping the line will cost upwards of $2,000,000 additional. The line will be sixteen miles in length, and will greatly facilitate the handling of ore from both the Utah Copper and Boston Consolidated properties. Later on it is probable that the line will be extended around the end of the mountain to the Garfield Smelting company, a distance of four miles. The railroad will provide a much shorter route for hauling ores, the present line traversing a distance of about twenty-seven miles. The Utah Copper railroad will be completed within twelve to eighteen months. The construction forces employed during the summer months will comprise about 4,000 men, and several tunnels of considerable length will be driven through the mountain to shorten the line and insure regular operation through the severest winter weather.

Upper Peninsula

Will Make Many Bricks.

William J. Turner is planning to manufacture several million bricks at his works near Vulcan, Dickinson county, this season. The plant is one of the largest in the peninsula.

Postmaster Wanted.

A competitive examination under the United States civil service commission will be held at Ontonagon Saturday, May 14, for the position of postmaster at that office. The compensation at that office the past year was $743.

Better Times for Watersmeet.

Frank W. Singler of Watersmeet, Gogebic county, reports that settlers are beginning to take up the vacant lands in the township, and that the early future will show a great improvement in conditions in that district. Mr. Singler says that former Michigan parties are figuring on building a large sawmill at Watersmeet, the site having already been acquired.

Relic of the Deep.

Frank Marcellus, while working in the ship canal at the Soo the other day, picked up a solid silver watch that had every appearance of having lain there for years. It was probably dropped overboard by a sailor or a passenger on one of the boats. Perry Reeb, as soon as he learned of the find, went on a still hunt for other valuables, but the only things of value he was able to discover were a potato masher and a pair of curling tongs.

Ironwood's Monthly Pay Roll.

The "booster club" of Ashland has just completed a canvass of that city and has compiled a statement "showing about 1,850 men employed in the various institutions of Ashland outside of professional men, merchants, clerks, etc." That is fewer men than are employed in two towns in the state of Michigan, to say nothing of four other mines and several other industries in this city, comments the Ironwood News-Record. We wonder what a monthly pay roll of $125,000 would look like to the folks down in the unmined sea.

Has an Ambitious Hen.

Allen Tyrrell, who was in Escanaba the other day from Brampton, Delta county, had with him three samples of the product of an ambitious Black Minor hen that he has in his flock. One of the eggs measured 8 1/2 inches in circumference the long way, and 6 1/4 inches the short way. Two other eggs also were exceptionally large. Mr. Tyrrell says this particular hen lays a good sized egg five days in each week, and on the other two days of the week she lays eggs of an unusually large size. He prizes his flock of Black Minors highly and declares they are the best to be had.

Old Landmark to Go.

Mrs. Ellen Ashmun of the Soo is preparing to raise the old landmark on West Portage avenue in that city and will erect on the site a modern up-to-date brick or cement eight-room cottage. In the demolishing of the old building the city will lose one of its old landmarks. It was erected by Thomas Stafford, deceased, in the forties, and by whom it was occupied until purchased by T. C. Anthony, father of Mrs. Ashmun, in 1853, since which time it has been in possession of and occupied by members of the Ashmun family. It is beautifully located, being opposite the locks and overlooking the rapids.

Railroad Rumors Interest the Soo.

The fact that Grand Trunk railroad and Sons of Ontonagon to take their entire crop of 10,000 cases of strawberries this year. It is estimated that the crop will consist of no less than 160,000 quarts. The severe cold experienced lately did not injure the strawberries to any marked extent as the plants had not progressed to a state where they were in much danger. Nehler and Sons have about thirty acres of strawberries under cultivation, as well as two acres of fancy red raspberries which will be ready made during the past two years for a Soo-DeTour or Soo-Cedarville railroad, and it is now believed that the same interests are back of all the doings in this matter. One of the proposed extensions of the Algona Central is to connect with both the C. P. R. and Grand Trunk Pacific in order to save both of these roads the long haul of coal, and it now thought that there is more in the Grand Trunk Pacific connection than the fuel proposition alone.

Mining Company Offers Prizes.

With its usual characteristic enterprise, the Verona Mining company has offered the following prizes to the people of the Battle location at Palatka, Iron county: For the best kept lawn—First prize, $15; second, $10; third, $5. For the best vegetable garden—First prize, $15; second, $10; third, $5. For the best flower garden—First prize, $15; second, $10; third, $5. A force of workmen is busy building sidewalks and cleaning away all rubbish from streets and lots as well as doing necessary grading. At the Caspian location fences will be built and a general cleaning given on the lots. The people of both locations are co-operating with the company and are determined to make things attractive at Palatka this summer.

New Congregation Thriving.

Rev. Mr. Gould of the Hancock Congregational church has returned from Ironwood, whither he went on a mission for the Lake Superior Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers. He looked up the status of the Swedish Finn Congregational church in that city, which at the last meeting of the association had applied for membership. Mr. Gould on his arrival at Ironwood found a congregation of about twenty-five members, who had but lately built a cosy little church for about $2,000. The members of the church are making strenuous efforts to swell their ranks and move forward. The Hancock pastor discussed the affairs of the little institution with the board of trustees and was favorably impressed. It is probable the Ironwood church will be taken into the society as the result of Mr. Gould's call.

Receives Strange Letter.

City Clerk MacDonald of Hancock is in receipt of a strange epistle from Haverhill, Mass. Here it is: "Will you please inform me if you have on record a marriage between Mr. Viger and Florence Hibbert in the year 1845 or 1846. I cannot remember the front name of Mr. Viger. Also I would like to learn of a birth, by the name of Paly. Parents' names are William Paly and Florence Hibbert. It happened in 1848 or 1849. Also the death of Christopher Hibbert. I don't remember the exact year, but I think it was 1849 or 1850. So kind as to let me know, as I am trying to find my mother's and father's marriage papers, and oblige. Mrs. G. R. Sullivan, Haverhill, Massachusetts." Village records of sixty-two years ago are not extant, and the earnestness of the time has placed it far beyond the ken of Mr. MacDonald. Perhaps a mystery hangs here.

Strawberry Crop Sold.

A Houghton county commission concern has closed a contract with Nehler and Sons of Ontonagon to take their entire crop of 10,000 cases of strawberries this year. It is estimated that the crop will consist of no less than 160,000 quarts. The severe cold experienced lately did not injure the strawberries to any marked extent as the plants had not progressed to a state where they were in much danger. Nehler and Sons have about thirty acres of strawberries under cultivation, as well as two acres of fancy red raspberries which will be ready

THE SOUND SLEEP OF GOOD HEALTH.

The restorative power of sound sleep cannot be over-estimated and any ailment that prevents it is a menace to health. J. L. Southern, Eau Claire, Wis., says: "For a long time I have been unable to sleep soundly nights, because of pains across my back and soreness of my kidneys. My appetite was very poor and my general condition was much run down. I have been taking Foley's Kidney Pills but a short time and now sleep as sound as a rock. I eat and enjoy my meals, and my general condition is greatly improved. I can honestly recommend Foley's Kidney Pills as I know they have cured me." For sale by all druggists.

SAVED FROM THE GRAVE.

"I had about given up hope, after nearly four years of suffering from a severe lung trouble," writes Mrs. M. L. Dix, of Clarksville, Tenn. THEATRICAL.

Manager Koepcke is holding time at the Marquette Opera House for Chauncey Oloott, the most famous of singing Irish comedians.

The Schuberts, the leading independent theatrical producers, and whose name is a synonym for excellence, will bring one of their attractions to the Marquette theater Tuesday evening.

A play of unusual power and interest, "The Third Degree," was introduced by a capable company to a keenly interested audience of large size at the opera house last evening.

Charles Klein, the dramatist, has built up around inquisitorial police methods a story of human and gripping interest.

Briefly indicated, the story is this: Howard Jeffries, Jr., in his wild college days has made a marriage intensely distasteful to his father, and is practically disowned.

In his extremity, after attempts to secure work have failed, he seeks Robert Underwood, a friend, for the return of a loan of money.

Underwood was formerly engaged to the second wife of Jeffries' father, but was turned adrift by her because of his worthlessness.

Mrs. Jeffries, returning again and again to her leaving and dauntless devotion to the interests of her falsely accused husband.

It is a consistent and well sustained performance and merits all the approbation with which it meets.

Paul Everett, remembered here as Ready Money Ryder in "The Lion and the Money," is the Richard Brewster of the cast, and gives the part an able interpretation.

E. A. Eberle, who was also seen here in the other Klein play, appears as Dr. Bernstein and does his work well.

Jack Ellis plays Captain Clinton in a somewhat exaggerated manner. Harry Forsman does two servants' parts quite exceptionally.

Quite the most effective thing in the play is the scene in the second act, where Annie Jeffries, returning again and again to the charge, finally enlists the aid of Mr. Brewster for her husband's defense.

PATHOLOGIST IS A WITNESS.
Hyde Trial Enters Into a Realm of Expert Medical Testimony.

Kansas City, Mo., April 29.—With the calling of Dr. Frank L. Hall, pathologist, to the witness stand today, the Hyde murder trial entered into a complicated realm of expert medical testimony.

Dr. Hall testified that he had examined the body of Colonel Thomas H. Swope, the typhoid epidemic in the Swope family.

Dr. Hall said, on direct examination, that there was nothing about the organs of Colonel Swope which he believed would have accounted for death from natural causes.

He stated that a long hypothetical question in which the symptoms of Colonel Swope were fully described.

Dr. Hall replied that in that case he would say that the patient had been poisoned. The defense then asked a hypothetical question emphasizing the old age and weakness of Colonel Swope and asked, provided it was known that poison had been administered, whether the witness could say that death had been caused by poisoning.

Dr. Hall replied "No." Dr. Hall said he had found nothing to account for the typhoid epidemic.

SPEAKS TO KANSAS STUDENTS.
Ambassador Bryce Delivers an Address at Lawrence University.

Lawrence, Kas., April 29.—British Ambassador Bryce addressed the students of the University of Kansas here today. He was given an enthusiastic reception.

Ambassador Bryce paid special tribute to the universities of this country, saying that there was nothing in this country which he noted with greater pleasure than the continued advance of the American colleges and universities.

The last thirty years, Mr. Bryce said, had seen the establishment and development by the state legislatures of a large number of places before them of higher education, to which annually liberal grants of money were made.

This witnessed to the enlightened wisdom and seal of the state authorities, who rightly thought that nothing better could be done for the youth of the state than to place before them the amplest facilities for prosecuting every kind of study.

The appreciation of such facilities was shown, he said, by the large and constantly increasing attendance not only at the universities supported by the states, but also at the colleges of private foundation.

Mr. Bryce said he loved the American universities; he admired the earnest work which the teachers there into their work, often insufficiently remunerated.

He expected great results from the diffusion of knowledge among all classes of the people, and believed that many men of natural gifts who might otherwise have been left without adequate training would be thus enabled not only to succeed in life but also to render admirable service to the community as writers and teachers and workers for the public good.

There was, he believed, no other country in the world in which so large a proportion of the young men and women were now receiving education of the University type as here in the United States.

The ambassador expressed the opinion now, thanks to the munificence of the states and of private benefactors, all the institutions of that kind that would be required, and that what was now needed was to develop the efficiency of these institutions by increasing the teaching staff, and by providing higher salaries so as to secure the ablest men that could be had, and to develop the teaching of those subjects which were less likely to be popular because they did not seem so directly practical but which, nevertheless, were essential to a well equipped university and a truly liberal education.

It was not only the applied sciences, Mr. Bryce thought, that ought to be provided for, such as agricultural chemistry and engineering, but also the theoretical sciences such as chemistry and physics and biology.

There was an even greater danger, he thought, in all countries, in Europe as well as in America, of neglecting the literary or humanistic and philology.

Must Prepare for Life Itself.
Therefore, the ambassador said, he would remind the students that in their college years they had to prepare themselves not only for their special vocation in life, but also for life itself.

They had to acquire those interests and tastes which would make the enjoyment of their after years. They must learn to love literature and history; they must learn to think about those things which had occupied the human mind in the past and were treated of in the works of the most famous men of older days.

Let them never be afraid to spend time on studies which seemed remote from their own times. From the ancient writers of Greece and Rome, from the great poets of later times

FLYING MACHINE PROPELLERS.

How They Are Made and What They Cost—Propellers for Models.

Propellers for airships are built of laminated wood, that is to say of wood built up in layers.

For the making of a propeller six or eight feet in length there would be required to begin with a stick of timber six inches or thereabouts square, and such a stick of solid wood, however perfectly is built of laminated wood, of strips of selected and perfectly seasoned wood of the required width which are planed down to the requisite thickness and then glued together under pressure, making a practically solid stick of material less liable to check.

Some airship propellers of laminated wood have been made with the laminations all of spruce; one New York concern making propellers produces them also of a combination of ash and mahogany, three layers of ash and two of mahogany.

The shaving out of the blades from this stick, each of precisely the required taper, pitch and thickness, and the two exactly alike, is work that calls for the greatest patience, care and skill. The perfect propeller in its finished state is a beautiful example of good workmanship.

A six-foot propeller of laminated wood, its weight six and a half pounds, costs $50; a seven foot propeller, weight nine pounds, $60, and an eight foot propeller, weight twelve pounds, $70.

For model airships there are made, also of laminated wood, but these commonly all of mahogany, little propellers from ten to twelve inches in length, and accurate in pitch and finish they sell at from $4 to $7.

Among the full sized propellers the greatest demand is for those measuring seven feet. From the orders thus far filled and now in hand the propeller makers are looking for a greater activity than ever in flying machines in the coming season.—New York Sun.

HARD BLOW TO NEW YORK.

Hughes' Action Is Likely to Weaken His Influence.

There Is Open Rejoicing Among the Republican Organization Because the Governor Is Out of the Way—His Retirement, too, May Mean Democratic Victory This Fall.

New York, April 29.—It is useless to deny that Governor Hughes' acceptance of the seat in the United States supreme court has sent a thrill of disappointment through very many of those who have hoped to see the ideal of political service which he typifies firmly planted in the life of this state before he relaxed the grip that he has achieved upon the public mind. And, in like manner, many of those who have been fighting for continuance of government by the political machine, together with their sympathizers, from the exalted exponents of high finance down to the ward heeler of Tammany Hall, are rejoicing because of the elimination of this dominating personality just as the great battle between the forces of progress and those of reaction in this state reaches its crisis.

For even if the governor does not take his seat on the supreme bench until October, the force of any official act by him during this starting term is now greatly abated. He may warn the legislature or send it his recommendations as frequently and impressively as he pleases, between now and the end of the session; but such warnings and recommendations are common with the old deal with the tradeable Democrats would insure that result. The real secret has been that the machine leaders knew perfectly that they couldn't hope to elect a Republican governor next fall unless they had Hughes' support—not merely his passive confidence, but his active support. Now he has voluntarily announced that he is going on the shelf, so far as active political life is concerned. He can talk, but he can't hit; that would not become even a prospect of justice of the supreme court of the United States.

The machine will have Governor Hughes right where they want him. It can profess to have given him everything he wanted but the primary measure and to have yielded to the counsels of the elder statesmen in that particular. The bosses, and each of them, can deny him the personal vote of the candidates nominated which they would be obliged to seek otherwise and can place their ticket before the voters feeling that the governor's silence does not express his disapproval because he has, in propriety, to keep still anyway, just as he is stepping across the threshold of judicial life. The recent procession of events, beginning with the visit of Senator Root in Utica when the bosses of that state machine took up their last attempt to compromise on the primary bill, continuing when the Utica Press became the first of the direct primary newspapers to switch to the compromise idea, continuing still further when the distinguished Republicans drew up their memorial, and now culminating in the elimination of Governor Hughes, seems orderly enough to be a part of a settled plan on the part of somebody. It is impossible to resist the temptation to wonder whether this is asked why the governor acceded? Probably because he is tired out by the constant warfare that he has had to wage almost single-handed for the last four years against fearful odds. It can be denied that just at this time the opportunity for important public service is offered by the supreme court of the United States, and it would be a service of a most congenial order to the man who has been fighting intrigue, treachery and chicanery as his daily work for over three years and a half. That he should be willing to give up the prospects of a law practice worth at least $100,000 a year for the $12,000 salary of a supreme court justice is abundantly explained by his willingness to serve his second term as governor, but having said all this, the feeling still remains that the great cause that he, more than anyone else, has organized now lacks a leader right at the crisis of the battle.

There is one comforting fact, and that is that the nomination of Hughes, carrying with it the prospects that the Hughes Democrats will either have to return to their own party ranks this fall or become outcasts, immensely strengthens the chance that a good Democrat will be nominated for governor, with a strong ticket behind him. The sort of a Democrat likely to be named will depend upon the extent to which radicalism will have to figure in the campaign. Mr. Hearst is, of course, in the field and if the Republican leaders, big and little, revert to a "safe and sane" type of respectable nonentity like President Schurman or Seth Low, Hearst would be the strongest Democratic candidate. If, on the other hand, a man of greater promise be nominated by the Republicans, then the Democrats, with James S. Havens of Rochester as their candidate, can make a splendid canvas. Thus it appears that the loss which decent Republicanism in the state of New York has sustained by the transfer of Governor Hughes to the supreme court may find some compensation in the encouragement which will be given for a revival of decent Democracy.

A NEW AILMENT.

The Chauffeur's Fracture, Now Recognized by Surgeons.

The category of physical ailments contains a class called "occupation diseases," each malady, of course, resulting from the particular occupation which the sufferer follows for a livelihood. For instance, Dr. Charles L. Dana, the distinguished neurologist, in his book on nervous diseases refers to the wasting away of muscles due to constant overuse. This, he says, applies particularly to the small muscles of the hands, and he cites the atrophy of such muscles in lapidaries. Again, he mentions the wasting of the biceps brachii and atrophy of the muscles of the calf of the leg in ballet dancers. The advent of the automobile has added a brand-new surgical ailment to the group in the so-called "chauffeur's fracture." Dr. William S. Thomas, surgeon-in-chief in the outdoor department of St. Luke's Hospital, calls attention to it in the Medical Record. He says, in part:

"Modern machinery brings its special types of occupation diseases, and among them the chauffeur's fracture, which is common in the experience of many surgeons. When an automobile engine stands unused there is a gradual change in the proportions of air and gasoline vapor which fill its cylinders, so that the mixture loses its explosive character. For the engine to turn the shaft automatically, fresh explosive matter must be turned into the cylinder by the motion of the piston before it is of any use to apply the igniting spark. To accomplish this suction motion has as yet been devised save for the shaft to get its first turn by hand power. It is during this starting turn by hand that the chauffeur's fracture is produced. If the explosion is timed to occur in the cylinder before the piston reaches its highest point, or, in other words, if the spark be advanced, the said piston will be pushed down, so to turn the shaft and crank backward suddenly and violently. The motion of the crank's handle is thus reversed, with a pressure of from forty to eighty pounds to the square inch.

"If the back kick of the handle occurs during its ascension it will be suddenly pushed downward, striking out the fingers, and releasing itself from the grasp. Under these circumstances no harm will be done unless the handle fly backward quickly enough and with force enough to strike the forearm and break a bone by direct violence. At times the victim sustains a typical indirect fracture of the lower end of the radius from the back kick of the handle, which then flies around and smites his forearm, breaking by direct violence the shaft of radius, of ulna, or both.

"From our present standpoint the types of engines used in automobiles are alike, except in the number of their cylinders. In one-cylinder engines there is but one point in the circle described by the crank handle where it is possible for a back kick may occur at any one of four points in the circle. The automobile engines mostly in vogue are those with four cylinders. One might expect considerable varieties of fractures sustained from force applied in such varying directions, but as a matter of fact the prevailing type of break is one occurring lower on the radius and with milder symptoms than those of the usual Colles' injury, which has been acquired by falling upon the outstretched palm. So mild are the symptoms in many of these cases that they are frequently considered to be sprained wrists, and do not reach the surgeons for several days.

"If an explosion occurs while one of the pistons is rising, thus constituting a backfire, the handle of the crank will be jerked harmlessly out of the driver's hand. Should he be pushing the handle through the downward portion of its arc when the said back fire occurs, its violence may have added to it the strong muscular effort of the descending arm.

"As a matter of fact in actual practice it is very often necessary, in order to start the engine going spontaneously, to spin the handle, as it is called. This means a rapid revolution of the crank many times repeated. Under these circumstances a back kick may come at any one of several points in the circle according to the number of the engine's cylinders.

"Even though the spark be advanced and though it be necessary to spin the handle, the danger of sustaining the chauffeur's fracture may still be avoided by attention to the proper method of grasping the handle. This should be grasped with the fingers and palm only, the thumb lying upon the same side of the handle as does the palm. The thumb should never encircle the handle, should a back fire now occur during the descent of the handle it will slide harmlessly up the palm.

"Although so easy of prevention, the chauffeur's fracture will continue to occur, and the surgeon should be ready to recognize the presence of fracture when a hasty examination might lead

Taft Avoids Politics

President Tired of the Conflict Over Legislation.

Year in White House Not a Happy One—He Is Disturbed by Scramble for Patronage—Feels Under Obligations Only to People, Not to Party Leaders—He Gives No Thought to a Second Term, but Probably Will Run Again as Matter of Custom—Only One Politician in the Cabinet.

Washington, April 29.—William H. Taft the man, as President of the United States, is an interesting study. The personal view of the president has been somewhat obscured by the official incidents of his administration. His human side is touched upon but not emphasized. In the tempest through which the administration is passing there has yet been little time to note the kindly, sincere and tender personality whose proud but irksome duty it is to bear the chief burdens of the people. Said one of the closest friends of the president today, discussing Mr. Taft at close range:

"Mr. Taft's first year in the White House has not been a happy one. He will tell you so frankly if you ask him. He has not found the presidency what he expected it to be. It is a great sorrow to him that Mrs. Taft's health should have broken down. This is a grief and handicap that the public has any idea of. I think this one thing has done more than all else to dull Mr. Taft's ambition for a second term.

"The scramble for patronage and the constant nagging of congress to get legislation are also far from pleasing to Mr. Taft. He dislikes discord. He hates always to be bullying the senate and house to give what he believes the country wants. It goes against the grain of his nature to play the part of bully. His own ideas of statesmanship are so lofty that it is difficult for him to understand the workings of the minds of many of the men he has to deal with in connection with legislation.

His Obligation to the People Only.

"People talk about the president's obligations to the Republican leaders. It may surprise them to know that Mr. Taft considers that he is under no political obligations whatever to any man or group of men. His opinions on this subject are emphatic. Persons who go to the White House to talk about Mr. Taft's obligations to the leaders will get scant encouragement. The fact is that the president believes he holds his office by virtue of the votes of the people and only to them does he regard himself as under obligations.

"The president admits that he is the titular leader of the Republican party, but he does not entertain orthodox views on this point. He proved this at the outset of his administration when he put two Democrats in his cabinet. Since then he has made nominations to important offices without regard to the question of party politics. He has turned down organization men without number to give places to men who had no claim on the party. Mr. Taft's views regarding his responsibilities to the organization are different from Mr. Roosevelt's and very much from the usually accepted standard.

"It is a cause of keen disappointment to the president that he has no time for reading and study. He sorely misses this. He has spoken of it repeatedly, and especially in connection with public addresses. It is a fact that not once since his inauguration has he had time to prepare a speech far in advance. Except on one or two occasions he has spoken offhand and without notes. Once or twice he has snatched half an hour in which to dictate a speech on the afternoon of the evening it was delivered. He feels that he has not kept filled his reservoir of knowledge and information and that it is all a steady outgo.

Taft and the Second Term.

"Really, I think the president has never given a moment's serious consideration to whether or not he would desire a second term. I believe that in view of the disappointments thus far in his administration, his inclination would be to say, if he could do so with honor, that he would prefer not to be re-nominated. I know that the office has not brought to him the gratification and pleasure he expected. It has been more the reverse of this.

"However, I believe that Mr. Taft in the end could be made to see the desirability of seeing and desiring a second term. Every Republican President since the Civil War, save one, was re-nominated by his party as indication of continued confidence. Later on this aspect, I believe, will appeal to him and he will realize that he owes something to the Republican party in a broad sense. Certainly if it should be made apparent that the party needed him for leader

$3.50 Recipe Cures Weak Kidneys, Free

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or pinkies; leg cramps; unsteady; short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency? I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $2.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 1077 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power. It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

in 1912, I think Mr. Taft would readily consent to run. "One thing is apparent to everyone, however, and that is that Mr. Taft is not playing politics to obtain a re-nomination. He persistently refuses to do this. Time and time again he has been urged to make this appointment or recommendation that measure for the sake of strengthening himself politically with the different elements of the people. He has always refused to do so. He takes the broader ground that he is doing what he believes to be right and the people will discover this in due time.

That Non-Political Cabinet.

"It is true that some folks say Postmaster General Hitchcock is building up a machine, especially in the South. It looks as if there was some truth in this accusation. I don't believe that Hitchcock is building a Taft machine. If he is, the president has no particular knowledge of it or sympathy with it. Mr. Taft has not surrounded himself with politicians, as would be the case if he had 1912 constantly in view. Save for Mr. Hitchcock, there is not a straightout politician in his cabinet. More of them are strangers—too much so—to the ways of practical politics."

The opinions of the gentleman quoted coincide with those of other close friends of the president. There are few signs about the White House that the game of politics is being played. It is true that the president is taking a peculiar personal interest in various states where the Republicans seem to be tied up into various kinds of knots. He has sought to straighten out the tangles in Indiana and has gone even to greater lengths to cure the demoralization that exists in the Republican ranks in New York state. The president has even discussed with callers such minor details as the selection of a Republican leader for Brooklyn. In all these instances, however, his interest has seemed to be for the general good of the party as a whole and with no idea of promoting his own personal or political welfare. In spite of disappointments, setbacks and criticisms which have marked the first thirteen months of the Taft administration, it is a noteworthy fact that the unhappy developments have not affected the president's disposition. Not once has he lost his cheerfulness, good humor and confidence in everything coming out right. His fortitude, courage and buoyancy of spirit have been the marvel of all.

ELECTION WIT AND HUMOR.

Candidate and Heckler in English Political Campaigns.

More often than not the heckler has the best of it and Ian Malcolm hits the nail on the head when he says apropos of the "voice in the crowd": "You are powerless in face of it; the lift of your sentence is ruined. Your withering scorn is turned to laughter and after laughter no retort appears effective."

Even Bernal Osborne, the wit of the Victorian age, was nonplused when after a glowing speech at Waterford upon patriotism and a soldier's duty there came a voice from the gallery: "Och, what's the world to a man if his wife's widow?"

Another election story of the Emerald Isle which Mr. Malcolm tells is that concerning a leading member of the Irish bar, who in an eloquent speech upon the woes and injustices of his native land sought to impress his audience still further by squeezing out a few tears, which trickled over his expansive forehead. But the sobbing was turned to the ridiculous when the wit of the gallery shouted out: "Shure, boys, there's a fine field for hydraulics."

This was as disconcerting as the reply made to Sir Richard Temple, who returned post haste from his duties in India to contest a seat. In the course of a speech he remarked that he "had traveled eight thousand miles and surrendered £5,000 for the privilege of representing this great constituency," and the audience were impressed until the remark in a loud voice came from the crowd: "Och, what a fool!"

And the heckler silenced Lord George Hamilton on one occasion when the latter, describing the late Mr. Gladstone as "a political adventurer who always had his eye on the Treasury bench," was met with the shout: "Yes, and he'll have his body there soon if you don't watch it!"

During the last general election a speaker at one meeting was somewhat irritated by a member of the audience who continually repeated: "We won't have our food taxed; no taxes on food!" But it was not long before he silenced the interrupter with the cutting remark: "Console yourself, my friend; Joe isn't going to tax thistles."

"The voice" at another meeting shouted out: "Talk to us in language we can understand," because a speaker had quoted some Latin phrases. Like a flash came the cry from the platform, "Hee-haw! Hee-haw!" And the heckler vanished.

The son of a certain lord was addressing a meeting and was interrupted every few seconds by "the voice" saying, "I'm's good as you; what's the difference 'tween you'n me?" Suddenly the answer came, "One difference is that you drink and don't work and I work and don't drink."

Lord Morley is one of the few political speakers who can silence a heckler with a smiling retort as effectively as the famous Campbell of Monzie, who, when he asked an Edinburgh burgess to vote for him and received the angry answer, "Vote for you! I'd sooner vote for 'Satan' himself," sweetly replied, "Yes; but if your friend doesn't stand, may I depend upon your support?"—a remark that earned him a stanch adherent.

The fact that a blind man, Mr. Walter King, stood as Liberal candidate for one of the divisions of Somersetshire recalls a story of Professor Fawcett, who as a candidate for Brighton was asked by an elector how he, a blind man, was going to "catch the Speaker's eye" and vote in the right lobby. Mr. Fawcett scored effectively by replying that he would depend on the kindness of friends. But, as to mistaking the lobby, he said he might occasionally vote wrong, "but at all events that would not be so bad as your present M. P., who is always in the wrong lobby, and he does it on purpose!" The answer was cheered to the echo.—The Bits.

THE WIND OF 120 DAYS.

How Men and Cattle Are Protected Against a Scourge of the Middle-East.

The "Bad-land-bist-roz," the famous wind of 120 days of Seistan, is the one feature of the country lying at the junction of Persia, Afghanistan and the Ganges.

It prevails over a stretch of country a hundred miles wide and renders existence almost unbearable. It may vary slightly from year to year in strength and duration, but invariably comes from north-northwest, 334 degrees west and 5 degrees on either side of that is its greatest variation.

In quiet years the wind may not exceed sixty-five miles an hour and is seldom less than forty. In bad years it reaches 120 miles an hour. The country is dominated by it. Houses have to be built with a strong wall on the north-northwest side, blank except for one window, generally divided up into small holes, which are stopped up with dabs of mud as the wind increases, and which are removed as it falls. No garden can exist without its wind wall. Tents have to be arranged as to trunks and furniture.

wears away the walls of buildings as the whetstone wears away steel.

From the summits of the low plateaus that abound in the country, especially at the commencement of the wind, when frost has disintegrated the rock and soil, drifts hundreds of yards long and twenty feet deep shelter from the fierce north-northwest, the enemy to life in the country. They are peened in chambers dug out of the soil and roofed over for protection, a sloping ramp affording means of egress.

Cattle and donkeys have pieces of felt placed on their backs to protect them, but sheep and goats, being much better provided by nature with protection against the wind, are herded in pens surrounded by a fence.

Touching the speed of 120 miles an hour, it is interesting to note that forty miles represents a gale, sixty miles a heavy storm and eighty to 150 miles a hurricane sweeping everything before it. The wind of 120 days has every right to be classed with those better known classic breezes dignified by special names, the simoon, the strocco, the solano, the harmattan, the puna winds of Peru, the mistral of Marsilles, the pampero of Buenos Ayres, of the willy-willy of west Australia.

The wind of 120 days is generally hot, the desert a scorching furnace. Seistan is in the latitude of Cairo and the temperature in the shade rises to 115 degrees. On the sun setting the temperature falls rapidly and in the small hours of the morning a blanket is welcome. Singapore Free Press.

The amount of carbon exhaled from a man's lungs each day, if it could be solidified, would equal that in a lump of coal weighing half a ton.

Experiments with the ultra-violet light appear to show that it is more effective for sterilizing liquids than ozone.

PUBLICITY BILL TO PASS.

Politicians Dare Not Oppose the McCall Measure.

Few of Them Really Favor It; but Public Sentiment Demands Action—There is a Possibility of Delay Until After Election; but It is not Probable—President Taft Favors the Law and Will Sign It Promptly.

Washington, April 29.—Representative Samuel W. McCall of Massachusetts probably will succeed in forcing upon the unwilling leaders of his party his bill to require publicity of the campaign receipts and expenses of national and congressional campaign committees.

The bill has passed the house and Senator Burrows of Michigan, who, to say the least, never would have introduced a measure of this kind, is expected to report it out from his committee on privileges and elections. Should the bill be materially amended in committee, it might be possible to throw it into conference and keep it there until after the elections of 1910.

But such a course would not be politically wise, and unless the old guard have lost their heads altogether, they would not make such a mistake. President Taft would like to see the bill passed, and will lose no time in signing it when it reaches the White House. Politicians expect to see the bill go through, and are not opposing it openly.

Politicians Have Surrendered. The best evidence that the old enemies of the legislation have surrendered is the fact that the Republican congressional campaign committee is preparing to conduct its congressional campaign under the new law. It has been very generally understood by persons who have followed national politics for the last twenty years that the Republican congressional campaign committee was nothing more than a financial agent for Republican candidates for congress.

The committee, of course, conducted a speaking campaign, and it sent out a good deal of campaign literature, but after all its real business was the snatching of campaign in close congressional districts. It has always been a close corporation. Even the beneficiaries of its treasury were never inquisitive as to where the money came from.

The accusation that the committee, in times of stress, collected large sums of money from the district beneficiaries of the tariff has been frequently made. Whether this is true or not, only men who have served as officers of the committee can say, and they will not say. One thing is certain, the committee was always able to get money when it needed it. In recent campaigns it has been more successful at raising money than has the Republican national committee. This is particularly true of the campaign two years ago, when the national committee of the two parties promised to make public the contributions they received. The Republican congressional committee was careful not to make any such promise. If stories that have been related and repeated from time to time are true, the congressional committee was far more prosperous in that campaign than the national committee.

The officers of the Republican congressional campaign committee are quite frank in saying that the law will undoubtedly make it difficult for the committee to get together a large campaign fund. The committee is prepared to depend more than ever before on speedmaking and "literature." As a matter of fact, members of the committee say, the legislation, if it becomes law, will necessitate candidates for congress depending less than heretofore on the congressional committee.

LABOR CONDITIONS HERE FAVORABLE

SHORTAGE OF MEN REPORTED FROM VARIOUS PARTS OF NORTHWEST, BUT THERE IS NO PARTICULAR SCARCITY IN THIS LOCALITY.

While a shortage of labor is reported from various parts of the Northwest, there is no particular scarcity of men in this country, but the number of idle men has never before been smaller than it is at present. Practically all the men who have come to Negaunee and Ishpeming during the past few months were sought employment. A larger number of new hands have been taken on at Negaunee than at any other place in the county, because of the resumption of mining operations at Cleveland-Chiffs Iron company and Breitung properties.

Nearly 300 additional men have been given employment at the mines here since the first year, and the working forces are still being gradually increased. There is no shortage of workmen, but it is possible that there will be a shortage of both mechanics and laborers for the building operations here for the season is men farther advanced, as much work is contemplated in both this city and Ishpeming. There will also be considerable new construction work on the Swaney range, but building operations there will not be as active as they were two or three years ago.

With the paving of Iron street, the rebuilding of the street railway line on that thoroughfare, the removal of poles and construction of concrete gutters, etc., the concrete walk jobs that have been contracted for, together with the building of the new Negaunee National bank, much labor will be needed a month or two hence. Some of the mechanics of this city and Ishpeming ask the same wages that they received last year, and those who hold membership in the Bricklayers, Masons & Plasters' union have set a price of fifty-five cents per hour for the coming season. This wage rate goes into effect immediately. It is anticipated that there will be better demand for bricklayers, stone masons and plasterers than for some years past. Some of the plastering contractors have had work the greater part of the winter. This is unusual for this region, but the weather was so favorable last winter that they were times when the work could be done to advantage. Several new buildings being constructed by the Cleveland-Chiffs Iron company in the Dexter district have furnished steady employment through the greater part of the winter for a good force of carpenters.

It is reported from Duluth and other labor centers in the Northwest that there is almost a labor famine. As a result, operations are being held up in sawmills, lumber camps and in railroad construction work. For two years past, since the June of 1907, the railroads of the northwest have done little repairing, ballasting or building. This spring the railroads are planning repairing, ballasting and the construction of sidings and switches. The railroads are looking for men and they are always offering free fare and other inducements.

Many of the lumber camps in Minnesota are short of men. One company at the present time has an order for 300 men. Orders have been received for men from as far away as Arizona, with full fare prepaid.

FURS! FURS!

Mrs. G. L. Andrews, representative of A. Chapman Co., Fur Department, Millinery and Dressmaking, is visiting Monday and Tuesday, taking orders for remodeling, storage and new orders. Special prices on orders this early in the season. (4-30-24)

HUNTING FOR ASSAILANT.

Chief Foley of The Olive Police Expects to Run Down Fugitive. The officials and employees of the Oliver Iron Mining company here, also the many friends of Dave Foley, are much interested in his search for the assailant of Oliver Skilton, at Virginia last Sunday night, and all hope that he will succeed in capturing him.

Mr. Foley has been almost continuously on the search for the man since the assault, and he declares that he will succeed if he is not run down. The condition of Skilton is said to be much improved. The first description sent out of his assailant is found to have been incorrect in several details, and a more accurate description has been secured through a person who is well acquainted with him. The person in question, having read the description first sent out, had identified the man as Peter Dondovich, alias Peter Salon, and furnished the police with the following description: About thirty years old; height, 5 feet 9 inches; weight, about 190 pounds; sandy hair and mustache; sandy complexion, slightly peck marked; eyes large and bloodshot; granulated lids; wore green cheviot suit with small white stripes.

SEASON OPENS TOMORROW.

Many Negaunee Men Are Preparing to Visit the Trout Streams.

One of the Negaunee dealers in sportsmen goods yesterday said that the demand for fishing tackle, etc., has never before been as good in Negaunee prior to the opening of the season. The fine weather of the past two months has greatly stimulated business, as there is every reason to believe that there will be much better fishing at the opening of the season than for many years past. It is believed that there will be from 200 to 300 Negaunee men and boys at the streams.

FIRST OUTING TOMORROW.

The first outdoor celebration of the season will take place tomorrow at Cleveland Park, when some of the laboring men of the county will hold a picnic. There will be a parade at 1 o'clock, starting from McDonald's opera house, and the men will march through Iron street and from there to the park. The Finnish band of Princeton will head the procession and will furnish music at the grove. Several speakers will be heard. Thomas Corra will address the Italian people. In case of unfavorable weather the festivities will be held at McDonald's opera house.

CASE IS SETTLED.

Phil Hogan, the deputy game and fish warden, has settled the cases pending at Marquette, referred to in yesterday's issue of The Mining Journal. John Hudson and Alfred Baley, the boys charged with illegal fishing, pleaded guilty before Judge Byrne and were fined $5 each and costs of $1.

TO PATRONS.

I shall continue business at my present stand until my new quarters in the Sundberg block are ready for occupancy. (4-30-24) W. H. ISRAEL.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Edna Knight, daughter of A. H. Knight, is ill with pneumonia.

George Feigel, a well known resident of the Swaney range, was up from the city yesterday.

Peter Trudell, Sr. went up to Three Lakes yesterday to repair his cottage for the summer.

The Finnish band of Princeton will give a concert this evening at McDonald's opera house.

Frank Schwartzman of this city has taken a position in Charles Muck's meat market at Swaney.

Anton Henriksen, the concrete walk contractor, is still in confinement to his home the past few days.

W. H. Cole and M. McDonald, of the diamond drill contracting firm of Cole & McDonald, were in Negaunee yesterday.

Jackson & Lindquist yesterday completed a curb on the north side of Main street, extending from Pioneer to Brown avenue.

The sand removed from the Negaunee National bank's lot is being used to good advantage for filling the lots in the City addition.

Lloyd Combe, who a short time ago submitted to an operation for appendicitis at the Negaunee hospital, is able to be around.

Peter Donahoe, who was called down from Calumet on account of the death of his father-in-law, the late John O'Leary, returned home yesterday.

L. E. Chaussee, the contractor, put two extra teams to work yesterday on the excavating work on the lot where the Negaunee National bank's block will be erected.

Three new locomotives, two for Butler Bros., stripping contractors, and one for the Virginia Mining company, passed through Negaunee yesterday en route to the Mesaba range.

F. H. Israel, the photographer, expects to continue business at his present stand for two or three weeks longer, or until the rooms in the Sundberg block, which he is to occupy, are ready for use.

The Marquette County Gas & Electric company is putting in new ties and otherwise repairing the street railway line. Several thousand ties were put in last year and practically all of the old ones remaining will be replaced this summer.

The management of the Negaunee baseball team desires all persons having bills against the organization to present them to A. H. Knight. All those who sold tickets in advance for the game are also requested to report to Mr. Knight.

H. G. Floodstrand, who had the contract for the brick work at the new high school building, also the Scandinavian society's block, was in the city yesterday conferring with L. E. Chaussee regarding the brick work on the Negaunee National bank building.

Matthew Maloney, who has just completed moving the Montreal House to his lot on Jackson street, will have to re-plaster the third story, but the plaster is in fairly good condition on the first two floors. Mr. Maloney has had several applications for the house from families desiring quarters, but he prefers to rent it for a boarding house, as it is well suited for that purpose.

ONE CONDUCTOR WHO WAS CURED.

Mr. Wilford Adams is his name, and he writes about it. "Some time ago I was confined to my bed with chronic rheumatism. I used two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy with good effect, and the third bottle put me on my feet and I resumed work as conductor on the Lexington, Ky., Street railway. It gave me more relief than any medicine I had ever used, and it will do you all claim in cases of rheumatism." Foley's Kidney Remedy cures rheumatism by eliminating the uric acid from the blood. For sale by all druggists.

Into the Saving Habit and Out of the Rut

The habit of saving has raised many a man out of the rut into the higher places. PET BEAR HANGS HIMSELF. Apparently Grief Over Death of Mother Is Cause.

The strangest record of suicide to be recorded in Maine is that of a bear owned by Edward Berry of Skowhegan, formerly of Caratunk. The bear evidently became melancholy because he could not mingle with other bears, and went and hanged himself to an apple tree in the orchard. A little more than two years ago Mr. Berry, while hunting in the woods near his former home, found a bear cub. He took the bear home with him, and soon baby brain became the pet of the whole family. He seemed to be contented with his life, and was given the liberties of a dog about the place. During the following summer the bear was petted and caressed much by strangers coming here.

When winter came Mr. Berry dug a place in the side of a hill for the bear to hibernate in. Along in November the bear showed signs of wanting to go to his winter home. So Mr. Berry placed the bear in the hole and covered up the opening, leaving him for the winter. Along about February, however, Mr. Berry became somewhat worried about the bear, fearing that he would not live through the winter, but he looking into the hole he found that the bear was sleeping as is the custom of bears in the winter.

About the middle of this last March Mr. Berry took the bear from his winter home. He seemed to be as happy and contented as ever. He would frolic and play with the children and, as ever, was their pet until a few days ago, when the bear was near the back of the house, hitched to a post, he suddenly jumped up on his haunches and tried vigorously to get away. Mr. Berry, being near, noticed the unusual action of the animal and went to find out what the bear had seen. Peering through the bushes, he saw a large bear who stood looking evidently at the pet bear. Mr. Berry hastened to get his gun, and when he came back the two bears were lunging each other.

One shot finished the old bear and the young bear ached as if wild. He was finally exhausted by his frantic movements and quitted down, but for two days he would not eat. He was kept hitched all the time, and a few days ago when Mr. Berry went out to feed the pet he was gone. He had gnawed his post off. Going a little distance from the house, Mr. Berry found the bear hanging from an apple tree. The chain was wound around the end of a limb with the end of the post in the crotch of a limb—Banger News.

OSBORN TO INVAD KELLEY'S COUNTY

HIS FRIENDS WILL PERFECT OR-GANIZATION FOR AN AGGRES-SIVE CAMPAIGN IN INGHAM.

ZACH CHANDLER BANQUET

Upper Peninsula Candidate Made Fine
Impression at Big Lansing Gathering
—Made Spirited Reply to Mc-
Kinlay's Attack on the Press.

According to advices received from Lansing, Chase S. Osborn will carry warfare into Ingham county, the home and one of the reputed strongholds of Lieutenant Governor Kelley, whom Mr. Osborn is inclined to regard as his most formidable opponent in the pending campaign. His purpose to do this was greatly strengthened by the flattering nature of his reception at the Zach Chandler banquet in Lansing Wednesday evening, when, as the Lansing Journal puts it: "The ovation which Osborn received at the conclusion of his remarks must have been truly gratifying to himself and his supporters, as the applause continued for several minutes and he was forced to bow repeatedly."

Concerning the plans of the Osborn organization for the invasion of Ingham, the Lansing Journal says: "Just what steps will be taken toward maintaining an organization has not been decided. A meeting of Osborn's friends was held at the Hotel Downey and plans were made for the coming campaign. As yet the Osborn organization in Ingham is in an embryonic state and no announcement in regard to it will be made for some time."

"Mr. Osborn is confident that his Ingham county friends will take good care of his interests and the exceedingly favorable impression which he created by his remarks before the members of the Zach Chandler club have already added to his list of supporters."

"One of the leading Republicans of Ingham county will handle Osborn's campaign, but as all arrangements have not been completed his name is withheld for the present. After the banquet last night Osborn was besieged by a crowd of admirers in the Hotel Downey."

"Many of the Ingham county Republicans had never heard him speak and his personal magnetism and fiery eloquence at once won for him a warm place in their hearts. In the last three months he has visited nearly every county in the state and has spoken at about three banquets every week. To hear him speak once is to remember him for all time. His statements are uttered with great force and his aggressive manner marks him as a fearless and energetic man. Prominent politicians predict that he will give Kelley the fight of his life in this, Kelley's own county."

Last of Big Banquets.
The banquet of the Zach Chandler club was the last of the important political banquets of the year, and was a highly successful affair. The attendance was 1,800. Lieutenant Governor Kelley presided and did the honors of the occasion with admirable grace. He expressed his personal esteem for the candidates who are his rivals in the gubernatorial canvass, and pledged his unqualified support to the successful candidate. Mr. Osborn and Mr. Musselman presided their remarks with similarly graceful references, and likewise pledged their earnest efforts for the state ticket.

As has usually been the case, Mr. Osborn furnished the prolegomena for the banquet. Representative McKinlay, the principal speaker, vigorously attacked the press of the country, charging it with distorting the news for personal ends. Mr. Osborn made a vigorous and effective reply to this attack, in behalf of the press, and it was punctuated with uproarious applause which completely overshadowed the approbation received by Representative McKinlay, and on his conclusion there followed the most notable demonstration of the evening. Mr. Musselman, following Osborn, in a general way endorsed all that he said, and took emphatic exception to McKinlay's attack on the press.

Will Be a Lull.
It is reported that there will now be a lull in the gubernatorial campaign for a few weeks. Mr. Osborn is expected to spend some time in the Soo and may get about the upper peninsula to some extent. About June 1 the candidates will probably open an aggressive campaign in lower Michigan and it is expected to run continuously for three months. It is the general press comment below the straits that Mr. Osborn greatly strengthened himself at the Zach Chandler banquet and that his campaign has received even an added impetus.

WILL LAY CORNER STONE.

Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church Society to Build.
The Finnish Lutheran Evangelical church society will proceed this year to provide itself with a church home. The cornerstone of the proposed building will be laid tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The site of the church is Bluff street, on the south side, a short distance west of the corner of Third street. The society acquired the lot two or three years ago, and last summer the foundation was put in. It is ready for the superstructure, which will be enclosed sometime late in the summer. It is expected. The dimensions of the church will be 60x34 feet, and it will represent an outlay of $4,000 to $5,000.

At the exercises tomorrow Rev. Ames Maywood of the Methodist church and Rev. Oscar Sandahl of the Swedish Lutheran church will assist Rev. J. H. Heimonen, the pastor, who has been in charge of the congregation the past year. It is desired that there be a large attendance at the ceremony.

FREEZE GOES TO DULUTH.

Wellknown Marquette Barber Will Take Fine Shop There.

Guy H. Freeze, who came to Marquette from the Soo five years ago to take charge of the National barber shop, in the basement of the Marquette National bank block, will, the first of the month, surrender that shop, and about the middle of May will leave for Duluth, where he will take the management of the shop in the Holland Hotel, corner Fifth avenue and Superior street. The Holland Hotel shop will have six chairs and is to be modernly appointed. The location is a fine one.

The National shop will be taken by Andrew Easley, who has had one of the chairs there for the past two or three years, and who is wellknown to Mr. Freeze's trade. He will conduct it on the same lines that Mr. Freeze has followed, making it a first-class shop in all its features.

Mr. Freeze's departure from the city will be regretted, as he made many friends during his residence here. He has been a strong supporter of baseball in the city the past two seasons, and last year was one of the umpires for the Marquette-Alger county league. He has a reputation of being a fair and able player of ball games, and is wellinformed in regard to the rules. His Marquette friends will hope that he meets with success in his new venture.

GO TO HANCOCK.

Elks' Lodge Appoints Committee to Meet With Other Delegates.

Marquette lodge, B. P. O. E., has appointed Dan S. Donovan, J. E. Tobin, Jr., and John Siegel a committee to meet with representatives of the other upper peninsula lodges, to make arrangements for attending the national reunion of the order at Detroit July 11-17, and they will leave for Hancock for that purpose this afternoon. It is expected that an agreement will be reached as to the manner in which the upper peninsula here will travel to Detroit and the costume that will be worn in the parade. The costume generally favored is a miner's suit, with cap and candle, and it will probably be adopted.

While the Marquette lodge has not yet been canvassed, it is expected that the Marquette delegation will consist of from 40 to 50 members. There are nine Elks' lodges in the upper peninsula, one of them with over 400 members. They are found in Negaunee, Ishpeming, the Soo, Manistique, Iron Mountain, Hancock, Calumet and Escanaba, besides this city. The copper country boomers are boosting for an upper peninsula delegation of at least 1,000, and it will likely not fall far short of that number.

Whether the trip will be made by boat or rail, is a question remaining to be decided. Information has been received that the railroad companies will not park sleeping cars at Detroit, so the sleepers cannot be held in the city for use during the reunion. So far none of the upper peninsula lodges have reserved accommodations at Detroit. The accommodation of all the leading hotels have all been taken up for the dates of the reunion and the matter of securing quarters is likely to be serious.

I wish to announce that I have just received a new and complete line of untrimmed and trimmed hats. I will be pleased to meet my patrons in my parlors, 133 West Ohio street. Open evenings until 8:30.

FORTY SALOON BONDS APPROVED

COUNCIL ACCEPTED BATCH OF EIGHTEEN AT MEETING LAST EVENING, AND TWO MORE WILL BE PRESENTED.

Another lot of saloon bonds were approved by the council at a brief session last evening.

Those authorized to do business during the ensuing year were: Elyas Akkala, Tom Fennessy, William Fennessy, Jacob Harig, Patrick Healy, Carl J. Johnson, John H. Lewis, Charles H. Lockhart, John Laoma, John H. McMillan, Noah R. Pellisier, William Rivers, Jr., John W. Rustenhoven, Selim S. Stenback, Fred W. Thoney, Leader Winikka, Peter Frei and Louis Vierling.

All of these with the exception of Mr. Frei and Mr. Vierling offered bonds of the Michigan Bonding and Surety company. Mr. Frei's bondsmen are Frederick Frei and Jacob Smith; those of Mr. Vierling Martin Vierling and M. R. Mandhard.

Alderman Peters moved that the bonds of the saloon men in business before this year and those starting in business this year be acted on separately, but this motion was not seconded.

The drug stores were bonded as follows: The People's Drug Store, S. E. Kaufman and W. B. McCombs, sureties; Rose M. Desjardins, Peter C. Beanson and Allen Cowden, sureties; Louis Pen-dill, D. W. Powell and A. H. Palmer, sureties; the Stafford Drug company, Percy G. Temple and Fred S. Chase, sureties.

The saloon bonds approved last night bring the number of saloons authorized to do business in the city to forty. Two more bonds will be submitted for approval at the session of the council Monday evening. This will bring the total number of saloons in the city to forty-two, or four less than were engaged in business last year.

John W. Rustenhoven, who has been in business on Washington street the past year, has taken a lease of the store room in the building at the corner of Baraga avenue and Lake street, and will conduct his saloon there during the ensuing year.

Busy Issuing Licenses.
B. W. Wright, the deputy county treasurer, has been busy the past few days getting out the red cards for the saloon men whose bonds have been approved. Most of them have already paid over their license money, and are ready to open on Monday under the authority of the new licenses.

MUST WAIT FOR FIGURES.

Census Results Will Be Made Known from Washington.

Marquette people will not be able to know the exact population of the city immediately on the conclusion of the local census. The figures reported by the local enumerators will be held in confidence by Supervisor Bennett, and the first information of an official nature will come from Washington. The instructions from the census bureau to the supervisors warn emphatically against giving out any information, either official or unofficial.

It is not possible to say just when the figures on Marquette's population will be made known, but it is not unlikely that two months, at least, will elapse before the official population is given out. The population of the cities will be among the first information gained by the census that will be made public.

The general expectation here is that the population of Marquette will be shown to be close to 12,000. The city has had a substantial growth since the last decennial census was taken, and the number of residences and more modest homes erected in the interval would astonish people, if it could be given exactly.
