WHERE THE PROGRESSIVES STAND Nothing is more amusing, in the light of the election returns, than the attempt being made by reactionary newspapers to read into the results Tuesday a repudiation of the progressives, when, as a matter of demonstratable fact the progressives and their work are to be thanked for whatever poor bits of consolation there is to be had by Republi-

In all the progressive states the Republicans elected their candidates for governor. McGovern in Wisconsin, Eberhart in Minnesota, Stubbs in Kansas and Carroll in Iowa, which states furnished the great bulk of the progressive representation in the last congress, were all successful. In these states which have so far been the backbone of the progressive movement, the Republican representation in congress has been preserved practically intact. If the other states had all gone as they did, Republican governors would have been elected everywhere and the house would have remained Republican.

The crushing Republican reverses were suffered in "stand pat" territory. New York, whose Republican representation with a Democratic gain of eleven repreribbed "standpat" state, contributes five to the Demoncratic majority; New Jerclass as Pennsylvania, contributes five more; Illinois, where Speaker Cannon services of practically the entire house delegation, shows a Democratic gain of four; Ohio, another of Speaker Cannon's strongholds, and where the progressives were ridden over in the state convention, unseated four Republican congressmen, the fact that the Ohio platform edorsed Bresident Taft for renomination in 1912. Maine, Maryland and Connecticut, in which the Republican organizations have been consistently thies, all aided materially in giving the house over to the Democrats.

President Taft and his counselors appreciate this clearly. One of the announcements made before the president left for Panama was to the effect that plans will be outlined to push through the short session of congress as much "progressive" legislation as can well be enacted, to the end of giving the party some needed prestige for 1912.

The Famous Rayo

The Lamp with Diffused Light should always be used where several people sit, because it does not strain the eyes of those sitting far from it.

The Rayo Lamp is constructed to give the maximum diffused white light. Every detail that increases its light-giving value has been included.

The Rayo is a low-priced lamp. You may pay $5, $10 or even $20 for other lamps and get a more expensive container-but you cannot get a better light than the Rayo gives.

This season's Rayo has a new and strengthened burner. A strong, durable shade-holder keeps the shade on firm and true. Easy to keep polished, as it is made of solid brass, finished in nickel.

History of Houghton Lodge.

The birth of Houghton's Masonic lodge goes back to 1867, when a charter was granted to Thomas N. Lee Jr., W. M.; J. Q. McKerman, S. W., and W. R. Noble, J. W. The lodge soon became on of the strong organizations in the village, which position it holds today. The early meetings were held in the Graham Pope building, which at that time was leased to Smith & Harris, who conduct ed a general store. Directors of Corporations Are Responsible for Failure to File Annual Reports.

A supreme court decision of interest to directors of corporations in all parts of the state has recently been handed down in a case that was appealed from Delta county. The point of the decision. is that directors of a corporation are individually liable for the failure of such corporation to file its annual report with the secretary of state, as is required by law, both as to the payment of debts contracted by the corporation since the last report was filed, and for any damages sustained by the corporation because of its failure to file its report. Contracts carrying with them bills re ceivable, made by a corporation that has not filed its annual report, cannot be enforced in a court of law. The statute involved is act 232 of the public acts of 1903, as amended by section 12 of act 194 of the public acts of 1905, the material portion of which is as follows:

fused to go, stating that there had gotten to be so much red tape about votten to be so much red tape about votting that the chances were they would house tonight, and already the seats for to take and file the reports required by this section, within the time herein specified, and shall continue in default to the chances were they would house tonight, and already the seats for tor to days after the first of February, splendid values and should make some mistake, anyway.
