RACETRACK INTERESTS ACTIVE.

The racetrack fight in New York will be reopened, Governor Hughes, actuated by a belief, as he put it, that "the breed of men is more important than the breed of horses" pushed through the legislature measures that effectually ended betting at the tracks.

FIRE WASTE.

At a meeting of the National Fire Protective association in New York this week, Secretary of the Interior Fisher discussed the question of fire waste and its remedy.

PLAIN SPEAKING.

President Taft's letter denying clemency in the case of Banker Walsh abounds in vigorous and plain writing.

HOW HAPPY THE WORD 'CUTICURA' SOUNDS TO ME

For It Cured My Baby of Itching, Torturing Eczema. First Came when Between 3 and 4 Weeks Old. Used Everything Imaginable, 2 Cakes Soap and One Box Ointment Cured.

"I can't tell in words how happy the word 'Cuticura' sounds to me, for it cured my baby of itching, torturing eczema. It first came when she was between three and four weeks old, appearing on her head. I used everything imaginable and had one doctor's bill after another but nothing cured it.

It is doubtful, however, that the president has any real expectation that a national incorporation law will be enacted by the present congress.

the government. The house would almost certainly defeat it and opposition could be counted upon from some of the insurgents in the senate.

Meanwhile it will be possible to see how the Sherman law will operate under its latest interpretation. And the first flush of popular anger against the trusts having abated, the country is not disposed to carry the crusade against them to the point where legitimate business would be greatly injured.

A Laugh or Two

Former Senator Barrows has been heard from. He says that the monetary commission will start hearings and therefore start earning the former senator's $7,500 salary, shortly after the senate finance committee gets through with the Canadian reciprocity hearings.

Lower State Notes

TRaverse City—Harrison Vinton, an employe of Boardman River Electric Light company, while wiring for lights in front of the Hotel Whiting, was struck by a heavy screw driver which dropped from a window sill above and his right eyeball was split open.

GLADWIN—Mrs. Rudolph Rode, bride of a farmer near here, has been arrested on the charge of forging a check for $194 on the husband of her former employer in Cleveland. It is said she confessed, following an indictment in the Ohio city, giving as a reason that she wanted the money to buy wedding clothes. Her husband accompanied her to Cleveland.

KALAMAZOO—Officers are on the trail of alleged arsonists who started the fire last week that burned up a portion of the town of Kalamazoo, causing a loss of $50,000. It is claimed that positive evidence has been found that the fire was started as the result of differences between several well-known residents of the place over the local option question.

BATTLE CREEK—One of the first gubernatorial booms of the season was sprung with B. S. Hanchett, of Grand Rapids, as the victor. Mr. Hanchett, a prominent state Republican leader, was recognized while partaking of a meal at the sanitarium by the party now touring the state in the interests of the Commonwealth Power company.

GRAND RAPIDS—The Furniture Manufacturers and Artisan, a local furniture exhibition, declares that foreign manufacturers will stand loyal to the July furniture show. It says tentative plans have been made to call the militia in case of trouble.

SAGINAW—The board of park and cemetery commissioners is up in arms against the saginaw city council, claiming that the aldermen are planning to spend the city money needlessly to pay political debts and strengthen the pull of certain political cliques.

LANSING—It is practically settled that the Michigan National Guard will camp this year on the Avery farm near Port Huron. The military board will meet in Port Huron to make the final arrangements and to settle a few details.

MICHIGAN DEFEATED AGAIN. Syracuse, May 26.—Syracuse today again defeated the University of Michigan at baseball. Rather peculiar, too, the score was the same as that of yesterday—5 to 0.

TRUTH CROPS OUT. Why Pile Sufferers so Often Fail to Get Relief. Science is getting to the bottom of everything, including the cause and cure of piles. The brightest doctors now admit that piles are caused internally and can be cured only by internal treatment.

YPSILANTI—A mob of nearly 1,000 University of Michigan students, on their way to Ypsilanti to attend a carnival, took revenge on the D. U. R. for poor service by nearly wrecking one of its cars about three miles from Ypsilanti. The conductor had some trouble collecting fares because there was such a crowd. The car was finally stopped and others behind it were forced to halt.

LANDS NEAR SENEY SELLING RAPIDLY

Western Securities Company Shows Ready Sale for U. P. Undeveloped Farms.

The Western Lands Securities company has sold seventy thousand acres of land between Seney and the Soo since it began its campaign this spring and the management says that it has not yet got fairly started. Considerable of this acreage is located in Chippewa county.

Mr. Dyringer, one of the agents of the company, has just sold to W. B. Northrop, of the wholesale commission firm of W. B. Northrop & Co., of Minneapolis, 800 acres of land in this vicinity. Mr. Northrop has already begun preparation for setting out an orchard and the raising of potatoes and vegetables on a large scale.

Mr. Dyringer also sold another big tract to George N. Greer of Minneapolis, who proposes to colonize it this summer. He says that he will bring a large number of desirable settlers into the country before winter. These are but a few of the sales made by Mr. Dyringer, who says that all he has to do to make a sale is to show the prospective purchaser what he has to offer and what farmers have accomplished in this and other counties of the peninsula.

GLASS BEADS. Cause of the Sudden Heavy Demand for Them.

The sudden demand for glass beads, which has recently sprung up, and the increased demand on the different manufacturers for them, came unexpectedly to the bead industry itself, because these decorative articles are made of material for artists and metal beads, as almost completely forgotten for a number of years, and the rich, fantastical color schemes which it is possible to carry out with beads, were greatly undervalued.

In the opinion of dealers in glass and metal beads, the varieties of round, long and flat beads, as well as the fine variegated shades in colors that are offered, will be sufficient to meet the demand for beads, for instance, those that are made to represent separate parts of plants in miniature, are practically not obtainable. Consequently, designs or novelties can be made only after laborious and difficult work, and fashioning is not necessary. Here is an opportunity for American exporters to meet the needs of European houses.

A great many of the technical branches have these beads made to order after their own design, and some pretty novelties for decorating the hair are being made from them, such as diadem bands. The beads used for these articles are strung on strong silk thread or thin wires and are made in colors and finishes for the toilet. It is uncertain whether the latest novelty from Paris "flowers, made of glass beads," intended for decorating hats, will find a ready market in Germany, although the models on sale are beautiful in color and graceful in form.

It is said that one great advantage these have over other artificial flowers is that the colors do not fade in the sun, and they are, therefore, especially suitable for summer hats. These beads are in great demand this season for decorating women's costumes, which opens a large field to manufacturers in this line. The metal industry is also becoming interested in glass beads as a decorative material.

WOMEN AND WALL STREET.

Women speculators have a habit of giving to brokers orders "with a string attached to them," says a writer in the "Strand." A woman who owned some bank stock asked a broker to sell it for $250 if he thought she could not get any more for it. The market in this stock had been inactive for months, and $250 was the highest price recorded for it. The next day the brokers had a chance to sell the stock for $250. It so happened that on the same day a lively demand for this bank stock developed, and before the day was over it was selling at $300. The broker wrote to the woman customer that he had sold her stock for $250 a share, and would she send her certificate to him for delivery to the purchaser. She refused to deliver the stock.

PRICE CUTTING MAY HAVE GOOD EFFECT

Many People Believe That Cheaper Steel Will Result in Increased Demand for Ore.

The probability that the United States Steel corporation will declare for an open market, which would likely result in lower prices for iron and steel products, is being discussed by mining men. The report that the Republic Iron & Steel company will make price cuts to get business has strengthened the belief that lower prices will generally prevail at no distant date. It is said that the Republic Iron & Steel will make price cuts without regard to the United States Steel corporation, or any of its other competitors. The reports of probable lower prices in iron and steel has caused heavy selling of steel stock.

Markets

WALL STREET STOCKS. Paing, Webber & Co. yesterday wired from New York as follows: Although the market displayed strength after the opening, it was apparent that considerable long stock was being marketed on the advance. Doubtless the selling was in the nature of lightening accounts, as the disposition to reduce commitments has been encouraged by the development in the stock market and the Mexican situation. The price changes tomorrow will no doubt be governed by the volume of evening up sales, as the street is not as confident as heretofore that the American Tobacco decision, if reversed Monday, will draw the line between reasonableness and unreasonableness as forcibly as many anticipated. Closing prices were as follows:

Table of Wall Street stock prices including Amalg, Anaconda, and other mining stocks.

Boston "Coppers."

Of the market at Boston, Paing, Webber & Co. yesterday advised: Although the coppers were dull they showed a better tone than yesterday. North Butte rallied half a point and held it right up to the close. There were only a few transactions in Lake, around 37. Last Butte was slightly weaker on the sale of 500 shares. The market will probably be dull and unsettled tomorrow, in anticipation of the Tobacco decision on Monday, but we expect a continuation of the activity and strength after the holiday next week. The closing prices were as follows:

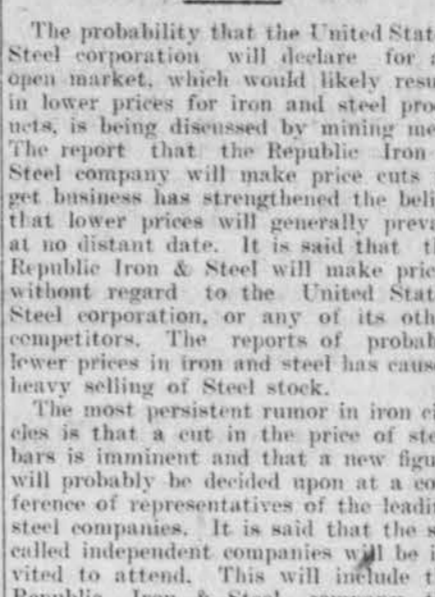

Table of Boston copper prices including Amalg, Anaconda, and other mining stocks.

Chicago Wheat.

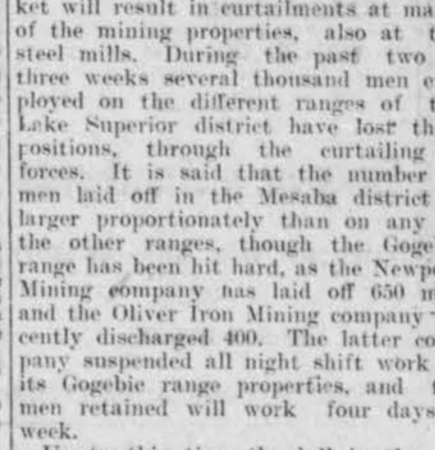

Paing, Webber & Co.'s Chicago correspondent has following to say of the wheat market in that city yesterday: Most of the news for the day was the continuance of the dry hot weather over most of the wheat belt. The Modern Miller reports conceded more injury to the crop in the Southwest. Local observers here are not so sanguine with the official records of moisture supply for months past were giving out rather sensational statements in regard to the shortage of rainfall. While this sort of news was keeping the trade on edge it was noted that there was liberal selling of long wheat on the hard spots. On the whole the map is dry and the one important consideration at the moment.

UNEXPECTED GUESTS

The farmer and his wife were about to sit down to a cold supper when they saw some old friends driving towards the house.

The good wife was equal to the occasion—thanks to her New Perfection Oil Cook-stove. She had it lit in a moment, and her guests hardly were seated on the porch before a hearty hot meal was ready for the table—sausages and eggs and long rashers of streaky bacon, and rolls just crisped in the oven and fresh coffee—and the hostess herself as cool and neat as if she had not been near the kitchen.

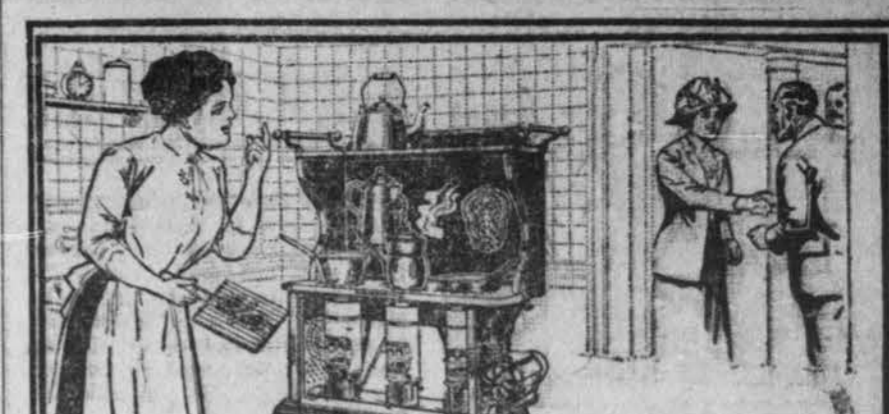

The never could have managed it with an old-fashioned range. The New Perfection is the quickest, most convenient and best cooker on the market. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, with long, turquoise blue enameled chimneys, handily finished throughout.

and, therefore, the first organized club was that which played at Blackheath in James' time. The honor of having been first in real organization was therefor snatched from the Scots by the English. For 250 years, however, that was the only club which played south of the Tweed. In the early days the game was exceedingly democratic, and the collier might be seen playing with the laird and the butcher with his master. It is yet democratic on the other side of the North Atlantic, for Scotland is a democratic country, notwithstanding its historic and romantic fighting for thrones in the old days.

Baking Helps

Learn to Regulate the Heat of Your Oven. By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine. There is just one way to make your cakes rise high and keep an even surface. Have your oven moderate at first, until the cake is fully risen; then increase the heat, so as to brown it over quickly. Extreme heat stiffens the dough. If you stiffen the outside of the cake before the rising is complete, you stop the rising process. Then the leavening gas, forming inside, will bridge up the center, and spoil the shape of the cake.

These are only a few of the many baking helps found in the K.C. Cook's Book—a copy of which may be secured by sending the colored certificate taken from a 25-cent can of K.C. Baking Powder to the JAGGERS MFG. Co., Chicago. Ten minutes after that skill touched shore, the camp consisted of two cooks and three scullions. The kid was a beaver and packer of wood, I was a peeler and slicer of things, and Bill, sweetly oblivious of his bewhiskered dignity, danced about humbly, handing this and that to the grubbers.

The farmer and his wife were about to sit down to a cold supper when they saw some old friends driving towards the house. The good wife was equal to the occasion—thanks to her New Perfection Oil Cook-stove. She had it lit in a moment, and her guests hardly were seated on the porch before a hearty hot meal was ready for the table—sausages and eggs and long rashers of streaky bacon, and rolls just crisped in the oven and fresh coffee—and the hostess herself as cool and neat as if she had not been near the kitchen.

The never could have managed it with an old-fashioned range. The New Perfection is the quickest, most convenient and best cooker on the market. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, with long, turquoise blue enameled chimneys, handily finished throughout.

and, therefore, the first organized club was that which played at Blackheath in James' time. The honor of having been first in real organization was therefor snatched from the Scots by the English. For 250 years, however, that was the only club which played south of the Tweed. In the early days the game was exceedingly democratic, and the collier might be seen playing with the laird and the butcher with his master.

SEEK TO DESTROY THOSE NOISY OWLS. "Toot Toot" and Hoo, Hoo, Hoo! Wise Birds Disturb the Sleepy Kentuckian. From Millersburg, a town down in Kentucky which is presumably not very large, though it is evidently inhabited by unusually sensitive, not to say nervous, people, comes the report of a formal determination to devote a whole day to slaughter, not only this year, but for an indefinite number of years to come.

THE FOUNDATION OF ART.

John G. Neihardt and two companions recently enjoyed a remarkable outing trip down the Missouri river in a power canoe. In "The River and I" Mr. Neihardt tells how the joy of the enterprise was not clouded over, even by "Bill's amateurish panekakes." Still, a warm welcome awaited the little skill, which met them at a certain point, and contained a Canadian Frenchman and a wandering Englishman who had agreed to cook for them.

Certainly they arrived at the moment most psychologically favorable for the old sort of tyranny that followed. Cooking is a weird mystery to me. As for Bill and the kid, courtesy forbids detailed comment. The kid had been uniformly successful in disguising the most familiar articles of diet, and Bill, according to his own naive statement, had discovered the trick of mixing flap-jack batter with manufacturing photographer's mounting paste. His statement was never questioned. Ten minutes after that skill touched Concert at the Prison—The Southland Nightingales, the colored jubilee singers who gave a concert at the opera house Monday night, rendered a complete program at the Marquette prison last evening, which was probably more thoroughly enjoyed by the convicts than any other entertainment ever given at the prison. All the numbers were encores and again and the concert as a whole made a deep and lasting impression. This company are at their best in plantation melodies, which they sing in true plantation style.

Death of Hiram Lang—Hiram Lang, a wellknown resident of this city, died last evening at St. Luke's hospital at the age of sixty-seven, after a two weeks' illness with Bright's disease. Mr. Lang was a tinner by trade and had resided in Marquette about thirty years, coming here from Canada. For the last ten or twelve years, he had been employed by E. B. Manhard & Sons. He was unmarried and boarded with Mrs. Mary Griener, 219 West Washington street. He leaves a brother at Dollarville and a sister at Ann Arbor. The funeral will be held at Hager Bros. chapel Sunday afternoon.

Girls as Gymnasts—A large crowd witnessed the Guild Hall girls' gymnastic exhibition at Guild Hall last evening. The program opened with an indoor baseball game, continued with exhibition drills with Indian clubs, on the parallel bars, traveling rings, jumping etc., and concluded with a swimming exhibition. The work done by the girls was truly wonderful in many respects and was a great surprise to all present. Several of the girls, though they have been in training under Mr. and Mrs. Thayer but one year, are already accomplished gymnasts, and all of them are able to perform many difficult feats. The swimming was perhaps of the most interest to all and the feats performed in the pool were at least equally skillful with those done in the gymnasium. After the program, dancing was enjoyed for an hour or so.

M'AULIFFE BROUGHT TO COUNTY JAIL

Slayer of James Gaffney at Negaunee Waived Examination There Yesterday.

Marshal Jackson, of Negaunee, accompanied by a number of deputies, brought James McAuliffe, who fatally wounded James Gaffney in his saloon at Negaunee Thursday evening, to the county jail last evening, and turned him over to Marshal Lehman, to be held for trial in circuit court. McAuliffe yesterday waived the preliminary examination. McAuliffe was brought down to Marquette in an automobile. He will be tried for murder in the first degree, probably at the next term of circuit court.

Speaking of the case last evening, Marshal Jackson said that to his personal knowledge McAuliffe had not drunk anything in eighteen months prior to last Saturday. For about a year past he had been employed at the Lucy mine, and last week he resigned his position with the purpose of going to California. He began drinking last Saturday and throughout the time until he shot Gaffney drank steadily. It is Marshal Jackson's opinion that McAuliffe, when he shot Gaffney, was in a state of mental derangement due to his excessive drinking, though he was not noticeably drunk and conducted himself as if he knew what he was doing.

The trouble between the men dates back some two years, to an occasion when McAuliffe, under the influence of liquor, caused a disturbance in Gaffney's saloon and threw a chair through a mirror. After this occurrence Gaffney absolutely refused to serve McAuliffe with any drink. This rankled in McAuliffe's mind, it appears. He wanted to make up with Gaffney, but the latter always took the position that he did not want him in his place.

When he began drinking again this old grievance obtained a prominent place in his mind. Early in the week he entered Gaffney's place, laid his revolver on the bar and invited Gaffney to shoot him, saying in so many words that otherwise he would shoot Gaffney. Gaffney himself, told the marshal of this occurrence, but no particular significance was attached to it or McAuliffe's threats, as he was accustomed to talk wildly when in liquor. Marshal Jackson said that McAuliffe when sober was one of the pleasantest and most kindly men that could be found. Yesterday morning, still under the exciting influence of the heavy drinking he had done, he talked wildly, but as the day wore on he became more and more like his normal self.

Of Mr. Gaffney, Marshal Jackson last evening spoke in the highest terms. He was highly regarded, a peacemaker, friendly man. His courage was of a high order. After the shooting Marshal Jackson saw him at the hospital. He expressed no resentment at McAuliffe's act, only said he didn't see why McAuliffe had shot him down, as in his knowledge he had never done anything to injure him. McAuliffe is well known in Marquette, and Mr. Gaffney also had many acquaintances here. The shooting has caused more interest here than any other crime of the kind reported in years.

Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN.

Nearly $3,000 Raised in Munising in Three Days.

With every factory whistle in Munising blowing, the subscription campaign for the Y. M. C. A. opened Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. The campaign was conducted by five teams of five men each, lasted three days and closed Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The campaign committee set out to raise $2,500, which, all things considered, is no small undertaking, but, due to an excellent organization, ardent work on the part of all and the generosity of the good people of Munising, not only was the $2,500 mark reached, but it was exceeded by nearly $500. When all returns have been made $3,000 will have been subscribed. The list was headed by a donation of $1,000 from W. G. Mather, president of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company. The team work resulted as follows:

Dr. Trueman	$440 00
H. B. Freeman	366 00
O. R. Tredway	314 00
Edwin Niness	280 00
High School Boys	32 00

Walter W. Gleason of Potts Dam, N. Y., has been secured to take over the duties of director and instructor of Wyman's School of the Woods of this city, which heretofore has been in charge of the founder of the school, Thomas B. Mr. Gleason is a graduate of Yale college, has had six years of practical experience and leaves a lucrative position to assume the duties of director of Wyman's School of the Woods. He comes highly recommended as an authority on the subject of forestry.

The wedding of J. H. Bergeson, a former well known resident of this city, who now lives in Wausau, Wis., to Miss Bessie Johnson, was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. N. P. The wedding was private, none but relatives and a few immediate friends being present. A wedding luncheon followed the ceremony and

The contests will take place at different parts of the city and about fifty entries have already been received. The feature of the meet will be a four-mile relay race in which forty runners will participate. The following officers will be in charge of the meet: Dr. T. W. Scholtes, referee; judges, Oscar Oie, A. G. Buckman, J. H. Lang, Thorof Holter, Chas. Fitzmaurice, Dr. Light; official starter, Prof. J. W. Taylor.

STANDING ROOM ONLY.

The curtain rose to a packed house last evening at the entertainment given by the pupils of the several grades of the Munising schools at the opera houses. Every seat in the house was sold out twenty-four hours in advance. The program given by the children was pleasing in every particular. The rendition of the several numbers showed that much time had been spent in preparation and reflected great credit upon the teachers.

Theatrical

A SKILLED DIRECTOR.

Walter Rothwell, of St. Paul Orchestra, Has Had Remarkable Career.

Conductor Walter H. Rothwell of the St. Paul Symphony orchestra, who will direct Monday's concert here, has had a remarkable career. Mr. Rothwell, who took the orchestra at the beginning of its third season, is well known as the conductor of the first performances, in English, of "Parsifal" and "Madam Butterfly" by the Savage company. He had charge of not only the music, but of the staging as well. Born in London, Mr. Rothwell was educated in Vienna, where at the famous conservatory, he first studied the piano, and received high honors for excellence, technique and composition. He first conducted at Hamburg, where he was assistant conductor under Gustav Meier, and then at Trieste, Breslau and Amsterdam. In Amsterdam he was general director of the Royal Opera, and had complete charge. He then came to America, to conduct and take charge of "Parsifal" and "Madam Butterfly" productions. Upon his return to Germany, he was offered a five-year position as director of the Frankfurt Opera, but preferred the more congenial field of purely orchestral work, and accepted the engagement offered him by the St. Paul Symphony orchestra. Mr. Rothwell's long study in Europe and association with the leading musicians and composers insures authoritative interpretations. He is particularly happy in his rendering of the classical symphonies of the old masters, though he has also a keen appreciation and understanding of the works of the modern schools, and delights in bringing out their orchestral beauty.

IN PUBLIC ENTERTAINMENT.

Miss Kingman and Miss Palmer Will Appear at Opera House June 5.

Miss Doris Kingman, the clever young dancer who spent a few weeks here last fall, returns next week, and will give a dance program at the Marquette Opera House Monday evening, June 5, in which she will be assisted by Miss Jessie Palmer. Miss Kingman has been for the past season on the faculty of the Hinman school of dancing in Chicago, of which she is a graduate, and was formerly with the Drexel Institute a instructor of physical culture and dancing. She is a teacher of great ability and a wonderfully graceful dancer.

The program will be a rare treat not only to lovers of dancing, but to all music lovers as well, as it will combine good orchestral numbers, classic, folk and step dances.

PRISON PROBER ARRESTED.

Rev. S. Donald Rogers Charged With Violation of State Statute.

Last evening Rev. S. Donald Rogers was arrested on a warrant issued by Prosecuting Attorney Bell on the complaint of Warden Russell, charging him with the violation of a state statute in taking a letter from a prisoner and seeking to have it placed in the mails without undergoing the inspection required by the law.

Rev. Rogers is a Quaker preacher who met the warden and Governor Osborn on a train coming north the latter part of April. He had decided opinions about the Marquette prison, and Governor Osborn invited him to look the institution over. He remained there for three weeks, the guest of the state. Shortly after his arrival he wrote the governor a letter to the effect that the prison impressed him more like a well regulated school than a mismanaged institution.

About ten days ago Rev. Rogers handed Alfred West, the clerk, a letter, requesting him to mail it. West recognized the handwriting and asked, "Where did Hamilton get that stamp? They aren't supposed to have stamps back here."

Hamilton is the man who was sent up from Houston county for twenty years for an attempt to dynamite Sheriff Beck. Rev. Rogers assured him the letter was alright. West reported the matter to Warden Russell and the letter was opened. It was addressed to a Grand Rapids clergyman, and asked him to present himself in collecting papers in Hamilton's case. Incidentally it contained a vicious attack on Clerk West. It's most significant statement under the circumstances was a warning not to refer to the letter in the reply, for the reason that it was not going out through the regular channels. Warden Russell grilled Rev. Rogers for his conduct in the matter and the reverend gentleman left for town bright and early the next morning without bidding anybody goodbye.

His view of the Marquette prison also became greatly modified from what it was when he reported it to the warden. He wrote a letter to the governor telling him that the sum total of his observations was that the prison and warden would not do at all, that the "system" was cruel and wrong, etc., not forgetting to send a copy of his letter P. D. Q. to the Detroit Journal.

The delay in issuing the warrant calling for his arrest until early this week was due to the absence of Prosecuting Attorney Bell from the county. When it was placed in the officers' hands Rev. Rogers could not be found in the city and it was thought he had left town but yesterday afternoon it was learned he was very indignant at his arrest last evening and told the marshal that the city would get into trouble and charged the action to spite work on the part of Warden Russell.

At a late hour last night, Rev. Rogers was still in custody, having been unable to find bondsmen.

Guild Hall Notes

The Hit and Miss club will repeat the exhibition it gave in the gymnasium and swimming pool last night, at 8 o'clock tonight. Tickets can be obtained at the office, or of the members or at the door. The price for the exhibition and the dance is twenty-five cents. In the indoor baseball game last night Miss Foster's team won by a score of 7 to 6. The members of the other team say they intend to win tonight by a larger score. Several new "stunts" will be added to the exhibition, one of them being a swimming match arranged by the clowns. This promise to be one of the biggest things of its kind ever seen in Marquette. A foot race is also being planned by the clowns. There will be no class for the Hit and Miss club this morning. The club will meet at the hall tonight in time to be dressed by 7:30, so that a picture of the entire club can be taken before the exhibition begins.

The Guild Hall baseball team will play two games this afternoon. The first will be with the Ishpeming High school team which will start promptly at 1 o'clock. The line-up will be: Johnson, catcher; Quarters, and Hatch, pitch; Catlin, first base; Bastion, second base; Frei, short stop; Zyrd, third base; Smith, Bowser and Hayes, fielders. The second game will be with the Ishpeming Y. M. C. A. and will start at 3 o'clock. The lineup of Guild Hall will be the same as in the first game with the exception of the battery. Jeansen and Thayer will be the battery for the second game, and F. Johnson will play second base. Tickets for the games will be sold on the field and the management hopes that no one will try to avoid paying, because there is no way of keeping people from seeing the game if they insist on not paying. It is hoped to have some good amateur baseball on Longyear field this summer and to do so means considerable expense. If each one will pay the small amount charged, the expenses can be met without difficulty. The game between the E club teams announced for this afternoon will be played this morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Normal Notes

President Kaye is in Detroit attending the meetings of the state board of education and the normal council.

Superintendent F. W. Lewis of Port Huron and Commissioner Harvey H. Lowrey of Ionia, members of the visiting board of the Northern Normal, spent yesterday at the school.

The commencement address will this year be delivered by Jenkin Lloyd Jones of Chicago, the wellknown lecturer. The commencement exercises will take place Tuesday, June 20.

The training school pupils and teachers are busily engaged in gardening at present. The school gardens back of the south building have been laid out, and each child has planted his garden. The results are awaited eagerly.

During the present week, Miss Edwards of the art department has had an interesting exhibition of students' work in her room. Portfolios, candle-shades, both brass and paper; hand-bags woven of colored silks, and critic note books, all carried out in excellent designs originated by the students, formed a great part of the collection.

Tuesday morning Dr. Downing entertained faculty and students with a very interesting talk on "Humor." He gave a number of illustrations of the humor of various nations.

On Thursday morning of this week, the Misses Eva Watt, Sigrid Nikander, and Gertrude Johnson gave an excellent program at assembly. Miss Nikander played Weber's "Storm" and also a selection from the opera "Faust." Miss Watt gave a reading from Booth Tarkington's "Monsieur Beaucaire" and as an encore read "Society Setting a Hen." Miss Johnson sang "To the Rose," by Krone. The program was a very enjoyable one.

The oratorical contest held Tuesday evening was very successful in every way. The assembly room was packed to its capacity and the audience received the numbers most heartily. After the program, Osiris and Ygrasil Literary societies held a reception in the society rooms. A very pleasant evening was spent by all.

Last evening Ygrasil Literary society gave a delightful reception to the faculty and Osiris members. The decorations had been left since the Junior party two weeks ago, and with a few changes the hall looked practically the same. Several new banners had been added, conspicuous among them one for the faculty. Lilies were also used in the decorative scheme. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served, and dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening.

"The Drama of Michigan" is the title of the play or pageant which will be presented by the senior class at their class day exercises this year. As there is no dramatization on this subject, the students have gathered all available material from various sources, and have dramatized the whole, under the supervision of Mrs. Rushmore. The characters taking part in the different scenes will be costumed in accordance with the period they represent. All are enthusiastic about this work, and the outlook is that this pageant will prove the most successful class day exercise given by any graduating class heretofore.

DO-GHOSTS HAUNT SWAMPS!

No, never. It's foolish to fear a fancied evil, when there are real and deadly perils to guard against in swamps and marshes, bayous and lowlands. These are the malaria germs that cause ague, chills and fever, weakness, aches in the bones and muscles and may induce deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters destroys and casts out these vicious germs from the blood. "Three bottles drove the malaria from my system," wrote Wm. Fretwell of Lucona, N. C., "and I've had fine health ever since." Use this safe, sure remedy only, 50c at The Stafford Drug Co.

FARMERS' LEADER'S FIGURES TWISTED

Data Given by the Grange in Assailing Reciprocity Are Proved Erroneous.

Washington, May 26.—The point was made a few days ago that the arguments against Canadian reciprocity made by the Grange leaders before the senate finance committee were political rather than economic. This fact was apparent to any one attending the hearings. An analysis of the figures quoted by ex-Governor Nathan J. Bachelder of New Hampshire, the chief speaker for the farmers, now demonstrates that Governor Bachelder absolutely misstated facts and showed an ignorance of actual trade conditions between the two countries which can be accounted for only on the theory that some clerk had handed him the wrong set of figures.

One of the most telling points made by the ex-governor, if it had been true, was that most of the Canadian imports of certain articles come from Great Britain, when, as a matter of fact, they go from the United States. If any one fact in the economics of Canadian trade has stood out a little more prominently than another, it has been the utter inability of the British preferential to divert the Canadians from buying in their natural source of supply, the United States, and send them to England for their wares.

Starting Figures of Canadian Trade.

The figures supporting this conclusion are startling in their eloquence. In 1908, two years after the abrogation of the Elgin treaty of 1855-60, Canada took about 65 per cent. of her dutiable imports from Great Britain and only 23 per cent. from the United States. She took at that time about 40 per cent. of her free imports from Great Britain and about 54 per cent. from this country. Of all imports she took 34 per cent. from Great Britain and nearly 34 per cent. from the United States.

This ratio continued, in the absence of any trade arrangement with the United States or any special concessions to Great Britain, for many years. But the proportion Canada bought from Great Britain grew steadily less and from the United States steadily more until the period about 1891 to 1895, when the tide turned completely and since that time there has not been a year in which Canada has not bought from $5,000,000 to nearly $60,000,000 more of dutiable goods from this country than from England.

The British preferential has been increased meantime and it has been applied directly to encourage the import of certain great staples, yet the bulk of the trade has gone to this country and nothing but absolutely prohibitive duties can stop this continual and natural outflow of American goods to the welcoming North. For ten years Canada has bought nearly sixty per cent. of her total imports of all kinds from the United States and only about 25 per cent. from Great Britain. Even with the advantages British goods enjoyed from 1898 to 1905, the average for the forty-two years on all imports has been more than 51 per cent. of purchases from the United States and less than 35 per cent. from Great Britain.

Tariff Cannot Separate Neighbors.

This steadily increasing trade with her neighbor, Canada has maintained notwithstanding that imports from the United States have paid duties as high or higher than those coming from Great Britain. In the long early period while England was selling more dutiable goods to Canada than we were (since never has sold her as many free goods) British goods paid higher duties on the average than American. In the last fifteen years, or since the American sales have largely overstepped those of England, the average rate on American goods often has been higher than that on British, notwithstanding the operation of the British preferential. In other words, the considerations of noariness, convenience and better quality have outweighed tariff advantages and the Canadian farmer never have tried to trade with the sister rather than the mother country. It is an open secret that British statesmen for years have been keenly disappointed at the failure of the preferential to throw the balance of trade against the United States and in favor of Great Britain. During all this period, it must be borne in mind, American goods have paid the Canadian general and not the intermediate rate, as the refusal of the United States to grant any measure of reciprocity with Canada has led the Dominion to levy the highest tax possible on the wares of the United States. In 1909 Canada's imports from Great Britain paid average duties of 25.75 per cent. and American merchandise was taxed 24.868 per cent. The average for forty-two years is almost exactly the same—23.251 on British and 23.919 on American.

Wrong on American Rates, Too.

The ex-governor made as many errors in the American rates. He said, for example, that the rate on sugar brought by the farmer was 80 per cent. when the truth is that the average rate on the imports of 1910 was a little less than 53 per cent. The rate on jute bags works out at 43.8 per cent. instead of 45. Cotton thread is a little more than 32 per cent. instead of 45 per cent. The lower grades of earthenware are dutiable at 25 instead of 60 per cent. The ex-governor misquoted the rates on laundry soap, pianos, stoves, sewing machines, tinware, rubber boots and shoes, clocks, automobiles, and many other articles, all of which are bought by Canadians from the United States in overwhelming quantities as compared with the imports from other countries. The Bachelder statement is so full of errors that this letter would be crowded out of reading attractiveness by quoting them.

Some Things the Farmers Forget.

Unfortunately no member of the committee was willing to do the administrative justice of correcting the obvious errors made by the speakers opposed to reciprocity, at least on the Republican side. The farmer critics made no reference to the important fact that the population of the world is increasing along with Canadian production, or that the Canadians desire reciprocity to raise their own prices and not to reduce ours. The whole argument as to the farmers apparently was based on the supposition that if reciprocity prevailed the Canadians would swing into the United States at starvation prices, while as a matter of fact the immense production of the United States as compared with Canada would govern prices and the Canadians would reap the benefit without injuring the Americans a particle. As they are the largest buyers of American manufactures in the world, they would thus be able to buy more of the manufacturing interests of this country would thus be benefited by reciprocity without the farmer suffering at all. That is the plain economics of the Canadian situation, but the farmer critics appear never to have heard of it. They think, evidently, that ninety million people make a smaller crowd than nine million.

Bachelder's Twisted Figures.

Ex-Governor Bachelder tried to prove that the Canadian farmer was paying less duty on articles of common use here than the American, and he would have done so had his figures been correct. He said, for instance, that the Canadian paid only 15 per cent. on common earthenware, most used by farmers

PIGEON AND TEETH GONE.

Denver Dentist Will Be Out $75 Unless the Bird Is Found.

Denver, Colo., May 26.—A little episode partaking of comedy and tragedy, the latter strictly humorous, has developed in a dentist's office in this city. The story shapes itself this way in a local paper:

Lost—One white, fan-tail pigeon, with two gold teeth. Answers to name, Fan. Returning to 612 Empire building and keep gold teeth for trouble and expense.

Or—
Fan—Come home and all will be forgiven.
Gave. It may be explained, is the erstwhile pet of Doctors G. E. Brown, A. C. Stewart and E. C. Tennant, all of whom share the same reception room on the sixth floor of the Empire building. Fan is the only pigeon medical student known.

The bird formerly made its home with others of its kind in an arch at the court house. Fan became a pet of the three medical men a year ago under very unusual circumstances.

Dr. Brown had placed a box containing some strychnine pills on a window sill at his office. Fan, who at that time was unnamed, happened along. She espied the pills, being hungry and believing the pills were intended as a meal for her, she alighted on the window sill and made a meal of the poisonous little pellets. Apparently the poison had no effect on her, for thereafter she made daily visits in anticipation of another such feast.

Roosted on Hall Tree.

Growing to know the bird, the three doctors encouraged her visits by putting bits of food and water on the window sill for her. Since then she has made the offices and reception room her home, having at all times access through open windows. The desks, bookcases and other articles of furniture have been her lounging place through the day. At night her roosting place has been an arm of a hall tree that stands in the reception room.

Each morning she received her breakfast from one or more of her benefactors. During the day she divided her time and affections between them. She was an especial favorite with friends and patrons of the doctors and she is known to most every office occupant on the sixth floor of the building.

Fan's only fault was her inquisitiveness. And her inquisitive disposition, according to her friends, has come near resulting fatally for her several times. And thereby hinges the tale of the gold teeth Fan possesses.

Story of the Teeth.

Dr. Brown was requested to repair a plate composed of two gold teeth. In repairing the molars it was necessary for the doctor to use cement. He placed the two gold grinders on a stand near the window.

A few minutes later Fan, after an all-day's absence from home, returned hungry. Immediately she began a search for something to appease her appetite. Her wanderings eventually took her to the stand where the two gold teeth reposed. She gave an inquiring look with her bill. The second peek had a surprising effect. Her beak wedged into a cavity. The bird hopped, fluttered and beat the air with her wings, but she could not release her bill. Before she could be stopped, she had flown out of the window in flight. Even in the air she continued to tumble and flop an endeavor to release her bill from the clamp that held it. She flew out of sight.

Unless the bird returns to her home where she can be assisted, or otherwise succeeds in releasing herself, she can not eat. If she drops the gold teeth in her flight, Dr. Brown will be the loser of about $75 worth of gold and will be obliged to replace the teeth. Dr. Brown says he will forgive Fan, replace the teeth and forget her shortcomings if she will but return.

SNAKES FOR SANITATION

Suggested That Tame Reptiles Would Head Off Plagues.

Prof. Sambon, a London physician and all-round expert on tropical diseases, has fathered the remarkable suggestion that by domesticating a number of non-poisonous snakes and their addition to the ordinary household might prove an effective means of protection against plague. His idea is that they would eat up the rats that harbor the fleas that carry the plague into the houses (sounds like the one that Jack built).

The trouble with cats is that they may themselves become infected with plague through the rat fleas. Snakes of many varieties are good ratters. Prof. Sambon directs attention to the well-known practice of that snakes were used as domestic vermin killers in ancient times. The Egyptians kept domestic snakes in their houses. In 291 B. C., when Rome was devastated by the plague, rat-eating snakes were introduced. They were placed in the public buildings as well as in private houses.

This scheme may be alright from a scientific point of view, but is isn't likely to prove popular with housewives. In fact, we fancy the average nation would prefer a troop of domesticated mice around under foot to a pair of snakes.

Perhaps in India and the countries of danger, the natural human repugnance to the family of creeping things might be overcome by their utility. But the Yankee home is likely to remain free from this new domestic pet.—New York Press.

M'AUILLIFFE'S VICTIM SAYS CITIES SHOULD HELP SOCIETIES

DIED YESTERDAY

James Gaffney Succumbed to His Terrible Wound Shortly Before 10 a. m.

James Gaffney, who was shot down by John McAuilliffe in the former's saloon in the Kirkwood block shortly after nine o'clock Thursday evening, passed away as a result of the terrible wound inflicted by the bullet from McAuilliffe's revolver, at Dr. Robbins' hospital at 9:55 o'clock yesterday morning.

The surgeons made every attempt to save his life, resorting to anastomosis operation. The bullet pierced the small intestines in several places, and the only hope of pulling Mr. Gaffney through laid in the removal of the injured tissues. Twelve feet of the small intestines were taken out. Mr. Gaffney showed the greatest nerve and courage at every stage of the trying hours that preceded his death. On regaining consciousness after the operation was completed he expressed confidence that he would recover to the attending physicians and relatives who were at his bedside. But the shock and the seriousness of the operation were too great to allow him much of a chance for recovery, and it was quickly seen that his death was simply a matter of a few hours.

The most charitable theory is one that McAuilliffe was not merely himself, because of continued drinking, but from all accounts he was not noticeably drunk Thursday night, though he had been drinking. He walked and talked steadily, and gave the impression that he was in a condition in which he knew what he was doing.

The murder appears to have had its root in the Gaffney saloon about two years ago. This apparently rankled in McAuilliffe's mind, and according to the informant, furnished the motive for the crime. Early in the week McAuilliffe entered Gaffney's place, threw his revolver, an automatic Savage, on the bar before Gaffney and told him that this was his opportunity to use it. If he failed to do so McAuilliffe said he would "get him." It is reported that McAuilliffe made frequent threats against Gaffney, and apparently he had carried the revolver for some days. For some reason no attention was paid to his threats.

The shooting Thursday night was over before either Gaffney or any one of the five or six men in the barroom had any intimation of the murderous intent of McAuilliffe, and before an arm could be lifted to stay him from his purpose. He entered the place quietly, approached Gaffney, pulled out his revolver, and fired the fatal shot. He then asked the other men in the place if they wanted the same treatment, and on their scattering left the saloon. He entered the bar of the Montreal house a few minutes later, and invited the physicians who were attending Gaffney. He then told them that he had shot Gaffney and displayed his revolver. They did not credit his statements at first. McAuilliffe shortly left the Montreal house bar, and returned to the Gaffney saloon, where he calmly watched the physicians who were attending Gaffney while he waited for the officers. As related yesterday morning, he gave himself up to Marshal Jackson without offering any sign of resistance. Yesterday he is credited with saying that he would not have surrendered to any other man without a fight. When McAuilliffe was informed of Gaffney's death yesterday morning and was told that a charge of murder would be entered against him he showed not the slightest regret for his crime, but expressed sorrow at the disgrace he had brought on members of his family.

McAuilliffe after the period of his service in the Spanish war became a drinking man, and when in liquor is reputed to have been quarrelsome, though when sober he is said to have been well disposed and peaceable. He had many friends, all of whom were greatly shocked to learn of his crime. For nearly a year past McAuilliffe worked as a pumpman at the Lucy mine, and he is said not to have drunk anything for eighteen months up to the time, about a week ago, when he received his position preparatory, it is understood to going to California. He then began drinking and it is supposed that this fact is responsible for his slaying of Gaffney.

The murdered man was widely known and generally popular, and had been engaged in the saloon business in Negaunee for the past four or five years having returned from Oshkosh to Negaunee to engage in it. At Oshkosh he had a mechanical job with the street railway company and he was engaged in similar work here before he went to the Wisconsin city.

Negaunee has not in years been so stirred by a crime as it has been by the killing of Gaffney. Probably no two men in the city have been more generally known, and the authorities expressed surprise to have a man of such enjoyable reflection that the man probably was not in his right mind when he committed it.

RETURN FROM PHILIPPINES

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Foard Arrived in Marquette Yesterday After Two Years' Absence in Uncle Sam's Most Eastern Possessions—Have Circled Globe.

Trip Home by Way of Suez Canal and Mediterranean Sea Was Very Interesting—Saw Many Strange Peoples and Had Opportunity to Observe Customs.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Foard arrived in Marquette yesterday morning to spend a few weeks with Mr. Foard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Foard, who have spent the past two years at Manila as customs inspector in the employ of the United States government, and while there he was married an army nurse, whose home is at Delphos, Ohio, whom he became acquainted with on the way across to the Philippines from San Francisco two years ago. Incidentally, upon his arrival in this city yesterday, Mr. Foard completed a circuit of the globe, as he came home from Manila from the east and left here for the Philippines by the westward route.

"We left Manila Feb. 28," said Mr. Foard yesterday, "on the British steamer Kioto. After a very fine passage of five days, we arrived off the coast of the Malay peninsula, on which the city of Singapore is situated, but as the vessel had taken on a full cargo at Manila, only a very short stop was made there—just long enough to send mail ashore. After leaving Singapore, we passed through the South China sea into the Straits of Malacca, forty-three miles from the equator. We were two days in the straits as the vessel stopped at Sabang, a coaling station. Sabang has one of the largest coaling plants in the world and belongs to Holland.

"Three days after leaving Sabang, we arrived at Colombo, an Indian ocean seaport. Colombo is on the island of Ceylon and has a few of the largest tea and spice plantations in the world. During the few hours we were there, we paid our respects to the American consul and took a three mile ride in a rickshaw, a carriage with two wheels, pulled by a native who starts out on a run and never stops until his passengers wish to get out. Colombo is a beautiful city with fine stores.

American Money in Demand.
"In Colombo American money commands a high price as jewelry. The diamond merchants are very glad to get American $20 gold pieces, which they attach to watch chains as ornaments. It is said that the wealth of a merchant there can be estimated by the ornaments on his watch chain. Twenty minutes after our arrival in Colombo, every merchant knew we had American gold, and were following us everywhere making offers for the coins. Singapore waiters are employed in the hotels and they speak English very well. It is difficult to distinguish sexes until one knows that the men wear a comb on the crown of the head, which is a distinctive feature of their dress as men's trousers in this country.

"Leaving Ceylon and the Indian ocean, we entered the Arabian sea, on our way to Aden, Arabia. Near Aden, on one of the islands of Socotra, we saw the wreck of one of the Hamburg American boats, which was sunk a year ago with all on board. We arrived in Aden March 23. Aden is only a small place and is at the foot of a large mountain. One of the first sights we saw was the camels starting out over the mountains, camels instead of horses being used. The people of Aden are very black, and no matter where one goes, about twenty of them will follow, some with cigarettes, some with ostrich plumes, some with jewelry, etc. Upon the arrival of any passengers at Aden, several black natives will come forward with heads wrapped in white cloth, and after asking for a penny, will take off this cover and show a head of red curly hair. We learned that the natives dipped their heads in line so as to have red hair, and they make a good living in this manner.

Have Finest Teeth in World.
"The inhabitants of Aden have the finest teeth of any people. This may be due to the manner in which they care for them. They get tree branches of a soft fibrous wood, which they cut into pieces three or four inches in length and with this they rub and polish their teeth until they are perfectly white. They claim that a shark will not attack a black man and after one catches the odor of the grease with which these men anoint their bodies, one does not blame the sharks.

"The women are very poorly dressed but have very fine jewelry. This is the case with all old and young, and, as one of the ship officers stated, in a place as hot as Aden no one would care to wear anything warmer than jewelry. After returning to the ship we found almost 100 black children, ages ranging from eight to fifteen years, ready to dive into the water for copper. The bay is full of sharks, but not one of the natives seems to care and no matter where or what part of the ship one tells them to go, they will dive off into the water.

"From the Gulf of Aden, we entered the Gulf of Bat al Mandel, and then the Red sea. In the Red sea we passed a number of high brown mountains, known to all the ship officers as the Twelve Apostles.

"At Suez we did not go ashore, as there were several divers hired by the captain to look over the bottom of the ship. After taking a pilot and placing a searchlight at the bow of the vessel, we started through the Suez canal. The rule of the canal is that if more than one ship is going to Port Said, they can have the right of way and, as we had three boats after us, we had a quick passage, arriving at Port Said in sixteen hours. We went ashore at Port Said and found a great many people, as there were two passenger boats in on that day. There are a great number of stores at Port Said, with souveniers from the Holy Land and other places.

Rough on Mediterranean.
"After leaving Port Said, we entered the Mediterranean Sea, and after a few days of very rough weather, we passed the island of Crete. Nothing of especial interest was noticed until we entered the Straits of Messina, on one side, the island of Sicily, and on the other, Italy. We saw the city of Messina and also the ruins of the city which was destroyed by the great earthquake. The new city is building up and the new buildings are of stone. A few miles on the other side of the city of Messina stands Mt. Etna, smoking and covered with snow.

"Our vessel passed within a few hundred yards of Mt. Stromboli, which is an active volcano, and made a very pretty sight, throwing out flames over the water. Up to the time of entering the Straits of Bonifacio we had very rough seas. Going through the straits, we passed several schools of whales and one came very near the ship and looked to us as big as the ship itself. The island of Corsica is on one side of the straits, and the island of Sardinia on the other, and Rome is only a few miles in the distance.

"On April 4 we arrived at Marseilles, France. We stayed in France three days and while there went to the palace of the Notre Dame de la Garde, the public gardens, the French forts and the docks. Leaving France we entered the Gulf of Lyons, and while only in the gulf two days, we all agreed the gulf was rightly named, for we made several attempts to return but could not on account of the heavy seas. The vessel sailed very close to the shores of Spain and we were able with glasses to see a great many old palaces and forts on our way to Gibraltar. The rock of Gibraltar is white and looks like marble. The guns of the forts could be very plainly seen from the ship.

"From the straits of Gibraltar up the coast to the English channel, nasty, foggy and rainy weather was encountered, and nothing of interest could be seen until between Dover and Calais, where ferry boats ply between England and France. On account of so many reservations ahead of us, we had to stay in London nine days before we could get a boat from Liverpool. While in London, we visited the largest theatres, Battersea park, Regent's park, Brockwell park, Holland park, Hyde park, St. Paul's cathedral, Tower of London, Tower bridge, House of Parliament, House of Lords, Thames river, London bridge and we also took in several of the old shops.

"The trip from Liverpool to New York was made on the Baltic and we had a rather rough passage, but finally arrived in the United States again, after having been away two years and having traveled around the world."

BASEBALL SEASON IS OPEN TODAY

Marquette Plays at Negaunee and Ishpeming at Escanaba This Afternoon.

This afternoon the opening baseball games of the league season will be played, Marquette playing at Negaunee and Ishpeming at Escanaba. Games will be played at the same cities Sunday, but on Monday and Tuesday Negaunee will play at Marquette and Escanaba at Ishpeming. As is generally the case, none of the four managers of the teams is as certain that he has the only nine in the league as he was a few weeks ago. Players who had been signed have failed to put out in an appearance and others who have tried out have failed to "deliver the goods." All of the teams have fared about equally in the disappointments, though the general impression is that Negaunee right now is in better shape than any other team in the league. This opinion is based largely on the knowledge that Negaunee has much the same team as represented that city last year and won the county league pennant.

There are enough new men in all the teams, however, to make betting on any of the eight games to be played during the next four days a risky proposition. The weather has been bad the past week and none of the teams had much opportunity to practice. For that reason, all the managers feel just a little shaky, but as all the teams are in the same boat, local fans need not lose any sleep, worrying lest Marquette is due to come in for a series of beatings. As a matter of fact, Marquette probably has just as good a team right now as any city in the league. That Escanaba is having its troubles is evident from the following from the Morning Press:

"Baseball fans of the city are worrying over the unfinished condition of the local diamond and with the announcement yesterday that another heavy rain will make it impossible to play the opening game here on Saturday, real concern was shown. With a steady downpour of rain continuing through nearly an entire week, when the surface of the infield was played up and covered with iron clay, the whole diamond was converted into a mushy lake. Since the rains ceased the diamond has dried out but slowly and it has not yet been possible to either harrow or roll the surface.

"In addition to the water soaking of the diamond and the continuous wet weather have prevented the local players from getting sufficient practice to make a favorable showing in the opening games. "The unpracticed condition of his players has been a source of great worry to Capt. Olmsted as up to this time it has been practically impossible for him to get a line on the players who are sufficiently fast for the local league. The work of some of the outside players brought here for the opening of the season has been a disappointment to Capt. Olmsted so far and it now appears that it will be impossible to draw any definite conclusions until the men get into action in a regular game.

"All of the players were out yesterday for practice but their inability to work the diamond made it impossible to use a signal practice or to drill the men on inside baseball.

Every home in Marquette should float the Star Spangled Banner Memorial Day. Note special prices on same for Saturday and Monday. See window. Size, 2 1/2 feet x 4 ft at 49 cents; 3 ft. x 5 feet, at 69 cents; 4 ft. x 6 ft. at 90 cents; and 5 ft. x 8 ft. at $1.50. HAGER BROS., CO., Ltd. 5-27-11

NOTICE TO IBERNIANS.
All members of Division No. 4, Ancient Order of Hibernians, are requested to meet at Keough's Hall Monday morning, May 29, at 8:15 o'clock to attend the funeral of our late brother, Daniel Sullivan, JAS. P. DEEGAN, Secretary. 5-27-11

STRICKEN BY DEATH WHILE HE WORKED

Daniel Sullivan, of Hotel Clifton, Died Very Suddenly at His Farm Yesterday.

Seldom has this community been shocked as it was shortly after noon yesterday, when it became known that Daniel Sullivan proprietor of the Hotel Clifton, had dropped dead at his farm, a mile west of the city. Mr. Sullivan went out to the farm yesterday morning, apparently in as good health as usual, to do several repair jobs. About 12 o'clock he went into the chicken house and evidently had gotten down on his knees to fix something about the stove. Death must have come instantaneously, as he was still in that position when found at 12:30.

The people living at the farm at once telephoned to his son, Eugene, in this city, and Dr. O. G. Youngquist and Coroner L. P. Cray went to the farm, arriving there about 1 o'clock. Dr. Youngquist found that life was extinct and that death had probably been caused by a blood clot passing into the heart. The coroner declared that no inquest was necessary, and the body was brought to the city early in the afternoon.

Mr. Sullivan had always enjoyed good health, but during the past winter he had been troubled with rheumatism. For the last few weeks, however, he had been feeling better than for some time. Since his brother died in Chicago about a year ago, Mr. Sullivan had often spoken to members of his family about death and frequently expressed the hope that when his time came, the end might come suddenly.

Born in Detroit Nov. 25, 1852, Mr. Sullivan was in his fifty-ninth year. His youth and young manhood were spent in that city and at twenty-six years ago, with his wife who survives him, he moved to Marquette, entering the employ of The Mining Journal as pressman Jan. 1, 1885. He continued with this firm until August, 1887, when he entered the hotel business, taking charge of the Hotel Brunswick on Spring street. While at the Brunswick, he purchased the farm west of town, where he passed away. A few years later, he moved out to the farm and for a short time he engaged in the dairy business. He then went to the Huron Mountain club, of which he was steward for five years.

In November, 1898, Mr. Sullivan purchased the Hotel Clifton. Five years and two months later, he sold the hotel to W. O. Butler and moved on his farm again. In 1905, he again took charge of the hotel and remained at its head until his death.

Mr. Sullivan took an active interest in the affairs of the city and especially in athletics. He was always a staunch supporter of baseball and in 1890 built the first grand stand on the old fair grounds, a year or two later becoming manager of a baseball team, which even now is looked upon as one of the fastest aggregations of ball players that ever wore Marquette uniforms.

He was a member of Marquette lodge, B. P. O. E., an honored member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and a member of Superior tent, Knights of the Marceleses.

He is survived by a wife and one son, Daniel Eugene, and also by a sister, Mrs. Dennis Lynch, of Detroit, and a half sister, Mrs. Anna Solway, of Oconto. Funeral arrangements have not been made.
