It's a wonder that those prohibition fanatics who stand so straight that they bend backwards did not find fault with President Taft for visiting Milwaukee. There would have been about as much logic in such a performance as there was in ripping Secretary Wilson up the back because he accepted an honorary office in the international brewers' convention, that he might discuss and concern himself with the agricultural phases of the meeting.

Paine, Webber & Co. yesterday wired rom New York as follows: With cap ital sensitive to adverse conditions, will soon become apparent that no de-velopments will be undertaken; and if so the result will simply be a shrinkage of security values, the burden of which will fall on many of the worthy, includng innocent stockholders and labor With the complex and mixed situation he only advice in order is to observe a trading position for the present, and operations should be confined to the railoads in preference to the industrials. We are of the opinion that after the rading has adjusted itself to a more settled basis the general market will break away from the influence of the Steel stocks and other so-called industrials susceptible to the attacks of the administration. The day's prices were as

Boston "Coppers."

Of the market at Boston, Paine, Webber & Co. yesterday said: The actual filing of the suit against the Steel company was a shock to the financial interests, and stocks of all kinds were thrown over this morning regardless of prices. Shortly after the opening, however, good upport was furnished and the decline was stopped. Prices held at practically the low point all day and the rallies were very feeble. It must be remembered, however, that it took three to five ears to settle the Tobacco and Standard

Oil cases and it probably will take equally long to determine the future of the Steel company. The local coppers showed very little liquidation and prices held remarkably well, with a fair rally at the close. We believe an improvement in coppers is under way and that they will break away from the depressing inhowever, and in some cases diamond drillfluence of the New York market and pass almost unnoticed. The rapid ad- have a rally based on the improved vance was brought about in a com- metal market. The closing prices were 8. Have Been Using Two and Three. Quarters Inch Nets Under Authority of Special Act Which May Have Been Repealed-Game Warden Asked Opinion. Names of the Boats Bound for Ports on

As a result of one of the many "jokers" found in the fish and game laws enacted by the last legislature, it is possible that local fishermen will be kept from herring fishing, the season for which opens about Nov. 10 and continthes well along into December. In her-ring fishing, Marquette fishermen have been using two and three-eighths and two and a half inch mesh nets, under a local act applying only to Keweenaw Bay and the waters of Lake Superior adincent to Marquette county. In all other waters of Michigan nothing small-GOOD PROGRESS er than two and three-fourths inch nets can be used. No changes were made in the commercial fishing laws at the last session of the legislature, but a provision was in-serted in the game laws repealing all local acts, and the passage of local acts is prohibited by the new constitution. Deputy Game Warden Eddy has sugrested to local fishermen that the appar ently innocent provision in the 1910 game laws may abolish the local act under which they have been using two and three-eighths inch nets for herring fishing. FIFTH OR SIXTH STREET.

Lively Controversy on Over Filling in Whetstone Creek Ravine.

No progress is being made in the move ent to build another street across Whetsone creek ravine, because of a dif ference of opinion as to whether the ravine shall be filled in as an extension to Sixth or Fifth street. The first petition, signed by residents on Blemhube hill and others, all numbering fifty-sev en, asked for the extension of Sixth street to Altamont street. This petition was favorably acted upon by the Conditions Are Different.

Local fishermen are very anxious to have the commercial fish laws thoroughly revised and put in such shape that they will not need to be changed for a lon period of years. With a new act passed every two years, the fishermen are unable to buy nets in large quantities, as they never know when any net will be outlawed. As one fisherman expressed
