Dictum to the Unemployed Is Negated When Sacramento Refuses to Aid Yolo Get Rid of Its Unwelcome Guests—Only the 'Army' Happy Over Situation.

Sacramento, Calif., March 13.—Yolo and Sacramento counties figuratively made faces at each other from opposite sides of the Sacramento river today when 'General' Kelley's jobless army basked in the sunshine of a perfect day, fished for codfish from the banks of the Yolo levees, rolled in the sand and took in desultory retreats.

Changed financial and sentimental conditions completely negated the stern ultimatum delivered by Yolo yesterday. The Sacramento citizens' committee withdrew its verbal offer of a few days ago to pay for the transportation of the army if only it were moved away.

Yolo's Affair, Says Sacramento. 'We are not in the business of housing unfortunate men out of employment,' was the subject of Sacramento's attitude.

U. S. EXPRESS FORTHWITH TO QUIT BUSINESS

Directors of Company in Continuous Operation for Sixty Years Vote to Liquidate Its Affairs and Dissolve the Corporation in the Shortest Possible Time.

Mail Competition and Recent Enforced Reduction in Rates Are Given as Reasons—Earnings Decreasing of Late—Value of the Assets Approximates $10,000,000.

New York, March 13.—The directors of the United States Express company voted unanimously today to liquidate its affairs and dissolve the corporation in the shortest possible time.

A committee on liquidation which embraces the representatives of the leading interests of the company, including Chas. A. Peabody, president of the Mutual Life Insurance company and the chief financial adviser of the Harriman estate; William A. Read, ex-Senator W. Murray Crane, of Massachusetts, and Halsey Fiske, vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, was appointed to undertake the work of dissolution.

The precise means to be adopted for realizing on the company's assets was not disclosed. There have been various estimates of the company's assets, but persons familiar with their value declare that the return to the shareholders will be between $90 and $100 a share.

Action Expected by Wall Street. The step taken today was foreshadowed a few weeks ago when the stock, which had sold down to 38 last December, suddenly rose on very large dealings from 65 to 84, the price of last Wednesday, and Wall street was won of the opinion that disintegration was under way.

The success of the parcel post and the recent order of the interstate commerce commission, resulting in a 16 per cent reduction in express charges, are held directly responsible for the company's retirement from business, after sixty years of continuous operation.

The earnings for the five months of the fiscal year so far reported showed a steady decline, with a 16 per cent drop in November. The holiday business was fairly large, but the earnings continued to dwindle.

The late Thomas C. Platt and his family were for years the dominant interests in the company. In fact, their control was so complete that they succeeded in warding off numerous demands and protests on the part of minority interests and for many years practically nothing was known by the public of the affairs of the company, no meeting of the stockholders having been held in more than fifty years.

Shares in Comparatively Few Hands. There are outstanding 100,000 shares of stock, and these are in comparatively few hands. The Harriman estate is believed to hold more than one-fifth of the whole, an interest which the late E. H. Harriman acquired some time before his death, at an outlay of about $2,250,000. The interests of the Platt family are said to be relatively small.

The express company at one time had contracts covering thirty-eight thousand miles of some of the leading railway lines of the country. In fact, their contracts have expired, but the remaining ones are said to be of potential value and it is assumed that they will be transferred to one of the company's former competitors, probably the Wells-Fargo company, in which the Harriman interests have large holdings.

D. I. Roberts, president of the company, in a statement tonight said the action of the directors was 'not a threat or a bid for government sympathy,' but meant simply that the company could not continue in justice to its stockholders, more than half of whom are women.

SEATTLE JURY FINDS DAHLSTROM GUILTY. Founder of a Sect Said to Uphold Polygamy Is Convicted Under Mann Law.

Seattle, Wash., March 13.—Rev. Albert Dahlstrom, founder of a religious sect known as 'Hill's' and which he says has ten thousand members in the United States and one of the tenets of which is said to be a belief in polygamy, was convicted today of violation of the Mann white slave act in transporting Miss Edna Englund, of Tacoma, Wash., from Fresno, Calif., to the state of Washington.

Edna Englund, who turned against Dahlstrom because he showed a preference for her sister Hilda, was a witness against the clergyman. Hilda testified for him. The mother of the girls, who are young and attractive, was a witness for the government.

According to William B. Bryon, special agent of the department of justice, Dahlstrom has married and deserted a score of women in the western part of the country since 1880.

Chicago, March 13.—Rev. Albert Dahlstrom, convicted today in Seattle under the Mann white slave law, founded a religious sect, known as 'the Church of Saints,' here in 1907. Its chief tenet, it was said, was plurality of wives.

Dahlstrom refused to subscribe to the sentiments of the sect and left her husband, whereupon Dahlstrom sued for a divorce. On the day the divorce was granted, Dahlstrom was arrested, charged with the abduction of Martha Pederson, daughter of one of his followers.

Dahlstrom produced a letter, signed by the girl, saying that she had left home of her own will, and was acquitted. Two months later, he married her in Michigan and, on returning from his wedding trip, was arrested again on the complaint of his bride's father. He was released at once and the prosecution was dropped.

Chancery proceedings were started by the Lake Superior Paper company, and it was alleged that because of conflicting claims a receiver was necessary to conserve the property and preserve the peace of Michigan. Unsettled, Saturday; good will as a going concern. Shortly after the appointment of Mr. Kohlsaat, a bill was filed in the state courts by the Central Trust company, also asking that a receiver be appointed.

Today's activities followed the filing of a suit yesterday by George Wheeler Hinman, former owner of the paper, against Mr. Kohlsaat for the recovery of an alleged unpaid balance of $96,232 on a note for $177,500 given by Mr. Kohlsaat in part payment for the paper. Mr. Kohlsaat stated that the paper would continue to be published.

ESCANABA MAN MURDERED BY TRAIN THIEVES

Arthur Fisher, Engineer on Northwestern's Illinois Division, Is Shot Dead When He Protests That to Carry Out Their Order Would Cause a Collision.

One of the Four Robbers Engaged in the Raid Is Killed in Ensuing Battle With a Posse and Two Deputies Are Wounded—Surviving Outlaws Are in Jail.

Peoria, Ill., March 13.—Two men—one a former Escanaba (Mich.) man—were killed and two deputy sheriffs and a woman were wounded as the result of an attempted hold-up of a Chicago & Northwestern freight train at Manlius, Ill., forty-five miles north of here, today.

Arthur Fisher, of Pekin, Ills., formerly of Escanaba, engineer of the freight train, was shot by one of the bandits, and an unidentified robber was slain in a battle with the sheriff's posse. The wounded deputies are Leslie Byers, son of Sheriff Byers, of Princeton, and Bert Skoglund, also of Princeton. Mrs. Wright, wife of the station agent at Langley, was struck by a stray bullet.

The trainmen declare they found four men unloading merchandise from one of the cars when the train stopped at Manlius. One of the men opened fire on the conductor, while the others ran to the engine and ordered Engineer Fisher to proceed with the train. He started to explain that there would be danger of a collision. One of the bandits thereupon shot him dead.

Murderers Are Routed Up. Following the murder, the three men jumped from the locomotive and, rejoining the fourth, who had been holding off the crew, fled south in the direction of Langley. Sheriff Byers and two deputies started in pursuit, finally being the bandits in a bunk car near Langley. The men opened fire on the officers, wounding both deputies. Then they fled to a cornfield, where they were later surrounded by Sheriff Byers and a posse of farmers.

In an exchange of shots, one of the robbers fell through the abdomen. Two then surrendered. The other bandit made his escape to Chillicothe, where he was later arrested. The wounded bandit died within a few hours.

The robbers are declared to have been Mexicans and are believed to have worked recently on railroad construction work near Langley. Thirteen members of the construction gang were arrested tonight and are being held in a jail near Langley.

Engineer Fisher had a wife and two children living at Escanaba.

Few words, and those few offensive, was his attitude, she said. The only time he talked, she testified, was in trying to alienate the affections of their twelve-year-old daughter.

BETROTHAL IS ANNOUNCED BY THE PRESIDENT

Miss Eleanor Wilson, Youngest Daughter of the Nation's Chief, Is Engaged to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo—Gossip Is That Wedding Will Be in June.

Bridegroom-to-Be Is Aged Fifty, a Grandfather, and a Close Friend of the Executive—His Intended Bride Twenty-Four and Is Said to Be Her Father's Pet.

Washington, March 13.—The president and Mrs. Wilson announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Eleanor Handolph, to Hon. William Gibbs McAdoo.

This announcement was issued at the White House by Secretary Tamm tonight, after a day of speculation in official and social circles over the prospect of another White House wedding in June.

For weeks there have been rumors that the president's daughter and the secretary of the treasury would be married soon, and in the last day or two there have been no doubts that an announcement could be expected. The exact date of the wedding is not known, but it is generally believed it will be some time in June.

The youngest of the family, Miss Eleanor is said to be her father's pet, and there is a strong personal friendship between the president and the man who is to marry his daughter.

Secretary Will Retain His Portfolio. Reports that Secretary McAdoo would retire from the cabinet after his marriage and, perhaps, become ambassador to France were set at rest tonight by White House officials, who said emphatically that he was expected to remain at the head of the treasury department.

Miss Wilson will be the fourth of President Wilson's daughters to marry in the nation's executive mansion. Her sister, Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, became Mrs. Francis Bowers Sayre in the East room on Nov. 25, last.

Washington society had not been altogether unprepared for the news of the engagement, for the couple have been seen together at many a dance and social function. Though Secretary McAdoo is fifty years old, and Miss Wilson is twenty-four, intimate friends of the secretary said today that he is as young as a man of thirty.

Mr. McAdoo is a widower and has six children, one son and a daughter being married. Recently a son was born to Mr. McAdoo's eldest son.

Close friends of the couple have known of the engagement for some time.

CARNEGIE MONEY USED TO FIGHT FREE TOLLS PROVISION, DR. SCOTT TELLS SENATORS. Washington, March 13.—How the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace has aided in the fight for the repeal of the tolls exemption clause of the Panama canal act was revealed today by the senate lobby committee.

Dr. James Brown Scott, secretary and a member of the board of directors of the endowment, told the committee that a total of more than $30,000 had been appropriated for the circulation of 'Panama canal literature' and several hundred thousand copies of Senator Root's speech in the senate urging the repeal had been mailed under the senator's frank.

No questions were asked relating directly to the charges made in the senate recently by Mr. O'Gorman, of New York, that the actual purpose of the endowment was to promote an alliance between Great Britain and the United States, its peace propaganda serving merely as a cloak for that purpose.

EX-CHIEF FRED KOHLER CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF. Cleveland, O., March 13.—Fred Kohler, former chief of the Cleveland police department and nationally known as the 'Golden Rule' chief, in an open letter today announced his candidacy for sheriff. Kohler was dismissed after he had been found guilty of misconduct. He previously had been named in connection with a divorce suit. In his letter today he said that he wished to rehabilitate himself in the opinion of his fellow citizens, that he 'had paid in full' and that no further penalty ought to be exacted of him.

Monterey Hemmed in by Rebels. Laredo, Tex., March 13.—Monterey, an important railroad center and the largest city in northeast Mexico, virtually is isolated and Constitutional troops are advancing upon it from all sides, according to a dispatch received tonight at the federal military headquarters at Nuevo Laredo. An attack on Monterey, it is understood, is planned as one of the first moves in connection with the march southwestward of the rebel army.

In the last forty years there have been more than 10,000 boiler explosions in the United States, in which about 11,000 persons have been killed and more than 15,000 injured.

CONCERN ATTACKED AS A 'WILDCAT' SCHEME

Scranton International Correspondence Schools Under Fire at Legislative Hearing.

Boston, March 13.—Sharp criticism and a vigorous defense of the International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, Pa., and their relations with corporations which have a capital of more than $100,000,000 were voiced before a legislative committee today.

It was claimed that the cause of education was being prostituted for the marketing of stocks through agents of the schools. On the other hand, friends of the schools scored the opponents of the concern as interested for material reasons in injuring the stocks in question and denied that the schools had any physical connection with the corporations.

The bill under discussion was drawn by former Representative Clarence A. Barnes and would require all correspondence schools to file a copy of their by-laws and amend them at the time the board of directors meets to make any change in their constitution to take notice of such 'wildcat schemes.'

Scranton, Pa., March 13.—Officials of the International Correspondence Schools here said today that no attempt is made to conceal the fact that they are financially interested in and actively promote the sale of stocks in the United States and in California. They are also interested in a large typewriter company, it was said.

T. J. Foster, president of the schools, denied tonight that any of the enterprises were financed by students' money.

WOMEN NOW ARE HELD A BURDEN ON THE ARMY

Paris Hereafter to Retain Services of Cantinieres Only in Times of Peace.

Paris, March 13.—The picturesque cantinieres, or women who take charge of the French regimental canteens and who have played many heroic parts in French military history, are no longer to share the dangers of active service with the troops, according to the minister for war.

The women are in the future to be retained only in times of peace. Formerly the women, wearing uniforms, marched into battle with the troops, serving often as nurses or carrying drinks to the wounded. They were the wives of non-commissioned officers or musicians and if their husbands died or were killed they usually married comrades. Otherwise they could not remain in the service.

The minister for war has now decided that the women are a tax on the food supply of the army and interfere with the rapid movements of troops. He says, too, they are a source of distraction to the soldiers, whose courage they weaken.

Napoleon I paid a high tribute to the cantinieres for their services during his many campaigns.

WOULD COLONIZE AREA WITH NEGROES. New Georgia Congressman Proposes U. S. Acquire Mexico's Northern States.

Washington, March 13.—A bill to direct the president to acquire 'by purchase, treaty or conquest' the northern states of Mexico and to colonize them with the negroes of the United States was introduced today by Representative Park of Georgia, a new Democratic member, and referred to the foreign affairs committee. It is not expected to get out of the committee's files.

Will Fight to Retain Prisoners. Notice of the institution of habeas corpus proceedings to secure the release of the Mexican federal prisoners at Fort Bliss reached the war department today. The department will resist to the utmost the release of the prisoners at this time, on the ground of public policy. It is held that the community would be endangered by the presence of such a large number of unsheltered and untrained Mexicans, held or 'interned' under the provisions of international law. There are said to be no court decisions in this country to serve as a precedent in the case.

The government will continue to insist on obtaining from General Carranza and the Mexican Constitutionalists information concerning the welfare of all foreigners in Mexico and will not relax its energies in using its good offices for their protection. This is the effect of a communication from Secretary Bryan to American Consul Simplicio, at Nogales, General Carranza. A reply was in the hands of Secretary Bryan tonight, but he did not make it public.

Habeas Corpus Petition Is Ready. San Antonio, Tex., March 13.—The application for the release of the Mexican federal soldiers interned at Fort Bliss was ready to be filed in federal court here today, when lack of a judge to hear the petition caused R. B. Gamble, of El Paso, representing the refugees, to postpone action.

United States Judge Maxey of this district is in New Orleans, on the circuit bench, and when Judge Walter Burns, of the Southern district of Texas, was asked to hear the petition he ruled he was without jurisdiction, not having been formally designated to hear it. Tonight Mr. Gamble was considering going to Houston to present the application to Judge Burns, despite the judge's ruling and his further announcement that an unusually heavy docket there would prevent him giving a prompt hearing to the petition.

Habeas corpus proceedings for the refugees were not started after they fled to the United States from Ojinaga, before General Villa and the Constitutionalists, have been removed for some time. The unconditional release of the Mexicans is demanded in the petition, which Mr. Gamble announced tonight he would request be made returnable in El Paso the first Monday in April.

Monterey Hemmed in by Rebels. Laredo, Tex., March 13.—Monterey, an important railroad center and the largest city in northeast Mexico, virtually is isolated and Constitutional troops are advancing upon it from all sides, according to a dispatch received tonight at the federal military headquarters at Nuevo Laredo. THE DAILY MINING JOURNAL

A MORNING PAPER PUBLISHED BY The Mining Journal Company, Limited. Issued daily except on Sundays...

LITTLE PROMISE IN THIS. The preliminary statement, or report or whatever it may be called, of the congressional probes indicates that the final finding of the majority on the subject of their recent investigation will be what it has been generally expected it would be, rather than what it might well be.

It is an open secret—one that the majority members of the committee made little effort to conceal—that they journeyed to the copper country expecting to be greatly wrought up by the revelations they would encounter of the manner in which labor had been outraged and abused by capital.

so far as the Federation is concerned has always been up to the men themselves, but this is the first time that Moyer, the chief power in the Federation, has been willing the men should surrender their Federation memberships. It is inconceivable that the strikers should fail to see the significance of this; that they should blunder so on hoping for victory while Moyer so plainly concedes defeat.

Mr. Wood, of Flint, Democratic committeeman, has been called to Washington with relation to some odds and ends of state patronage. He will find Representative Beakes still on guard for the "originals." The Marquette postoffice may be among the odds and ends referred to. It will be vacant shortly, and it is generally believed that little time will be lost installing some Democratic. And much interest naturally attaches to the question of which Democrat it will be.

J. F. Cremer has hooked up in the newspaper game again, and now has membership on the staff of the Detroit Free Press. At the close of the banquet season, he has reviewed at some length the political situation in the state, in an article of interesting observations, well worthy of attention.

His conclusion that the campaign of 1914 in Michigan will be fought on national issues has at least behind it the certainty that there are no state issues of any great importance to fight over. As far as state issues are concerned, it would be impossible to tell whether Governor Ferris is a Democrat, a Republican or a Bull Moose.

The governor, Mr. Cremer indicates, is very strong. "One of the features of the past month," he comments, "was the formation in the copper country of a non-partisan Ferris club in which Republicans, Bull Moosers and Democrats joined. All through the lower peninsula all observers who are not blinded by party prejudice acknowledge that Governor Ferris has gained strength."

The only offset to this condition Mr. Cremer sees is the undisguised hostility to the governor of the radical labor men and the factional feeling that has grown out of the struggle between the organization Democrats and the "original" Wilson men.

As between Groesbeck and Martindale, Mr. Cremer remarks that the former is under a great handicap because of his connection with the campaign of 1912, but that Martindale does not gain strength where he appears. Groesbeck makes the better impression on the platform. The forthcoming meeting of the state central committee, Mr. Cremer believes, will arrange for some kind of a party conference that will perhaps make the way clearer.

The strength of the Bull Moosers in the election this year he regards as a doubtful quantity. He does not believe that it will be great, but admits that it may be great enough to assure the reelection of a governor by the Democrats. The Bull Moose leaders are active, he remarks, and it is plain that the new party will have a complete ticket in the field.

In summarizing the situation, Mr. Cremer says the Republican party is in better condition in the state than it was six weeks ago and that "if plans for a party conference go forward smoothly it will continue to progress to a point where it will again control Michigan."

While all persons will naturally not agree with the writer's conclusions on all points, the article evidences a desire to put the situation fairly, and for a political article is unusually free of bias.

MISS MAY RICHARDSON attempted this week to destroy a priceless Velasquez painting in the National gallery at London was the act of a mischievous lunatic. It was done in the name of militant suffragism, but one may doubt whether even the wildest leaders of that crusade will have much sympathy for the performance.

There is some logic—primitive, to be sure, but still understandable—in trying to break the head or tan the hide of a prime minister who refuses to listen to your demands. There is the historical excuse for more offensive samples of British suffragism that reformers have to make themselves nuisances in order to get a hearing from the British public.

The attempted destruction of a great work of art lacks even this thin pretense of justification. It is vandalism, pure and simple, and the only saving clause in the business is the strong probability that the woman who committed the offense is insane.

It has been clear for some time that militancy was not helping the suffrage cause in England. This last performance is certain to hurt the women's case, unless promptly disavowed. The place for Miss Richardson is in an asylum, not in jail; and the only sympathy she deserves is that which should be extended to all unfortunate women who have lost their reason.

American suffragists never have stooped to militancy, never resorted to outrage to secure attention for their cause. They must be careful not to give sanction to the outrages of others.

The Citizens' Alliance, Mr. Taylor commented, is working along the lines of driving the Western Federation of Miners off the map. He might have gone further and remarked that as far as the copper country is concerned the Federation is off the map, and the efforts of the Citizens' Alliance, backed by a pretty much united public sentiment, have there been crowned by success.

viewed that the British government is in no position and has no desire to protest. British colonies in Australasia already exclude Hindus. It seems politically safe to show Hindus the door and close it on them.—Springfield Republican.

Michigan is not like the spot which George Ade describes as "a good place to come from." It is a good place in which to live. That is the gospel which Michigan Agricultural college has been carrying to the farmers of Michigan for many years and the news that it is being accepted is highly encouraging.

Dean Shaw of M. A. C. is authority for the statement that the young generation of farmers has been convinced that the lands of this state are fertile, the markets as good and the shipping facilities as complete as those to be found anywhere on the continent.

Men have learned, partially through the experience of others, but largely through the campaign of education which has raised a large variety of crops a larger variety than can be raised in any other single state.

Michigan's resources are greater than those of any state in the union. This fact is not very debatable. Michigan is the only state which is capable of cutting off all outside communication and aid and sustaining life under present conditions.

Not all the farm lands are fitted for corn and wheat. They are fitted, however, to raise a large variety of crops a larger variety than can be raised in any other single state.

And there are today thousands upon thousands of acres which need but to be put under cultivation to make room for the fields capable of producing almost unlimited wealth.—Lansing Journal.

Some people want two battleships built yearly, others want four, while some wish none at all. Yet all these diverging points of view should agree in this, that our military forces should be organized with the efficiency of a private corporation and so systematically that they could fight in the traditional drop of a hat. During the few days that the Benton incident seemed to reach the proportions of a real war-clone, many citizens were anxiously asking what our army could do if called on to act in a hurry.

Over in England some years ago a government was turned out of power merely because it allowed the supply of ammunition to get low. In this country, one questions whether a single clerk would be his job on that account. The public is not much concerned over military affairs. What it principally wants is to get an army post located near by, where the soldiers will buy groceries and fodder, and help boost local trade.

At the army posts life goes on sleepily enough. Baby carriages are a more familiar sight than gun carriages. The soldiers practice the art of dozing when they aren't moving the lawn, repairing the walks, or listening to the military band. A fine type of suburban village is built up, and a careful and refined social life exists. But is it preparation for war?

American citizens have reason for pride in the development of the navy. Where only 3 per cent of the shots took effect at Santiago, in recent practice as many as 45 per cent have been hits. But the army life is less spectacular. Efficiency here does not interest the people so much, and they do not demand, as generously, bitter complaints are made by military students, that personal friendship and political considerations count too much in making promotions.

If the army is called into Mexico it will make a fine showing of courage and soldierly spirit. It will show that it has defects that formed the great scandal of the Spanish-American war.—Saginaw Courier-Herald.

The End of the Strike. If the Western Federation of Miners permits a referendum to be taken among the men still on strike in "the copper country"—as proposed by an interview with President Moyer received yesterday from Chicago—the strike is over. The men will overwhelmingly vote to return to their jobs.

Many of the legitimate claims for betterment which they sought have been forthcoming. Mine management has been forced to make many improvements that were made. Improvements have not only been promised, but actually put into operation. Ever since December first, the sole question at issue has been union recognition—and recognition of such a union as Moyer operates has been impossible. This situation will not change. It would not change—in our judgment—if the strike were prolonged for a decade.

The strike has not been without its good fruits as well as its bad. New advantages have been secured to these men who spend their lives below ground. The eyes of the mine-owners and mine managers have been opened to the human element in the labor equation—and many of the contributing causes for unrest will never recur again. And, meanwhile, the workers know, once and for all, that Moyerism will never be permitted to root itself in the upper peninsula. (There is a vast difference between "Moyerism" and average "labor unionism.")

If the situation has now left to the men themselves, trouble is at an end. This has been the contention of the Herald and pretty nearly every other unprejudiced observer for the past four months. And if the situation be then permanently left to the men themselves, we do not believe that trouble will ever recur.

A non-partisan, non-political fish and game commission to replace the present board. In this instance Charles Hoyt, of Lansing, member of the state game warden's department, spoke openly in opposition to the plan. He also attempted to refute the statement made by Secretary W. A. Tatem, of Grand Rapids, that Game Warden Oates helped to kill the commission legislation in Lansing in 1913, by declaring that Oates was in Marquette at the time. Hoyt suggested legislation which will be taken up to compel commercial fishermen to pay a tribute on every pound of fish taken from Michigan waters, the tribute to be used in restocking the streams and lakes.

KILLS HIMSELF IN A SHACK IN WOODS

Arthur Feeley, Bachelor Farmer in Ontonagon County, Blows Off Head With a Gun.

Dependent because of a long continued attack of insomnia, Arthur Feeley, a bachelor farmer near Pori, Ontonagon county, walked four and one-half miles into the woods one night this week, sat down on the floor of an abandoned shack, placed the muzzle of his combination rifle and shotgun against his chin, pulled the trigger and literally blew his head off.

Though Feeley lived in Bohemia township, Ontonagon county, he killed himself inside the Houghton county line and thus the Houghton county officials had to investigate the case.

The section foreman at Pori knew that Feeley had been ill and on Thursday afternoon he sent his son to Feeley's farm with food for the invalid.

Feeley's letter to McFarlane declared he intended to kill himself because he had not slept more than an hour in several nights and he must find rest.

PATRICK DUNNIGAN DENIES BASE RUMOR

Keeweenaw County Strike Leader Won't Work While Federation Pays Benefits.

Pat Dunnigan, the Irish strike leader of Keeweenaw county, is a trifle peevish. Much has been said in newspaper columns about Pat during the months of the strike, but Pat ignored it all until it was hinted that he had asked the Alhbeck Mining company for a chance to go back to work.

"No, I said I would punch Tom Bowden on the nose," answered Pat, diplomatically.

"No, but I may some day," Mr. Dunnigan was asked what he meant by calling up at all, at all.

"I'm living easy now, ain't I?" was his way of explaining that he had solved the problem of existence, meaning that as long as the Western Federation of Miners can raise money enough to keep him in jail, he will refrain from jail.

"Oh, there are fourteen hundred of us who are going to walk out of the county," he answered. "You'll see the finest parade you ever saw in your life."

he was on the wire yesterday, he was asked: "Why don't you go back to work, Pat? The strike is over and you know it."

"Say," was the answer. "You say that I'll go back to work only on one condition. That condition is that I be given Russell Smith's job."

That ended the conversation, which is not reported in full here, as the best shorthand reporter in Michigan almost found Pat Dunnigan too fast for him on a recent occasion.

Adds Healthful Qualities to the Food

Prof. Prescott, of the University of Michigan, explains why Royal Baking Powder adds healthful qualities to the food.

Testifying before the Pure Food Committee of Congress, the Professor stated that fruit acids were excellent articles of food and that of these cream of tartar, the acid of grapes, held rank with the highest both in itself and its effect in the process of leavening and baking.

LONESOME MAN PAYS GIRL $60 TO KILL HIM

She Cuts Wrist, Then Pulls Rope to Hang Him, but He's Alive and She's in Jail.

Paris, March 13.—M. Laplume of Bicetre recently lost his wife. Tired of life, he thought of throwing himself from the top of the column of the Bastille, when he met a girl named Lucienne Norant at the base.

Though not liking the idea, Lucienne was unable to resist the temptation, and accompanied Laplume to his lodgings where he produced a razor, and after laying himself on a sofa and closing his eyes, he instructed her how to open the veins of his wrists, as he had heard that this was quite a painless way of death.

Laplume was annoyed, after waiting a few minutes, that he did not feel much worse, and opened his eyes, when he realized the situation. When he had brought the would-be executioner to her senses with a plentiful douch of water he declared that the whole business had been bungled, and that she must begin it over again.

He then adjusted a slipknot round his neck and invited the girl to pull, which she agreed to do, and did so with such effect that Laplume rolled senseless on the floor. The residuary legatees they collected all the money, silver and other valuables in a tablecloth and carried off the floor.

Normal Seniors Won—The senior class basketball team of the Northern State Normal scored a victory over the Juniors at the school gymnasium last evening, winning 24 to 20. The game was played in sections, four quintets from each class participating. The scores of the two classes varied only a few points, throughout and the interest of the spectators was kept at high pitch. The game marked the formal closing of the basketball season at the Normal.

Will Organize Camera Club—A meeting will be held at the Peter White Public library next Wednesday evening for the purpose of organizing a Camera club. The plan has been discussed for some weeks past by a number of Marquette's leading amateurs, and so much interest has been shown that it is believed the proposed organization will have a considerable membership and be highly successful. In Marquette are a number of talented amateur photographers, some of whom have taken up the more difficult and unusual phases of the work, and a display of their studies would be highly interesting. Marquette and its environs offer peculiar advantages for amateur photographers, and it is said that in no other city of its size there is a larger sale of cameras and photographic supplies.

FIRST REFUND FARE DAY.

Marquette Merchants Will Introduce New Trading Plan.

This will be the first of the "refund fare" Saturdays the Marquette merchants have planned in an effort to attract to the city trade of the outlying districts that is in large part, now going to the mail order houses. They will refund fares at the rate of a roundtrip mile fare on each dollar of purchase.

The plan comes to be better understood. The plan is expected to bring many Saturday traders to the city today, and it is believed that the volume of outside trade attracted will increase as the plan comes to be better understood.

One question raised in connection with the plan has been: "It's all very well, but the proposal is to give a discount. What does the Marquette purchaser get as an equivalent?"

Answering this very natural inquiry, a Marquette business man, one of the supporters of the scheme, said yesterday: "It is not to be forgotten that this trade is easier and more cheaply handled than the local trade. It is for this reason that we are able to offer what, in effect, amounts to, as suggested, discount of substantial proportions. To meet the demands of the local trade we have to support expensive delivery service and there is a collection charge on our open accounts that amounts to considerable. It is to be remembered that all the outside business we may obtain from this plan comes to our doors, pays cash and carries away the goods purchased. In light of this, it ought readily to be seen that there is proposed no discrimination against the local trade."

"Not is it true," the merchant continued, "that there is anything in the plan that merchants in neighboring cities have to be afraid of. We did not outline it with any idea of getting into their territory. What we are seeking is the trade that at present is going to none of the local merchants, but instead is the almost exclusive possession of the large city mail order houses. We believe that with the inducements we are offering we will be able to get a considerable share of this business."

NOTICE.

At the last meeting held by the bricklayers, masons and plasterers of Marquette, it was decided to raise the wages after May 1st to 65 cents an hour, and eight hours.

Well Known Marquette Men Tell Why They Are Church Attendants

Why do I go to church? Because it is the greatest and best institution on earth. Because in the church principles are expounded, which, if followed, incite to better living. Because it is God's house and it is a privilege to attend services there for it brings me into closer relationship with Father and Son.

Because the whole teaching of the church is to make man better, its doctrines are helpful, elevating and inspiring, its teachings will never lead me astray. Because it stands for all that is good and true.

M. E. SCHLABACH, U. S. Postoffice Inspector.

William E. Gladstone, premier of England during the last part of Victoria's reign, stated: "It has been my privilege to meet, officially, seventy men of the world's highest order of intellect, all of whom, except two, were pleased to give allegiance to Christ as their Saviour—the two acknowledged His power, but did not fully accept Him." Mr. Gladstone was a life long attendant at church. I think every man ought to support the church with his presence.

A. S. WESTLAKE, Retired Merchant.

The real Christian church to me is the structure of divine Truth and Love. I go to church because it is there that in uplifting spiritual communion with God I receive more of that "Mind which was also in Christ Jesus." Since man is in reality spiritual, because he is made in the "Image and likeness of God," he can never fulfill the real ends of his existence until he realizes his spiritual unity with God. Then only will human life, both individual and social, be whole, harmonious and happy.

J. E. LAUTNER, Professor Northern State Normal.

The reasons for attending church are many and various. The church has always been and now is the greatest upholder of high ideals. Where a church is prosperous the community is prosperous. Church attendance furnishes the means of learning the aims and ideals of the church and of making these aims and ideals a part of the community life.

JAMES H. KAYE, President Northern State Normal.

I go to church because I have found from experience that the teaching and influence of the church is fundamental. I mean by this that the church operates directly on a man's mind, and heart, and affections; on his inner life, his real self. Hence I consider the church as indispensable to the man who is desirous of keeping the fountain of his life sweet and clean. Most of the battles of life are fought out in the inner consciousness. The battles of life are for the most part lost or won before they see the light of day. The church which deals with the inner man is absolutely fundamental in its work. Hence I believe that the claims of the church should be given first place in every man's life. I believe that every man should be regular in his attendance upon the services of the church.

D. W. POWELL, Of Powell & Mitchell Company.

"She took for Him an ark of bulrushes, and daubed it with slime and with pitch, and put the child therein." Exodus 2:3. This Bible quotation inspired the Standard Oil company to obtain options and explore for oil with very satisfactory results; the expert geologists of that company declaring he was sent solely on the strength of that verse, penned thousands of years ago, and he expresses the opinion that the Bible contains a great many candid and explicit directions which man need only follow with his modern machines and inventions to find untold wealth. If this seems a sordid view to take of the Word of God it may be well to reflect that He has stored up material as well as spiritual benefits for His people. Familiarity with the Word

P. W. PHELPS, Peter White Insurance Company.

I do not believe that the civilization of which we are so justly proud could long endure without the leaven of our churches. Human nature is essentially selfish, that is self-centered. The individual units of society would soon destroy each other if the selfish instinct were left unchecked. Every influence and teaching of the church is aimed at the destruction of selfishness and the inculcation of unselfishness. The brotherhood of all men, under the Fatherhood of God, is the emphatic teaching of the church. I believe that every lover of his country owes it to himself, his children, his fellows and his God to support the church by regular attendance upon the services thereof.

EDWARD MITCHELL, Of the firm of Powell & Mitchell.

Why do I believe in the church? Because I was born and brought up in a Christian home by Christian parents. Because the church is the House of God and Christ is the chief cornerstone; its creed is one Spirit, one Lord, one Head, one Hope, one Faith, unto salvation for a sinful world.

Because I believe that the church stands for all that is good and noble in mankind, and that its mission is and must be, the preaching of truth for the advancement of Christ's Kingdom here on earth. I would not want to live in any community without a church.

A. H. MEYER, Manager for J. H. Foster & Co.

I think all fair minded men are agreed that the church is a benefit to any community. That alone should be sufficient reason for any good citizen to support it. The greatest benefits from the church are obtained by the children. The children are the greatest asset which the nation possesses, and can best be influenced to attend the church by an example set by the elders. Consequently, while financial assistance is necessary, personal attendance is of the greatest importance.

G. W. ACKERMAN, Lumbering Department of the Cleveland Cliffs Company.

The claims of service which the church urges on humanity are so plain and so well known that it would be a certain insult to the ordinary intelligence to state what they are. It is not the knowledge of things but the will to do them that is required. The Sabbath day is appointed for religious observance; a far higher authority than that of state or nation. With proper reverence and respect, in obedience to the primal mandate of the Father of us all, the least a man can do is to attend the regular church service.

CHARLES CUMMINGS.

That everyone may have an opportunity to secure a well balanced education, spiritually, mentally, and physically, churches, schools and gymnasiums are established. The person who attempts to secure a physical or mental education by attending classes once a month, or once in six months, would be considered foolish. Our spiritual education is certainly as important as our physical or our mental education. It is not unreasonable to assume that regular attendance at church is at least as important as regular attendance at school.

P. H. ROSS, President Marquette Business College.

"The church's one foundation is Jesus Christ our Lord." In these days of shifting views and changing ideas I need something to keep my life "True to the Star of its worship." I know of no other influence that approaches the church of God in its power to hold men to what is best and highest in life. And since will, however, yield benefits intellectual and spiritual far greater than material, as the best thought of the world attests. And all men, rich and poor, may have them. Attendance upon the divinely appointed means to that end insures intellectual, civic and national growth and betterment, while neglect as surely means decay. The Right Honorable Winston Churchill has said: "Herein you will find the seeds of imperial ruin and national decay—the want of proper discipline and training of our youth, the horrid havoc of the liquor traffic, the constant insecurity in the means of subsistence and employment which breaks the heart of many a sober hard working man, the absence of any established minimum standard of life and comfort among the workers, and at the other end the swift increase of vulgar, joyless luxury—here are the enemies of Britain, beware lest they shatter the foundations of her power." Is there not something in this for us to take to heart?

E. W. ALLEN, Treasurer D. S. S. & A. P. Y.

Why do I go to church? Probably in part from habit, I having been my wont from early youth to attend church; but now with riper years comes a sense of duty or responsibility in promoting, as far as in me lies, the welfare of an institution I have been taught to reverence.

P. W. PHELPS, Peter White Insurance Company.

I know of no other influence that approaches the church of God in its power to hold men to what is best and highest in life. And since

"No man liveth to himself" I go to church in order that by example I may, perhaps, lead others to come under the inspiring and comforting influence of its activities.

S. S. STOCKWELL, Professor Northern State Normal.

I go to church on Sunday primarily to worship God; but I also go because I believe that the church represents by its teachings the ideals toward which everyone should strive. And it is only by learning of these ideals that we are enabled to better ourselves and the community in which we live.

HARRY MERRIAM, Chemist for the Cleveland Cliffs Co.

The church stands for the perpetuation of the institutions men love, but it is not fully appreciated until one has tried to live where there is no church or anything that makes Sunday different from any other day. We need the church in the community for our own spiritual nourishment. We need the Sunday school for the training of our children. Shall we not give it the approval of our presence and financial aid?

R. C. YOUNG, Chief Engineer L. S. & I. P. Y.

Why go to church? To cultivate religion (right living). Success in business necessitates in securing for yourself the largest return possible for what you may give in substance or effort. The more your return represents profit, the greater your social success. Your neighbors' interest should not endanger your percentage of profit, cannot be considered. Competition must be checked, conciliated or eliminated. Two evil propensities are thus constantly being developed—selfishness and strife. The mad pursuit of pleasure adds indifference to human suffering. The principles of evil working in human life, if unchecked by some strong moral influence or saving grace, spell ruin. To worship God and walk uprightly before men has been the solemn admonition of the Wise Men of all the ages. The church is the only institution open to all men alike—rich or poor, wise or otherwise—which stands wholly and solely for righteousness. Opportunity for worship is provided by the church, also sermons and music. If we go merely to hear, we may not be entertained, but we will at least be surrounded by good influences. Is one hour of one day out of seven too much to give to righteousness?

J. H. O'MEARA, Freight Accountant D. S. S. & A. P. Y.

I go to church because of the inspiration for the duties of life which church attendance gives; because of what the church has done for humanity and the great good that still remains for it to do; and finally because I should consider myself remiss if I did not by my presence give my support to all the high principles for which the church stands.

C. C. SPOONER, Professor Northern State Normal.

Why should one go to church? Because the church is recognized by all Christians as an institution essential to the social and spiritual welfare of humanity. Therefore one's duty to society and to himself demands his support of the church continuously by his presence.

Because any person who does not go to church casts a vote against the church—a vote to remove the church from society. Because it is not even honest to sponge one's religious assets which the church furnishes, and neither attend nor support it. Because the church has no reason for its existence except as an evangelistic agency. To fully justify its existence it requires the co-operation of every adherent and member of the church. Every man should be on his job.

GEO. C. HIGBEE, Stenographer Circuit Court.

There are a score of reasons why I believe the churches of our community should be supported and attended, such as, the need of each individual, of a place of worship, the incentives to worship, opportunity for instruction in the Bible, etc. I believe in the church as a divine institution, not perfect because made up of imperfect parts, but founded by our Lord and meant by Him to be a means of good to all men for all time. But aside from these religious reasons, which, of course, are fundamental, I believe that the church as an institution should be supported and attended because it is essential to our civic and economic welfare. Patriotism is one of the church's precepts from which love for one another is inseparable. "Let each one be in subjection to authority for the powers that be are ordained of God" and "Let each one consider another better than himself" and numerous other injunctions are the teachings of the church. Fair dealing that makes business pleasant, trustworthiness that permits less than hawklike vigilance in buyer and seller, the spirit of live and let live and that characteristic familiarity known as "confidence in business" which is so necessary to success in all lines—these are the results of the teaching of the church. For more reasons than I have named I believe in the indispensability of the church. I support it in order that it may minister to others who need its ministry. I attend its services for my own improvement and to encourage others to attend.

Yours sincerely, GEO. N. CONKLIN.

I believe that the church is an institution divinely created for the good of mankind. I believe that the church is the one organized, consistent enemy of all evil and unrighteousness; that it is implanting in the hearts of humanity the "Spirit of Christ." I attend church because I regard it not only as my privilege, but my duty, to have a part in its God-given mission. However, had I no other good reason for attending church, I think I should do so as an evidence of my appreciation of the all-surrounding blessings of our Christian civilization, for which the church as an institution is undoubtedly responsible.

E. H. BECKTELL, Office of U. S. Steamship Inspection.

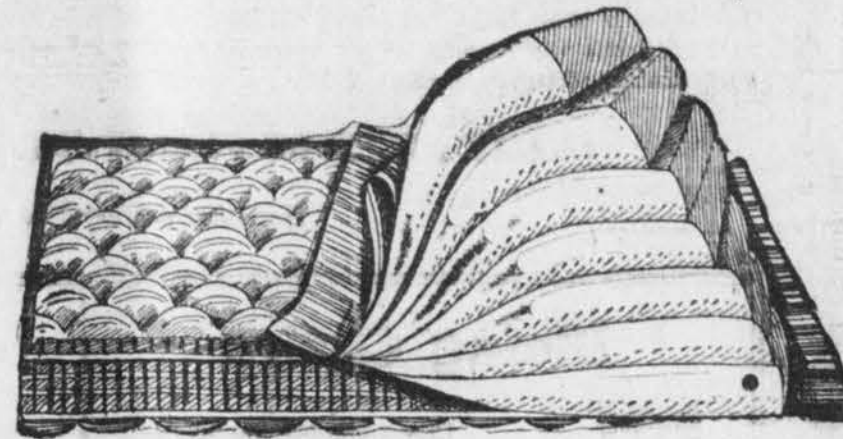

"IF THERE EVER LIVED A PRESIDENT WHO DURING HIS LIFETIME OF SERVICE NEEDED ALL OF THE CONSOLATION AND OF THE STRENGTH THAT HE COULD DRAW FROM THE UNSEEN POWERS ABOVE HIM IT WAS ABRAHAM LINCOLN! WHO WORKED AND SUFFERED FOR THE PEOPLE. IF EVER THERE WAS A MAN WHO PRACTICALLY APPLIED WHAT IS TAUGHT IN OUR CHURCHES IT WAS ABRAHAM LINCOLN."—Theodore Roosevelt in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, Washington, D. C., as He Arose in the Lincoln Pew and Addressed the Congregation.

POSTOFFICE MAY SOON BE AWARDED

Is Believed Appointment for Marquette Is Likely to Occur at Any Time Now.

A Marquette Democrat yesterday pointed to the following Washington dispatch as indicating that the Marquette postoffice appointment will be disposed of without much loss of time: "The administration has again sent for Edwin O. Wood, national committee man from Michigan. He is expected in Washington the last of this week, when it is anticipated most of the cleared patronage of the state will be cleaned up. There are several postoffice appointments held up by the United States senate, including that at Grand Rapids, and it is hoped that Mr. Wood will find a way to get them moving."

The Marquette office will be vacant next month, and it is in order that an appointment should be made at any time now. The Marquette Democrat who went to the trouble to clip the above quoted dispatch indicated his belief that while Mr. Wood and Representative Deakes were mulling over the belated appointments they would be likely to take a final whirl over the Marquette applicants.

With the approach of the time when an appointment can be expected there is much quiet interest in the disposal that will be made of the Marquette postoffice. It is not confined to the city, but extends into the county and the upper peninsula, for all of the four applicants have wide acquaintances and have had a prominent part in the past in Democratic district and state contests.

Very few positive predictions about the outcome are heard. It is realized that it is pretty difficult to make accurate prophecies on matters of Democratic patronage in Michigan, for both the organization and the "original" Wilson men have turned some tricks that the most astute politicians have been sure they would lose. Thus most persons who have any knowledge of the situation feel that they won't be sure who will be named for the Marquette postoffice.

Four candidates are aspiring for the Marquette appointments. They are F. S. Byrne, J. S. Courtney, M. C. Seely and D. J. Caven. Mr. Caven is the latest entrant and got into the race only a few weeks ago. All of the men can show strong endorsements. They have done the heavy work of their respective canvasses and are now resting on their oars, waiting for a decision.

PELINSKI WILL REMAIN AT PRISON

Will Be Kept There, Though Sentence Is Up, for the Time Being, It Is Decided.

Peter Pelinski, the aged prisoner who this week was so greatly disturbed when the officers of the Marquette prison informed him that his time would be up today, and that he had better be about making his arrangements for departure, will not be forced to leave the prison home, after all.

Yesterday to all overtures made to him about his impending departure Pelinski had but one reply, namely, that he wasn't going; that he had nowhere to go and that he intended to remain. Inquiry at Bay City, through Dr. Kebo, a physician there, brought word that Pelinski's relatives would not agree to look after him, and as yet no word has been received from the county authorities.

The prison officials are reluctant to turn Pelinski out in his present frame of mind, as they are apprehensive that, bewildered by his contact with the outside world, he might make away with himself, or perhaps harm some other person. Therefore, they have decided that until some way of having him looked after can be hit upon he will be permitted to remain.

Pelinski will continue his work in the kitchen, thus paying for his keep, and lodgings will be found for him some place about the premises. He has been a good worker, and the service he will be able to render will more than make good his board and lodgings account. Meanwhile, the prison officials will take up the case with the Bay county authorities and see whether they will not agree to look after the man. As he came from that county, he would properly be a charge on it.

Although seventy years of age, Pelinski is in pretty good health, and is active. However, he is too old a man to look after himself and, furthermore, he is trained in no work that would give him income enough to permit him to do so.

The case is one of the most unusual that has ever developed at the Marquette prison. On previous occasions convicts whose terms have expired have shown a disinclination to leave the prison, but in all previous instances they have been younger men, and their reluctance was overcome by the simple expedient of conducting them to the main entrance and telling them to be on their way.

But Pelinski's case is far different, and the best solution of the problem he presents is believed to be to allow him to remain on for a time. The prison officials are hopeful that shortly he will be willing to start out for Bay county. He will be able to go at any time he desires, for the prison gates will be open to him any time he shows an inclination to make use of them.

Though tantulum has been known for a century it was not commercially used until Moissan in 1903 brought it into the limelight through the electric furnace. It is found in the Black hills of Dakota. The most important use to which tantulum is put is in the manufacture of filaments for incandescent lamps.

FROM FOREIGN LANDS

Will Lecture on Danish Agriculture.

Copenhagen, March 11.—Maurice Francis Egan, minister from the United States to Denmark, announces that he will visit America during April and May to lecture in the Southern states on Danish agriculture. Beginning in Virginia and going as far as Louisiana, he will speak before several legislative committees with the idea of interesting them in agricultural improvements. His special scheme will be the necessity of rotation of crops in the cotton states, and the consideration of how the farmer can be held to realize his best plans through the assistance of the states. Mr. Egan will cooperate as far as possible with the agriculture department and explain the principles of cooperation and their practicable effect as applied in Denmark. In an interview Mr. Egan said "While a money trust has great danger, a land trust is immensely more to be feared. It would be a great pity if the southern farmers were taught to look to the Federal government for aid instead of depending on their own resources and the local pride of their states." The minister is a strong advocate of agricultural cooperation. He has also accepted invitations to deliver lectures at Harvard and Columbia Universities and to hold illustrated conferences on agricultural subjects in Chicago and Dubuque, Iowa.

Militants Still Destroying Property.

London, March 11.—In spite of the peaceful attitude of the Women's Social and Political Union, the destruction of property continues, and the fear is now expressed that the organization has lost control of its more desperate members. Among the latest sufferers from the activities of the firebrand type of militant is Mrs. Archibald Mackirdy, who has been making severe attacks on "Christabel Pankhurst" in her paper, "Mackirdy's Weekly." No sooner was her intention of attacking the militant movement made known than her house was burnt down with the loss of some of her most precious possessions. Since the burning Mrs. Mackirdy has received many threatening and abusive letters, many of which she has published in her paper. Mrs. Mackirdy is an enthusiastic suffragette and has often expressed her sympathy for the heroism and suffering of the militants. The latest development of suffrage militancy is the art of "sufrat-jitsu." Militants who are assigned to political meetings and to get in a word for suffrage are being coached in the new art, the chief feature of which is ability to twine arm and legs around a chair or pillar in such a way that it would take a small army of ushers or policemen to pry the disturbers loose. The system worked well on its recent trial at a meeting addressed by John Burns in Stratham until the head of the government board ordered the stewards to remove the chairs as well as their occupants from the hall. The Labor party, which in spite of its advocacy of equal suffrage, is being attacked because of its alliance with the Liberal government, has hit upon a novel plan to meet this latest move of the suffragettes. Husky women stewards are being employed to deal with the inter-rupters, and as one labor leader explained the plan is a distinct success, because on account of a subtle point of militant psychology, the sense of martyrdom is less comforting when one is ejected by a member of one's own sex. At a recent demonstration the militants cried despairingly: "Why don't you send your men to put 'em out!"

MODERN SOCIAL HABITS.

In comparing the habits and manners of the present day with those of the past it seems to me that the most striking thing is the great change that has taken place in our economic and financial conditions. The poor of today are a different race from the poor of fifty or even thirty years ago. They earn a great deal more money, and though they get less for it in solid comfort and well being, they spend it in a much greater variety of ways. Neither are the rich of today the same as the rich of fifty years ago. Large numbers of the latter—the landed gentry, for instance—have taken a back seat, if they have not actually disappeared. The new rich who have pushed them out are introducing ideas, habits, and manners of their own. Consequently the luxury of today has little in common with the luxury of fifty years ago. It spends its money in more selfish and ostentatious ways.

Instead of the manor house, with its crowd of hereditary retainers, we have now the fashionable hotel, with its army of liveried waiters and chauffeurs. In fourteen of these establishments there were spent last year £2,682,900—nearly two and three-quarter millions sterling. This is the essence of present day luxury, and those who consider it extravagant may console themselves with the thought that foreigners contributed much more to it than British born prodigals. Our American visitors boast very truly that we have them to thank for these sylvan caravanserais. They called for them, and have all along been their chief supporters.

In other ways the Americans have been the pioneers of modern luxury. An inquiry which is now going on in the United States as to the annual expenditure of American tourists in Europe indicates that it is little, if any, short of $200,000,000, or £40,000,000. Our Canadian, Australian, French, German and other foreign visitors are also free spenders, so much so that ministering to their luxurious tastes has become one of the most profitable of London's industries. On the other hand, the corresponding class of our own people are probably spending less rather than more on themselves than they used to do. They are being taught thrift in a hard school—that of the Chancellor of the Exchequer. If we deduct from their apparently large incomes the number of prior claims on them that have to be met before the free margin is reached, it will be found in many cases that comparatively little remains either for riotous living or vulgar show. Besides, it must be remembered that the modern Croesus is often a business man who can reinvest his annual profits to much better advantage than in thousand-guinea motor cars and twenty-guinea banquets at the Hotel Cecil.

The champion spendthrifts of today are not the owners of motor cars and motor yachts; they are the railway and the shipping companies. A single train de luxe, with its crew of chefs, barbers, and ladies' maids, wastes more money in the course of a year than the most extravagant millionaire. There is tenfold more luxury on the latest Atlantic liners than will be found in any half dozen palaces in the country. From a careful comparison of the proportions of available income spent on superfluities, the working man will sometimes come out higher than many dukes. His glass of beer, his tobacco, his little boots, his evening paper, his picture shows, his football matches, his seaside trips, and his other extras eat up a large percentage of the weekly wage, even of a well-to-do artisan. No one grudges him either his comforts or his recreations, but at the same time it can not be ignored that they form a large item in the sum total of our national outlay on superfluities.

Another significant feature of modern luxury is to be found in the fact that the leading millionaires of the day are the reverse of extravagant. Neither have they made their millions by pandering to the luxurious tastes of the rich. Nearly all of them cater specially for the working and the middle classes. They are purveyors of beer, cocoa, soap, patent medicines, and every light literature to the multitude. If ours be an extravagant age, its extravagance has at least the redeeming quality of being democratic. Free living was never more widespread than it is today. From cabinet ministers to Socialist lecturers there are all degrees and shades of it.—W. N. Lawson, in London Morning Post.

AFTER SICKNESS OR OPERATION

It is a pathetic mistake to accept drugs or alcoholic mixtures when nature craves nourishment to repair the wasted body and restore the vigor of health.

For forty years the best physicians have relied on the wholesome predigestion nourishment in SCOTT'S EMULSION which is totally free from alcohol or opiates.

Scott's Emulsion sharpens the appetite—renews blood—nourishes nerves—strengthens bones and restores the courage of health to make life bright.

Scott's Emulsion sets in action the very forces that promote health. Its purity, richness and strength has stood the test of forty years.

SAYS NATION NEEDS AN ARMY OF 300,000

Dr. Johnston of Harvard Tells How America May Guard Against Disaster.

Washington, March 13.—"Pacifism and Militarism" is the title of the leading article in the current issue of The Infantry Journal, the service magazine published in Washington by the officers of the infantry arm of the regular army.

"Pacifism in this country," Dr. Johnston says, "easily lends itself to ridicule. Its leaders are so very like Captain Massacre in the play, full of cordial obligation, bristling with all sorts of weapons, and carving with a mighty sword large chunks of air. For, in truth, militarism is almost non-existent among us, as every sensible American, civilian or soldier, well knows.

"Within the space of about a century and a half, an enormous change has taken place in public sentiment. To trace its evolution would be a baffling and lengthy undertaking, but there can be no question as to its general character and as to the fact that at the present moment the change is still proceeding and with progressively increasing speed.

"Looking back," he says, "over the question of power to sustain loss in the last three centuries, it would be fair to say that Cromwell's Ironsides showed perhaps greater firmness in battle than have any troops that have come since they were even a shade better than the finest Prussian or British infantry.

"If our past has demonstrated anything beyond question it is the frightful cost in blood and money of being unprepared for war. The more religious your soldier is the less he values life and the better he fights, as all the ages of the world have witnessed.

"Our problems are less difficult to meet than are those which face Switzerland and Australia, but they are real and must be met. With Canada and the British empire we may hope that our relations will always be kept higher than can be touched by any temporary disagreement or conflict of interest.

"To meet every reasonable possibility that may confront us, we have at present a fleet about large enough for our needs in the Atlantic or in the Pacific, but not in both, and we rely virtually on army at all. That is, we cannot mobilize a fold force of regulars of more than one or possibly two divisions; for the bulk of our 90,000 men are of necessity scattered and swallowed up in garrison and similar duties. It is better for those informed and more technically expert to work out our precise needs in men and guns. One may venture to guess, however, that with a total of not more than 300,000 men we might be able to garrison our Philippine and other possessions adequately and to concentrate, whether in California, in Texas, or elsewhere, a field force of 150,000 men, should occasion demand it. And what would be the price in men of such a national insurance? Not more than two per cent of that willingly paid by our democratic, pacific and patriotic friends, the Australians and the Swiss.

"It is easy enough to argue about pacifism and militarism; but it is difficult to study historical facts and present-day politics. Our college histories and our daily press do not help us as much as they might to realize our situation and our needs. But if our military history were set forth in unvarnished terms, if our press understood and told us of the immense political, racial and military transformation that is rapidly proceeding west, south and east of us, we would surely take the comparatively small steps that are essential to safeguard our continued life, and to maintain us on the path of national progress.

"To the end, nothing is more imperatively urgent than that we should have an army. Where the great powers enroll up to five per cent of their population, it is unreasonable that we should call up from one-quarter to one-half of one per cent to serve our country? That would give us a little army of 300,000 men, and that is a bare minimum of our requirements, if we wish to insure ourselves against possible disaster."

FLAG BILL AROUSES STORM. Proposition to Rearrange Design of Emblem Probably Is Killed.

Washington, March 13.—There seems to be little possibility of the passage of the bill introduced in the house by Representative Hayes of California, which proposes a change in the American flag. Nearly every member of the Michigan delegation in congress has received petitions from organizations in his state protesting against the change. These protests come mostly from G. A. R. posts, chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution and similar organizations.

"Senator Smith in introducing some of these remonstrances in the senate stated that he did so not because he believed any such change was imminent, but because they had come to him in the regular course of business. When one has read the story of this event the Texas inscription seems modest. It is this: "Thermopylae had its messenger of defeat; the Alamo had none!"

"Texas won her freedom and applied for admission to the Union. Clay proposed it and so did Webster and Benton. Tyler was president, and he wanted it, and Calhoun, as his secretary of state, pushed it through. Polk, who was a candidate for president, favored it "immediately."

"Texas was admitted to the Union in 1845, although Mexico had given official notice that annexation would be treated as a cause for war.

"Having acquired Texas so easily the Southern element concluded that we might as well have New Mexico and California while we were about it.

"Cause of War. It is always easy to find a provocation for war. The cause of the Mexican war was the boundary line. A dispute arose whether the southwestern boundary of Texas was the River Nueces or the Rio Grande. President Polk arrogated the right of deciding that question and Mexico was goaded to fight.

"The principle of 'manifest destiny,' we are told, was the cause. Zachary Taylor was a general of the American forces in that day. He was a Virginian who had served in the war of 1812 and in the Black Hawk, Seminole and various other Indian wars with distinction, and later became president.

"He was ordered by Polk to march westward of the Nueces. This was before annexation was accomplished. The president thus put peace in peril. Texas had claimed the Rio Grande as the boundary, but of the land between it and the Nueces she had never been in possession.

"Taylor marched according to orders to the Rio Grande. He reached it at what is known as Brownsville. Arrived there, he planted a battery which commanded the public square or plaza in Matamoros, Mexico, across the river. He likewise blockaded the mouth of the stream.

"The Mexican commander at Matamoros naturally held that this was beginning hostilities. So he crossed over the river and his forces had a skirmish with a small force of our men. In it sixteen of our dragoons were killed.

"The president then notified congress that American blood had been spilled on American soil. And the war was begun.

"We were unready, of course, but the war went on. Taylor commanded in northern Mexico. He won the battle of Palo Alto May 8, 1846, and that of Resaca de la Palma the next day, and about nine days later he took Matamoros. Monterey was captured on Sept. 24, and he defeated Santa Anna at Buena Vista in a two days' fight on Washington's birthday and the day after, 1847. For this he won rank as major general.

"Meanwhile Winfield Scott, another American commander, had been carrying on a campaign in the territory, striking at the heart of the enemy's country.

"Scott was the finest looking man in the army. There were those who said he was more majestic than Washington. At all events he was an excellent soldier, though he was once court-martialed by the Wilkinson who was mixed up with Burr.

"Scott served in 1812 and fought the battle of Lundy's Lane, near the falls on the Canadian border. He had been in several of the Indian wars and in command of the army since 1841. He had also been tendered a seat in the cabinet, and some years later than this he was the Whig candidate for president, but failed of election.

"Scott in Chief Command. Scott was general-in-chief in Mexico. He had 8,500 men. Santa Anna, his opponent, had 12,000.

When We Went to War With Mexico

It Was Away Back in the Days of 1846-7, as You Will Remember, and After Considerable Fighting Ended in Victory for the American Forces and in the Settlement We Got Big Slices of Territory.

[This little sketch of the war with Mexico becomes timely because of existing conditions. To most of the present generation much of the real story of that war is new and the part played in it by many history makers adds to the interest. How many are there today who know the part taken in that war by the inventor of the bowie knife, Fremont the Pathfinder, Davy Crockett of coon story fame, Grant, Lee, Austin, Houston and such men?]

The American war in Mexico in 1846 added to United States territory 851,500 square miles, or an area more than seven times as large as the state of New York. We also added more than a thousand miles to our seacoast.

Many histories have it that the Mexicans crossed the Rio Grande, killed six of our dragoons and thus brought on the war. But a good deal went before that. Some of the Southerners cast covetous eyes on Texas as a splendid field for the extension of slavery.

Texas was then Mexican territory. Jackson tried to buy it, but, failing in that, engaged in a plot, according to Rhodes, the historian, to bring about a revolt.

The revolt came off pretty nearly according to schedule back in the '30s of the nineteenth century, and it was not without its great tragedy. The leaders were mostly Southerners. Sam Houston had been governor of Tennessee, but gave up politics for the more or less simple life of a squaw man with the Indians. Davy Crockett was the pioneer of whom is told and retold that story of the tree eon who "came down" rather than have Crockett shoot.

Jim Bowie made a name for himself by inventing the deadly bowie knife. Ben Milam, of Georgia, was a noted fighter, and Moses Austin was a Connecticut Yankee whose memory is kept green in the name of the Texas capital city.

The tragic event of that plot was the siege of the Alamo at San Antonio. The Alamo was an old abbey convent. In it 147 Texans, including Milam, who was in command there, and Crockett and Bowie, withstood a siege of thirteen days before they succumbed to assault by Santa Anna with 5,000 Mexicans. When one has read the story of this event the Texas inscription seems modest. It is this:

"Thermopylae had its messenger of defeat; the Alamo had none!"

Texas won her freedom and applied for admission to the Union. Clay proposed it and so did Webster and Benton. Tyler was president, and he wanted it, and Calhoun, as his secretary of state, pushed it through. Polk, who was a candidate for president, favored it "immediately."

Texas was admitted to the Union in 1845, although Mexico had given official notice that annexation would be treated as a cause for war.

Having acquired Texas so easily the Southern element concluded that we might as well have New Mexico and California while we were about it.

Cause of War. It is always easy to find a provocation for war. The cause of the Mexican war was the boundary line. A dispute arose whether the southwestern boundary of Texas was the River Nueces or the Rio Grande. President Polk arrogated the right of deciding that question and Mexico was goaded to fight.

The principle of "manifest destiny," we are told, was the cause. Zachary Taylor was a general of the American forces in that day. He was a Virginian who had served in the war of 1812 and in the Black Hawk, Seminole and various other Indian wars with distinction, and later became president.

He was ordered by Polk to march westward of the Nueces. This was before annexation was accomplished. The president thus put peace in peril. Texas had claimed the Rio Grande as the boundary, but of the land between it and the Nueces she had never been in possession.

Taylor marched according to orders to the Rio Grande. He reached it at what is known as Brownsville. Arrived there, he planted a battery which commanded the public square or plaza in Matamoros, Mexico, across the river. He likewise blockaded the mouth of the stream.

The Mexican commander at Matamoros naturally held that this was beginning hostilities. So he crossed over the river and his forces had a skirmish with a small force of our men. In it sixteen of our dragoons were killed.

The president then notified congress that American blood had been spilled on American soil. And the war was begun.

We were unready, of course, but the war went on. Taylor commanded in northern Mexico. He won the battle of Palo Alto May 8, 1846, and that of Resaca de la Palma the next day, and about nine days later he took Matamoros. Monterey was captured on Sept. 24, and he defeated Santa Anna at Buena Vista in a two days' fight on Washington's birthday and the day after, 1847. For this he won rank as major general.

Meanwhile Winfield Scott, another American commander, had been carrying on a campaign in the territory, striking at the heart of the enemy's country.

Scott was the finest looking man in the army. There were those who said he was more majestic than Washington. At all events he was an excellent soldier, though he was once court-martialed by the Wilkinson who was mixed up with Burr.

Scott served in 1812 and fought the battle of Lundy's Lane, near the falls on the Canadian border. He had been in several of the Indian wars and in command of the army since 1841. He had also been tendered a seat in the cabinet, and some years later than this he was the Whig candidate for president, but failed of election.

Scott in Chief Command. Scott was general-in-chief in Mexico. He had 8,500 men. Santa Anna, his opponent, had 12,000.

Scott landed his force at Vera Cruz. There our navy helped him by peering away at the ancient fort of San Juan de Ulua, which had made much trouble for Hawkins and some of the other old-time freebooters. Scott put his men ashore by means of surf boats. On March 27 he had them in motion, and moreover somewhat increased his force by drawing on Taylor.

The theater of war now changed to the line between Vera Cruz and the capital. At the same time Fremont, the Pathfinder, then on his way to the Pacific coast, was taking possession of California and Doniphan was securing New Mexico.

Scott's campaign lasted from March to September, 1847. Vera Cruz held out four days. After it was taken the want of draught animals delayed the march on the capital. There were five battles fought along the way; Cerro Gordo, Contreras, Churubusco, Molino del Rey and Chapultepec.

Cerro Gordo was the first obstacle. It lies fifty miles northwest of Vera Cruz. Here the Mexicans had posted themselves on the heights of a rugged mountain at a pass. They had batteries commanding every turn of the road.

This position was flanked April 18 and attacked by three columns. The divisions of Taylor and Worth went up the heights gallantly. Here Santa Anna commanded in person, but the heights were carried by storm and his guns turned in another part of the field that Pillow was assaulting. The Mexicans didn't care for much of that sort of thing and soon surrendered. Santa Anna for his part fled to Jalapa, with Scott in pursuit. The latter fought well enough, but Santa Anna beat him—in the running.

A month or so after this fight at Cerro Gordo the Americans occupied Puebla. Here Scott was compelled to wait during June and July to receive reinforcements and to drill them.

On Aug. 7, he set out for the capital, which by this time was defended by some 30,000 men.

A series of engagements followed this movement. On Aug. 19 and 20 three battles were fought, namely, those of Contreras, Churubusco and San Antonio. These were really parts of one general engagement.

Let it not be imagined for a moment that the Mexicans did not fight. They fought here with bravery and stubbornness. But in the end they were completely routed. Pursuit of them reached to the very gates of their capital.

A great mistake was made there by the Americans in the granting of forms of natural wealth. In the heart of the enemy's country and in a very dangerous position.

The fortifications of the capital were known as Molino del Rey, Casa Mata and Chapultepec. They were considered formidable.

The Wind-Up. On Sept. 17 the armistice terminated. Negotiations failing, Scott prepared to move on these works. On Sept. 8 he attacked.

Santa Anna was in command here. He was an old campaigner. He had governed Mexico, with some intermissions, for twenty years. He drew up his forces with the right on Casa Mata and the left on Molino del Rey.

Both these positions were carried by assault and the Mexicans driven from the field.

The next two days were given to the assault of Chapultepec. Batteries were planted on both sides for this purpose, and on Sept. 13 a simultaneous assault was made.

The American troops at the same time stormed the fortress. The works were carried and the enemy fled in confusion.

The American army pursued them along the causeway of Belem and San Cosme, fighting to the gates of the city. Here the enemy stood and made desperate resistance. The struggle lasted till nightfall.

That night our men rested on their arms. Early the next morning a deputation of the enemy arrived asking for terms. They were refused and the divisions of North and Quitman entered the city.

There was street fighting, however, for two days before the Americans secured possession of the city.

Negotiations now were renewed. There was guerrilla warfare a while longer, but the principal towns were garrisoned by our troops and our men carried on the government. Feb. 2 a treaty of peace was signed and ratifications were exchanged a month or two later.

By that treaty were obtained 651,500 square miles of territory, which, with Texas, gave us 851,500 square miles, including the territory from the Rockies to the Pacific mineral, timber and other forms of natural wealth.

The Mexican war was a school for more than one of the Civil war leaders. Both Grant and Lee were in it.

Although this war won us a vast and splendid estate in the way of western and southwestern territory, there are not many traces of it in our literature. Longfellow's "Victor Galbraith" was founded upon an incident of it, and O'Hara's "Bivouac of the Dead" was suggested, it is said, by the "God's Acre" of some of its veterans.

DEEDS OF STRATHCONA. No one section of the British people can fully appreciate a career which in the truest sense belonged to the whole empire. Lord Strathcona represented the strength of an old stock brought to its most perfect fruit in a new environment. His powers had the range of widest imagination and the capacity of minutest painstaking. His life was, on the personal side, a combination of the greatest practical qualities with the highest idealism. He possessed to the full the characteristic modern genius of finance, but he valued wealth only as an enhancement of his ability to serve his fellows. No one did more by example to solve the moral issues of a commercial age. Lord Strathcona triumphed over many things, but no victory was more complete than that which he exhibited over the spirit of Mammon. His many benefactions, his patronage of the arts, his enthusiastic patriotism, and, above all, his life of self-sacrificing public labor, give his career a moral significance which none can overvalue or overpraise.

His deeds for the empire will be one of the undying stories of posterity. Sufficient justice has never yet been done to the marvelous work which, with a steel band, riveted the scattered regions of British North America into a single and solid Dominion. Before the Canadian Pacific railway was built, Quebec and British Columbia were, for all practical purposes, as far asunder as the poles. Today the Atlantic and Pacific oceans are within four days' journey of each other, and the erstwhile waste that divided east from west has blossomed into populous cities and fertile landscapes that are vital to the world's subsistence. There has been no greater piece of wizardry in the annals of civilization.

Lord Strathcona would have been the last to claim an undue share of the glory of that transformation. He had loyal and splendid colleagues by his side, and behind him he had the exuberant spirit of a young and fearless nation. But those who helped him would have been the first to say that the key of success lay in his brilliant foresight, in his indomitable character, and in the furious energy and determination that responded to his faith. All who ever looked upon that good gray head will realize today that they have seen one of the heroes of the world's history.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Young Men

Many young men are prone to be confident, they will gradually, as they mature in years, have their incomes increased and according to their reasoning under the circumstances there is no need to save a portion of their earnings. The number of persons thus fortunate, however, is small compared to the great mass of people who are obliged to work to the last with a gradually decreasing income.

THOMAS COUGHLIN HAS PASSED AWAY

Wellknown Ishpeeming Pioneer Answered Final Call, After Few Days Illness.

Thomas Coughlin, one of Ishpeeming's oldest residents, died yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, after a brief illness. He was around and feeling as well as usual until twenty-four hours before he passed away. He was taken sick suddenly and then sank rapidly until the end came.

Mr. Coughlin was born in Canada seventy-five years ago and he arrived in Ishpeeming nearly sixty years ago. He was in the employ of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company for about a half century, retiring three years ago. For several years he was employed as night watchman.

Mr. Coughlin was a member of the first baseball team organized in Ishpeeming. It was formed by men living at the Cleveland and Nebraska hills. Two or three other men who played on the team are still living in the county. It was organized in the late sixties, but very few much baseball games were played until the early seventies.

Mr. Coughlin is survived by his widow, six sons and three daughters. The sons are Joseph, Patrick and Ed Coughlin, living in Ishpeeming; Thomas and Frank in Virginia, Minn., and William, in Marquette. The daughters are Mrs. Herbert McDonald and Miss Agnes Coughlin, living in Ishpeeming, and Miss Nora, residing in St. Paul. The latter left a few days ago for St. Paul after a several weeks' visit with her parents. All of the children will be here to attend the funeral.

ISHPEEMING ELKS WERE ROYALLY ENTERTAINED

District Deputy Exalted Ruler Frank Heindel Conducted Inspection at Escanaba.

Some thirty members of the Ishpeeming lodge of Elks went to Escanaba Thursday evening to be present at the inspection of the Escanaba lodge conducted by Frank Heindel, of this city, deputy grand exalted ruler. A gossamer sized delegation from both Negaunee and Marquette also was present. The guests were entertained by members of the Escanaba lodge, a class of four new members being received into the order. At the close of the formal meeting Mr. Heindel, in a short address, warmly complimented the officers and members on their work. Informal talks by the Escanaba members and the visitors followed. The Hematite City four, which accompanied the Ishpeeming members, gave a program of musical numbers.

To J. E. Ryms, exalted ruler of the Escanaba lodge, is due a large amount of the credit for the success of the meeting. He took charge of practically all of the arrangements for the banquet and meeting. The lobby and dining room of the hotel presented an attractive appearance, a large number of flags hav-

LEASES MENOMINEE THEATER.

Ishpeeming Man Has Added Another Play House to His List.

Ed J. Butler, manager of the Ishpeeming theater, who three weeks ago took over the Star theater in Negaunee, this week leased the Menominee opera house from the Carpenter-Cook-Stephenson interests.

Mr. Butler closed the deal Tuesday, and went from Menominee to Milwaukee and Chicago to buy picture machines and other equipment, and also to arrange for picture and vaudeville bookings. He will open the house next week from Monday, the 23rd, with "The Lion and the Mouse" pictures and a vaudeville act, Reed's Animal Surprises, a top line act from one of the big circuits, which will be brought to the Ishpeeming theater later.

The Menominee opera house was erected eleven years ago and has never been used for anything except legitimate attractions. Mr. Butler believes there is a good opening at Menominee for the class of entertainment he will provide. The opera house, which is in fine condition, will seat about 1,000 people.

OFFICER "666."

That splendid melodramatic comedy, "Officer 666," a play that attracted crowded houses to the Gaiety theater in New York and the Grand Opera House, Chicago, will be presented at the Ishpeeming theater on Friday of next week.

The story of "Officer 666" is all about a gentlemanly burglar, who is a student of art as well. His particular hobby is old paintings. When the play opens he is found to be negotiating one of his famous coupes and has chosen as his base of operations the home of Traversa Gladwin, a rich New Yorker absent on a tour of the world. Returning unexpectedly, the young millionaire discovers that the picture "expert" has been masquerading as the owner of his home in upper Fifth Avenue, and he is about to make his "getaway" with a particularly valuable lot of art objects as a part of his impediments.

It is around those incidents that Augustin MacLugh has woven his play, which is said to be filled with dramatic surprises and clean fun that is particularly appealing to Americans of the present day. How the young millionaire outwits this particular Raffles by borrowing the uniform of a policeman and appearing as "Officer 666," how in doing so he meets the burglar's sweetheart, a society girl who thinks he is a millionaire, and who is arrested as the crook's accomplice; and how, thrilled by the charm of her personality, the sure-enough millionaire falls in love with her at first sight and saves her from the thief, though finally trapped is still triumphant, is left to telling by the players, who will unfold the story.

INTEREST IN TOURNAMENT.

The Empire bowling alleys will be represented by two teams by the peninsula bowling tournament, to be held in Calumet March 23-28, it is now expected. The Empires have chosen the members of their team as follows: McCullough, Tom Dyer, J. Gray, E. Hayden, Arvid Braastad, and H. O. Bell. Within a few days it is expected that the Hard Ores will choose their men, and other may accompany the teams on the trip.

"The Question"

Will the Still Lower Prices bring more people here today than when we opened a week ago?

As announced a few days ago, the ISHPEMING CLOAK & SUIT CO. is going out of business forever and intend to wind up this store within ten days. The better part of the stock is still on hand. Everyone knows the quality of merchandise this store has been carrying. The shoppers here are numerous. Most of those who came the first day came here several times since this bargain event and the opportunity of saving real money will soon be a thing of the past.

Saving opportunities are here plentiful—you need bring but little cash to buy big bundles. A few days ago we warned everyone to avoid the tremendous rush. The rush is still on, but we have worked every night to get the stock in first class shape and you can come here now and buy with a bit more comfort.

We have just received a wire from Mr. Gruenheck, who is presently at Fond du Lac, that he would be here with us today, and intends to make this the greatest and biggest day of all. At least it should be as we have been notified to practically cut every price once more in two. Those that took heed in waiting a few days will get full benefit for their consideration.

VISITED SCENE OF MEXICAN REBELLION

Simon Olson and George Denn Say Work in Southwest Is Hard to Find.

Simon Olson and George Denn, Ishpeming men who left here a month ago for El Paso, New Mexico, where they worked for one of the mining companies, arrived home in the southwest, Arizona, where they met former Ishpeming men who are now employed in that mining field. They also made a trip into old Mexico and are acquainted with conditions now existing there. The two days spent in Juarez at the time the excitement was at its highest pitch, in Arizona, Messrs. Olson and Denn saw John C. Greenway and Captain Joseph Hodgson, both of whom were formerly employed at mining properties here, and they also met W. H. McKee, ex one-time master mechanic for the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company in Ishpeming.

The conditions in the Arizona mining fields were not exactly to the young men's liking, and they spent only a short time in the mining camps. There is not much floating labor in the southwest at present, and it is practically impossible for a man to get a good position. Conditions proved much different from what they had expected. This, they say, is due to the large number of Americans who have been driven across the border line by the Mexicans. The preparations now being made for the Panama exposition in San Francisco have also been the means of attracting many people to the southwest, with the result that hundreds are seeking work.

The trip of Messrs. Olson and Denn into Mexico was an interesting one. It was only four days before their arrival in Juarez that William Benton, an Englishman, was notified, and the surrounding country was in a state of high excitement. They saw many of the Mexican soldiers during their brief stay. The American soldiers consider the Mexican troops as a joke, more than anything else. The rebel forces under Villa resemble a disorganized mob, and most of the men are very poorly clad. Some of the soldiers wear strips of leather on their feet instead of shoes, tied with strings and ropes. During their three-day visit in Juarez they were given an opportunity of seeing many of the wounded soldiers. Lads, barely sixteen years of age, were seen, maimed for life by the loss of arms and legs and other injuries of a serious nature. The American soldiers are eager to get into the fray and this is especially true of the negro regiments along the border line.

Among the persons seen by Messrs. Olson and Denn was Arthur Sandberg, who is travelling for a Minneapolis concern. They met him in El Paso, Texas.

ROBBERS ARE CAPTURED. Cascade Junction Man Among Alleged Postoffice Thieves.

After confessing to the robbery of the Watersmeet postoffice and making an attempt to shoot James Morrison, deputy sheriff, Frank Jussia, of Cascade Junction, and Stanley Purkita, of Ironwood, were brought to Escanaba Thursday evening by M. E. Schlabach of Marquette, postoffice inspector, Deputy Sheriff Morrison, and Joseph Kelly, of Watersmeet. The men are said to have obtained booty amounting to more than $800.

The two men will be arraigned today before United States Court Commissioner L. C. Jennings, and they will probably be bound over to United States district court for trial. Jussia, who lives at Cascade Junction, about seven miles from Negaunee, has served a term in the Lansing state reformatory, and is now but little more than twenty years of age. All the booty taken by the two men from the postoffice was found in their possession and later both made a complete confession.

Menominee Politics Lively.

With the city election a few weeks off, political Menominee is beginning to stir itself and the probabilities are that five candidates, representing three parties, will enter the fight for mayoralty honors. Mayor Kartheiser is an announced candidate for re-election. Marshall B. Lloyd is out for the Republican nomination; so are Alderman Taylor of the Sixth ward and Charles Spies. The socialists expect to place a ticket in the field. Of the six aldermen whose terms expire this spring all may seek re-election with the exception of Taylor, Aldermen Seidl, Provancher, Lhoite and Sullivan have all announced their intention of entering the fight. Alderman Hubel as yet has not decided. In the Third ward Herman Schulz is an aspirant for aldermanic honors. He will oppose Alderman Provancher in the primaries. Charles Hutchinson is to run on the Republican ticket in the First ward against Lhoite, a Democrat. Gust Nelson has announced his candidacy as an aspirant for the Republican nomination for alderman in the Sixth ward. He is an engineer at the Lloyd factory.

A HAPPY CHILD IN A FEW HOURS

When Cross, Constipated, Feverish, Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered. When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it cannot cause injury. No difference what age your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomachache, bad breath, remember a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

Cresote in Escanaba's Water.

There have been so many complaints regarding the city water at Escanaba that a lot was mailed to Superintendent Hutton of the Water company, asking an explanation of the cresote taste. Mr. Hutton writes, in reply, as follows: "Referring to your inquiry as to the frequency of the presence of cresote in the water furnished by the North Michigan Water company I wish to advise, first, that neither the Water company nor its superintendent are responsible for existing conditions. It is my candid opinion that the various manufacturing plants along the north shore of Little Bay de Noc are responsible for the cresote. I am of the opinion that

Mysterious Disappearance Recalled.

Every once in a while a newspaper item will refer to the long-lost Charlie Ross. A discussion of the Ross incident recalled to the mind of a pioneer resident of Hubbell the mysterious disappearance from that village of James Carr a number of years ago. Carr was employed as a teamster, was sober and industrious and a splendid specimen of physical manhood. One evening late in the fall he received his pay check and after supper went down town presumably to cash it. He was never heard of afterwards. The surrounding woods were searched, the waters were dragged and every effort was resorted to in an attempt to find him, but without success. A few years later the family moved to southern Illinois, the family consisting of the mother, son and daughter. Six years ago the son, Charles, disappeared as mysteriously as did his father and so far as can be learned he has never been located.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, of W. Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

LANSING—The Michigan primary law is not applicable in cities having non-partisan elections of city officials unless the charter makes the general primary law applicable. This was the decision of Attorney General Fellows. He also holds that where a man has been defeated for the nomination for mayor of a city on one ballot he may not be voted for on another position on the same ballot and elected. This decision was rendered at the request of Alpena election boards. The Democratic nominee for mayor was beaten there, but an attempt was made to name him as a candidate for supervisor by eight persons who wrote his name on the ballots. Mr. Fellows also says that howling is not an unlawful game within the meaning of the act prohibiting minors from watching it.

SAGINAW—Harvey A. Lalonde, twenty-two years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph La Londe, was struck and almost instantly killed by a Flint & Saginaw interurban at the Less street crossing on Genesee avenue. He died before a hospital was reached. The motorman said La Londe was on the track, stepped off, and was struck. La Londe had been suffering from a nervous trouble and on the advice of his doctor had been taking long walks. He was a graduate of the Saginaw high school class of 1909. Later he attended the Michigan College of Mines at Houghton from which he was graduated last spring. He took up work in the city engineer's office, recently resigning to pursue his profession on broader lines.

Mrs. Baker So Weak—Could Not Do Her Work—Found Relief In Novel Way.

Adrian, Mich. — "I suffered terribly with female weakness and backache and got so weak that I could hardly do my work. When I washed my dishes I had to sit down and when I would sweep the floor I would get so weak that I would have to get a drink every few minutes, and before I did my dusting I would have to lie down. I got so poorly that my folks thought I was going into consumption. One day I found a piece of paper blowing around the yard and I picked it up and read it. It said 'Saved from the Grave,' and told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women. I showed it to my husband and he said, 'Why don't you try it?' So I did, and after I had taken two bottles I felt better and I said to my husband, 'I don't need any more,' and he said 'You had better take it a little longer anyway.' So I took it for three months and got well and strong." — Mrs. ALONZO E. BAKER, 9 Tecumseh St., Adrian, Mich.

Not Well Enough to Work.
In these words is hidden the tragedy of many a woman, housekeeper or wage earner who supports herself and is often helping to support a family, on meagre wages. Whether in house, office, factory, shop, store or kitchen, woman should remember that there is one tried and true remedy for the ills to which all women are prone, and that is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It promotes that vigor which makes work easy. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

YOUNG WOMAN HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

Miss Elydia Nelson Was Struck by North Western Passenger Train.

Miss Elydia Nelson, daughter of John Nelson, of the Jackson location, had a narrow escape from serious injury and possible death Thursday afternoon, when she was struck by the engine of the Chicago & Northwestern passenger from the south.

Miss Nelson, who is twenty-three years old, left her home at the Jackson about 4:30 and was walking on the Du-luth, South Shore & Atlantic railway tracks towards town when she heard the train whistle. She stepped from the South Shore right-of-way over on to the Northwestern tracks, believing that the approaching train was the South Shore. She was in the high cut near the diamond crossing at the time, and as there is a sharp curve there she did not see the train and walked into it.

When the train hit Miss Nelson she was about two hundred feet from the diamond and, as is always the case there, the train was moving slowly, in order to come to a dead stop 100 feet further on. As a result Miss Nelson was only thrown to one side of the track. After the engine-men saw that they had hit the girl they threw on the brakes and brought the train to a stop. She was picked up and taken to Ishpeming, where she was given medical attention at the Ishpeming hospital.

Although Miss Nelson's injuries are painful they are not serious. Her collar bone was dislocated and she was bruised considerably about the back and side. She was removed to her home here yesterday afternoon.

He was forty-nine years old and besides his widow is survived by five sons and one daughter, all residents of this city. Mrs. Emil Heikkila is the daughter and the sons are William, Harvey, Leonard, Lauri and Toivo. Mr. Koski was a member of the Knights of Kaleva, Finnish Temperance association and the Finnish branch of the Knights of the Modern Maccabees.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Finnish Lutheran church. Rev. F. V. Kava will officiate.

Mining News

A FORMER MINING AGITATOR.

Harry Day, now president of the Federal Mining company, organized by the Rockefeller and sold to the Guggenheims, is also president of the Bunker Hill & Sullivan, the richest silver mine in the world, and he is the representative of the Guggenheims in the Coeur d'Alene district. To look at this New York multi-millionaire one would not suspect he was a leading mine striker less than twenty years ago. As a miner in the Coeur d'Alene district from 1887 to 1896 he was one of the leaders in all that famous mining trouble. His record as an agitator and organizer was so great that no mine in the district would give him a day's work. With his father and other relatives he started out to find a mine of his own. They went up the north fork of the Coeur d'Alene river and dug into the mountain side on a mining claim called the Hercules. In the last fourteen years Day and his associates have taken out of this claim about fifteen millions of profits and the Hercules is still earning a million dollars a year net.

NOTES OF MINING NEWS.

The annual report of the Oceola shows clearly the effects of the strike. Costs were naturally heavily increased in all departments. The company paid $339,000 in unearned dividends, but evidently took the position that the large surplus justified the disbursement. The company closed the year with net quick assets of $1,549,000.

Ile Royale's daily shipments now are running in the neighborhood of 2,000 tons daily. The working force recently has been increased substantially, a number of strikers having turned in their Western Federation cards and been assigned to their old places and old employees who had left the district have come back. Drifting has been in progress on the Grand Portage lode for some time on the twenty-sixth and twenty-ninth levels near No. 2 shaft. The showing continues satisfactory.

With the continuance of the drifting on the vein exposed a month ago by New Areadian's 750-foot level crosscut, the formation is holding its richness. Drifting is going ahead in both directions. Rather than wait for the shaft to be sunk deep enough for another crosscut to the vein at greater depth, it is likely that a crosscut will be driven from the shaft at some point above the 750-foot level, which would give the dip of the vein and indicate its continuity. The distance from the shaft to the vein is but 150 feet.

The crosscut on the thirty-second level of the Franklin, which is to continue through all the formations supposed to be contained in the property, has been extended sixty feet beyond the Alloway conglomerate. When drifting is commenced the crosscutting will be stopped temporarily and resumed after the drifts are in about seventy-five feet each way. # CHURCHES WILL BE WELL FILLED

Marquette "Go-to-Church" Sunday Movement, Extending Over Several Weeks and Which Has Aroused Great Interest, Will Produce Its Fruits Tomorrow.

Clergymen Particularly Interested Arrange Special Services—Will Be Followed by a Series of Special Meetings at Which Dr. Shaw, of the Soo, Will Preach.

Tomorrow will be "Go-to-Church" Sunday in Marquette. Every Sunday is a "Go-to-Church" Sunday for a great many people, but there are still many Christians who overlook the duty of church attendance. It is to arouse these to their shortcomings, and with the hope that church attendance will be permanently stimulated, that the campaign of the past three weeks, in which the pastors of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist churches have been the leaders, has been conducted by the Protestant clergymen of the city. It has aroused much interest, and the result is expected to be that the Protestant churches of the city will tomorrow see such an outpouring of attendants as they have rarely been witnessed here.

The campaign has been well planned, and, while it has been conducted in a dignified manner, the men in charge of it have recognized the value of advertising, and have missed no opportunity to call it to the attention of the public, as the columns of the newspapers the past few weeks have shown. They have been gratified by the enthusiasm aroused and express confidence that much good will result from the movement. In addition to the extensive publicity, much other preliminary work has been undertaken, including a series of cottage prayer meetings.

At the churches that have been particularly interested in the campaign special services will be held tomorrow. The pastors have prepared appropriate sermons and the choirs have been busy with the preparation of musical programs of unusual attractiveness. The "Go-to-Church" Sunday movement is preliminary to a sustained campaign that will start Monday night. The pastors have arranged with Dr. Shaw, of the Soo, an eloquent divine, to give his entire attention to the Marquette field for the ensuing several weeks, and meetings will be held every evening except on Saturdays. As a result of the movement, it is expected that the ranks of the regular church-goers will be largely recruited.

Following are the Sunday announcements of the churches that have been

Go-to-Church Mar. 15

The Campaign Committee recommends: That you read the testimonials of the business and professional men in this issue. That you go to church tomorrow and take your entire family with you and sit with them in the church. That every church member irrespective of this canvass invite at least ten neighbors to the services of tomorrow. That managers of hotels, boarding houses, rooming places, etc., extend an invitation to their guests to attend worship on this day. That boarders and hotel guests request their hostesses to postpone the Sunday lunch hour in order that the employees of such establishments may attend church as well as the host or hostess. That employers and all persons having to do with the control of occupations which usually keep people employed on Sunday notify those employed, as far as possible, that they will be released from their work March 15 for the purpose of attending church. "If after Kirk you hide a wee There's some wad like to speak to ye. If after Kirk ye rise and flee We'll all seem cold and stiff to ye The one that's in the seat with ye Is stranger here than you, maybe. All here lay got their fears and cares: Add you your soul unto our prayers. Be ye our angel unawares."

most active in the "Go-to-Church" movement. Methodist Episcopal Church. "Some Interesting Chapters in Church History" will be the topic of the sermon at the 11 o'clock morning service. A chorus choir of thirty voices, with orchestral accompaniment will lead the music at this service.

A union preaching service will be held in the evening at 7:30 in the Presbyterian church. Rev. Mr. Amstutz will deliver the sermon. Adult Bible study classes in the auditorium. A young ladies' class under the direction of Miss Wood, of the high school, will be organized at this session.

Rev. Dr. Shaw of the Soo will conduct union evangelistic services in the Presbyterian church, beginning Monday night and continuing until April 5th. Dr. Shaw is one of the strongest men in Michigan Methodism. He recently cancelled a month's lecturing tour and will give his best effort to the Marquette public. The Marquette churches were fortunate to secure his services. He will speak every night except Saturdays.

Sensationalism will be eschewed in these meetings. The most refined and dignified who may be privileged to attend will be instructed and inspired. A heavy chorus choir, with orchestral accompaniment, will lead the singing. Remember these meetings begin tomorrow night.

Presbyterian Church. Sunday school at 9:45. There are rewards for regular attendance, and a special invitation to join the various Bible classes is extended. Morning worship—Go-to-Church Day—11 a. m. sermon theme, "The Friendliness of Christ." Junior Christian Endeavor at 4 p. m. Union young people's meeting at 6:30 with Mrs. Walter H. Smith, leading. Union evening service at the Presbyterian church, 7:30.

The revival campaign begins Monday evening, 7:30. Whether or not you have attended church before, you are expected in the church of your choice tomorrow morning at all of the services. Make this "Go-to-Church" movement a great triumph.

COURT ADJOURNS TODAY.

February Term Longest Session in More Than Thirty Years.

After being in session four weeks, the February term of the Marquette circuit court will come to a close today. The term has been the longest in a period of more than thirty years. A term of three weeks is considered exceptional.

The taking of the proofs in the chancery suit brought against Louis Doherty of Iron River, by his former wife will be completed this morning, and the case will be taken under advisement.

Mrs. Doherty is seeking to have a decree for divorce annulled after a period of more than twenty years. The case has been attracting considerable attention and the court room yesterday was well filled with spectators. Mr. Doherty was on the stand the latter part of the afternoon and will resume the stand this morning when court opens.

MARQUETTE DESIRES CONFERENCE

Large Delegation Going to Boys' Convention at Escanaba.

When a large number of Marquette young men go to Escanaba next week to attend the second annual conference of upper peninsula boys as representatives of various Marquette organizations, an endeavor will be made to procure for this city the convention of 1915. While it has been made known that other upper peninsula cities will bid for the gathering, there is earnest hope that Marquette's application will be favorably considered. Fully twenty delegates will go from this city. Calumet is at work to obtain the 1915 conference, and it is understood that the Soo also will make a bid.

It is now indicated that practically every Marquette boys' association will be represented at Escanaba. The organizations at the high school chose their delegates yesterday afternoon. Alfred Nelson will represent the Lincoln Debating society; Leonard Morrison and William Morrison will go as delegates from the Athletic association, with Robert Gehrand and Marjordan Borreson as alternates, and David Spilon will represent the senior class.

"FULL TIME" HEALTH OFFICER TO BE NAMED

Matter Will Be Taken Up and Disposed of by the Commission Monday Evening.

The commission Monday evening will take steps to place the health department on a permanent basis. A health officer who will give his full time to the city, will be appointed, and the conditions of service that will be required will be outlined. The appointee, it is said, has practically been decided on, but no formal announcement of the choice of Mayor Begole will be made prior to the session.

That there would be early disposal of this office and a determination of the status of the department was indicated by Mayor Begole's interview published in the Mining Journal Tuesday morning, in which he came out squarely for a "full time" health service, asserting that his study of the matter had convinced him of the soundness of the plan outlined by the Marquette physicians in their letter to the commission a few weeks ago.

Mayor Begole told The Mining Journal that as the matter had opened up to him he felt that Marquette could not afford to be without such a department at any reasonable expenditure. The compensation it is expected to pay the official is $2,000, the amount tentatively suggested in the physicians' letter.

Second in State. Marquette will, it is said, be only the second city in the state to employ a "full time" health officer. Detroit has now such an official, but no other city in Michigan has esteemed the public health of such importance as to merit the attention of a skilled physician and bacteriologist giving his full time to the work. In Grand Rapids, the second city, the health officer gives but part of his time to his duties, and has a large private practice.

In a recent letter to The Mining Journal, Dr. Koon, of Grand Rapids, a member of the state board of health, said he did not believe it would be practicable for Marquette to employ a full time official, but the commission has come to view the matter in another light.

Marquette physicians express great pleasure with the stand of the commission, as they have believed for a number of years past that the health service here was on an inadequate basis. They express confidence that the innovation will quickly justify itself and the belief that if the work is properly attended to there will be little danger in the future of serious epidemics of communicable diseases.

Commenting on the matter yesterday, one of their number said: "I regard the proposed requirement of medical inspection of the children attending the schools as one of the most important features of the plan. Epidemic diseases frequently get a hold in a community when signs that they were threatening would be revealed by a careful survey of the children in the schools. Thorough inspection should indicate the likelihood of such trouble at the outset and show how it can be headed off. This inspection will not be conducted in a manner that will be objectionable to any parents, and I am sure that once it is established it will meet with general approval and be pronounced an excellent thing."

Much interest has been taken in neighboring cities in Marquette's project to place the health service on an adequate basis and it is expected that if the plan gives the expected results here other upper peninsula cities will seriously consider its adoption.

PROF. ROHAN HERE TUESDAY.

Will Address Marquette Division of the Hibernians.

Professor Michael G. Rohan, of Marquette University, Milwaukee, will be the principal speaker before the Marquette division of the Hibernians Tuesday, St. Patrick's Day. He is a speaker of note and his addresses on Ireland have aroused much comment. Professor Rohan is national chairman of the Irish history committee. Two lectures on Ireland will be delivered in this city, both of which will be illustrated.

The committee in charge of the St. Patrick's Day entertainment has completed all the arrangements. In the morning the Hibernians will attend a special mass at St. Peter's cathedral. In the evening a program will be given at Baraga auditorium.

Normal Notes

Tuesday the senior domestic science girls, under the supervision of Miss McCallum, head of the department, served a St. Patrick's dinner to ten members of the faculty. The table decorations were appropriate to the occasion, as were also most of the dishes served at the dinner. The menu was as follows:

- Pea Soup
- Roast Leg of Lamb
- Maitre d'Hotel Butter
- Spinach
- Green Tomato Pickles
- Mint Jelly
- Cheese and Stuffed Green Peppers
- Wafers
- Pistachio Ice Cream
- Assorted Cake
- Coffee

The planning, preparation and serving of dinners is a part of the work of the department. At assembly Tuesday morning Mr. Parker, of the Latin department, gave an illustrated address, describing a trip made by him from Rome to visit Greece and Athens. Mr. Parker showed slides of the different places visited on the way to Athens and back, also some beautiful views of Athens and the Acropolis. He showed pictures of Greece and the Greek islands he visited during the trip. The slides shown by Mr. Parker were excellent, and his lecture, descriptive of various places and filled with incidents of Greek history, was much appreciated and enjoyed.

Miss Frances E. Russell, assistant in the English department, has resigned her position at the Northern State Normal school. Miss Russell will spend the next few months in the city of New York.

Herman Gundlach has started a large crew of workers on the new building erecting the steel work. The stone work will be begun as soon as the weather settles.

Mrs. Rushmore, of the expression department, will give an illustrated talk at the Peter White Public Library on Tuesday, on her recent trip through Ireland.

Miss Nora Robertson was called to her home at L'Anse last week, because of the death of her father, Duncan Robertson.

those that are here are sufficient to make a creditable display, and one that will give pretty complete information upon the new styles.

"Last season I thought that the limit of cleverness and originality had been reached, but it seems that I was wrong. The styles this season, in my opinion, surpass those of any period within my memory. The graceful style and the immense diversity of fashions is sure to appeal to every woman; and I believe that most of my customers will be just as enthusiastic about the new fashions as I am."

Mr. Huetter extends to Marquette women an invitation to come and view the new spring fashions which are now being shown at this store. adv.
