WHITEFISH SPAWN SCARCE. Federal Agents Obtain Very Little Along Lakes This Year.

Whitefish spawn have been very scarce the past year, it is reported from the federal hatcheries about the Great Lakes.

Every year agents for the federal hatcheries make visits to various points along the lake, and collect the spawn stripped by the commercial fishermen from the whitefish and lake trout taken by them.

It is required that the commercial fishermen, in order to gain their fishing permits, strip the spawn and turn it over to the federal agents.

Most of the commercial fishermen see the advantage, of course, in doing this, as the spawn are developed in the hatcheries and planted, thus helping to restock the Great Lakes with fish that are rapidly becoming scarce as the result of heavy demands.

DELFT THEATRE TODAY

"The Circular Path"

In addition—A Selected Comedy.

Theatrical

Opera House. Marguerite Clark's latest screen triumph, "Helene of the North," which will be offered today at the opera house, presents this dainty star in the most unique characterization she has yet assumed.

This five-part Paramount feature combines in a decidedly novel manner the cultured atmosphere of aristocratic society circles with the rugged environment of the trackless wastes of Northwestern Canada.

The entire construction of the story is very original beginning as it does in the fashionable home of an English society lady, and developing from that sheltered spot into the open spaces of the Canadian woods, where a virile melodramatic plot ensues, culminating romantically in the cozy corner where the drama began.

For the vaudeville act today, Brooks, Roth and Brown will entertain with harmony singing, banjos and mandolins.

Delft Theater. "The Circular Path," with Henry B. Walthall, star of the "Birth of a Nation," in the stellar role, is the attraction today at the Delft theater.

This is an intensely emotional photodrama in three parts, and is exceptionally well adapted for the genius of Henry B. Walthall, supported by a strong cast, whose work makes this a photoplay of such strength and dramatic intensity as to hold the spectator spellbound.

Mr. Walthall, as the Rev. Darwin Kirby, is deeply in love with a woman given to all the gaieties of life. She refuses to devote herself to the duties of a minister's wife, and finally the preacher gives up his pulpit for the love of the girl.

His unfortunate business ventures in the west, after which he drops to the lowest depths of degradation, and his final start in the right direction, are masterfully portrayed in this feature.

In addition to "The Circular Path," a selected comedy will also be shown today.

JAPANESE SEEK FRIENDSHIP.

One paragraph in the imperial rescript emanating from the Japanese emperor, Yoshihito, on the occasion of his official consecration at Kioto should be pondered seriously by those Japophobians who see constant menace to America in the activities of the Japanese on sea and land. After paying just tribute to the development of the nation in its formation of character the Mikado added: "Now that we have inherited the grand work of our father it is our will to secure the permanent stability of the state by consolidating its foundation, and to share the benefits of peace and harmony by strengthening friendship with other nations. May the heavenly spirit of our ancestors witness our determination that we fulfill our mission by diligently laboring day and night." There is a ring of sincerity in a true significance of the emperor's prostration of friendship. In every important city in America the resident Japanese consul, evidently acting under a preconcerted movement inspired from the highest official sources, made the consecration of the Emperor the occasion of a grand reception and ball, invitations to which were extended to representative men and women of each locality. In inviting prominent Americans thus to help celebrate the accession of the Mikado a significant note. The Japanese by this token indicate their desire to foster friendly relations between the two countries and we believe right thinking citizens of America will recognize the earnest intention of the Japanese government to cultivate a spirit of good will that shall eventually bring to light the unjust suspicions launched by narrow-minded individuals and political agitators against a proud and intensely progressive nation. We felicitate the Japanese vice-consul, Mr. Ujira Oyama, on the success of the reception celebration in this city. Following his speech of welcome he led in three "hanzas" for President Woodrow Wilson, after which Meyer Lissner responded for the Americans, led in a like tribute to the Japanese Emperor. The nation-wide occasion marks a new epoch in the international relations of the two countries.—Los Angeles Graphic.

COSTLY APARTMENTS.

Herbert L. Pratt, one of the vice presidents of the Standard Oil company, has leased for a city home the twelfth floor of the apartment house under construction on the southeast corner of Fifth avenue and Seventy-second street. Mr. Pratt will pay, it is said, $300,000 a year for his rooms. Lawrence B. Elliman of Pease & Elliman, who closed the transaction, said that it was the largest apartment house lease ever made. The building will not be ready for occupancy until next August. It has been designed with all of the luxuries and conveniences of high-class homes, and will be one of the most costly apartment structures in the city, the cost of the building being about $1,000,000. Mr. Pratt's suite will contain eleven bedrooms and eight baths, and he has taken it for several years. The original plans for the building provided for two suites on a floor. Mr. Elliman said that in view of the steady demand for large suites, the owning syndicate had decided to arrange the tenth and eleventh floors each into one large apartment. Mr. Pratt has a fine country house at Glen Cove, L. I., and his present New York city home is in the apartment house at 640 Park avenue. When Fifth avenue's first big apartment structure in the upper residential section was completed about four years ago, on the northeast corner of Eighty-first street, it established a record for high rentals. Senator Root and Murry Guggenheim took the largest suites, each having a floor and a hall. Mr. Guggenheim's suite was a trifle larger and his rental was about $25,000 a year, while Senator Root's lease was reported as be-

WOMAN FLASHES PISTOL.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 9.—Uptown Atlanta had a shock yesterday from an encounter between Mrs. W. L. Bishop, formerly of New York, and Mrs. J. Walter Ware, both prominent socially, in which a pistol played a part. As a result, Mrs. Ware made a bond in the municipal court and a peace warrant was taken out for Mrs. Bishop. The two women met in the center of the city in the morning. Both were in their automobiles and when they saw each other Mrs. Ware pulled a revolver and pointed it at Mrs. Bishop. Speaking for his wife, Mr. Ware stated that Mrs. Bishop was unreasonably jealous of his wife, had been following her and that he had given her a pistol to defend herself. Mrs. Bishop jumped out of her automobile and approached Mrs. Ware's automobile, he said, and his life then drew her revolver. Mrs. Bishop declined to talk of the affair. Telephone line extension is now facilitated by the use of a machine which digs the holes for the poles at the average rate of sixty a day.

OFFICIALS FEAR AUTO LAW WILL NOT STAND

Secretary, Treasurer and Auditor Want a Test Case Started Early.

Lansing, Dec. 9.—It is the sincere wish of Secretary of State Vaughan, Auditor General Fuller and State Treasurer Hoorer that the new automobile law be tested out as speedily as possible if the Wayne men opposing the measure intends to have its constitutionality passed upon by the supreme court. Already Secretary of State Vaughan has received thousands of dollars for automobile licenses to be issued Jan. 1, and the new bill does not become effective until the first of the year there appears to be no chance that a test case will be made until the measure becomes operative. If the new law does not stand the test of the courts, and some state officials are of the opinion that there are serious doubts as to its constitutionality, an adverse decision by the court will mean an immense amount of work for the state department, auditor general's office and the state treasurer. When the supreme court knocked out the Bricker-Smith bill passed by the legislature of 1913 about 15,000 licenses had been issued by the state department. Bookkeepers of the various departments did an immense amount of extra work to straighten out the claims. In the order of the action of the court in knocking out the automobile law wrote letters to the secretary of state and auditor general demanding an immediate refund of the amount due them. The vouchers were made out in the order in which they were received and those who were last in line were forced to wait several weeks. Some even threatened suit. Visions of similar scenes come to the three departments involved whenever they think of the new law and the administrators are therefore anxious that the law be tested out and a decision obtained at the earliest possible date. A number of constitutional lawyers have observed that the new law is no good inasmuch as thousands of dollars worth of property is removed from the tax rolls of Detroit and no portion of the refund can be used in the city.

OFFER YACHTS TO NAVY.

1,000 Owners of Small Craft Make Auxiliary Boat Suggestion. New York, Dec. 9.—Nearly 1,000 owners of yachts and motor boats have offered their craft as auxiliaries to the U. S. navy, according to Ralph H. Strassburger of the executive committee of the Navy League of the United States. Mr. Strassburger, addressing the league here yesterday, said that efforts would be made to have new powerboats constructed along naval lines. The navy league adopted a resolution favoring the establishment next summer of naval training camps on the lines of the military camp held at Portsmouth, N. Y. this summer. The league favors such camps at or near New York city, in Narragansett Bay, Rhode Island, at Norfolk, Va., and San Francisco. Arthur H. Dadmun, secretary of the league, announced that it is endeavoring to induce southern members of congress to support the administration's naval program. A New York state branch of the league was organized with Charles A. Munn as provisional chairman.

M' MILLAN SAFE, BUT FROZEN IN

Explorer Has Little Hope of Reaching Home for Many Months.

New York, Dec. 9.—Donald B. MacMillan, the Arctic explorer who went north in search of Crocker Land, was at Etah, Greenland, when he wrote a letter just received by the American Museum of Natural History here. MacMillan said in his letter that he was awaiting the arrival of the relief schooner Cluett, which it is learned has now been imprisoned by ice at North Star Bay, more than 100 miles from Etah. A letter from Knud Rasmussen, which was sent from Greenland by MacMillan's letter, said the captain of Rasmussen's vessel had sent his motorboat to Etah to bring out the MacMillan party, but the result is not yet known. MacMillan's letter was dated April 26, last. He wrote that naturally the boys are very anxious to get home and would be much disappointed if a ship failed to arrive, but do not be a bit alarmed over our safety if such should happen.

Searches for Geologist.

The explorer wrote that all his efforts were then directed to bring back to safety W. Elmer Ekblaw, the geologist and botanist, who had not returned from a 1,100-mile trip over Ellesmere land. Ekblaw started late in March and was expected to return about June 1. The MacMillan party was then engaged in placing caches of food at different points on the Greenland coast. MacMillan was compelled to abandon his own proposed trip to King Christian land in order to equip the Ekblaw party. "I hoped to pick up another team and get away on a trip but that will be impossible," he said in his letter. "Within the memory of the oldest Eskimos there has never been such a year. The Eskimos have eaten their dogs as the only food available and burned their sledges for fuel. Have just returned from Peteravik with a skeleton team of thirteen dogs; no meat for love or money. In trying to get my team in shape for Ek we paid as high as five gallons of oil for a single flipper of walrus; ordinarily this would buy a whole one." Outlining his future plans, MacMillan wrote: "If a ship reaches us and Ekblaw does not remain with me, I may hand over in Jones Sound with one Eskimo. Here I shall remain one year for ethnological work and sledge from here to the northern coast of America."

CHINA CHAGRINED BY POWERS' ACTION

Intervention to Prevent Formation of New Government Causes Dissent.

Peking, Nov. 15.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Peking was stunned by the action of Japan, England and Russia in requesting that there be a postponement of the reestablishment of the monarchy. While the Chinese officials have been somewhat apprehensive as to the attitude of the foreign powers towards the proposed change in the Chinese government, they were hopeful that no actual obstruction would be offered by the nations with interests in the Far East. Until three days ago there was a firm belief that China could abandon the republic without interference and later on could get recognition from the new government from the European powers and the United States. The failure of France to participate in the suggestion of the postponement of the imperial movement has created much discussion. The French minister, Mr. Conty, says he was without instructions from his home government. Europeans are also commenting much on the failure of the United States to participate. Naturally the Chinese officials take some comfort in the fact that only Russia and England supported Japan. However, the "reeling is general in Peking that Japan's success in getting the support of England and Russia makes her pre-eminent in Far Eastern affairs.

Peking Gazette's Views.

The Peking Gazette, which has mildly opposed the abandonment of the republic from the time of its discussion, says of the representations Mr. Ohata, the Japanese Charge d'Affaires, made to the Chinese minister of foreign affairs with the concurrence of the Russian and British ministers: "It would be at once idle and dangerous to disguise the meaning and significance of the interview. And while we have no desire to claim any special gift of foresight, it does not seem improper that we should recall the fact that the probability of this precise development of the situation has been indicated not once but repeatedly in our columns. To those who are too learned in the hoary statecraft of this country, the entire sequence of events has been clear. Directly one realizes or rather remembers that the independence and integrity of China is guaranteed not by the power of Chinese arms, but by the strength of friendly powers, the present weakness of the international system in which China finds a place as sovereign country is revealed. And the longer the war is fought on, the weaker that international structure becomes. This view, none but those who think of China in terms of Mandarin thought can fail to realize that the rule of safety and security for this country is to leave untouched the things that hold us in our peculiar place in the world's political orbit. It is because the momentous changes which seem easy only to men whose mind is ruled by post-modern conceptions of government—threatens a disastrous displacement that the same mind reads in it a horrible scope of evil things."

"The Kind Mother Uses"
"Every time mother gets out Calumet I know there's going to be good things to eat at our house. Delicious, tender, tempting doughnuts, biscuits, cakes and pies! I've never seen a bakery failure with Calumet. Mother says it's the only Baking Powder that insures uniform results."

centuate the differences that exist between the Chinese in regard to the form of government so as to stir up internal disorder and then to step in as the saviour of the peace in the Far East and to claim the proper reward, the form of which she would determine for herself. The plot is obvious enough, but it will succeed unless the Chinese themselves defeat it. If the Chinese sink all their political differences and present a united front to their inveterate enemy, Japan will be foiled. No excuse for sending a Japanese army into China can be found unless the Chinese give it. And unless Japan succeeds in her plot to engineer things so that disorders in China give her the chance of landing her army her claim to pre-eminence in the Far East and priority over all other nations will remain unestablished. I appeal to the Chinese to exhibit true patriotism in this grand struggle and to show the Japanese that though they can hoodwink the British and Russian governments, the Chinese people cannot be induced to assist Japan to bring China to the abject fate that overtook Korea, Yonks, etc., Britain."

WAR AND THE WORLD'S WEALTH.

The chancellor of the Exchequer gave statisticians something to think about when he placed the capital wealth of the British Empire at $130,000,000,000; annual income $20,000,000,000. Ten years ago the United Kingdom alone was capitalized at about $60,000,000,000, its annual income at $10,000,000,000, its annual savings and investments at $1,500,000,000. Estimates made before the war gave the home land annual savings and reinvestment of $2,700,000,000; wealth was put for the United Kingdom, $85,000,000,000, British India $15,000,000,000 and Canada $7,000,000,000. As the remainder of the empire would add total nearly $20,000,000,000, Mr. McKenna is apparently marking up his assets. He may be justified in doing so. In 1900 the wealth of the United States was figured at $88,517,000,000 by the census, or $11,647 per capita. An estimate by the Department of Commerce puts our wealth now at $187,730,000,000, or about $1,868 per capita, the population being somewhat more than 100,000,000. If wealth, measured in dollars, has more than doubled here in fifteen years, if wealth per capita has increased 60 per cent, the growth must be due in part simply to higher prices for commodities. The gold dollar is worth less than in 1900. In their bearing on the war these figures lead to bewildering conclusions. The fighting nations are borrowing billions, but a billion does not mean what it did. Measured in pounds, marks, francs, crowns, lire, rubles, the larger contesting nations are richer than they were when they began pouring out their blood and wasting their treasures in the gigantic struggle! Measured in actual wealth, they are all poorer.—New York World.

GARBAGE AND ASHES MUST BE SEPARATED

Instructions to Householders Issued in Connection With Incinerator.

A new plan for the handling of garbage and ashes is to be adopted as soon as the incinerator plant, being constructed by the McGuire-Hunter Incinerator company, goes into commission. Garbage and ashes must be separated and householders will be asked to drain the water from garbage and, wherever possible, to wrap it in paper before placing it in the cans. If garbage and ashes are mixed they will be left for the householders to dispose of.

Wednesday evening, the board of public works submitted to the council the following communication, which was referred to the committee on ordinances and legislation and the city attorney:

"Gentlemen—We are about to put into commission our new incinerator plant, and it will therefore be necessary that some system be adopted so that a proper separation of garbage will be made by each and every householder, so that the very best results may be attained by the system of incineration. We, therefore, recommend to your honorable body of the following regulations:

"Please do not destroy.

"Hang in your kitchen for future reference:

"The city of Ishpeming is building, and about to put into service an incinerator or garbage destroyer. We ask the co-operation of the householders to make this a success. In the future there must be one can for ashes and one can for garbage. Under no condition should ashes and garbage be mixed. If found to be mixed garbage will not be removed. It would only be a waste of time and money to haul ashes to the incinerator.

"We also ask that house garbage be drained of water and rolled in paper and if necessary tied with string."

Alderman Murphy, chairman of the building committee, reported that the incinerator plant is about completed, and will be tested on or about the 20th. It is the wish of the committee having the erection of the plant in charge, as well as E. C. Hunter, who is installing it, that every member of the council make a visit to the plant during the test. The board of public works was instructed to equip the incinerator with lights.

All Bids Too Low.

The committee on buildings, grounds and insurance reported to the council that the bids received for the purchase of the old jail property on North Second street, were rejected, as the committee did not consider that any of them represented anywhere near the true value of the property. While no figures have been given out, it is said that the bids did not represent more than 50 per cent of the value placed on the property by the city officials. The bidders were John Nolan, Johnson Bros and F. Braastad & Co.

Petition Rejected.

After considerable discussion by the members of the council relative to amusements, and to what extent the council is justified in making appropriations for same, it was decided to lay on the table the petition asking that a ball slide be maintained on North Pine street. The committee noted that while the request had been endorsed by officials of the Cleveland-Cliffs and Oliver Iron Mining companies, it should be stated their endorsements were not given for the companies, but were endorsements by individuals. There seems to be a misunderstanding as to this point hence the explanation.

Mrs. John H. Gill, West Division street, petitioned the council to exempt her from the payment of water tax. Her request was referred to the committee on water works and board of public works.

CAUSES OF BLINDNESS.

One of the prominent causes of life-long blindness is inflammation of the optic nerve.

This is emphatically preventable; primarily by the avoidance of the one place where the infection grows and is spread, the red light district, and, second, by prompt and thorough treatment.

If this be intelligently done and the patient kept under expert observation for at least three years, nine-tenths of the risk of the poisons either attacking his own brain and nervous system or being transmitted to his unborn child, will be avoided.

Another frequent cause of blindness is trachoma, or granulated lids, a disease which simply means dirty, low grade and half civilized habits of living.

In this country it reaps its principal harvest among Indians, the more ignorant and poverty-stricken elements of our Southern mountaineers, and the lower grade of emigrants from Eastern and Southern Europe.

The only thing needed to prevent it is civilized and clean habits of life; and its importance in American blind asylums is far less than in European.

A small part of the blindness in our asylums is due to congenital defects of the nerve of the eye, or the brain center. This, however, does not exceed 5 or 6 per cent of the total number, and is the only portion of the whole which is preventable. Though, as this occurs usually by direct inheritance from families who are subject to this defect, and is one of the group of calamities which is associated with feeble mindedness and defectiveness, it also is preventable by preventing the breed that is liable to it.

Another group of blind people have had their sight destroyed by some acute infection or fever "settling in" and attacking the eye. Epidemic cerebro-spinal meningitis has the deadliest tendency in this direction; but it is fortunately a comparatively rare disease, and to a considerable degree a preventable one.

The most terrific and wholesale "blinder" of all smallpox, has been almost wiped off the earth by medical science. Barely a century ago from 40 to 60 per cent of the inmates of homes for the blind in Europe were there on account of smallpox. Now, thanks to vaccination, scarcely 2 per cent of all the blind owe their calamity to this cause.

Roughly speaking, any inflammation which spreads from the lids to the cornea, or which "settles" in the coats of the eyeball or in the optic nerve or retina, from the blood, may cause blindness. The problem to prevent blindness is chiefly the problem of checking the spread of and ultimately wiping out infectious diseases. The only classes of the blind which would not be reached in this way would be the tiny percentage born with congenital defect, and the 10 or 15 per cent who owe their disaster to some accident or injury.

Most of these accidents even are preventable by the exercise of intelligent caution, machinery guards and other proper methods of protecting the eyes of workers in factories and shops and mines. And even after the accident has happened, fully half of the danger of permanent damage or loss of sight is due to infections that get into the eye from careless or unskillful methods of treatment and handling.

Now that every oculist and every intelligent doctor knows how to at least prevent infection of an injured eye, the risk of blindness from accident and injury has been reduced to at least 75 per cent.—Woods Hutchinson, M. D., in New York American.

OLD NAMES FOR NEW SHIPS.

Should congress provide for the construction of several battle cruisers, the navy department will in all probability name the new ships after several famous old frigates which helped to make American history.

The starting of a new class of ships in our navy makes possible the carrying out of this idea. Under the present system of naval nomenclature, battleships are named after states, cruisers after cities, and torpedo craft after naval heroes. Culliers bear more or less classic names, while underwater craft have been designated by useful, but not significant, letters and numerals. Committees of course, have taken great interest in ships bearing their names, but at the same time, the present rule has been responsible for the disappearance from the navy lists of many names which are alive with historic interest and the flavor of naval tradition.

If the navy department puts into effect the idea now under consideration, Americans will in a few years glory in the spectacle of a "Bonhomme Richard," a "Constitution," or maybe a "Hartford" once more going to sea under the flag. The famous old constitution is still carried, although nominally, on the naval lists. As long as she will float, Americans will insist that she keep her honored place. But there are still left plenty of historic names which should be perpetuated and honored in our modern navy.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

HAVE TO STUDY CHESS.

Strobeck, a small Saxon village not far from Halberstadt, is probably the only place in the world where chess is taught in the schools.

There, however, the children carry their game boards through the streets just as many youngsters in American villages pack their slates between home and school.

Chess in Strobeck is just as much a study as is reading or arithmetic. Young and old, men, women and children alike study over their chessboards day in day out. Games may be seen in progress in the homes, in the gardens and in public gathering places at almost any time.

The reason for this practice is somewhat clouded. But, according to an old legend, which doubtless holds some elements of fact, the custom originated in the eleventh century, when Bishop Bulo of Halberstadt took refuge in the town after being exiled by Henry IV.

As the story goes, he lived in an old tower which still stands today, and spent his time teaching the villagers the game of chess.

Regardless of whether this is true, chess as played at Strobeck is quite different from the modern game, and conforms closely to rules known to have been followed so early as the fifteenth century.—Popular Mechanics.

SAILING SHIPS HAVE COME BACK.

It appears from a statement in a New York commercial paper that there has been a strange and sudden coming back of the old time "windjammers," and that New York harbor, for the first time in recent years, is filled with seagoing sailing freighters. Owing to prevailing conditions there is a brisk demand for bottoms, and the supply of steamships is totally inadequate to care for the export traffic which has congested all of the railroad terminals in the vicinity of New York. Under these circumstances owners of vessels which have not been out of sight of land for years have rushed to New York for cargoes. So great is the demand for these sailing ships that they are met by tugs at Sandy Hook, towed to the city and loaded, and towed clear of the harbor, to avoid loss of time. All of which will give the national legislators something about which to think seriously when they convene.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

NO MORE CLOTH SIGNS ALLOWED FOR STORES

State Fire Marshal Insists That This Form of Advertising Is a Big Risk.

Although a Benton Harbor man has started a suit to test the law clothing the state fire marshal with authority to order down cloth signs for store fronts, there is every indication that the crusade against such signs will be continued. N. C. Dewey, deputy fire marshal for the upper peninsula, has caused the removal of many cloth signs.

The enforcement of the law against displaying cloth banners on store buildings was the result of a serious fire in Detroit about a year ago. The entire front of a large building was covered with canvas signs. They took fire and the flames, but it was evident that the damage would have been considerably less if the banners had not been there.

Sam Robinson, the assistant state fire marshal, has made the statement that Detroit is the worst offender. In spite of the instructions of the deputy fire marshal no less than three hundred signs, advertising "forced sales," etc., were recently displayed in the city of Detroit, and orders were issued to have all of them removed by Dec. 15. Discussing cloth signs Mr. Robinson says:

"This is the year we have been able to go after cloth signs. The law formerly barred them, but did not place any penalty. The 1915 legislature added this, and now we are trying our best to rid the state of them. The fire chiefs of the various cities are taking an interest in the work, and they are really responsible for the law.

"In addition to being a menace and a fire hazard in themselves, the signs obscure the view of the building and where they cover the entire building as they do in many cases, a fire may burn for several hours before it is noticed on the outside."

CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB.

Miners' National Bank Will in a Few Days Distribute About $20,000.

The Christmas club, established two years ago by the Miners' National bank, has proved a success and the bank officials announce that about $20,000 soon will be distributed among the members of the club. A few days prior to last Christmas $2,000 was sent out in checks. The membership was considerably increased a year ago, and a larger percentage of those who started saving under the club plan kept up their payments last year.

It is anticipated that the membership list will be considerably increased next year. The bank pays 3 per cent interest on all deposits and the payments call for a certain sum each week. The members are privileged to start making either the larger or small payments first. The checks will be mailed about Dec. 20.

QUARTZ MINING IN ALASKA.

The sequence of events so often observed in the history of gold mining camps has been repeated in the Willow Creek district, Alaska, says a bulletin of the United States Geological Survey. The earliest prospectors, in 1897, were primarily interested in the search for placer gold, and having found it were too busy engaged in mining to trace the stream gold to the veins from which it was derived. In 1913 the production of the district for the first time exceeded $100,000, but in 1914 it was almost treble that amount. Three mills are in operation, and more will soon be installed. With the increase in the depth of mining the veins show no diminution in the amount of tenor of the gold. A study of the geologic conditions in this general area leads to the conclusion that veins similar to those now worked may be found beyond the borders of the present mining district, and prospects already being developed confirm this conclusion. The district lies near the route of the government railroad from Seward to Fairbanks, and the cheaper transportation should greatly stimulate its development. There is thus every indication that the Willow Creek district will steadily increase in importance as a gold mining camp and that it will have a long period of productivity. Since the district's establishment as a gold quartz mining camp the gold placers, which originally were regarded as the only valuable gold deposits, have decreased in importance until their annual output is now small, yet under the more favorable conditions of transportation soon to be realized it is possible that placer mining may again be profitably carried on.

SUBSTITUTE FOR GASOLINE.

The invention of William A. Hall, an American, called motor spirit, designed as a substitute for gasoline, is meeting with marked success in Europe. British government is using 6,000 gallons a day. Fuel is produced cheaply, and according to Professor Charles F. Chandler, founder of Columbia School of Mines, one gallon of motor spirit does work of from 1.18 to 1.34 gallons of gasoline. Mr. Hall's plant in England was taken over by the government and he is now setting up works in other parts of Great Britain. However, the fuel is gas oil or petrolite.—Wall Street Journal.

PUDDINGS FOR ENGLISH SOLDIER.

One million Christmas plum puddings are being turned out by one of London's biggest wholesale bakeries for the soldiers at the front. The bakeries has been at it for a week and already 25,000 of the puddings have been made, packed and sent away. It may be, when things get running faster and funds to buy the puddings accumulate, that the aggregate shipped off to the soldiers will be nearer 2,000,000.

Money for the puddings is pouring in to one of the Christmas funds. It comes in big and small lots, from everywhere. One portion of plum pudding—that is, two pounds of it—costs twelve cents, so that every sixpence donation means just that much pudding for a soldier.

The bakeries that has undertaken to produce the million, or perhaps two million, puddings has set a staff of 100 men and women at work. The management of the shop says it is the largest pudding contract ever undertaken in history.

To let the world know something about this pudding project, moving pictures have been taken of each stage of work involved in it. These are to be thrown upon screens in Great Britain, the United States, Russia, France, Canada, in fact, almost everywhere but in the domain of the kaiser and his ally, the emperor of Austria.

The puddings are being made in lots of a quarter of a ton at a time. The ingredients, which are heaped on an immense table in the middle of the spacious shop, comprise 100 pounds of raisins, eighty pounds of currants, eighty pounds of suet, forty-eight pounds of flour, forty pounds of sultanas, eighteen quarts of milk, and ten quarts of eggs, to say nothing of spices.

The film has caught the workers, in white aprons and caps, first kneading the ingredients from the heaps on the table. When kneaded the mixture is put into eight-pound tins, and these are soldered by white-robed workmen. Next comes the steaming process in huge re-torts. The puddings are boiled for five hours, then whisked to the crating room and shipped off.

Each tin is supposed to supply Christmas puddings for ten soldiers. One million puddings will cost $120,000.

MORE SHOWS CIRCUIT PLANNED AS PART OF KANSAS SCHOOL SYSTEM

FORD PROFFERED EDISON FORTUNE

Quarantine, New York, Dec. 9.—One of Henry Ford's last acts before the Oscar II left its dock was to offer Thomas A. Edison $1,000,000 to accompany him on his peace pilgrimage to Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Edison were two of the last persons to be admitted on the boat. They arrived at 2:15 o'clock,

When Mr. Ford saw them he jumped towards the couple, grasping Mrs. Edison's hand. Then he shook hands with Mr. Edison and held on for a minute.

Mr. Edison shook his head. "Are you going to stay on board?" he asked.

Mr. Ford retained his grasp on the inventor's hand and repeated again and again: "You must stay on board you must stay on board."

Edison's deafness prevented him from catching Ford's words. Ford repeated: "I'll give you $1,000,000 if you'll come with us."

Edison smiled and shook his head.

GREECE WOULD ADD MUCH BRAINS TO WAR

Continuous Warfare Has Developed Rare Military Genius in Hellenic Kingdom.

Athens, Greece, Nov. 20.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Should Greece enter the European war, it would be an interesting military figure.

To the average Greek the great military figure of his country is Constantine I, the King of the Greeks.

Has Made Rapid Strides. For his age, General Dousmanis has made rapid strides to arrive at the supreme effective command of the army.

When the disastrous war with Turkey was undertaken in 1897, Dousmanis had already in a captain's seven years.

During the successful war against the Ottoman empire in 1912 the then Lieutenant Colonel Dousmanis was again attached to the staff of Crown Prince Constantine.

Speaking of the honors which have been conferred on him, he is characteristic of General Dousmanis that he could be remembered by his colleagues.

A Mountain Climber. An entirely different type is General Constantine Moskopoulis, General of Division, and commander of the third Greek army.

General Moskopoulis is a specialist in talking mountains. If Greece should ever enter the war he will be most useful to the European commanders.

Nevertheless, at the battle of Saranapoulo, in the war against Turkey in 1912, already a general of division, he received the order from the Crown Prince Constantine to cross Mt. Kavounian and attack the Turks from the rear at Saranapoulo.

COUGHED NIGHT AND DAY

How This Little Orphan Boy Was Cured.

We want the people of Marquette to know that all letters like the following are truthful and genuine.

Towanda, Pa. "I took a little orphan boy to live with me and last October he contracted a hard cold which developed into bronchitis. It was very ill and a bad cough set in so that he coughed night and day.

The reason that cough syrups fail in such cases is because they are purely only, while Vinol removes the cause, being a constitutional remedy in which are combined the healing elements of fresh cod's livers, together with tonic iron and beef peptone.

Edison's deafness prevented him from catching Ford's words. Ford repeated: "I'll give you $1,000,000 if you'll come with us."

WOMEN DO VOTE.

Where women have the full ballot, they vote in large numbers.

At the presidential election of 1912 there were 24,774,583 men over twenty-one years of age in the non-suffrage states of the Union.

Between the proportion of men voting in the non-suffrage states and the proportion of all adults voting in the suffrage states, there was a difference of less than 8 per cent.

Neither can it be shown that women lose their interest after the novelty has worn off. In New Zealand the women's vote has increased at each triennial Parliamentary election.

WOMEN DO VOTE.

Where women have the full ballot, they vote in large numbers.

At the presidential election of 1912 there were 24,774,583 men over twenty-one years of age in the non-suffrage states of the Union.

Between the proportion of men voting in the non-suffrage states and the proportion of all adults voting in the suffrage states, there was a difference of less than 8 per cent.

Neither can it be shown that women lose their interest after the novelty has worn off. In New Zealand the women's vote has increased at each triennial Parliamentary election.

DEMAND OF GERMAN SOCIALISTS.

Leaders of the German Social Democratic Party and the Chief Commissioner of German Trades Unions, in a memorial addressed to Imperial Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, argues that potatoes and coal should be distributed free of charge by the government during the coming winter to the families of German soldiers at the front.

THE CARDINAL HIMSELF.

A traveler lying ill and in danger of death at a hotel in Dublin, sent to the archiepiscopal palace for a priest.

At once the landlord arose to his feet, full of humblest apologies. Should he get a coach for His Eminence, and so on.

we expose an amiable altogether frequently costly national habit, to the amazement if not the ridicule of the rest of the world.

LET THE PEOPLE RULE.

An alderman elected in New York one day was arrested in Brooklyn the next on a charge of trying to extort money to avert a strike.

In the last four years, the postoffice department at Washington reports that $235,000,000 had been taken from the credulous public by fraudulent schemes.

AMERICAN CHARACTERISTICS.

It is reported that in Berlin when there is anything more than indifference to the American war for peace the feeling is one of contempt.

We do not think this is characteristically American, no more than phippant gavity is characteristically French.

A resolution well drawn and assured, a little publicity may be thrown at any iniquity and then the few earnest people who have come together may take their umbrellas and go home to bed.

The son of a New York manufacturer recently settled a bill for over $50,000 for jewels presented to various women.

On the walls of a notorious dance hall in New Orleans, abandoned by the repentant proprietor, the police found the inscription: "It takes a mother twenty years to make a man of her son. It takes another woman twenty minutes to make a fool of him."

The United States government sent $1,500,000 to Europe a few days after the war was declared to assist needy American citizens to return home.

C.C.I.CO. STARTS WORK ON AUXILIARY DAM

Constructed on Dead River, It Will Be Means of Supplying 1,000 Kilowatts.

The Cleveland-Cliffs iron company has started work preparatory for a dam that will be built on Dead River, four miles north of the Mass mine, at the site of the old Cliffs dam, which was built twelve or fifteen years ago by timber contractors who were operating there.

Work on the foundation for a power house has already been started, and the machinery for it has been ordered. The work of putting in the concrete for the building is also underway, and a crew of electricians are working in that direction on a transmission line, which will be used to transfer the current generated at the dam to the Maas and other mine engine houses.

The dam will be from twenty to fifteen feet high and about seventy-five feet across. It will divert the water sufficiently to have it flow into the pipe line, which extends to the company's power plant near Morgan. It is expected that 1,000 kilowatts will be generated and the power will be used at the Maas mine.

Only a small force of men is employed at the dam, but they will have work for all winter.

The officials of the company are considering the construction of a much larger dam on Dead river, north of Ishpeming, but a decision has been deferred for the present.

QUILL PEN GOES; ECONOMY MEASURE

House of Commons Saves the Pennies, but Lets the Pounds Be Wasted.

London, Dec. 9.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—After preaching the need of economy to the nation, the House of Commons made its first start in this direction by substituting steel for quill pens, which have always been associated here with law and law-making.

Few people like quill pens, but they look respectable. So they have been preserved in conservative circles in spite of the obvious advantages of the steel pen.

Steel pens, less writing paper and a curtailment of matches save the government pennies when the abolition of the enormous pensions of the judges would, say the critics, save pounds.
