DNR changes decision to close Merwin Creek

Though the Merwin Creek Campground was closed by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) last week, efforts of representatives of local groups and State Agencies will keep the camping area open.

"I told them if I'm funded, I will do it," said Barr.

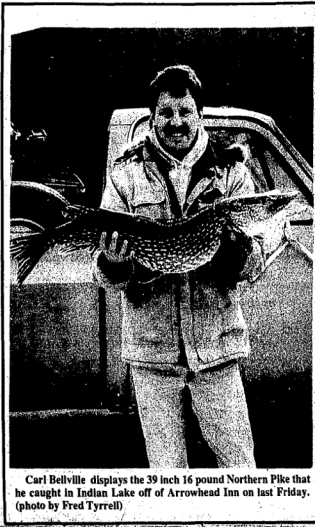

If changes regarding the State's policies regarding the Community Corrections program, funding may be directed to more heavily populated areas, eliminating sparsely populated Counties' programs.

"You've got to think positive," said Barr Tuesday. "I'll know for sure if we can take care of it Thursday."

Thursday (today), a decision will be made in Lansing about whether or not Community Corrections funding will shift.

Despite the uncertainty of the agency that will maintain Merwin Creek and possibly Gernfask's Mead Creek campgrounds, Veneberg and Panek are optimistic that the arrangement will not only fix up the campgrounds, but make them better.

"We're even looking at improvement projects to make Merwin Creek safer and better looking," said Panek. "Erosion control and fencing are possibilities."

Exclusive contract issue still on hold MRI recycling proposal accepted

Manistique Rentals, Inc. (MRI) will run a recycling program for the City-County Department of Public Works (CCDPW) until May 4, 1993. What will happen to the type II solid waste disposal contract between MRI, the City, and five townships after that date, however, is still unknown.

By a unanimous vote Tuesday night, the CCDPW members accepted the MRI's recycling proposal, and authorized County Prosecutor Peter Hollenbeck to perform any necessary legal activities involved.

"The people deserve recycling, and they've been waiting for it," said MRI Vice President Slim Slining during the meeting. Slining added Wednesday that exact details of when and how the program would start will be advertised in the near future.

CCDPW member and Hawatha Supervisor Tom Kitzman agreed, adding, "The DPW can't match the price of this proposal. It would be more reasonable if we started our own program."

CCDPW member and Gernfask Supervisor Omer Doran expressed concern that, by causing a decrease in the amount of trash that is weighed for the $0.1667 per pound rate to the CCDPW, recycling would affect the Board's activities.

"I just think we should be more reasonable if we don't have the money coming in, we can't pay it out."

Of four envelopes received before Tuesday's 4 p.m. deadline, only MRI's responded to the CCDPW's request for a recycling system proposal.

Peninsula Sanitation sent a letter to the Board, saying that, due to current litigation related to solid waste disposal, the company would not be offering a recycling proposal at this time.

Pen San currently operates recycling curbside pickup and transfer stations in a number of Upper Peninsula communities.

Another letter contained Kevin Thorrell's proposal for compost recycling, which the CCDPW returned to Thorrell unopened during the meeting.

The CCDPW will not be considering composting proposals until a March meeting.

A final letter was sent by a citizen who used the opportunity to say that they hoped a recycling program would be implemented.

The accepted MRI proposal will operate until May 4, with an option for extension.

Recyclables will be accepted at a drop-off center at the MRI facility at 415 S. Chippewa Ave. Pick up service will be available, with a "service cost contingent upon the situation," according to the proposal.

Under the proposal, the CCDPW will underwrite the project for $0.0075 per pound ($15 per ton). Residential users will not be charged for use of the drop-off center, while commercial users will be charged $0.225 per pound.

"Commercial customers have told me that anything under $0.50 per pound is a bargain," said MRI Vice President Slim Slining.

CCDPW Chairman Alan Houster requested that MRI submit estimates of how many pounds of recyclables would be generated.

CCDPW discusses solid waste disposal

In addition to accepting a recycling system proposal, (see related story on page 1A) the City-County Department of Public Works (CCDPW) discussed components of the solid waste disposal issue briefly at Tuesday's regular meeting, including meetings with Manistique Rentals, Inc., press coverage of the Board's activity, and a suggested alternative licensing program that would allow multiple haulers to operate in the area.

The board was informed about a discussion regarding possible exclusive solid waste contract improvements that was held Monday between Manistique Rentals, Inc. representatives and Dick St. Martin, Tom Kitzman, and John S. West of the CCDPW.

"We didn't negotiate anything," said St. Martin. "We had a talk. They (MRI) said what they felt they were willing to expect."

Kitzman said the meeting was cooperative.

"The main thing is that communication is wide open here," he said.

Stewart's personal observations about the future of the exclusive contract were written in a Monday Escanaba Daily Press article, also drew criticism from some CCDPW members as well as others attending the meeting, who said that it should have been clearly stated that Stewart was not speaking for

Fourth of July planned in Garden

by Debbie Lang

The Garden Old Timers Organization has been planning a Fourth of July celebration put a limit on the amount of community service the group could perform.

This year, President Howard Ansell of the Garden Old Timers Organization has high hopes that the Fourth of July Celebration will be back on for the local people and their friends to enjoy.

"A lot of young people are taking an interest in the Fourth of July Celebration this year, and we hope and plan that it will come off. We need new members, though, even if some one doesn't want to take on the responsibility of putting on a game or event, they can volunteer their time to help out for an hour or two at a game or booth," Ansell said.

"It's important to me that we keep the organization together so that our kids can have some recreation in this area. These kids have got to have something good to do to stay out of trouble. There's not much to do in Garden for the kids, and our organization is focused on celebrating last year's fund raising Fourth of July Celebration put a limit on the amount of community service the group could perform.

usually have a fish boil every year for income.

"We're planning to have a fish boil sometime this year. We'll just have to wait and see. First we have to deal with the Fourth of July," said Ansell.

One of the events the children from the area enjoy, which is also sponsored by the Old Timers, is the ice skating rink which is put up and filled at the local pavilion each year.

"The last two years I wasn't able to get the help from the local people to get the pavilion ready for skating. This year, I had Nick Roder and young Buck Swanson help me out and we were able to get the rink together. We opened the rink the first part of January, and it took a couple weeks for us to get the walls up and the ice made," said Ansell.

The rink had to be flooded five different times to get the ice smooth and thick enough, and it will be flooded one a week to keep the ice smooth.

The Old Timers hope the coming year will bring a breath of fresh air into the organization with new and dedicated members.

"We're doing this for the kids and, with that thought in mind, we should be able to get some caring people who want to improve their kids' lives around Garden," Ansell said.

The Garden Old Timers Organization know it is going to be tough to get back the crowd they used to draw for the Fourth of July event.

"Once you lose a year, it's hard to get these things going again. People plan vacations around these holidays, and if you didn't have a celebration last year, they think you won't this year. We're going to have to do a lot of advertising to get these people back," Ansell said.

Anyone interested in helping out at the Fourth of July this year can contact either Howard Ansell at 644-2232 or Shirley Gierke at 644-2431.

Weber named MIAA Player of the Week

Former Manistique High School basketball standout Darrin Weber named MIAA Player of the Week honors for his recent contributions during a pair of Olivet College victories.

In two games, the 6-foot-5 junior forward scored 45 points and pulled down 21 rebounds for the Olivet Comets. He made 14 of 18 from the field, shooting for 78 percent while earning a 68 percent from the free throw line.

On Feb. 3, Weber had career-highs in both points and rebounds, with 32 and 15, respectively, as Olivet defeated Alma College 99-78.

Three days later, Weber had 13 more points as the Comets defeated Adrian College by a score of 85-75.

Nine games into the season, Weber led the MIAA field goal percentage (66 percent) and was third in rebounding, averaging 6.1 boards per game.

Argentine student explores Manistique

Argentine foreign exchange student Alina Azul Bilbao spent two hours on patrol with Michigan State Trooper Gary Lestila last week, but her experience didn't exactly resemble the typical American cop film.

"We didn't see much action," said Azul, as she likes to be called. (Azul means "blue" in her native Spanish.)

"We drove around town, we went to the Courthouse, and we went to the Sheriff's Department where I given a tour of the jail," Azul said. "We didn't pull anyone over or arrest anybody."

As Argentina has no speed limits or drinking age, its police have a different job description, according to Azul.

Currently a senior at Manistique High School, Azul, who is 18, has lived in the area since August 1992. Her adventure in the Upper Peninsula has been sponsored by the Rotary International Student Exchange Program.

She lived with the Foster family for the first semester of this school year, and currently lives with the Brownhill family. After this, she will live with the Derwin family until she returns to Argentina in August to study political science at the university level. She would eventually like to enter foreign service.

Fish Report

By Sgt. John Walker (Ret.)

Well, there sure has been a change in the weather the last couple of days. From our nice, think of spring weather, to our sharp cold winter is not yet over weather. Isn't it funny how things go, last week they were doing pretty well on perch on Indian Lake, some fishermen got 30-40 nice perch, now we get this real cold weather and the fish will quit biting!

Did you hear on the news, about the snowmobiler who was lucky enough to get his snowmobile up to 145 miles an hour on a frozen lake. This with his buddy on the machine with him! The only problem was, after pulling this silly stunt he hit the trees at the end of the lake and killed himself, his buddy managed to jump off before he hit. There were at least four snowmobilers killed over the weekend, two by going through the ice. Be careful out there.

Did you ever wonder about those strange people who live in those little out-houses out on the lake, on the ice all winter? Now I can see spending a couple of weeks a month in a deer blind, but his day off each week watching out in an out-house on the lake? First you have to haul this out and set it up. Then you have to block it up and cut your holes. You can get these out-houses with two, four, or six or more holes. You then find out that with the snow on the ice and the heat in the dogs shanty, that you have to keep it up to keep the water deer cannot, so this makes for a block of it and to also keep it from freezing into the ice. O'fun! But we have had we do not need the at least now you get to fish. But dogs to chase the deer to wear fishing, like hunting is kind of a them out anyway.

Fishing does not mean catching or getting 38 students for our snowmobile anything, the same way it is with safety class the first of this month. This is way up from the mean that there are a few more problem. I have never had snowmobilers on there. I asked so many fishermen come up and how many had snowmachines and tell me that they spent all day out they all raised their hands. Some- where they got skunked. But, all times they take the class in case day long they saw nice big will- they should ever get one. Things eyes and some real nice perch went real good and we had a good swimming around down in the group of kids take it this year. hole. But for the life of them they most wrong on the 100 ques- don't you have to wonder about a good job.

Early out can reduce benefits

"Will my Social Security checks be less if I retire before I'm old enough for Social Security?" According to Chuck Farrell, Social Security manager in Escanaba, (he) hears that question more and more nowadays. "For years there has been a trend towards early retirement," Farrell said, "with some people leaving their careers even in their 50s." Generally, the answer is "yes." Farrell explained that a Social Security retirement benefit, which is first payable at age 62, is based on a worker's average monthly wage figured over his or her highest 35 years of earnings. 35 years is used for anyone born after 1928. Fewer years are used for people born in 1928 or earlier.

By retiring early, a person is giving up several years of work that would normally have been among the highest earning years. Because those years of high earnings won't be a factor in Social Security's retirement benefit formula, the person's overall average earnings will be less, thus the Social Security benefit will be less than it could have been.

Farrell provided this example to illustrate his point. "Bill Smith was born in 1936. He will not be eligible for Social Security benefits until he's 62 in 1998. But he retired from his job at the local electric company this year at age 56. Like most people, Bill made progressively more and more money each year he worked. So his highest 35 years of earnings were his last 35 years of earnings - from 1957 through 1992. If Bill had continued to work until he was 62 in 1998, we would have used the years 1963 through 1998 to figure his average earnings. That means we could have factored out his low earnings between 1957 and 1963. In other words, had he kept working, his average earnings would have been higher so his Social Security benefit would have been higher."

"Of course," Farrell added, "everybody has to decide what's in their own best interest and ask what's more important: a few extra years of retirement or a higher Social Security check."

Workers can get an estimate of what their retirement benefits will be by calling Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 business days between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. and asking for a Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement.

The Social Security Representative will be in Manistique by appointment only at the Community Building, N. City Police Manistique Public Safety officers extinguished a vehicle fire on Feb. 17 at 12:10 p.m.

Officers said an overheated catalytic converter caused the engine oil to ignite in the vehicle owned by Al. T. Mott. Officers had to cut out a portion of the floor to check for fire. No damage estimate was available at press-time.

State Police

Two Escanaba women were injured when the wheels of the trailer of a semi-trailer truck drove over their vehicle on US-2, near Inabola, on Feb. 11.

Michigan State Police, Manistique Post, said that Ida E. Campbell was attempting to make a U-turn on US-2 to go east when she failed to see a westbound semi-trailer truck driven by John H. Browning of Nautyburg. Browning told police he attempted to drive around the vehicle but the wheels of his trailer drove over it. The trailer overturned, spilling its load of sawdust.

Campbell and her passenger Esther M. Longhurst were taken by Grand ambulance to St. Francis Hospital in Escanaba for treatment.

The driver of the truck which is owned by Zeller Trucking of Manistique was not injured.

Campbell was cited for failure to yield.

According to police, as Sharon J. Roddy was attempting to back her vehicle from a private driveway onto the Old State Road, she saw an approaching car. She attempted to stop but her vehicle slid down the icy driveway and collided with the vehicle driven by Malcolm C. Nelson. The incident happened at 11:10 a.m. on Feb. 16.

U of M contradicts college student study

A new University of Michigan study contradicts previous research findings that students who attend community college are at a "definite disadvantage" in pursuing a baccalaureate degree or graduate work.

According to the U-M study, for those students who are successful in a community college and who transfer to a four-year college for their junior and senior years, "having attended community college does not appear to lessen the likelihood of their graduating from college, enrolling in graduate school or aspiring to attend graduate school in the future."

"In other words, students who attend community college and then enter a four-year college are less likely to succeed than students who were in the four-year college from the start," says Valerie E. Lee, associate professor of education, who conducted the study with research assistants Christopher J. Makie and Helen M. Marks.

The study contradicts a vast body of research that has shown that attending community college extends a "definite disadvantage in persistence to a four-year college degree." According to these findings, community colleges function as "gatekeepers" to the higher education system, providing an inferior and usually terminal higher education experience for students less advantaged in terms of class, gender and race.

As community colleges moved increasingly from a focus on academic to vocational or professional pursuits, many researchers predicted that the likelihood of community college students going on to the baccalaureate would decrease. These predictions were based on data collected in the early- or mid-1970s, Lee notes.

Using data from the High School and Beyond Study, Lee tracked 422 students who graduated from high school in 1980, entered community college and transferred to a four-year institution within four years. These students were compared with 1,899 students whose educational experience was exclusively in four-year institutions.

By 1986, 69 percent of both groups had graduated or were poised to graduate from a four-year institution.

While 75 percent of the group who began in a four-year institution aspired to graduate school, 70 percent of the transfer group intended to continue their education. Like wise, while 19 percent of the four-year group were already in graduate school by 1986, 11 percent of the transfer group were.

Lee attributes these differences, however, to factors other than the community college experience itself, including the greater tendency of community college students to attend school part-time, transfer into larger institutions, and attend institutions that do not offer graduate degrees.

When Lee took into account these and other differences between community college transfer students and students who began college in four-year institutions, she found no difference in the two groups' likelihood of going on to graduate school.

"While community colleges do not act as 'transformational' institutions for the considerable number of students who come to them with social and academic disadvantages, neither do they act as residual inhibitors, the study

At home with Sarah

by Sarah Bignall

I received this recipe from my sister-in-law quite awhile ago. It is for a hot beef salad that is very good and a complete meal. I made it without the succotash that it calls for because I did not have any available at the time and it was great even without it. It sort of reminded me of a Nacho Supreme.

HOT BEEF SALAD

1/2 head iceberg lettuce, chunked	1 small onion, chopped
1 bunch spinach leaves, washed and dried	1 avocado, peeled and sliced
1 can garbanzo beans, drained	1 cup shredded longhorn or cheddar cheese
3 large ripe tomatoes, cut in wedges	2 cups tortilla chips

Have all ingredients ready. It goes together in minutes once the beef mixture is ready, and it is important that the beef is served hot.

1 pound ground chuck or steak
1/2 cup water
pinch each: onion salt, garlic salt, chili powder
1/4 Tabasco sauce

Brown meat in hot iron skillet. Stir in water and seasonings. Combine greens and ingredients from first list in a large wooden bowl. Toss. Add hot meat mixture, toss again and serve immediately. Serves 4.

Sarah says The spoon you use for stirring will not slip or fall off the food if you wrap a rubber band around the handle near the top where the spoon rests against the rim of the pot.

. . . . Crumble dried herbs between the palms of your hands to release their flavor during cooking.

Food for thought To be wronged is nothing unless you continue to remember it.

Exam offered

Michigan Technological University will offer the National Engineering Aptitude Search (NEAS) examination for students in Grades nine through 12 on Saturday, April 24, from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital. The NEAS, sponsored by the Junior Engineering Technical Society (JETS) and administered through the American College Testing Program (ACT), is the only guidance-oriented examination available to help pre-college students determine their aptitude for engineering, math, science, or technology studies before entering college.

During the examination, an information session for parents will be held in the Memorial Union Building; refreshments will be served. Following the examination, Michigan Tech will host a complimentary lunch and tour, transfer into larger institutions, and attend institutions that do not offer graduate degrees.

When Lee took into account these and other differences between community college transfer students and students who began college in four-year institutions, she found no difference in the two groups' likelihood of going on to graduate school.

"While community colleges do not act as 'transformational' institutions for the considerable number of students who come to them with social and academic disadvantages, neither do they act as residual inhibitors, the study

IRS refund may be smaller than usual

Counting on a refund from the IRS when you file your income tax return? Don't spend it yet. It may be less than you think or the extra cash you're expecting may even be nonexistent.

"Taxpayers who usually have their withholding in line with their wages may find themselves caught short, owing more income taxes than they had withheld for 1992," says Susan Tiffany, managing editor of Everybody's Money, the consumer magazine for credit union members. That's because President Bush directed the IRS to reduce the amount of federal income tax withholding last spring in an effort to spur the economy.

The reduced withholding, which automatically took effect Mar. 1, 1992, added about $15 per month to the typical wage earner's paycheck. Employees withholding at the single rate who earned less than $33,000 received up to a $172 reduction in withholding in 1992. Those withholding at the married rate who earned less than $30,000 experienced up to a $345 reduction in their withholding. High income wage earners did not see a change.

So, unless you adjusted your withholding last spring, your might find that your tax refund is less than you expected or that your withholding is a couple hundred dollars short of taxes owed.

There's not much you can do about it now, but to avoid a similar situation in 1993, you may want to increase withholding on your wages. To do so, request a new W-4 form from your employer. The form contains a space to indicate you want additional money withheld each payday. You can request a W-4 and change the amount withheld at any time, Tiffany says.

However, if you wish to continue to take advantage of the withholding rate change and see the extra cash in each paycheck, no action is necessary. Consider putting the extra cash into a savings account to earn interest. You can do it easily through payroll deduction programs offered at many credit unions. Otherwise, you are in effect giving the government an interest-free loan on the money it withholds instead of earning interest on it yourself.

Just in case, you may wish to consult with your accountant to determine what will be most advantageous with regards to your personal needs.

State lottery is 20

The Michigan Lottery celebrated its 20th anniversary in November. Since its inception in 1972, the Lottery has awarded more than $6 billion in prizes to players, and provided more than $5 billion to Michigan's K-12 public education system. To top it all off, the Lottery reached an all-time sales record for this year with sales soaring to nearly $1.22 billion.

In fiscal year 1991/92, Schoolcraft County residents won a total of $278,420 in prizes.

165 Daily 3 game winners won a total of $11,912; 14 Daily 4 game winners won a total of $2,392; 222 Lotto winners won a total of $24,600; 350 Zinger and Cash 5 winners won a total of $11,920; 1,413 KENO winners won a total of $11,376 and $210,120 was won by players of instant games.

The Voice of Schoolcraft County since 1876

Right to Know

The press is often criticized for misquoting sources, slanting facts, and doing whatever it takes to sell a newspaper or make a television or radio show popular. This is nothing new.

The recent lawsuit between General Motors and NBC News regarding the allegedly rigged explosion of a pickup just gives people another reason to condemn the entire news media as a fraud.

Locally, at Tuesday's City County Department of Public Works (CCDPW) meeting, allegedly "misleading" statements from an article in a daily paper brought open session on all media personnel present. Criticism came from CCDPW members and meeting spectators alike. Comments like "They just put in what they want to" and "They'll do anything to sell a paper" rang through the room.

The CCDPW, which only recently began to notify the news media of their meeting times, now plans to have all statements about its activity go through the Chairman, so "misleading" information is not released.

What the Chairman has to say about CCDPW action is only half of the story, however. The Board has nine members and, presumably, nine opinions that merge to form every CCDPW decision. By knowing what each Board member brings to the meeting table, the citizens will know what is really happening in their community.

The cure for incorrect or misleading information is a correction or letter to the editor. During the past year of covering the trash issue, this newspaper has not received any letters or run any corrections as a result of misleading or incorrect information about CCDPW actions.

Even so, our sources of information on the activities of the Board will be cut, which must make readers wonder if they simply don't want us to know the whole story.

milk jugs, and clean metal cans can be dropped off once a week, tentatively Thursday, during working hours, tentatively 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Expansion of the schedule could be possible after evaluation of the system's success, according to the proposal.

Clean magazines will be accepted as well, if an agreement of acceptance is made with Manistique Papers, Inc., according to MRI's proposal.

MRI said that it will cover the start-up, advertising, marketing, production, storage, shipping, and transportation expenses.

In addition, MRI will cover any landfill disposal cost as a result of a load of contaminated recyclables being rejected at market. MRI will also cover any lost revenue as a result of a rejected load.

In addition to paying MRI $3,007.5 per pound for recyclables, excluding cans that can be returned for deposit and magazines, if they are accepted by Manistique Papers, the CCDPW's participation will include allowing MRI to use the Board's new $15,000 baler and crusher for recycling purposes.

After three months evaluation, the in-kind contribution of the crusher and baler could be converted to a rent-purchase agreement, contingent upon mutual agreement, according to the proposal.

MRI said that their insurance will cover any physical damages to the baler and crusher as well as the MRI employees that operate that equipment.

Maintenance of the equipment will be performed by MRI in accordance with the manufacturer's recommendations, and MRI will repair any damage as a result of use other than "wear and tear", according to the proposal.

Along with the proposal, MRI included insurance policy verifications, as well as a letter to MRI from Harbor Enterprises Vocational Program Coordinator Lisa Lauson, expressing the organization's interest in the recycling program.

MRI Vice President Slim Sling told CCDPW members that no agreement had been made between MRI and Harbor Enterprises.

Not everyone at the meeting was pleased with the MRI proposal, however.

Area resident Peter Markham said that MRI had an unfair advantage over other companies that may have entered recycling proposals. MRI has planned to start such a program locally since 1990, and has been discussing recycling possibilities with the CCDPW recycling committee for the past two months, whereas other companies were only notified of the CCDPW's proposal request one week before the proposals were due, according to Markham.

"This whole procedure stinks," said Markham. "There should be a reasonable time offered, and there wasn't."

the family," said Toni Brownhill, Azul's exchange mother. "She is very adventurous. She went cross country skiing recently, and we plan to try downhill and water-skiing."

Brownhill, who was an exchange student when she was in college, likes to sharpen her conversational Spanish by speaking with Azul.

With her true family in another hemisphere, Azul writes many letters. She also calls to talk with her mother, father, and two sisters twice a month.

Before she returns to her Argentinian family, Azul hopes to see Mr. Rushmore, Niagra Falls, the Grand Canyon, and New York City.

According to Azul, her biggest goal is "to speak very well English" before she leaves Manistique.

Jon VanDyck (standing, l-r), Jill Evonich, Kristin McDonough, (seated, l-r) Rob Landis, Jeff Reid, and Chris Tuffnell are just a few of the Manistique High School Drama Club members that will be performing in three one-act plays on Wednesday, Feb. 24 and Saturday, Feb. 27 in the MHS auditorium. The performances will begin at 7 p.m. each night.

Drama Club to present three plays

The Manistique High School's newly formed Drama Club will make its debut by presenting three one-act plays on Wednesday, Feb. 24 and Saturday, Feb. 27. Performances will begin at 7 p.m. each evening.

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for seniors and students at MHS Fredrickson Auditorium.

The young actors are under the direction of JoAnne Wood and Debbie St. Pierre.

"The actors have worked hard for two months on these plays in between sports and job, sometimes coming to practice at 9 p.m., because that was the only time they could all get together," said Wood. "The group is very dedicated."

"We are having a great time and the kids are wonderful," said St. Pierre. "We are hoping for huge turnout in support of these kids and this type of activity in the school system. You won't be disappointed. It will be an evening of laughs and chills."

The first one act is a comedy by Ann Martens, titled "If Girls asked Boys for Dates". It is a spoof based upon the idea that the female is the suitor, and not the male, as in tradition. "Although it goes against the norm, dating problems are the same for both genders. The cast includes: Cathy Arnold as Mrs. Smith; Jon VanDyck as George; Chris Tuffnell as Harry; Sue Wood as Kay; and Nikki Huffman as Nancy.

Next next play is something quite different: a John Murray play titled "Devonshire Downs". The plot consists of three short stories of three different couples who visit an English mansion and are all strangely affected by its former owner, Cedric Johnson, who has been dead for 212 years, as well as the creepy housekeeper Mrs. Pate.

The cast is made up of Wood as Mrs. Pate, Jenny Carlson as Marge, Josh McGuire as Bob, Jamie St. Pierre as Blanche, Mark Jarski as Fred, Rob Landis as the Plant Man, Huffman as Adele, Nathan Hamill as Jim, and Scott Tomenson as Dr. Brannigan.

Last, "Sure as You're Born," by Donald Dayton will be performed. After his father makes a wish to a guardian angel, unruly, obnoxious, and athletic Wilber Maxwell is turned into a girl.

The cast includes Jeff Reid as Wilber-Wilber Mae, Tuffnell as the entire Board.

Manistique Township Supervisor Jim Barr, during the public comment period of the meeting, said that he thought all CCDPW news outside of public meetings should be released through Chairman Alan Houliher.

"I thought we decided at a January Board meeting to stop having our own press conferences," Barr said. "The only press should come through the chair. I got 17 phone calls in an hour and a half after the article came out."

Stewart responded that the reporter asked him questions and he responded candidly.

MHS Quiz Bowlers advance

Manistique's High School Bowl team continues to roll, taking Ewen-Trou Creek 235-220.

Of the 64 teams entering competition on WNMU-TV's Upper Peninsula High School Bowl, the Manistique team is among the final eight, and will challenge Iron Mountain on the air on Feb. 27.

Members of the Manistique team include Alison Malloch, Conrad Davis, Sarah Anderson, and Cathy Arnold. Alternates are Jon Van Dyck and Corey Malloch. The team is coached by Marlys Foster.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:
This is a follow up letter that I wrote last week about the possible housing unit being considered developed along the lakefront.

I am still against this kind of development whoever else is, please lets do something about it. I remember the DDA's drawings of the plan in the Apr. 16 issue of the Pioneer-Tribune.

I recall back, an not quite sure, that at that time the public was invited to write their opinions on the DDA's plan and to drop your written explanation off at certain areas.

Well, I did that. I remember writing a two page reason why I am against this kind of development along our lakefront. After my written opinion, and the article in the paper, I really haven't heard anything more about the subject until now.

Whatever happened to my paper and possibly others that were sent to the DDA?

Lakefronts are being destroyed by this kind of development and I said to see them go this way.

Develop the lakefront to blend in with nature so all can enjoy. The boardwalk is wonderful and everyone enjoys it.

As I say it again, Manistique needs a park such as a playground, the boardwalk and such, a place to escape, not more housing units, restaurants etc. along the lakefront.

I don't think this kind of development would benefit the community, only the ones that do the developing would benefit.

I have an idea. Lets all raise some money and build a big playground like the Kids Kingdom in Gladstone and in Escanaba in the future. If they do it, why can't we? Something like this would benefit the community and those who pass through.

You have my opinion so lets hear yours. Please help me to stop this kind of development. What's my next step?

Barb Montgomery

Dear Editor:
The arrogance, the insensitivity, and the greed of some of our state legislators amazes me. How our representative, Pat Gagliardi, a Midland transplant who lives in the Lansing area can vote himself a raise while representing some of the most economically depressed people in the state baffles me.

Of course he is only making $45,500 per year plus a nice fat expense account. He really needs a $2,200 raise.

I'm one of the millions of fed up Americans who plans to get active in purging our government of "Fat cat" professional politicians.

I have asked for information on how to recall this fellow and I plan to get it going as soon as I can. The law says I must wait

Sergeant reinstated

Michigan State Police Manistique Post Sgt. Derrell Dixon has been reinstated to his former rank without back pay.

Dixon was suspended last April and dismissed from duty last Summer due to an inter-departmental disciplinary decision.

According to Michigan State Police Lt. Diane DeWitt, "independent arbitrators" not affiliated with the State Police issued the reinstatement.

Dixon was reassigned to the Neagane Post, and DeWitt said that he will begin his work on Monday, Feb. 22.

Jon Berry takes tournament title

by Steve Jack
 In a conference tournament that saw a three way struggle between Iron Mountain, Gwinn, and Manistique for the team title, Jon Berry of Manistique stood alone in an individual effort that saw him crowned champion at 119 pounds. Nobody really challenged Berry as he registered easy wins in all of his matches.

Jamie Zellar (171) also turned in another fine performance as he collected a third place medal. Guty efforts were also turned in by Jason Swanson (112), Art Losey (125), and Con Slater (145).

Other winners included: Dave Gauthier (103), Jason Swanson (112), Con Slater (145), Paul Weber (152), and Phil Hagenson (189).

Big Bay dropped by Bark River-Harris

For the second time this season, Bark River-Harris topped the Big Bay de Noc Black Bears.

This time, Big Bay fell 76-70, despite a strong first half. "Our first half play was awesome," said Coach Tom Ranguette. "It was one of the best halves we've had all season. We were working the ball in the big game, and they were outstanding."

One of the Big Bay "big guys", Sid Lucas, scored 22 points and grabbed 16 rebounds before the game was over. Clay Potvin scored 22 points as well, collecting nine rebounds.

JV Emeralds falls to Gladstone, Negaunee

The Manistique JV basketball team played 29 minutes of good basketball Tuesday, according to Coach David Jahn. Unfortunately, the game lasted for 32 minutes and Gladstone topped the JV Emeralds 56-45.

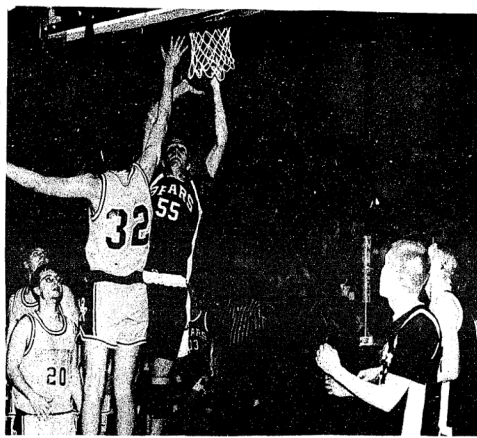

"With three minutes left, the score was tied 45-45, but we did not score the rest of the game and that was the difference," said Jahn. The Gladstone loss came just days after the JV Emeralds lost to the Negaunee Miners 67-55.

The absence of the JV squad's leading scorer and rebounder Donald St. John, who is out with a broken finger, did not help the Emerald cause on Tuesday.

"The rest of the team really hustled and played well," said Jahn. Randy Parker led the Emeralds with 17 points and 22 boards. Zack Ylisen put up 12 points despite sitting out the entire second quarter with foul trouble.

Jason Beckman helped the Emeralds' rebounding efforts by pulling down 11. He finished with six points.

Clint Harrison added seven points for the Emeralds. Manistique was only 14 of 26 from the free throw line, but ac-

Big Bay de Noc senior center Clay Potvin (55) goes up for the shot over Nathan Goymerac of Bark River and Engadine, Big Bay After losing Rapid River last week.

Freshmen beat Braves with strong defense

Defense is the key to victory, according to the Manistique boys' basketball coach Jim Nelson. "When we play aggressive defense right away, it means victory," said Nelson. "The kids came out strong on the boards and played hard, aggressive defense only allowing Gladstone six first quarter points and 16 at the half."

Texas has most hunters

Texas leads the nation with more than one million sport hunters while Florida and California tie for the lead in anglers, each with more than 2.6 million, according to preliminary state-by-state results of a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service survey on outdoor recreation.

California easily has the largest number of people - 6.5 million - who enjoy wildlife-related activities such as feeding, observing, or photographing wildlife. These are among the initial findings of the 1991 National Survey of Fishing, Hunting, and Wildlife-Associated Recreation.

"The survey reflects how many Americans join me in loving outdoor wildlife recreation," said Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt. "It shows wildlife resources are a vital part of our national lifestyles, and make a major contribution to the health of our economy."

The survey is the most extensive periodic examination of the participation of U.S. residents in wildlife recreation and is conducted every five years. The information is used widely by public and private wildlife managers and others to help meet the changing demands on fish and wildlife resources.

in order to improve the accuracy of the data. The change was made because people recall detailed information concerning expenditures and days of activity more accurately. Interviewed more frequently, information contained in the 1991 Survey is not directly comparable to past surveys which had longer recall periods. The Service's final report will take the change in methodology into account to identify trends in participation and expenditures from previous surveys.

The last National Survey of Fishing, Hunting, and Wildlife-Associated Recreation was in 1985. As expected, the 1991 estimates of participation are lower than those of the 1985 Survey. This is not indicative of an actual decline, but rather the result of the change in methodology. Other information sources, such as a fishing and hunting license purchases and excise taxes on industry sales, indicate a relatively steady level of participation in fishing and hunting nationwide since 1985.

The 1991 Survey was paid for through excise taxes on sporting arms, ammunition, fishing equipment, pleasure boats, and motorboat fuels under the Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration and Federal Aid in Sport Fish Restoration Acts.

Braves are trounced

How far has the Manistique Emeralds Varsity basketball team come since the first game of the season? Ask Gladstone.

The Braves won the first contest of the season against Manistique 104-67, but saw a much different Emerald squad Tuesday when "new and improved" Manistique beat Gladstone 71-61.

"This is our second win in a row, raising our record to 7-8 overall," said Coach Bob Ryan. "It was an especially rewarding win. It shows the progress we've made through the season."

The Emeralds beat Negaunee 67-55 last Friday. "It definitely made a difference in the game," he said. "Our hustle and determination were outstanding."

The teams were even in the first quarter, with Gladstone taking an 18-16 lead after one. In the second quarter, the Emeralds edged a 37-29 victory, but it was with some kind of post season tournament."

The Freshmen shot 53 percent from the floor Tuesday, but only went 8-for-22 from the line for 36 points. Chris Miles led the team with 28 points, 14 rebounds, three assists and two steals.

Nick Snyder scored his season high 14 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, and three blocked shots. "Nick has really stepped up his level of play," said Nelson. "He's definitely showing true leadership."

Kris Tennessy had 13 points and three assists while Adam Fuson had four assists. "I must say that Derek Culliton really played an outstanding game," said Nelson. "He was all over the floor. Culliton finished with seven points, nine boards, six assists, and three steals."

Though Negaunee led by 15 at the beginning of the fourth quarter of last Friday's game, the Emeralds close with less than a minute left. "We just ran out of time," said Nelson. "We really hustled and got very accurate on the press. We had our chances but just fell short."

Fuson led the team with 11, followed by Miles, Tennessy, and Snyder who had nine points each. Snyder was top rebounder with eight boards, though Miles' foul trouble and Tennessy's foot injury hampered their efforts.

Greg Peterson, Culliton, Tim Sholander, and Brandon Winsor each had four points.

Manistique's eighth grade basketball team members go up over Big Bay de Noc School's players for the score Monday night.

Unforgettable Myrtle Lang of Garden Peninsula

by Debble Lang

Friends and family will never forget Myrtle (Chaffee) Lang in the Garden Peninsula. She was well liked and highly respected by the community.

I thought it would be interesting to do a brief history on Myrtle Lang. She is my husband's great grandmother and since I have heard so much about her from family and friends I decided to write an excellent Garden Memories Column.

With help from the Garden Heritage Book and after talking with Grace Stern, Myrtle's daughter, I was able to get a feel of what great-grandma Myrtle Lang was like and how things were for her back in the beginning of the Garden Peninsula as we know it.

It all began for Myrtle Lang on April 5, 1880 in Sack Bay where she was born to Clarence and Ida Belle Chaffee.

Myrtle was one of three children born to Clarence and Ida Belle. John and Florence Chaffee were also born in Sack Bay.

When Myrtle was six years old her father Clarence died.

Mrs. Stern recalls, "grandpa Clarence died when he was working on the Nahma farm which is now the Nahma Golf Course back in 1886. The doctor said it was appendicitis but we don't know if that was exactly what it was. Back then it was hard to tell, the equipment the doctors used was not up to date like today's."

Myrtle Lang

Memories

Ida Belle Chaffee married Joseph Pizzala. They had two children, Clarence and Ida.

Myrtle attended school at the Sack Bay schoolhouse. The Sack Bay school is believed to be the oldest school in Delta County. Myrtle had a teacher named Lucy Elliott and under her direction the school children made their first American flag which they proudly displayed in their small log school. Back then students carried their lunches in tin pails and their teacher provided water in a pail and a dipper to drink with the school was heated with wood and the children used slate boards to do their homework on. When weather was severe the school closed down until it improved. Sometimes it took several weeks before the school reopened. In 1890 the schoolhouse became the central location for school programs and other holiday celebrations. One of Myrtle's favorite times was the Fourth of July at Sack Bay. There was always a baseball game to enjoy and sometimes a platform was put up for dancing. Taking part in the Sack Bay Christmas school plays was another highlight for Myrtle.

Through the years Myrtle took to living with her grandparents Henry and Margaret Hazen in Sack Bay even though her mother moved to Van's Harbor in Garden.

Mrs. Stern says, "My mother used to go back and forth from my great-grandparent's home to my grandparent's home. Eventually she stayed with my great-grandparents because they needed her for helping around the house."

Mrs. Stern believes it was while Myrtle was in Van's Harbor visiting with her mother that she met her husband-to-be, John Lang.

John Lang, born Oct. 23, 1871 in Randers Denmark, came to America when he was 14 years old. He wasn't allowed to leave Denmark until he was confined. Mrs. Stern says, "My father's family was Lutheran and very religious. John was a descendant from nobility. His mother, Emilie Kahn, was born to nobility in Denmark. I have all the family history to verify it."

Lang stayed at his sister's home in Grand Rapids, MI when he arrived from Denmark. Eventually he left his sister Eliza Jensen's home and started working in the woods. He worked his way up to the U.P.

It is believed that Myrtle met John while he was working in Van's Harbor as an engineer on a tug that boomed logs up from the Big Fish Dam River into the sawmill at Van's Harbor. On Jan. 1, 1901 in Van's Harbor, at Myrtle's mother's home, Myrtle married John. They were married by the Garden Congregational church minister and Tillie (Wilson) McCloud stood up for Myrtle and Louis Lear stood for John.

Mrs. Stern recalls her mother telling her what she wore for the wedding. "It was a blue cashmere dress with a white yoke. The sleeves of the dress were mutton. It was a style of sleeves back then, puffed at the top and tapered down to the wrist. I don't know whatever became of the dress. Dad must have worn a nice suit. I'm not sure."

In 1902 there is a picture of John and Myrtle Lang and John and Anna Haindl in a rough-up shake with newspaper wall paper. Curtains were done for each room and a pot bellied wood stove stood in the middle of the room. This documents and tells the story of John and Myrtle working and living in the lumber camps in the early 1900s.

In the winter months John worked at the lumber camps and in the summer he worked as a fisherman in Fairport.

Mrs. Stern remembers lumber camp life. "All of us kids went to camp. Dad worked doing lumber and iron cooked. We always had fresh meat in the winter because we could store it in the big boxes outside that held our food that had to stay cold. In the summer we had salt pork a lot."

Lumber camps had their share of problems and in 1918 an epidemic of influenza (flu) was killing a lot of people in camps near the camp John and Myrtle were staying in.

"Whenever someone would die at a camp someone would come to our camp and use the phone. After that person would leave, mom would put some sulfur on the stove and heat it until a blue flame came out of it. You had to be careful that there wasn't too much sulfur. This was something my mother had learned from her mother as a home remedy to guard us against the flu. My mom swore it was because of the sulfur that none of us ever came down with the flu," Mrs. Stern says.

In 1912, John Chaffee, brother to Myrtle and John Lang had heard of a large amount of fish being caught in the east coast with gill nets. On Sept. 1, 1912, they left Fairport with two young teenagers as helpers, Tom Peterson and Jim Casey, on the Mary L. bound for the port of Gloucester, Mass. When they arrived in Boston they found out there was a leak in the Eric Canal so the boat had to be loaded on a flat car and taken the rest of the way to Gloucester by rail.

Myrtle and their three children, Henry, Ida and Grace and Mrs. Kity (Casey) Chaffee and her two children, Floyd and George, left Fairport on Oct. 31. They took a train from Escanaba on Nov. 1, 1912, stopped in Montreal and got off to buy sandwiches. People on the train asked Myrtle if they were immigrants just arriving in the United States. John Chaffee met the woman and children in Boston on Nov. 3. The men sold the Mary L. and rented a boat for a few months. Then they purchased the Lily Kay boat. They caught large amounts of haddock, cod and flounder but decided after a while that there was no place like home and home was Fairport. At the time Myrtle was ill and the women and children left Gloucester on St. Patrick's Day 1913. They arrived in Escanaba and hired a team to come across the river. The men sold the Lily Kay and arrived home in May of 1913.

John ventured his career out of the U.P. once more. "On my 10th birthday we went to Flint. I remember it because it was the first year women were ever allowed to vote. Dad went to work in the Buick Industry. Dad worked hard but then there was a recession and Dad was cut back to three days working. He figured he could make more money fishing than being in the city and working at the Buick plant. Besides, he did Dad was cut back to three days working. John and Myrtle packed up and came home to Fairport.

Fred Lang was born after that in a house which used to be located where Dick Ranganette's home is now.

"Henry and I were born in a house that was down a little road between Buch Barbeaux's and Mayme Gierke's house," Mrs. Stern recalls.

Through the years Myrtle did quite a bit of mid-wifing and basic doctoring for the community. In the Heritage Book, Myrtle says, "Hot drinks and a good dose of castor oil were the main recipes back then." Their home brewed concoctions from barks of trees and roots and wild plants took the place of the drug store. When there was a birth of a baby, Myrtle was called upon for her service. She delivered her first baby on Beverly Island. In those days mid-wives were paid five dollars for a 10 day stay at the home. Duties included taking care of the new baby and mother who was confined to bed rest for 10 days, cooking, cleaning, washing clothes and other household chores.

Myrtle delivered 75 babies in her lifetime.

Eventually John Lang purchased 80 acres of farmland at Burnt Bluff in Fayette and he took up farming. He added more land as the years went by. He fished and farmed for a while and eventually he just farmed.

John's brother, Fred, also had a farm up on Burnt Bluff next to his. Years later, Henry Lang, son to John, took up farming in his early 30s. Now Gary, grandson to John, has a farm on the bluff.

John Lang died Nov. 5, 1961 at the age of 90. Myrtle continued to live on, living with Grace and Harold Stern up on Burnt Bluff.

In November of 1986, ceremonies were held to break ground for a new fellowship hall that would be attached to the Garden Congregational church in Garden. Myrtle, at 100 years old, was there to help break ground. She was also there in 1896 when the Congregational church was dedicated.

Myrtle Chaffee Lang died on Oct. 6, 1984 at 104 and a half years old. She was a woman who at the age of 100 could recite the alphabet and multiplication tables backwards. Her mind was still that sharp.

She is buried at the Sack Bay cemetery where seven generations of her family rest. Great-grandma Myrtle Lang was truly a pioneer in our history on the Garden Peninsula.

Marie Sellman is pictured with the "plain cloth" dolls she made to support the Medical Mission of GFWC International Operation Smile. The mission is to reduce stress for "little Patients" who are hospitalized. The children draw their own features, as they see fit, on the doll. The specialists working with the patients find the dolls a potent vehicle through which children can project and receive support for their fears, feelings and concerns regarding health care.
