The Case of Hardy

The Grand Rapids Evening Press finds in the case of George Hardy, paroled from Jackson prison after serving twenty-eight years of a life sentence given for murder, an argument for capital punishment. Hardy has accepted a $2,000 position as an electrical engineer, a profession in which he qualified himself while a prisoner, and the Press asserts: "George Hardy is not only an example of what the state institutions can do, but also of what they should strive to do with every man who enters them. The state does not need to concern itself with the punishment of criminals. The state institutions should not be maintained for the purpose of wreaking vengeance on men and women who do wrong. Primarily they are for the purpose of protecting society from the criminal, but the reformation of the criminal himself should also be the constant aim of those who control them and when one is reformed, and it is reasonably certain that the reformation is genuine, he should be set at liberty. George Hardy might well have been paroled several years ago, and had it been done there is no doubt that he would have been a useful and honorable member of society. His case cannot but encourage every humanitarian. It is a mistake to suppose that every criminal is irreclaimable. The best of us occasionally do wrong. Under stress of circumstances a man in every way estimable may even commit murder. Every one may be sure that such a man is punished even though the law does not overtake him. Every misdeed is punished somehow and somewhere. There is no escape for any one. The state's concern should be to save men, not to kill or to crush them. In the majority of instances it can be done, and when it is done every one can see that it was worth doing."

The Question of Reforestation.

The forestry convention held in Grand Rapids is attracting statewide attention and the importance of its objects is emphasized by the great interest manifested and the large attendance. In this connection an extract from an address delivered by Gifford Pinchot, forester of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will prove of special interest: "We recognize that the bulk of our forests are now and must always remain in the hands of private owners; that it is only the private owner, large or small, becomes interested in forestry and carries out its practical principles, that we shall succeed in introducing forestry into the United States. It should be remembered that the woodlands in farms are about three times as great in extent as all the national forest reserves, and that the reserves are almost insignificant when compared with the vast area of timberland, the millions upon millions of acres, which are owned by lumbermen, by railroads or by men of various occupations who control the timberlands upon which the prosperity of this whole country depends. This is to be remembered, that the forests of the private owners will have to be set in order if the overwhelming calamity of a timber famine is to be kept from this nation."

The Rise of the Common People.

There was a time when it meant something to be the possessor of blue blood. The common people ducked and scraped and were content to be called serfs, for they realized that it was a blessed privilege to breathe the same air with the classes. But they are getting over that bravely in certain quarters of Europe. Tradesmen have the audacity to send in the bills on the first of the month and insist that his ludship pay. The duchess who neglected to settle with her cook lost the cook and was compelled to appear in the same police court in which the common folks get ten and costs on occasion.

It is terrible. And the limit has just been reached in London, where the Countess Guelph demeaned herself by personally calling upon the butcher and purchasing a steak. The meat didn't suit and she asked for another cut. The butcher said nay and they mixed it up right merrily. The countess used up her available supply of language and punctuated it with her umbrella, which she wore to a frazzle over the butcher's head.

What an honor for the butcher! To be clubbed by a countess. That is something like. The butcher had his head dressed and hiked to court, where the strong arm of the law soon haled the lady. Blood, birth, title, ruffled feelings—all were as naught. The fine assessed by a coarse-looking justice was ten shillings, and the countess had to pay.

What's the use of anything? First thing you know, they will send King Ed. to jail for walking on the grass.

RAPID RIVER

John Shady and son of Trenary, were in town Thursday. Mr. Shady's other son, Raymond, who is now in Panama, is expected home the first part of next month. Farmers are busy threshing their oats and wheat. This is about the first year these crops have been raised in any quantity and the results are very satisfactory. Twenty-five to thirty bushels per acre is not unusual on some of the farms. The wheat after it is threshed is taken to the Gladstone mill and exchanged for flour. The funeral of James Murchie, son of Mrs. Isabelle Murchie took place Thursday in Rapid River. Mr. Murchie's death took place at Butte, Montana after a long illness. The body was embalmed and brought here. The funeral was held from the Congregational church and a large number of friends of the family attended. Members of the Modern Woodmen attended in a body and marched in the funeral procession. Besides his mother, Mr. Murchie is survived by a child about two years old, one brother and two sisters. The Barker Lumber company now operating at Garth expect to start the mill running by Oct. 1. The camps have been busy cutting for some time and the company has about 75,000 pieces at the head of the Whitefish river ready to come down. Repairs are still being made about the mill, the track is being extended and a hot water vat for use during the winter will be built. The vat will be 20x60 and will be heated by live steam. Such vats were until a short time ago an innovation in mills in this part of the country. They are now being generally adopted. When it comes to raising apples, Delta County farmers lead those of other Upper Peninsula counties. There are a large number of farms in this county which have orchards and which produce some of the finest specimens of apples in the state. Mr. and Mrs. Darling, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Oscar Sorenson, and Mrs. Andrew Barbeau went up to camp Thursday to spend a few days. Chas. Thatcher of Escanaba, transacted business here Thursday. Levi Barbeau has added three new horses and rigs to his livery. He has purchased a lot at the rear of the barn from H. W. Cole. A. R. Northup of Escanaba was in town Wednesday. Mr. Cole is quite well pleased with the showing his colt made at Oconto last week. He entered the horse in as hard a class as he thought he could

ABOUT THE SIZE OF IT.

Menominee county is certainly being put in a very bad light before the people of the country at the present time. We doubt that conditions are anywhere near as bad as is currently reported. We can read between the lines a lot of personal malice and petty politics in the stories that are being heralded about the country relative to crookedness and malfeasance in office. Petty political strife when fanned by a sensational newspaper reporter, desirous of building up himself by pulling others down, can do more harm to a community in a minute than can be repaired in a decade. For much of the notoriety which Menominee county enjoys to-day it has only its own press to blame. Crystal Falls Diamond Drill.

Will Meet Here

The Northern conference of the Swedish Methodist church will meet in this city next year, the invitation from this city being accepted at the conference held at St. Paul last week. The conference embraces churches in several states.

Died After Operation

Alze Ore Lefebvre, the eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lefebvre, of Ford River, died Sunday afternoon after an operation for appendicitis. The operation was performed on Friday of last week and the little girl seemed to be recovering when a change for the worst came. Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at St. Anne's church.

A Cow gave Butter

Mankind would have to invent milk. Milk is Nature's emulsion—butter put in shape for digestion. Cod liver oil is extremely nourishing, but it has to be emulsified before we can digest it.

Scott's Emulsion

combines the best oil with the valuable hypophosphites so that it is easy to digest and does far more good than the oil alone could. That makes Scott's Emulsion the most strengthening, nourishing food—medicine in the world.

Amusements.
Mr. Leslie G. Stocum, of New York city, the originator of the production "All Sides of Life," has succeeded in constructing an electrical plant of machinery with which he gets effects not seen in other productions. His originality is very apparent all through the entire entertainment which is never without interest. From the start to the finish there is not a moment of waiting, so continuous are the revolving scenes that the beholder is carried from one point of interest to another to the final end without ever thinking of the passing time. This entertainment appeals to all classes, especially those who never or rarely attend shows, as it deals with characters some of which, under the most trying circumstances resist the evil and cling to the good, and with others who yield to every evil which presents itself. It is hoped that many of the latter class will avail themselves of this rare opportunity as it may never be offered here again. It will be given at Peterson's Opera house Sunday and Monday nights Sept. 17 and 18.

DANGER IN DELAY.

Prompt Action Must be Taken to Preserve Health.

Kidney troubles are dangerous because they creep so stealthily that they get a firm grip on the victim before he is aware of it. They manifest themselves in such varied forms that they are easily mistaken for other diseases. Make no mistake. Do not delay. Treat the kidneye now. The kidneye are sick and will not get well unless you use a kidney medicine. Doan's Kidney Pills is the certain, safe and prompt remedy for the kidneye only. It cures. It has cured people right here in Escanaba.

Samuel Schoneman, miner, of 528 Stephenson Ave., Escanaba, Mich., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of a bad case of backache and rheumatism from which I suffered for over five years. I had a dull pain across the loins and down into my right hip and leg to the knee, at times so severe that I could scarcely hobble about and had to use a heavy stick as a support.

I would awake at night with terrible pains all through my back and would have to turn over although it was agony to move. I used remedies and rubbed on liniments but kept on getting worse.

I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and went to the Mead Drug Co.'s store and got a box. I felt so much better in a short time that I was surprised. I used three boxes altogether and my rheumatism, backache and weakness were all gone and have never returned. You may refer to me as one who can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

THERE IS MONEY IN GROWING GINSENG

Prof. W. L. Howard of Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits may be realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown."—A recent bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State Agricultural College in part says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is continually diminishing and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future. The market for our cultivated root will exist as long as the Chinamen exist."—Counsel General W. A. Rublee of Hong Kong says in the U. S. Consular reports: sale of the Ginseng root grown in America is very large here and the demand is so great that much more could be disposed of advantageously. The root is as indispensable to the 400,000,000 Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat, and cotton. The present market price varies from $5.00 to $8.00 per pound according to quality, while the cost of production does not exceed $1.50. There is room in an ordinary garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant is hardy and thrives in all parts of the United States and Canada, except in the arid regions. We are successful growers and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. You can get a good start in the business for a comfortable income. We have several thousand choice roots for sale for fall delivery. The planting season begins in August and continues till the ground is frozen.
