Well, it took the amateur of the proposed league to make them all back up.

In Europe now they observe Sunday by making it just a little more horrible than any other day.

Now Marquette and Menominee have a perfectly good alibi for failing to raise their baseball league guarantee.

This time it's the same thing only different. Germany say it is and Russia, instead of England, says it ain't.

First thing Ald. Ed. knows the taxpayers of the Sixth ward will be recalling him for not attending council meetings.

It's natural that these April showers should be finicky and hard to count on. Look who makes them: the weather man.

We've had watchdogs of the treasury plenty but it remained for the Woman's club to establish a watch over the city council.

One of the vexing problems of life is why a man will pay $50,000 for a seat on the New York stock exchange and then stand the most of the time he's there.

It's possible a true bill might lie against the two gentlemen now making faces at each other at Syracuse, under the Sherman law for conspiracy in restraint of the entertainment business.

It must have been a mighty disturbance.

How Mrs. Harrod Got Rid of Her Stomach Trouble.

"I suffered with stomach trouble for years and tried everything I heard of, but the only relief I got was temporary until last spring I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and procured a bottle of them at our drug store. I got immediate relief from that dreadful heaviness after eating and from pain in the stomach," writes Mrs. Linda Harrod, Fort Wayne, Ind. Obtainable everywhere.

WAR

Washington, May 4.—Pending an official investigation of the circumstances of the wrecking of the American steamer Gulflight in the English channel, the United States government will defer diplomatic representations as well as any pronouncement of policy. Two messages were received today from American Consul Stephens at Plymouth, Eng., reporting that the Gulflight was torpedoed on the Scilly islands Saturday and that her captain died from an attack of heart disease and that two men of the crew were drowned. The Americans lost, according to the Gulf Refining company, owners of the vessel, were Captain Alfred Gunther, of Bayonne, N. J., Charles C. Short, wireless operator, of Chicago, and Eugene Chapman, a seaman, of Port Arthur, Tex. The vessel's cargo consisted of gasoline and oil consigned to firms doing business in France, according to officials of the company.

Consul Stephens' report said that the vessel was still afloat and that patrol boats were attempting to tow her to the Scilly islands. The Gulflight carried a crew of thirty-seven. All but the three named were saved. Secretary Bryan announced that he did not wish to make any predictions as to the course of the American government's policy until all the facts were in its possession. Officials were careful not to take for granted the truth of reports that a German torpedo struck the Gulflight. Until there is definite proof no statement bearing on the delicate point of responsibility was deemed expedient.

Should the investigation bear out the dispatches, claiming that a German submarine made the attack, the United States probably will demand an indemnity sufficient to cover the losses incurred by the ship and compensation to the families of the victims. It is thought probable that an expression of formal regret also will be requested.

Chicago, May 4.—Mrs. L. F. Short, mother of Charles Short, said tonight she would demand that the German government make reparation for her son's death. "What can a few hundred dollars do toward compensating me for the loss of my boy?" she asked. "I suppose there will be a few polite messages exchanged and the Germans will promise to pay when the war is over. But they should be made to suffer. I am going to demand that this government punish the captain of that torpedo boat who ordered his men to sink the ship on which my boy sailed. That's murder, not war. If my son had blown up a lake steamer and killed three men, would he go free? My boy's body has not even been recovered. Can money pay for it?"

WAR-BABY AGITATION BRINGS DENUNCIATION. London, May 4.—Bitter denunciation by the pulpit of the war-baby agitation has temporarily stopped agitation for immediate legislation for the benefit of unwed prospective mothers. Leading church dignitaries and physicians take sharp exception to the figures of the suffragettes that there are approximately 20,000 women and girls residing in the vicinity of the great military camps soon to have war babies. The Bishop of Chelmsford declared Saturday night that while it had been declared Saturday night that were 2,000 cases in his particular diocese, careful investigation had revealed only six.

Sir Thomas Barlow, formerly King Edward's personal physician, also denounced the agitation. "I believe that the public should cease this discussion until the facts are known," he said. Most of the statements are made by hysterical persons in no way familiar with the truth. It is an unfair reflection upon the virtuous women of England, that statements should be made that there are 20,000 unwed mothers in this country.

Ronald McNeil, M. P., who began the agitation, admitted that there was a possibility that the number of prospective mothers had been exaggerated. The evidence is very conflicting, he said. He suggested that the wisest course will be to wait.

Arthur Busch-Mitchell, Somersetshire, leading member of the eugenic society, was today fined $600 for issuing a circular which the court characterized as insulting. In it he said: "At this time of national emergency, when men are hazarding their all on land and sea, no girl of independent means, gifted with sound health and strength, should shirk the risks and responsibilities of the odium of producing one well-conditioned child to the community."

The prosecutor declared that many young girls of highly respectable families had been sent copies. The court held the circular "indecent," imposing sentence.

CUDAHY FAMILY TO GET ENTIRE ESTATE

Chicago, May 4.—The will of the late John Cudahy leaves the entire estate to the widow and four children. The value of the estate is estimated to be $1,500,000. The bulk of the property is to be held in trust for seven years, when all the heirs except John P. Cudahy, Kansas City, may take it over. The Kansas City man, who figured in a sensational attack on Jere Lillis, Kansas City banker, a few years ago, shares equally with the others, except that the trustee will retain his shares during his life, giving him the income only in quarterly installments. Upon his death the trustees are to turn over his inheritance to his heirs, providing that John does not die within seven years.

NEW PRIMARY BILL IS PASSED

In the closing hours of the Legislature the Senate elections committee reported out a substitute for the House primary bill in which practically everything was eliminated but the Nank provision for separate party ballots. There were several other minor amendments to the law left in the bill, but the separate ballot provision was the only marked change. The bill passed. The bill passed by the Senate was put to immediate passage through the House. The substitute virtually is the same as the first Nank bill introduced early in February, providing for separate ballots for political parties, registration of the voter at the time she applies for a ballot and requiring candidates to have at least 5 per cent of the votes cast in the previous election in order to get on the ticket.

GREAT GAIN IN ORE SHIPPING

Ashland, Wis., May 4.—That the navigation season of 1915 will be far better in the matter of lake shipments than has been expected up to a week or so ago, seems now to be fairly certain. News from the east is to the effect that one shipper now expects to ship more ore during this year than was shipped during 1914, which, while 17,000,000 tons short of the previous years, was about equal to the shipments of 1911. This is also indicative of significant improvement in general business conditions. The trade has been developing at such a rate, it is claimed, that during the last few weeks ore shippers have begun to awaken to the fact that instead of 1915 being one of the poorest years, it may prove one of the best. However, at present no hope is entertained by equaling the record of 1913. The ore trade is settling down to a basis for the season and just before the arrival of the steamer E. Y. Town send of Cleveland the price on ore was fixed for the season. It turns out that it will be the same as last year. The first deal at price-fixing figures was for 125,000 tons made on Tuesday of this week. The ore was Mesabe non-Bessemer and it brought $2.85 a ton. Another deal is one from between 400,000 and $500,000 tons of the old range non-Bessemer at $3, also last year's figure. Prices for other ores are: Old range Bessemer, $3.75 and Mesabe Bessemer, $3.50.

SON-IN-LAW NOT MEMBER OF FAMILY

Washington, May 4.—At last the status of a son-in-law has been fixed by the federal government. The Interstate commerce commission today decided that a father-in-law could not pay a son-in-law's fare on a commutation ticket. This may establish a precedent that will receive father-in-law in other cases, although in this case the father-in-law registered the complaint.

The decision was made on a complaint by Willesey W. Gage, New York, who tendered a fifty-trip ticket to a conductor for passage for himself and son-in-law from Ridgewood, N. J., to New York. The conductor refused to carry the son-in-law on the ticket on the ground that he was not a member of the Gage family, and he says, "ejected him from the train."

The commission holds that the conductor, stating that "upon all of the facts disclosed we find that defendant lawfully and properly refused to honor complainant's ticket for the carriage of his son-in-law."

A Real Reason. A really frank seeker of divorce was the colored woman who said: "Sam ain't dun nuffin particular, but I jess loved ma taste fob him."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

WIDOW NEGAUNEE HERO GIFTS PROFUSE IN LEGISLATURE

Pittsburgh, May 4.—A Michigan hero, John S. Barrett, of Negaunee, employed in an iron mine in that town, and who gave up his life in the attempt to save that of a miner, Victor A. Erickson, from suffocation by gas, is on the Carnegie-Hero Fund Commission's roll of honor, and at the spring meeting in this city, the commission voted a silver medal and $30 per month pension to his family. The pension consists of $45 monthly for the widow and $5 per month additional for each of seven children, the payments to continue until each reaches the age of 16 years.

Two other Michigan awards were made; both bronze medals. They are to: Homer J. Ward, Cheboygan, Mich., aged 12, saved John P. Davidson from drowning in Cheboygan River, June 25, 1914. (Davidson died later as a result of injuries sustained in the accident.) Clifford A. Kajsner, deceased; aged 18; died attempting to save Oscar A. Byrns, from drowning at Holland, Mich., Sept. 13, 1913. Medal to Kajsner's father, Holland, Mich.

Negaunee, May 5.—"That's delightful news" said Mrs. John Barrett, widow of Captain Barrett, who is the recipient of the Carnegie hero commission award, when a Chronicle reporter informed her of her good fortune. "I have received no notification of the award. I hoped that the commission would recognize my husband's sacrifice but I was not expecting anything as much as they have given. It will be a great help to us." Mrs. Barrett was left with nine children, seven of whom are under 12 years of age. It is on behalf of the seven that the $5 per month per child is awarded.

CREW WINS LONG FIGHT FOR LIFE

San Diego, Cal., May 4.—An eight-hour fight with death ended a mile off Point Loma late Saturday when Capt. Jose Urrachua and ten sailors from the wrecked steamer Victoria were picked up by Capt. Kenny in the launch Flyer. They had been exposed to the storm in open boats ever since the Victoria sank near the Coronado islands at 10:30 p. m., Friday, and all hope of saving them had been given up. The Flyer was sent to patrol the coast in the hope of getting some report of the foundered Victoria. When a short distance off Point Loma, Capt. Kenny sighted one of the wrecked ship's small lifeboats half submerged in the mountainous seas with the exhausted mariners clinging desperately to it, as it wallowed in the surf. Three of the crew were clinging to the outside of the shell while their comrades held them to prevent them from slipping to death. All were drenched. Two crouched in the bottom of the lifeboat, trying to ball with their bare hands. When the Flyer came alongside the victims were too weak to help themselves into the rescue craft. Capt.

Kenney and his men transferred them to safety at great peril to themselves and they were all landed safely at Bynkers wharf. When the Flyer approached the lifeboat, three of the least exhausted sailors were clinging tightly to their bars, using their last ounce of energy in an effort to reach the headland, dimly discerned through the mist, while wind and tide combined to sweep them back into the seething cauldron of the sea.

Determined to die in the storm, rather than desert their ship, Capt. Urrachua and his faithful ten refused help from the liner American. The American had launched a lifeboat which rowed to the side of the foundering Victoria. They stood by until twelve had been taken off. The women were thrown bodily into the lifeboats. But when Capt. Urrachua was asked to go he shook his head. "I will stay with my ship," he said. Thereupon ten others announced they would remain also. At that time the Victoria had ten feet of water in the hold.

Two hours later, at 10:30 a. m., when the Victoria's engines were flooded, and hope of getting her beached abandoned, Capt. Urrachua and his companions launched their lifeboats. A few minutes afterward the Victoria plunged and disappeared.

The survivors headed for land by dead reckoning and took turn hauling on the cars in the gale until one by one they sank in the boat, exhausted. Hope had been abandoned when the Flyer appeared at 4 p. m.

The Victoria plied between Ensenada and San Diego and recently came

MAY FESTIVAL IS GREAT EVENT

Variety, brilliancy, and solidity characterize briefly the musical offerings of the Twenty-Second May Festival to be held in Hill Auditorium, Ann Arbor, Michigan, May 15, 20, 21 and 22. Six concerts of widely different character, each complete in itself and each having unique and attractive features at which one of America's greatest orchestras, several choruses, and a long separate parts of what has come to be known as "Michigan's Greatest Musical Event" and which, under the direction of Albert A. Stanley, will be molded into one grand whole.

At this particular time, when for so many months interest has been centered so definitely upon warring nations of Europe, where we in America have been led to turn our eyes as a source of all great music, it is particularly appropriate that this great Festival which will be participated in by musicians of widely different nationalities and sympathies, should be inaugurated by the rendering of our own National Hymn "America" by the combined forces in attendance, orchestra, chorus and audience. This should not only serve as a rousing opening number and be of real significance as a musical treat, but should serve as an auspicious omen for the Festival as a whole.

In addition to sparkling orchestral numbers, two splendid artists from the Metropolitan Opera Company will be heard at the first concert, Wednesday evening, Margaret Ober, the distinguished German dramatic contralto who has established herself so firmly with America's most distinguished concert-going public, and Mr. Clarence Whitehill, an American who has won the distinction of being one of the leading Wagnerian artists on the Metropolitan's roster.

Thursday evening the program will be divided into two parts. Part I will bring forth Wolf-Ferrari's "New Life" which was given in University Hall several years ago and which it will be remembered was so enthusiastically received. Miss Olive Kline, an American artist will do the soprano role, while the difficult baritone role, which runs all through the work will be sung by Theodore Harrison, another American singer, who for several years was engaged in professional work in Italy and Germany, where he attained a position of prominence, and who through his splendid C. L. Girard for that position. In a practically all of the leading organizations and conductors in both countries, did much towards elevating the importance of American singers upon the continent. The difficult piano part will be played by Mrs. Edwin S. Sherrill of Detroit. Part II of this program will be given over very largely to miscellaneous numbers by Frieda Hempel, the distinguished coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who is considered one of the world's leading representatives in her line. Her appearance will lend a wonderful charm to the occasion.

On Friday two important concerts will be given. In the afternoon the orchestra will contribute a Brahms "Symphony," while Harold Bauer, the "Master Pianist" will be heard in a Schumann Concerto and Margaret Keyes in solo numbers.

In the evening will take place what has come to be known as a popular concert and for this occasion, no greater artist could be chosen than the distinguished Irish tenor, John McCormack, who has come to be known as "the favorite of three continents." In addition to the more serious numbers specified on the program, he will contribute, with piano accompaniment a large number of Irish and American Folk-Songs, in which he excels so distinctively.

On Saturday two concerts will again be given, the first of which will bring to the fore, the well known Frieg Memorial Organ which was on exhibition at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1893 and which represented the acme of organ construction. It was brought to the University and for years occupied a distinguished position in University Hall. When the late Arthur Hill of Saginaw so generously provided the funds necessary for Hill Auditorium, the Board of Regents of the University of Michigan wisely provided for the complete reconstruction of this instrument and its reinstallation in Hill Auditorium where it has again taken its place as one of the leading instruments of its kind in existence. Mr. L. L. Renwick will appear in an interesting program of organ numbers. Variety will be added to the entertainment by the interpersing of vocal numbers by Theodore Harrison and Margaret Keyes.

In the evening the last, and in many respects the greatest concert of the series, will be given when the University Choral Union, augmented by several hundred children from the Ann Arbor Public Schools with full orchestra and a strong cast of soloists will produce Pierne's monumental "Children's Crusade." This great work, involving so many factors, has been given frequently in the United States, but usually under adverse circumstances, since unless the several factors involved can be properly and

ACTION IS HELD BACK

(Continued from page one.) Received the reports of the chief of police and justices, showing that seven arrests were made for violation of city ordinances in April. Six of the defendants were arraigned before Judge Emil Glaser, who collected $35 in fines and one was taken before Judge McEwen, who collected $5 in fines.

A petition from the supervisors of the city asking that they be allowed $5 a day for service on the board of review was referred to the council finance committee and the city attorney.

Referred to the board of public works and the city attorney a communication from C. Pulsant, asking that the contract for laying the gas mains to North Escanaba be let to the lowest bidder.

Received and placed on file a petition from the members of the Delta County Medical Society, indorsing the engagement by the city of a full time health officer and recommending Dr. C. L. Girard for that position. In a communication to the council Dr. Girard announced he would take the position at a salary of $2,000 and if named would take a three months course in sanitation at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Instructed the board of public works to extend the street lighting wires three blocks west from Birch street on the Ford River switch road.

Referred to the health committee with power to act a complaint from the Mothers' Club of the Washington school that a lot on North Oak street is being made a dumping ground.

Referred to the sewer committee the complaint that sand is being dumped into the gully, near No. 2 fire station thus endangering the outlet to one of the city sewers.

Granted permission to E. J. Sederlund to move his saloon from 113 North Charlotte street to 706 Ludington street and to Eugene Sullivan to move from 1017 Ludington street to 113 North Charlotte street.

CONDITIONS FAST IMPROVING

(Continued from page one.) during a corresponding period last spring, while the shipments from the Mesaba range properties have been several times larger. In fact the movement from the Mesaba district last year hardly started until after May 1, while together with the output mined, is shipped in April. With the Oliver company increasing its operations both underground and on surface this week, a number of additional men have been given employment here, and next week will see an increase in the company's working forces at its Negaunee properties. By the end of this week the Oliver company will be sending out considerable ore, but it will likely be some days yet before the Cleveland Cliffs shipments are well under way. It is said that the Cleveland Cliffs company has over 2,000,000 tons in stock on the Marquette and Swaney ranges, so the season will have to be an exceptional one if all of this ore, together with the output mine, is shipped before the close of navigation.

It is reported that exploratory operations will be resumed at a number of points on the Menomine range in the next few weeks. During the past few weeks very little drilling has been done there, but the improvement in the iron situation has caused several to prepare for drilling operations. Cole & McDonald have several contracts in prospect, and the firm is preparing to do some exploring on its own account on lands held under option. It has a prospect tract near the Bristol mine, and it expects to find ore there.

The railroad sought to establish that he was not in interstate commerce and therefore not within the federal employees' liability act under which the recovery was made in the state court. But the supreme court took the view of the Wisconsin supreme court that he was.

COWBALL FAN "BEANED" AND DIES

Sheboygan, Wis., May 4.—During the progress of a baseball game played in the field of the Walters' farm on the upper Falls road a cow owned by Mr. Walters was killed while standing about ten feet from the home place. The batter let the club slip when he struck at a ball, the club landing on the head of the cow and killing it on the spot.

The animal was valued at $75. The young men of the baseball team made arrangements to pay Mr. Walters for the cow.

The clubs playing were members of the office force at the Kohler plant, who had eluded out a field on Mr. Walters' land. The cow was attracted as a spectator.
