ROAD BILL IN HOUSE

Granting G. T. Ry. Contract Will Shorten Session.

Lansing, April 20—(P)—The appearance in the house today of a substitute bill authorizing a new contract between the state and the Grand Trunk system, and several administration measures in the senate, paved the way for the first definite move toward adjournment and probably averted a special session. Committee of the two branches tentatively agreed to end the business session May 13, if possible.

The Grand Trunk bill, which was drafted by the attorney general, complies in every respect with a recent verbal agreement between Sir Henry Thornton of the Grand Trunk and Governor Green. It provides the state must pay for moving the tracks of the Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee to a new right of way to make room for the wider Woodward avenue project and that the road must repay the state in 15 annual installments, after which it will surrender its special $25,000 a year tax charter and pay $250,000 or $300,000 annually into the primary school fund.

power, so President Coolidge was really making a safe prediction when he stated his belief that the relations between the United States and Mexico would be amicably adjusted. They may drift along without any clear recognition by the Calles administration that the Oregon government was right in its interpretation of the American protest but it is safe to assume that when President Obregon gets back into power all doubts on the subject will be removed and a definite understanding reached which will prevent the controversy from arising again. In other words, negotiation of a treaty to conform to the understandings already in effect will be the goal of diplomacy.

FUGITIVES DIE AWAITING HELP ON LEVEE TOP

for salvation from the floods which already have laid waste more than 11,000 square miles of the richest areas in the three lower Mississippi valley states.

This hope was staked on the breaking of the levees at Poydras, 12 miles south, at noon tomorrow as a means of lowering the level of the raging torrent which already at places lashes at the very summit of the protecting dykes along the famous crescent bend where the water ever flows toward the city itself.

Louisiana state officials pointed out to Secretary Hoover today the spot where dynamite charges are to be set off to make the first artificial crevasse in the hundreds of miles of levees ever found necessary in all the history of Mississippi river floods.

This plan is carefully guarded. The spot is opposite the celebrated old Poydras plantation, the original grant of which dates back to the days of French control of the Mississippi valley. Plans of state engineers regarding the exact methods to be used and the extent of the break to be made still carefully guarded secrets.

Those versed in river engineering lore, however, said that there would be little of the dramatic about the actual break itself, that probably small charges of dynamite would be used so as not to weaken too great a stretch of the levee, with the mighty rush of the flood current left to complete the break thus begun.

This would mean that the inundation of the parishes of St. Bernard and Plaquemine would be very gradual with time still left for the hundreds of residents who have refused to join the caravans of refugees to make their way to safety.

Place Is Selected.

Selection of the place for the 1000-foot break was made today by Col. Marcel Garsaud, general manager of the New Orleans dock board who cruised down the river with Secretary Hoover, personal representative of President Coolidge in the flood area; Maj. Gen. Jadwin, chief of army engineers, and James L. Feiser, acting chairman of the Red Cross.

As the party was returning upstream on a government craft, three rifle shots rang out from the west bank, across the river from where the crevasse is to be made. Whether the shots came from civilian guards on the levee or from trappers beyond was not determined, but if they were directed at their mark.

There had been a tense feeling in the territory to be flooded ever since the proposal to dynamite the levee was first broached early in the week, with some of the trappers of that section refusing to leave and, with other residents who have sought refuge in camps here expressing dissatisfaction with the forced removal.

No Resistance Expected. While prepared for an eventual state officials anticipated no open resistance when their forces move to the scene early tomorrow to carry out their drastic plan for the relief of New Orleans, which has the tacit sanction of the federal government and the full approval of the army engineers.

Some expressions of doubt as to whether the Poydras break would completely remove the flood danger here still were heard today, but encouraging forecasts came from the weather bureau here, an official statement declaring that the Poydras cut would cause the river to fall for from three to six days with a nearly stationary stage thereafter until the flood crest had passed.

The crest tonight was somewhere between Arkansas City and Greenville, with the exact location undetermined. The water

Waters Rejoins River. Before the flood crest reaches here, some of the flood waters from the Arkansas river which continued to spread today over southeastern Arkansas, inundating more towns and farms will have rejoined the Mississippi through the Ouchita and Red rivers, which already have broken through levees and flooded vast areas in northern and central Louisiana.

Perhaps the worst break over the entire flood area today occurred near Yazoo City with the giving away of the Rocky Bayou drainage levee, throwing flood waters into the lower end of that city and inundating 15,000 additional acres of the delta section.

From southeastern Arkansas urgent calls for aid were received as back water from the Arkansas river submerged the towns of Seydel and Montrose and the surrounding countryside. Water from this river now is moving slowly down into northern Louisiana.

Hill Levees Break.

New breaks in railroad levees in Louisiana also were reported with hundreds more made homeless and the stream of refugees to Natchez and Vicksburg continuing.

Threads of a crevasse in the levee at L'Argent in upper Concordia parish also were reported with the additional information that should this break occur all of Concordia parish would be inundated.

While Secretary Hoover and his party were moving down the Mississippi to locate the exact place for the Poydras levee break, hundreds of refugees were crowding the roads to New Orleans.

The commerce secretary and New Orleans officials stood on the top of the pilot house of the launch Tony with blueprints before them as they determined upon the site.

Waving the blueprints in both hands with a dramatic upward gesture, Colonel Garsaud signalled to newspaper correspondents aboard an accompanying craft. As the two boats came together, Colonel Garsaud pointed shoreward and shouted: "That's where it will take place."

The spot designated is several hundred yards north of the plant of the Orange Grove Refining company, the largest industrial alcohol distillery in this section. Above the proposed crevasse is the little community of Lower St. Bernard where the homes of 500 people will be flooded.

Widow of Screen Cowboy Collapses During Jury Probe

Los Angeles, April 20—(P)—Sarah Kerrick, Hollywood film "double" and widow of Tom Kerrick, slain screen cowboy, collapsed in the grand jury room today while testifying regarding the fatal shooting at her Hollywood home early yesterday. The woman is charged with murder.

Mrs. Kerrick, in a signed statement to the police, had admitted the gun was in her hand when fired, but insisted its discharge was accidental during a scuffle.

Mrs. Kerrick's collapse was the second of the day in the grand jury hearing. Mrs. Iris Burns, over whom one of the five film extras arrested, said a quarrel arose, fainting after leaving the juryroom. She had related her version of the party and its fatal climax.

Mrs. Anita Isabell, known on the screen as Anita Davis, also was before the jury. Her husband, Henry Isabell, and Joe Hunt, both film extras, were expected to testify concerning the shooting. All were the guests of the Kerricks at what they admitted was a nearly all-night drinking party.

Isabell and his wife, Hunt and Miss Burns are being held as material witnesses. Police detectives said Mrs. Isabell had declared Mrs. Kerrick shot her husband with a gun borrowed from Hunt. She told the police the Kerricks had quarreled over her attentions to Miss Burns, and that Mrs. Kerrick and Miss Burns had fought during the night. The gun, with two empty shells, was found under a table.

Best Deterrent to Crime Is Certain Punishment—Green

Jackson, Mich., April 20—(P)—"Punishment, swift and sure, is the best antidote for crime," Fred W. Green, governor of Michigan, declared here tonight in a speech before the Michigan conference Evangelical church which is in session here.

In his address the governor dwelt at length on the crime situation here in the state, and pointed out that the criminal code as revised is for the protection of society and not the criminal. "Long delays in trials are the greatest detriment today," he declared.

Bethlehem Steel's Income $11,000,000

New York, April 20—(P)—Total income of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and subsidiary companies for the first quarter of 1927 was announced today as $11,575,289, as compared with $10,751,118 in the preceding quarter, and $11,973,935 in the first quarter of 1926. This is equivalent, after deducting all charges and dividends on the preferred stock to $2.18 a share on the common as against $1.55 in the previous quarter and $2.32 in the first quarter last year.

Although the corporation made a relatively better showing than the United States Steel corporation and most of the other so-called "independents," directors took no action toward the resumption of dividends on the common stock which have been omitted since October 1, 1924.

Mrs. Carrington Received $25,000

Chicago, April 20—(P)—Mrs. Anna Walsh Carrington, who two weeks ago received a divorce here from Col. Edward Carrington of New York, wealthy clubman, received only $25,000 instead of the $200,000 she asked for, Paulus Koenig, Carrington's attorney, announced here today.

Koenig said Colonel Carrington told him to make public the settlement after hearing reports that Mrs. Carrington said she received interest for life on a $250,000 trust fund. The $25,000, he said, was for solicitors' fees, alimony and all expenses and costs. Under the terms of the agreement as made public, Mrs. Carrington is to receive $10,000 when the purchase of Col. Carrington's stock in the J. B. Lyons company has been negotiated by his brother, Campbell Carrington, New York attorney, who was named as a co-respondent in Colonel Carrington's suit for divorce. For this stock Colonel Carrington is to receive an initial payment of $50,000 and similar payments annually for five years. The balance of $25,000 is to be paid to Mrs. Carrington thirty days after Colonel Carrington has received his first payment for stock, according to the agreement made public by Colonel Carrington's lawyer.

The first payment, he said, has been made. Other articles of the agreement provide for Colonel Carrington's dismissal of a suit against his brother for alienation of his wife's affections. An agreement that a daughter of Mrs. Carrington disclaims a suit against the colonel, charging him with cruelty, was executed today.

Bill Amending Road Commissioner Laws Goes to 3d Reading

Lansing, April 20—(P)—The house today advanced to third reading the McLean bill amending the law limiting state highway commissioners to highway engineers by letting down the bars to all citizens. It was attacked as a political measure, an effort to get rid of Highway Commissioner Frank Rogers and a move backed by highway contractors. Its opponents predict its defeat when it comes up for final passage.

For twelve years, Colchester County, Nova Scotia, had no prisoners in its jail. Now the building will be put up for auction.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

CHAPTER XXXV

Billy stood on tiptoe and spoke into Ralph Truman's ear. "Leave me alone a bit with Clay, please, Ralph. I have something important to say to him."

She stood behind Clay, when Ralph had obligingly wandered away wondering how to attract his attention without startling him, Ralph, watching her at a distance, sensed her problem and gave an order that caused the machinery on that side of the building to stop functioning abruptly.

Clay Curtis straightened his bent body and stared about him in slow bewilderment. Then he turned, as if to go to investigate the trouble, and almost knocked Billy off her feet.

"You're right!" he told her with his lips, though she could not hear the words above the roar of the machinery.

Ralph Truman joined them then, and Billy left Clay to his work, smiling upon him with such lingering tenderness that Truman could not help noticing it. He was less eager, more silent, as he conducted her through the numerous other buildings of the factory.

"Tired now, Billy?" he asked solicitously, after she had looked on in naive wonder at the assembling of an automobile engine in the great assembling plant of the factory.

"Frightfully," she smiled at him. "In such a model factory I'm sure you have afternoon tea. And I'm starved."

"That shall be the next revolutionary innovation in the Truman automobile works," Ralph assured her gaily. "As a reward for the bright idea, you shall have your tea now, if I have to make it myself. This is the cafeteria, where employees are served at actual cost."

"Oh, Angie!" he raised his voice and shouted as he led Billy into a great, pleasant room, comfortably filled with small white-topped tables.

"Yes, Mr. Ralph!" A middle-aged woman hurried from the kitchen, smoothing her starched white apron. "Tea, sir? Would the little lady like cinnamon toast or French toast? And I've just been whipping some cream. Hot chocolate with whipped cream would be nice, sir."

"It would!" Billy laughed. "Cinnamon toast, please. With oodles of cinnamon and sugar. Your secret is out, Ralph. She lowered her voice to a mocking whisper as Truman settled into a chair opposite her. "You keep Angie—doesn't the name suit her to a T—just to pamper your lady friends whom you 'proudly conduct through the 'works'."

"I'll fire Angie for giving me away!" He pretended to be angry. "But I'm delighted that you're hungry."

Billy laughed wholeheartedly, and was surprised at the sound. She had not laughed with genuine enjoyment for weeks. It was odd that she and Dal so seldom laughed. With him she was tense, keyed to a terrific emotional pitch, either abysmally tragic or feverishly ecstatic—never just, plain happy. In the comfortable, ordinary sense of the word.

When the crisp, hot toast and the steaming chocolate came, Ralph watched her eat, his eyes filled with a tenderness and anxiety that would have startled her out of her precious hunger if she had caught the expression.

"There—that ought to 'flesh me up' quite a bit, as mother says," Billy sighed contentedly, when she had finished her third piece of cinnamon toast and her second cup of chocolate.

"Now I can talk to you," Ralph Truman lit a cigaret and studied the glowing tip of it for a long minute before he went on. "Billy, sweet child, tell me something and tell me true—are you seriously in love with Dalhart Romaine?"

"Go on—pull it," he told her grimly. "How dare you, sir?" and "You forget yourself, sir!"

"Well, you do forget yourself, Ralph Truman. Just because you've fed me when I was starving and showed me the family winograd works—" She was striving to be flippant, but her lips trembled.

"I know," he said gently. "But Billy, Billy, don't you realize, child, that your happiness means an awful lot to me—and to others? A good many of your friends have been watching you anxiously and—lovingly, and we're afraid for you, honey, pretty scared."

"Have I—been making such an obvious fool of myself?" she gulped, sinking into a defeated little heap in her chair, all the fight gone out of her.

"You have! I tried to warn you, but you wouldn't listen. You were the infant who could take such blooming good care of itself, you know, Billy, did you know—has he told you—that Dal Romaine tried to marry my sister, Annette?"

"No," she whispered. "I knew that Annette—that she—" "Exactly! Any dumbbell could see that Annette was nuts about him. You can't especially blame the rotter for trying to marry the Truman millions, especially when Annette flung herself at him, as she did. Dal simply put his foot down, or rather, figuratively speaking, on the seat of the impeccable Romaine trousers, and booted him out of the house with the information that he'd disinherited Annette if she married him. Now—what I can't figure out is, if he needs money, as he evidently does, why he is playing both you and Winnie Shelton—"

But Billy Wells could stand no more. She sprang to her feet, upsetting her chair, and ran zig-zaggedly among the tables to the door.

Blinded by her passion for Romaine, Billy does something that turns Clay Curtis' love to disgust. Read the next chapter.

Berlin—Which is right and which is left in the Reichstag? Visitors to the German parliament have become so confused as to the arrangement of seats that it has become necessary to publish a guide for them.

Everybody knows that the communists sit on the extreme left, and the fascists on the right, but few visitors, it seems, know whether this means to the left or right of the gallery or of the speaker.

Before the war it was easy to tell the difference from the fact that the uproarious sounds emanated from the left benches only. Since the abolition of the empire, yells and whistling and catcalls are quite as much the order of the day on the right as on the left.

Kansas sold $24,312,000 worth of poultry and eggs in 1926, compared with sales of $22,745,000 in 1925. The figures for butter are $26,392,000 and $22,857,000.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch

Copyright 1927 by Douglas Malloch

I LOVE THE PINE.

I love the pine For all its quiet greenness, Set like a sign Above life's hate and meanness; I love it for its fringe along the shore That welcomes home Wayfaring ships that wander, From storm and foam And islands over yonder; I love the tree That, far from wave and sea, A signal still, Upon the hill, Calls home some truant son When day is done.

I love the pine. I would that men were like it; The winters whine Around, the lightnings strike it, It wears the scars Of all the autumn rains; Yet what avails?— It frolics with the stars, And every field And forest is its minion, Because it did not yield To their opinion. I love the pine Because, through all life's weather, Through rain and shine, Through cold and hot, It cared not whether I loved the pine or not.

TROUT SEASON OPENS MAY 1

Many Fishermen in County to Make Annual Trek Sunday.

The following Delta county streams will be open May 1: (All others are closed for a period of five years beginning May 1, 1928.) Both main branches of the Whitefish river, both main branches of the Sturgeon river, the Escanaba river, and Day's river.

The season on large and small-mouth bass is open from July 1 to January 1. The season on walleyed pike opens May 1. Blue gills and white bass may be taken during any season of the year. Iron Trade Review

Cleveland, Ohio, April 28—Iron Trade Review today says: Restrained contraction continues to mark demand for most finished steel lines, but this is in conformity to the experience of recent years and is not sufficient to wipe out the slight margin of increase in new business and production over last April. Steel prices have been subjected to pressure but, in the main, have held. Pig iron remains quiescent in the absence of spot purchases to round out second quarter commitments, and quotations are largely untested.

The present sensitive market reflects recent tendencies in buying. Consumers are buying so decidedly for current requirements only that the slightest deviation in general business is registered immediately at the mills. The effort to keep capacity engaged is mirrored in selling effort. In the aggregate, demand for steel is rolling up sufficient tonnage to keep the industry engaged at the comfortable average of 84 per cent and the outlook for a good second quarter continues bright.

Flood conditions in the Mississippi basin are having a mixed effect. The recent heavy rains have been welcomed in the upper reaches of the river and seem the forerunner of better crops and enlarged purchasing power. In the lower portion of the valley the floods have restricted normal spring buying but are necessitating the purchase of considerable track material for reconstruction of railroad lines.

Recent curtailment in beetve coke production has not remedied the glutted condition and this week 313 more ovens are going out. In many districts consumers of coke are using the stocks they accumulated as a bituminous coal strike defense measure. Pig iron, like coke, still displays no effects of the strike. Markets the country over are dull with the possible exception of eastern Pennsylvania.

Little progress has been made in the past week toward a more stable sheet market. Consumers still drive for low prices and some makers

J-Prom at High School Tonight; Parents Invited

Parents of all high school students are invited to watch the Junior Prom, to be given in the Escanaba high school gym tonight, from the running track above the gym floor.

The predominating colors are the class colors of the senior class in whose honor the annual event is given.

Dancing will be from 8:30 to 11:30 o'clock. The Arcadians dance orchestra will play.

Spring Ceremonial of Shrine Will Be Staged May 27th

The spring ceremonial of Ahmed Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S. M. S. Marquette, is announced for Friday, May 27, at which time it is expected a large class of novices will cross the hot sands.

All roads throughout the peninsula will be in good condition then for travel, and a large attendance is anticipated. The program is not yet completed, but many interesting features are promised for the nobles and their ladies.

The ceremonial will be preceded by a three days' reunion of Francis M. Moore Consistory and coordinating bodies, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, on May 24, 25 and 26.

go $2 to $3 below the quoted market for tonnage. The Chicago sheet market is relatively stronger than the Pittsburgh and Mahoning valley one. Pull-finished sheets hold firmly despite the failure of expected automotive industry demands to materialize fully. It is now believed that May schedules of automotive makers will show considerable improvement. Independent sheet steel executives are meeting in Pittsburgh this week to canvass the situation.

Structural shapes dominate the finished steel markets in all districts except Chicago, where bars lead. Activity in plates is less marked in all districts, although pending tonnage at Chicago is close to 20,000 tons. Largely due to the overproduction in oil, production of butt-weld pipe is tapering off and mill stocks are the heaviest in months. The full schedules of lap-welded mills are based upon backlogs rather than new business.

The Iron Trade Review composite of fourteen leading iron and steel products is again stationary at $36.64.

Cinder Blocks to Be Turned Out by Local Plant Soon

Machinery for the manufacture of cinder blocks is being installed rapidly in the plant of the Universal Magnesite Products company, and it is expected that work of making blocks will begin within the next ten days. By means of an ingenious utilization of present space, it will be possible to install the block making equipment in the building with very little remodeling without disturbing the magnesite machinery. Officers of the company report a lively interest in cinder blocks has been evidenced by architects and contractors throughout the peninsula.

City Gets 2 Fine Maples for Park

Two fine young maples, given to the city by Harry Broad, 1216 Eighth avenue south, have been moved by the city engineering department from Mr. Broad's residence to Lewis A. Rose park.

City Manager T. F. Kessler was quick to snap up the opportunity offered.

HOW ABOUT 'AGRARIAN'? Hartford, Conn.—Pity the poor farmer—not because he may or may not need federal aid, but because the word "farmer" has been given an offensive and humiliating significance by cunard pig comedians.

At least, so says Willard Rogers, who has requested the aid of the New England council in substituting the word "agriculturist" for "farmer."

The older term, he says, has given tillers of the soil an inferiority complex.

TELLS WHY MEN AND WOMEN NEVER GROW GRAY OR OLD LOOKING

Their Color Glands Are Normal and Pigment Keeps Hair Nice Shade and Color

ADVISE TO READERS IF TURNING GRAY A Simple Home Tonic Starts Youthful Color Returning

Everyone knows if their color glands and hair roots are active and normal they will continue indefinitely to have rich, natural colored hair entirely free of gray, or off-colored locks, so why use dyes or tints?

A doctor several days ago asked himself this question: "If with certain medicines I can stimulate my patient's other organs, why not rub a stimulating tonic into the scalp that will revive, strengthen and tone up these inactive glands so that nature in her own inimitable way will resume putting plenty of pigment into the hair tubes?"

Surely the hair will then again resume its original shade and color regardless of the users age or previous condition of their hair.

Press Want Ads Cost Little, Accomplish Much.

REMARKABLE DISCOVERY He didn't want an artificial dye or tint and it of course must be harmless and something that could be used for years and years without the slightest injury to hair or scalp.

Under the name of Le's Hair Tonic anyone may now purchase the scalp food and tonic he finally perfected.

Men and women in all walks of life have been amazed at the younger appearance that comes with the disappearance of gray hairs from their heads.

Men who have gray hair should use Le's Hair Tonic on the scalp that will revive, strengthen and tone up these inactive glands so that nature in her own inimitable way will resume putting plenty of pigment into the hair tubes?

Prof. Smith Points Out Needs of Modern Cities for Zoning Regulations

The greatest need of all our cities is the usefulness services of a few men and women of vision, even though for a time you may call them dreamers. It has been shown again and again that these dreamers are intensely practical and the so-called practical people are indeed the reverse." Leonard S. Smith, professor of city planning at the University of Wisconsin, told two audiences here yesterday.

Professor Smith, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, addressed a large crowd of members of the Escanaba Woman's club and other organizations, in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church. Last night, in the Delta hotel, he spoke to a good-sized group of members of the Chamber of Commerce, at a forum dinner.

Both lectures were illustrated with lantern slides which showed, for example, what zoning has accomplished elsewhere.

Professor Smith's lecture, "The Reasons for and the Methods of City Zoning," follows:

Cities do not just happen. Instead every village and every city has a good reason for its first location and for its continued existence and development. Falling such reasons the city cannot grow but must dwindle and die. There are in Wisconsin and Michigan many dead villages that never even became cities, known now only by crumbling ruins or by the memory of the oldest inhabitants.

Are not cities and villages quite like individuals in that they cannot remain stationary but instead must be growing larger or smaller, richer or poorer? And is this not true of Escanaba? There certainly was a reason for the original location of Escanaba on this beautiful bay and harbor, and there are many reasons why this city should grow in area, in population, and most of all, in the necessary amenities of life. These reasons are known to you all; they can be greatly added to and reinforced by suitable community understanding and action, and it is to one of these most far reaching of community actions that I ask your attention today, viz., city zoning. Zoning is a conscious, intelligent effort to direct the building of the city in accord with a well-considered plan. Like good housekeeping it provides a place for everything and tries to keep everything in its place. The municipal corporation is the largest corporation in the city, and like all well industrial management, it should plan for an orderly growth and expansion of its plant.

Abundant Mixture.

The municipal plant is made up of its private homes, its business places and its factories. Of all these the homes are of greatest importance. What would we think of a housewife who insisted on keeping her gas range in the kitchen and her piano in her kitchen? Yet anomalies like these have become commonplace in our community housekeeping. In what city can we find gas tanks next to parks, garages next to schools, oil-filling stations next to hospitals, laundries next to churches, and any or all of these next to our homes?

The whole purpose of a zoning ordinance is to prevent such conditions by encouraging the erection of the right building in the right place. Such an ordinance protects the man who develops his property in a reasonable way against the man who would develop his property along anti-social and hence improper lines. Rightly understood, a zoning ordinance results in substituting an economic and efficient community program of city building for a wasteful, inefficient, haphazard growth. Fortunately, this most important phase of city planning is the cheapest and the easiest to apply. It is more concerned in preventing future mistakes than in correcting costly mistakes after they had been made. It is a preventive medicine which renders unnecessary the expensive major surgical operations, i. e., street widenings now seen in our large cities.

Real Estate men have learned to regard zoning laws not as restrictions but as protections to real estate values. We sometimes say that zoning puts the real into real estate and takes out of real estate the state of uncertainty. With the present high cost of labor and materials it is of great importance that we conserve the value of all buildings, old as well as new, against premature and mainly avoidable depreciation. The whole community is interested in a movement which prevents loss of values, prevents abnormal vacancies, lower rentals, foreclosures and tax sales. These surely are the objects and the results of a properly prepared zoning ordinance.

How Prepared.

To prepare a suitable and legal zoning ordinance, a careful survey of the entire city must be made and maps prepared which will show the manner and the extent of the present use of all land within the city limits. Such a study will also disclose the rate and the directions in which the city is growing commercially and industrially.

Following the preparation of maps the city is divided into districts for residence, for business and for industry, due attention being given toward providing sufficient additional area for the future expansion of each use. In each type of district, certain restrictions and protections adapted to the special needs of the district are proposed and the same are widely published. Public ly, he may not do with it as he pleases, any more than he may act in accordance with his personal desires. As the interest of society justifies restraints upon individual conduct, so also does it justify restraints upon the use to which property may be devoted.

"If in the prosecution of governmental functions it becomes necessary to take private property, compensation must be made. But incidental damages to property, resulting from governmental activities, or laws passed in the promotion of the general welfare, is not considered a taking of the property for which compensation must be made."

"The Purpose of a zoning law is to bring about an orderly development of our cities, to establish residence districts into which business, commercial and industrial establishments shall not intrude, and to fix suitable business and industrial districts."

Benefits Numerous.

"The benefits to be derived by cities adopting such regulations may be summarized as follows:— They attract a desirable and assure a permanent citizenship; they foster pride in and attachment to the city; they promote happiness and contentment; they stabilize the use and value of property; and promote the peace, tranquility and good order of the city. We do not hesitate to say that the attainment of these objects affords a legitimate field for the exercise of the police power. He who owns property in such a district is not deprived of its use by such regulations. He may use it for the purposes to which the section in which it is located. That he shall not be permitted to use it to the detriment of the community constitutes no unreasonable or permanent hardship and results in no unjust burden."

400 Cities Have It.

These decisions of the highest courts in the land, the U. S. Supreme Court, do not mean that any and all zoning laws are valid and constitutional. To stand such tests it is necessary that zoning regulations shall rest upon a comprehensive survey and plan of the entire city and that the resulting ordinance shall not be arbitrary and unreasonable. To secure such result cities usually employ the assistance of city planners who have had experience in such matters, to advise, to direct the construction of the ordinance and to assist at the public hearings. This insures a suitable set of zoning regulations determined in a true democratic way.

Only eleven years have elapsed since the first zoning law was passed in United States but in that short time over 400 cities, large and small, have adopted zoning laws. In fact, the adoption of these regulations, governing the developing of these 400 cities, constitutes the greatest civic accomplishment in the history of our country. Eighteen Michigan cities have adopted zoning ordinances; among these are the following: Dearborn, Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, Ferndale, Grand Haven, Grand Rapids, Grosse Pointe and Jackson. Wisconsin has done equally well, beginning with Milwaukee and followed by sixteen others, including Madison, Kenosha, Appleton, Green Bay, Oshkosh, West Allis, Waukegan, Wauwatosa, Janesville, Beloit, Wausau, Shorewood. These cities include not only the very large cities but also some of the villages as well. In fact, zoning can do more for cities less than 25,000 which has sometimes resulted in destroying the entire section for private house purposes; that in such sections very often the apartment house is a mere parasite, constructed in order to take advantage of the open spaces and attractive surroundings created by the residential character of the district. Moreover, the coming of one apartment house is followed by others, interfering by their height and bulk with the free circulation of air and monopolizing the rays of the sun which otherwise would fall upon the smaller homes and bringing necessary companions the disturbing noise incident to increased traffic and business and the occupation by means of moving and parked automobiles, of larger portions of the street, and depriving children of quiet and open places for play, enjoyed by them in more favored localities,—until finally the residential character of the neighborhood and its desirability as a place of detached residence are utterly destroyed. Under these circumstances, apartment houses which in a different environment would be not only objectionable but highly desirable, come very near to being nuisances.

"These reasons are sufficiently cogent to preclude us from saying, as it must be said before the ordinance can be declared unconstitutional, that such provisions are clearly arbitrary and unreasonable, having no substantial relation to the public health, safety, morals or general welfare."

Feel like a Million every morning

If your breakfast cup sends you forth "feeling like a million"—what a workaday difference it makes! This can happen every morning when your coffee-choice is M-J-B.

All because of a flavor—a rich, full-bodied flavor that spells contentment from first sip to last. What's more, this flavor is constant. It's on the job every day—just as you are. Drink it as you like [strong, medium or mild] the same "million dollar" flavor of M-J-B is always there to greet you at breakfast and "see you through" the day.

having high ideals of life and of public service. Such ideals guarantee contentment and advancement as nothing else can, and the sooner and wider they are comprehended the better both for the individual and for the community. In closing, may I express my belief that this select body of citizens may some day say and feel that it is a splendid thing to be a part of a wide-awake and beautiful city; a splendid thing to feel that your own strength is multiplied by the strength and wisdom of other men and women who love their city as you do, and that by unselfish cooperation the wholesome blood of the entire community may be united in a common purpose, so that selfish prejudices will fall away, a universal spirit of service be engendered, and as a result, a greatly enhanced sense of individual power and pleasure of achievement come to all.

Emerson in his essay on compensation has made it clear that with great gifts and great opportunities such as ours always go great responsibilities for their wise and unselfish use. May we not also realize that great truth of what was written over two thousand years ago:—"Where there is no vision the people perish."

"We dedicate ourselves to the service of mankind as members of the Engineering profession. We consecrate our professional knowledge and skill to the advancement of human welfare, safety and progress. As we benefit by the technical knowledge and public esteem

"We therefore affirm our guiding purpose: "So to live and work as to justify the trust and confidence reposed in the Engineering profession. "To carry out professional engagements with generous measure of performance and with fidelity toward those whom we undertake to serve. "To extend encouragement and a helpful hand to younger Engineers and to those in need. CONSTIPATED SO BADLY DIDN'T KNOW WHAT TO DO

All kinds of medicine failed—then ALL-BRAN saved him!

Read this tribute from a grateful user:

"I have been using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN now for about a year and a half. I was so badly constipated that I didn't know what to do. One day I read about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, went to the store and bought me a package. It did me good and I am using it regularly. I had tried all kinds of medicine but they failed. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN surely saved me."

Very thankful,
C. D. FORTNA, Argo, Ill.

The Little Things

A WAY back in the year 1757, in his maxims prefixed to Poor Richard's Almanac, Benjamin Franklin said: "For want of a nail, the shoe was lost; for want of a shoe, the horse was lost; and for want of a horse, the rider was lost." So you see the importance of a little thing like a horse-shoe nail!

If you are disposed to neglect the smaller advertisements in this paper, you are making a mistake. You are missing money-saving opportunities. You are missing important information about something that some day you are going to buy. You are throwing away your road-map and following your nose.

The big stores of today were little stores years ago. They used advertising space judiciously and became large. At first, their announcements were smaller than they are today. But those small advertisements told about real values, real savings for their customers.

In other words, the size of an advertisement is no indication of its importance to you. The message is the thing. Some of the most important merchandise news is often printed in tiny type. Even in the largest advertisements you will find small type. Read the small type as well as the big black type. Read the little advertisements as well as the large ones. It pays.

Advertisements come in all sizes but the smallest one may carry the biggest news for you. Read them all

English Accent Sold to American Tourists

London-(P)-American visitors may now acquire a genuine English accent here by going to school again. Special attention is given to tourists whose time is short, and there are special classes where pupils may be rushed through and "graduated" within a few weeks.

The Countess D'Armit and Lady Constance Child-Pemberton are principals of the institution, which was started primarily to teach languages. The school also "cures" accents; the pupils for these courses being mostly commercial people, men and women, who wish to perfect their English for business reasons.

Teachers say it is quite easy to "cure" an accent, but to acquire one in a short time really requires a lot of "cramming."

THEATRES

AT THE LYRIC.
 Harold Lloyd, the lovable spectacled laughster, came to town last night at the Lyric theatre in what a capacity audience applauded as the best comedy of the year. Its title? "The Kid Brother." Just read it and roar!

"The Kid Brother" is the sort of thing we expect from Lloyd. That is, its very unusualness—of plot, gags and action—make it stand out alone. In a field as crowded as it is large, Harold's friendly face shines out. Truly he has been crowned and truly does he deserve a scepter as the king of comedy.

His latest, in which he receives able support from a company headed by Jobyna Raiston, Ralph Yearaley, Eddie Boland and Walter James, takes place "up in them thar hills." As Harold Hickory, youngest son of the biggest man in town, Lloyd creates a character that's slightly reminiscent of "Grandma's Boy."

The actual story starts when a medicine show comes to town. The whole outfit—strong man, "spicler" and dancing girl—arrive at Sheriff Hickory's for a permit. With father's badge on his chest, Harold, under the soulful appeal of the girl's eyes, signs their document.

She Got Rid of Those Two Bad Mornings

Menstruation is a perfectly natural process, but the painful part is NEEDLESS. Long study has absolutely conquered menstrual pain. Science now offers women reliable and complete relief—in a simple, utterly harmless tablet called Midol.

This newest achievement of the laboratory has nothing to do with drastic, habit-forming drugs that kill pain by numbing the whole system! Midol acts directly on the organs affected by menstruation, and nowhere else. Yet relief and absolute comfort come in five to seven minutes!

So, why have a twinge of pain—feel "low" or even uncomfortable? Or take anything to depress the heart or upset the system? All drug stores have Midol in a thin aluminum box that tucks in purse or pocket—for 50 cents.

Aid Members Sew For Hospital

Company A of the Ladies' Aid society of Alice Memorial M. E. church met with a fine attendance of 25 members at the home of Mrs. Frank Cole Wednesday afternoon. PACKED HOUSE FOR OBRECHT FEATURE PLAY

A capacity house greeted the Obrecht Sisters and Johnnie Sullivan company last night and "She Walked in Her Sleep" proved to be a great comedy. Johnnie Sullivan again proved himself the capable comedian he is in the role of Charlie Prescott and easily carried off the honors.

Two splendid vaudeville acts were offered between acts by Nell and Julie Obrecht, playing cornets, and Johnnie Sullivan giving the number of "The Big Parade."

Tonight another comedy, written by Anne Nichols and considered just as funny as her "Able's Irish Rose," will be offered, entitled "Billy."

Detroit's Slugging Overcomes Cleveland, 6 to 5

BENGALS DRIVE UHLE FROM BOX

Five Runs in Seventh Inning Spells Win in Series Opener.

Detroit, April 28 (AP)—Detroit drove George Uhle from the box in the seventh inning, making five runs, and defeated Cleveland in the first game of the series here today, 6 to 5. Four hits, two bases on balls, two sacrifices and two errors figured in Uhle's upsetting inning when the tired Tiger batting order faced him.

Kenneth Holloway started in the box for Detroit but was removed for a pinch hitter while the winning rally was in progress. Earl Whitehill finished the same and had extreme difficulty holding the Tiger lead, yielding two runs in the eighth. Taverner's sparkling double play unassisted nipped a rally in the ninth.

Cleveland started scoring early, batting in two runs before the first batter was retired in the opening frame. Singles by Jamieson and Fonseca and Summa's double produced the brace of failures.

Blue led the way with a double and Warner walked. Neun, batting for Shea also walked, filling the bases. Wingo was called from the bench to bat for Holloway and responded with a single to right, scoring Neun and Warner, and sending Neun to third. Taverner drove the ball to J. Sewell and all runners were safe when Fonseca failed to handle a throw to force Wingo at second. Neun came home on McManus' long fly to McNulty while Wingo and Taverner scored on Manush's single. Fothergill kept the rally going with his third single to left, but Hellmann ended it by hitting into a double play.

Summa, the first man to face Whitehill in the eighth, singled to right, but Burns forced him at second. Whitehill temporarily lost control, walking J. Sewell. Eichrodt batted for McNulty and sent Burns home with a single to center. After L. Sewell hopped to blue, Lutsko singled to center and J. Sewell crossed the plate with Cleveland's last run.

Spurgeon pinch hitting for Jamieson, opened the ninth with a double, but Whitehill fanned Fonseca, and Taverner, taking Summa's liner behind second, beat Spurgeon to the bag for a double play.

HYDROMEL IS STAR ON TRACK

Lowers Track Record in Flashy Race at Lexington.

New York, April 28 (AP)—J. N. Campden's Hydromel, well ridden by Jockey Garner, furnished the major performance in eastern turfdom today with a record-breaking run in the Nicholasville handicap at Lexington.

Outstepping a field of four, Hydromel lowered the track record for a mile and 70 yards by covering the route in 1:42. The winner finished half a length in front of Rolled Stocking, with Buddy Bauer third.

A twenty to one shot scored in the feature race at Jamaica, when J. J. Timmerman's Fine Manners carried off the Highland claiming stakes, a six-furlong sprint for three-year-olds, worth $4200. The Ranocas stable's Grange was second and Ban Block's Norbell third.

Old Kickapoo was heavily played, but dropped out after the first half mile. Fine Manners, following Old Kickapoo's pace at the start, immediately went to the front and closed with a rush under a hustling drive by Jockey Kelsay. The time was 1:15 3-5.

Carrying 125 pounds and the colors of J. E. Griffith, Canter won the Fleetwood handicap at Havre de Grace from a field of five, beating E. N. McLean's Prince of Wales by half a length, with Rolls Royce third. The time for the six furlongs was 1:12 2-5.

Rolls Royce set the pace by a length to the home stretch, when Canter came up fast to win in a driving finish. Blondin, finishing fourth, displayed a burst of speed which indicated he might have won in a few more strides.

Society Observes 200th Anniversary

Philadelphia (AP)—The American Philosophical society, founded by Benjamin Franklin for "the advancement of Useful Knowledge," celebrates its 200th anniversary at its annual meeting here tomorrow. The society, which originated in Franklin's famous "Junto," is the oldest organization of the kind in America.

On its bi-centennial the society is starting a campaign for new quarters to house its priceless possessions. Among these are Thomas Jefferson's draft of the Declaration of Independence, the charter of William Penn, most of Franklin's original papers, Franklin's famous Electrical Machine, and a number of portraits.

Eleven presidents of the United States have been members of the society.

Bouquets by Wire for Dozen Nations

Berlin (AP)—While statesmen of Western Europe are perfecting bonds of peace and taking further steps for the prevention of war, florists have taken up the peace spirit for the promotion of the American "Say-it-with-flowers" idea.

Retailers of more than a dozen nations have signed an agreement for the sending of flowers by telegraph from one to another of several hundred cities, a plan which is conceded would have been unworkable before the war. The European Florists' association has established central offices in Berlin.

New York, April 28 (AP)—Jack Dempsey accepted Tex Rickard's terms for his proposed heavyweight fight with Paulino Uscudin over the long distance telephone today. The former champion also agreed to meet the winner of the Sharkey-Maloney bout, in the event that he disposed of the basque woodchopper.

Rickard declined to name the purse he will post for Dempsey, but boxing men asserted it would reach at least $250,000.

GIANTS DEFEAT BRAVES, 4 TO 3

Roush Leads Attack in Seventh Inning With Home Run.

New York, April 28 (AP)—The Giants took undisputed possession of the National League lead by defeating Boston, 4 to 3, today. Both Barnes and Bob Smith pitched well, but the Giants bunched an extra base attack on Smith in the seventh when Roush hit a homer and Harper and Farrell hit successive doubles. Roush returned to the lineup after being out since last Thursday, due to a "charley horse."

BILLY EVANS SAYS

STAR'S VALUE TO TEAM.
If "Daisy" Vance has a good year, it means much to my young ball club," remarked Manager Wilbert Robinson of Brooklyn to me during the spring-training trip.

"Vance had a poor season in 1926, winning only nine games and losing 10. It's a tough break for a ball club to have the outstanding pitcher of the league show so poorly.

"Ball clubs in a measure are all affected by the play of their star. Let Ruth slump at the bat and the Yankees suffer. When Johnson isn't winning, the Washington club wobbles. In a like manner, Brooklyn missed Vance's winning ways last year.

"The two previous seasons he had won 28 and 22 ball games, which are a lot for a manager to count on. If Vance can pull a comeback, get going again for me, it will bolster the confidence of the entire club."

Remembering Robinson's comment in the south, it struck me that Vance's first start must have been mighty disappointing.

VANCE'S POOR DEBUT.
Working in the first series of the year against the Boston Braves, Vance was touched for seven runs and nine hits in six innings. He retired in the seventh for a pinch hitter.

During his stay on the rubber, Vance struck out only two men, an indication that he didn't have the usual stuff on his fast ball.

Can it be that the great "Daisy" has passed the peak of his game? The experts in National League circles seemed to be of that opinion last year when Vance failed to strike his real stride at any time during the season.

True, Vance is 34 years of age and a majority of pitchers are through at that stage of life. However, Walter Johnson and Grover Cleveland Alexander are still pretty fair twirlers and they have hit the 40 mark.

In a sense, the uncertainty that shrouds Vance's status after only six years in the majors, is a striking tribute to those two remarkable perennial performers, Johnson and Alexander.

TOO MUCH CURVE BALL.
When Vance was going at top speed in 1924, winning 28 games while he dropped but six contests, it was often contended that he was faster than Walter Johnson.

I have worked lack of both pitchers, and while Vance surely had plenty of stuff on the ball, if you are willing to take my word for it, Johnson, when in his prime, back, say about 1912, had considerable more "swift" than Nick Altrock would put it.

Vance developed a better curve than Johnson. He delivered his curve ball with great speed and it was almost unhittable. Incidentally, I always thought he used it to excess. I am inclined to think that too much curve ball has taken much out of Vance's arm.

There is no denying that the curve ball exacts its toll. Any pitcher who has made much use of it during his career will swear to that statement.

Johnson, starting his 21st year, and Alexander his 17th campaign, are apparently no nearer through than Vance in his sixth year.

In justice to Vance, however, it should be stated that he made his major league debut at 30, while Alexander was 24 and Johnson only 20. What does the future hold for Vance and Brooklyn?

Cubs Slug Pirates for 16-4 Victory

Pittsburgh, April 28 (AP)—Seventeen hits plus eight walks and two Pittsburgh errors gave Chicago a 16 to 4 win over the Pirates this afternoon. Fifty-two Cubs faced four Pirate pitchers before the battle ended. Every man in the Chicago lineup collected at least one hit, and all but one scored. Root held the Pirates in check effectively. At bat he had two runs and two hits and in the field he registered three assists.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT.
W. C. Fields, owner of the world's most ridiculous mustache, comes to the Delft today in what is heralded as his funniest comedy, Paramount's "The Pottery." Those who know their comic supplements will immediately recognize this as the name of J. P. McEvoy's weekly howl producer.

As Pa Potter, door mat of the whole Potter tribe, Fields is said to step into an element peculiarly his own—the delineation of familiar American types, liberally sprinkled with those laughs which usually spring up in Mr. Average Citizen's life.

Mary Alden, Ma, torments Pa. to such a degree that he decides to invest all the mortgage money in an oil deal in order to get rich quick. But he learns that gold has to be dug, it doesn't always flow out of the ground. Incidentally, his daughter, Ivy Harris, causes additional trouble by eloping—but it is she who gets home in time to save the day and pay-check. Fred Newmeyer guided the players through the plot's intricacies.

AT THE STRAND.
"The Miracle Dog of the Movies"—otherwise, "Peter the Great" is the bright shining star at the Strand Friday and Saturday when he appears in the new Gotham Production, "The Sign of the Claw."

This picture is stated to be one of the greatest novelties of the season owing to the fact that it is the first photodrama ever made featuring a dog star in which every scene is laid in a big city—all previous dog pictures having had a country atmosphere.

Peter is supported by an all-star cast with Ethel Shannon, Edward Hearn, Lee Shumway and Joe Bennett in important roles.

The action of the plot revolves around a detective who is assigned the dangerous task of capturing some international crooks. He is assisted by his dog, Peter, who plays a most important part in the tracking to earth of the criminals. Peter matches both brain and brawn against the desperadoes—and wins.
