BELIEVE CAL WOULD RUN IF GOP DESIRES

PRESIDENT DOES NOT WANT TO ENCOURAGE NOMINATION

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.

Washington, Oct. 21.—President Coolidge apparently has no intention of accepting the Republican nomination but he does not want to be in the position of having in any way encouraged the movement to draft him.

This is the explanation, which has been made today by many of those who have analyzed the episode in which Senator Fess of Ohio has figured. Mr. Fess insists that the president will be drafted and that he will accept the nomination but wants it understood that his opinion in no way is based upon information given him by the president.

Mr. Coolidge apparently has been worried about only one thing since he made his statement that he did not choose to run in 1928. It is that some people have been saying that he didn't mean it. All efforts to get him to clarify the statement have been met with the same response, namely, that to amplify would mean that he had not been sincere in the first instance.

The Fess interview. When Senator Fess went to Rapid City and talked with Mr. Coolidge, he did not get any more information than any of the other callers who discuss the matter with Mr. Coolidge. The Ohio senator gave out an interview outlining his personal impression. He did the same thing in New York recently. Mr. Coolidge noted both interviews but so long as the public interpreted them as the opinions of Mr. Fess, he was not troubled.

Just as soon as it became apparent that many Republican leaders were regarding the Fess interviews as inspired, Mr. Coolidge thought it about time to call a halt. The good-natured way in which the Ohio senator explained that the president had rebuked him for the interviews is taken to mean that Mr. Coolidge's idea of what should be done between now and the convention differs materially from that of Senator Fess.

Mr. Coolidge desires absolute silence from the members of his cabinet and others known to be close to him. He has reiterated that he prefers not to run for president. But if notwithstanding this silence there arises a spontaneous demand for Mr. Coolidge and the convention actually nominates him, nine out of ten of his friends insist that he will accept unhesitatingly.

They argue that such a spontaneous movement would clearly show that the Republican party and not Mr. Coolidge's ambition would be responsible for the extra term.

Few Democrats Skeptical. There are a few Democrats who have been skeptical about the president's statement ever since he made it, contending that he knew perfectly well that the only way to close the door to the nomination was to say flatly that he would not accept if nominated, especially since it was a foregone conclusion just before he made the statement that his renomination would be almost unanimous.

Somewhat the same line of reasoning is being applied now with respect to the Fess interviews. If Mr. Coolidge did not intend to accept the nomination, he could wait until it was apparent that a movement to draft him was going to be made. While there has been a good deal of talk about drafting Mr. Coolidge, no organized effort in that direction has been launched.

The assumption is that the president has left the door open to individuals to express all the opinions they wish and to get control of their delegations for Coolidge if they desire but the president will have absolutely nothing to do with it. In other words, if he is to be drafted it must be in every sense a spontaneous and un-inspired action of the Republican party—otherwise the Democrats will make an issue of the president's alleged inconsistency.

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The increasing momentum of politics was evident around the White House again today when one of President Coolidge's callers provoked inquiry as to whether he was announcing his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination and another ran the risk of receiving an executive scolding by declaring that he expected Mr. Coolidge to be drafted next year.

Leaving the president's private office, where he declared politics had been discussed, Senator Willis, of Ohio, issued a long statement, expressing his views on virtually every issue of interest to the country. Replying to a question from

CARDINAL O'DONNELL

IRISH PEOPLE MOURN DEATH OF CARDINAL O'DONNELL, PRIMATE OF IRELAND, DIES AT AGE OF 71

Carlingsford, Irish Free State, Oct. 22.—(AP)—All Ireland, north and south, is plunged in grief and mourning by the death of Patrick Cardinal O'Donnell, primate of Ireland since 1925 when he succeeded the late Cardinal Logue.

Cardinal O'Donnell died here today after an illness of several weeks which developed into pneumonia. He was 71 years of age.

Windows are shuttered and all the houses and blinds drawn and the dismal day, with a continuous downpour, seemed the proper setting for the sad event. So many messages of condolence have been received that the postoffice staff had to be increased to handle them. Gov. Gen. Timothy Healy wired:

"I am stunned by the news, which will effect all Ireland." The Duke of Abercrombie, governor of northern Ireland, and Viscount Craigavon, the northern premier, also telegraphed his regrets and sympathy.

Bonfires blazed on the hills of Donegal on the night of December 14, 1926; they marked the elevation on that day to the cardinalate of Monsignor Patrick O'Donnell, archbishop of Armagh, who from a Donegal cottage had arisen to the rank of primate of the church. He succeeded Cardinal Logue who died in 1924.

The history of his family was for years the history of Donegal, from the thirteenth to the seventeenth centuries, the O'Donnells ruled in Donegal and no other princely Gaelic house produced as many able men. Cardinal O'Donnell was born in Killybegs, Donegal, county Donegal, in 1856. For some years he was the youngest bishop in the church, having been appointed bishop of Raphoe by Pope Leo XIII when he was 32. He had previously been a professor of theology in St. Patrick's college, Maynooth.

Cardinal O'Donnell was an ardent supporter of the home rule movement and the trusted adviser of the Irish parliamentary leaders from Parnell to Redmond. Conciliatory in method, with wide economic and financial knowledge, he was an important force in Irish politics.

Other contributions were made by Lord Alfred Tennyson, William E. Gladstone, and Thomas Carlyle.

Parts of Count's Plane Are Found in St. Lawrence

Quebec, Que., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Fears for the safety of Count Jacques de Lesseps, veteran aviator, missing with his mechanic since they took off on a survey flight Tuesday, were increased tonight with finding of parts of his hydroplane in the midst of the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

The main portion of Lesseps' plane was found on the beach at St. Felicitas last night. Other parts were found nearby. Officials of the department of land and fisheries said that a study of the parts revealed that the plane must have been travelling at full speed when it struck the water. The wings and the rudder were stripped off the body and were found some distance away.

There was hope that the two aviators were able to reach land in a parachute. Search parties have been sent up the coast.

FALL'S PLAN IS MATTER OF SPECULATION

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A long drawn-out and bitter legal battle, with Albert B. Fall's possible course a matter of wide speculation, is developing in the oil conspiracy trial in the District of Columbia supreme court.

Those following the hearing growing out of the lease of Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair would not be surprised if Fall should undertake another dramatic move such as that in midweek when he appealed to Justice Sidesons to admit evidence which he said was "vital" to his defense.

Whether Fall will elect to take the witness stand irrespective of advice of his counsel is one question generally discussed. Counsel for the former interior secretary declare that the question of their client testifying has not been determined.

Fall, who is in poor health, has been nervous since the beginning of the trial, last Monday, and has had apparent difficulty in sitting quietly through the sharp encounters between counsel and the hearing of testimony.

Want Defendants on Stand. Sinclair's demeanor has been in rather sharp contrast. He has displayed little nervousness, and has followed every move in the case with the greatest attention, and frequently has offered suggestions to his counsel. He has not decided whether he will take the stand.

Government oil counsel hope to force both of the defendants to the witness chair and with that end in view they have been successful in excluding on cross-examination evidence which they hold Fall is the most competent person to give to the court and to the two women and ten men on the jury. Thus far only a small number of the army of witnesses the government has summoned has taken the stand it may be ten days or two weeks before the presentation of the prosecution's case is concluded. The defense will call two score or more witnesses after the government rests.

Upon the resumption of the trial Monday, Justice Sidesons is expected to hand down one of the most important decisions he will be called upon to render during the trial—whether the government is to testify before the jury portions of the testimony which Sinclair and Fall gave before the senate oil investigating committee.

U. S. Government Will Not Recognize Emiliano Chamorro

Washington, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Formal warning has been given to Emiliano Chamorro, former president of Nicaragua, that in the event he should be elected president at the coming Nicaraguan general elections, he would not be recognized by the United States.

The warning was contained in a communication handed to General Chamorro when he called today at the state department. It states that he would be ineligible for the presidency under provisions of the Nicaraguan constitution which prohibited re-election of an incumbent and that the United States has no choice but to point out that fact.

Woman Murders Three; Then Takes Own Life

Gloversville, N. Y., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A murder and suicide, according to the coroner's verdict was discovered at Mayfield, five miles south of here tonight when neighbors broke into the house of Charles Knapp and discovered the four members of the family shot to death.

The coroner announced his decision that Mrs. Knapp shot the others and then committed suicide. The dead: Charles Knapp, 28; his wife, 28; Doris Miller, her sister, 12; Marjorie, adopted daughter, 4.

All of the bodies were found in bed on the second floor of the Knapp home. The Miller child was alone in a back bedroom and a doll clasped in her arms. The other three were in a front room, one of Knapp's arms about the baby and the other grasping the back of the bed. It was believed they died last night.

According to the verdict of Coroner Walter Grunewald, Mrs. Knapp did the shooting with a .22 long calibre rifle. Doris was shot through the right temple, the husband and baby through the left temple.

After firing the three fatal shots, according to the coroner's verdict, Mrs. Knapp got into bed beside her husband, laid the rifle on an adjoining cot, the muzzle against her side and shot herself through the heart.

A letter was found written by Mrs. Knapp and addressed to her grandmother, Mrs. Charles Tyrrell, who lives near Northville. In it she said that "Charles wants me to write you and tell you how sorry we all are that we are doing this."

Wives of Strikers Fight With Pickets in Colorado Mines

Walsenburg, Colo., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Standing shoulder to shoulder with their menfolk, women enrolled under the blazing red banner of the L. W. W., have added a new spirit of militancy to the coal strike in southern Colorado.

Activities of the women in furthering the strike cause reached a climax today when 10 women advanced on a group of 12 mounted and armed guards at the Ideal mine of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, hurling stones and urging the guards to "start something." The women were arrested, along with 30 pickets, who remained behind in motor cars while the amazons took the offensive. The mine guards ignored the attack.

Sixteen women in all were arrested in the district during the morning. The Huerfano county jail which has accommodations for 25 prisoners, held 55 strikers, arrested for picketing.

NEW STADIUM 'JINX' OUSTED BY MICHIGAN

GILBERT AND OOSTERBAAN LEAD ATTACK

Ann Arbor, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The gifted toe of Louis Gilbert, and the great arm of "Bennie" Oosterbaan, All-American end and Michigan captain, drove the "dedication jinx" from Michigan's great stadium today while more than 86,000 wildly enthusiastic rooters saw Michigan turn back the Ohio State assault to win 21 to 0.

The greatest crowd that ever witnessed a game here and the greatest in the history of the state, including the presidents of the two state universities and the governors of Ohio and Michigan cheered and groaned from boxes and stands that were jammed to capacity. It was the final opening of the new stadium and the fifth time Michigan has helped to dedicate a football bowl without defeat.

Three times during the game, a pass, Oosterbaan to Gilbert, placed the ball across Ohio's goal line. Three times Gilbert's toe lifted the ball across the bars for the extra points, and three times the Wolverines' powerful line and alert secondary defense turned back the assault of Coach Wilce's first, hard-hitting backs. In the first period, Ohio's feet backs with pass and off-tackle spurts placed the ball deep in Michigan's territory only to lose their scoring chance when Marek's place kick went wild of the goal. Twice the final period the Buckeye's threatened advancing as far as the three-yard line once, only to be turned back when the Michigan defense stiffened. Each time Gilbert's sure foot booted the ball far down the field and out of danger.

Eby Stars. Fielding H. Yost, Michigan's greatest of coaches, now relegated to the duties of a director of athletics, from a box watched "his boys" playing a strong, and at times brilliant game, outwit the Ohio secondary defense to score on passes when Ohio line refused to give.

The neat Eby of Ohio gave the Michigan rooters a genuine scare in the final period when returning to the game after an injury, he broke loose for long gains, accepting passes and contributing largely to the attack which placed the ball on Michigan's 5-yard line. Here Michigan knocked down passes to take the ball on downs. Again in the same period the ball lay on Michigan's 3-yard line, but the Wolverines were in possession and ready to kick when the game ended.

The Wolverine machine which until today had disclosed little in the way of offense, uncovered an attack which Ohio could not fathom. Bennie Oosterbaan, whose rightful position is at left flank, dropped back again and again to plunge into the line and then of another play heave the ball. Three of these passes were needed in Gilbert's arms while, he ran, stumbled or fell over the goal line. The last score came in the final period on a lateral pass Oosterbaan to Gilbert, with Gilbert receiving but inches from the goal line.

For open-field attack, Ohio excelled, as was predicted, the feet backs, Marek, Grim, Huston and Eby breaking away surprisingly only to lose their advantage when Gilbert's punts sent the ball deep into Ohio territory.

FIND VICTORIA AIDED LIBRARY

Chicago, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A committee named by Mayor Thompson to make a search of the Chicago public library for traces of the British lion reposing in the far recesses of its forest of stacks, today learned with considerable surprise that Queen Victoria helped to found the library after the fire of 1871.

The committee, headed by U. J. "Sport" Hermann, has been asked to look through history texts in the library to discover if they contain anti-American or pro-British statements and today it was learned that after the disastrous Chicago fire English contributors sent 7,000 volumes to Chicago to start a new library. Some of those old volumes still remain in the library and in one of them Queen Victoria wrote: "Presented to the city of Chicago toward the formation of a public library after the fire of 1871 as a mark of English sympathy, by Her Majesty, Queen Victoria."

Other contributions were made by Lord Alfred Tennyson, William E. Gladstone, and Thomas Carlyle.

It was reported that the four kidnaped persons are being held for ransom. Those kidnaped were Mr. and Mrs. Yves Steeg, nephew and niece of the resident general, and Mr. and Mrs. Jean Maillet who are distantly related to him. It is believed that they have been carried into the mountains.

Unemployment Gaining Says Roger W. Babson

Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 21, 1927: Roger W. Babson in his weekly interview this week, discussed employment conditions. Mr. Babson has some considerable trouble to check up on this situation owing to so many conflicting statements. His statement is based upon reports received directly from Chambers of Commerce.

Building Trades Slackening

"As will be seen from the statistics which I will later submit, there has been a general slackening of employment during the past few months. This does not mean that there is much unemployment as yet, but rather that the pressure for workers has been removed. For the first time for several years, employers are able to pick and choose and in many instances, to dictate terms. With the exception of Detroit and a few other cities, there is no general distress. Wage workers, however, who are thinking of moving from one city to another, or giving up a job before getting another, should look the matter up very carefully before making any move.

"Outside of the cities to which I refer above, the principal slackening of employment is in connection with the building trades. Although road building and other public construction is progressing at a rapid rate, which holds up the building statistics, there has been considerable decline in general building; especially hotels, apartment houses and large homes. On the other hand, there is a good seasonable demand for unskilled labor in the farming sections, especially in the northwest. The recent cyclone in St. Louis has quickened the demand for labor in that city. As very few factories were seriously harmed, the cyclone has caused no unemployment, while the clearing up of the debris and rebuilding have developed a sharp demand for labor.

Cities Favoring Skilled Workers

"Out of fifty-seven representative cities throughout the United States, and in which I have been able to make a personal investigation during the past few weeks, only seven suggest the employment situation as good, against thirty-three with fair employment possibilities and seventeen cities in which employment is poor at this time. The country is not without some cities which claim conditions favorable both to unskilled and skilled workers at this time. Such representative cities, for instance, as Chester (Pennsylvania), Jackson (Mississippi) and Charleston (West Virginia) consider that the chances of employment for new people coming to their cities at this time are excellent. Few Chambers of Commerce appear to be as optimistic upon the subject, just now, as do those of these three cities.

"On the other hand, my investigation shows more cities favorable to skilled workers than to unskilled workers at the present time. In the east, I find that such cities as New Haven (Connecticut), Wilmington (Delaware), and Trenton (New Jersey), are favorable to skilled workers, whereas such places as Lancaster and Pittsburgh (Pennsylvania) lean toward unskilled workers. In the south, I find Beaumont (Texas) showing up well in favor of skilled workers, while Savannah (Georgia), Knoxville (Tennessee) and Winston-Salem (North Carolina) are inclining toward unskilled workers at this time. As one travels more westward, it is apparent that places such as Fort Wayne (Indiana), Lansing (Michigan) and general business holds normal, and as long as employment holds normal, general business should hold normal. One is the lock and the other is the key; one is the hatchet and the other is the handle; they both must go together. At present general business, as registered by the Babsonchart, is close to normal and this is a fair statement as to the exact status of the employment situation."

German economists say the prosperity peak of the country has been passed.

Moston, Mass., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Beneficiaries in the will of Quincy A. Shaw, who died in 1908, are entitled to the entire amount of money received as dividends in Calumet and Hecla and Calumet and Hecla consolidated stock instead of part of it being held on the estate, according to a decision of the full bench of the supreme court here today.

The decision also awards the beneficiaries $133,172 received from Calumet and Hecla and Osceola as adjustment of capital when the two consolidated. The trustees to whom the decision was addressed are the Old Colony Trust company, Robert F. Herick and Paulin Shaw Fenno. Six beneficiaries profit by the decision.

newspaper man as to whether it amounted to an announcement of presidential aspirations on his part, remarked "the statement speaks for itself," and declined to be drawn out.

Thinks Cal Meant It

The caller who, as he described placed himself "in that class of spirits personified by Senator Ross" was Henry J. Allen, former governor of Kansas, who, when he told Mr. Coolidge that he expected to be drafted by the Republicans next year, received this laconic reply:

"How are farm conditions in Kansas?"

Senator Fess, of Ohio, was asked several days ago by the president for repeated predictions that Coolidge would be drafted.

The former Kansas governor declared that he believed the president entirely sincere when he issued his "do not choose" declaration but added that some time in a man's life the time comes when he must discriminate between his personal wishes and the call of his country.

Senator Willis, except to hand at his statement, declined to be drawn into any political discussion.

Ludington Man Is Sent to Ionia on Burglary Charges

OPEN BIDS FOR GRADING US-41

Dangerous Crossings Near Menominee to Be Eliminated.

Menominee—Of the 13 bids for grading and drainage structures of three and one-quarter miles of new highway on US-41, from the Eagle's Nest crossing north to the Hanson crossing, opened Friday morning at the Escanaba office of H. L. Davies, division engineer of the state highway department, the bid of Benzie & Son, Norway contractors, was low at $44,498.20. Eleven of the 13 bids received on the work ranged between $45,000 and $50,000; G. P. Scharl of Grand Rapids being high bidder with an estimate of $75,451.02.

All 13 bids received were approved as in order by Engineer Davies and will be forwarded to the state highway department at Lansing, where the contract will be awarded. The bid of Benzie & Son, which approximates $14,000 a mile for grading and drainage structures on the projected highway, was considered very reasonable by Engineer Davies, in view of the amount of fill required to establish the desired grade and the length of the haul.

To Start Soon.

The figures submitted to the highway department are based on the immediate starting of work and continuing until the weather forbids. Among the bids submitted were two by Menominee contractors; one by Carlson & Lundin for $52,905.45, and the other by John Dolsky of Daggett, for $65,000. Supt. Frank L. Betts and Louis Nadeau of the Menominee county road commission were present at the reading of bids Friday.

Prompt action by the state highway department in awarding the contract for the grading work will allow completion of that work in time to permit the letting of a contract for the concrete paving next summer, in the opinion of Engineer Davies.

Completion and opening of the new road will effect the elimination of two dangerous railroad crossings in highway US-41, which have already cost at least ten lives and taken a heavy toll of injuries in grade crossing accidents. Elimination of the Eagle's Nest and Hanson crossings will allow motorists to traverse the 22 miles between Menominee and Sibley without crossing a railroad track. When the road which the new highway will replace was constructed the plan to build it on the new right-of-way was abandoned because of the cost entailed in establishing a suitable grade level.

Gold in Capital Grounds

Discovery of gold in the grounds of the new capital at Canberra, Australia, has raised the question of how to mine it. Government officials declare that as the land is held under lease, which conveys no right to work underground and there is no mining ordinance, the government has no provision under which approval can be given to mining in the territory.

The BENSON MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE

CHAPTER XXXIV

Markham had listened attentively to Vance's summary. He now sat in rapt silence gazing down at the desk.

"I think I'll take your advice," answered Markham slowly, after several minutes' reflection.

"There's another thing I wish you'd do for me," said Vance, when the other had finished telephoning.

"Plyfe was in; and Markham requested him to come at once to the office."

"Seems silly, doesn't it?" Vance went on blithely. "But you put such faith in alibis—though they do prove disappointin' at times, what? There's Leacock, for instance, if that hall-boy had told Heath to toddle along and sell his violets, you couldn't do a blessed thing to the Captain."

"Plyfe and the Captain were at Benson's; and they're about the only ones whose whereabouts you've looked into. Maybe there were others hovering around Alvin that night. There may have been a crush of friends and acquaintances on hand—a regular soiree, y' know. Then again, checking up on all these people will supply the desolate Sergeant with something to take his mind off his sorrows."

Markham knew, as well as I, that Vance would not have made a suggestion of this kind unless actuated by some serious motive; and for several moments he studied the other's face intently, as if trying to read his reason for this unexpected request.

"Who, specifically," he asked, "is included in your 'everyone'?" He took up his pencil and held it poised above a sheet of paper.

"No one is to be left out," replied Vance. "Put down Miss St. Clair—Captain Leacock—the Major—Plyfe—Miss Hoffman—"

"Everyone! Have you Miss Hoffman? Now jot down Colonel Ostrander—"

"Look here!" cut in Markham. "and I may have one or two others for you later. But that will do nicely for the beginning."

Before Markham could protest further, Swacker came in to say the Heath was waiting outside.

"What about our friend Leacock, sir?" was the Sergeant's first question.

"I'm holding that up for a day or so," explained Markham. "I want to have another talk with Plyfe before I do anything definite." And he told Heath about the visit of Major Benson and Miss Hoffman.

Heath inspected the envelope and its enclosures, and then handed them back to Markham.

"I don't see anything in that," he said. "It looks to me like a private deal between Benson and this fellow Plyfe—Leacock's our man; and the sooner I get him locked up, the better I'll feel."

"That may be tomorrow," Markham encouraged him. "So don't feel downcast over this little delay. You're keeping the Captain under surveillance, aren't you?"

"I'll say so," grinned Heath. Vance turned to Markham.

"What about that list of names you made out for the Sergeant?" he asked ingenuously. "I understand you to say something about alibis."

Markham hesitated, frowning. Then he handed Heath the paper containing the names Vance had called off to him.

"As a matter of caution, Sergeant," he said morosely. "I wish you'd get me the alibis of all these people on the night of the murder. It may bring something contributory to light. Verify those you already know, such as Plyfe's; and let me have the reports as soon as you can."

When Heath had gone Markham turned a look of angry exasperation upon Vance.

Markham brusquely. "It seems you have a little more explaining to do."

"Taking out the manilla envelope," he laid its contents on the desk where the other could see them.

"Will you be so good as to tell me about these?"

"With the greatest pleasure," said Plyfe; but his voice had lost its assurance. Some of his poise, too, had deserted him, and as he paused to light a cigaret I detected a slight nervousness in the way he manipulated his gold match-safe.

2 Hunters Leave Deer Behind When Leisner Appears

The arrest of two men, who shot a deer Thursday night near Bark River, but who escaped into the woods when they were confronted by District Game Warden Herman Leisner, is expected to be made shortly.

The two hunters left behind a small truck containing the deer. On the truck was a coat, in which were a valuable fish reel, fish line and other articles. A Selberling cord tire, 30 by 3 1/2, with the serial numbers cut off, was also in the truck.

Sheriff Elmer Swanson is of the opinion that the goods were stolen from some cottage. Anyone who is missing articles resembling these found, is asked to notify Sheriff Swanson.

Warden Leisner had started proceedings to confiscate the automobile, which was used for transporting the carcass of a deer, illegally killed. The deer has been given to the sanitarium at Powers.

"Whom Shall I Marry" Hubbard's Sermon Tonight

People today are told not to get divorced, but almost nothing is said on how to get married, and because of this situation, which is becoming increasingly alarming, Rev. John B. Hubbard will give a sermon in the First Presbyterian church tonight at 7:30, on the subject, "Whom Shall I Marry?"

During the course of the sermon the following four questions will be asked and answered: Will he qualify as a husband? Will she qualify as a wife? On how much can we get married? What are the vows to be taken?

The new chorus choir of more than fifteen girls will sing a special number.

Talks on Health

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

PASTEURIZATION OF MILK BRINGS GREAT BENEFIT

Since the introduction of pasteurization of milk, the number of cases of typhoid fever, septic sore throat, scarlet fever and diphtheria, which used to result from infected milk, have largely decreased.

Today few cities suffer greatly with infectious diseases due to contaminated milk. The recent experience of Montreal is a reflection of what serious harm may result when vigilance is temporarily relaxed in the control of milk supply.

During the same period of time that attention has been given to milk, water supplies have been improved through chlorination and filtration.

Constant Vigilance

Studies recently made in various communities have shown that it is necessary to be eternally vigilant in watching the operation of pasteurizing plants. The whole idea in pasteurizing is to heat all of the milk sufficiently to kill such germs as it may contain.

Sometimes pasteurizing machines have mechanical defects in the way of dead ends, leaky valves or unsatisfactory thermometers, so that some portions of the milk may fail to be properly heated.

The Chicago department of health recently has conducted some studies on the subject. Their investigations show that the temperature necessary to pasteurize milk safely is not far removed from the amount of heat that will destroy the "cream line" and injure the marketing value of the milk.

Investigations have shown that temperatures from 142 to 143 F. will kill the germs, provided all of the milk is submitted for a period of 30 minutes to such a temperature.

This temperature is not sufficient to ruin the "cream line." On the other hand, emphasis must again be placed on the point that all of the milk must be submitted to this temperature for the entire 30-minute period.

Effect on Milk

Pasteurization of milk does not injuriously affect its taste, appearance or digestibility. Such harm as it may do to the vitamin content of the milk can be made up by supplying the infant or the adult with a sufficient amount of orange juice or tomato juice.

It is impossible to estimate the vast amount of good that has been done in the prevention of communicable diseases by the establishment of pasteurization.

SOCIAL

Juvenile Party.

Master Donald Frederickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Frederickson, 315 South Thirteenth street, was host to 20 friends recently when he celebrated his ninth birthday anniversary at the parental home.

The usual children's games were played and a delicious lunch was served at tables which were artistically decorated in rose color and green crepe tissue paper. The place cards and favors were of corresponding shade and Donald received many pretty gifts from his little friends.

NEW JEWELRY.

Jeweled heels are the latest in modern jewelry. Precious stones are set in a traced frame work of platinum on the heels of silver or gold brocaded slippers.

BY THE NEA BOOK SURVEY

There are comparatively few books published in English that deal at all adequately for un-derstanding with the German lyricist, Heine. Lewis Browne's book, "That Man Heine" (Macmillan), is a new and valuable one.

Here, indeed, is a worthy subject for biography—a pitiful specimen of maladjustment—a man without a country.

Born of Jewish parents, in a German city in the early nineteenth century when anti-Semitic prejudice was at its height; fleeing to Paris, where he found himself as a poet, living always in a world of dreams and fancy—Heinrich Heine is a tragic figure in literary history.

Emotionally he was ill-balanced. He was licentious. He was low. He was not discriminating. Yet he always was the victim, never the conqueror. One moment a maudlin sentimentalist, he was hopelessly pessimistic the next. He dramatized, he stormed, he raged, he broke down and wept, according to his mood. In other words, he behaved as a poet is supposed to.

Yet some of his loveliest poems were written to his casual acquaintances of a night, and crystallized the moods that most tortured his soul.

Browne has taken the lamp of psychology to illumine the man and account for the obvious inconsistencies. He sets about to explain what once seemed quite inexplicable. Sympathetically and almost tenderly he goes back into the boy's earliest years and traces the influences to the days when he was a paralytic old man.

He shows how though Heine was essentially weak, he could rise superbly above himself. With this seriousness and thoroughness of a criminal lawyer he examines much evidence, follows many clues that seemed to lead nowhere and builds up a strong case for a man who was doomed to be a failure at life but a genius in letters.

In a year when biographies are more popular than romances, "That Man Heine" stands out as a consistent, keenly interesting portrait that was well worth writing.

A book that fell flat upon its first appearance and is being republished in a more auspicious day is "John MacDonald, Memoirs of an XVIIIth Century Footman" (Harpers). Eighteenth century England was not interested in what came from so humble a pen as that of a mere footman. This was really England's loss for the debonair footman had many conquests among the fair, and was quite a shik—but "al-ways discreet, as befits a gentleman's man." From the kitchen to the boudoir, he made his cautious way until dalliance led him to the matrimonial altar—and silenced him. It is an interesting chronicle of the life of the day.

Benjamin Franklin, it appears was a letter writer of parts as well as an inventor. His correspondence with Polly Stevenson and Cathrine and Georgiana Shipley has been edited into a sizeable volume, "My Dear Girl" (Doran). Many of the letters never have been published before. They reveal a kindly, human side of Franklin and show that the women of nearly two centuries ago were very modern in their interest in science and history—and in life.

Essay-Writing known to be highly unprofitable, is being neglected in this day and hence "Stuffed Peacocks" by Emily Clark (Knopf) is welcome. She writes most charmingly of Richmond, her native city and her home, more of characters and scenes that survive in the Old Dominion of today.

GAMING FORGERS CAUGHT.

Two men who came near breaking the bank in the Kursaal at Ostend ended their streak of luck in jail. The croupier became suspicious when an unusual number of 500-franc counters appeared on the table. One of the counters was examined and proved to be false. The two players were arrested and found to be in possession of 30,000 francs worth of the forged counters, while in their lodgings were found more, representing 200,000 francs.

STILL HOARDING GOLD.

Paris—Nothing happened when the French government passed a law forbidding the hoarding of gold and silver, but when it offered to exchange paper money for coin at the rate of four to one, the rush was heavy. France needs the cash to strengthen its currency and the money has been streaming in for nearly a year.

Bothered With Headaches?

Many are. Some have headaches from one cause, some from another. A very common cause is eye strain. Probably it causes more headaches than any other one cause. Here is good news—where headaches are caused by eye strain the headaches vanish when the eye strain is removed. Glasses do that in many cases. We supply them.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE) The clay house that the Tinies made was fine, and they were not afraid to crawl inside and play around. 'Twas safe as safe could be. We'll make it snug so we can sleep real at night." "A great idea!" said all the bunch. "We're mighty glad you had that hunch," they all began to run for grass soon were out of sight. The grass was found, and they came. "Oh, my," said one, "it's a shame we haven't seen the grass before. And, as the ground is so cold." Then Coppy was a goat.

MISS AMERICA IS A HOME GIRL, TOO

Does housework—spoil one's beauty.

Does the steam from the dishes make large pores in one's face and redden the hands, making them hard and scatchy after they've dried?

Does dusting and all that detract from one's poise, eclat, personality, or whatever you call it? Maybe it does, but Miss America doesn't think so.

Lola Eleanor Delander, the 16-year-old (Joliet Ill.) girl chosen from among hundreds of beauties at Atlantic City this fall as the queen of pulchritude, helps her mother with the housework when she's at home and thinks nothing of it.

Here she is shown with her mother at the cookstove, then polishing the piano, then washing the dinner dishes. She keeps busy around the house and likes it.

Rather than detracting from her beauty, Miss Delander thinks it adds.

GENE PLANS CAREER HE "WILDCATS" ON SEA'S FLOOR FOR WORLD'S FUTURE OIL SUPPLY

Ambition Soars High; Title Only a Stepping Stone

BY ALLENE SUMNER
NEA Service Writer

Cleveland, O.—Some day, James Joseph Tunney, champion heavyweight fighter of the world, wants to doff his white cotton ring shorts for the satin knee breeches worn at the Court of St. James.

This does not mean that the heavyweight champion of the world has a wild hankering to be presented at the court. Rather, he hopes to do a little presenting himself in the role of U. S. ambassador to the court of Britain.

Gene Tunney, the Adonis, Beau Brummel, Lord Chesterfield, Euripides, Shakespeare and Whom Have You of the prize-ring, would exchange his right to the title for which most of the masculine world would sell its soul for a "more dignified and lasting title," senator, ambassador, statesman, senator, named archaeologist, or a name-bearing financial wizard.

Unbruised and unscratched from his fight with Jack Dempsey, Tunney, resting in a millionaire's palatial estate in this city, left his book long enough to tell what it really means to him to be world's heavyweight champion; what he plans with his title, and what he hopes for.

An Horatio Alger Hero.
Listening to Gene Tunney, one wonders if he can be real or if one is an Horatio Alger hero come to life—an ambitious boy "willing to do anything for the sake of my future."

"Boxing can never be my life work or profession," says Tunney. "It's just a good job—a business—into which circumstances drew me. I am not a prize fighter from real inclination; things just broke that way. I was offered a million-dollar job—a job for which I never really planned or prepared. But if I can hold the job, wouldn't I or anyone be foolish to turn down an opportunity to put one on one's feet and leave one in a position to put through almost any life program?"

There, in a nutshell, you have it! Gene Tunney will "earn his pile" and then begin to do the job he really wants to do.

Gene Tunney is no born fighter like Jack Dempsey—a fighter to whom the smell of resin is meat and drink—a fighter who would rather fight than be president.

In fact, one gathers that both "boxing" and his title are distasteful. If anything, to Gene Tunney, wizard of boxers; that he is merely counting time until his "pile" is ready and he can be the power he wants to be.

Gene kicked his bedroom-slippered feet a bit impatiently when pressed for an exact description of his future life.

"Something gentlemanly, scholarly, and powerful," he said. "Some sphere where money counts for real constructive work."

Gene's sidekick and friend empowered with all rights of attorney, Eddie Egan of Yale, Oxford, and other scholastic corridors, elaborated where Gene's modesty forbade.

"I think Gene would make either a great ambassador or financial power," he said. "He has poise, tact, and the assurance that his title naturally gives him."

Gene has his next five years as carefully scheduled and planned as a great actress.

"I will box until I am 35," he says. "I will leave before I am defeated. Nobody will have beaten

Gene Tunney, in bathrobe and slippers, lolls at ease on the lawn of the palatial estate of Leonard Hanna, at Cleveland, and considers the future.

me in that time. By that time I will be ready for a job of my own selection—not one which is the outcome of circumstances."

One gathers that whatever that job is, Gene Tunney, world heavyweight champion, expects to be just as important out of the ring as in.

A senatorship, a governorship, an ambassadorship, even the presidency fall within the scope of his ambitions.

Getting Friends Lined Up.
"A man is successful in proportion to the number of people who know him and are for him," Eddie Egan explains. "Gene says that no man is so well known or has such loyal followers as a boxing champion. When he's ready for his big job outside the ring he'll have his crowd all lined up plugging for him."

Tunney's stay at the Leonard Hanna estate near Cleveland is but a sample of the invitations before him.

"He doesn't exactly want to be a society lion," explained the boy friend, Eddie Egan, "but he does like to be in the best homes, and with the best people!"

Gene Tunney at rest is as unlike a Goliath of the ring as one could well imagine. He sat in a wicker chair, a long, loose dressing gown, and checked, felt-trimmed bedroom slippers. He might have been posing for a "when the man of the house rests" ad.

"But I don't really need rest at all!" he protests.

HE "WILDCATS" ON SEA'S FLOOR FOR WORLD'S FUTURE OIL SUPPLY

SAYS OCEAN'S BOTTOM WILL REPLACE PRESENT FIELDS

By NEA Service.

La Jolla, Calif.—From the floor of oceans America may get its future oil supply. Hidden in the depths scientists may find the "black gold" which in future years will propel automobiles, light homes and turn the wheels of progress.

Out where waves roll and small boats toss, Dr. Parker D. Trask, research associate for the American Petroleum Institute, the oil companies' organization which makes new discoveries and gives them to the world, sends down his brass and iron samplers for sections of the mud at the bottom.

He analyzes these sediments in his laboratory, distills them for such oil as they may contain and makes such other observations as he may.

Why the Sea Has Oil.
Why does the mud at the bottom of the sea offer an opportunity for profitable study and why may it point the way to new and dependable oil sources?

Because present oil fields are largely marine in origin and present oil supplies come from porous rock laid down under conditions approximating those of today.

Thus marine processes which may be observed from day to day may hold the key to treasure boxes of a liquid which it takes millions of years for nature to manufacture and which is rapidly being depleted. Even now, oil companies report an overproduction, which necessarily brings the end that much closer.

Dr. Trask, graduate of the Universities of California and Texas, works with or under Dr. W. Van der Graht, Dr. T. Wayland Vaughan and Dr. Austin H. Clark of the Smithsonian Institution.

For the practical part of his work, he sets out in a small boat and sends to the bottom of the ocean samplers to catch up cross-sections of mud.

Testing the Ooze.
In waters up to 20 feet deep, he uses his modification of a peat sampler. This he pushes into the mud up to a depth of 25 feet. It consists of a brass tube and brass plunger fixed to the end of a long steel pipe. When hauled to the surface, the mud is expelled into a tin container for later distillation.

In deeper waters, up to 2000 feet, he drops a heavier sampler in a cable. The sampler's own weight sends its sharp nose into the ooze, which later is treated just like that taken in shallow depths.

What have been the results? Oil has been found in the ocean!

That should not be taken too literally, however, for what really happens, in Dr. Trask's opinion, is this: a chemical rearrangement takes place during high-temperature distillation which produces oil.

In that, it is like the production of oil from oil shale.

The temperature of formation of the oil ranged from 250 to 575 degrees Centigrade," Dr. Trask reports, "a range comparable to the production of oil from oil shale. The temperature of initial oil production varied widely in the 45 different samples taken, but in the sands was constantly 100 degrees higher than the average for the clays and silts, which was 350 degrees Centigrade."

By the time Dr. Trask completes his reconnoitering trips he will have studied the floors of the Atlantic and Pacific along United States shores, the Gulfs of Mexico and California and Hudson's Bay.

When he finds the area that gives up the highest return of oil per ton of sediment, then that area will be studied in detail.

In the meantime he continues his researches, uncovering here and there stray bits of important scientific information not germane to the principal inquiry but significant in themselves. And in the end he hopes to help the geologist who would find new fields of oil for the world's comfort.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington.—National attention recently was focused on the situation which the Coast Guard confronts in Florida waters when a captured rum-runner turned on his captors at sea and killed three of them before he was subdued.

The daring of such smuggling desperadoes as this one is breathtaking.

An official report to headquarters here by an intelligence officer described the encounter as "one of the most dramatic sea fights in the history of the Coast Guard."

In a 40-foot launch, it was narrated, Horace "Tommy" Alderman left Miami Saturday night, August 6, with Robert E. Weech as engineer and assistant master. Sunday morning he arrived at Bimini and loaded up with liquor.

Shot Stops Engine.
At 1 p. m. Sunday Alderman sighted Coast Guard patrol boat 249. A rifle shot was fired across his bow. He stopped his engine.

The CG-249, the investigator explained, was headed for Bimini with Secret Service Agent Robert K. Webster aboard as a passenger. It was commanded by Boatswain S. C. Sanderlin and manned by Boatswain's Mate L. F. Tuten, Boatswain's Mate John A. Robinson, Machinist's Mates Frank Lehman and Victor A. Lamby, and Seaman H. M. Caudle and J. L. Hollingsworth.

She approached the rum-runner and made fast. Sanderlin boarded Alderman's boat and searched Alderman and Weech for arms. He then entered the forward hatch and Tuten sent Lehman and Hollingsworth to pass the sacks of liquor over to the 249.

Meanwhile, it appeared, Alderman surreptitiously armed himself. At any rate he was taken on board the 249 by Sanderlin, who entered the pilot house and called the patrol boat base ashore by radio, while Robinson, Caudle and Webster boarded the "rummy."

"The action then started," related the investigator.

"Alderman shoots Sanderlin once in the back, killing him almost instantly. The radio message stops abruptly. Lamby, who is unarmed, makes a jump for the engine-room hatch, hoping to reach the armory. He is not quick enough. Alderman steps from the pilot house and fires at him. The bullet pierces his right side, strikes his spine, and paralyzes his legs. He drops to the lower engine-room platform and crawls forward between the engines to avoid being seen from above.

"Hands Up!
"Alderman quickly returns to the pilot house and takes Sanderlin's pistol. Webster, in the mean time, jumps to the stern of the V-1397. Alderman appears at the starboard pilot house door, levels both pistols at the people on the V—order hands up," and calls Weech to him. Before Weech could get on board the 249, Robinson grabs a wrench from the deck of the V—and heaves it at Alderman's head. The wrench misses and Robinson promptly dives overboard to avoid being shot.

"Alderman then orders all hands to stand on the stern sheets, but there is not room enough for all and Webster, Tuten and Hollingsworth are compelled to stand in the cockpit. Weech is now alongside Alderman on the 249 and Alderman remarks 'I have two of them and I will kill the rest with their own guns.'

"Still keeping them covered, he orders Weech to break all gasoline lines of the 249. He then steps on board the V—and stations himself near the forward engine-room hatch.

"Weech goes below and orders Lamby, who is helpless, to tear out the gasoline lines. Lamby replies that he cannot use his legs and is helpless. Weech kicks him and bats him with his gun and again orders him to tear down the gas line on pain of death if he obeys. In natural anxiety to avoid more pain Lamby hands a wrench to Weech, who tears down gasoline lines, which permit about five gallons to run into the engine compartment.

"He then goes on deck and reports to Alderman that the lines are down and plenty of gasoline loose. Alderman orders Weech to order Lamby on deck. Weech states that Lamby cannot move. Alderman orders Weech to kill him with his pistol, but Weech objects. He then orders him to fire the boat and burn Lamby to death. Weech gets matches and lights one and throws it below. It lands on a bunch of wet or oily waste and no fire results.

"Alderman then tells all hands that he is going to kill them one at a time and orders them to get on their knees and pray if they so desire. Webster suggests to Alderman that he should not kill so many people over a little liquor, but that he should give them a pulling boat and a fighting chance to get ashore. Alderman replies, 'I am going to kill you first. You are one of those sneaks and snoopers who go around getting the goods on good men,' etc.

"Tuten suggests that if the 249 is to be fired by ignited gasoline it might be best to start the V's engine and be ready for a quick get-away."

Leaving Weech on deck, Alderman went into the engine room. He started the engine and returned. The engine balk. Weech went down. Then—

Caudle then tackled Weech and Robinson knocked him on the head and rolled him overboard. Weech Hollingsworth was fished out of and Alderman was fished out of the water and Lamby pulled out of the engine room.

They Link the Living And the Dead

BY GENE COHN
NEA Service Writer.

Chateau Thierry, France—Once more the Yanks have come and gone.

Along the slender valley below, the long grass waves in the heavy languor of a rainy autumn.

Along the river bank the horses rag wearily at Paris-bound posts. Along the shore line, peasant women lean from scows as they wash the family clothes. There is not a ruffle in the winding roads, scarcely a break in the smooth valley floor to recall the memory of shell-ravaged earth.

The hand of the builder has restored the shattered homes to their former quaintness. They gleam spotless white, even on an overclouded day.

But there are two here in the chateau to whom the reunions of the American Legion pilgrimage will for many a month, bring quiet even in this valley of pastoral peace.

You meet the first as you come off the train. He'll greet you in the best of English with: "Taxi to the graves. Taxi, mister?"

He's one of the fellows left behind when everyone else went home; or rather, he's one who stayed behind—Clarence Pierson, once of Chicago, who came out with a San Francisco company under Colonel Tobin. And if you're fresh from the "states" he'll ply you with questions of his and of that. He'll take you to a little shop on one of the cobbled streets, so narrow that the eaves of the buildings seem to meet like neighbors over the back fence, and he'll introduce you to Germaine, his French wife.

When he knows you better, he'll tell you he stayed because he was a fellow who couldn't leave the dead behind. He had seen them fall, so many of them; many that had not been identified, so many that hadn't even been found. The war was over, but this seemed to him a soldier's peace-time job: the job of giving names. So he stayed. And married. And sometimes he looked beyond the hills and remembered the "States."

One day the task seemed to be done. The dead lay in neat rows on the fringe of the once-bloody Belleau woods. Trim white crosses marked them. The grass was neatly trimmed and gardeners parked the hillside. Folks began to come in from the "states" in touring busses.

His mission changed. He would take friends on pilgrimages to the green and white rows and, as they went, he would tell them the tales of wartime things he had seen and heard. He became a liaison officer between the living and the dead.

Of all left behind or staying behind none has dedicated himself more zealously nor more sadly to a mission that seemed ended when the last gun was fired. Pierson has never deserted; says he never will.

Then the Legion came, and with it many of his cronies of the "Old days." Pierson had his hour, reliving old scenes and gorging himself with fresh gossip. The trains came and the trains went. The Yanks had gone again from the Chateau. But Pierson stayed behind.

The other you will meet if you go up to the hulk of the historic Chateau upon the hill just back of the town. At night it is such a place as one would select for a meeting with ghosts. The ancient battlements crumble all about and into the ground shog vast underground tunnels, dug back in the seventh century for imprisonment of enemies.

Sh and Pierson, here in the Chateau, see more than the long waving grass when they look down the slender valley.

TRAINING SUGGESTIONS FOR GRID FANS

OFFICE MEN SHOULD PUT IN AN HOUR A DAY WITH THE WINDOWS OPEN, THE ELECTRIC FANS TURNED ON AND SEATED ON A CAKE OF ICE WHILE SOMEBODY POURS WATER ON THEM. THIS WILL MAKE THEM SO TOUGH THEY CAN STAND ANY KIND OF FOOTBALL WEATHER.

FOR CONTROL OF THE TEMPERATURE HAVE SOME BIG-FOOTED LAD CLEAN HIS SHOES ON YOUR NECK. YOU CAN THEN PUT UP WITH THIS AT A GAME WITHOUT GETTING MAD.

ALL MOTORISTS SHOULD MAKE IT A POINT TO GET INTO TRAFFIC JAMS—THIS EXPERIENCE WILL HELP IN GETTING HOME AFTER THE BIG GAME.

The articles offered for sale are all hand-made and the selection is unusually large. Many novelties will be shown in the fancy work and domestic handwork articles at this sale. The patronage of the public will be appreciated.

"The Big Parade," Greatest of All War Pictures, Comes to Delft First Half of Week

TODAY'S PROGRAMS AT THE DELFT: Monty Banks in "Play Safe." AT THE STRAND: Monte Blue in "The Black Diamond Express."

"The Big Parade," the smashing war picture, which will be shown at the Delft the first half of the week, has been so widely acclaimed that everyone must know about it. However, the review of the spectacle by Mantel Howe of the Marquette Mining Journal tells about it so vividly that it is reprinted here:

"It is a war picture that everyone ought to see," says Miss Howe, "so they won't forget what the big war took in toll of heart-break and smashed nerves. "And you will wait half way through the picture before you find out why it is called 'The Big Parade.' The big parade, ironic blasphemy, it makes you sit straight and grip the arms of the chair as you see, 'men, men, men and guns moving up the line.' We can't recall ever seeing a war picture that gave us so realistic a picture of what the war really was. It is never just a mob scene, a portion of a sector, but the glorious sweep of country, miles and miles of it seemingly, filled with the marching men.

"War for just the stinking, rotten, dirty, lousy game it is, is unsparingly portrayed. There is an artless, naive, beautiful love story of Melisande and her "Jimmee," but of greater charm than that love story of a man and woman (for that develops without a war) is the friendship of the three pals, "Bull" O'Hara, hard-boiled, excitable Irishman; "Slim," a tough structural steel worker from the big town, and debonair Jimmy Apperson, a good-natured, lazy chap.

One Credit for War "Those three in the shell hole dodging Helms, razing each other into a new spurt of courage, grousing, scolding and then risking their lives for each other. . . . It is the fine blossom of war, that love of men for their pals. "As one writes the review it sounds as if "The Big Parade" is horribly tragic. Well, it isn't a farce, but it is by no means all tears, although we don't recall ever hearing so many people in the audience at the Delft with "colds" in their heads that made them sniff and snort the way they did last night.

Has Plenty Humor "You'll laugh, though, at the line up of the rookies, the cockiness of them as they swing along, and then their deep disgust when they are called out for police duty on that manure pile in France. "Bull" O'Hara, "Slim" and Jimmy are funny as a trio of clowns. And all lovers will sympathize with Jim's difficulties as he tries to make love to his "parley" voo mademoiselle" when she knows not a word of English and as he says "French is Greek to him." It is hard enough to make headway in a love affair, sometimes, when 'tis conducted in English, let alone having to resort to the sign language. The crowd got a laugh out of it when Jim tried to teach his Melisande to chew gum; when he attempted to shoo her away from the shower bath and when

A New Yorker in Paris

Paris—I found the small boy's paradise on a side street in Montmartre, well off the beaten Paris tracks.

If you're looking for a trail back to youthful dreams, here's the place to pick it up; if you're looking for fellow tourists don't wander away from the sidewalk cafes.

For this is the Circus Medrano, or the Cirque, as they call it here. And this is the circus I had been looking for all my life. It's a circus that comes right up and sits in your lap. You cuddle right up to the ringside and the prancing horses all but kick you in the face. The clowns hop up and sit upon your knee and the pretty lady bareback rider and tight-rope walker exchanges sly confidences with you as they prepare to perform. Slightly you whisper that you'll meet them over a glass of beer during the intermission. If, for some reason, an act proves tiresome, you have simply to disappear through the performer's entrance and there you will find a huge cafe in operation. Tables are scattered about and two barmaids wait to take your order.

As you sip your beer the frazzled lady, the clowns and the strong man sit at their make-up tables casually putting on their make-up. If you wander over they will chat with you and, with easy confidence, tell you of their trials and tribulations. And when you tell them you are from America their eyes will pop wide open and they will ask you about the immense sums paid by the vaudeville circuits. Recalling your own reactions to acrobatic acts at the opening of Broadway vaudeville bills, you hesitate. You have always felt that they should pay for taking up space, but since they have suddenly become so charming in this intimate new atmosphere you advise them to stay in Europe.

In the intermission little boys and girls rush back stage to gaze shyly at the clowns.

The prancing welcome they receive brings out every grain of envy. What wouldn't I have given as a kid to find four such grotesques capering in a circle about me?

A few feet away a man will sell you a pocket full of sugar for a few pennies and you can feed the ponies. Or for a few more cents you can get a little can of fish for the seals.

The Cirque Medrano is the oldest and most historic of the Paris circuses. Its home is a rough, domed building and its seats are built around the arena, the more expensive being directly around the ring and on a level with the sawdust. For 14 francs—56 cents—you can sit in a lap of the circus gods and for 24 cents you can be just above with the mobs of working folk.

For, as a clown told me over a stein of beer, "old man Medrano built his circus for the poor folk." When he died, a number of years ago, he left a will which stipulated that the prices should never be raised above the purse limitations of the worker. He stipulated the sort of entertainment that must go on.

And around the old place has grown a tradition. Here some of Europe's most celebrated acts are discovered, though the fame does not warrant the salaries of more elaborate and ornate circuses. Here the famous Fratellini clowns were found and made famous.

Outside the band blared and the clown hurriedly finished his beer and rushed out. Through the curtains came the laughter and applause of the crowd. Over the place crept a sense of unreality. I slipped through a back way and walked long and late through the twisted by-ways of the Montmartre.

3 WAYS to Realize Ready Money from That House

HOME OWNERS are often at a loss to realize money on the home. Really it is simple. While you are anxious to sell, or rent a room, there are hundreds of readers of The Press Classified Ads who are equally desirous of becoming owners of just such a house, or of renting one, or of securing a room in a neighborhood like yours. A few lines describing what you have will probably fall under the glance of the man who seeks what you have to offer--and you have solved your house problem.

SELL IT!

Tell about your house in detail. Give a word picture of it that will awaken the imagination of the thousands of readers to whom you are appealing. Make your ad arouse their desire to see the house and move them to come. This is easy.

RENT IT!

In a few lines tell of the neighborhood, the car service, the number of rooms, their condition and other things that you would want to know about a house for rent.—Remember that readers of The Press Classified Ads have a number of houses to select from. They will only visit the house that seems best to fill their requirements and an extra line or two of description will often bring to you the better class of tenants, because the better class of tenants are willing to pay more and appreciate the good features of your home.

RENT A ROOM!

If you want a good roomer, tell about the good points of the room you have for rent. Put yourself in his or her place, write about the things that would interest you if you were looking for a room. That is the way to attract the best roomers, through Classified Advertising in The Press.

EASY! Sure! Just tell what you have to sell or rent. Tell the entire story and you'll get results. Thousands want what you have to sell. They are searching through the Classified Columns of The Press for them. All you have to do is to meet these searching multitudes with a story of your proposition. Then you'll get results.

GARDEN BAY

Mrs. Harry Hennessey spent Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Finley McCasum of Puffy Creek. George Chaffee of Fairport has just installed a new gasoline engine in his twenty-one foot boat which he had built last year. He expected to give it a trial Friday or Saturday. Judging from remarks made by a number of local people in reference to Governor Green's recent address at Escanaba on Conservation, his statements about the deer question made a violation of the deer law, as well as other laws, are the rule rather than the exception. Everybody thought that he had a prior right, to take anything he could, irrespective of season, law or regulation. Practically every resident could say a lot about game law violations. But he doesn't. It appears to be unmanly, deceitful, and unneighborly to "sneak" and nobody likes to be dubbed so. And so the work of devastation has continued unhindered. But the Governor's statements have started many on a thinking process. They realize that it is a valuable asset to have an abundance of wild life around. One man, not in the habit of hunting illegally, stated that since he saw the matter from a different viewpoint he had decided to forego the pleasure of the "hunt" in order to gain the greater pleasure of knowing that deer were increasing. A number who have tasted the "joys" of the illegal hunt, have intimated that they will do so no longer. There is even serious talk of organizing a sort of conservation club, the members of which will pledge themselves to all that "conservation" as outlined by Governor Green means, including even reporting of any cases that they know where laws have been disregarded. Such sentiment speaks well for the Garden Peninsula, where natural beauty abounds. It is impossible to estimate the influence of such an organization but we are sure that it would go a long way toward assisting the Conservation department in carrying out their plans. Sentiment has been expressed here also in reference to the practice of cutting Christmas trees and the wanton destruction of other forest life. Miss Della Pearson, Manistique and William Lamirand of Garden were married Monday afternoon by Justice of the Peace, W. A. McKinney at Manistique. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Larson, of Manistique. Following the ceremony, the party motored to the home of the groom's brother, Edward Lamirand of Eagle's Nest resort where supper was served. From there they went on to Garden where Mr. and Mrs. Lamirand will make their home. Mr. and Mrs. Steve Brault with their son Henry and his two children, also Mrs. George Truckey, Jr., all of Escanaba visited relatives and friends here Wednesday. The latter is spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Truckey, Sr. An exceptionally large crowd was present at the home of Mrs. William Winter of Van's Harbor, Wednesday afternoon when she entertained the members and friends of the Ladies' Guild of the Congregational church. Besides local people, there were present Mrs. Chester Winter, Mrs. Joseph Turpin, Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. George McKenzie and daughter Marjorie all of Turpin, Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Shippey, Mrs. Robert McPherson and Miss Buckman, all of Rapid River, and Mrs. Nicholas Bonifas and two daughters, and Mrs. William Bonifas, Jr., of Isabella. The next meeting of the society will be held at the home of Mrs. Finley McCasum of Puffy Creek in two weeks from the time of this meeting. PATROLMAN ADOPTS HONEY BEE AS PET

Asbury, N. J.—"There's a bee on you," exclaims many a traveler in the railway station here to Policeman George Bannan on duty there. "And Bannan always stays each obliging stranger who attempts to brush him off. "That's Lindy," explains the officer. "Let him alone." If the traveler waits, he will see the insect buzz and finally make a landing on Bannan's upper lip. Then he holds a piece of gum or candy between his teeth and "Lindy" feasts heartily. The bee comes every day at about the same time, always seeks out his friend, is fed until it can scarcely fly and soars heavily away.

"THE BIG PARADE"

With the coming of "The Big Parade" to the Rialto theatre next Tuesday for four days return the combat thrills of 1917-1918 when America joined the war.

The doughboys, the officers, the tremendous mass push thru the Argonne, the hand-to-hand fighting that cleaned out enemy trenches and machine gun nests, have been reproduced, not like the war propaganda pictures of that period, but in the intimate realism of the saner ten years' view. It is the doughboy's story—his, and the story of the girl back of the lines who also drank of war's dread cup.

Nearing the end of the awful clean-up, Jim spares a bayonet thrust, and soothes the last moments of his wounded foe by the proffered solace of a cigarette.

Lansing, Mich.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I needed it. When I first used it, I was so bad I could hardly walk across the room without crying. I was tired all the time. I think my trouble was coming on me for six months before I realized it. I read of your wonderful medicine in the paper, and my husband bought me a bottle, and after the first few doses I felt better, so kept on taking it until I was well and strong. I take it at times when I feel tired and it helps me. I will always have a good word for your medicine and tell anyone what good it has done me. I recommended it to my neighbor for her girl, who is sixteen years old, and it was just what she needed. She is feeling fine now, and goes to school every day."

Hilltops Drop Game to Iron Mountain; Score 6-0

ROELLERS LACK SCORING PUNCH

Ford City Boys Avenge Defeat of Last Year.

Iron Mountain, Oct. 22.—(Special)—Iron Mountain avenged for last year's beating dealt by Escanaba by defeating the Hilltops by a 6 to 0 score in a hard-fought gridiron battle here this afternoon.

Coach Thune's gridders scored in the second quarter when Colontonio smashed through the Escanaba defense for a touchdown after the ball had been brought within scoring distance by two long passes and an end run.

Escanaba threatened to score just before the close of the second quarter when Eckholm's punt and Snyder recovered the ball on the 16-yard line. A good opportunity to score from this point was thrown away when a pass, thrown into the end zone, went awry. On two other occasions, Coach Roell's gridders advanced to within the 15-yard line, but lacked the necessary punch to shove the ball across.

Powers, who got his first assignment today at the fullback position, demonstrated that he is able to hit the line hard and get through for long gains. The two Snyder, George and Robert, played a good game at the wing positions. "Bull" dog Powers showed up brilliantly in the running back of punts, carrying the oval on several occasions from 20 to 25 yards before being downed. Labre played a good game in the line, both in defense and offensive play.

Escanaba booted seven punts for a total of 225 yards, making an average of 32, while Iron Mountain punted 10 times for 315 yards, averaging 30 yards to the punt. Escanaba tried 14 forward passes, completing four for a total yardage of 49. Iron Mountain tried 18, but were successful with only four, which counted for 78 yards. Coach Thune's eleven made 11 first downs as compared with six made by the Hilltops.

FIRST QUARTER.

Iron Mountain kicked off to Demars who returned to his 29-yard line. Demars got three, around right end. Powers was stopped and Demars punted to Iron Mountain on their 32-yard line. Ronzani shot through left tackle for five yards. Colontonio picked up three. Ronzani lost a yard but made three and first down on the next play. Wilson made five. Ronzani was stopped and Eckholm punted to Escanaba's 26-yard line.

SECOND QUARTER.

Colontonio made eight. Wilson was stopped. Eckholm punted to Escanaba's 15-yard line. Demars made four, and Gunderman failed. Demars' punt was returned to Escanaba's 45-yard line. Eckholm passed to Cordy who was stopped on the 18-yard line. Wilson smeared him for a 15-yard loss. Eckholm passed to Ronzani for first down on the 18-yard line. Ronzani skirted left end to the two-yard line. Colontonio smashed through right guard for a touchdown. Try for point was blocked. Escanaba's kick was returned 22 yards to Iron Mountain's 45-yard line. Ronzani rounded right end for six yards. A pass was grounded, and Colontonio made 20 and first down on Escanaba's 32-yard line. Wilson passed 12 yards to Cordy. A pass failed. Wilson got eight and Eckholm lost five in an attempt to pass. Wilson's place-kick from the 25-yard line was wide. Demars got three. Demars shot a short pass to Snyder who wormed his way to Iron Mountain's 45-yard line before being downed. Snyder was injured but remained in the game. Demars skirted right end for six and Gunderman made it first down. Demars got a yard, and a pass to Snyder was good for two more. Two passes were grounded and the ball went to Iron Mountain on their own 35-yard line. Colontonio was stopped. Wilson went off left tackle for six. Wilson got three more. Eckholm's punt was blocked and G. Snyder recovered on the 10-yard line. A pass into the end zone was grounded. McNamee got six around right end. Colontonio made three and Ronzani made first down. McNamee got five around right end.

THIRD QUARTER.

Eckholm kicked to Iron Mountain on their 13-yard line. Colontonio lost three. Eckholm punted to Demars who returned it 25 yards to the 23-yard line. Cordy was injured on the play. Gunderman hit center for three and Demars went off left tackle for the same. A pass was incomplete. Demars lost five.

"KEDDY" STARS

East Lansing, Oct. 22.—(AP)—With heavy, rangy ends always in demand, it is small wonder that Koezter L. Christenson, of Escanaba, has already made one letter in football at Michigan State college and is well on his way toward a second. Christenson is one inch over six feet tall, and tips the scales at 187 pounds. Although a trifle slow on his feet, he is an aggressive blocker and tackler, and a fair pass receiver.

Christenson was a regular as a sophomore and from present indications there is no one to displace him on this year's squad. He is 22 years old and formerly played with Escanaba high school.

Wabash Triumphs Over Colgate, 7-0

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Suffering a let down in form, Colgate was defeated by a fighting Wabash team, 7 to 0, here today. Although a favorite to win, the Maroons could not cope with the dazzling aerial attack of the visitors and lacked the punch to score when opportunity presented itself.

Dartmouth Beats Harvard, 30 to 6

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A fleet Dartmouth eleven crushed Harvard today, 30 to 6. The big green backfield, inspired by the brilliant performances of Miles Lane and Al Marsters, ripped the Harvard line to tatters and turned the ends almost at will.

McNamee made 14 around end. Wilson lost a yard. Colontonio fumbled. Brown recovering on the 35-yard line. Demars lost two. Gunderman was good for four and a pass. Demars punted to the 11-yard line. Demars punted to the 11-yard line. McNamee got three and Ronzani punted to his own 44-yard line. Demars got a yard. Gunderman made 11 and first down. Demars skirted left end for six yards, and Powers drove through for five and another first down. Gunderman was stopped. Demars lost a yard. Powers hit center for six. Powers failed by inches to make first down, and the ball went over on Iron Mountain's 12-yard line. Wilson made three and McNamee lost a yard. Demars returned Eckholm's punt, 23 yards, to the 27-yard line. Powers made two and Gunderman made it first down on the 18-yard line. Gust got two but fumbled on the next play. Gunderman lost 15. McNamee and Ronzani made a first down. A pass failed and Colontonio lost three.

FOURTH QUARTER.

Wilson lost two and Demars returned a punt to Iron Mountain's 37-yard line. A pass was intercepted by Eckholm. Powers intercepted a pass. Three tries netted nine yards, and Iron Mountain recovered a fumble on Escanaba's 38-yard line. Wilson was good for 15 yards. Four passes were broken up and the ball went over. Eckholm punted to Demars who returned to his own 27-yard line. A pass was intercepted by Ronzani. McNamee, Wilson and Ronzani made it first down. A blocked place-kick was recovered by Snyder. ## SAINTS LOSE TO MUNISING

Savoie, Mellin and Rose Star as Algerites Win, 39-2.

The "Little Brown Jug" rests secure in Munising's hands for another year. St. Joseph high school was unable to withstand a slashing running attack, in which Savoie, Rose and Mellin featured, and lost to the Algerites by a 39 to 2 score here yesterday afternoon. A safety in the first quarter accounted for the two points made by Coach Leo Brunelle's gridders.

A thrilling 75-yard run by Savoie shortly before the close of the first half which went for a touchdown was one of the high lights of the contest. Savoie made several other long gains and his running mates, Rose and Mellin, got off for from 10 to 15 yards repeatedly.

Jack Fitzharris made a beautiful return of Munising's free kick from the 29-yard line following the scoring of the safety. The Saints' quarterback dodged and squirmed his way through about half of the Munising players, carrying the ball for 40 yards from his own 35-yard line to the Algerites' 25-yard line.

Saints Lose Chance.

St. Joseph lost a wonderful opportunity to score toward the end of the first half. Returning the ball on the kickoff to its own 29-yard line, the Saints made two first downs by the completion of two forward passes, Fitzharris to Kuhlman and Fitzharris to Lacrosse, bringing the ball to Munising's 40-yard line. Fitzharris then made four yards around right end, but Lacrosse lost one in a play around the left end. A pass was incomplete, and St. Joseph punted. Munising was stopped on its own 24-yard line. The Algerites drew a five yard penalty for being offside, and then chose to punt. The kick was short and St. Joseph returned it to the enemy's 30-yard line. Fitzharris counted five around right end, and Ledue and Frasher made it first down in two line smashes.

Fitzharris lost five yards in a lateral pass play, but Ledue made up for it by a nice run around left end for nine yards. Lacrosse made eight through the line to make it first down, bringing the ball to Munising's six-yard line. Fitzharris advanced a yard off right tackle, and Lacrosse pushed the ball ahead for two more yards. A play around right end went for a two-yard loss. On the fourth down, Fitzharris threw a pass, which was grounded, the ball going over to Munising on its five-yard line.

Savoie Races 75 Yards.

On the first play, St. Joseph was penalized five yards for being offside. Mellin made four yards around right end. Savoie went off tackle for ten yards. Savoie crashed off right tackle, and shaking off several would-be tacklers, raced 75 yards for a touchdown.

Munising was held scoreless in the first quarter, but counted 20 points in the second period, the half ending 20 to 2. Savoie scored the first touchdown after the ball had been brought to the two-yard line by a series of end and off-tackle plays.

Mellin made a 15-yard run around right end for another touchdown shortly afterward, and Savoie punted the other marker with his sensational run shortly after Munising had stopped the St. Joseph threat.

Pass Intercepted.

Two touchdowns were scored in the third quarter. Deane intercepted Fitzharris' pass, downing the oval on St. Joseph's 40-yard line. On two plays, Savoie counted 24 yards. A pass, Rose to Mellin, added six more yards, bringing the ball to the 10-yard line. From where Rose took it over. After returning a punt to its own 30-yard line, Munising gained five first downs by brilliant ball carrying by Rose, Mellin and Savoie, advancing the pigskin to the two-yard line. Deane then smashed through for the marker.

In the fourth quarter, St. Joseph lost the ball on downs on Munising's 20-yard line. Off-tackle and around end plays gave the Algerites four first downs, and with only a foot to go, Johnson went over for the sixth touchdown.

Savoie was successful three times in six attempts to kick for the point after touchdown. Munising tried, only three passes, and completed two of them. St. Joseph forward passed 15 times, and was successful four times.

HE CAUGHT IT!

Our chapeau goes off to Tiny Drouilhet, Loyola (New Orleans) star, for holding on to this pass. This remarkable action shot was taken at the opening game of the year against Rice Institute, and shows Drouilhet grabbing a 25-yard pass from Bucky Moore, Loyola quarterback. Note the two Rice players, one in front and the No. 26 in the rear, attempting to break up the pass. Also the feet of all players.

'STIQUE LOSES TO NEWBERRY

Newberry, Oct. 22.—(Special)—Recovering a blocked Manistique punt, Newberry high school scored a touchdown in the third quarter which was enough to defeat the Schoolcrafters by a 6 to 0 score here this afternoon.

Newberry tried to punt out of danger from the Newberry five-yard line, but the Celery City's line broke through the defense and smeared the play. A Newberry player scooped up the blocked punt and ran nine yards for the only marker of the game.

Manistique lacked punch in the first half, and threw up many opportunities to score, and in the second half the teams stacked up about even. There was a large crowd in attendance.

With Newberry and Munising winning their games today, the two teams are still tied for the lead in the Cleveland Athletic Conference.

BALLPLAYER DEAD

LARGE CROWD TO SEE GAME

10,000 Are Expected to Watch Grange at Green Bay Today.

Green Bay—Sunday afternoon, Green Bay will play host to the greatest gathering in its history. Over 10,000 spectators are expected to attend the football game at the City stadium between Red Grange's New York Yankees and our famous Packers.

In the main stands two additional seats have been sold in each row, which means that everybody will have to push up a little closer. These additional seats are numbered 10-A and 10-B and will of course be alongside the regular seat 10 in each row. Where the insertion of these new seats may divide parties who want to sit together the Football management asks that those affected rearrange their seats so that everybody will be comfortable and happy. Parents accustomed to taking small children into the stands with them will find no room for them since the new seats will take up the usual surplus space.

The management has striven to take care of everybody in the best possible manner and asks that all show a little consideration for the other fellow and straighten out good naturedly any little discrepancies which in the rush may creep in.

The Football Corporation wants to handle the crowd in a way that will make every one want to come again and, with this end in view, the following suggestions are made:

Every spectator is asked to hold his or her own ticket when entering the park. This will eliminate confusion at the gate.

When entering a seat section, show your reserved seat ticket stub to the head usher so that there will be no mistake as to the right reservation.

Reserved seat tickets will be taken at any of the six gates. Each one of the eighteen sections has a letter posted high over the top bench. Watch for it and you will save time in getting to your place quickly.

Section N. L. E. F. G. H., and M. are located on the right or south side of the field. Section S. is at the east end of the gridiron.

Sections V, K, D, C, B, A, J, and O. are on the left or north side of the field. Section T. is located at the west end of the gridiron.

There is standing room space at the east and west ends of the gridiron. Every seat in the park is reserved.

FOOTBALL FUNDAMENTALS

As Told By Famous Coaches TO BILLY EVANS.

Cleverness in handling forward passes, as far as the receiving end is concerned, is more or less an acquired art that can be brought about by practice. As in any other sport, the receiving of a pass comes more natural to some than others, but anyone with the old determination and the willingness to stick to the task can become proficient in handling passes. Each type of forward pass must of necessity be handled differently.

In some passes, the receiver turns and faces the passer, standing motionless until he receives the ball. To receive such a pass the receiver should make a "pocket" with his forearm, hands and body, giving the passer a bit of a target.

A majority of passes, however, are thrown to a player who is on the dead run. He must be prepared to catch the ball and continue his run without any break in stride or slowing up in speed. The passer is taught to throw the ball as far ahead of the receiver as he possibly can reach by the time the ball arrives at this point. It is also well to throw it as high as the receiver can reach. This slows him up, often causes him to stumble and makes it easier for the tackler to catch him. The signal sends the forward pass receiver to a certain point on the field. At the proper time, while running at full speed and looking straight ahead, the receiver turns his head to right or left, according to signal and looks as high as he can, with his forearms fairly close together, his arms bent, his palms facing the ball. As he runs, he pulls the ball down into the "pocket" of his arms and stomach, instantly shifting it to the hold under his armpit as he keeps going, moving now as a broken field runner.

Most important in handling the ball is to "fade" with it, as the players and coaches put it. One must travel with the ball, never fight it. When fighting the ball, the arms and hands are stiff and moving against the ball which is advancing toward the receiver. Such handling of the ball makes for fumbles. The receiver should run in the same direction the ball is traveling, catch it relaxed and "fade" with it, instead of bracing against it.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Ross Young, former outfield star of the New York Giants, died here today.

Stagg's Crew Beats Pennsylvania, 13-7

Stagg Field, Chicago, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Chicago defeated Pennsylvania, 13 to 7, before 55,000 spectators on Stagg Field today, scoring the first victory over the Ben Franklin in 29 years during which time seven games were played.

Chicago outclassed the easterners, passed beautifully, and chalked touchdowns in the second and third periods with Mendenhall and Anderson carrying the ball across the goal line.

Pennsylvania was never dangerous except in the final period after their courage had been bolstered by a touchdown scored through a lucky break a few seconds before the close of the third period.

Cornell Downed by Princeton, 21-10

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Flashing an attack of brilliant power and versatility featured by the thrusters of a 175-pound sophomore half back, Ed Wittmer, Princeton scored a thrilling victory over Cornell today, 21 to 10, in the first football game between them in many years.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Taking full advantage of six intercepted passes and a running attack by Lloyd and Clifton, Navy smashed its way to a 32 to 6 victory over Duke university today. The Middle line tore great holes in the Southerners' ranks through which the backs made 18 first downs.

UPBAYS TRIM PRISON CITY

Marquette, Oct. 22.—(Special)—Kircher's two touchdowns, both made in the last half, supplemented by Moore's two points by kicking, gave Gladstone a 14 to 7 victory over Marquette here today. Gladstone made their first touchdown from straight football, Kircher carrying the ball over the line by a powerful off-tackle smash. The second marker was made following a successful pass-in-gate.

Marquette made their lone touchdown in the first period, breaking away for a 20-yard run through the line.

VULCAN BEATS ROCK, 45 TO 0

Rock suffered its worst defeat of the season at Vulcan yesterday afternoon, losing by a 45 to 0 score. Coach Weingartner's squad was crippled considerably because of the absence of Huff, the regular right halfback, and the new combination didn't seem to be able to get going. The strong line was broken down considerably by the shifting of U. Trombley from center to the backfield.

The Rock lineup: Left end, Fosterling; left tackle, Warmanen; left guard, Kaukala; center, A. Johnson; right guard, C. Johnson; right tackle, Roukala; right end, A. Trombley; quarterback, G. Larson; left half, Vittala; right half, U. Trombley; fullback, L. Larson. Substitutions were Jokela for C. Johnson, Rabideau for Warmanen, Bridges for Warmanen.

Rock will play Manistique on its home field next Saturday.

LAWYERS ROW IN PARIS TRIAL

Paris, Oct. 22-(AP)—Courtesy and legal formality were thrown to the winds today in the trial of Samuel Schwartzbard, Russian watchmaker, for the assassination of Gen. Simon Petlura, former head of the state army of Ukraine.

Henri Torres, chief of counsel for Schwartzbard, and Cesare Campinchi, representing the Petlura family, renewed their word battle of yesterday, with such ferocity that at times the trial degenerated into something much resembling a street brawl. At the apex of their unusual and seemingly extra-legal debated half the jury was laughing, the other half was perceptibly annoyed and the chief justice could not make himself heard above the din.

Both attorneys indulged in a bellowing contest and hurled insults, working themselves into great heat.

Witnesses who managed to get the proverbial "word in edgewise," gave testimony to show that Petlura was really not an anti-semitic. In fact, Alexander Dotzenko, one of the witnesses, said that Petlura was truly a friend of the Jews. Dotzenko, a squat, flat-faced young Slav, modestly dressed, described himself as an historian, a man of letters, and at present assistant to a stone mason.

"Yes, yes, he massacred them!" Schwartzbard shouted when Dotzenko spoke of Petlura's friendship for Jews.

The trial adjourned for the week-end with only nine witnesses heard of a total of 126.
