COMMUNAL. Fossick, able New York preacher, commenting on his new Baptist church, now half built, says it will be a "communal church."

TRUTH. Fossick stimulates and interests. There are so many who think they are very smart, who seem to think that all truth has been discovered and that they have been taken into all streets.

REAL WORKERS. A man long used to directing men said to the writer that he can always tell a real worker by the way he acts on a new job.

CONGRESSMEN. Pay as much or more attention to your vote on a congressional candidate as you do to your vote for president.

Unfortunately there is no law that can curb this. So long as gunners fail to realize that a shot gun or rifle is a dangerous weapon, one to be respected and handled with the utmost care under any circumstances, so long will we have hunting accidents.

A NEW EXCUSE FOR KILLERS? THERE MAY BE some reason to believe that insanity is doomed to lose its popularity as an excuse for killings.

ABNER BANGS

Misery Bay Philosopher Neatly Silences Whispering Campaign Before It Gets Really Started.

MISERY BAY, Sept. 29 (To the Editor) — Amongst the subterranean topics of discursive reverberation in the newspapers recently of late date, is rumorous hints that somebody is doing a lot of "whispering" in this current presidential campaign.

Poison-minded people are reputed to be circumventing a lot of infinitesimal inexactitudes about Mr. Albert Smith, Mr. Norbert Hoover, Mr. Joe Coolidge and a good many other prominent members of their families, and even some of their neighbors.

I heard a fellow say, down at the gas station in the old livery barn yesterday, that he had it on reprehensible authority that Mr. Hoover was a amateur saxophone player in his spare moments; that Mr. Smith was an addict of the use of paper napkins; that Senator Borah had his false teeth made by a non-union dentist; that Mr. Coolidge shot an eel out of season whilst on a fishing excursion; that Mr. Raskob chews grape-flavored chewing gum; that Tom Hefflin was black-balled when he tried to join the Second-Hand Auto Tire Dealers Association; that Charley Curtis went to a picnic once and forgot to close the gate; that Joe Robinson wrote four chapters of Elmer Gantry; that Andrew Mellon plays marbles for keeps; that John Roach Straton once made a commencement speech at Shurtleff College; that Charley Dawes used to play the piano at Kiwanis club luncheons in Evanston; and that John Barleycorn—which he is one of the leading figures in this campaign—had not drew a sober breath since the First Battle of Trenary.

This particular "whisperer" as he is called by the ephemerium campaign managers, was not whispering when I heard him at it. He had a voice that was two points stronger in volume than the loudest tones of my old com-patriot Fog Horn Clancy of Tulsa, Okla., and invidious environs. The only way you could of tuned him out would of been to have gave him a magnaphone horn. His mouth was too large to fit into the little end of the same. He was vocally uttering his indictives with the sure certainty of a man that is not accustomed to be contradicted, and he had the crowd around him standing with their mouths so wide open that their palates was in danger of being sunburned. When he hesitatingly paused for breath after a semi-hour of explosionary bombasts, I timidly asked him if he was absolutely subservitive of his facts. He looked at me with scornful pity. "I disdain to reply to such an aramic question," he answered me back. "I can only say that what I have prorated for the elucidation of the people of this community, that I have got a brother-in-law by marriage that has got a sister that her oldest boy is night watchman in a government mulberry vineyard in the outskirts of Washington, D. C., and he is continuously rubbing his elbows against the big men down there. He has got the inside stuff, and he gives it to me in confidential quietness, because if Secretary Kellogg or Senator Borah ever knew he was giving away secrets of the government he would be fired."

I guess he had an idea that such a blastful diatribe would make me wither up like a fly that has just took a bite of a green persimmon. How the so-ever, he reckoned without a true estimation of the reoursiveness of Abner Bangs.

"You should ought to have your wife's relations tell you the whole story of the scandals of our political figures in the national arena," I said. "Did he tell you that Secretary Davis used to live in Indiana and never repented? Did he tell you that Senator Vandenberg once broke down and confessed that in a moment of weakness he wrote a piece for the town paper at Grand Rapids about Alex. Hamilton? Did he tell you about all the un-nameless member of congress from North Carolina that chews fine-cut tobacco? Did he tell you that there was rumors that Senator Walsh and Harry Sinclair was no longer on speaking terms with each other? Did he tell you that Senator Reed used to ride a tandem bicycle? Did he tell you that there were two senators from the State of Idaho in despite of the public impression to the nothwithstanding contrary? Did he tell you that the reason John Pershing never visited Czech-Slovakia is because he could not learn to spell the name of the family that was going to put him up for the night whilst he was in their mist? Did he tell you those things?"

A look of ashamed chagrin spread over the features of my opposite antagonist.

"No," he confessedly admitted. "He did not."

"Then," says I, "if I was you I would not attempt to tell what is really going on behind the scenery in Washington till I was fully advised. I have got an uncle in the bootlegging business in Baltimore, and he meets all their secretaries personally. If there is anything accurately authoritative to be told about them, I will tell it. I will not stoop over to whisper mere rumors."

Of a resultive consequents, nobody needs to be fearfully afraid of any more whispering in Misery Bay.

Sincerely & Truly,
Abner Bangs, cog.

PS: The school teacher that boards at my place wants to know if my uncle said anything about any of these Washington guys wives. Well, no. Not exactly. My uncle in Baltimore is also one of these campaign rumors.

Although Nothing Else Helped Her Dreco Quickly Brought Relief.

"I suffered practically all my life with stomach troubles but until I started on Dreco about three weeks ago I was unable to get any relief," declared Mrs. Marie Bryson, 327 S. 12th St., this city, in a recent talk with the Dreco man at the Drug Dept. of the Fair Store.

"My mother, who lives in Marinette, told me how Dreco had helped her and advised me to try it too. Upon doing so I noticed a wonderful improvement in my condition. The gas ceased forming and I began to feel better all over. Although I am not yet completely well I feel sure that the full course of Dreco will fix me up in fine shape."

"My husband who is a fireman on the C. N. & W. had been troubled with rheumatic pains but he took Dreco too and in just a week has noticed a decided improvement in his condition. Now both of us recommend Dreco highly."

Everyone who has a weak stomach that fills up with gas, or suffers from constipation, headaches, dizziness or painful joints and muscles, is invited to give this excellent plant and herb remedy a trial. Thousands testify to the results it brings.

The Dreco Man is now at Drug Dept., Fair Store where he is daily explaining the merits of Dreco to numerous local people and presenting everyone who is interested with a valuable health booklet free.

CLOTHES SAFE AT LAUNDRIES

Cleansing Ingredients Would Not Hurt Skin, Says Observer

BY ELDORA FIELD

Early morning air in the country. Fresh, clover-scented. Clothes flapping on the line. Clean, sweet-scented, like the air. Could clothes, handled literally by the ton, be washed in such a manner that they'd come forth—great armfuls of them—so sweet and clean and brightly fresh that you'd instantly remember that flapping clothes line and say, "Oh yes, once when I was in the country."

Old Prejudices Are Lost.

Well, it's only one more wonder of this wonderful age that clothes emerging from the nine to twelve rinsing waters of a modernly equipped laundry gently blown dry by fresh air fanned to them, have every advantage of the spotless, billowy wash that delighted the old-fashioned housewife!

I wouldn't have believed this last week. I do now. I've been visiting laundries. Tons of prejudices have fallen from my mind. If I were writing a primer on the subject, it would contain some questions and answers like the following:

What is a Mangle?

1. What is a mangle in a laundry—something to tear up clothes with?

Ans: A "mangle" (which by the way is a misnomer) is a series of soft padded rolls, with steam heat passing through that smooths and irons the clothes.

Above, left, one of the washers used in the modern power laundry. It is all metal, stainless in exterior and interior surface. It washes clothing by gently rinsing the water through them. More than 600 gallons of water are used in washers like this in the process of washing one batch of clothing through the plant.

Above, right, one of the ironing machines used in the modern laundry. The type shown is used for sheets, towels and other flat work. The metal rolls which spread the cloth are covered with canvas, so that a soft, smooth finish is given to each article as it is pressed.

Below, right, is shown a factory truck loaded with laundry bags. All clothes are put in net bags, sorted out as to color, owner and delicacy of fabric. This is the modern laundry's method of assuring positive identification of each piece of clothing entrusted to it, and of preventing run colors of improperly dyed fabrics from damaging other goods.

2. Don't laundries use acids, bleaches, strong alkali soaps to get the clothes clean?

Ans: Now that I've investigated first hand, I'd stake my observation and the word of every reputable laundry owner in business, that the modern equipped laundry doesn't do this because it would be poor business and it's not necessary.

3. Do laundries wear out clothes, pulling and hauling them through laundry washers?

Ans: Here's one of the biggest surprises I had when visiting the laundries—finding that clothes (I'm always talking of modernly equipped reputable laundries) are washed in strong net bags and positively receive no actual contact with the laundry washing machines.

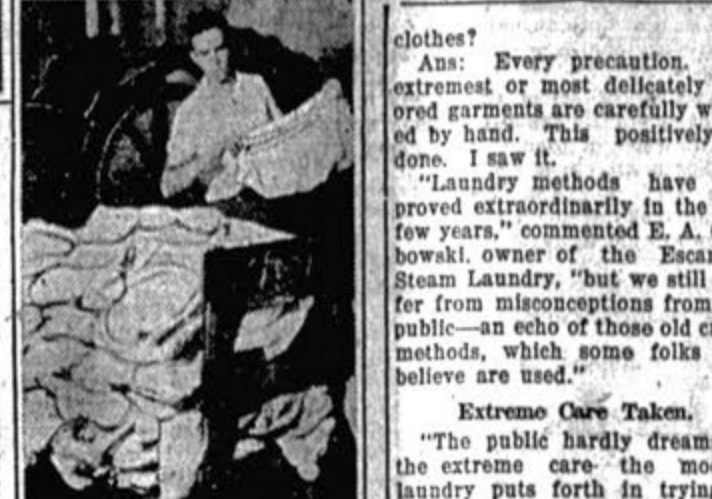

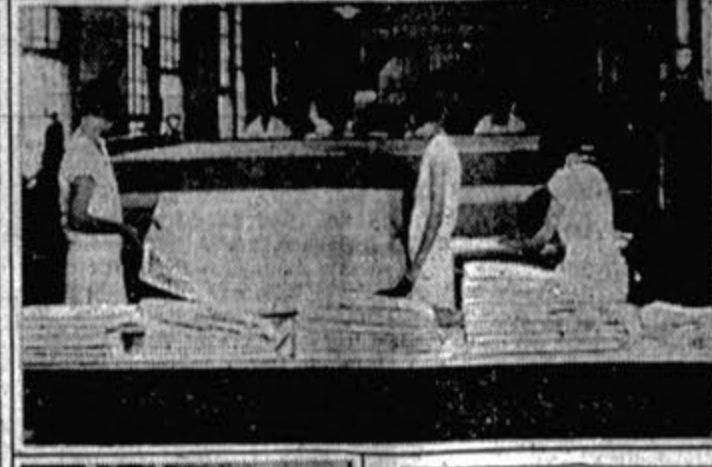

4. Do laundries shrink clothes?

Ans: Not as much as you would yourself (unless you are an expert). Blankets for instance, which if subjected to change of temperature during the washing process or if pounded will shrink, are handled in the laundries through big wooden "tumblers," which as their name implies, fluff through all waters without pressure. As exactly the same temperature is kept through suds and all rinse waters, there is no shrinkage.

5. Are extraordinary precautions taken against the fading of clothes?

Ans: Every precaution. The extreme care of most delicately colored garments are carefully washed by hand. This positively is done. I saw it.

6. "Laundry methods have improved extraordinarily in the last few years," commented E. A. Grabowski, owner of the Escanaba Steam Laundry, "but we still suffer from misconceptions from the public—an echo of those old crude methods, which some folks still believe are used."

Miss Nevada Miles Held for Inquiry in Cigarette Thefts

Miss Corrinne Smith, alias Nevada Miles, 19-year-old girl who was picked up by Escanaba police several weeks ago in connection with the investigation of the series of burglaries alleged to have been committed by Elmer Cook and his gang, is now an inmate of the Iron county jail.

She was taken to Crystal Falls from Bessemer by A. McMahon, special agent of the St. Paul railway, and is being held while an investigation is being made into a series of box car robberies. A large quantity of cigarettes have been taken from the railway cars, and the young woman is believed to know something concerning the activities of the robber gang.

Cook is now awaiting arraignment in circuit court on Monday on a charge of entering the homes of Mrs. Theodore Farrell and Gideon Stegath. At the time of his arrest, Miss Smith and two Marinette young men were picked up as his accomplices, but were released a few days later.

The girl admits that she ran away from the State Training School at Geneva, Ill.

Newsreels taken at Fair to be Shown at Delft Next Week

One thousand feet of motion picture film, taken by the International News Service at the Upper Peninsula State Fair, will be shown at the Delft theatre Wednesday and Thursday of this week. It was announced yesterday by Manager L. J. Jacobs. The pictures, made by expert camera men, will include "shots" of the buildings, the races, the crowds, the dedication of the Escanaba airport, Governor Green and his party, and other interesting scenes and happenings.

World Film Court Proposed

To clear up the numerous difficulties resulting from the different film legislations in various countries, a plan for an international film court of arbitration has been proposed in Budapest, Hungary. Hungarian representatives brought up the idea at the international exhibitors Congress held recently in Berlin. The Hungarians also proposed an international film magazine, and suggested that American producers be requested to put out motion pictures in accordance with European taste.

Faithorn Church, Remodeled; Will Dedicate Oct. 7th

Loretto, Sept. 29 (Special)—The Catholic church at Faithorn, built and dedicated in honor of St. Mary 19 years ago, under the administration of Rev. J. J. Stenlein, with George Harter and Patrick Hayes as trustees, underwent a complete remodeling during the last three months. Under the administration for the last ten years of Rev. George R. Stunbeck, assisted by Clifford Hayes, Charles Hanna and Mrs. Clarence Harter as trustees, the congregation of but 18 families succeeded in raising funds enough to excavate and build in a concrete and cemented basement with a hot-air heating plant, add a spacious vestibule, balcony and tower to the edifice, re-roof and re-panel the exterior and redecorate the interior.

The remodeled structure will be dedicated Sunday, Oct. 7 at 3 p. m. Rt. Rev. Paul Joseph Nussbaum, D. D., bishop of Marquette, will officiate, assisted by a number of clergy. Rev. M. J. Pathe, state chaplain of the Knights of Columbus, will deliver the dedicatory address. A picnic, or kerms, with a chicken dinner will be one of the features of the event.

The public is invited to participate. Faithorn can be reached on the detour on U. S. Highway No. 2, to Iron Mountain.

French Customs Help American Car Sales

Casablanca, Morocco—Severity of French customs is helping Americans to sell automobiles here. When a French car is taken back to France, under the customs ruling it is regarded as a foreign car and the owner must pay 45 percent duty and 12 percent tax de luxe, just as he would on an American automobile.

Since American manufacturers make automobiles much more cheaply than do those of other nations, the heavier cost of transportation paid from America is offset and the American car is easily sold whenever it fits the needs of a customer.

Beautiful stock bodies are big factors in sales by Americans. Intense heat, however, limits satisfactory cars to those with surplus radiation, paint that will stand the sun and upholstery that is cool and durable.

Madison, Wis.—There are thirty men students in the University of Wisconsin here who will have decided qualms about embarking on the matrimonial sea.

Samuel Schwartz recently sought to collect from airplanes rent for the air used in passing above his house at Zbehen, Germany. In reply the organization cited the German air traffic law, entitling aircraft to free passage so long as they observed the law.

Taxicab drivers, plying their trade in and out of Chicago's crowded Loop, breathed a bit easier today and no longer stared suspiciously at pretty girl faces who hailed them, following the announcement that the Windy City's girl bandit gang is believed broken up with the arrest of several young women.

One of the girls held, Florence Morton, a pretty, curly-haired blonde, is said to have been the "queen" of the gang. A second girl, held is Margie Roberts and a third, Irene Valentine, who is only 16 years old, claims to be a recent graduate from Englewood high school.

Police say the girls admit holding up and robbing over 40 taxi drivers. The girls are held in default of bonds totaling $325,000.

PROMPT VOTING ASKED BY C-C

Primary Election Ballots Must Be Returned by Wednesday Night

Chamber of Commerce primary election ballots, which will be mailed from the secretary's office Monday morning, must be back in the hands of the election committee by Wednesday night, October 2, it was announced by the committee yesterday. The committee will meet Wednesday night to count the ballots and determine the result of the primary.

Twelve members of the chamber are to be nominated. Their names will then be submitted to the members of the organization, so that six directors may be elected next week.

The ballots should reach every member Monday, it was pointed out. Prompt action is urged. Members are asked to vote at once and put the ballot back into the mail immediately, or take it personally to the Chamber of Commerce office.

The committee hopes that every member will vote in the primary, and that the list of nominees will be as representative as possible of the city's varied interests. The Chamber of Commerce in the past has been distinguished by its high quality of leadership, as evidenced in the board, and there is every reason to believe that this high standard will be maintained, members of the committee said.

Accompanying each ballot, in the mails, is a list of the members of the chamber. Voters have also been given free choice. They may vote to nominate any member they desire for membership on the board of directors. The twelve men receiving the largest number of votes will be declared nominated and their names placed on the final election ballot. The six men who receive the highest number of votes will be declared elected.

All voting is secret and is carried on by mail.

Escanaba Singers Win Praise at State Convention

The state meeting of the Federation of Women's clubs which was held at Sault Ste. Marie during the past week came to a close Friday with the singing of "Blessed Be the Tie that Binds" as the closing number on a very interesting program.

The newly elected officers are Mrs. Eben Mumford of Lansing, president; Mrs. C. L. Thompson of Muskegon, vice president; and Mrs. C. E. Kilbourne of Detroit, recording secretary. The next meeting will be held in 1929 at Lansing.

The four days of the convention were replete with interesting features, including a conservation pageant written by Mrs. Lobb of Ironwood who gave an address in this city one year ago. The pageant was staged by students of the Soo high school and was very well presented. Another feature was the golden musical breakfast, a luncheon at Hotel Ojibway, district luncheons, a session at the country club, and other social functions which were very entertaining to the three hundred women who attended from all sections of the state.

The ushers were Soo girls in the garb of Indian maidens. The exhibit room with its collection of books, pictures, historic collections, maps and posters was visited by every delegate.

Talent from the upper peninsula was recognized as unusual during the many convention affairs. The large audiences were thrilled by the singing of Mrs. John A. Semer and Mrs. James E. Frost of this city. The pleasing comments heard at the convention are very gratifying to local residents who have heard these artists in local programs on various occasions.

Praised by Mrs. Sippel. Mrs. John F. Sippel of Boston, national president of the Federation of Women's Clubs, paid the vocalists and their accompanist, Mrs. P. M. Fernstrom, a beautiful compliment when she stated: "I have been attending state meeting all over the country and I marvel at such extraordinary talent. I had to come to the upper peninsula to hear these unusual artists whom I shall never forget and whom I am very happy to have met."

The program given by Mrs. Semer and Mrs. Frost was well selected. Tuesday evening, the opening day of the meeting, Mrs. Frost sang two solos, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from Samsou and Delilah, and "Gee to Sleep," by Fisher. A duet by Mrs. Semer and Mrs. Frost, "Calm as the Night," was well received, and an encore was greatly applauded.

Wednesday evening, Mrs. Semer sang two solos, "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark," by Bishop, and "Children of the Moon," by Warren. As an encore, Mrs. Semer sang "The Big Brown Bear," by Mana Zucca. At the Wednesday noon luncheon, the two artists sang "Venetian Boat Song," by Blumenthal, and "Oh That We Two Were Maying," by Nevin.

Mrs. Fernstrom was accompanist for all these numbers.

Mrs. L. P. Treiber, president of the Escanaba Woman's club, and Mrs. Arthur Peterson, second vice president, who were the local delegates, have returned to this city.

A Synthetic World

Scientist Heralds Approach of New Age—When Even Foodstuffs Will Be Made by Artificial Means.

EVERYTHING GOING TO BE SYNTHETIC

SYNTHETIC ANIMAL FATS WILL BE PRODUCED FROM PETROLEUM

Miss Marjorie Laws, of Oswego, Kas., in synthetic bridal outfit; below, Dean Gerald L. Wendt, of Pennsylvania State college.

State College, Pa.—The world of tomorrow will be a simple, synthetic world—with lumber made from waste stalks; gems manufactured in the laboratory; silks, leathers, glass coming from cellulose; sugar, foods from the chemist's retort; fat acids from petroleum; power, light and heat from the sun.

Such is the prediction of Gerald L. Wendt, dean of Pennsylvania State college, and a foremost authority on scientific research.

As proof of the approach of this new age, Dean Wendt points to a synthetic bridal costume—worn by Miss Marjorie Laws, of Oswego, Kas.

Bridal Outfit for $25.
"Her entire outfit, including shoes and veil," explains the dean, "costs less than $25. Last year we outfitted a girl for little over $2. But this year we have used the finest synthetic materials. The costume is made of rayon—extracted from vegetable wastes."

The costume was made as an experiment in the school's chemistry laboratories. It is but a sample of the application of the new processes which are being developed in attempt to conserve waste products.

"There are some people who seem to feel that the introduction of new synthetic materials is unnatural or immoral," explains the Dean Wendt. "They believe that we should get along with the materials that nature has given us. This view is wrong. The entire trend of synthetic production is to make use of the few simple raw substances that we have in large excess, and to conserve those which are special and easily exhausted."

Resin for Jewelry.
"The synthetic resins are an excellent example of this. They take the place of amber in jewelry and in smokers' supplies, of special wood, hard rubber, and valuable metals in many machine parts. As methods improve, they will replace fine woods. The human race will always need the materials which they save; yet the synthetic products can be manufactured from two simple raw materials which we have in enormous quantities—natural gas and coal."

Another excellent example is the large number of materials which are made from cellulose. These include artificial silk, artificial leather, artificial ivory, celluloid, motion picture film, automobile lacquers, shatter-glass and a wide variety of other materials which formerly were either not available at all or needed to be made from special sources.

Predicts Color in Clothes.
"The chemist has produced by far more dyestuffs than nature ever knew about, and our girls have been quick to take advantage of that. Men's clothes still stick to the old colors, blue, black and gray, because these were practically the only colors that were available for use with men's suits a generation ago."

"On the golf course and in our colleges men are showing an appreciation of the possibilities of the new textiles and the new colors, and the time is apparently not far off when men also will realize that the synthetic age is here and will clothe themselves in rayon made from wood, and in all the color of the rainbow made from coal tar."

"If the day ever comes when our agricultural resources are not adequate to meet all the requirements of the race, it will be entirely possible to eliminate the

Wealth and Grief

Aged Farm Woman, Made Rich By Oil, Faces Unhappiness as Children Challenge Sanity to Cancel Leases

Mrs. M. A. Monroe Smith, and insect of her husband.

El Paso, Tex.—Mrs. M. A. Monroe Smith is one of the wealthiest women in the world, but she is not the happiest.

She owns 21,760 acres of land in Pecos county, Texas. Sixty producing wells flow wealth for her every day. Experts estimate the value of production on the property at $20,000,000.

Mrs. Monroe Smith, however, regrets the day that oil was discovered on her land. To the oil she lays all of her troubles, and they are many.

Involved in 86 Suits.
She is 72 years old and feeble. One eye is sightless and the other falling. Her children have had her declared insane in court. They seek to have her royalty contracts with the oil companies cancelled. There are 86 suits on file regarding her sanity and obligations. Doctors and lawyers pursue her day and night.

Until the oil boom, Mrs. Monroe Smith's life was comparatively uneventful. Originally from Mississippi, she came west as a girl and, when 19 years old, married John Monroe at Austin, Tex. They went farther west and started a sheep ranch, small at first and larger as they prospered. There were eight children.

In 1913, when Monroe was killed in a train wreck, 25 sections of the Pecos county land had been amassed. By his will, the land was divided between the widow and the eight children. The children were grown and had little interest in the property. Five were glad to sell their shares to the widow. She also bought other land.

With her children grown and married, Mrs. Monroe was lonely so, in 1917, she married M. A. Smith, one of her ranch hands, a man 25 years her junior.

This did not please the children. They talked of having the ceremony annulled. A suit was filed, but nothing done.

Nine years later, however, oil was discovered on the Yates property, near the Smith ranch, and the Smiths awoke one morning to find representatives of a score of oil companies on their front porch. Wells were brought in and royalties began to pile up for the Smiths.

Then the Monroe children went into action. They had their mother declared insane by the district court at Fort Stockton, Tex., and a receiver was named for the properties.

Unprecedented Litigation.
The receiver immediately filed suits asking cancellation of all leases on the Smith ranch on the ground that Mrs. Smith was incompetent when she signed them. The oil companies countered with some 56 suits to remove cloud from title. In the aggregate, lawyers say, the suits are the greatest civil action in the history of Texas.

Hearings have been held at El Paso, Fort Stockton and San Angelo. Half a dozen more are scheduled and the case will probably require years for settlement.

At San Angelo and Fort Stockton, scores of friends and neighbors of Mrs. Smith testified regarding oil leases and gave conflicting opinions as to her mentality.

Mrs. Monroe Smith is a tremendously wealthy woman, but her millions have brought her much unhappiness.

Says Girls of Today Happier
"Girls of today are healthier and happier than ever, and I like to see them shingled," declared Mrs. Robert Pleasants while celebrating her 100th birthday anniversary at her home at Ripleville, Ireland. "I was married at 16, in a bonnet and shawl," she continued. "In my day a girl did not get much chance, but today they have every chance."

STOCK SALES AVERAGES. Twenty Day ... Today ... Friday ...

BY STANLEY W. PRENSOIS

ANALYZED FROM FINANCIAL EDITOR

New York, Sept. 30.—(P)—The stock market, having gone through a series of backing and filling movements all week, closed today with a surprising outburst of strength.

Trading was in unusually large volume for a half holiday session, blocks of 1,000 to 11,000 shares appearing on the tape at frequent intervals.

There was nothing in the day's news to influence the upward price movement, which appeared to be founded on the speculative intervals.

No Influencing News. There was nothing in the day's news to influence the upward price movement, which appeared to be founded on the speculation.

General Motors, in which William C. Durant is reported to have formed a large pool, returned to its old role as a market leader by climbing nearly 6 points to 216 7/8.

DuPont which has large G. M. holdings, scored and extreme gain of 10 points and Motor Products, which was under pressure earlier in the week rallied nearly 6 points.

Ice Cream Hits Peak. National Bellas Hess and Coty were the spectacular features, the former soaring 16 points to 114 and the latter 14 points to 260, both new high records.

General Electric responded to reports of record-breaking summer business by advancing to a new high record for all time at 84.

Rails In Demand. Rails were again in brisk demand on buying influenced by the belief that last quarter traffic and earnings will show substantial improvement over the corresponding period last year.

Chicago Grain. Chicago, Sept. 29.—Spectacular trading in September delivery of corn culminated today with surrender by leaders who were reported to own the bulk of the country's visible supply.

Wheat closed steady as to September contracts but otherwise only slightly affected, September finishing at a net loss of 1/16 to 11/16 with other months off a net of 1/16.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

Political Parties Are Still Fighting the Civil War. But They Don't Know It—Farmers Have Had Plenty of Oratorical Relief.

BY WILL ROGERS.

Well, all I know is just what I read in the papers, and back here in New York there is an awful lot of papers to read. But they are mostly pictures. New York Newspapers don't have reporters, all they have is photographers. Everything is done by pictures. They wouldn't give a dime for the biggest story in the world if there was no picture with it, for it would be no good for their people couldn't read it. So I sure have read a lot of pictures since I been back here.

What they can't read in the picture why they hear over the radio, so there is no use knowing how to read reading any more. There must be a kind of a gentleman agreement between Smith and Hoover. They have divided up the air so that Smith has it Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and Hoover Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and you would think "Well that gives us Sundays without having to listen to nay Politics." But don't you believe it, that when you get more Politics than all the rest of the week combined. That's when the Preachers start lecturing. They all start out by saying, "The Church should not enter into Politics, BUT," then they try to show how in their case it is different, that they are not entering politics, they are just advising, that people are so flighty nowadays that if they are not advised properly why they are so apt to be led astray by the opposition.

Smith started out a couple of weeks ago and made what I bet he thought was a trip around the World. I bet he had no more idea this country was that big or he would never had the nerve to say he would try and govern it. He hit Omaha first. He made a Farm Relief speech there. The poor farmers have had more oratorical relief than monetary. Smith brought out one pretty clever thing in that speech, that was showing that the Republican Farm Relief plank was exactly the same in the 1924 Convention and in the 1928. They hadn't even gone to enough trouble for the farmer to re-word their promise. It just looked like they said, "Well what did we promise him last election?" "Oh, we promised him relief." "Well do as well for him this time, promise it to him again. As long as we don't give it to him we can keep on promising him."

Why Don't These Farmers Get Together?

Well Al nailed em on that, but of course they will squirm out of it some way by saying they was just on the verge of giving him relief when something happened. But the old Farmer up North, he will go right to the polls on November sixth and vote the Republican ticket, and the old farmer down south will go and vote the Democratic ticket. Now will you tell me why in the Lords name those two should not be on the same side politically? What does the farmer in the North want that the Republican Party can give him, that his brother in the South wants that the Democrats can give him? Why aint they on the same side? They both raise corn and oats, they both have to buy wagons and plows. They both want to sell what they raise for as much as they can get for it, and buy the same things for as little as they can. Now I don't know if they should be Republicans, or Democrats, but it does look like they should be on the same side. The only reason

I can see is they fought against each other in '65, so that made one a Democrat and one a Republican. So if they still harbor that feeling then there is no reason why they should get relief. When they can't agree among themselves how do they ever expect to get anything? So I don't blame the Parties from not helping them.

Doesn't Want Loans. Now here is the southern farmer lined up with Tammany Hall. Now what have Tammany Hall and ANY Farmer got in common? Then here is the Northern Farmer lined up with Wall Street and big business. Now why should they be together? The Farmer don't want to borrow any more money. Borrowing is what put him in the hole he is in today. The Government was always figuring out where he could borrow more. But they never figured out where he could pay something back. Now there is a real reason why farmers or country people should be in one political party and City people in another. They have different interests, different needs, different things to sell, and hundreds of different wants and customs. But why the Northern farmer and the northern City fellow, should be allied against the Southern Farmer and the southern City fellow, that is beyond sane understanding. That should be the legitimate alignment of politics, is the Country against the city. Tariff don't divide the two parties anymore. Smith is explaining his head off that if he gets in they won't do away with the tariff, so it would just drive a person pretty near crazy to dope out really what does divide the two. Outside of one being in and wanting to stay in, and the other being out and wanting to get in.

Back to Civil War. Prohibition can't be the dividing line, for it is so arranged that both sides get all that they want. Prosperity don't divide the two parties for under either administration the poor got poorer and the rich get richer. Prosperity is only a question of giving a Guy time to get it. So the whole thing it looks like goes back to the Civil War. The Boys are still fighting it and don't know it. (Copyrighted 1928. By the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

ROTHMOOR COATS

Women admit they've never seen such interesting fabrics

Spots, dashes, arrows, flashes—swirls of bright color—small checks and diamond patterns—fabrics from England, France and Scotland, tailored and furred the famous Rothmoor way. They're so new that women admit they've never seen coats half as interesting or half as new.
