

ELEVATOR KILLS CHARLES KELSEY AT MARQUETTE

LIFE OF DEPUTY CLERK OF UNITED STATES COURT INSTANTLY SNUFFED OUT BY ACCIDENT FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

TWO BOYS WITNESS THE TRAGEDY

Skull is Crushed Between Elevator Floor and Crossbar Above Cage Door, When Power is Turned On Before the Outside Gate is Closed—Boy's Story of the Fatality.

Escanaba friends of Charles Kelsey of Marquette, deputy clerk of United States court, will be shocked and grieved to learn that he was instantly killed about five o'clock yesterday afternoon by being caught in the elevator in the Nester block, Marquette, which he had entered a moment before with the evident intention of going to one of the upper floors. The only eye witnesses to the tragedy were two boys on the elevator at the time. When first seen by others, the body was lying on the floor in the hallway in a pool of blood, with the skull fractured and crushed in several places.

The two boys on the elevator were Clifford Varden and John Donahue. At first they told conflicting stories of the accident, but later upon being closely questioned they told what appears to be a true version of the sad affair.

Story of the Fatality.

The Varden boy was supposed to operate the elevator, while the Donahue boy was a messenger and mail boy. The latter had formerly operated the elevator for a short time. According to the boys' story last night, Varden had run the elevator up to the third floor to bring down the Donahue boy, who was going out with some mail. The Donahue boy started the elevator down. Upon reaching the first floor, Donahue for some reason decided to go back into the building, and the elevator was started up.

According to the Varden boy, Donahue had hold of the elevator rope and he (Varden) was about to shut the

ESCANABA GIRL APPEARS IN PLAY

Miss Marie Snyder Fills a Role in the Cast of "Twelfth Night," Which is Produced as a Feature of the Commencement Exercise of Lawrence College, Appleton.

Mrs. A. F. Snyder has returned after a week's visit with friends in Appleton. She was accompanied home by her daughter, Miss Marie Snyder, who has been studying at Lawrence College and will spend the vacation at home.

Miss Snyder took part Tuesday evening in the production of "Twelfth Night," which was a notable feature of the graduation exercises at Lawrence college. It was presented in the open air on the college campus and made a great hit with the large audience present. In its notice of the play the Appleton Crescent had the following:

"The play, 'Twelfth Night,' is rather ambitious for amateurs, yet the young people acquitted themselves most admirably. Isaac LeGasse as Malvolvo entered into the part of that peculiar character with true spirit, and the parts taken by Messrs. Nix and Watson were also exceedingly done. Misses Powell, Snyder and Kitto filled difficult roles and greatly pleased the audience.

"The costuming was elaborate and the music in harmony with the performance and the whole affair not only a novelty but a great success for the School of Expression."

Mr. Harris is caring for the injured bird and will return it to its owner if that owner can be located. Mr. Jaki was unable to inform Mr. Harris regarding the ownership of the bird.

MENOMINEES ARE ALREADY CHAMPS?

Championship Bee is Buzzing Pretty Loudly in Bonnets of Menominee Baseball Players Because of Their Victory Over the Escanaba League Team Last Thursday.

What did The Mirror say last Wednesday that the Menominee baseball team would do if it succeeded Thursday in slipping a defeat over on the Escanaba team?

It said that in that case the Menominee team would never get through crowing and now the aforesaid Menominee team is feeling so inflated with its victory that the Menominee Herald-Leader says, presumably for the team:

"By rights of winning yesterday's game they can claim the honors of the championship of the upper peninsula. In that case, the management will no doubt challenge the winning team in the league at the end of the season to play a series of three or five games for the championship of the upper peninsula."

Oh, me! Oh, my! Isn't there an old saying that "one swallow does not make a summer?" And by the same token it may just as safely be declared that one victory does not always indicate that the winning team is entitled to championship honors.

COSTLY FIRES IN ST. LOUIS CHARGED TO INCENDIARISM

ANOTHER SPECTACULAR FIRE RAGES FOR FOUR HOURS IN MILL PLANT AND DOES $300,000 WORTH OF DAMAGE.

POLICE PROTECTION IS DEMANDED

Manufacturers Intimate that Fires are Not Accidental and Say Circumstances Tend to Connect Members of Striking Carpenters' Union With Their Occurrence.

(By Associated Press.)

St. Louis, June 17.—A spectacular fire burned fiercely for four hours last night and did damage to the mill, warehouse and lumber yard of the Wm. G. Frye Manufacturing company to an extent estimated in excess of $300,000.

Police protection has been demanded by the officials of the Lobey Patent Door company, who charge to incendiaries the fire which damaged the plant of the Frye company and the one which Thursday night destroyed the Huttig Sash & Door company and four other large establishments, causing a loss of a million dollars. Last night's fire was located but a few blocks from the area swept Thursday night.

Pressed for more definite information upon which to act, the police were cited by the manufacturers to a number of instances tending to connect some member of the Carpenters' union, which organization has been on a strike since March 1, with the fires.

Mr. Hitchcock was about 55 years old and had been a resident of this city for a quarter of a century. During that time he was engaged in a number of occupations, last being the conducting of a carriage decorating and sign painting establishment. He was also at one time landlord of the Oliver hotel and enjoyed considerable reputation as a trainer and driver of race horses.

He is survived by his aged mother and a sister, Mrs. William McNaughtan, both of whom live at Oshkosh, Wis., and a daughter, Miss Alice Hitchcock of Fort Atkinson, Wis.

His remains were taken from the hospital to D. A. Oliver's undertaking establishment, from which place the funeral will be held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Rev. P. B. Ferris will conduct the services in the chapel and interment will be made in Lakeview cemetery. The pall bearers will be: A. J. Henry, Charles Ehnerd, A. R. Northup, Otto Loeffler, Dr. W. J. MENOMINEE SHOWED HIGH APPRECIATION OF EXCURSIONISTS

PEOPLE OF THE GOOD TOWN EVIDENCED BY THEIR WORDS AND ACTIONS THEY WERE PLEASED WITH VISITORS.

VOICED BY THE HERALD-LEADER.

That Excellent Newspaper Gives Editorial Expression of the Feeling Regarding the Recent Visit to Menominee of Escanaba and Gladstone People—Article in Full.

That Menominee appreciated the visit made to that city Thursday by hundreds of Escanaba and Gladstone excursionists was amply demonstrated by the cordial welcome and hospitable treatment the visitors received. Another evidence of this appreciation and the pleasure their coming gave to the Good Town is found in the following pleasing editorial reference thereto, which appeared in the Menominee Herald-Leader of yesterday:

"Menominee was yesterday invaded by a friendly host and seldom has it been the privilege of the city to entertain more welcome guests. The visitors arrived here about noon, on board the splendid steamship, United States, from Escanaba and Gladstone. Many were met by friends in carriages and automobiles and the crowd was soon distributed about the city.

Profoundly impressed. "After lunch the visitors were shown the various points of interest and all expressed admiration of Menominee's paved streets and handsome public buildings.

"Those who visited the John Henes City park were profoundly impressed by its magnificence and extent, and pronounce it to be one of the finest public playgrounds in the country.

"General interest centered in the baseball match and at three o'clock the fair grounds were the Mecca for hosts and guests. The spectacle presented by the splendid crowd assembled to witness the baseball match between Menominee and Escanaba was one calculated to make the hearts of the fans glad with joy and the man-

MISS PEARL FRASER ALSO TO SING HERE

Menominee Singer, Well Known Here, is Engaged as Special Soprano Soloist for "The Rose Maiden," Which is to Be Produced in This City Next Monday Evening.

Miss Pearl Fraser of Menominee has been engaged as special soprano soloist for "The Rose Maiden," which will be given at the First Presbyterian church Monday night. Miss Fraser is well known in this city, having visited her sister, Mrs. Frank Shunmaker, on several occasions. As a singer Miss Fraser needs no introduction to the people of Escanaba for the words of praise concerning her efficient service at the last concert given by the Choral club are well remembered by the people of this city, and those who heard her before will be delighted with the opportunity of hearing her again in one of the solo parts of "The Rose Maiden."

Miss Fraser will sing tomorrow morning at the First Presbyterian church, giving at that time Gaunod's "Oh Divine Redeemer." She will appear again at the Baccalaureate service at the High school auditorium in the evening.

"The Rose Maiden" production will be accompanied by full orchestra and should be one of the most pleasing and entertaining events of the season.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my friends and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers, but as I grew older it commenced to come out. When my hair was quite thin and gray, I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to try a bottle; and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found my hair was fast coming back to its natural condition. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur until my hair was as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I began using Sage and Sulphur and my hair is in splendid condition.

TRAVERSE CITY WILL HAVE NAVAL RESERVES

Escanaba members of the Michigan Naval militia will read the following from the Traverse City Record-Eagle with considerable interest:

"Traverse City is going to have a division of the state naval militia. This movement has been on foot among some interested in military matters for a short time but the situation became a certainty last week when H. Vanderwerp, who was formerly a member of the Benton Harbor division went to Lansing and called on the state naval board and laid the matter before them in a business like manner and secured a promise of their assistance in the formation of the body here.

"The Traverse City division will be battalioned with the Benton Harbor division and will be given a ten day cruise on the gunboat Yantic, stationed at Hancock, beginning August 8. The cruise will be continued each year during the life of the organization."

NEW YORK WILL BE THE LARGEST CITY

New York, June 17.—New York will overtake London in the matter of population sometime between 1914 and 1916, according to a calculation just made public by the secretary of the federation of churches.
Computations, however, include a portion of the New Jersey suburban territory as a logical part of New York city, making New York's present population about 6,500,000. The difference figured on this basis, is now about 600,000 and the population here is growing at three times the rate in the older city.

Every job "lost" today will be some answer of want ads, tomorrow.

ONETTA, THE DANCER

Seeing is Doubting.
"Seeing is believing, eh?" said an oculist. "Well, no saw was ever more absurd than that. You see a horse's head and a flour barrel, and you believe the barrel is longer than the horse's head, don't you? Well, it isn't. The horse's head from the tips of his ears to the end of his nose is longer than the barrel by a considerable distance. Architects have to deceive the eye in order to make it appear that their buildings are symmetrical. They make walls lean in that they may appear vertical. They make windows wider at the top. They make columns thicker in the middle than at the summit or base. And the top lines of a building, in order to appear plumb to the silly eye of man, must be raised up quite a lot in the center."
"Seeing is believing, indeed!"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Apple Pie Without Apples.
A guest at an old fashioned home dinner was eulogizing apple pie and her hostess when another guest, who had been a California pioneer, recalled the "apple pie given the children of 1852 to appease their homesick cravings when apples were a dollar a pound. It was made by breaking four soda crackers into an earthen bowl and pouring over them a pint of cold water rendered very tart by citric acid. When soft the crackers were laid on a plate on the undercrust. Over them were sifted two table-spoonfuls of light brown sugar and a little allspice and cinnamon. A pretty perforated top crust was added, and in a few minutes a perfect apple pie was taken from the oven to delight young and old.—New York Sun.

The Difference in Speed.
The professor of shorthand in a local business college adduced this unanswerable argument in an address to a new class the other day:
"We are told that it took Gray, author of the well known 'Elegy in a Country Churchyard' seven years to write that famous poem. If he had known stenography he could have done it in seven minutes. We have graduates who have done that same poem in that length of time!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

He Would Indeed.
"What's this word, pa?" asked Willie, pointing it out in his book.
"Phenomenon," replied pa.
"Well, what is that?"

considerable margin, in depriving the aforesaid Wagner of the privilege of participating further in the contest and concluding the Pittsburgh club's opportunity for a triumph at that particular juncture.

How would you like to read baseball written in that manner. Eastern writers assert the above appeared in a Beantown periodical, which translated into English means "Peaches" Graham shot the pill back to "Buster" Brown who "breeced" it over to "Old Man" Tenney, nailing Dutch Wagner off the sack by a mile and breaking up the Pirate's batfest.

THRUH IN ITS NEST TIES UP FREIGHT CAR

Burlington, N. J., June 17.—When freight car No. 58967 rolled out of the railroad yard at East Burlington the other day a thrush and her six little ones chirped from a neighboring bush a grateful good-by. For weeks they had nested on one of the trucks of the car.

The birds are indebted to William Southwick, the yardmaster. Four times a switch engine had called for the empty car and four times the yardmaster had refused to let it go. He had seen the thrush darting in and out from the truck and had discovered the nest with six eggs. He knew the moving of the car meant extermination of the family and so he made it wait until the mother hatched the eggs and the fledglings could fly.

Audubon enthusiasts wish to give Southwick a medal. They say six extra thrushes will destroy enough insects this summer to save sufficient farm produce to fill the car when it comes again to Burlington.

BALL GAME AS IT IS DESCRIBED IN BOSTON

Graham regurgitated the spherical object, composed of caoutchouc, the (Quercus Suber) spun wool and a portion of the hide of a deceased equine, to Brown, who, projecting it with much force and momentum thence to Tenney, before Wagner could return to the initial sack, succeeded, by a

This Newspaper Aims to Render Real Service to YOU!

IF, BY some persistency in giving advice, this newspaper can convince every merchant of the wisdom of telling YOU all of his store-news that is important--of using enough space in which to do it, and of telling as much of his store-news in every issue as you would be interested in knowing--and--

If, at the risk of over-iteration, this newspaper should convince you that this same store-news is of real, live, palpitating importance to YOU, as fully worthy of your attention as politics, or base ball, Crowned Heads, or elopements, murders, riots, fashions or functions of the rich--and--

If it should follow that the merchants should prosper in exact ratio to their energy in advertising and that YOU should thrive in proportion to your intelligence in SPENDING YOUR INCOME--then this newspaper will feel that it has accomplished so real a public service that this city will be a still better place in which to live and to do business!

fortify himself in a narrow gorge and delay the Indians till the party had passed? A move of the Indians decided him. A dozen or more bucks broke away from the body of the savages and rode toward the mouth of a canyon leading up to the rear of the travelers. Osborne dismounted and tied his horse to a tree. He could not use the animal in the canyon, and when the travelers came along the horse would serve as a warning to them. Then the lieutenant dropped down into the canyon.

The route up the canyon from its mouth was difficult, and, though the distance was not great, the Indians made slow progress. The point chosen for the improvised fortress commanded an open space widening downward. Hearing the breaking of underbrush at the farther end of the open, Osborne put himself on the alert and when a redskin broke through first. The buck pitched forward on his face. Two or three more Indians broke into the open at brief intervals, and Osborne dropped every one of them as he appeared.

Indians are not prone to fighting what they have no knowledge of, and not another one of them came into the open. They were reconnoitering the toy fort with one man in it, though they could not see the man, and he might be one or a dozen, besides more to come.

It was about this time that the ambulance approached the point where the young officer had, taken to the canyon. The first of this second series of shots came up to the travelers. The driver drew rein. One of the escort rode ahead, saw and recognized Osborne's horse. Riding back, he called to the other armed men:

"For heaven's sake, come! Lieutenant Osborne is down there fighting!" Osborne had dropped several of the redskins, who were trying to divide his fire, when another batch emerged and behind them another. He believed that ten minutes more would end the fight and his scalp would grace the girdle of one of the warriors when he heard sounds as of men or animals breaking through brush above him. He shouted, and his voice was answered by halloos.

The Indians, ignorant of what force they had to contend with, beat a hasty retreat. The party, including Rose Hammond, was saved. She proceeded on her journey, but her answer to Osborne's proposition was reversed.

THE UNION LABEL.

Trade unionists and the friends of trade unionists should never forget the union label is the most potent agency in the whole realm of organized labor.

There is not existing today a single abuse of which organized labor complains that could not be stamped out absolutely and permanently by proper utilization of the workmen's trademark.

The label is a cure-all, and it ought not to require any extended argument to convince the local unionists of this fact.

Moreover, the label stands for everything for which the A. F. of L. stands.

A Reversal

By SAMUEL E. BRANT

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

A fair haired, blue eyed young officer of the United States army knelt in a narrow canyon in the far west. Before him was an improvised fort--about the size of those made by boys out of snow, though Lieutenant Osborne's redoubt was composed of loose stones gathered from the dry bed of a creek in which it was located. In its center an opening had been left, through which protruded the muzzle of the officer's rifle, the butt of which rested against his shoulder.

There was no sound save the rustle of the leaves of the trees, no motion save a slight swaying of the branches and the hopping about of a chipmunk which finally stopped on a limb, sat upon its haunches, looked at Osborne out of the side of its head with one of its bright little eyes and seemed to say:

"What are you doing there?" This was what the lieutenant was doing there: He was one of the garrison of a fort not many miles distant. Rosa Hammond, who had been visiting her married sister, had that day left the fort to return to the east. Osborne had the evening before offered her his heart and hand. Not being certain of her feelings for him--she was a conscientious girl--she had taken the benefit of the doubt and refused him.

Her refusal did not make any difference in her lover's feelings for her. He had his doubts as to the safety of her journey to the railroad terminal. Rumors were current that Indians whom the garrison was intended to keep in order were meditating rebellion. Rebellion meant murder and scalp. The colonel commanding the post. Nevertheless on the morning of Miss Hammond's departure Osborne arose long before reveille, took his rifle and a belt of ammunition, mounted his horse and started alone to act as a skirmish line over the route the girl he loved would pass. She was to travel in an ambulance with an escort of half a dozen mounted outriders and to start at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Osborne had ridden over the route Miss Hammond was to travel along a ridge looking down on to the plains. Not caring to put too great a distance between himself and the ambulance, he turned to ride back when below on the open ground he saw a band of not less than fifty warriors huddled together looking up at the ridge on which he stood, but at a point between him and the fort. With the quick instinct of one used to such a life, he inferred at once that they were looking at the ambulance containing what was dearer to him than his life.

Osborne was peering through foliage and consequently invisible to the Indians. As he looked they dashed off, making straight for the mouth of a canyon leading from the plain up to the ridge, their purpose evidently being to come up through the canyon and ambush the party with the ambulance when it came along. Osborne hesitated for a moment between two plans. Should he ride back and warn the party, or should he go down the canyon.

FRIED POTATOES.

Sold on the Streets From Pushcarts in Parts of France.

The street vending of pommes frites, or French fried potatoes, is peculiar to the northern part of France. Pommes frites take the place of peanuts and popcorn and are sold in much the same fashion. Not only is this trade carried on in some instances as a regularly established business, but workmen wishing to increase their earnings come out on the streets in the evening and sell these fried potatoes from pushcarts. Their profits often exceed their day's wages.

The pushcarts are of the ordinary type, but covered. A coke brazier is inserted through the flooring, over which is placed the large iron caldron holding the fat obtained from beef suet. Raw potatoes, after being pared, are pressed through a special cutting machine, coming out in long, narrow, four sided pieces. These are immediately put into the boiling fat and in several minutes are thoroughly cooked. They are then salted and sold in small paper cornucopias holding 1 or 2 cents' worth.

Pommes frites have the advantage that they supply a satisfying and nutritive meal for a few cents. This is especially appreciated by the mill employees during the noon hour, as they are thus enabled to have something hot with their otherwise cold lunches. Rather than go to the trouble of preparing the dish, to say nothing of filling the house with the odor of boiling fat, many families prefer to purchase the freshly cooked tubers from the nearest vendor. These fried potatoes are not sold merely at mealtimes, but during the day, and are eaten like popcorn.--Consular Reports.

BULL ANTS OF AFRICA.

Elephants, Lions and Even Man Himself Flee From Them in Terror.

In the vast equatorial forests of Africa the most dreaded of animals is the great bull ant. Unlike other ants, it carries nothing away; everything is eaten on the spot. Every kind of beast and reptile--elephants, lions, gorillas, snakes and man himself--flee before this terrible insect.

These ants march through the forests in a long thin column, two inches wide and miles in length. If they come to an open space where there are no trees to shelter them from the sun they burrow underground and form tunnels, through which they march on. It often takes as long as twelve hours for one of these armies to pass.

Any creature overtaken is at once attacked with irresistible fury and instantly devoured. The strongest and the weakest, the most fierce and the most timid of creatures are alike their prey.

Natives overtaken by them seek refuge in the nearest river or pond. Yet even when the ants themselves are drowned their strong pincers refuse to relax their hold upon any flesh they may have attached themselves to, and, though their bodies are torn forcibly away, their heads remain.

Certain barbarous tribes, when a man is condemned for witchcraft, fasten him to a tree and leave him to the ants. When they have passed a skeleton alone is left to tell the tale.--Pearson's.

NURSING AS A CAREER;
CALL IS WORLD WIDE

It is said--that nursing is one of the most inviting fields of human service and that its financial return surpasses any other occupation open to young women. It develops all the native graces of womanhood and leads the way to positions of trust and influence. The demand for more nurses is a world-wide call.

The Philadelphia School for Nurses, located in Philadelphia, Pa., has undertaken to meet this demand by offering free scholarships to young women in all parts of the country. Room, board, laundering, incidental expenses, special financial assistance and railroad fare home on completion of the course, are provided. Length of course two years. Also a special short course and a home study course for those who must quickly prepare for self support.

The Philadelphia School for Nurses is a benevolent institution conducted without hope of gain or profit in the interest of ambitious young women. Readers of this paper can get full information by writing the school at once.

Passed the Bottle Too Quickly.
Will Low, the painter, told this story of the Latin quarter days of Robert Louis Stevenson. Low and Stevenson were great friends in their youth. Their friendship indeed continued up to the time of the writer's death.

"Louis," said the artist, "was no less diplomatic than brave. He could be fiery, and he could also be gracious and pacific. One night, I remember, we sat in a garden in Montmartre. The red wine had been flowing pretty freely, and one member of our party got heated and aggressive. Finally some one said a thing that this fighting chap disliked. As soon as the words were spoken he grabbed up a bottle and buried it at the other's head. It was a strong, true shot and would have hit the mark had not Stevenson sprang to his feet and caught the missile.

"Tut, tut, George," he said to the thrower--tut, tut! If the bottle is passed so quickly none of us will be able to stand out the evening."

Peer Thackeray.
Sir William Howard Russell's diary for April 1852, has this amusing glimpse of Thackeray:

"The sportsmen among whom I had the honor to be numbered were of the Winkle order. Thackeray, Dickens, John Bull, Jerrold, Lemon, Ibbotson, were invited, and carriages were reserved to Watford. As we were starting a written excuse was brought from Dickens to be conveyed to Mrs. X. by Thackeray. The party drove up to the house, and after compliments Thackeray delivered the billet. The effect was unpleasant. Mrs. X. fed along the hall, and the guests heard her calling to the cook: 'Martin, don't roast the ortolans; Mr. Dickens isn't coming.'

"Thackeray said he never felt so small. 'There's a test of popularity for you! No ortolans for Penderalis!'"

Hiring a Mother-in-law.
In Marseilles the salary of a mother-in-law hired to fill the position for a few hours is quoted at 1s. 6d. It was a case of separation of the girl's parents. Custom decreed that the mother-in-law must be present at the marriage ceremony, so the obliging matron agreed to go to give her consent on condition that a carriage be sent for her, and if not, said she, she would stay at home. The hour for the wedding came, but the carriage did not, so the matron stayed at home. The bridegroom in desperation when she did not appear ran out into the street and hunted up a promising looking woman, who agreed to come and act mother for the sum named. So she gave consent and blessing to the daughter whom she had never seen in her life before.--Buffalo Express.

WHY I AM A UNION MAN.

Because I am not afraid to line up with my fellow workers and make an honest demand for that which is ours by heritage.

Because I want to see every man, woman and child have plenty to eat, plenty to wear and plenty of time to enjoy it.

Because I am opposed to filth and ignorance and in favor of health and knowledge.

Because I can think more of an honest heart under a ragged shirt than I do of a blockhead bloated with a bank account.

Because a union man is never disrespected by any one except a lot of red eyed rounders with more money than kindness.

Because when I pay my dues into the union I realize that I am stirring some "thickening" into a bowl of soup for some poor, hungry woman or child.

ABUSING THE UMPIRE.

It is customary with a good many baseball fans to make the serious mistake of "ragging" the umpire when he gives a decision that is unfavorable to the home team. This is an unfortunate tendency and has an influence detrimental to the game itself.

The umpire who declines a close play against the home team is roasted by the more partisan fans, while if a close play is decided in favor of the home team the same umpire has a "good eye." The average fan wants the better team to win, but he is pretty apt to have a firm conviction that his home team is that better team and not every fan is broad minded enough to be a good loser.

Most people who attend a ball game pay their money to see at least a clean game, free from "roughneck" sport in any of its forms. Some of those who go pay their money to indulge their liking for blackguarding the players of the opposing team, the umpire when he makes unfavorable decisions and the home team when it plays "bonehead" ball.

It is best to put on the brakes and keep them on.

DON'T NEGLECT THE HORSE.

Special attention should be given to the comfort of dumb brutes during the hot summer weather, especially of those domesticated animals which share the work of man in his daily occupation. This applies, of course, particularly to the horse, on which is placed a burden of daily toil that makes him especially susceptible to the effects of extreme hot weather.

There is, no excuse for any driver being negligent in this matter, or falling to seek the comfort of his charge in at least this one respect. The question is one of self interest, moreover, no less than humaneness. The horse that is treated considerately will give better service than one that is abused or neglected.

THE FARMER AND HIS PROBLEM.

The American farmer has now got his crops planted. He has conduced that wonderful atom, the seed, to the tender care of Mother Earth, and he looks forward to that annual miracle which the coarse dust of the soil is again transmuted to be bread to the eater. The problem which faces him is not the simple life of an unadorned farmer. His father, who kept a dozen cows and raised a few acres of corn and potatoes, could get food for his family, and sell enough to clothe and educate them.

Furthermore, the wife wants clothes that look as respectable as those worn by the lawyer's or the doctor's wife. The children say Harvard and Vassar are none too good for them.

SOME REFLECTIONS ON SUMMER WEATHER.

The coming of the burning months of summer is dreaded by the majority of our people. Any physician will tell you, however, that pneumonia, bronchitis, and other of the greatest foes of the human physique, together with infinite and irritating minor, affections of the throat and respiratory organs, grow out of the strain of adjusting our delicate human frame to the vicissitudes of winter.

In tropical climates they have acquired better the art of living in hot weather. They rise early, receive the cool invigoration of the dawning day, and by the time the sun has reached its meridian, they are ready for their restful siesta. Their houses, built to admit air freely, are more favorable to mid-day sleep than our tightly built dwellings, whose windows give insufficient access to the air.

As the sun dips toward the western horizon, some more work is done. Of course our abnormal and unwholesome system of factory and business office labor makes such an ideal arrangement impracticable for most of us. But one hopes that mankind will not forever live in a manner defying his physical environment.

Cases are still pending against 14 trusts. It took six years to settle up Standard Oil and Tobacco, so the rest may be completed in 1913, if the courts will take cold lunches to the court house instead of going home to dinner.

A Man In Wolf's Clothing By DONALD CHAMBERLIN Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Leaving Gibraltar, I crossed the strait and landed in Tangier. The transition from an English army post to an Arab town is about as marked as any that can be made. At Tangier one finds about him the swarthy native, wearing the baracan, a long white cotton garment—probably the toga of the Romans, who once conquered his country, handed down to the present day—and of a different religion from what he has left on the other side of the strait, if his system of superstition can be called religion.

At Tangier I outfitted for a trip to the great desert of Sahara, aiming to penetrate as far south as Tuat, thence northeastward to Tripoli. I had several camels and a dozen men as servants and guards.

There is no lonelier place on the face of the earth than the desert, though I will admit that on a starlight night there is a solemn grandeur about it. When we were not moving at night instead of the day I established a guard about my camp just as if we were an army marching through an enemy's country, and, strange to say, this vigilance was simply exercised against thieves and robbers. The ingenuity of these lying rascals is remarkable. They are natural spies. They would come into our camp in the most friendly way for the purpose of theft, if they could get their hands on anything, and, if not, to gather information as to how they could rob us at another time.

One day a band of Tuaregs, as they are called, came into camp for the purpose, I felt sure, of observation. They numbered about as many as we, but as my force was under the command of a European and well armed they would not think of attacking us. That same night my sentinel—I put one man on guard—was shot dead. I heard the distant crack of a rifle and, calling several of my men, hurried them out in different directions after the murderer. I went myself, but saw nothing, only the great sandy billows. One of my men reported seeing a wolf running away, but no human being was found. The next day we buried the murdered man and proceeded on our way. That night while every one except the man on guard was asleep there was another crack, and a sentry was killed. Again I deployed my men, proceeding farther than before, but not even a wild animal was found. There was ample opportunity for any one to hide among the sand billows, and by covering himself with his baracan he was not likely to be seen. At any rate, we were obliged to give up the search.

I surmised that the party of Tuaregs who had visited our camp were hovering near us, intending to pick off a man every night till our number should be so reduced as to render us an easy prey. Then our camels, our tents, our supplies, our arms and ammunition would fall into their hands. The outfit would be a fortune to them. I concluded that I must stop their game at all hazards.

The next night I planted a tent pole in the ground, fixed a crosspiece to it, and, tying some sparrows grass about the two, I made the body of a manikin. This I covered with a baracan and put a fee on the head. Thus I had a dummy sentinel who might be shot to pieces without being hurt. I had taken care to fix our camp on the edge of an oasis, where I could eliminate the approach in one direction, and noted a convenient place of concealment—a hole in the ground—a few hundred yards from the camp. Soon after dark, taking a rifle, I went out to my hole. The moon gave sufficient light for me to see any one approach the camp.

I had a long wait, for it was near dawn before I saw any living thing, and then nothing more than a wolf prowling around in search of something to eat. But, having nothing else to watch, I watched the wolf. He would stop here and there and dig up the sand, then go on, with his nose to the ground, to another spot and dig again. All the while he was near the camp. Presently he stopped and after turning in a circle lay down. He was lost to view, but I kept my eyes fixed on the spot where I had last seen him.

Suddenly at a point still nearer the camp I saw a flash, heard a crack, and the wolf, raising himself on his hind legs, ran away like a deer.

I had a good view of the creature's silhouette against a line of dawn, and I am a good shot on the wing. Raising my rifle, I achieved an excellent aim and fired. The wolf pitched forward and lay still. I had instructed my foreman, Hamet, that if he heard a shot to wake the men and if he heard a second one to bring them out. In a few minutes they came running toward me. I called to them and joined them. Then we went to the body of the wolf I had slain. We found him to be one of the Tuaregs who had come into our camp a few days before, a villainous looking rascal, who seemed to be a sort of thief among them.

We scoured the country for a while, but found no one else. Trust an Arab for finding a place of concealment. I took similar precautions the next night and for several nights, but we were not troubled again in the same way. Doubtless the robbers, knowing that we had got on to their game, gave it up.

A Proverb Spelled. "Dearest, if I were far, far away could you love me still?" "Why, Reggie, what a question! I'm sure the farther you were away the better I should love you."

ILLINOIS WATERWAY BILL

PASSES SENATE; IN HOUSE.

(By Associated Press.)
Springfield, Ill., June 17.—The waterway bill has been reported to the house. Next week it will be read for the first time and then referred to the committee. The bill passed the senate yesterday.

TOOK OFF BABY BLUE SHIRT

"Wild" Bill Donovan Cheats Baseball Writers Out of Paragraph by Duffing Under Garment.

Bill Donovan cheated the quill-fak-ers out of a paragraph in a recent game with the Champion Athletics.

"Wild" Bill Donovan.

All season Bill has been wearing a baby blue undergarment. The wires were all laid to announce, in case Bill went bad at his first appearance, that "he had nothing but a blue under-shirt." But Bill doffed the shirt before he started to hurl.

Bill's 1911 debut was not an auspicious one. Philadelphia players took an early fancy to his curves.

KNOCK ON BASEBALL SLANG

College Game or "Murderous" Expressions Accompanying It Should Be Abolished, Says Professor.

College baseball, or the "murderous" slang expressions that accompany it, should be banished from the earth, according to Dr. John S. Nollin, president of Lake Forest college. He quoted the following as some of the terms that so greatly grate upon his sensitive ears:

"Kill the umpire."
"When did you leave the farm?"
"Tain't no strike, get off the diamond," and "you ought to pitch hay."
"I feel that if some of the barbarity of the game is not abolished, the game should be. I am astonished at the conduct of Lake Forest students. When the Milliken pitcher gave a base on balls everybody jeered him. It was most ungentlemanly. Most!"
"This is due to the inroads of professional baseball on the college. Conduct of students at football games is becoming better and at baseball games is worse."

JURY VALUES DEAD

PORKER AT $10,000

Atlanta, Ga., June 17.—Ten thousand dollars was the value placed on a hog by a jury in the superior court here in the case of J. D. Debow of Nashville, Tenn., against the Vicksburg (Shreveport & Pacific) railroad. The hog was Premier Longfellow's Rival, a pedigreed porker, killed in a railroad accident and on which Mr. Debow had set a valuation of $20,000. The animal was nine feet long, three feet high and weighed more than 1,000 pounds.

BARS LIQUOR MEN FROM INSURANCE

New Haven, Conn., June 17.—By a decision handed down by the supreme court here it is established that an insurance order is not obliged to pay insurance to a member who engages in the liquor business. John Burns, after becoming a member of the United Workmen, engaged in the liquor business, but continued to pay premiums. At his death the order refused to pay the policy.

NEW APPLE COUNTRY PROMISED.

Horticulturists of the northwest, have discovered that there is a certainty that the northwestern states can raise apples, of finer flavor than any place on the globe. Why they have not done so before was because the growers did not adopt the new methods used in the far west. Plans are under way to use the same methods, when it is claimed the northwestern apple will be as superior to all others, as golden grain belt beers are superior to ordinary beers. If you have not given them the test do so now.

PAINTED HIS PORTRAIT.
His Wife Was the Artist, and the Result Wasn't Flattering.

A suburbanite but lately married went out to post a letter, and as the lamps had not been lit in the road in which he dwelt he could only dimly see his way. A short distance up the road he met, as he thought, his wife, who had been out to tea, and as he went past he just whispered:

"All right, my dear; I shall be with you in a minute."

Immediately after he had said these words he saw the lady turn a startled look upon him and then bury away, and the horrible idea occurred to him that it was not his wife at all and that in the darkness he had made a mistake. He decided to say nothing about the matter and quickly disappeared.

When he returned home he found his wife waiting for him, and she at once greeted him with the words:

"Oh, George, I have had such a frightful experience! I was just coming down the road when a man tried to stop me and said, 'All right, dear; I shall be with you in a minute.' I ran home, found you out, and I've been so much alarmed."

George was just about to explain when an idea came to him.

"What sort of man was it?" he asked.

"Oh," replied the young wife, "I saw him quite plainly, and a more villainous face I never beheld in my life. He was a perfect monster, with crines stamped upon every feature."

George decided it was best to say nothing after all.—London Tit-Bits.

FIGHT SHY OF A RAT.
Let the Rodent Escape Rather Than Run the Risk of a Bite.

"Never attack a rat in a closed room," says an old warehouseman who has had a world of experience in dealing with rodents. "Open a door or window and give it a chance to get away. Even if you've got a dog to help you, you may be bitten if you don't. Rat bites are very dangerous. A rat eats all sorts of carrion and filth and then puts his dirty whiskers into anything else he wants to sample."

"Here's another idiosyncrasy of rats. They logically carry out the principle of the survival of the fittest. And they are not merely suffragettes or suffragists, but the females absolutely boss the rat tribe. The slightest token of physical weakness in the baby rat is the signal for death at the teeth of his mother. About five rats survive from a nest of ten or fifteen. The male rat will fight to save the little ones, but is invariably driven off by the ferocity of the mother. You never saw a rat yet that wasn't a perfect specimen. If the mothers did not have this trait the earth would be overrun with rats."

"Rats live and travel in colonies. The head of the group is always an old female rat. When I start to clean up a settlement of rats I lay for the head female rat. If I catch and kill her the others disappear."—New York Times.

THEATRICAL

cage gate, when Mr. Kelsey stepped on the elevator, the elevator starting up just as he got one foot inside. Donahue's back was turned to the door and he says he did not hear the cry of warning, which Varden says was given by both him and Mr. Kelsey.

Head Struck Cross-bar.
The elevator continued going up until Mr. Kelsey's head struck on the steel crossbar over the door of the cage, only one of his feet being on the elevator platform, according to Varden. The space between the elevator floor and the crossbar rapidly lessened as the elevator rose, with Mr. Kelsey between, until his foot slipped off the outer edge of the elevator floor. By that time, however, the space had closed until Mr. Kelsey's head was caught, and he hung there, suspended in the air for an instant, until the elevator was finally reversed, when Mr. Kelsey's body fell to the hallway floor below.

Well Known Man.
Mr. Kelsey was one of the best known residents of Marquette county, having been superintendent of the Marquette public schools and probate judge of the county before taking the deputy clerkship of the United States court. He was born at Kent, Portage county, Ohio, August 26, 1835, and was nearly seventy-six years of age. He was a graduate of Hamilton college, where he was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity and upon graduation, he was elected to membership in the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity. He is survived by two children, Charles H. Kelsey of Milwaukee and Mrs. W. S. Hill of Marquette.

THE GRAND—On the program at the Grand Theater the last half of this week is Onetta, who appears in Derrisbetances as the champion whirlier of the world. And she maintains this championship with a standing challenge of $2,000 which should appeal to whirliers of a competitive frame of mind. Not alone is Onetta of interest on account of her meteoric act or remarkable staying qualities, but owing to the remarkable history of adventure which has been hers through life.

"It was in the great Sahara desert that I came near being doomed," said Onetta last night at the Grand. I presume you know that every tribe of Arabs has its whirlier, the whirliering the same place as does the best in this country. Benisuf was the name of the tribe that I was with all went well until we got into dispute over some camels we had caught from an Ifordesti tribe.

"Upon the hot sands of the desert two tribes fought. My tribe lost as I was not able to bring them victorious, I was sentenced to die until I would be no more. Twenty-four hours is the limit that any whirlier can, and I had gone twenty hours when the Arabs came and rescued me.

made my escape on a camel and after two months' time succeeded in reaching Morocco. From Morocco I went to Algiers and from there to Bombay, India. I came across Sheik Ali and he engaged me to come America."

THE PETERSON—There are few plays that have appeared here in season which have captured the audience at the Lyceum theater as did the Bromlee & Reed attraction, "The Texas Cattle King," which appeared here Tuesday. Texas has long been known in song and story as the state of human heart interest and the dramatization of this pleasing book by William Compton has proved that the Lone Star State still maintains its reputation as the home of romance and thrills. The company excels the usual road shown in every particular and the specialties deserve special mention.—Detroit Free Press.

The attraction so well spoken of by the Detroit Free Press is to appear at the Peterson tomorrow night.

MAIL BOXES MUST BE ON ALL HOUSES

Letter carriers in Escanaba and other American cities will not be occasioned annoying delays in making their deliveries after July 1 by reason of having to wait for the unlocking of doors at residences in answer to the knockings.

The new law of the postoffice department provides that where proper boxes or other receptacles are not placed outside of residences carriers need not make deliveries. A large number of Escanaba people have already installed boxes at their homes, but there are still many who have not complied with the order.

Postmaster H. W. Coburn desires that particular attention be paid to the law as it will be strictly observed by the local carriers.

NOT ONE OF THEM EVER OWNED A COW

For the last few days a demonstrator has been on the First National bank corner exhibiting the merits of a patent churn that will make the very best kind of butter in the very shortest time possible. This morning while he was giving a talk on butter making an audience of some fifteen or twenty men congregated and from all appearances were greatly interested. About this time "Sandy" Oliver happened along and after looking over the crowd anxious spectators remarked, "Verily, consistency thou art a jewel. Not one of those darn cusses ever owned a cow in their lives."

MEMOMINEE SHOWED HIGH APPRECIATION

agement glow with the gratification of appreciation.

"The game proved worthy of the attendance.

"It was a battle of giants.

Memominee Proud of Team.

"Memominee won, and, in defeating a team of the standing and caliber of the Escanaba leaguers, established their right to be considered top-notchers and masters of the great national game.

"The management of the baseball team has produced a winner—an aggregation worthy of a pennant and deserving of loyal support.

"Memominee is proud of the team, for, although the season is well advanced, it has an unbroken record of victories to its credit. Yesterday's was not only a victory but an exhibition of very fine baseball, the playing of both teams and their deportment on the field being creditable and entirely worthy of the large and representative attendance and the friendly and neighborly spirit of the occasion.

Thoroughly Appreciative.

"Escanaba and Gladstone must understand that Memominee thoroughly appreciates the compliment and courtesy of this visit, and that it was not marked by official receptions and ceremonies is entirely in deference to the wishes of the guests, who desired that the occasion should be informal, as the time at their disposal was necessarily brief and they desired to see as much of the Good Town as possible.

"On their departure all expressed themselves as being immensely pleased with their excursion. They had a most delightful trip on the steamer United States, witnessed an exciting and interesting baseball game and saw enough of Memominee and its people to look forward with pleasure to the opportunity of another visit when more time will be at their disposal and a better opportunity for their entertainment will be afforded."
