Dayton, March 26, 4 p. m.—The loss of life in this city may be estimated at all the way from 500 to 10,000. Any attempt to say how many people have been drowned is nothing but conjecture.

More than 70,000 people are either held in waterlocked homes or are marooned on the upper floors of the downtown buildings. The inundated district covers 15 square miles and the water is from six to twelve feet deep. The commercial district is badly flooded and cut off from communication. It was reported here this afternoon that the city of Warsaw, Indiana is flooded to the second stories of the business district.

Chicago, March 26, 3:00 p. m.—Conservative estimates place the total dead at 2500, but the loss in Dayton alone may reach 10,000 and could reach that easily, for it is positively not known yet how many lives may have been lost. All railroads out of Dayton are at a standstill and the property loss will reach fully fifty million dollars. The flood shows some signs of receding this afternoon.

Efforts Being Made to Aid
The Ohio legislature has voted $250,000 for the sufferers and Pennsylvania has followed suit with an appropriation of $50,000. Many governors have offered aid and in response Governor Cox has asked the world at large to assist them. The government has ordered a hundred tents and rafts to be shipped to Dayton and the flooded district. Life savers from Louisville have gone to Dayton to give their aid to the hundreds of people who are homeless.

Firemen Work From Boats
The members of the fire department in Dayton are working from boats and are busy trying to save people from buildings that break out into flames

THIRTY BOYS TO ISHPEMING

Local Boys Are Very Enthusiastic and Will Show U. P. That Escanaba is on the Map

Thirty Escanaba boys will leave here Friday afternoon to attend the First Annual Upper Peninsula boys conference to be held in Ishpeming on March 28, 29, 30. The boys are very enthusiastic and they intend to show the U. P. that Escanaba is on the map and intends to set the pace. Each boys organization is allowed to send two delegates who must be fifteen years old. The fact that sixteen organizations are sending delegates shows the boys interest.

The 10th annual state conference which met in Grand Rapids on Nov. 30, with 750 delegates, was too far away for boys. So in response to a request from the U. P. boys, we are to have a conference for Cloverland. The purpose of the conference is to inspire the boys and exchange ideas on boys work. The motto of the conference is "The Other Fellow." A complimentary banquet on Friday night with a welcome from the mayor and boys of Ishpeming will open the program. Features of the whole program will be papers by the boys, addresses by prominent boys' workers, and group conferences of various organizations represented.

Chas. Stoll, of Escanaba, will give a paper on the "Boys Development physically." Eugene C. Foster, city secretary for boys of Detroit, C. L. Rowe, state expert on work with boys in small towns of Jackson, Sigmund Adler, Y. M. C. A. boys secretary of Richmond, Va., and J. A. Van Dis, state boys secretary of Michigan will be the principal speakers.

Free entertainment will be given the boys but most of them are paying their own traveling expenses. The delegates from Escanaba are Wesley Malloch and Sam Stephenson from the Episcopal church, Gerald Leitch, Ed. Smith, Ray Buell, Burton Tuxford, Albert Christiansen, Spencer Syverson, Edwin Dahlgren, Ned Haring, Dell Brotherton, Gordon Sensiba, Eskil Ness, from the Methodist church, Claude Sharp from the Baptist, Fred Johnson, Roy Olson, Alvin Anderson, and Alfred Johnson from the Swedish Lutheran, Leonard Stade, Leland Greene, Laurence Johnson, John Perrin, Roy Mallman, Levi Perrin, Chas. Stoll, Clyde Utley, Douglas Wagner, Roy Herbst and Herbert Kiratne from the Presbyterian.

They are planning to make things lively with pennants, arm bands, horns, yells and songs. Their slogan is "Cloverland and Escanaba are good enough for me."

GLADSTONE WOODSMAN HAS MISFORTUNE WHILE BOARDING A TRAIN THIS MORNING

Andrew Johnson, of Gladstone, lies in a critical condition at the Laing hospital, in this city, following an operation for the amputation of a portion of both of the limbs, about six inches above the ankle.

The accident happened to Mr. Johnson this morning east of White Fish. He attempted to get on the moving Soo train at that place, and slipped. He fell so that his limbs were on the track and the wheels of a car ran over them, nearly severing a portion of them from the rest of the body.

The unfortunate man, who was on his way to the Bloom & Monk camps, where he had been working, after a visit at Rapid River, was taken aboard the train and hurried to Gladstone and thence to the Laing hospital in this city. An operation was performed in which it was found necessary to cut off both of the limbs several inches above the ankles. Johnson's condition is quite critical this afternoon.

ADRIANOPOLE HAS FALLEN

TURKISH COMMANDER A SUICIDE

The Flames Are Devastating the City—Military Depots Have Been Blown Up

(By Associated Press.)
Berlin, March 26.—Adrianople has fallen. The report was definitely announced today by the Sofia correspondents of the Presse Centrale. The Bulgarian Schipka regiment was the first of the allies' troops to enter the city.

The Turkish forces realizing that their efforts were in vain, blew up their military depots just before they were taken prisoners.

Commander a Suicide
London, March 26.—Shurki Pasha, the Turkish commander at Adrianople, today committed suicide shortly after his capture. The report is that flames are devastating the city.

Will Probably End War
London, March 26.—The fact that one of the principal reasons for the war was the refusal of the Turks to give up Adrianople, and now that they have been forced to relinquish their hold on the fortress, will undoubtedly cause the war to cease. In addition, it is believed that Turkey will agree to all of the demands of the allies for a discontinuance of the war.

FIRST OF SERIES OF HIGH SCHOOL DANCES

Will be Given by the Members of the Senior Class at the Gymnasium Friday Night

The first of a series of high school dances will be given Friday evening, March 28, at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the senior class. Only the members of the high school and their parents will be admitted. All others will be excluded by door-keepers, but students, fully empowered to enforce the regulations. The ball will be opened by a grand march, led by the president and the vice president of the senior class.

Great interest has been manifested by the merchants of the city, who have offered material assistance. Those deserving grateful mention are: Ed. Erickson & Co., Fair Savings Bank and Peterson Bros. It is believed that the event will be a success from every standpoint. A large attendance is expected. Careful provision has been made to care for the invited guests. The committee reserves the right to dismiss any person exhibiting boisterousness or unseemly conduct or infringing on the regulations in any way.

INDOOR PICNIC OFFERS UNCOMMON AMUSEMENT

Members of the Congregation of Methodist Church Have an Agreeable Time Last Night

The indoor picnic last evening at the basement of the Methodist church by the members of the congregation proved to be a most delightful one, and the entertainment afforded the same pleasures as though it had been outdoors. Games were played and different amusements were offered. The women brought good things to eat in baskets and when the luncheon hour arrived the women and gentlemen divided into groups and partook of the dainties. The affair was highly successful and those in attendance declared that they had "the time of their lives."

Stambaugh, Mich., March 26.—Overcome by gas while drawing the fires from under the boilers at the Young's mines here, Arnold Malmquist, a fireman, fell over the burning coals and was so badly burned before he recovered consciousness that he died in a local hospital five hours later.

MAY HAVE MONOPOLY

Parcel Post Law Appears to Bar Express People From Handling Small Packages

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, March 26.—An interpretation of law which, if sustained, would take away from the express companies of the country all of their business in packages weighing less than eleven pounds in puzzling Postmaster General Burleson. Some interpreters of the parcel post law, construing that statute in connection with the postal clause of the constitution, maintain that it has the effect of giving the government an absolute monopoly of the handling of parcels within the limit and size set by the law.

Under the constitution and the accumulated statutes and decisions of the courts, it is unlawful for any private individual or concern to compete with the government in handling mail matters. This law, those who have raised the question claim, automatically covers all activities of the post-office department and, therefore, should cover the parcel post service. Postmaster General Burleson probably will refer the question to Attorney General McReynolds for an exhaustive investigation, and his opinion will be laid before President Wilson.

SOCIAL WAS ENJOYED AT ST. PATRICK'S

The social held last evening by the ladies of St. Patrick's church at their hall was a very pleasant one, and the program carried out was a delightful one. Father Barth made the opening address, and he had a good word to say for the ladies of his parish, who are instrumental in so much of the church's success, and assured them that their efforts were appreciated by all.

The musical literary program, which was given, was as follows:
Recitation on Daniel O'Connell, by Catherine Doherty.
Vocal solo, John Allo.
Vocal solo and an inimitable recitation in the Swede dialect, James Conahan.
Vocal solo by Catherine McCarthy.

The boys' orchestra rendered several selections which was heartily enjoyed by the audience. Progressive pedro was played, after which a dainty luncheon was served. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. William Gallagher, Mrs. John Kroner, Patrick Gannon and John A. Allo.

NOMINATION BY ACCLAMATION

The Citizen's Ticket Presents a Strong Array of Candidates—Speeches of Acceptance

MR. CHATFIELD'S SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

"Mr. Chairman and Fellow Citizens: I have been called out by the Citizens' party to make the run for mayor of our city. You can see at a glance that the office has not gone begging. I have plighted against me two respected citizens, both gentlemen of high standing and if you should vote for either of these men, it would be a vote well cast. But, as I am also in the race, I respectfully ask your support and if elected will give the city my best efforts. I will endeavor to do my best for all the citizens during the term of my office. I have made no promises, but if elected will handle the conditions as they arise to the best interest of our city. I believe in honest, progressive methods. One reason why honesty is the best policy is because it is never overdone. First, last and all the time a square deal for all the citizens of Escanaba. With my best wishes, fellow citizens, I thank you.
For mayor—O. P. Chatfield.
For city clerk—A. J. Pepin.

In a short address H. J. Rushton placed the name of O. P. Chatfield before the audience.

SUPREME COURT ORDERS A REHEARING OF CASE

In the Matter of Mrs. Eva Rousseau Against the Brotherhood of American Yeomen

A decision has been rendered by the supreme court calling for a rehearing before that body of the case brought by Mrs. Eva Rousseau, of this city, against the Brotherhood of American Yeomen. A verdict was given the defendant when the case was heard in this county, and the plaintiff took the case to the state court. Attorney Rushton represented the defendants in the trials and Attorney Ryal the plaintiff.

The agitation arose from the refusal of the company to pay the insurance to the woman, who was the beneficiary under a policy carried by her son, who was killed, in a railway accident. It developed that the young man had not paid his dues during the last month of his life, and it was on this point that the litigation sprang up.

fore the convention as the nominee for mayor. In making the nomination, Mr. Rushton called attention to the business ability of Mr. Chatfield, and how he had contributed much to the commercial activity of the city by his careful and economical work, and that his executive qualities and keen business judgment made him an ideal candidate for the mayoralty position. "Chat" has no particular platform to run, he says, in as much that he believes in an economic administration of affairs, and that when the proper time arrived the gentleman believes in the adoption of the commission form of government.

Following the address a motion was made to have the tellers cast an unanimous ballot for Mr. Chatfield as the Citizen's candidate for mayor. The name of A. J. Pepin was placed in nomination for city clerk by George Shipman, and the first ward delegate said that Mr. Pepin had made an efficient clerk and that he ought to be returned to the office again.

This nomination, too was made unanimous, and the tellers cast the ballots of the convention for Mr. Pepin. Chas. Gunderson was placed in nomination for the office of city treasurer by John Finnegan and the North Escanaba delegate paid a high tribute to Mr. Gunderson's ability in placing his name before the convention. Mr. Gunderson's nomination was made unanimous and the tellers cast all of the votes of the convention for Mr. Gunderson.

Chairman C. C. Stephenson named H. J. Rushton, W. L. Bacon and Henry Wilke as committee to escort the three candidates before the convention. In thanking the convention for nominating him as a candidate for mayor, Mr. Chatfield made the remarks, which precedes the article.

City Clerk Pepin expressed his thanks to the convention for the honor of being placed in nomination for the office of city clerk, and remarked that the kindness of his friends in this campaign in lessening the work for him in the three cornered fight for municipal honors this spring. He assured the convention that if elected he would perform the duties of the office to the best of his ability and continue in his effort to make the best city clerk that Escanaba ever has had. Mr. Gunderson, when called before the convention, thanked the delegates for the nomination and gave assurance that he would work for the election of the entire ticket, and that, if elected, he would discharge the duties of the office faithfully and honestly.

At the close of the convention C. C. Stephenson was re-elected chairman of the Citizen's party for the ensuing year, and George Haggerson was re-named secretary of the party for another year. The ward chairman are as follows: First ward, George Shipman; second ward, Isaac Schram; third ward, Paul Jaeger; fourth ward, William Wickert; fifth ward, E. D. Shevaller; sixth ward, C. N. Wood and seventh ward, John Strom.

The weather has been principally fair and cold throughout the west since yesterday morning and zero temperatures are again reported from the upper Rocky Mountain and Plains states. From the Mississippi Valley eastward, however, the weather has been mostly unsettled, and in places stormy, the Ohio Valley in particular having been visited by heavy to excessive rains. 5.10 inches of rain fell at Louisville during the past 24 hours, 1.70 inches at Pittsburg, and 1.60 inches at Memphis. There will be no important change in temperature over this vicinity during the following 36 hours, and occasional snow furries are indicated for tonight or Thursday.

Family Bulletin Board.

Get a prettily mounted scratch pad and hang in the hall, close to where you lay off your wraps. Hang a pencil to use tablet. When a mother leaves the house before the children are home from school she should write on it where she has gone and when she expects to return, and also remind them of any duties she wishes them to perform in her absence. In their turn, if they go out, they should write a message for her, so that she will know where they are and when they will return. If any one calls on any member of the family during his or her absence, it should be promptly recorded, together with any message that may have been left. Telephone messages should also be written down as soon as received. Each member of the family should look at the bulletin board immediately upon entering the house, and thus no one will ever be bothered by messages being forgotten.

No More Constipation It's Me for Olive Tablets!

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and Calomel's old time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing laxative. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normal. They never FORCE them to unnatural action.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are so easy to take that children do not regard them as "medicine" at all. If you have a "dark brown mouth" and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and constipated, you'll find quick sure and only PLEASANT results one or two little Olive Tablets at bedtime. They're perfectly harmless. Thousands take one every night just to keep right. Try one. "Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." 10c and 25c per box. DIVORCE IN DECLINE

Los Angeles Plan Lowers Records in Court 50 Per Cent.

Homes Are Not Broken Up and City Enforces Payments of Alimony, and Soon Husbands and Wives Make Up.

Los Angeles, Cal.—That 50 per cent of the cases of trouble between man and wife, which formerly would have ended in divorce and the breaking up of a home, now end in reconciliation under the system of "divorceless" alimony, is the statement of Hugh C. Gibson, chief probation officer; and that a much larger percentage could be saved from divorce if a larger staff and more means were obtainable is the opinion he advances as a result of trying this system for two years.

The "divorceless" alimony consists in the payment of alimony without divorce proceedings, and has been in effect since January 1, 1911, when it became a law that failure to provide is a felony. Before that time the only redress a woman had on this ground was divorce. Now she may apply to the courts or the probation department, if there are children, on the ground of felony—and "hubby" must pay up, the alternative being the rock pile.

And if he goes on the rock pile at $1.50 a day—more than the average man makes, according to Gibson—the court collects the entire amount and pays it to his wife and children.

"I believe fully half our cases are saved from divorce now," said Mr. Gibson. "In a year we must average 500 cases where there is failure to provide; we easily save 250 out of that number from divorce. Unless the trouble is very real and hard a man's heart is apt to soften toward his wife and babies within a few months, and in five per cent of the cases, within sixty or ninety days he makes overtures of peace and effects a reconciliation. Of course we continue to keep supervision over the families—particularly if there are children. And sometimes the peace business doesn't go, and they are back on our hands; but usually it sticks, and instead of a divorce a ruined home and children without a father, there is a happy home with everything as it should be.

"In the last year we have handled approximately $15,000 in this divorceless alimony money. We cannot take more than sixty per cent of a man's earnings, and we have no set ratio. The amount is fixed in accordance not only with what he makes but with his wife's condition, the number of children, and other matters affecting their needs.

"Could we handle other specific divorce charges, such as drunkenness, or 'affinities,' and save fifty per cent? I don't know about the fifty per cent, because we haven't experimented, but we certainly could prevent many cases of divorce—many cases."

ODD FACTS ABOUT HEREDITY

Color-Blindness Descends from Male to Female, or Vice Versa, Declares London Professor.

London.—Lecturing at the Royal institute on "Heredity of Sex," Prof. Bateson relates some curious facts which have been discovered as a result of examining several generations of a family in which color-blindness appeared.

A color-blind woman, he said, is very rarely found and she always is a daughter of a color-blind man. Her sons and daughters would be normal, but her son's families would be normal, but if her daughter had sons, they would be found to be normal and color-blind in equal numbers.

A curious anomaly with reference to color-blindness appeared in twins. They were girls, exactly alike in appearance, but one was color-blind and the other was not. No explanation of this exception had been found. Prof. Bateson said there is a popular belief that sons in certain respects look after mothers and daughters after fathers. Within a reasonable range of speculation this is true, he said.

MORMON SHAFT FOR SEAGULL

Brigham Young's Scion Plans Memorial to Sacred Bird of Sect—Exterminated Grasshoppers.

New York.—It is learned that Mahorah Young, a grandson of Brigham Young, leader of the Mormon church, is at work in this city modeling a unique monument to the seagull. This bird is sacred to the Mormons because it saved the first immigrants to Utah from a plague of grasshoppers. It is said that the monument, which will be placed in the grounds of the Mormon temple at Salt Lake City. With such a costly monument the seagull apparently has a greater tribute of this kind paid it than any other bird.

At the base of the monument one side is to be devoted to an inscription and the remaining three will have low relief sculptures depicting the arrival of the Mormons in Utah, the saving of their first crop by the seagulls and the first harvest.

MAPLE SUGAR SHORTAGE GRIEVES BUCKWHEAT CLAN

New England Rains Stop Flow of Sap and Blast Hopes of Syrup Lovers

Boston, Mass., March 25.—Sad tidings have come out of the north. There is a shortage of maple sugar this year and the lovers of buckwheat and syrup are trembling. At Bellows Falls, Vermont, syrup and sugar makers in that locality are a disappointed lot of men. The season is a failure and nowhere near the usual amount of the Vermont product will go to lovers of the delicacy this spring.

A few owners of lots tapped their trees week before last and others began work this week. Wednesday showed a good run of sap, but that evening the weather was mild. Rain began to fall and the sap stopped running. Rain continued through Thursday and Friday and the ground did not freeze at night and a cold wind blew all day, stopping the flow.

From Sandwich, N. H., comes the news that three days of warm rain has blasted the hopes of the maple sugar makers in central and southern New Hampshire.

Baking Made Almost Automatic

Science has done many wonderful things in the way of lightening kitchen-work, but possibly the most welcome of its many achievements is the preparation of a baking powder that makes baking almost automatic.

This wonderful baking powder is known as Calumet Baking Powder. As you perhaps know from your own experience—baking is largely a matter of "luck." If your baking powder happens to be just right, your baking will be good. But if it varies in quality or in strength—as so many baking powders do, your bakings are more than likely to be ruined.

Calumet Baking Powder puts a stop to the dependence on "luck." With it, as quickly-raised foods can be made without the slightest trouble—made pure and wholesome and tasty. For Calumet itself is pure in the can and in the baking—and so uniform in quality, so carefully prepared, that failures are impossible. You can judge of its purity, too, when you know that it has been given the highest awards at two World's Pure Food Expositions—one at Chicago in 1907, and the other at Paris, France, last March.

The Pill, a Journal in the Interest of the Druggists, Speaks Kindly of Escanaban

In The Pill, a journal devoted to the interests of the drug trade, is the following write-up of one of Escanaba's druggists, which is topped with a likeness of him:

"There is no excuse for printing the name under the above photograph as John J. Sourwine, dean of the Escanaba drug trade is so well known in the upper peninsula and the rest of the United States that he does not need tagging.

"Mr. Sourwine is the leading candidate for the postmastership of that city. As there are only a few genuine dyes in the wool, Democrats in the U. P. he has enjoyed the title of 'The Democracy of Delta county.' Mr. Sourwine is an enthusiastic Bryan man and always has been.

"In 1896 he swore he would never cut his hair until Bryan was elected president, and he has kept his word. However, we will add that the declaration has not changed his personal appearance. As he hasn't enough hair to make any difference anyway.

"We are in hopes Mr. Sourwine will receive the coveted appointment as postmaster and feel sure he will measure up fully to the requirements of the position, and we promise to use our influence with President Wilson in his behalf."

SUES THE PARENTS OF HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Franc McGee Charges Couple With Alienation of Her Husband's Affection

Charging alienation of her husband's affections, Mrs. Franc McGee, residing near Coleman, just over the Oconto county line, on Saturday commenced suit in the Oconto circuit court against John McGee and his wife, Helen, wealthy farmers near Coleman and parents of her spouse. She asks $10,000 damages.

The couple was married recently and the complainant alleges that shortly after the ceremony her husband refused to live with her, though he contributed to her support.

Mrs. McGee, the defendant, was examined today and declared she has attempted to reconcile her son to his wife. The suit will be tried at the next term of the Oconto circuit court P. A. Martineau of Marinette is counsel for the defendants.

BOMB HURLED AT PLAYER-AUTHORS

Baseball Men Oppose "Literary" Taste of Pill Tossers.

JOHNSON TIRED OF STUFF.

President of American League Says Articles Under Diamond Stars' Names Cause Trouble in the Ranks—Most of Them Are Fakes.

By TOMMY CLARK.

President Ban Johnson of the American league undoubtedly took a laudatory step when he issued an ultimatum recently that all ball players in the junior organization should cease writing for newspapers over their names. Just how Mr. Johnson will enforce this ruling is not quite apparent if a strong minded, hard headed player should insist on continuing as a pseudo scribe. There is no doubt that such practices cause many serious grievances among players, especially within a team whose members are being criticised by one of their number. It matters not that the player himself did not pen the critical sentences. The very fact that he is credited with such strictures, having his name put to the article, is sufficient to provoke serious differences and dissensions among the players of a team. And nine times out of ten such effusions are impositions on the public.

Of all the players whose names are appearing in public print as the accredited authors of weekly or daily contributions we know of only two who actually write their "stuff" themselves. And even in these instances it might be said that their articles pass under a rigid blue pencil process before they appear in public print.

The fact that the players do not actually compose the articles they sign is illustrated in the following yarn: "Say, Tesreau, what do you mean by bawling me out in your story this morning for that play of yesterday?" a certain member of the New York Giants is said to have remarked to the big pitcher after one of the world's series games last fall.

"Did I bawl you out?" asked Tesreau in amazement. "Well, I'll have to buy a copy of this morning's paper and see what I wrote."

And there's more truth than fiction in the yarn. Several newspapers already have published a list of the ball player-authors and the men who actually wrote their stories for them. The list shows that Christy Mathewson and John McGraw depend upon J. N. Wheeler, a New York writer, to turn out their criticisms and anecdotes. During the world's series last fall Wheeler also wrote Jeff Tesreau's "stories," while W. J. McBeth suggested and executed Chief Meyers' themes. Rube Marquard's articles were produced by W. S. Farnsworth. Walter Johnson's screeds came from the pen of Ralph MacMillan, a Boston sporting editor. Cy Young's pieces were turned out by Samuel Carrick. Paul Shannon was the author of Charley Wagner's effusions. Bill Carrigan was looked after by A. H. C. Mitchell. Tim Lincecum wrote for Tris Speaker. Jim O'Leary was the penman behind Joe Wood, while Ty Cobb's descriptions and comments were written by Stony McGlynn of Philadelphia.

In starting this crusade President Johnson contends that the baseball public should not be deceived, that ball players should not be allowed to criticize members of their teams and that to avoid serious trouble in the shape of internal dissension the entire practice should be wiped out. Johnson recently declared that ball players were not hired to "write" for newspapers, but to devote their entire time to promoting the welfare of their employers.

RECTOR BACK ON PATH.

Famous Virginia Sprinter Will Try Comeback Stunt.

James Rector, former star of the clunder path, representative from the University of Virginia to the Olympic games, is to come back. He has recently volunteered to help out the Missouri Athletic club of St. Louis and believes he can regain his past form.

Rector is the only amateur sprinter in the world ever credited with running a hundred yards in 9.25 seconds and is the father of the now famous "Rector start."

MCGRAW TELLS ONE ON DUMMY TAYLOR.

Manager McGraw tells this one on Luther Taylor, the former mule pitcher with the Giants. "We were down in New Orleans," he said, "Taylor and Bresnahan and I. We all liked Taylor well enough to learn the mule language, so that we could talk with him. One day we were riding on a street car when a remarkably handsome woman came in and sat opposite us. We watched her with considerable admiration for a minute; then Roger signed to 'Dummy' on his fingers. 'Doesn't she look good to you?' Before either of us could signal back the woman flashed over in the sign language. 'Yes, and you all look good to me.' And she got off that car without even glancing at us again."

JEM DRISCOLL, ONE BOXER WHO ADMITS HE'S GONE

Jem Driscoll, the great British featherweight champion, has retired from the ring, but he is one of the very few veterans who ever admitted they were "all in." A while ago Pedlar Palmer, who was whipped by McGovern, tried to come back and failed. Jabez White, another former British champion, tried the same stunt recently in Birmingham, England.

Peter Maher tried for years to show the public he was "as good as ever." Young Corbett pulled the same stuff, and so did Philly Jack O'Brien, Kid McCoy and Bob Fitzsimmons. And don't forget Jeffries, Mike Schreck and Marvin Hart. They all failed.

In June last season he earned the reputation of being "one of the players." He wants to retain that position among his charges, but at the same time he will command respect and the best efforts from the Browns.

"Work hard and hustle" is the motto printed at the bottom of the list of rules that was handed to each player at the training camp.

Smoking in uniform, of course, is forbidden. Stovall also insists that no player shall smoke before he has had his breakfast.

The "lid" hasn't been clamped on crap shooting. He does not mind the men playing poker, but he has placed a fifty cent limit on the contests. A rule that is aimed at a number of "bushers," who come up annually and whose dress often unfits them as residents of first class hotels, is the one which requires the wearing of white collars and bolted shirts in the lobbies and cafes of the hostilities.

Achi got his baseball start in Honolulu and afterward played with Stanford university, also appearing on the soccer team. He is a senior student at the Midway and will be eligible for the team this spring.

CROSS A NEAR GREAT FIGHTER

Recent Bout With Mandot Proves His Ability.

LEACH HAS ONE BIG DEFECT

Nervous Temperament Affects His Accuracy—New York Lightweight in Line For Championship Honors—He Will Meet Rivers Again.

Again Leach Cross, the New York lightweight, looms large upon the pugilistic horizon, this time through eliminating Joe Mandot from the front ranks of the lightweight brigade. Mandot was ranked right next to Ritchie, Rivers and Wolgast. He had won and lost from Rivers, beaten Wolgast and outpointed Ritchie in eight of the ten rounds they fought, although Ritchie's strong finish gave him the victory, as he had Mandot nearly out at the end.

LEACH CROSS, THE HARD HITTING LIGHTWEIGHT.

Besides this showing against the top notchers, Mandot had beaten nearly every good second rater in the class.

Cross' sensational victory once more calls attention to the narrow margin by which the New York lightweight missed being a great fighter. The one thing that prevents Cross from being a champion is his nervous temperament. There is no question as to his game-ness, but his high strung nervous system militates against his success. But for this Cross would be an accurate hitter. And if he did not miss so often none could stand before him for long.

The reason Cross misses can be traced directly to his nerves. When he starts a blow his cautious nature makes him center his attention on escaping the counter. For this reason he unconsciously neglects to step in quite far enough, and he falls short by an inch or two. Nothing is so demoralizing to a boxer as missing a swing that carries full strength, and after Cross has missed a number he naturally loses strength and confidence.

Despite a certain tendency to ignore the rules whenever he thinks he can do so with safety, Cross is not without his good qualities. He never boasts. He is quick to acknowledge the ability of his rivals. He never seeks to advertise himself by directing challenges to the leading lightweights and then hiding behind impossible conditions. He never attempts to pose as anything but what he is. He is always ready to make a match with any man of his weight and is not given to haggling over an ounce or two, although he himself can make the lightweight limit.

He is one of the most interesting boxers in the ring and never fails to keep the spectators of his fights on edge from first to last. Altogether, despite his faults, Cross deserves to be more popular than he is.

Now that Cross has distinguished himself by his sensational victory over Mandot his coming encounter with Joe Rivers in New York April 7 will be viewed with even more interest than their first battle. There was little to choose between the pair before, although Rivers had a shine in his favor. But Cross is quick to learn from his opponents and usually does much better on the second attempt. Besides, his recent victory is sure to add greatly to his confidence, and when Cross is confident his battle is half won.

FINALLY GOT RID OF SUITOR

Tired Maiden Accepted His Offered Life, and Under the Circumstances What Could He Do?

He was a theatrical lover, and she didn't like his style in the least, for he was constant in his devotion, which made matters worse. She had tried gentle means to get rid of him, but he had disregarded them with painful persistency.

"Dear one," he exclaimed, hurling himself tragically at her feet, "I love you! My life is yours! Will you take it?"

She did, and not like a murderer, but she responded, with calm determination: "I will."

He gazed at her rapturously. "Don't do that," she begged, crawling back from him as if in horror. "I have taken your life, as you requested me to do, and you are henceforth to all intents and purposes dead."

He seemed dazed. "I do not," she continued, turning aside, "desire to have a dead person in the house, and if you do not go away at once I shall send for an undertaker and have you removed to the nearest cemetery."

Then the dreadful situation in which his own precipitate folly had placed him was revealed, and he removed himself with promptness and dispatch.

LONG SLEEVE LINE DEFINITE

Indiscreet Treatment of It May Be Depended On to Mar a Gown's Appearance.

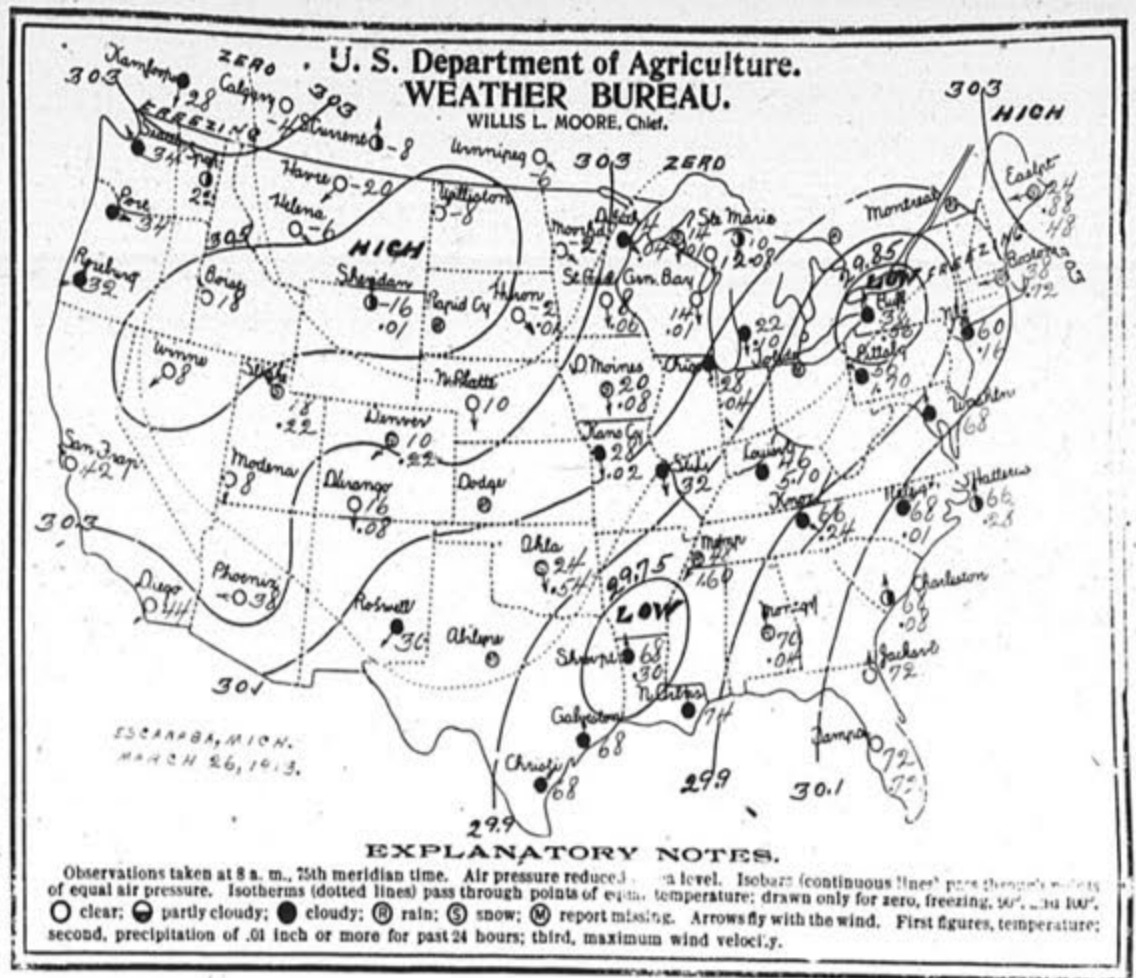

No feature of a dress requires more careful and discreet treatment than sleeves, and nothing detracts more from the appearance of a gown than over-elaborate ones. Elaborate they may be in reality, much trimmed and intricate of cut, but, withal, their shape must assume a definiteness. This is true even of the "angel," "wing," and other varieties of the flowing sleeves, although as these are generally of thin materials the arm itself being visible, defines the line.

In some instances the long sleeves, close fitting, that are seen in evening dresses are completed at the wrists by wide flowing cuffs wired or stiffened and sometimes of such exaggerated proportions that they would extend beyond the finger tips were they to be drawn down over them.

BOUDOIR ARTICLES TO MATCH

Pretty Pincushion and Tidy, Alike in Design and Make, to Hang Each Side of Mirror.

Our sketch shows apretty pincushion and tidy, designed to match each other and for hanging up on either side of the mirror.

For the tidy, a diamond-shaped piece of cardboard is used as a foundation and this board is covered with pale blue silk upon the upper part of which a white Tudor rose has been worked. A pocket is arranged across the lower half and upon the front of it the floral design is repeated. The tidy is edged with a white silk cord carried into three little loops on either side and again at the base. At the top a loop of white ribbon, finished off with a smart bow, is attached by which the tidy may be suspended from the post of the mirror.

The pincushion is made in exactly the same way, but the cardboard must be well-padded on both sides with cotton wool prior to covering it with the silk and the sketch so clearly shows the nature of the cushion that further description is unnecessary.

In large towns and cities where smoke and fog so quickly soils delicately colored materials, it would perhaps be advisable to carry out these articles in darker colors, and green silk with gold embroidered, cord and ribbon, would look equally pretty and effective and last much longer.

Steamed Apples.

Pare good cooking apples, cut in thick slices and place in even tiers in a granite dish. For each apple count one tablespoonful each of sugar and water, strew the sugar over and scatter a few sultana raisins over all. Now cover and let simmer over slow fire for ten minutes, then uncover. If not tender cover and steam a little longer. When done the apples must be quite dry and unbroken; slide carefully onto flat dish and serve either hot or cold. May also be served with whipped cream.

Gray, faded hair turned beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night, is a reality, if you'll take the trouble to mix sage tea and sulphur, but what's the use, you get a large bottle of the ready-to-use tonic, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at drug stores here for about 50 cents. Millions of bottles of "Wyeth's" are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them, because after just one application the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops. This is the age of youth, gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with the Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be amazed at your youthful appearance and the real beauty and healthy condition of your hair within a few days. Inquiry at drug stores here shows that they all sell lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and the folks using it are enthusiastic.

One of the sayings of an old Persian wise man is: "All unuttered truths become poisonous." Wonder if that is not the matter with us all—we do not say the real things that lie close to the heart. For it is surely the fact, if a man suppresses the truth he will break out somewhere in a lie or deceit. But suppose the truths are all uttered, what would become of politics, religion, society, business? There would certainly be a frightful holocaust. Sometimes one does meet a man or mcrephas a woman, who will tell the truth the heart holds, not in vanity or boasting, but in candor and love—what a clear sky breaks all about such a person, how sweet the air is, how green the grass grows! But we would prefer to wait a few centuries for the spirit to get a better headway in human shrdiu shrdiu it would be well to ponder over the wise Persian aphorism: "All unuttered truths become poisonous." And its corollary, too: All lies become poisonous, too.

Walter Leroy Mallman's Essay on Cloverland

The following is the essay written by W. LeRoy Mallman, of this city, who won the $10 gold prize in the contest of the Gladstone State Savings Bank:

Cloverland is the name of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, so called because of the clover growing all over the country in both tame and wild stages. This country for years has only been known for its vast copper and iron mines and for its vast forests. As settlers came in they followed these industries, and agriculture was forgotten. But as years went by men began farming and gradually the country became dotted with small farms. Now the farms are enlarging, because the owners have found out the methods of farming that are successful and are following them.

The soils of this country are very rich in all the necessary plant foods, and are of the best in the United States. They vary from a light sand to a heavy clay, the prevalent type being a clay loam, the best soil to be had anywhere for all types of farming. The sub-soils are, on the average, porous, gravelly clays underlaid by beds of limestone. These porous subsoils and the slightly rolling land give Cloverland the best natural drainage available.

The climate of Cloverland is another of its great farming advantages, it being adapted to all plant growth. It is warm, with long days of intense sunshine throughout the months of June and July. The killing frosts rarely occur until late in the fall, thus giving the crops an excellent growing season. The winters, as a rule, are not severe, with quite a heavy snowfall which protects the ground from freezing and allowing crops to remain in the ground over winter without injury. Rain is plentiful during the growing season, gradually decreasing toward harvesting time, which is essential for the proper caring of grain and other crops. Drought is unknown here.

After the crops are harvested, the farmer need not worry about the chances of selling, as Cloverland has many fine markets. In the mining districts of the north ready markets at high prices are always to be found, while in the south the city people and cannery factories constitute excellent markets. Crops are easily brought to the cities, the country being covered with many fine macadam roads.

Several railroads pass through the country, running to all the principal cities of the middle west: Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Buffalo, Cleveland and the Twin Cities. The freight rates on these roads are very reasonable, making transportations from Cloverland very low. This low rate is caused by having to compete with the steamship lines that ply from Cloverland ports to the principal cities on the Lakes.

Social life is very far advanced in Cloverland. The people who are settling here are the sort that go toward the upbuilding of a locality or nation. They are kind, hospitable, and always ready to assist the new settler. In every locality these people have organized and built their different churches. The children have been well provided for, the state building schools wherever a few families with children locate.

Cloverland is covered with a network of creeks and rivers that nature seems to have made purposely for water power. These rivers can be easily harnessed and forced to do the work on the farm with electricity. One power dam can supply all the power for the surrounding country, and much of the drudgery of farm life can be abolished with decided advantage. Already this cheap power is being utilized, for there are a number near our cities that run the street cars, run many factories, and light the cities. Cheap power means an increase of factories, which in turn mean larger and better markets.

At present land can be had in Cloverland for nearly a "song." The country is a mass of cut over lands, grown up to brush and second growth forests of small size. These lands are principally owned by the mill and railroad concerns, who are now selling them at nominal prices compared with lands in other states. The cost of clearing these lands is very low, the stumps usually being rotten and the roots of the present growth being very small. Most all of this land, except that cut over in the last few years, presents very little difficulty in clearing, and a man and team can usually do all the work.

The Jack Pine lands are especially very cheap, as they are generally regarded as being unfit for farming on account of the sandy soil. Many people think that Cloverland is all sand, but in this they are mistaken for this sort of land occupies only a small portion of the whole area. These lands can, in a few years, be built into fine farms by the adding of vegetable matter to the soil, which they lack. This lack of humus makes the soil low in its water holding capacity. The government advocates the growing of clover seed on these soils as being highly profitable, and adding nitrogen and humus to the soil by the turning under of the sod and straw. From two to six bushels of clover seed can be grown to the acre at a profit from ten to fifty dollars. Potatoes in rotation with clover do equally as good, for they are well adapted to sandy soil. Oats grow especially well in Cloverland, as it requires a cool, moist climate. Every farmer has his plot of oats, the grain being the principal food of horses. Besides, oats, wheat, barley and rye grow well in this climate, due to the long days of warm, intense sunshine. These crops do exceptionally well on clay soils. On the sandy soils buckwheat and speltz do very well, crops of forty bushels having been reported for buckwheat on this sort of land.

The raising of clover for hay is one of Cloverland's greatest features. The finest crops of clover that possibly can be raised are grown here. Clover mixed with timothy grass makes an excellent hay. The clover is recommended as not only making fine hay, but has the faculty of gathering nitrogen from the air and placing it in the soil. Northern grown clover contains more protein than southern clover, hence its value in dairying. Alfalfa, of the clover family has been experimented with in Cloverland, and Grimm Alfalfa especially has been found to be quite successful, wintering better than the others. The raising of clover for seed is highly profitable, and recommended to all farmers.

As a rule, corn does not do well in Cloverland, the season being too short, but a few varieties of dent corn have been acclimated by the State Experiment Station, and are doing extremely well for the short time they have been grown. Though the large varieties do not mature, they are raised extensively for silage by all farmers having silos. These farmers cut the crop when the grain becomes glazed, or about the time of the first frost. They also claim that corn silage makes a fine feed, at a nominal price per ton and they, without exception, say that all farmers should have a silo for keeping corn.

At present Cloverland depends on Wisconsin for much of her vegetable supply, which she could raise herself. A number of farmers have realized this fact, and are running small gardens near the cities, on which they are making a success. This business is unlimited, so great is the field, while the profits are the highest to be had at any kind of farming. Carrots, beets, turnips, and kohi rabi all clear one hundred dollars to the acre with little work. Great crops of sugar beets, cabbage, tomatoes, pumpkins and sweet corn can be raised to the acre as can fine crops of onions, lettuce, radishes and rhubarb. The demand for beet sugar has been increasing with "leaps and bounds," until now the factories cannot supply the market.

Sugar beet raising is an established industry in lower Michigan, and has recently become established in Cloverland with greater success. There is already one factory in Cloverland, and the building of another is being contemplated. From ten to thirty tons can be raised to the acre, and sold at six dollars a ton on cars. Large yields can be obtained with little experience, thus insuring great profits to the farmer.

Fruit raising has become especially successful in Cloverland, due to the even climate. This great country is practically surrounded by the Great Lakes, which keep the frosts off of the land for several miles back from the shores. This is caused by the slow cooling of the water which keeps the air warmer on the surrounding country. The same is true in the spring, when it becomes warmer slower, but without danger of frosts at planting time. The lakes also make soil moist and even.

Among the large fruits, apples have taken the lead. Throughout the country there are many fine orchards that are placing their owners on the high road to success. These orchards can be easily duplicated with equal success by any of the new comers. Some pessimists are continually saying that the price of apples is going to fall on account of the number of orchards. These people are entirely wrong as statistics show that the apple crop has fallen off one-half in the last ten years. The apples grown in this country command higher prices in the market because of their firm, crisp condition caused by the cool nights and warm days of Cloverland.

Stock raising is gradually increasing in the country, as the farmers realize the value of this sort of a living product. Stocks can be kept cheaply during the summer on the meadows

'EW KING AND QUEEN OF GREECE

Constantine and Sophie are now king and queen of the Hellenes as the result of the assassination of King George. They are here seen with their two oldest boys, the one to the right being the crown prince.

Of the small fruits, strawberries are the most important, being better adapted to the climate. The strawberries, like the apple, are sweet, firm and delicious; their flavor is far better than the southern grown berries. Strawberries are especially profitable on account of being marketed when the market is empty. This is due to the fact that our berries ripen later than those of the southern states. Blackberries, and other small fruits, do very well, and are a source of profit to their owners.

Cloverland has a climate that is especially well adapted to potato growing, and further, it has the best markets on account of its northern position. Every agricultural book recommends the buying of northern grown seed. Cloverland has found that it is the country to furnish this seed, and the southern states have found the best seed is grown here. As a result Cloverland sells her potatoes to Oklahoma and Kansas at high prices. The farmer who devotes his time to large acreages of potatoes can make large profits, as the average yield per acre by potato growers is over two hundred bushels. Potato blight and rot are unknown, while the potato beetle is easily kept down by only a few sprayings. To the special crop growers, Cloverland offers unlimited opportunities for potato growers.

Dairying is one of the greatest ways of making money in Cloverland. The country, with its wild clover and grasses, affords the finest kind of pasturage for dairy cows during the summer months. During the winter months the cows can be fed ensilage, hay and home grown grain with fine returns. The country has many creameries and cheese factories, while a number of others are being built. At these places the farmers can sell their milk and cream without churning or peddling in the cities. Besides the cows being a source of income they build up the soil of the farm by the grain and hay being fed at home, and being returned to the soil as manure.

Cloverland, at present, has only a few flocks of sheep, but these are highly endorsed by their respective owners. This country is an ideal place as they seem to be immune from all sheep diseases, and their wool and meat command better prices in the markets. The government recommends new settlers to place a flock in their uncleared land, as the sheep clear out brush. Later the sheep can be grazed with no expense on the stump lands where wild white clover and June grass grows. Sheep can be raised with little expense on farms where clover or pea seed is grown, the clover or pea straw making an excellent food for them. During the summer they can be grazed on the fields where the clover has been cut. Sheep can also be profitably raised in connection with dairying.

Stock raising is gradually increasing in the country, as the farmers realize the value of this sort of a living product. Stocks can be kept cheaply during the summer on the meadows or on the stump lands, where their keep is nothing. During the winter they can be fed corn, grain, silage and clover-hay. An animal cannot store a supply of protein up in the body, but must receive its supply from its daily rations. For this reason, southern stock men feed considerable grain. This is unnecessary in Cloverland because of the high protein content of Cloverland hay. It is the aim of stock men to feed as little grain as possible, and this can be done here by feeding more clover hay. As a result they can produce heavier cattle with less cost.

As yet very few chickens are raised in Cloverland, except for home use, the farmers not wanting to bother with their care. It has been proven by several that poultry raising is well worth their proper care, and will bring a handsome profit besides. Fine opportunities lie before the men who locate near the cities and establish large plants that will supply the cities with their demand, and ship to the outside points. During last winter the average price of eggs was about thirty-two cents per dozen in the markets of Cloverland. Using this as a standard, it can be followed by the man who wants to get ahead.

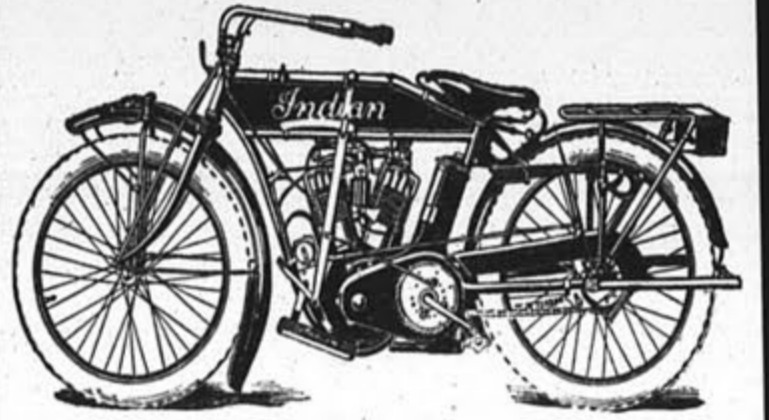

Cloverland is, in general, a fine country for the new settler; its soils being of the finest texture; the climate being especially adapted to farming; the markets being high, and transportation cheap. The rivers are well

EXCELSIOR Auto-Cycles

Discriminating buyers are purchasing Excelsiors. There's a reason. One of the reasons is its motor. It has great power, speed and reliability. Every rider wants these qualities. "No other motor of its displacement has ever been built which has the power, speed and endurance of the 1913 Excelsior motor. The single runs away from many twins of other makes, and the Excelsior Twin can lap most 10 horse power twins. The twins test well over 10 horse power and the singles over 5 horse power, although they are still eligible to compete in the 4 and 7 horse power classes—a point which is a good one to remember in buying a motorcycle. Other good reasons why you should get an X will follow.

sulted to water power, the land is very cheap and the social life is the best. The country offers splendid opportunities to the general farmer, who can raise grains and hay easily; to the truck grower, who can raise large crops of vegetables for the fine market; to the special growers, who can raise large crops of seed potatoes, clover and peas, or raise sugar beets; to the fruit growers, Cloverland offers a fine climate for apples and smaller fruits; to the dairyman, to the sheep raisers, to the poultrymen and stock men, Cloverland offers fine markets and cheap feed, which are the things to be sought.

From this it is seen that Cloverland is a land of opportunity well worth the consideration of anyone wanting to settle in a good location.

Modern Children More Analytical Than Those of the Past—Hints for the Mother of Little Ones.

Children are growing more critical. They demand practice as well as preaching from their parents, and are not put off with platitudes. Time was when a patriarchal profile, a snowy beard, and certain facility in quoting Scripture were more than enough to impress a whole family with a due sense of what it owed to the head of the house. Something more is needed nowadays, and the mother or father who wishes to maintain the love and respect of the modern child must conform to a very high standard indeed. They are no longer allowed to shield their shortcomings behind the Fifth Commandment.

Very serviceable and economical bibs can be made out of the medium-sized Turkish towel. Cut it into halves, and then divide each half again, making in all four pieces. Cut the plain edges of each in a semi-circular form for the neck, bind these with tape, leaving strings long enough to tie easily. Outline the bibs with cross stitch in red cotton, and they are ready for use.

FENCING A HEALTHY PASTIME

Graceful Accomplishment, Writer Thinks, is Not Accorded the Position Which it Should Hold.

Fencing as a pastime has much to recommend it. It is convenient for men who work in town or country does not consume as much time as golf, and is never stopped by bad weather.

Hitherto the expense has been against its popularity. On the other hand, were there more students of fencing the high subscriptions charged by school would show abatement. In France, for instance, where the art is an almost universal accomplishment and a compulsory subject, so to speak, for army men, expenses are quite moderate. The lowest estimate for a fencing outfit is $1.50. This includes a pair of fells, jacket, mask and glove. A pair of small swords costs from $3.50 to $5. This last weapon is more easily managed than the foil, which calls for a preliminary training with the sword. Practically all fencing equipment comes from France.

It is suggested that fencing clubs be established on the lines of similar institutions of golf and boating. Good fencing masters can be secured on the continent of Europe for ten dollars a week, which it is the custom to supplement by private lessons. French teachers are best, not on account of their nationality, but because they are carefully taught to teach.—Harper's Magazine.

MAKES PROBLEM FOR JAILER

Women Prisoners in Jail Harder to Handle Than the Most Desperate of the Other Sex.

"I'd rather have 100 men under my charge than one woman," said the jailer of Raymond street jail, in Brooklyn.

"You see," he explained, "even the men we get in here, who have offended against the law, presumably have a respect for it, an idea of its necessity. We get pretty desperate men to lock up sometimes. They don't make any trouble for us. They do what they're told and keep their mouths shut.

"But the women!" The jailer wiped his forehead. "Do you know," he exclaimed, helplessly, "every blessed one of 'em wants to be a law unto herself!"

"They're antagonistic toward the rules. They won't do this and they won't do that. It almost seems as if they deliberately worked themselves up into rages over immaterial matters. And when a woman says 'I won't,' and looks at you—" the jailer shook his head. "It's a hard proposition," he said.

"We're hampered in dealing with them. When a man doesn't behave himself, we know what we may do. He knows it, too. Our hands are tied when it comes to the women. What extra punishment are you going to hand out to them when they rebel?" —New York Sun.

Bandit - use in Vain.
John Bowman, a young business man of Los Angeles, sought to test the love of his fiancée, Miss Alice Young, and in consequence was made aware of two things: That the promise of a $250 reward could vanquish Cupid. That the police did not like to have young men pose as train robbers to test the love of their sweethearts. Bowman got two relatives to tell Miss Young he was a train robber and there was a reward of $250 posted for his capture. When Bowman called the young woman telephoned the police. Bowman spent several hours in jail before he was able to prove he was no train robber. Miss Young could not see the joke when she appeared at the police station. She introduced Bowman to another young man, whom she said she intended to marry next week. She wanted the reward for a trousseau.

Probably Assumed.
"Automobile foot" is a new disease for which Dr. Alexander Block of St. Louis stands sponsor. Automobile foot, due to lack of pedestrian exercise among automobilists, is a weakness that changes the walk into an ugly hobble.

"The automobile habit is so widespread," said Dr. Block the other day, "that our ignorance of walking threatens to equal the broker's ignorance, real or assumed, of farm life.

"A broker spent the Christmas holidays on a Georgia farm. The farmer said to him, as he came back one morning from a before-breakfast stroll:

"Been out to hear the haycocks crow, I suppose?"

"Yes," answered the broker—"and to tie a knot in a cord of wood and watch the hired man milk the milk-wood."

Not Enough Goatskins.

The present demand for goat-kid skins exceeds anything of the kind before known, and the remotest places in India, South America, and Europe, and everywhere else goats are kept, are now visited by collectors to obtain them.

This demand arises from the recent discovery of new methods of treating the skins, which not only make them a substitute for calf-kid as shoe leather, but also render them suitable for use in dress trimming. When specially dyed and finished, they find great favor with dressmakers, and are used for vests, strappings, pipings, blouses, and even for undershirts for country wear. They also play a part in recent millinery.—Harper's Weekly.

LOSES ONE EYE; ASKS FOR $10,000

Son of Marinette Farmer Brings Suit to Recover That Amount From Oconto Lbr. Co.

Is the sight of one eye worth $10,000? That is the sum that George Greenwood, son of a farmer living in the western part of Marinette county near Coleman, wants for the loss of his left eye. Suit for that sum against the Oconto Lumber company has been started in Marinette county.

Greenwood was working for the Oconto company in the lumber woods last December. A chain was being used to "snake logs from the brush. It broke while Greenwood was working nearby, and a link struck him in the eye, destroying the sight. He at legs in the suit he has started that that chain was not heavy enough for the purpose, it was being used.

P. A. Martineau of this city has the case for the plaintiff. There is a possibility the suit may be settled without trial.

FIGURES IN BIG DEAL IN CALIFORNIA NOW

A. F. Dodge, Former Marinette Man, Buys Saw Mill and Timber in California

A. F. Dodge, a former resident of Marinette, at one time with the R. W. Merryman company recently closed a big lumber deal in the west. He has met with successes in his western operations. The following from The Sierra Valley News published at Loyalton, Sierra county, California, tells of the transaction in which Mr. Dodge figures:

"A business deal of unusual local interest was consummated yesterday, when the California Lumber company sold all its holdings, including sawmill and timber, situated on the B. & L. railroad, about six miles south of Loyalton.

"The purchasers are A. F. Dodge of Exeter, Cal., and E. E. Squires of Salt Lake City. They propose to renovate and improve the mill, and will

Purity in food, lower cost of living—these are the demands of the day.

Pure food is health, and health is economy itself. We cannot have health without healthful food.

The most healthful foods are the quickly raised flour foods—biscuit, cake, muffins, crusts and other pastry, when perfectly made from wholesome ingredients.

Dr. PRICE'S baking powder makes these foods in specially attractive, appetizing and wholesome form, and for both economic and hygienic reasons, such food should be more largely substituted for meat in the daily diet.

But bear in mind that alum, or unwholesome baking powder, can never make pure, wholesome food.

at once spend several thousand dollars toward making it a modern plant. They will install seven-foot band saw and planer now, and contemplate building a warehouse and dry-kiln later.

Including private holdings and government timber, there is about $60,000,000 feet tributary to the mill, sufficient to keep the plant running for about ten years, according to the estimate of the purchasers.

"Mr. Dodge, who will have charge of the manufacturing end of the new concern, was master mechanic for several years for the Verdi Lumber Co. and is a mill man widely known among lumbermen in the east as well as on this coast. Mr. Squires will handle the marketing of the lumber. He has had about twenty years experience in the lumber industry, and during recent years was connected with the Tonopah Lumber company, as salesman."

NO ESTIMATE OF LOSS OF LIFE CAN BE MADE

Dayton Devastated

While it cannot be said how many people have lost their lives in Dayton, it has been estimated at all the way from 1,000 to 10,000. A seething mass of yellow water sweeps over the city as thousands shiver on the house-tops and unknown scores glide away beneath the waters.

Woman and Baby Drown

On the roof of a small home that had been washed from its foundation by the floor, was a woman and small baby. As the weather grew colder the woman took more and more of her own clothing to keep the infant warm. As a swirl of water threatened to engulf the little home the woman was seen to clasp her hands in prayer. Brave men with tears streaming down their cheeks made useless efforts to rescue the brave woman who was fighting for the life of her baby. Suddenly the house careened and mother and child sank under the yellow waters.

Many Other Towns Suffer

Columbus, March 26.—Large buildings and scores of homes have been swept away here and bridges are gone.
Zanesville, March 26.—This town is now cut off from the rest of the world as far as transportation is concerned.
Peru, Ind., March 26.—Less than a block of this town is under water, but according to reports all the towns on the Ohio river are going to suffer more or less through the flooding of the Ohio river, which is rising rapidly.

Train Goes Through Bridge
Grafton, W. Va., March 26.—An operator on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad has received a message saying that a commuter train from overland to Cincinnati went through a bridge, and 200 people were drowned.

Story of The Disaster
The flooded district comprises a practical circle with a radius of a mile and a half and in no place is the water less than six feet deep. In Main street and the downtown districts, the water is 12 feet deep.

The horror in the flooded district was heightened by more than a dozen fires which could be seen in the flooded district but out of reach of the fire fighters.

Most of the business houses and nearly all of the residences have occupants. Downtown, the offices were filled with men unable to get home, and the upper floors and some of the roofs of the residences were black with women and children.

The electric light plants were put out of business early yesterday and total darkness, coupled with a down-pour, added to the horrors of the night.

Famine also became an immediate possibility. All of the grocery stores are in the submerged district and it was said there was not enough bread to last the survivors another day.

John H. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register company, who headed the relief work in the south end of the city, sent an appeal for food and for doctors and medicines. Last night three thousand homeless were in the Cash Register office.

A fire which started from an explosion near Wyoming street spread and burned a block on South Park, about a block from Wyoming.

The breaking of the Carleton reservoir, which supplies the drinking water, left the city without water and physicians declared there was great danger of typhoid in the use of the flood water.

Boats Helpless in Current
There were no boats in Dayton which could breast the current, and those from outside early gave up any attempts to reach the business district.

At Wyoming street, on the south side, where the National Cash Register company centered its efforts at rescue, many saved their lives by creeping on a telephone cable, a hundred feet above the flood. At first linemen crept along the cable, carrying tow ropes to which the flat bottomed boats were attached. When the flood became so fierce that the boats no longer were able to make way against it, men and women crept along the cable to safety. Others, less daring, saw darkness fall and gave up hopes of rescue. Those willing to risk their lives in the attempt to rescue found themselves helpless in face of the water.

Seventeen thousand of Dayton's population, it is reported, are homeless. The National Cash Register plant, on a high hill, offers the only haven in the south end. Three women became mothers in the halls of its office building last night.

Main street, near Apple, was one of the concentration points.

In the woodworking departments of the National Cash Register company boats were being turned out at the rate of ten an hour, and these were rushed to where the waters had crossed Main street in a sort of gully. But the waters crept up and the strength of the current was far too strong for the punts, though they were the best that could be made in a hurry. Trip after trip was made and hundreds of the refugees were taken from this stretch of houses.

Fire Burns Houses
Then came the sweep of the flames, starting at Main and Mine. The fire jumped Main street and the houses on the other side were soon aflame. In the middle of the street were a few frame houses that had been washed from their foundations. These were swirled about for a time as though to aid in the passing of the locality by fire, and then they were tossed into the path of the flames.

Persons hurried from their rooftops, where they had been driven by the floods, to the roof-tops of adjoining houses. Then the sun went down, leaving a desolate, weird light from flames showing against the sky.

The worst of the flooded district includes all of North and West Dayton, all of the downtown district, the south side as far as Oakwood and all of the residence suburbs of Glendale. The district has a normal population of more than fifty thousand.

CYRUS MASON IS DULY REMEMBERED BY FRIENDS

Retired Conductor of the E. & L. S. Railroad Presented With a Beautiful Ring

Cyrus Mason was last night completely surprised at his home in Wells by his former fellow employees. Mr. Mason recently retired as conductor on the Escanaba & Lake Superior railroad with which company he has been serving for over a quarter of a century.

His co-workers presented him with a handsome ring, showing the warm feeling that they had for him. Mr. Mason has been a congenial companion among his fellow-workers, who desired to show their appreciation of his good nature.

Mr. Mason arrived in the city this morning from Wells, and after spending a few days here will leave for New York state, where he has purchased a farm, where he expects to spend the remaining days of his life with his family.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS MEMBERS TO MARQUETTE

Some of the local members of the Escanaba council, Knights of Columbus, are planning to go to Marquette next Sunday to take part in the initiation of a large class of candidates. Knights from all of the cities in the upper peninsula will be present. A banquet is to follow the initiatory work.

FLINT'S LETTER

In view of the national calamity of floods in the central states, with an immense loss of life and tremendous property damage, it is no wonder that the bullish feeling, which predominated in the stock market the first two days of this week, halted temporarily today. The foreign money situation is improving to a certain extent and the demand for funds to tide over the April first balances has about ceased but it will take millions to replace the flood damage in this country, and it will be some little time before we can look for easy money notes here. The short interest, however, is so large that this alone tends to make a strong market and stocks as a rule closed today unchanged to a fraction higher.

Wilson and His Gibbet

If there should be any person who deliberately sets to work to cook up a panic he will not let President Wilson know about it. The ways of doing such things are underground and devious. There may be suspicions; but does the coming president intend to gibbet men on suspicions?

The fact is that there is no danger of such an artificial attempt. Every one is too much interested in keeping up the legitimate prosperity of the country. If any panic, or even suspension of activity, occurs it will be produced from indications of a disposition on the part of congress to make radical and destructive cuts in the tariff duties. The only other thing that can produce a panic is inflation in business, which is conspicuously absent from the situation at present.

Why Not Admit This?

Democratic tariff investigators in congress act as if they thought some incidental protection might be a good thing. Why not admit the soundness of the Republican principle?—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Hard on the Commissary.

The announcements that the Bull Moose will continue to grow should move Mr. George W. Perkins somewhat thoughtful on the matter of ratons.

How Does Osteopathy Cure?

Osteopathy brings about a cure by building up the parts, by so stimulating the circulation that nature brings every part to the performance of its function and throws off all superfluous and poisonous matter. When the circulation is sluggish, inflammation results and the waste tissue which should be carried away by the blood and exhaled from the lungs and skin, remains to clog up and poison the system. The result is disease in the one or more forms which it assumes. Osteopathy cures by the well known law of nature, that if properly sustained, each organ will perform its functions naturally. It does it by toning up the system and stimulating the circulation, so that the disorder, whatever particular form it may have taken, disappears. Osteopathy does not really make the cure, but simply assists nature, who is the great physician after all. She it is who must repair every break and rebuild every tissue. All the skill of all the world's wise men cannot mend the broken leg of a sparrow, cannot construct one cell of millions that make up the body, nor wear one square inch of that delicate fabric, the skin. The best the Osteopaths can do is to bring their services to the aid of the great physician, nature, and this is all they claim to do.
