AN INSPECTION DEPOT FOR ALL MILK SENT INTO CITY IS NEEDED

INSPECTOR FIRKUS EXHIBITS FILTHY SAMPLES OF MILK SHIPPED INTO THIS CITY

ONE TEST AS BLACK AS YOUR HAT

Milk A Great Source of Infection and Legislation on Subject is Needed Here

Milk tests made by City Milk Inspector Firkus were shown to members of council last night and it is pretty safe to assume that in the future each one of the aldermen is going to do a little milk testing on his own account. The results of tests made of milk shipped into the city from outside sources were, in a few cases, enough to turn one's stomach wrong side out. Especially was this true of one test shown of milk taken from a can shipped into this city by the Green Bay Pure Milk company. A pure test should be almost snowy in its whiteness. The testing question was almost, if not quite, as black as the inside of the cow from which the milk came. What kind of dirt was contained in the milk a good guess might guess in three guesses, and an exceptionally good guesser in one. The can from which the sample was taken was ordered destroyed.

Several other filthy samples of milk shipped in from outside points was shown. Two samples showed no actual dirt and gave evidence of careful straining of the milk, but the dirt had remained in the milk so long before it was strained that the test was of a dirty yellow color.

Dr. Firkus was instructed to keep a close watch on milk shipped into the city and to destroy at once any that contained dirt.

Dirty milk is one of the greatest sources of infection and the city is in need of drastic legislation on the subject. Dr. Firkus is a busy man and he cannot test all milk shipped into the city every day under present conditions.

An ordinance establishing a milk depot where all milk must remain until inspected by the milk inspector is badly needed.

In the meantime don't drink your milk if there is a dirty sediment in the bottom of the bottle. It might be harmless and on the other hand it might be almost as bad as drinking cyanide of potassium.

The board of public works submitted to council last night a schedule of the salaries of the employes of the lighting and gas plants showing an increase of about $1200 per annum. ## LONDON NEWSPAPERS SEE POSSIBILITY OF TROUBLE WITH U. S.

ENGLAND'S ATTITUDE ON MEXICAN SITUATION MAY CALL FOR PROTEST FROM PRESIDENT

"GRAVE MISUNDERSTANDING" IS FEARED

London Globe Says England Acted Too Hastily and United States Has Kick Coming

(By Associated Press.) London, England, October 22.—The newspapers of England are just awakening to the possibility of an embroilment between Great Britain and the United States over the Mexican situation. The Fall Mall Gazette of today says: "A grave misunderstanding exists." The Globe says England acted too hastily in recognizing Huerta and that Wilson has good cause to complain of the policy pursued by Great Britain. The Globe maintains that the attitude of the foreign office has the color of the policy it pursues dictated by political considerations rather than the real interests of the nation. The United States has as yet not complained of the attitude taken by England on the Mexican situation but that formal complaint will be made in the near future.

French Send a Cruiser Paris.—The French government has ordered the armored cruiser "Conde" to proceed to the Mexican coast to protect the French interests there.

Washington.—The diplomatic exchanges between Ambassador Page and the British foreign office regarding the English attitude toward Mexico is likely to continue. The British minister to Mexico does not sympathize with the American policy towards Mexico but believes that the "nearest neighbor" to Mexico should have a free hand in bringing peace. The officials are dissatisfied with the British attitude.

STREETER IS BACK TO CLAIM LAKE PROPERTY

Sent up for Life he is Pardoned and Returns to Make Good his Claim to Land on Chicago Lake Front

(By Associated Press.) Chicago, Ill., October 22.—Captain George Streeter is back ready to hold this "Streeterville" against all comers. Streeterville was made by the accretions of the sand from the lake and refuse from the North River. Twenty years ago Streeter and his wife landed from a scow and claimed the land as squatters. The owners of the lake front property claimed the land, which is valuable, but Streeter fought them off. He organized a military government and during a battle a watchman was killed. Streeter and two aides were sentenced to life imprisonment but through the efforts of men of wealth he was recently liberated. He is now back to claim the land and is prepared to use tactics similar to those of years ago. His wife died six years ago and he is now married to a young woman.

STEAMER HAND STILL BURNING ON SHOALS OFF SUMMER ISLAND

CARGO OF COAL IS BEING SLOWLY CONSUMED—STEAMER HAS NOT SHIFTED DESPITE HEAVY WINDS

NOT REGARDED AS MENACE TO NAVIGATION

Captain and Owner of Wrecked Vessel Will Try to Salvage Engines When the Bay Freezes Over

The steamer C. C. Hand, which took fire and sunk in twenty-five feet of water off Big Summer Island on the night of October 6, is still burning. Captain Casey of Fairport, who rescued the members of the crew after they had made shore and camped on the island over night, was in the city yesterday and stated that the big steamer was a total loss. The cargo of coal is burning slowly and Captain Casey believes that it will continue to burn for several weeks. The steamer was not shifted its position to any extent despite the hard blows of recent weeks. The captain and owner of the steamer paid a visit to the wreck recently and after thoroughly inspecting it has decided that the engines can be salvaged. When the ice is so thick that it is so close to the vessel that the engines will be lifted from the vessel. It was thought at first that the coal could be salvaged but the owners of the cargo have apparently abandoned the idea.

A pair of new shoes proved fatal to Julius Engel, seventy-eight years old, a resident of Bagley, when he met instantaneous death by slipping down the steps of the William Siemann home at Menominee, the force of the fall breaking his neck. Mr. Engel had purchased a pair of shoes during the day and when stepping down from the porch the slippery shoes caused his feet to be thrown from under him and he was hurled to the ground. He landed on his face. Mrs. Siemann, his daughter, and her husband were in the garden and the Siemann children were playing on the porch. They all noticed him fall and ran to his aid. When he did not answer to their inquiries as to how seriously he was injured, they called a physician. The physician found he had met death instantaneously. Mr. Engel had resided in Bagley for a number of years, of late living a retired life. He was born in Germany and came to this country when a young man. Besides the wife, four sons and four daughters mourn his loss. They are: Albert Enbel supervisor of Cedarville township; Robert, Carl and Otto Engel, of Cedarville and Nacoeau townships; Mrs. Herman Zimmerman, of Bagley; Mrs. William Siemann and Mrs. Olga Johnson of Menominee, and Mrs. Adolph Durow, of Stephenson.

WHO PRINTED BOOKLET?

Mining Journal Fails to Find U. P. Ear Marks

The Upper Peninsula Development Bureau recently turned out a booklet entitled, "Facts About Cloverland." It is a real good booklet telling all about its advantages of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and gives a statistical survey of the various counties in the Upper Peninsula, which is known as Cloverland.

The Mining Journal as well as other papers spoke favorably of the booklet but the Mining Journal failed to find the imprint of the establishment that turned out the booklet. Many of the other papers in the Upper Peninsula are also wondering who turned out the booklet, simply because they have done a great deal of boosting for Cloverland and feel that the booklet should be an output of an Upper Peninsula establishment. It seems to be up to Colonel Mot to satisfy a feeling of unrest and tell who did the work.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS THE DEATH OF WILLIAM NORTON, LUMBERMAN

LUMBERJACK IS HELD AND FORMAL CHARGE OF MURDER MAY BE MADE AGAINST THE SUSPECT

FIND NECK OF THE DECEASED BROKEN

Accused Maintains That Norton Dropped Dead While he Was Talking to Him About Work

Marquette, Oct. 22.—Murder in the first degree, instead of assault and battery, may be the charge preferred against Thomas McLeroy, the man held in connection with the death of William Norton. McLeroy is held at the county jail, where Sheriff Mackay is investigating the case. Upon his report to prosecuting attorney Kennedy will depend the nature of the charge to be made against McLeroy. "I don't know what killed Norton. He just fell when I handed him my suitcase. That's all I know about it." This is all McLeroy will say in his defense. He denies that he struck Norton, or even raised his hand as if to strike him. The fact that there were no bruises on Norton's body when he was first picked up at the camp led to the belief that he died of heart failure, and the detention of McLeroy was first regarded in the nature of a formality, but the developments yesterday have given the case a serious turn.

D. J. Norton Was Suspicious. D. J. Norton, an uncle of William Norton, the dead man, suspected from the first that the death was not a natural one. His nephew, he declared, had never suffered from any form of heart trouble; in fact, he said, the younger Norton could run faster and longer than the average man and feel any ill effects.

As a result of his suspicious that his nephew might have been the victim (Continued on page six)

He also owns the Lyric theatre at Laurium, which has a seating capacity of 500. The Grand theatre at Calumet is also the property of Mr. Rice. He has been in the theatrical business for years and in the moving picture business since its inception. "You are thinking of erecting a new theatre?" Mr. Rice was asked. "Well you never can tell what will happen. Maybe I will and maybe I won't."

MENOMINEE SCHOOL SUP'T HAS RESIGNED

John L. Davis Tenders Resignation After a Stormy Session of the School Board

Menominee, Oct. 22.—Superintendent of Schools John L. Davis of the Menominee public schools, sent in his resignation to the board of education early this morning. This was the natural sequel to the stormy and contentious meeting held by the board of education last evening, an account of which is given in full in this issue.

Mr. Davis has been superintendent of the city schools for two years past, and his resignation coming at this time will be a great surprise to the people as a whole.

The unfortunate affair of the past few days culminated in a severe arraignment of him personally by members of the board and he evidently believes it wise to end the matter by stepping out of control of school affairs.

On being asked as to his plans, Mr. Davis this afternoon said that he had some matters under consideration, but at this time had nothing to say for publication.

The board will probably take action on the resignation soon.

Buy a FORD NOW!

This advertisement is to notify the people of Delta county that I have the agency for the FORD automobile. I have taken the FORD agency for the reason that I am sure that the FORD is the car that is best suited to the average needs of local people.

Buy a FORD Because it is a better car, not because it is cheaper

In the ten years of its successful development the FORD has acquired a reputation absolutely unmatched in automobilism—and the guarantee of a financial responsibility that scarcely has its equal in the manufacturing world. The Ford Motor Company resembles in many respects a great banking house of world-wide reputation and absolute integrity. The world buys FORD cars with the same confidence and assurance that it buys bonds guaranteed by such a banking institution.

The Making of the FORD

The FORD factory in Detroit is acknowledged to be the most complete, compact, economically efficient and thoroughly equipped automobile plant in the world. It is imposing architecturally and is extensive. But largeness is of no significance—it is the use to which the space is put that tells. As the FORD factory site is sixty acres in extent, new buildings of uniform design are added as conditions demand. In the past year the floor space has been nearly-doubled and the new season will probably see it still further enlarged.

Why You Should Buy Now

There is no better season of the year for automobiling than the fall months. The woods are beautiful and the roads are generally good; Besides if you do not place your order now it may be impossible for you to get a car next summer.

A Hundred People will want FORDS

It is estimated that at least 100 people will want FORDS in this county in 1914. Some of them will have to be disappointed. At the present time I can only see where I will get about 30 of these popular little cars.

COME AND SEE ME

I will have by the end of the week three cars for delivery and may be able to get a few more this year. Let me explain to you why the FORD is the car you want. Let me tell you the service you can and will get—and how little it will cost.

UNKNOWN MAN STRUCK BY AUTO, UNINJURED

Tried to Get Across Street in Front of Automobile and Failed

Did you ever start on even terms and at right angles with an automobile and try to make a given point ahead of the auto? If you haven't it isn't advisable to try a fact one individual learned yesterday afternoon to his sorrow. The individual in question was standing on the street car tracks on Ludington street and Clyde Hewitt was driving his automobile at a leisurely pace east on Ludington street. When the auto was almost opposite the man he gave a hop and a couple of jumps and landed right in front of the auto. The car was proceeding slowly and the man went over rather leisurely without any damage resulting.

STREET CAR PASSES THREE FEET FROM MAN AND KNOCKS HIM DOWN

A street car passing about three feet from a local whitewing knocked him off his feet early last evening and it was feared for a time that the man was badly injured. He is suffering today, however, from nothing more than a few bruises. The man was standing about three feet from the street car tracks with his street broom under his arm and the handle sticking across the tracks. When the car hit the brush the street sweeper went down.

STORY WITH A MORAL

By HAYDEN CARRUTH.

It was the dominie's turn to tell a story. "Or you can sing a song if you prefer," suggested the judge with a suave air.

"Or I dare say you would accept a cake-walk," returned the dominie.

"We prefer it," said the colonel promptly. "I'll touch up the piano with a little rag-time."

"I refuse to gratify your scandalous wishes," replied the dominie stoutly. "I'll not only tell a story, but I'll see that there is a moral tacked on as becomes one of my cloth."

"Can't you give us the moral first, then we won't have to be dreading it?" asked the judge.

"Yes, I'm willing to do that. The moral is: Beware of selfishness, lest you be hoist with your own ydiddle shell. It all happened up at my town last fall. There's a widow living there who has three daughters, very estimable young ladies, but, alas, the two older are exceedingly selfish. They are both somewhat farther along in life than the average unmarried woman—I don't know how old they are—I hope I'm too much of a gentleman to know anything about a lady's age—but just for the sake of the story we'll call one of them slightly over thirty and the other slightly under. The third daughter I'm willing to come out boldly and call twenty—we're on safer ground when we get down in that neighborhood, you know. And, better yet, this girl is one of the most unselfish creatures in the world. She is, in fact, a most charming girl in every way, with a pretty face and a quiet, unassuming manner which never fails to win with its simple charm. If she has any failing it is that of too great humility and an inclination to allow herself to be imposed upon. There is, I believe, a sort of unwritten law among women that daughters must marry in rotation according to age.

"Dorothy was very closely looked after by her mother and older sisters, and little opportunity was ever given her even remotely to contemplate the idea of marriage. It was not until last fall that anything in the guise of a man was allowed to approach within hailing distance. Then she was given the privilege of receiving some circumspet calls from a neighboring young man named Harry Lambert.

"You must not gather that the older girls had no attention—far from it. Mr. Edward Edgewater has been regularly paying court to Elizabeth, the oldest, for a number of years. Mr. William Jackson has been doing the same by Ruth, the second daughter.

"So during the fall things ran on as I have indicated, each of the young men finding happiness in the company of the lady of his choice every Sunday evening. But with the approach of cold weather the prospect for Dorothy changed. The porch or the lawn were all very well under the soft influence of the harvest moon—perhaps preferable to any other place—but the rustere November moon is another thing. Right here I ought to mention that the widow's house, though comfortable, is far from large. It accommodated Elizabeth and Ruth very pleasantly for courting purposes, but there was really no place for another. So there was nothing for Dorothy but to throw herself on the generosity of the others, and beg them to share with her, since Sunday evening was the only time that Harry could conveniently call. She went to Elizabeth first and laid the case before her. She replied in effect that she was in the habit of entertaining Mr. Edgewater in the parlor each Sunday evening and that she had no intention of giving it up.

"Poor Dorothy wiped her eyes and sought Ruth. This lady was dumfounded. The idea! She was accustomed to see Mr. Jackson in the dining room each Sunday evening, and she thought she saw herself giving it up to a mix who ought to be wearing her hair in a long braid.

"That evening Harry came. He had feared the worst, and was provided with his winter overcoat and a pair of heavy goshoes. Dorothy put on her winter cloak and took her muff and together they spent an hour tramping briskly up and down the path beside the house. At the end of the hour Harry said goodnight at the front steps, passed out the gate, sneezed furiously three times and hurried home.

"The next afternoon Dorothy and Harry called at my house. Harry asked me to marry them then and there. Dorothy told their story. So I married them."

EXPLOSION THAT DESTROYED GAMBOA DIKE

When President Wilson pressed a button in the White House 1,577 great charges of dynamite were exploded in the Panama Canal Zone and the Gamboa Dike was blown to pieces. The muffled roar of the explosion was echoed by the cheers of thousands of spectators and instantly the cables flashed to all parts of the world the news that this climax in the building of the wonderful canal had been reached and passed. No ceremonies attended the event, but the heart of every American beat high with pride in the achievement of his countrymen. The explosion was a "clean" one, lifting out of the dike a section sixty feet wide. Through this gap rushed the waters of Gatun lake, which at the time were six feet above the level of the water which had been let into the cut through pipes to act as a cushion for the explosion.

Fear Revival of Suttees.

A revival of suttee is feared in India. Within the short period of three or four days no less than two cases of women who committed suicide or the death of their husbands were reported, and probably others have taken place but have not reached the newspapers. When a year or so ago a young Bengal lady burned herself to death in Calcutta, attention was drawn to the danger arising from the defilection of the suttee. The house where the practice of suttee was revived became a center of pilgrimage to the people in the locality, and the relatives of the dead lady were imported over and over again to repeat the story of the suttee. Glowing accounts of the suttee also appeared in the vernacular papers. Since then no less than half a dozen cases of women performing suttee have come to light in Benzal.

HOLTON of THE NAVY

A Story of the Freeing of Cuba

By LAWRENCE PERRY

Author of "Dan Merrithew," "Prince of Chauffeur," etc.

Illustrations by Ellsworth Young

SYNOPSIS

Chapter 1.—Lieutenant Holton is detached from his command in the navy at the outset of the Spanish-American war and assigned to important secret service duty.

Chapter 2.—While dining at a Washington hotel he detects a waiter in the act of robbing a beautiful young lady, who thanks him for his service and gives her name as Miss La Tossa, a Cuban patriot. Later he meets her at a ball. A secret service man warns Holton that the girl is a spy.

Chapter 3.—Senor La Tossa chides his daughter for her failure to secure important information from Holton. She leaves for her home in Cuba. Holton is ordered to follow her.

Chapter 4.—They meet on the Tampa train. Miss La Tossa tells Holton she is a Cuban spy, and expresses doubt regarding the sincerity of the United States. Holton is ordered to remain in Tampa to guard the troop transports.

Chapter 5.—He receives orders to laud Miss La Tossa, who is considered a dangerous spy, on Cuban soil. At sea he is overtaken by another warship, which takes Miss La Tossa aboard and Holton is ordered to return to Tampa.

Chapter 6.—He saves the transports from destruction at the hands of dynamiters and reports to Admiral Sampson for further duty.

Chapter 7.—Holton is sent to General Garcia's command in the guise of a newspaper correspondent to investigate Cuban plots against the American troops and to learn the plans of the Spanish navy. He detects a trusted Cuban leader in the work of inciting trouble among the Cubans in the interests of the Spaniards.

Chapter 8.—Holton is seized by friends of the spy and later is ordered executed. He escapes and saves the American troops from falling into a Spanish ambush.

CHAPTER IX.

Before San Juan.

Ages seemed to have passed when Holton was aroused by a pleasant voice and the sensation that some re-vivifying fluid had been forced down his throat. Some very sympathetic hand was touching his head and a genial voice was addressing him.

"Come, old man, you're all right. The bullet just clipped your very thick head and glanced off."

Holton opened his eyes and saw a tall, broad-shouldered surgeon bending over him.

"How do you feel now?" he asked.

"Bully," smiled Holton. "I think I'll get up, if I may."

"Oh, you can get up just as soon as you think you feel sufficiently strong," replied the surgeon. He looked at Holton closely. "You're not of our outfit. Correspondent, aren't you?"

Holton smiled and shook his head. "No, my name is Holton, a lieutenant in the navy."

"The navy! Gad! You must have been spoiling for a landlubbers' scrap, then."

"I came in from behind Santiago," volunteered Holton, "and ran into this fight by accident. I have important information for Admiral Sampson, if you think I can get to the coast."

"You certainly can. I am sending a couple of wounded men down to Siboney now on horseback. I have another pony which you may borrow—remember, borrow," laughed the surgeon. "Be careful to keep that first-aid bandage on your head and by tonight you'll be all right. Not even a headache."

"Thanks," Holton, aided by the surgeon, got upon his feet, swayed weakly a moment with the other's arm around him, and then, getting his swimming head to rights, he walked slowly toward the trail.

A hospital attendant stood there holding two horses, and one of these the surgeon took and assisted Holton into the saddle.

"You can leave the nag at our camp in Siboney and I'll get him," he said. "By the way, my name is Church."

"Bob Church, of Princeton?" exclaimed Holton, recalling now that he had seen that broad-shouldered young doctor on many a hard-fought gridiron.

"The same," was the smiling reply. "Well, Bob Church, I owe you one," rejoined Holton. "I used to try to emulate your deeds on the eleven at Annapolis, but I don't think I ever succeeded."

"Oh, yes, you did!" exclaimed the surgeon. "Holton—Holton—Tommy Holton—I place you now. I think they put something like All-America end after your name, a degree they never conferred upon me."

Holton blushed; and then, thanking his benefactor, once more he passed on down the trail, in company with two privates, wounded in the legs.

As Holton wandered down a line of tents, he ran into Aldridge, Buxton and Fisher, all of the flagship New York. He fairly flung himself into their arms, and, overjoyed at seeing them for themselves not only, but because of the opportunity it gave him of getting the information he had obtained through to Admiral Sampson.

After lunching with his friends as guests of the junior officers of the Third cavalry, Holton made his way to General Shafter's headquarters. The general was sleeping and could not be awakened, but Holton retailed his information concerning the spy to Lieutenant Miley, who received it with great politeness and apparent gratitude, but obviously with little faith either in the fealty or the efficacy of the Cubans—a state of mind that Holton found prevalent among most of the officers of the army.

The army had been ordered to move to El Paso, or rather in the direction of El Paso, and there was much to engage Holton's interest. The trail leading into the jungle was congested with light artillery, ambulance wagons and marching men.

Holton's present idea was to wait for the army to move, and under cover of the battle to enter Santiago. But as day after day passed it seemed to him as though the order to advance would be given.

He went up to the Cuban camp several times, and on one of these occasions had a long conference with Garcia, to whom still maintaining his role as an English newspaper correspondent, he related the details of his misadventures at Aserraderos. Garcia's face clouded as Holton proceeded, and at the conclusion of his narrative he regarded the young officer sadly.

"I do not doubt that you say, Mr. Ogilvie," he sighed gloomily, "but it is a hard blow. Jose Cesnola is—one of our most trusted leaders. Now that I know, I can attribute many misfortunes to him, for he was very much in our confidence. Very well! Friends, comrades, have deserted us, have proved traitorous before this—I shall bear him in mind."

Six days in all elapsed before any indication that the army was to move came to the surface. On the sixth day, June 30, however, orderly aides began galloping down the roadway and the word came that the advance was to begin at four o'clock that afternoon. Holton wondered if the entire army was to move at once or whether each command was to take up the march at an appointed hour.

At four promptly his question was answered when the entire force broke camp and crowded into the narrow jungle trail at practically the same minute.

Holton followed along the trail with an infantry regiment. The army was now marching into the wooded valley which bordered the high grass leading to and up San Juan hill, with the smaller rise, Kettle Hill, on one side.

As the day waned the men who knew that on the morrow would come the supreme test, settled down for the night with grim faces.

Midnight passed. Men stirred restlessly in their blankets. And in the rifle-pits that ribbed San Juan dark-faced men in blue drill uniforms called on the Virgin—and waited.

Morning broke, silent and fog laden. An orderly galloped up to General Sumner, head of the cavalry division, and presenting General Shafter's compliments, told him to move his division to the edge of the woods.

"What shall I do when I get there?" asked Sumner.

"Await further orders," was the reply.

Holton strolled up to El Paso and found the regulars and the Rough Riders resting on their arms. Grimes' men were training their guns on San Juan, and impatiently awaiting the word to open fire.

It seemed ages to Holton before the order came, but come it did at last. The men of the batteries sprang tensely into position, and as a sharp order broke the silence, a lean-faced man jerked his arm suddenly. A line of thick, red name leaped out of the iron, thin muzzle, a bellying cloud of yellowish-white smoke rolled and tumbled and made the air murky. Another gun belched forth its projectile, and soon all the guns were thundering with well-ordered precision.

The men were all crouched now, waiting for orders. Over their heads the terrible hum of the Mauser balls was incessant. Showers of leaves and branches fell among them. Every few seconds, it seemed, someone would tumble to the ground and lie motionless or else writhe in silent pain. Captain Mills was close by Holton's side when a ball struck that officer in the side of the head, back of the eyes, and passed clean through. Holton could even hear the sound the bullet made as it struck the skull, a dull impact, a thud like the clack of two sticks.

Holton bent over him and then left him for dead.

Crouching close to the ground he made his way along the lines, determined to find a place where he could see something. He had viewed as much of this visitation of sightless death in these dense woods as he could stand.

Half-crawling, he suddenly came upon the Rough Riders in a fever of rage. Sumner had been ordered by Shafter to await orders here at the edge of the woods, but where were the orders? How long were they to be delayed? An hour from now there would be no Americans to receive orders.

To Holton it appeared as though the army had been deserted, left to its fate when suddenly word came from Lieutenant Miley, representing General Shafter, who was ill, for Sumner's division to move at once on Kettle Hill, lying to the east of San Juan and somewhat nearer the trails from which the soldiers were to enter upon their attack.

Instantly from out of that fringe of woods and into the open, roofed with a torrent of lead, sprang the negro regulars and the Rough Riders, bawling their famous "yip yip" at the top of their lungs, while from a clump of trees near the San Juan ford Parker's little battery of galling guns rattled incessantly. To the left, out of the woods, flowed regiment after regiment of white regulars, with that gallant soldier, Gen. Hamilton Hawkins, at their head, making for the block-house on San Juan hill.

Holton, drawn irresistibly by the spirit of the conflict had seized a carbine from a dead soldier, and in his excitement he cut across from the foot of Kettle Hill and found himself first on the edge of the small lake lying between Kettle Hill and San Juan hill, and then, as though the transition had been affected by magic, he was among Hawkins' infantrymen on the slope of San Juan—lying down and firing, then going forward in a crouching rush, just as he saw the men around him doing. Once, lying down, he looked behind and on either side and marveled that the long, thin blue line of charging men was not wiped out utterly. There seemed so few of them.

Here and there he saw advancing groups, and then again one man, yelling and firing all by himself. The bullets poured upon them pitilessly. Men were falling on all sides.

As he veered along the slope of the hill a young regular officer passed him unconcernedly snapping pictures of the charge and yelling for his men to come on. He smiled at Holton, and Holton smiled back.

Then with a yell the onrushing soldiers came to their first rifle-pit. A few dead Spanish soldiers lay in it, but otherwise it was unoccupied. Into the long trench poured the men, firing a few volleys at the trenches above and then leaping out and piling on up the hill.

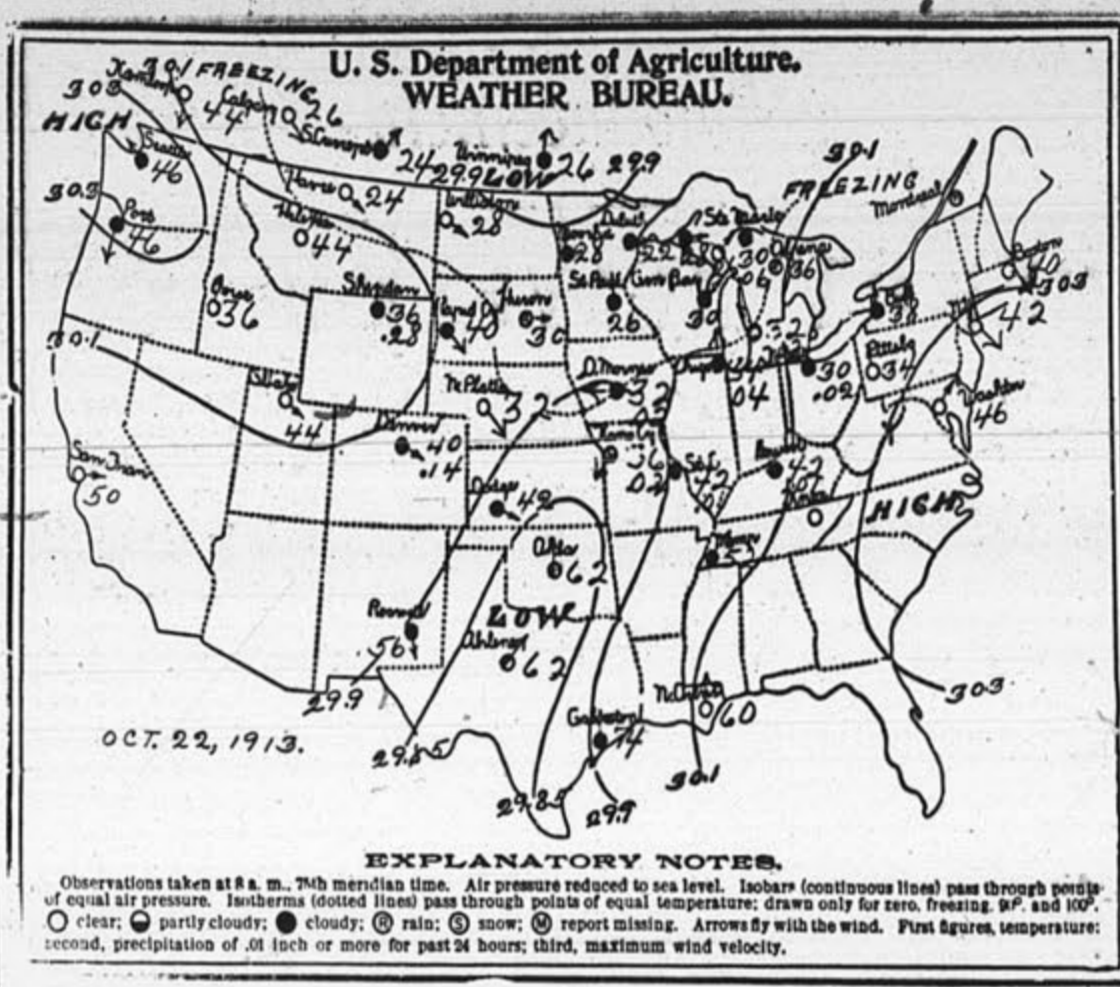

Half-way up Holton saw a man with the shoulder-strap of a colonel, a fine-appearing fellow, with side whiskers. He had turned to speak to Shafter's aide, Lieutenant Miley, who had just come up with the men of the Third cavalry.

"How are you, colonel?" smiled Miley.

"How—" Colonel Hamilton said no more, for a bullet entered his open mouth and bade him hold his peace for evermore.

And now the men began pouring up to the top of the hill, lying behind the crest and discharging bullets at the Spaniards who were feeling down the other side, making helter-skelter for their entrenchments toward Santiago. Those who reached there, and not all did, joined a heavy force of Spaniards lying there and turned their fire upon the hill they had so recently left. Thus a hail of lead flew upon and over the heights which the soldiers had taken, compelling the regulars, Rough Riders, and the white and negro cavalrymen, who had rushed over from Kettle Hill, to fatten themselves in the pits which had been prepared by the enemy.

To Holton, as he lay huddled in a trench with a Rough Rider on one side of him and a dead Spaniard on the other, it seemed as though the immolation of the entire army must follow an attempt upon the entrenchments before the objective point of the campaign was attained, and yet such an attack was what he had counted upon, as it would have enabled him, had he

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT. Grandma Kept Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Thick With a Mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the musay mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

Long-Lived Mines and Profits. Are long-lived mines more profitable than short-lived ones? The average investor would consider this a foolish question, assuming naturally that the longer a mine lasts the greater the accumulated profits.

Just about the contrary is the case. The figures supplied by the mines department of Johannesburg, where the regularity of deposits on the Rand makes it possible to gauge the lives of mines with accuracy, should convince the skeptic that owing to compound interest a long life does not add to the value of a mine to the extent commonly assumed.—Engineering and Mining Journal.

The New Beet Sugar Low

Last legislature passed a law the inspection and testing of beets with the dairy and food ment. Under the provisions of the law the chemist of the Agricultural College, the chemist of the Dairy Department and the chemist of the Agricultural Experiment Station made a commission to formulate and regulations for the weighing, taring and testing sugar beets in Michigan. This commission has already met and formulated regulations providing weighing, trying and testing of sugar beets used in Michigan sugar during the coming season. Of these rules and regulations have been printed and are required to be posted in all beet sugar and all weigh stations. The Dairy and Food Commission is used by this law to appoint two persons whose duty during the common will be to visit various sugar factories and personally see that regulations are carried out. These inspectors are to be beet sugar chemists who have several years experience in beet factories.

The provisions of this law any who is furnishing sugar beets to a factory, if he is dissatisfied with the weighing and taring of his beets with the analysis of the sugar can file a complaint with the food commissioner at Lansing. This complaint will be promptly investigated by one of the inspectors and the justice thereof determined by a food department agent to test all scales used in sugar seats throughout the State owing to the non-arrival of and scales ordered last June, it is impossible for the department to test all scales before the opening of the season. It is intended, however, to have the inspector weights and measures test as many scales as possible, and if any sugar beet grower is dissatisfied with weights received, he should make a complaint to this department and the scales of that particular weigh station will be promptly investigated and corrected if found necessary.

It is hoped by this law to do away with much dissatisfaction that has existed in former years relative to the analysis of the sugar beet content, as this year all factories in Michigan will pay for beets according to the content of sugar.

The law further provides that the salaries and expenses of the sugar beet inspectors in enforcing this law shall be paid by the companies, and to provide a fund for this purpose every sugar beet factory at the close of the campaign is required to make a sworn statement of the number of tons of sugar beets sliced and they are also required to pay into the state treasury an annual tax of 1-c per ton on all beets manufactured into sugar which found is used to defray the expenses of this inspection. All weighmen, tarenmen and sugar beet chemists are required to take an oath that they will weigh and test sugar beets according to the rules and regulations prescribed by the state commission. Copies of these oaths and regulations will be furnished by the dairy and food department upon application. It is the intention of the department to enforce this law vigorously in order that both the factories and the producers shall have a square deal and that all complaints on either side shall be satisfactorily adjusted.

James W. Helme,
State Dairy and Food Commr.

Had Serious Lung Trouble—Now Well

Sufferers from Lung Trouble are often misled in the belief that nothing will save them. Best, fresh air, wholesome food and regularity in habits do much in aiding to restore health, but something else is needed. Many people who have taken Eckman's Alternative have testified that it was this medicine which restored them to health. Read this:

Weldon, Ill.
"Gentlemen: Through your instrumentality I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia, which developed into Lung Trouble. In February, 1905, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 101 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive. On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Lung Trouble. Today I weigh 154 pounds, am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator."
Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Phrenetic Asthma, Strabismus, Colds and in subduing the system. Contains no narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for evidence. For sale by all leading druggists.

"THE PINK LADY"

Nothing quite the equal in size and importance in the musical comedy field has ever been seen here to compare with John C. Fisher's production of "The Pink Lady," with many of the New York and London company, which is an early booking at the Peterson opera house.

This big hit in the popular field of entertainment is in three acts. Its book and lyrics were written by C. M. S. McEllan, author of "The Belle of New York" and "Leah Kleeschna," while the score is the work of Ivan Caryll of the Gaiety theatre, London, who has half a dozen great hits to his credit. In none of these, however, has he registered the popular success that he has with "The Pink Lady." It is a delightfully clean cut and charming performance made brilliant by the most pleasing music that has been turned out for a work of this kind in years. The large company includes Olga de Baugh, Georgia Harvey, Jas. McElhern, Alfred Deery, Lucie Carter, Jack Hall, Russell Lennon, Alice Moffatt, Jack Ryan, Chas. J. Hines, Mortimer Meyers, Abbott Adams and the beauty chorus of fifty.

AT THE ORPHEUM THEATRE.

Despite the sharpness of the weather of Monday night, a good sized audience witnessed the performance of the Flag Stock Co. and another capacity house greeted the players last night.

The play, "On the Mexican Border," gave the theatre-goers their first opportunity of seeing Mr. Juste Fontaine the new leading man, in the part of Val Brandon. This is a role which permits an actor's capability to be displayed to the utmost, and Mr. Fontaine's rendition was most satisfying.

Miss Dorothy Lobdell, as the capricious, headstrong Julie Barton, who finally discovers the true nobility of Brandon's nature, was most charming to look upon and played with conviction and force.

Paquita, a coquettish, grey little Mexican, whose mischievous flirting enlivened the others in a mesh of trouble, was delightfully presented by Miss Evelyn Bennett. A most amusing character, Mrs. Doppelbinger, enacted by Mrs. Laura May Polk, evoked much laughter whenever she appeared upon the scene. Mr. Flaig as Burton Shackelford, contributed one of his strong portrayals of villainy and Mr. Parrish, who so ably directed the stage, was excellent as old man Barton. Mr. Jos. Keenan's rendering of the reptilian Lopez, bull fighter, and 'bully, showed a thorough knowledge of the character of this type. As Dave Barton, Julie's brother, Mr. Le Roy Havers made an excellent impression.

"The Parish Priest" is now in rehearsal and will be given on Thursday evening.

Every Day Someone

Finds out that the drug, caffeine, in coffee is the cause of headache, nervousness, irritable heart, insomnia or some other obscure ache or pain.

Steady nerves and a clear brain—the best asset any man or woman can have—are often impossible to the regular coffee drinker.

EASY CHANGE.
When Coffee is Doing Harm.

A lady writes from the land of cotton of the results of a four years' use of the food beverage, Postum:

"Ever since I can remember we had used coffee three times a day. It had a more or less injurious effect upon us all, and I suffered almost death from indigestion and nervousness. I know it was coffee, because when I would leave it off for a few days, I would feel better. But it was hard to give coffee up, even though I realized how harmful it was to me. At last I found a perfectly easy way to make the change. Four years ago I abandoned the coffee habit and began to drink Postum and I also influenced the rest of the family to do the same. Even the children are allowed to drink it as freely as they do water. And it has done us all great good. I no longer suffer from indigestion, and my nerves are in admirable tone since I began to use Postum. We never use coffee any more."

"We appreciate Postum as a delightful and healthful beverage, which not only invigorates but supplies the best of nourishment as well." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Write for the famous little book "The Road to Wellville."

POSTUM

If the old aches and pains begin to leave after a few days on Postum, you'll know whether to stick to it on go back to coffee troubles.

Postum now comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled.

Instant Postum is a soluble powder. A spoonful dissolves in a cup of hot water, and with sugar and cream makes a delicious beverage instantly.

MICHIGAN ATHLETICS.

The University Appoints Committee to Handle Existing Problems.

For the purpose of treating either directly with the intercollegiate conference in regard to a possible arbitration of present difficulties or with the Michigan board of regents the board of control of the University of Michigan athletics at its annual session recently appointed a committee consisting of Professor Allen S. Whitney, Judge James O. Murfin of Detroit and Albert Fletcher, a student member of the board. The method of procedure is to be decided by the committee.

The action of the board came following a practical demand made by the Daily, the student publication, that definite action be taken immediately relative to the opening of official negotiations with the conference.

The instructions given the committee include an order to confer with the board of regents and are prompted by the belief of the board members that the regents by their action in sending resolutions to the regents of the conference universities have taken the matter of negotiations out of the hands of the board of control.

HERZOG AS MANAGER.

Garry Herrmann Reported to Want Infielder For Cincinnati.

With a gun over his shoulder Charlie Herzog of the New York Nationals is now hunting in Maryland with Frank Baker totally unaware of an impending danger that is headed in his general direction. Charlie is about to be burdened with the management of the Cincinnati Reds next season, according to a rumor. Garry Herrmann is not entirely satisfied with the showing Joe Tinker made this year and is casting sweet glances at McGraw's utility third baseman.

Herzog, who is just now trying to forget baseball, would probably not at some other time consider favorably a berth in Cincinnati, a town that is traditionally hard on baseball managers. But under conditions in which he is involved now he might be willing to accept if the arrangements could be made satisfactorily.

It is a fact pretty generally known, although seldom mentioned, that there is a breach between McGraw and Herzog. The Maryland boy adorned the bench for the Giants this past season right following his wonderful showing in the 1912 world's series. There has been considerable conjecture, naturally, as to the reason for this. McGraw, of course, had developed in Arthur Shaffer a wonderful ball player and one who when he wants to play can step along with any of them. But Herzog looked like a mighty good ball player to be holding down the bench. There is probably no doubt that he felt displeased over the condition of affairs and some of his critics have been unkind enough to accuse him of not trying in the last world's series on this account, which is not true.

Herzog should make a good manager. He is not only well versed in the game, but he is energetic and resourceful. He injected more ginger into the Giants than any other man on the club. Without him the Giant infield was as quiet as a night in the country.

Costly Power Boat Trophy.

The donation of a $5,000 trophy to be raced for in Chicago next summer and promised of four foreign entries for the 1914 speed boat championships, were announced at a "welcome home" dinner that was recently given by Chicago yachtsmen and power boat men in honor of Commodore James A. Pugh, and Commodore William Hale Thompson. The dinner celebrated the return of Pugh and Thompson from England, where Pugh's Disturber III, competed for the Harmsworth international trophy.

BASEBALL ITEMS.

Detroit has purchased Outfielders Williams and Smith from Regina of the Western Canada league.

Catcher Fitzgerald, turned back to Detroit by Chattanooga, has been sent by the Tiger management to St. Joseph in the Western league.

Nick Allen, a catcher, who in 1912 was a member of the Minneapolis American association team, but played this year with the Northern league, has been sold to the Chicago American league club.

Fast Subs at Penn.

Conch Brooke is developing a set of substitutes that will be the best the University of Pennsylvania has ever had. Merrill has qualities that make him almost as valuable to the team as Marshall, while he will be a big factor should Mills be incapacitated, as he gives the signals in very good shape.

Weather Forecast.

When the horns of the moon are clearly discernible by the naked eye, it means that there is nothing in the atmosphere to obscure them. An atmosphere as clear as this generally indicates that it has been swept by the winds in the upper ether, and these winds will probably reach the earth before long.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS THE DEATH OF WILLIAM NORTON, LUMBERMAN

Tim of a murderous assault, Dr. Flynn was asked to examine the body. From the superficial examination the doctor was convinced that Norton's neck had been broken. Dr. Harkin was called and the spinal column was exposed. It was found that the fifth vertebrae was fractured and dislocated. Later in the day, on the suggestion of members of the coroner's jury that the death might have been caused by heart failure and that the broken vertebrae might have resulted from the fall of the body to the ground, the physicians performed an autopsy in which the organs were examined. They were found to be in perfect condition, the physicians are of the opinion that the broken vertebrae could have resulted from a blow on Norton's neck given when he was not suspected and therefore when the blow would naturally be relaxed. It is suggested that the blow might have been given added force if the hand delivered it held a rock, or some heavy substance. The absence of a pronounced mark on the body is explained, having been the fact that the force of the blow exerted through the clothing,

Appointment Confirmed

The appointment of Oscar Erickson, named by Mayor Chatfield as city scavenger several days ago, was confirmed unanimously by council.

Objections to the assessment role compiled for the construction of a sanitary sewer in the Smith and Dunlap addition were called for last night and there being none the role was confirmed. A resolution instructing the city clerk to advertise for bids for the construction of the sewer was passed and bids will be received at the meeting to be held November 14.

Sewer Clogged With Shirts

The sewer on Escanaba avenue was reported as having clogged recently and an examination showed it to contain a couple old shirts, a shoe or two, quantities of veneering, etc., and the sewer committee, mayor and street commissioner were instructed to investigate and report at the next meeting.

Council adjourned at 9:30.

EAT LESS AND TAKE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts before breakfast if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. One blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

DEAL FOR BIG U. P. TIMBER TRACT CLOSED

Powell and Mitchell Sell to Thompson—Spies Company of Menominee

Marquette, Oct. 22.—One of the most important timber deals that has been closed in the upper peninsula in months was recently concluded between Powell & Mitchell and the Thompson-Spies Lumber company of Menominee, one of the largest of the lumbering concerns operating on the Menominee river. It carried title to 3,600 acres of heavily wooded land in Carp Lake township, Ontonagon county.

The tract, it is stated, will average 10,000 feet to the acre, and thus the stand will cut 70,000,000 feet. The purchase price, though not given, is said to have been a large amount. By the sale Powell & Mitchell disposed of the great bulk of their timber land holdings in the upper peninsula, and they now retain only a comparatively few isolated tracts.

Most of the land in the Carp Lake township acreage, which is contiguous, was picked up by Powell & Mitchell some ten or twelve years ago. They purchased wherever they could buy contiguous lands and finally secured one of the finest stands of mixed timber to be found in the district. The tract contains hemlock, maple, birch, ash, basswood, elm and lesser amounts of other timber.

The land is well located all of it being easily accessible to the St. Paul railway spur running southwest of Ontonagon to tap the timber wealth of Carp Lake township. The timber will be shipped to Menominee, to be cut in the Menominee mills, via Ontonagon, following the route of much of the timber cut in Ontonagon county that is sent to Green Bay and other southern points.
