PALACE INN IS SCENE OF RAID LAST SATURDAY

Authorities Fail to Find Anything With Kick at Air-line Road House Saturday Night.

MARINETTE, Jan. 25.—District Attorney Arnold E. Murphy made a moonlight when he in company with county officers raided the saloon and dance hall of the Palace Inn situated on the Airline road a little distance beyond the Peshigo river bridge, which failed to procure any liquid evidence which tested more than one-half of one per cent. The warrant was made out against Frank Peter and Albert Martell.

Attorney Murphy when asked about the raid stated that he could not understand why they did not find any evidence as they visited the place on direct information which was the straightest they had ever had on any place since the raids were instituted last summer.

Complaints of Place The warrant which was sworn out by the district attorney read in part that the place was looked upon as a public nuisance and that the patrons had been molesting persons in the vicinity.

It also charges that intoxicating liquor has been sold there to parties from the cities of Marquette and Soudanville who frequent the place and that dancing and carousing are carried on there late into the night. Many complaints have been received at the district attorney's office of late in regard to this place and lead to the raid it is alleged. # VACCINATION

(Evening American) Priority readers who object to the suggestion that vaccination is necessary, and that scientists know more than amateur theorists, are referred to the experience of Benjamin Franklin. Franklin's wife, Deborah, gave him two children, one a boy of whom Franklin wrote, thirty-six years after the child's death: "He was one I have seldom since seen equaled in everything, and whom to this day I cannot think of without a sigh."

Franklin did not have the boy vaccinated, and he died at four years of age. If that child had been vaccinated the chances are at least a hundred to one that it would have escaped the smallpox. And it is not easy to estimate the value to the world of the descendants of this brilliant son of Franklin. One fact is worth a good deal of theory. There are millions of facts in favor of vaccination.

Chicago had one death from smallpox in 1920, none in 1919. Before the days of vaccination it would have had a terrific smallpox epidemic and an average death rate from smallpox of 10,000 would have been considered reasonable.

COMMERCIAL CLUBS WILL FORM LEAGUE

Secretaries of Commercial Clubs Will Meet to Form League.

It Is Considered That State Organization Would Go Long Way Towards More Efficiency.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Jan. 25.—Arguments intended to show the need for a state organization of commercial clubs and boards of commerce in Michigan will be presented to the Michigan State Association of Commercial Societies meeting in Port Huron Feb. 17 by John L. Gibson, secretary of the Battle Creek Chamber of Commerce, one of the secretaries back of the proposal for a state association, he announces.

In outlining the arguments he will make for such an organization Mr. Gibson said:

Few persons appreciate the power of the state in American life. Nearly 90 per cent of all the laws affecting our personal and business relations are enacted by the state. A state chamber of commerce is a necessity if the cycle of business organization is to be completed and the entire field covered.

Such an organization of necessity would require underwriting at the start. An annual income of about $100,000 would need to be guaranteed for from three to five years by the leading industries of the state.

A state chamber of commerce should deal with facts, not fancies, and act as a balance wheel for preservation of our institutions, and the guidance of orderly progress. It should be departmentalized and have industrial, agricultural, legislative, research publicity and other bureaus.

Under the plan the state would be districted, that meetings might be held to discuss local and state problems. The entire organization would hold annual conventions that would bring together 1,000 or more of the leading business men, manufacturers, professional men and farmers of the state. All active local chambers of commerce would be asked to become members and participate in the work of the state organization.

The state body would work thru all existing agencies so far as possible for the upbuilding of the state as a whole. It could be made to establish a further connection between the people affecting the state, such as bringing under cultivation all idle land in Michigan. The questions of immigration and of bringing city dwellers to the farm also could be worked out by a state chamber.

Mr. Gibson pointed out that sixteen states have such organizations, as follows: New Jersey, Oregon, Pennsylvania, New Hampshire, California, Connecticut, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, South Dakota, Texas, Vermont, Washington, Maine and Massachusetts.

DEFNET GOES RIGHT ALONG WITH VACCINE

Three Small Pox Cases Found in Franklin School by Him.

St. Joseph School Taken Care of Today; Very Few Objectors Are Encouraged in Schools.

In spite of the protests from a number of people of this city, Dr. H. J. Defnet, the city health officer has not had his arduous little bit dampened and is going merrily on his way with the cute little bundles of vaccine. He has practically completed his work in the schools and by tomorrow night will have vaccinated all the children who were ready to be made immune from the disease.

In the Franklin school yesterday the health officer found three children who already had the disease and they were sent home. None of them were ill, but had broken out and will remain at home until they are pronounced well.

So far as can be learned, today the people who subscribed to a petition against vaccination at the city hall last Sunday have taken no further action and it cannot be learned whether or not the petition has been presented to the authorities.

Many of those who are opposed to vaccination claim they would rather have their children vaccinated than keep them out of school, but want to go on record that they do not believe in vaccination.

Others make the claim that their children are going to school and are not going to be vaccinated, that there is no epidemic and furthermore that their nerves has been one in the city.

If it came to a question of what it takes to make an epidemic, there might be a case of some argument, Chicago, a city that has one of the largest populations in the United States would consider they had an epidemic of small pox, if there were ten cases within the city limits. About that number of cases have been discovered in the local schools and sent home.

However, it is proven by the very large number of those who have cheerfully submitted to being vaccinated that the work of the health department and its head meets with the approval of more than 85 per cent of the people of the city.

The order has been given that all teachers and every pupil in all schools must be vaccinated by the last day in this month or stay away from school. Dr. Defnet has carried out one of the best campaigns for checking a disease that has ever been inaugurated in Escanaba and he said this morning that while opposition is not pleasant, he is going to see to it that his orders are carried out.

GRADE WORK SHOWN BY CHILDREN FROM FIRST AND SECOND

Interesting Display Has Been Placed at Hill Drug Store by Grade Teachers.

The following article on the work done by the first and second grades of the public schools will be of interest to parents who have children in the schools as well as others who are interested in education.

During the month of November the Christmas Projects were planned and successfully carried out by the First and Second Grades of the Escanaba Public Schools.

I. Tree

One of the very first questions asked was "Are we going to have a tree? We decided as a rule and then came the question, "What kind of tree shall we have?" It was finally decided to have a spruce tree because the spruce trees are better shaped, the needles are shorter and do not dry up and fall so quickly. Now that we had decided on the kind of tree the next problem was "How shall we get it?" Several of the boys volunteered to get a tree but as all the boys were rather small, that could not be done. One raised the suggestion, "Let us all bring peaples and buy a tree." The next day one of the boys rushed into school excited, "My father says he'll go out with his car and bring in some trees. It was just left into the kind and size. That settled it. The tree arrived about after 10 o'clock in the form of a thought toward discussion.

"What shall we use to trim the tree?" We wanted to cut the tree for the "Y" but we decided to use all the trimmings for the tree. We decided to make red and green paper chains, then to cut out paper bells and stockings and decorate these with some Christmas symbols. Some also wanted to get cardboard stars and cover them with gold or silver. Others wanted to make jointed paper Santa Clauses and trim their coats with cotton batting. But so far every thing suggested was made of paper.

Some of the first and second grades during the first part of December, the science room told the story of "The United States" and "The First Christmas." They heard about the "Yule of the ancients" and about "Santa Claus Home in Northland." In some of the rooms the children prepared a list of questions. They found with shocks that the answers which were found in the book. They built the most interesting story and kept them for that night but were turned away because of the noise and finally built the "Yule" where the "Yule" child lay.

Another group represented "Santa Claus Home in Northland." They played a game of "Santa Claus" and made a toy of every kind. At the hour when the night number pitched over a net partly filled with peaples, because one student had been told that Santa Claus had a sack on his back, he was all ready to jump from his home to visit the children all over the land. The net, joining table the same could be suspended. A child on Christmas. Of course Santa was to visit this village in the way.

All children love to make gifts. They decided to make gifts for mother and daddy first. The making of these gifts was done by the children themselves with only suggestions from the teacher. Some children made calendars for mother and made something for sharing gifts for daddy. The boys looked how many would like to make a present for baby. One boy said, "I told the children to make stockings from home, and they had stockings of red, green and white. They might cut into small pieces and use to stuff the socks. Some of the children made calendars for their mothers and fathers.

One of the teacher's original projects of animals and the children cut the animals from old fashion papers of old pieces of cloth and, using glue, they stuck them on. We used the same plan for working on these gifts as we did for making the trimmings for the tree. When a child had finished his work, he went to the work table and waited on his pile, after the children had finished making their dolls, some went right on and dressed them, making dresses, aprons, blouses, and even went as far as making handkerchiefs to go on the apron pocket.

By using the project plan the children gained much more than they did when the teacher plans everything for them. The teacher suggests and guides and the children do the thinking.

Therefore, you will see that the teachers and children of the first and second grades lived together, enjoyed together, and finally enjoyed together the results of their own efforts.

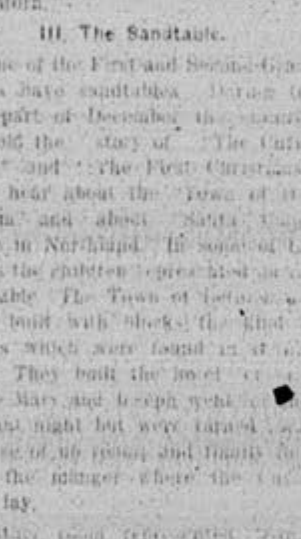

Illustrations on the Board
We have artists in every room and first and second grade rooms also have their artists. The artist or artists in each room were given a sufficient blackboard space on which they might illustrate something pertaining to Christmas. Some of the children illustrated the story of "The Sheepskin" others the story of "The Three Wise Men" in one room one child drew a tree with the stockings hanging up. He wrote under the picture, "The Night before Christmas." Immediately another child asked, "Did I draw something along side of my drawing?" He drew a tree, decorated it, drew several peaples under the tree and named it "Santa Claus Home."

Michigan Farmers Realize a Nice Profit From Having a Number of Hives on Farm.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

EAST LANSING, Mich., Jan. 25.—The prevalence of diseases among bees, the honey business in Michigan is being rapidly taken into the hands of specialists who understand bees and their care, the farmers with but a few hives in many instances having abandoned the culture, due to death of the insects.

Surveys conducted by the inspector show that between 2,000 and 10,000 bees in Michigan are carrying in the keeping, either as a "hobby" or as a business. Bee keeping probably is the only source of income for between 500 and 600 families in the state at present, according to St. Kluge.

Michigan's honey crop in a single year is about 10,000,000 pounds. A total of 8,000,000 pounds is expected in 1921. There also is an annual harvest of about 500,000 pounds of wax.

The outlook in the industry for 1921 is said by Mr. Kluge to be excellent. Honey producing plants are abundant and are wintering well. The bees in the state went into winter quarters in excellent condition and the moderate temperature has been conducive to successful wintering. A large honey crop is expected this year.

Bee keeping is a very profitable business when conducted by one who

"Tony, Don't You Like Me at All?"

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Lonely and almost friendless, Tommie Deane, living on a canal boat, child of a brutal father and a worn-out, discouraged mother, wanders into a Salvation army hall at Escanaba, Mich. There she meets a young sailor, who wins her affection. Philip MacCarty.

CHAPTER II.—Urbah Deven, Tony's father, returns to the boat from a protracted "spree" and announces he has arranged for Tony to marry a worthless companion of his, Reginald Brown. Mrs. Deven objects, and Urbah beats her. She intimates there is a secret connected with Tommie.

CHAPTER III.—In clothes that Urbah has brought Tony finds a baby's picture with a notification of a reward for its return to a Doctor Pendlehaven. She goes to return the picture.

CHAPTER IV.—With the Pendlehavens, a family of wealth, live Mrs. Curtis, a cousin, her son and daughter, Katherine Curtis and Reginald Brown. Katherine is deeply in love with Philip MacCarty.

CHAPTER V.—Tommie returns the picture to Doctor John, and learns it belongs to his brother, Dr. Paul Pendlehaven. It is a portrait of Doctor Paul's child, who had been stolen in her infancy, and her loss has wrecked Doctor Paul's life. Doctor John goes with Tony to the canal boat and introduces to Mrs. Deven while she is unconscious.

CHAPTER VI.—Returning to consciousness, Mrs. Deven is informed by Tony of her sister's fate. She is deeply grieved, makes Tony swear she will never tell of Deven's brutality, and disappears.

CHAPTER VII.—Tony's personality and her loneliness appeal to Doctor John and he arranges to take her into his house as a companion to his invalid brother.

CHAPTER VIII.—Tony's presence in the house has a good effect on Doctor Paul. He begins to take a new interest in life. Verifying the canal boat, Tony finds Reginald Brown. He attempts to kiss her. Captain MacCarty appears and throws the man into the lake. Urbah Deven orders MacCarty off his boat.

CHAPTER IX.—With the girl a captive Deven insists that she shall marry Brown. On her persistent refusal, he beats her brutally, throws her into the cabin, unmoors the boat, and starts to leave. Urbah Deven follows. MacCarty follows. He takes the girl into the cabin through the cabin window. The man believes Tony has committed suicide. MacCarty declares his love, and Tony acknowledges she returns it. The girl returns to the Pendlehaven home.

"But you've always been busy, and I'm less," the girl said. "I have seen you since. Mother and I have come to the conclusion that you couldn't have been very much interested in me. Cousin John's presence. You haven't even asked about her."

"The fact is, I came to see her to see," he exclaimed. "Katherine went wax white. 'What do you want to see her for?' he asked sharply. 'Oh, just to talk to her,' replied MacCarty, awkwardly. Katherine shook her head. 'I don't believe you can,' she protested dubiously. 'Cousin John won't let any of us go up to Paul's room, and she never comes down any more.' 'Where's Reggie?' demanded the boy.

"Oh, he's gone to Transylvania today," answered Katherine, indifferently. "And I am glad of it. I wish he'd never come back." He keeps number 14 in tears most of the time, boy here."

"And Cousin John? I want to ask him if I can take Miss Deven."

"Katherine's head went up in its date. 'I know what you want to ask him, she interrupted tartly. 'But you haven't waste your sympathy on that Deven girl. Not because she's—'

Before she could tell him her mother's opinion, the door opened and Dr. Pendlehaven walked in. 'Cousin John,' said Philip, abruptly, going to him, 'may I take Miss Deven out for a little ride? I'll promise to bring her back in an hour.'

The doctor looked at the boy's pleading eyes, looked at the girl, and then smiled. 'Perhaps you won't have any better luck than I have had, son,' he answered with a little laugh. 'I've almost been down on my knees to the child, and she absolutely refuses.'

'Mother's dreadfully against her riding in our car, Cousin John,' Katherine cried in this, throaty tones. 'The thought of it makes her sick.'

'Your mother's not really sick, my dear Katherine,' the doctor asserted. 'Ah, here she is. Katherine was just speaking of you, my dear Sarah.'

A merry twinkle came into his eyes as he turned on his cousin. 'Now, was she?' smiled Mrs. Curtis. 'What were you saying, Katherine?' Katherine lifted her eyes, stammering with passionate anger. 'That you would dislike Cousin John?—I mean, that girl up there—taken out for a drive,' replied Katherine.

Mrs. Curtis caught her daughter's expression and looked at Dr. John, then at Philip. 'Well, I should say I wouldn't like it,' she ejaculated. 'There's a limit to all things. What in the world would the neighbors say to such an outrage?'

Dr. Pendlehaven's face gathered a dark look. 'If she'll go with Philip, Sarah,' he said. 'I wouldn't give a hang what the neighbors said. Come along up, Phil, and ask her.'

'Cousin John!' cried Mrs. Curtis. 'And oh, Cousin John,' gasped Katherine. But the doctor was too angry to say any word to them. 'You really want to take the child, my lady?' he asked, smiling at MacCarty.

'Yes, do let me,' blurted the boy. 'Let's go up now.'

They had no more than closed the door when Katherine burst into tears, and Mrs. Curtis plumped down into a chair in a spell of hysterics. 'The little trislap,' she cried. 'Oh, Oh, Oh!'

'It'll like to kill her,' burst forth Katherine. 'Mother, if you don't do something for me, I'll die. Oh, to think of it! He takes her out when he could take me! Oh, God! Oh, dear God, help me!'

Her daughter's terrible outburst brought Mrs. Curtis directly out of herself. 'Don't, Kathie,' she said in a whisper. 'I really had no idea you cared for him so much. I will help you, poor dear. John shall listen to me this night, he certainly shall.'

Meanwhile Tommie looked up with inquiring eyes at Dr. Pendlehaven walked in. He had closed Philip on the outside of the door. 'The girl gave him a slight snarl. The doctor came forward and took hold of her hand. 'And,' he asked, looking at his brother, 'would you spare our little girl for an hour? I want her to go out.'

Tommie, remembering her promise to Philip, rose to her feet. 'I don't want to,' she trembled. 'I'd rather stay here. I'd really rather stay here.' Pendlehaven went to the door and opened it, and Philip walked in.

Mrs. J. LaPoint, 411 S. 13th St., Escanaba, Mich., says: 'Doan's Kidney Pills proved to be a wonderful medicine in my case and I am glad to give a few words of praise for them. I had a terrible backache and sometimes I could hardly get up or down. Mornings I was miserable and my back felt stiff and drawn. I couldn't sleep at all and there was a dull pain which settled in my back and just seemed to be pulling me down. I became depressed and nervous. Black spots would pass before my eyes and made me very dizzy. My kidneys didn't act right either. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by a friend and I decided to try them and a few boxes from the Hill Drug Store entirely rid me of the kidney complaint.'

Should a Man Object if a Pretty Stenographer—

DEAN W.—Why should a man object if a pretty twenty-three-year-old stenographer borrows his "company car" for a few moments just to run up to the clubhouse to collect a little money of $20 which the state owed her for trying bills and reports in the house of representatives? Lemmie Colyer, clerk of the agricultural committee of the house and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Colyer of Urbana, Ind., says she has just understood these men, and to think that anyone should have her arrested!

It was primarily the fault of the legislators in holding up the salary appropriation. Miss Colyer had been ill for two weeks from influenza at 523 Emerson street, and she felt that she would go to the state house and try to pay her bill. She couldn't understand why they always put stipulations on bills, anyway.

Across the street she spotted a "company car." If the owner was a nice man he surely wouldn't object if she borrowed the car for a few minutes to run up to the statehouse to collect her $20. She had never driven anything but a "bicycle" or a "motor," but she got the mechanics out of the city hall. But before she had collected her $20 along came the owner of the car and a plain clothes policeman.

Miss Colyer told all about it at the city hall. Several friends reached for Miss Colyer. It was arranged that she should stay with relatives in South Denver until she had recovered from the "cherry of the city."

Incidentally it should be stated that Miss Colyer got her $20.

Practically every building craft union of Buffalo, N. Y., has accepted a new contract which calls for improved working conditions.

At Greenville, S. C., total brick output falls, following the example of New England plants, announced by directors of 10 to 20 per cent in wages in order to keep pace.

Times and cities in Ontario have taxing commissions, and thirty-eight have contemplated the building of houses under the scheme of the government loans for that purpose.

The money will be spent on the exterior department office buildings and to enlarge the machine shop, President Stevens said.

Semi-skilled Labor Surplus. There is a surplus of semi-skilled labor of 6 per cent over the number of places offered during the two weeks ending October 23, according to figures made public at Milwaukee by C. T. DRINK A GLASS OF REAL HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST.

Says we will both look and feel clean, sweet and fresh and avoid illness.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides with results that are of untold benefit to humanity. The first application of its findings research is the recommendation that it is necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the strains of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel full and heavy when we arise, hitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of its internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour, bile and poisonous toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the phosphate hot water is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatic stiffness; where who have sallow skins, blood disorders and stinky complexion are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced expert on the subject of internal sanitation.

MICHIGAN WILL BE REPRESENTED AT BIG MEETING

A Tri-State Development Congress Will Open at St. Paul Tomorrow; Doelle Is There

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 25.—The opening of the tri-state development congress will attract the attention of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota including the state legislatures and the public of the three states. The purpose of the Tri-State Development Congress, which will open a two-day session here tomorrow.

Governor J. A. Oshea of Michigan called the congress after a conference of state officials and leaders of the affected states, and it is hoped to form a permanent organization that will work for the mutual interests of the three states.

Those interested in the congress have contended that the federal government appropriate more money for development of all sections of the seven states, but the appropriation is more $10,000 for development of all over lands in the three states participating in tomorrow's congress.

It is expected by Minnesota state officials that congress action by the three states will enable them to receive recognition from the federal government in the form of a larger appropriation for development of out-over lands.

Minnesota's delegation will propose the establishment of immigrants by an agent stationed at an European consular office and these immigrants would be colonized in the out-over regions of the three states. It will be proposed that only immigrants familiar with such lands be sent to those sections, where they would be colonized in the work of agriculture to improve and fertilize the soil.

Provisional plans are that immediately after permanent organization of the congress has been organized, a united effort will be made to obtain trucks and machinery from the federal government with which to clear the out-over lands and build roads. Expenses will be shared with the federal government.

J. C. Thompson, head of the federal land bank at St. Paul will preside at the opening of the congress, that will be opened with an address of welcome by Governor Oshea.

Barquandy tricotino makes up the second frock fashionably. The decorative strip at the front is narrow enough to be called an extended vest and wide enough to be classed as a panel, but the hip arrangement attracts attention to another detail. ## "PANORAMA OF MISERY" IS THE WAY CONDITIONS IMPRESS VIENNA VISITOR

Not a Laugh or Even a Smile On Faces of Men or Women.

Rain Soaked People Walk Miles With a Few Pounds of Water Soaked Wood On Their Backs.

VIENNA, Jan. 25.—One American business man who has just returned from a visit to Vienna, says that the "panorama of misery" he witnessed here, was the greatest shock of his life.

Henry Barn, of St. Paul, Minn., last visited Vienna ten years ago, when he said there was "great fun" here. Now he has returned and spent about two weeks here, he says, to know what he is talking about.

"I never dreamed," said Mr. Barn, "of an American Red Cross representative here, that Vienna would show such tragic effects of the war. I have been in nearly every capital of Europe since the armistice, but nowhere have I seen such wholesale misery. Everything is out of joint. Everything is uncertain. Food is scarce and fuel still more difficult to obtain. I don't suppose anyone can be happy in a city of misery like this."

"Wah," he went on, "there is a smile unless a laugh in that crowd referring to the people passing the hotel in the Ringstrasse. They look so sad and dull-eyed, the Viennese, who were so gay when I was here before."

Mr. Barn told of a visit he had made a few days before to the Wieden district from the center of Vienna where he saw a sight which he likened to a nightmare. The people were allowed to go there for wood were emerging from the forest, their backs heavily laden with the packs of fuel.

"There were hundreds of men, wet clothing soaked with the cold rain and they were filing along the roadside in an almost unbroken line, all headed for Vienna, stopped from the weight of 60 to 70 pounds of wet wood. Sixty pounds was their allowance but I was told that many slipped by the inspectors with more than that."

"There were many sorts of people in that line which has been stretched along that road for more than a year. I saw a woman of evident gentle birth, in a fur coat, probably the last vestige of her wealth bent over under the weight of her pack, trudging along beside a former officer in the Austrian army who still wore his great grey coat and cap. Then came children of the very poor with their little feet protruding from their worn shoes. It was very wet underfoot and at their every step one could hear the water sloshing from their shoes."

Kalamazoo—Residents of Groniger avenue are protesting against the name as one of unpatriotic flavor, and they demand that the city commission make a change. If on investigation, it is found that the word is of German origin the change will probably be ordered.

Flint—Definite assurance that Flint will get one of the plants of the new Durant Motors corporation was contained in a telegram received from W. C. Durant. "You may say to the people of Flint that one of the plants of the Durant Motors corporation will certainly be located in Flint," the telegram said.

Kalamazoo—Fred King, who called at the county jail to see a friend who was a prisoner, was attracted by the warm appearance of a blanket he saw in the cell. King pushed the blanket through the outer bars of the cell to the ground and left it there hurriedly to pick it up and carry it away. His actions in leaving the jail aroused the suspicions of a deputy. Now King will remain for some time in the jail and will during his stay be furnished with a similar blanket. But he must leave it behind him when he is discharged.

HOW PRISONERS KNOW WHAT THE WORLD IS DOING

Shrewd Trustees, Lip Readers and Visitors Combine to Keep Warden On the Alert.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 25.—The mysterious means of communication between prisoners in the large penal institutions of the country is simply the result of permitting visitors within the prison, the chairman of the Missouri State Prison Board believes.

"Maybe it's telepathy but the explanation appears to me to be simpler than that," William R. Painter, chairman of the Missouri Prison Board said.

"Gossiping and unnecessary conversation is forbidden, of course," Mr. Painter said, "but as a matter of fact the rule requiring silence is not and cannot be enforced. In the Missouri prison, as in most others, convicts are used for runners or messengers. These men are trustees and have considerable access to executive offices, corridors and in fact, all parts of the prison."

"These men are usually convicts who have been in the institutions for a considerable length of time and they soon learn to interpret the meaning of meetings and conferences of officials. They even get shrewd enough to interpret from the expression of persons conversing at a distance a surprisingly accurate estimate of the conversation."

"Visitors bring in a great amount of miscellaneous information and there isn't any way to prevent it unless the practice of permitting convicts to receive visitors is stopped."

"There is another phase of the question that is seldom discussed and that is a great deal more interesting. That is the way prison officials keep ahead of what the inmates are up to. Different systems are used in different prisons but the executives in all of them are nights well informed on the gossip and doing of the men. If they are not, there would be more trouble than can be realized."

"Our system at the Missouri prison is a secret that we could not divulge for if it were known it would become ineffective at once, but it is successful for trouble of any kind is almost unknown within the prison now."

This mask of frightfulness, flecked off with five skulls, is worn in the oriental "devil dance" of Thibet. It was brought back to America by Rev. H. B. Marx, a missionary who spent 16 years in remote regions of Central Asia, and placed on exhibit in the American Museum of Natural History.

TO TEACH TRADE UNIONISM

Chicago Now Has Training School in Which Women Will Be Given Industrial Instruction.

An intensive training course that will equip the woman involved in the labor movement with a thorough knowledge of the movement and of trade unionism, has been opened at Chicago. The school was suggested by the plan of a telephone operators' union, members of which wished to learn how to organize and to understand industrial principles, and Miss Alice Henry, secretary of the educational department of the National Women's Trade Union League, planned the three weeks' course.

"It will be an intensive, full-time course in trade unionism, especially planned to suit the needs of girls who are already in the labor movement and want to know their own movement better," said Miss Henry. "There will be daily classes in the history of the labor movement and the connection of women with industry and trade unionism, talks with practical demonstrators on how an Organizer Works. Then there will be simple lessons explaining how to conduct meetings, how to put motions, how to give resolutions, how to correspond with employers and employees, draft trade union agreements and handle a wage scale satisfactorily."

British Labor Unions in Court.

The British courts will be asked to decide a case having an important bearing upon the action of labor unions in politics. Belfast branches of the Carpenters and Joiners' union are suing to annul the order for their expulsion by the national body when they refused to strike. The national body ordered the strike to compel the reinstatement of the shipyarders of Shaw, Fishers who had been expelled by the branches.

There is a growing tendency on the part of the unions to dictate a strictly political policy, as in the coal strike case. It is expected that the suit will afford a clear test of whether the unions are entitled to take any but economic action. The Belfast branches contend that their expulsion by the national body was unjustified and illegal.

Employees Made Partners.

That the co-partnership of the employees in business results in a closer, better and more efficient organization, and that the soviet plan of abolishing the central figure in management is impracticable, is the opinion expressed by Lord Leverhulme in a visit to the Boston plant of his industrial organization which manufactures soap in the United States and Great Britain. Lord Leverhulme urges that the future element in industry be given greater attention. He expressed the conviction that Bolshevist ideas would not gain force in England and the United States because the people there and realize the impracticability of many features of the soviet program.

Teachers Urge Labor Affiliation.

A resolution urging affiliation with organized labor was unanimously adopted by the recent semi-annual conference of Teachers' Union of Eastern States. It declared "teachers cannot serve society well without adequate pay and democratic working conditions" and that "it was inevitable teachers should join the ranks of organized labor."

Aims of British Labor Party.

The new program of the British Independent labor party, which is to be submitted to a national conference, sets forth as the aim of the party "the termination of the present capitalist system and its exploitation of labor, and the establishment of a system by which the community will own, regulate and control its resources for the benefit of all."

Bolshevism Repudiated.

All agricultural students who adhere to the Third International (Moscow) will be expelled from the federation of agricultural workers, according to a decision reached by the national committee of the latter organization. It is stated, in French newspapers.
