SHERIFF O'DESS QUILTS AT 5 P. M. MONDAY

GEORGE HARVEY APPOINTED THIS MORNING WITH LOUIS DANIELSON AS UNDERSHERIFF

At two minutes to five o'clock Monday night, Sheriff Flavian O'Dess handed to O. L. Smith, Assistant Attorney General of the state of Michigan, his resignation from office, after having served about three and one-half years. His term would expire next January.

After a long session this morning, George Harvey, former chairman of the county board of supervisors, was chosen as his successor to fill out the unexpired term. Mr. Harvey is, or nominally has been, a candidate for the office of sheriff on the Republican ticket in the September primaries.

Resignation Not Unexpected
The resignation on Sheriff O'Dess came unexpectedly to a large part of the population but to many, it was not unexpected. Mr. O'Dess was out of the city today and it is possible that a formal statement from him will be forthcoming within a few days.

All he had to say following his resignation was that "Mr. Smith treated me with every consideration."

Assistant Attorney General Smith did not wire in the information until this morning and he planned to leave the city this evening immediately after Mr. O'Dess' successor had been chosen and had qualified.

The administration of Mr. O'Dess has been under criticism in several quarters for some time, it is said, and culminated recently in an incident which was urged as reason for an immediate consideration of local conditions.

It is understood the Attorney General several days ago sent an investigator here and the resignation of Mr. O'Dess is the result of an amicable arrangement between the sheriff and the state department.

The resignation does not necessarily imply any open or specific misconduct in office, it is understood, but rather a failure to catch the spirit of the times and a misinterpretation of the duties of the office, a too "big heartedness" which ultimately resulted in failure to meet the strictest requirements of the office.

Twenty-Three Candidates

Mr. Harvey was chosen from among 23 candidates. This afternoon he took the steps necessary in qualifying for the office, which met with the approval of Assistant Attorney General Smith and will assume his new duties at once. Mr. O'Dess will remove his household goods from the jail residence as soon as possible to secure another home and Mr. Harvey will move in.

Former Chief of Police Louis Danielson, of Gladstone, will be Sheriff Harvey's undersheriff. That matter was also settled this morning and was a part of the arrangement whereby the appointment was tendered to Mr. Harvey.

All Deputies "Die"

The appointment also means that the official head of every deputy and sheriff's appointee in the county falls into the basket unless he is re-appointed. This matter of naming deputies will be taken up by the new sheriff as speedily as possible. Mr. Harvey stated this morning. Just now every thing is a little confused because of the suddenness of the change.

Mr. Harvey, as is well known throughout the county, was chairman of the board of supervisors for some time during which he inaugurated some reforms in the manner of accounting which have worked out well for the county. He is a railway engineer and will endeavor to apply the same business principles to the conduct of the sheriff's office which he used while a supervisor.

Process of Elimination

The selection of Mr. Harvey came through a process of elimination. By Probate Judge Yelland, County Clerk Pepin and Prosecuting Attorney T. E. Strom. The wires were hot all morning, due to the fact that candidates and friends of candidates were telephoning in applications for consideration.

Of the 23 candidates, nine were finally chosen and each of the three county officials voted for one of the nine men. The remainder were put in the discard and the choice finally narrowed down to three men, George Harvey finally being chosen about 1:30 this afternoon.

Rotary Club Holds Ladies Night And Hears Fine Address

Attorney A. E. McDonald of Marquette, delivered a singularly effective address last night at the meeting of the Escanaba Rotary Club at which wives of the members were guests. He devoted his talk to present tendencies and concentrated the meat of his argument in a statement that people must get back to first principles to the religious life and practice the teachings of the sermon on the mount.

A class of new members was received into membership last night, the charge being delivered by Rev. A. L. Ernest Boss.

A. J. Young, president of the Rotary Club, served as toastmaster of the evening. In addition to his addresses, several excellent numbers were rendered by a quartette composed of W. A. Kennedy, R. H. Jennings, Roy Olson and C. C. Strickland. "Ford for President" Club Formed at Dearborn, Mich

Detroit, Mich., May 23—A public mass meeting to organize a "Henry Ford For President" club, will be held tonight at Dearborn, the Detroit suburb which is the home of the automobile king.

The basic idea of the meeting, it was said by leaders of the movement, is to bring about the candidacy of Mr. Ford on an independent ticket. Tentative plans for the meeting were announced by a group of Mr. Ford's fellow townsmen. Posters announcing the meeting appeared in public places at Dearborn today.

At Mr. Ford's office in Dearborn, no knowledge of the meeting was known, otherwise than what had been given by the posters. William Kronberg, the editor of a Dearborn newspaper, declared an effort was being made to induce Mr. Ford to run for the presidency on a platform of which honest currency would be one of the planks.

LANSING, May 23—Officials of the state health department and members of the state police were ordered today to Ontonagon, Mich., where an epidemic of typhoid has broken out. The action followed a conference between Dr. R. M. Olds, state health commissioner; Merlin Wiley, attorney general; and Colonel Roy C. Vandrock, commissioner of public safety, who were advised by a representative of the health department that officials there had failed to take remedial measures.

Sixty-five cases of fever were reported in the village, which has a population of 1,000. The epidemic was attributed by Dr. Marsden, deputy health commissioner, to impure water.

The department of health warned Ontonagon authorities recently that the village's water supply was impure and that there was danger of a serious epidemic of typhoid. Dr. Marsden reported that the water conditions have not been improved.

Dr. George H. Ramsey, a deputy health commissioner, will take charge of the situation, and state police, it was announced, would be used to enforce a strict quarantine.

MANY 'CROOKS' IN POSTOFFICE IN NEW YORK

Forty-Nine of 460 Employees Have Criminal Records.

WASHINGTON, May 23—Discovery through "finger printing" that 46 of the 460 employees of the registry division of the New York post office had criminal records was reported to President Harding to day by Acting Postmaster General Bartlett upon his return from an investigation of the New York office. The itinerary for May 29 and 30 follows:

300 PRISONERS TAKEN IN RAID BY IRISH COPS

Irish Republican Army Officers Among the Sinn Feiners.

Nearly Every Town and Village in Ulster Is Visited and Few Captures Are Made in Belfast.

BELFAST, Ireland, May 23—The greatest raid in the history of Ireland of recent date were carried out today when swarms of police swept through Ulster and rounded up 300 Sinn Feiners, the majority of whom were Irish Republican army officers.

It was officially announced that they will be interned. The northern government was taken it was stated, in effect to oppose not only the Irish Republican army and the Irish Republican broad-based Sinn Fein organization in the six counties.

Hospitalities Intensified

The government move followed quickly upon Irish Republican raids and burnings of buildings in the counties of Down and Antrim and the intensified hostilities in Belfast recently which culminated in the murder yesterday of W. J. Tawdwell, a member of the Ulster parliament.

Nearly every town and village in Ulster was visited, but the bulk of the prisoners were taken in the county districts from farm houses. Comparative few captures were made in Belfast as most of the Irish Republican army officers living in the Sunbeam district in Belfast anticipated the action to be taken by the police as the result of the Twaddell assassination and "some on the run."

The declination on the part of the Hahn, the lone occupant of the motorboat began hurling bottles from the bottom of his craft into the water. Just as members of the crew of the Hahn were about to board the smaller boat, the lone mariner seized the last bottle of liquor on board and smashed it across the hull of the enemy of rum-running vessels.

"I christen thee 'Gloom Ship,'" the crew of the Hahn said they heard the man in the motorboat say as the bottle crashed. The Federal sleuths found no liquor on the motorboat and so no arrest was made.

NEW SLEEPING — May 22d or

Motion carried by the following vote:

Ayes: Councilmen Rose, Cotton, Hanrahan, Burns and Judson—5.

Nays: None.

Councilman Hanrahan, seconded by Councilman Rose, offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

RESOLVED, That the action taken by President Harding in refusing to permit the former transport Leviathan, which carried so many thousand troops to and from France, to be named after him himself.

In a letter to Albert D. Lashker, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, the president declines to accept the suggestion of the board that the Leviathan be renamed the "President Harding." The president desires the "Leviathan" to stand as it is.

The declination on the part of the Hahn, the lone occupant of the motorboat began hurling bottles from the bottom of his craft into the water. Just as members of the crew of the Hahn were about to board the smaller boat, the lone mariner seized the last bottle of liquor on board and smashed it across the hull of the enemy of rum-running vessels.

"I christen thee 'Gloom Ship,'" the crew of the Hahn said they heard the man in the motorboat say as the bottle crashed. The Federal sleuths found no liquor on the motorboat and so no arrest was made.

"Let's Make Escanaba A Better City"

THE PRESIDENT'S WAY.

President Harding's informal conference with leading steel manufacturers at which the President urged the abolition of the twelve hour day in the industry appears to have been successful.

It will be followed by a similar meeting with railroad executives, at which the topic of freight rates will be considered in its broad aspect of affecting the prosperity of the country.

A third conference to be held soon is that of Secretary Hoover with coal operators to provide against profiteering prices as a result of the strike.

All these are significant illustrations of President Harding's policy of handling affairs. In a way there is an analogy between these conferences and the great Washington conference of the Pacific powers. That gathering demonstrated that when men can be brought together in a friendly spirit, to discuss matters of common interest which affect the general welfare, they are much more likely to make the sacrifices necessary to bring about the desired results than under any threat of force or similar pressure.

If this is true in the relation of nations it follows that it should be true among citizens of an individual nation. There has been in the past a great deal of denunciation of business in high places. Leaders of industry have been publicly execrated, threatened, legislated against and otherwise made to feel the full force of official disapproval. But no marked improvement has been noted.

Trying the experiment of getting at them from another and more human angle seems to be a sensible procedure, and the manner in which the President's initial effort was received gives ground for hope that it will succeed.

And at the same time the steel conference gave to labor an assurance that President Harding has its interests in mind and that he does not purpose that it shall be treated unfairly in the economic readjustment. A definite demonstration of this, such as the steel conference provided, will do more to settle labor issues than oceans of publicity, swinging of big sticks or calling of names.

HARVEYS' FIRST YEAR.

It is almost exactly a year since Ambassador George Harvey delivered his first set address in England following his appointment, and shocked a great many people in this country by his plain speaking. He told his hearers to leave off hoping that the United States would enter the League of Nations because this country would never go in. He intimated very broadly that there had been rather too much talk about hands across the sea; too much protestation of eternal brotherhood and not a sufficient realization that the United States is a nation which, like all other nations, looks out for itself first. He denied that there was any sentimentality in the American declaration of a state of war and said that the United States fought to save its own skin.

If a good deal of the American comment upon this exceedingly candid speech had been taken at its face value one would have supposed that Mr. Harvey's usefulness to his country had come to an abrupt end.

However, the London Times commenting upon the end of the first year of the ambassador's stay in England, says: "Thanks to his untiring efforts Anglo-American relations have steadily improved until at the present time there is no question in dispute or argument between the two countries."

Making all allowance for the well known friendship between the ambassador and Lord Northcliffe, owner of the Times, it must still be admitted that this comment states a simple matter of fact. Relations between the two countries were never better, and one of the reasons may be that Ambassador Harvey decided to build upon the hard rock of fact, trusting nothing to sentiment engendered by the war and likely to vanish at the first appearance of friction.

THE PRESIDENT'S DINNER SERIES.

President Harding has done a thoroughly characteristic thing in instituting a series of conferences with the heads of the business world in order to talk over ways and means for helping along the return of national prosperity. It is at a "meeting of minds" that the President is most at home in the exercise of his talents, and where as a rule he works most effectively. He loves feasts of reason that produce face to face discussion, and understanding, and he has a great faculty for diffusing the spirit of harmony and concession on such occasions.

But the President is aiming to do more than engender good feeling and optimism at his dinners. He has a practical program. This is indicated by the announcement at the close of the banquet to the steel men that a committee of five has been selected to devise ways and means for doing away with the twelve-hour day in the steel industry. Plainly the President and Secretary Hoover and Secretary Davis "dealt faithfully" with the guests, and convinced them that righteousness and good business sense must be practiced in dealing with employees as well as when dealing with customers.

So there is room for expectation that the President's dinners may altogether be an interesting and profitable series. The coming banquet to the transportation men ought in particular to attract the attention of the country. If out of it Mr. Harding can get rate reductions for the nation he will accomplish something everybody will applaud.

When Senator Johnson tried to have the senate raise the duty on lemon juice the senate merely handed him a citrus fruit.

New Sleeping
Sickness Hits
Pew Occupant

NEW YORK, May 23—Dr. William Carter, pastor of the Throop Avenue Presbyterian church, Brooklyn, has reported a novel case of "spiritual sleeping sickness."

A member of his church, according to Dr. Carter, "went to a neighboring church, apparently in a daze, thinking it was Throop avenue, and dropped Throop avenue envelope, in the plate." "Fortunately," continued Mr. Carter, "the treasurer was honest and sent it back to us." But he warns the people that their church is at the corner of Throop avenue and Macon street, and adds:

"It is generally understood that some people sleep in church, but this is the first case of people sleeping on the way to church."

WORDS SHOULD
FIT THEIR USER

Did you ever stop to think that words may be like clothes—too large or too small? That when they do not suit the thought they are ill-fitting, and unpleasant to give the party who hears or reads them? Yet this is, indeed, often the case. And every person should choose his words with care, so they may not be too big, like fathers' trousers on his little son, or too little, like a hand-me-down suit three sizes too small for a growing boy.

Besides, a person who uses words that do not convey his exact meaning loses the force of an idea that might accomplish much in deed and action. A lack of skill in the use of these tools of thought may serve to keep one down in the world when he belongs on top. If you once learn to use a dictionary you will be surprised at the rapidity with which you will advance.

We had in mind the immense benefit to our readers when we chose the New Universities Dictionary for general distribution in this community. Our coupon, now being published for the last few times in this paper, shows the gift-nature of the plan, and should be cut out and presented at the office with our small distributing cost.

GIRL SCOUT AIDS ARE SET FORTH BY ONE WHO KNOWS

Information for the General
Public Which Is Scarcely
Ever Given the Slightest Thought.

The Girl Scouts engage in many activities, of various kinds. There are their homemaking activities, their first aid work, their woodcraft work, their nature lore, their recreation, but all those would not be considered sufficient to build up the American girl through themselves alone; nor would the Girl Scout leaders feel that it would be worth while to organize a community to rally around its girlhood were the keynote of the program these activities only. The foundation of the Girl Scout program are its laws. These must be the guiding star of every Girl Scout. And these laws are made part of the girl's equipment for life, through the zeal with which her Girl Scout leaders keep these laws before her and the thought and meditation which the girl herself devotes to her laws.

However, the extent to which the Girl Scout laws sleep through the organization is dependent to a large extent on the number of volunteer leaders who themselves have the vision of Girl Scouting and who in turn can pass it on to the girls.

Troop Leaders.

For each troop of Girl Scouts there are two women leaders who act as Captain and Lieutenant. These meet with the girls each week and have full charge of the troop activities. Each troop has two sponsors, older women, whose duties are to interview the mothers of the girls when the troop is first formed to visit the troop at least once a month to keep in touch with the activities that are carried on to consult and advise with the Captain and Lieutenants, and to see that the group is kept supplied with lead cups.

This matter of leading a group of girls takes time and thought and study. Chief among the qualities which are necessary to successful leadership are these, energy, initiative, common sense, tact, sympathy, spirituality, and a love of the activities of youth. Any woman possessing these qualities is bound to become a successful leader of girls, and can bring to them a big vision of the laws of the Girl Scouts.

In addition to these qualities she must have specific training in the technique of club programs and management. This she can get through her actual experience with a group of girls, or she may secure considerable help by attending a leaders' training course. Two of these courses have already been given in Escanaba and the third will be given in September.

Worth Serious Thought.

The professor, one may call it, of girl leadership is well worth the serious thought and attention of any woman interested in girls. However, no woman interested in the work should think of holding back her services because of fancied inability to do effective work. We are not going to attain our goal all at once. We can't change the habits of thinking of our girls overnight.

The goal of unselfishness, and a genuine desire to be helpful, will be attained only by slow stages and with many steps for breath on the way but all who undertake to live up to the laws and promises leaders as well as girls eventually arrive at the goal there is no question of that. The Girl Scouts sing in one of their songs: "Nothing is too big or small for any scout to do. Call them if you need their help and they will see you through." The leaders must first have this spirit and the girls will follow.

All Make Mistakes.

The best leader in the first few months of her work is bound to make mistakes in working with her group, but every mistake should be considered a big step forward in her experience with girls.

Then, not all of the girls themselves will get the real vision of Girl Scouting the first year; that is got the vision to such an extent that they are willing to make the necessary sacrifices which will make of them Girl Scouts. For to be a Girl Scout means to be self-reliant, to be genuinely friendly to all people with whom she comes in contact, to be imbued with the spirit of service to others, to take whatever difficulties life offers her with the spirit that says: "I will overcome this difficulty and not let it overtake me, and to cheerfully set out to conquer rather than to stop trying and whine at ill fate."

There are too many to use vulgar parlance quitters in the world, and the Girl Scout builds up the spirit of staying by a difficult job and seeing it through only by practicing, a little every day, every time in fact a difficult job comes up.

To quote the words of another song: "All this and more is Scouting." And it is only through the leaders and the girls applying their laws to all the laws and activities they engage in, and keeping ever at it that the laws will come to be their rate of life.

LANCOUR IS STILL A CANDIDATE.

I wish to announce to the voters of Delta County that my father, Henry H. Lanour, is still a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Delta County. My father was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction at Detroit, through the jealousy of some of his dear neighbors whose object it was to stop his political campaign. It will not be necessary for him to conduct his campaign from the House of Correction as it will be conducted by his many staunch friends in the county who are familiar with his record, and also the record of the persons who are responsible.

Therefore it will be left to the voters to decide.

Yours truly,

EDFOND H. LANCOUR.

PEACE DOLLARS IN CIRCULATION HERE

The first of the new "Peace Dollars" are beginning to make their appearance in Escanaba. Many persons into whose possession they come are keeping them as curios, but as it is understood that the issue has been recalled, it is possible that the new dollars will have considerable more value some day.

Bank clerks do not like the new dollars because they claim, it is impossible to stack them. A pile of 25 wobbles perilously at the touch, and would be upset by any continued vibration.

The "head" side of the new dollar bears the head of the goddess of Liberty, somewhat smaller than that on coins in the old issue. Across the base is the motto "In God We Trust," and the date, 1922. Around the top is the word "Liberty."

On the obverse side is shown an eagle, with wings folded, perched on a rocky peak and holding an olive branch in his talons. Across the base of the peak is the word "Peace." Above is the inscription "One Dollar," and across the top, "United States of America," with the motto "E Pluribus Unum" underneath. The rays of a rising sun show in the background.

Farmers who attended did not simply come to look and leave. They came with the intention of remaining for the whole day, performing each detail of stump blasting and pulling under the trained guidance of Larry Livingston and his assistants. It is interesting to note that in this progressive community, every farmer with an eye to his own future welfare allowed his reverence to be overcome by real 100 per cent enthusiasm. Apparently the "learn by doing" opportunity offered to them for the first time was well received, and many of the new "wrinkles" and home-made devices will soon be put to good use.

The story is told that one man, tendered one of the coins, asked what it was called. "A peace dollar," was the reply.

"Peace dollar is tight," he replied. "Just about half what it used to be."

LAND CLEARING IN MARQUETTE PLEASES

Farmers of Marquette and vicinity turned out to the last man—and woman too, for that matter—to attend the first Land Clearing Short Course ever held in Marquette County. According to H. E. Samson, chairman of the local land clearing committee, who seemed to take the large attendance of 150 farmers as a matter of course:

Bank clerks do not like the new dollars because they claim, it is impossible to stack them. A pile of 25 wobbles perilously at the touch, and would be upset by any continued vibration.

The "head" side of the new dollar bears the head of the goddess of Liberty, somewhat smaller than that on coins in the old issue. Across the base is the motto "In God We Trust," and the date, 1922. Around the top is the word "Liberty."

On the obverse side is shown an eagle, with wings folded, perched on a rocky peak and holding an olive branch in his talons. Across the base of the peak is the word "Peace." Above is the inscription "One Dollar," and across the top, "United States of America," with the motto "E Pluribus Unum" underneath. The rays of a rising sun show in the background.

Farmers who attended did not simply come to look and leave. They came with the intention of remaining for the whole day, performing each detail of stump blasting and pulling under the trained guidance of Larry Livingston and his assistants. It is interesting to note that in this progressive community, every farmer with an eye to his own future welfare allowed his reverence to be overcome by real 100 per cent enthusiasm. Apparently the "learn by doing" opportunity offered to them for the first time was well received, and many of the new "wrinkles" and home-made devices will soon be put to good use.

The story is told that one man, tendered one of the coins, asked what it was called. "A peace dollar," was the reply.

"Peace dollar is tight," he replied. "Just about half what it used to be."
