Just Between Ourselves

A CAMP SITE.

Escanaba is thinking about a new camp site.

Where had it ought to be located? What good is it to the city, any how?

These are only a few of the questions asked by the merchants and the public in general.

Camp sites originally were intended to get business for the city where located.

An effort was made in most places to provide a camp that tourists would not be in a hurry to leave.

Escanaba has the best location for a tourist camp in the Upper Peninsula. It is so good that tourists would want to stay four or five days.

Where is it? Why, the only place where a camp site could be to make tourists go through the whole town, coming in and going out, is Ludington park, between the bath house and the water works.

Tourists do not want to pitch tents in the shade. Thents and bedding become damp easily; they want water, of which there is plenty at the park.

It would be the nicest place in the country to camp. Free from trees, a bath house grounds already paved, already lighted; easy to go to town and shop; fishing and boating and tennis; a playground for the youngsters and all of it right in the city, convenient to everything.

An Iron Mountain man who toured the peninsula last summer and was allowed to camp in Ludington park, declared it was the most attractive place in either Michigan or Wisconsin.

The expense connected with locating the camp there would be absolutely nothing—everything is there now.

HAPPINESS ON $500 A YEAR.

City dwellers, who are struggling along on incomes of $1500 to $5000 a year, were at once perplexed and encouraged by the published testimonial of a man in Jonesboro, N. C., who supports himself and wife and has purchased his own home on $500 a year and asks for nothing more.

That this couple can live happily on a "preacher's salary" is explained in part by the fact that they live in a part of the country where vegetables may be raised the year round, where property is cheap and taxes in proportion, where chickens and their eggs are practically free to all and where clothing requirements are reduced to the minimum for civilized countries. This man and woman might exist on $500 a year in a northern city or rural district but they would do little more than exist.

Lamentable it is that life has become so complicated and happiness so dependent upon large incomes, as compared with the run of incomes of 20 years ago, but how many people who complain of barely existing on $500 a year would surrender the comfortably furnished home, the expensive automobile, the clothes in plenty, the daily extravagances and the romantic pursuit of the "almighty dollar" for yesterday's lower standards of living? Modern dreams of "getting next to nature" but there is always a castle, big-powered automobiles and nearby cities in their dreams.

It is inconceivable that we could revert to former low living costs without a reversion to the old simple life, so now and then a "crank" or a "genius" will accept the dual reversion. As for the rest of us, we will work and plan for another thousand of income next year and complain vociferously against the cost of living.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonesboro are congratulating themselves on enjoying the only life worth the living while they pity the illusional urbanites and struggling northerners. But what are the illusional urbanites doing in the meantime? Take it for granted they are congratulating themselves on enjoying the only life worth the living and pitying Mr. and Mrs. Jonesboro for their humdrum and drab existence on $500 a year.

MR. McDADOO'S OIL JOB.

If Mr. McDado's employment by the Doheny oil interests was proper when it was on the quiet, it certainly was just as proper when it became a subject of public knowledge.

If Mr. McDado accepted the employ he should never have accepted it.

But Mr. McDado accepted the employment and the retainer while the Doheny negotiations were veiled in secrecy. And he quit his job hastily after the voting public had been made aware of the situation.

Mr. McDado seems to have written his own ticket.

A welfare worker in Indianapolis reports that $500 a week is enough to feed a family of five who are not welfare workers.

Mr. Andrews, archeologist, promises that next year on his trip to Asia he will find the missing link. But will he discover who lost it?

What in the world ever happened to the political prophet who predicted that the only issue available next fall would be the legal?

LA FOLLETTE IS BUSY MAN TODAY "RESOLUTING"

Wisconsin Progressive Up Early to Get Into Action.

Objects to Appointment of Christian; Proposes Bread Inquiry; Gets After Fall and Denby.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Objection to the confirmation of George B. Christian, former secretary of President Harding, as a member of the federal trade commission, was raised today by Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, on the grounds that while at the White House, Mr. Christian had interested himself in an important case then and now pending before the committee.

The case is that of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation against which the commission issued a complaint in May, 1921. Senator La Follette's opposition was announced after Commissioner Huston Thompson had testified at a hearing before the interstate commerce committee, that he was sent to the White House by Mr. Christian and criticized for having acted without giving the company a hearing.

How About Alaska?

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Senator La Follette, who introduced the resolution that started the oil inquiry, proposed another today also dealing with the leasing policies of former Secretary Fall. Mr. La Follette, whose measure was prepared after he had heard of the Ballance letters which were sent to President Harding and in which allegations relating to the transfer of the navy coal reserves in Alaska to the interior department and called upon the secretary of interior to submit the department record of the matter to the senate along with a copy of transfer agreement which was made between Fall and Denby.

All executive orders and other papers including any lease made, application for leases and correspondence on the subject, were asked for.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—A motion-wire inquiry by the federal trade commission into the milling and baking industries was ordered today by the senate in adopting a resolution presented by Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin.

Ladd Gets a Chance.

Also, today and without debate the senate adopted the resolution by Senator Ladd, Republican, of North Dakota, asking the attorney general for records of all attempts to enforce the "consent decree" entered into by the "Big Five" packers in February of 1920.

Close Kaukana Rail Shops by End of 1925

APPLETON, Chicago & Northwestern railroad shops, long one of the chief sources of employment at Kaukana, will be gradually closed down until by the end of 1925 only the remnants of the once extensive works will remain, according to information received by Frank Stater, master mechanic at the shop, who returned last Tuesday from Chicago. About 80 more men will be thrown out of work with in the next year, it was said.

Only the roundhouse, the light repair shop and storeroom will be retained, giving employment to 60 or 65 men. The boilerhouse, machine shop and blacksmith shop will be closed.

CHEAPER TO ATTEND COURT THAN KEEP FIRES BURNING

JESSNITZ, Germany.—The most common place civil cases in the Jessnitz courts have attracted unprecedented crowds this winter. There was such a jam of men, women and children on several occasions, when the thermometer was hovering about the zero point, that the bailiffs had to close the doors.

Questioned by court officials the spectators admitted frankly that they had not the slightest interest in the legal proceedings, often even being bored by the sessions, especially when masses of technical documents were being examined. However, they found that it was much cheaper to attend court and get warm than to keep the fires going at home during such severe weather.

Mrs. George Houle left yesterday to visit relatives and friends at Iron Mountain.

"Shoot to Kill," Says Gen. Butler to Police Officers

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16.—As a result of a large number of robberies and hold-ups reported yesterday, Director of Public Safety Butler today started a concerted 24-hour drive against bandits and thieves.

"Shoot to kill" were the orders he gave his lieutenants in outlining plans for the campaign. "I would give my soul if one of you fellows would kill one of these guys who go around snatching pocketbooks," the director told the men.

Continuing he said, "During the next 24 hours we will have to forget about the bootleggers and go after the gunmen and thugs."

Alleged Shortage of $60, 000 Explains His Night Life.

Gave Up Stage to Go to Work, But Did Not Forget Pretty Women of Theatre Life.

ST. PAUL, Feb. 16.—How a trusted cashier on a salary of $125 monthly was able to dine and sup with theatrical beauties was revealed here yesterday when John Vincent Dowling, cashier of the Hackett-Gates-Herty Company, wholesale hardware dealers, pleaded guilty in district court to a charge of grand larceny in the first degree, after an alleged shortage of $60,000 had been uncovered.

The specific charge against Dowling was that of $700 in September, 1923. Dowling's peculations extended over a period of ten years in which he had lead a dual life.

Cultured and a college graduate, with marked ability in music and dramatic art, at night he lived in a dream world, he had forsaken when at 16 years of age to give up his hopes of stage success, to become an under clerk in the hardware concern.

Day times he was a punctual, obliging employee in the hum-drum life of an office.

Shakers Doomed By Their Money.

CHATHAM, N. Y., Feb. 16 (United Press).—Despite their great wealth in lands and real estate, the Shakers in the United States are rapidly nearing the time when they will be only a memory.

Their wealth is their doom. Because of it, the old men and women of the sect do not encourage accessions of young people, on the theory that young persons who might want to join them now would be prompted by purely mercenary motives.

No person would want to unite with a society that is declining," is the way the elders look at it.

Last stages in the final passing of the sect are underway at the Mount Lebanon colony of the Shakers, near here, in the picturesque hills of Columbia county, for half a century regarded as the center of Shakerism in the United States. Thousands of motorists who have traversed the Mohawk trail in New York state and Massachusetts, one of the greatest scenic routes in the eastern part of the country, have seen and admired the Shaker colony holdings at Mount Lebanon.

It well kept houses, barns and shops have been an inspiration to thousands of passersby. Thousands of tourists stop at the colony headquarters to purchase knit goods, household articles and candy made by the Shakers.

At the zenith of their prosperity, probably fifty years ago, there were approximately 2500 Shakers in the United States. Today there are not to exceed 250 and this remnant of the once strong organization is apportioned among the settlements at Mount Lebanon, West Pittsfield; East Canterbury, N. H.; Albany and New Gloucester, Maine. The strongest community is that at East Canterbury.

SHOOTING OF SENATOR WILL HASTEN PROBE

Senator Green will Live Is the Report Given Out.

Vermont Statesman Was in Po- sition of "Innocent By- stander" When He Was Shot.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The prohibition situation in Washington, which for months has been the center of criticism which culminated in the shooting of a United States senator almost within the shadow of the capitol, will probably result in the charges, denials, counter charges and insinuations which have characterized every move to enforce the prohibition laws here, having a thorough airing.

Senator Frank L. Green of Vermont, was shot in the head last night when a car containing prohibition agents whirled out of an alley into Pennsylvania avenue in pursuit of another automobile suspected of carrying bootleggers.

After an X-ray examination this morning, physicians pronounced that the bullet had not remained in the head of Mr. Green, which discovery was regarded as extremely encouraging and those in attendance said they expected him to recover.

How It Happened.

Frank L. Greene, senior senator from Vermont, was shot and seriously wounded late last night during a pistol duel between internal revenue agents and bootleggers.

Senator and Mrs. Greene were walking west on Pennsylvania avenue, near the capitol, when the gun battle started. More than a dozen shots were exchanged, but no one else was injured.

The senator was wounded while trying to shield Mrs. Greene in the hall of bullets.

Hold Revenue Agent.

The bootleggers escaped, but O. E. Posher, a revenue agent, is held by the police.

Fisher was accompanied by two members of the metropolitan vice squad, who, he said, did not participate in the shooting. No charge was lodged against Fisher, although he was detained pending a more complete investigation.

Bootleggers Surprised.

The bootleggers, according to the police, were surprised by the officers in an alley opening on the avenue while they were unloading a still. Shooting began as soon as the agents drove up in an automobile.

With the first shot, Senator Greene jumped forward to protest. Mrs. Greene and was himself almost instantly shot down.

Birthday Party.

Beatrice Allegretti was pleasantly surprised last evening at her home on South Sixteenth street, in honor of her twelfth birthday. Fifteen girl friends were present. A most enjoyable evening was spent playing games, after which a nice luncheon was served.

Engineer Green Is Recovering; Was Scalded, Too

ENGINEER GREEN

Engineer James R. Green, who was injured in the collision near Klemann early in the week, is now at his home in this city, recovering from his injuries. A bad gash over his right eye has been sewed up, but he is still suffering from some bad burns, which occurred when the water glass on the boiler head broke.

TWO BIG LOCAL COMPANIES ARE CONSOLIDATED

Traction and Paper Companies Pool their Interests.

Both Corporations Were Own- ed by Practically the Same Stockholders, It Is Ex- plained.

By the completion of plans that have been in contemplation for the past several months, the final steps were taken yesterday to bring about the consolidation of the Escanaba Traction Company and the Escanaba Paper Company. This step was taken for the mutual advantage of both companies, the stock in both being held by practically the same set of investors.

After an X-ray examination this morning, physicians pronounced that the bullet had not remained in the head of Mr. Green, which discovery was regarded as extremely encouraging and those in attendance said they expected him to recover.

In a recent article in The Mirror there was set forth, the many improvements that have been under way at the paper mill for the past several months enabling that institution to run full strength the year around. Other scheduled improvements, some of which are now under way, will be continued throughout the summer.

Hold Revenue Agent.

The bootleggers escaped, but O. E. Posher, a revenue agent, is held by the police.

Fisher was accompanied by two members of the metropolitan vice squad, who, he said, did not participate in the shooting. No charge was lodged against Fisher, although he was detained pending a more complete investigation.

Bootleggers Surprised.

The bootleggers, according to the police, were surprised by the officers in an alley opening on the avenue while they were unloading a still. Shooting began as soon as the agents drove up in an automobile.

With the first shot, Senator Greene jumped forward to protest. Mrs. Greene and was himself almost instantly shot down.

MORAN IS SHY THE BRAINS TO LICK LEONARD

Takes Brains to Make Benny Fight Other Than Way He Wants.

By HENRY L. FARRELL

United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (United Press) — When it was taken into consideration how many times Charley White had been stopped and when the caliber of the fighters who did it were recalled, it was not unnatural that Pat Moran, the New Orleans high weight, should have been rated as the fighter next to Benny Leonard when he knocked out the veteran Chicago fighter yesterday.

Perhaps it is still a fact that Moran is the outstanding contender for the crown of Benny Leonard, but if he is the best, the man in the class next to the champion Leonard is in no more immediate danger of being dethroned from his throne room than Jack Dempsey is.

Strong as he is at 135 pounds, cool as he is under fire and punching as he can with his right hand, Moran is well in his recent fight with Johnny Dundee that he has yet to learn how to beat a clever fighter with a brain.

Moran was outwitted by Dundee. Against the feeble puncher that Dundee is known to be, Moran if he had enough mental agility, should have torn into Dundee with a willingness to take a tantalizing left hand for the chance to counter with his right hand.

Moran didn't do that, however. His mental sluggishness permitted Dundee to fight just the kind of a fight that Dundee wanted to fight. It's hard to beat a brainy experienced fighter who is allowed to fight his own kind of a battle.

If Moran fought his real niche against Dundee, if he was not sick as he seemed to be, he has no chance to beat Benny Leonard. For several years at least, Leonard is not to be beaten by an opponent who permits the champion to fight his own way. To make Leonard fight any other way is something for a very brainy fighter to accomplish and Moran does not seem to qualify as a brainy fighter.

Granting that Moran did make a very creditable showing against the champion a year or more ago and with a willingness to admit that Moran may have improved more in the interim, then Leonard has yet to prove that he has any advantage over Moran by reason of their first meeting. On the other hand, it might be argued with a lot of sound logic behind the argument that Leonard was the one who would come out of the bout with the advantage, that he might have and must have learned a lot more about Moran in that fight than Moran learned about Leonard.

For the sake of argument it will be recalled, that Leo Tandler came mighty close to beating Leonard when they met the first time in a decision fight in New Jersey. Had there been a decision given after that fight Tandler in justice could not have been given worse than a draw and he had Leonard on the verge of a knockout.

When they were training for their second fight in New York, more than a year later it was natural and reasonable to assume that Tandler would not do worse than he did when they met the first time and that he should do even better if he was mentally qualified to pick up some learning from his fight and temperamentally fitted to gain a little confidence.

On the contrary, however, it was Leonard and not Tandler who escaped at the benefit of the first meeting. It was Leonard who learned Tandler's name and not Tandler who found out how to beat Leonard.

The champion gave Tandler such a beating that he did the very unmanly thing by admitting that "he never could beat Leonard and announced that he wasn't going to try any more."

Tandler at the time when he put Leonard in New Jersey, and again when he faced him in New York, was a better fighter below the shoulders than Moran is today. He was just as rugged, perhaps a little more touch, he was faster on his feet and could punch straighter and harder than Moran. Previous to the Dundee fight it was thought that Moran might have better mental qualifications than Tandler had when he was bidding for the title, but that contention has been shown to be wrong.

In attempting to speculate on what Moran might do against Leonard this summer by what Tandler did two years ago, it must be considered that Leonard may not be as good as he was then.

Leonard, however, is not at the age where time is a factor of great importance. He is young and he has been taking care of himself. He may not be the Leonard of three or four years back when he has to make 135 pounds, but if he were Moran, we would not figure on being the next champion simply because Leonard might not be good at the weight.

If Johnny Dundee could snuff Moran's right hand, turn him up into knots and make him look foolish, Leonard could do the same thing as long as he was strong enough to hold up his hands and Leonard, even if he has to weaken himself to make 135 pounds, is not going to be so reduced physically that he will have to be carted into the ring.

GLORIOUS GIRL CAST CONTAINS POPULAR FOLK

Selection of Cast Promises Wonderful Results at Show.

Knights of Columbus Are Going to Put on Real Entertainment; Get Your Seats Early.

With the rehearsals going at full speed ahead and every member of the cast working hard to perfect their different roles, everything will be ready for the big Knights of Columbus production of "The Glorious Girl" on the evenings of February 21 and 22.

What It's About:
The play opens with Mrs. Winterfield, Margaret's aunt, purchasing "The Glorious Girl," a canvas at a big figure. Steve and Molly, Bowery crooks, hear the price of the picture and plan to steal it. The crooks gain entrance to the Winterfield home as entertainers at the proposed wedding of Margaret and the count. Margaret, however, is in love with the chauffeur, William, the nephew of Mrs. Winterfield, is in love with Alice, the shop girl in the studio. She overhears the plan of the crooks and with William also disposes as entertainers.

Alice and William get the picture before the thieves arrive. The crooks are finally exposed by William, and his aunt consents to his marriage with Alice. It is at this point that Margaret announces her wedding to the chauffeur who is really a member of the wealthy Van Gordon family. To not disappoint the count on his nuptial day, Mrs. Winterfield proposes to him, bringing the entire situation to a happy ending.

The Cast:

The names of the cast follows:

The tickets are now on sale and the reserved seat sale will open promptly at nine o'clock Wednesday.
