THE RIGHT OF MAN.

The offer by a Prussian duke to sell his principality with its 65,000 inhabitants to the highest bidder was a disgusting affront to humanity and almost incomprehensible to free Americans.

The emancipation of the negro in this country the right of men to traffic in human souls. That a title holder in a civilized country should brazenly place his country and its people on the auction block is nothing short of a crime against civilization. Those 65,000 men, women and children should blush with shame at the thought, even though their ruler has expressed his will.

In the new world where every human being has an inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness it is difficult to imagine nations wherein still survives "the divine right of kings." We are prone to smile at mention of "ruler" and "subject" just as though no such things existed except in the dead past. The only ruler the American is amenable to is that of employer, who must pay for that right and has no more authority in terminating that right than the employe who is ruler of his own time and labor.

Dictatorship has no place in American institutions and life. Any form of legislation or governmental administration which assumes the proportions of arbitrary restriction of the individual is highly distasteful to the mass of Americans. Reform movements not in keeping with the opinion of the majority are viewed as attempts to raise dictatorships by the minority and are speedily crushed under foot. The principal objection to prohibition has been that of the encroachment on personal liberty. All forms of censorship have been unpopular in this country because they tended to give arbitrary powers to small groups.

Public sentiment as it was expressed at the time of the degrading offer of the Duke of Sagan is a gratifying assurance of the endurance of the American belief in the divine right of MAN.

DIG!

For no reason at all this is National Garden Week here and everywhere in these United States. During this week it is resolved that every good citizen shall engage in the patriotic duty of making gardens. The individual has the choice of either floral or edible.

This week of nationwide organized agricultural effort presupposes that everybody has a patch of earth of sufficient dimensions to rear an assortment of household flowers or vegetables. In fact, a dearth of terra firma is no excuse for failure to observe this week. If your house and lot is all house then flower boxes and basement gardens are recommended. You just can't avoid your new devotions.

The garden idea had its inception during the World War when food was scarce and the cultivation of every available inch of tillable soil was essential. The backyard garden then went under the title of "war garden." Except when the neighbor's chickens or your own youngsters trespass among the rows and crushed seed envelopes the backyard garden is now known by the name of "peace garden."

National Garden Week will be an asset to the community and the nation in that it will augment at least in small measure the nation's food supply. It will utilize many acres of otherwise disused land, it will furnish healthful exercise to countless and recreation to just as many.

What if less than one-half of one per cent of the seed planted in National Garden Week matures for the table? It will not have been wasted money and effort. Anything is good that brings human beings out into the invigorating sunshine and air of spring.

HUNDRED YEARS, TOO LONG.

Commenting on the Muscle Shoals situation, the Mining Congress Journal says that this property should be given to no individual or corporation for $5,000,000 when the scrap value of the property is worth at least $11,000,000, and that to lease Muscle Shoals under any other terms or conditions than those of the Federal Water Power Act, which governs the distribution of power, would be unfair to those now operating under its provisions.

OLSON TELLS CRIME STORY TO THE COURT

Goes into Detail How He and Henry Moras Robbed Carlson Store.

Aged Store Keeper Also Identifies Moras as the Man Who Was With Carl Olson.

The trial of Henry Moras, charged with robbery, was started this morning when court opened. C. A. Carlson, who was beaten by the robbers and whose cash register was rifled, was the first witness for the state and he told of his fight with Olson and how afterwards he saw Moras and identified him as the other of his assailants.

Carl Olson, who has already confessed to his part in the affair, was the next witness to take the stand and he went into detail under the guidance of the prosecuting attorney, as to how the robbery was planned and how it was carried out. He declared under oath that Henry Moras was the man who was with him at the time.

During the testimony the coat worn by Olson was presented as evidence and recognized by the storekeeper as having been worn by Olson on the night of the robbery. This coat, which is of leather, furnished an important clue for the police to work upon. Carlson said the day after the robbery that the man who attacked him had on a leather coat with a stain from oil on the back of it, just below the left shoulder blade. Suspecting Olson, the police went to his room and found the coat.

Attorney J. L. Loel, who is defending Moras, has indicated that he will spring something of a surprise during the defense of his client and will introduce some testimony tending to explode some of the statements made by other witnesses.

The defendant, Henry Moras, seems to be unshaken by the damaging testimony that was given in court today and listens to the statements made by Carlson and Olson with a half smile upon his face and with no apparent thought that he will not be able to be freed of the charge against him.

It is not likely that he will be completed by the afternoon adjournment, as it is said there are a number of witnesses for the state and defendant yet to go on the stand.

DAWES REFUSES TO COMMENT ON EXPERT REPORT

World's Most Famous "Fixer" Leaves in the Leviathan Today.

Says He Is Not Going into Competition With Report by Talking About It to Anyone.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, April 22.—Before embarking on the liner Leviathan, for New York today, General Charles Dawes, in a brief statement, emphasized the efforts that had been made by his committee to put its reparations report in terms of the utmost clarity, a factor which he said he believed had contributed notably to the support given the document.

"I do not intend to go into competition with the report by talking about it," he said. "Nothing I could say would make it clearer. It is a document prepared by men who recognized the obligation of making it understandable to the average man."

Graduation of Night School on April 23

Graduation exercises for the night school conducted by the Escanaba Board of Education will be held at the Webster building, Wednesday night, April 23rd. The ladies of the Woman's Relief Corps will serve a banquet to the graduates and students of the night school and some other invited guests at 7 o'clock. Immediately following the banquet some short talks will be given and diplomas will be awarded. The graduates from the night school classes this year are as follows: Emil Jaeger, Mat Kirin, Arthur Lussier, Victor Johnson, Charles Johnson, Beck, Lars Herman Dahl, Lora Savard and Thomas Krasick. The total enrollment in the night school classes was 24, with an average attendance of 16. The enrollment was made up of 11 Croatians, 6 Americans, 6 Norwegians, 4 Swedish, 2 French and 1 German. The number of graduates for the last two years has been larger than this year. This has been true on account of most of the students in the night school having lived in the United States several years prior to their attending night school. Most of the pupils in night school this year were newcomers and will not be able to receive their papers until they have lived in the United States a certain length of time. Diplomas are not granted until citizenship papers are granted. Nearly all of the pupils in night school this year would be able to pass the test given by Mr. Danielson, naturalization examiner from the federal government, but only 8 have lived here long enough to secure their naturalization papers. Therefore, only eight diplomas will be granted.

In command of the vagabond of the air will be Herbert Von Thaden, 26 years old, and his aide, Svend A. U. Brown, who is 28 years old. Both are business associates of Ralph H. SPORTS

RICHARDS AT LAST COMING TO HIS OWN

It is a fair judgment in order to make a fair judgment for the Olympic team and the preliminary contests of the Davis Cup tournament. The national matches are being much more than ever before. They are in fact, the most important of the year. Richards, who has been playing for the past two years, is now coming to his own. He has been playing for the past two years and has been very successful. He has won many matches and has been a great asset to his team. He is now coming to his own and is expected to play a great role in the Davis Cup tournament.

Richards will not be able to play for the Olympic team because of the rule against players from distant parts of the world. Richards is a player from the United States and is not eligible to play for the Olympic team. He is, however, eligible to play for the Davis Cup tournament. Richards is a very good player and is expected to play a great role in the Davis Cup tournament. He is now coming to his own and is expected to play a great role in the Davis Cup tournament.

will not be made an exception, because Tilden had some good arguments in present that he was a newspaper worker before he became a tennis player. Richards didn't have any experience as a player before he became a tennis star. In fact he was on the court that he hadn't had a chance to do any kind of work.

Richards said finally that he would continue in the newspaper and give up his amateur standing and if he has any intention to make the sacrifice of his name that Tilden intends to do, it is possible that he may change his mind and give up writing.

With Tilden out of competition in 1925 and with Bill Johnston out of a year, Richards would have a good chance to step out and win the national championship and perhaps after a period of dominance similar to that enjoyed by Tilden.

quite obvious that he is not cashing in on his reputation when he makes a permanent investment of his money in a newspaper plant and becomes an editor. Paul Williams, secretary of the tennis association, is a newspaper editor and it is unlikely that he will be considered as a professional tennis player by his colleagues.

Bill Johnston says he can't go to Paris because of business reasons and Dick Williams is not going for the same reason. With Tilden, Hunter, Johnston, the Kinseys and many others barred because of the antiwriting rule, it may become necessary for the selection to enter the college players who are going to England next year.

Richards will not be able to play for the Olympic team because of the rule against players from distant parts of the world. Richards is a player from the United States and is not eligible to play for the Olympic team. He is, however, eligible to play for the Davis Cup tournament. Richards is a very good player and is expected to play a great role in the Davis Cup tournament.

EXPOSURE OF VARIOUS 'TRICKS' USED IN PRODUCING THE MOVIES IS HURTING THE BUSINESS, SAID

Take Away the Wondering of "How Is It Done" Loses Interest.

By HAROLD E. SWISHER (United Press). No other business is HOLLYWOOD. Cal., April 22 (United Press). No other business in the world realizes more the value of publicity than does the motion picture industry. It thrives on it, and each studio has a corps of writers, generally former newspaper men, whose business it is to acquaint the millions of picture-play fans throughout the land with all that is latest and newest in filmland.

But there is one phase of photoplay publicity that does not do the industry any good—one apart from the detailing of the various scandals that occasionally crop out in studio circles, and is causing more harm than any other single factor. That is the system of revealing the "tricks" of motion picture production, and George M. Cohan, prominent director, has come out against it.

"Exposure of production methods, including the effects of the photoplay drama," said Melvyn, "is a business story that destroys the 'black and white illusion' of pictures.

"There is no doubt that what motion pictures succeed or fail according to the illusion they create. The illusion is the foundation upon which they are built, remove it and they have slight chance of making good. I second the sentiment of the motion picture trade journal article that says the closing of studios to reveal their inner step in the right direction, but of more far-reaching consequences, are the various exposures printed in newspapers and magazines. The exposures, which go into the making of a picture are the industry's own concern, a trade secret to be guarded, as in the case of the business of the theater and glomerating a secret among its chief stocks in hand."

Carrying out his ideas, Melvyn has requested his own staff to refrain from issuing any information, but regarding his production methods.

On a Milk Diet.
Eleanor Boardman, model for the flapper part in "Mary the Third," had to gain 10 pounds in a hurry. She went to a sanitarium for treatment and was placed on a milk diet. Her lamentations are as follows:

"The sanitarium is a big white building on a hilltop. The color is symbolic. There's no food in the place except milk. It's so high you can see every hilltop in southern California. When you go in, they take your weight, temperature and record down. Then they put you to bed and tell you you're going to have a perfectly wonderful week. I'd like to see their idea of a thing thing."

"Every half-hour they make you drink a glass of milk. I never realized there were so many half-hour in a day before. The first couple of days are not so bad. After that you know whenever anyone walks past. After ten glasses you gurgle like a water bottle everytime you move. "Every room is equipped with a radio headpiece. It's a great idea."

THE "SUPER HET" IS NOW EXCITING THE RADIO FANS

Few Weeks Ago It Was 'Neut' and Now 'Het' Takes the Stage and Shows New Features.

In the scope of their constant changes and improvements the radio sets are almost in an even race with the styles in women's hats. A few weeks ago every fan was talking neutrodyne. The neutrodyne sets were declared to be the final word in "hook ups" and many local radio fans declared, nothing better was made and some said nothing better would ever be made.

The neutrodyne had three dials for tuning in and it was, though this was necessary to get all stations. Everyone wanted a neutrodyne. But now "Neut" has taken a back seat for the time being and "Het" has been crowned "Queen of the Ether."

The right name is "superneutrodyne" and when "het" is complete you can use it without aerial or ground. There are six tubes and a dry "A" battery is used instead of the usual wet one. All these radio sets will be shown at the Auto Radio show, so buyers who contemplate sitting up nights can attend the show and make their selection.

WILD DUCKS STAY ON THROUGH LONG MICHIGAN WINTER

Michigan Agricultural College Has Some That Are Remarkably Tame; Well Cared for.

EAST LANSING, Mich., April 22 (United Press). How wild fowl will learn the limits of their protection and change habits their ancestors have had for generations if they can find food, has been demonstrated for the past three years in a flock of Mallard ducks making their home on the Cedar river within the college property. The flock came under the protection of the state of Michigan last week when J. J. Hendryx, foreman of the forest nursery, and two of his associates were made game wardens to give them power to enforce the wish of the college authorities.

The first ducks were from eggs found in the marshes of northern Michigan where the migrating fowls nest and rear their young. The poultry department at M. A. C. decided to attempt incubation of the eggs, and several were hatched. The ducklings stayed with the other poultry until about the time their wild brothers were making their migration and then took up their habitation along the banks and in the waters of the Cedar, frequently called the Red Cedar to distinguish it from other Michigan Cedar rivers.

The river has been their home for three years since the first ducklings waddled down from the college farm. In winter they congregate in a bit of open water below the college dam. In the spring they mate and their nests are made under the roots of the elm trees lining the river bank. In summer and fall they rear their young and teach them to make the short flights above the trees of the Cedar, which seem to be considered necessary for their safety.

Because his home was on the banks of the Cedar, Mr. Hendryx was their first friend. By choice of the ducks he has been their only friend. While they swim placidly along if other people keep their distance, a near approach starts a fight with all the speed of which the Mallard is capable. Once or twice over the trees, however, and they settle down, quite frequently in the spot from which they were driven. When winter comes, Mr. Hendryx scatters corn along the banks and watches carefully to see that none of the dock finds trouble from the ice.

At present, the flock is broken up. It is the mating season and almost anywhere along the Cedar within the three quarters mile of college property it is possible to see a bright hued male and a brown coated female feeding or swimming together.

JAPAN RESENTS ATTITUDE NOW TAKEN BY U. S.

Japanese Correspondent for United Press Presents Inside View.

Letter was Written Some Time Before Recent Controversy on Subject Began.

By MOTO TAKEDA

United Press Staff Correspondent OSAKA, Japan (By Mail to United Press). Public opinion in Japan is deeply aroused by the recent anti-Japanese movement in the United States. Efforts are being made to influence the Japanese government to take the necessary steps to save the situation. What they desire can be summarized in two points: first, negotiation between the two governments through appointment of prominent persons of both countries.

By the first means they want to solve the immediate difficulties, but they deem the second more important. They want to make the commission an authoritative organization, charged with power to find the way to a definite and final settlement of all outstanding questions between the two nations.

It is quite clear that this was purely a domestic question and that America has the perfect right to define who shall and shall not be allowed to enter her territory. But they think it should be done more reasonably and fairly.

CLEVELAND IS PREPARING TO PROTECT CROWD

Public Safety Committee Will Try to Avoid Trouble at Convention.

Special Attention Will Be Given to Recreation of Bootleggers by the Department.

CLEVELAND, April 22 (AP). Elaborate precautions are being taken by Safety Director Edwin D. Barber and his subordinates to make the convention zone during the republican convention here the week of May 10 to 16 fire-proof and as nearly as possible, this proof.

At any rate, at the coming session of the new parliament, scheduled and expected to be convened in June the largest in existence, which is deal of criticism in America, and there will be considerable discussion raised by a hydraulic pump. The prospectum is also fitted with sprink-cluding Buffalo, Detroit and New York, to find him a few each of their star detectives. Chief Grant is confident the request will be granted, as it is not uncommon for cities to exchange detectives.

The purpose is not simply to reinforce the local police in number, but to have men on hand who know criminals who are strangers in Cleveland. Each member will join forces with a local detective, and the hunt will be done in pairs.

Though pickpockets will probably be the principal class of undesirable guests," said Mr. Grant. "They are decreasing in numbers. Many are going into more profitable occupations, such as bootlegging.

"Will bootleggers come? If they do, it will be to their sorrow. I know of no law authorizing me to take off the lid."

Proposals are under consideration for strengthening the detail of police women.

WATERBURY, W.V., April 22. The body of Charles Brown, 82, a bachelor, was found in bed at his log cabin in the town of Elderton by a neighbor.

Brown had been dead ten days, it was believed. He was poorly clothed and indications were that he died of exhaustion and exposure. Horses and cattle, weak from lack of food and water, were found.

Neighbors said Brown lived on the farm of 10 acres nearly 30 years, retiring to it after the desertion of his bride-to-be at the altar. He owned his farm and had $875 in a Wittenberg, Wis., bank. He was reported to be an excellent violinist and frequent reader. His father, C. F. Brown, lives at Appleton.

Doors of Radio-Automobile Show Are Thrown Open Today

EXHIBITION IS WELL ARRANGED AND PLEASING

Finest in Motor Car Building Displayed by Local Dealers.

Radio Fans Will Find Many Things of Interest to Them in Different Booths.

The second annual Automobile and Radio Show opened this afternoon at the Coliseum and a record breaking crowd is expected tonight to give the varied assortment of automobiles and radio sets the "once over." Last year the show was exceedingly good, but it was the first year and the exhibitors discovered many ways to make the next show better, so naturally this show this year offers many attractions not seen in 1923.

The cars are well arranged and salesmen are always on the job to tell you all about the advantages of their products as well as the price and terms of sale. There is plenty of literature and advertising matter for distribution and those attending the show will not lack for souvenirs to carry home with them.

Many Radio Sets. The most noticeable feature of the show is the number of radio sets. Last year there were only three or four sets, but this time there are almost too many to count and they are as varied in price as they are in hook-ups. You will see the latest in super-hetrodyne right next to a set that you can carry in your pocket.

Many sets sell for less than $50 and are guaranteed to get all the big stations. Just how well the sets can be demonstrated in the Coliseum remains to be seen, but the conditions were not good last year and very little in the way of performance was given.

The Country Store. Another feature at the exhibition is the "country store," where, like in every other country store, you can buy most anything you want—and buy it very reasonable. The money made by the "country store" will be used for Escanaba's base ball club this summer.

Every one in this city ought to attend the automobile show, at least once during the time it is open. It means a lot of work to get it up and the dealers have spent a lot of money to give the people a chance to compare all the cars, side by side and to see the best in radio reception. The Auto-Radio show is a real promotion enterprise to boost the city and put Escanaba on the map as a live, up-to-date city. It's for home folks just as much as it is for those who come in from many miles around to see it, so make your plans to attend with your family at least one or two nights.

Secured by a chain in the handle, a newly designed satchel cannot be picked up unless locked.
