

CONTROVERSY FOLLOWS LIQUOR REPORT

REVISION AND REPEAL TO BE PARTY PLANKS

SENTIMENT SPLITS ON PROHIBITION FOUR WAYS

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 21.—The Wickersham report is out at last. What does it mean? Certainly light wines and beer are a long way off, yet the admittedly worded report does move the whole prohibition problem past a milestone in its history.

Here are the outstanding consequences of the report of the commission: First, it gives both the wets and the dries, though not the extremists on either side, plenty of comfort for on the one hand the commission does not favor a return to pre-war conditions and on the other hand, it does not fully approve of existing prohibition.

Second, it recognizes that the chief defect in the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment was in the phraseology which made that amendment a piece of legislation instead of a charter of principles. The commission now recommends that if the amendment is revised it should carry a broad grant of power to congress to regulate prohibition, thus making it possible for the American people speaking through a majority of their chosen representatives to alter prohibition regulations from year to year as public sentiment dictates.

No State Issue Third, the commission makes a far-reaching observation in the concluding paragraph of the main report when it remarks that it would seem wise to eliminate from the 18th amendment the provision for concurrent state and national jurisdiction over prohibition enforcement. The commission says that action on the states "cannot be compelled" which is exactly what Governor Ritchie of Maryland has been contending. Arguing that if states can voluntarily pass state enactment laws without any special authorization from the federal constitution, the commission believes that two governments cannot concurrently enforce general prohibition. This contradictory statement made in the other parts of the Wickersham commission report to the effect that enforcement of prohibition is difficult with a national police power and can only be accomplished "with the active cooperation of the local police force."

Fourth, politically, the document gives President Hoover a platform for 1932 and makes it possible for the Republican party to advocate "revision" instead of "repeal" thus leaving to the Democratic party if it so desires to "take the position of outright repeal.

Volstead Act Indefinite The commission incidentally rejects the formula of Governor Roosevelt which suggested state government control of the liquor business as well as the Dwight Morrow proposal of absolute repeal and the return of control of the whole liquor problem to the states.

Fifth, the report means that

MACDONALD'S GOVT LOSES MINOR ISSUE

LABOR LEADER SAYS HIS CABINET IS NOT IN DANGER

BY PHILLIP HEWITT-MYRING London, Jan. 21 (AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's Labor government was defeated by 33 votes in a division on the controversial education bill in the house of commons tonight, but some hours later carried the bill victoriously through third reading by 256 votes against 238—a government majority of 18.

Now the measure goes to the house of lords. The defeat had no immediate consequence, for immediately after the division Mr. MacDonald announced to a wildly excited house that no big question of general principle was involved and that the government would carry on.

The defeat came mainly as the result of the intrusion of a religious controversy into politics, for the division in which the government found itself outvoted, 232 to 249, was taken on an amendment to the education bill, moved by John Scurr, a Roman Catholic Laborite. This amendment called for the passage of an act giving financial assistance to religious schools before the main education bill is put into operation.

Refuses to Resign The amendment was carried against the government. Mr. MacDonald later announced the cabinet would accept the amendment and proceed with the bill. Shouts of "resign" were hurled from the Conservative benches when the division figures were announced.

Wet League Favors Repeal, Not Revision

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Henry H. Curran said tonight the association against the prohibition amendment is opposed to any change in the prohibition laws except outright repeal.

Curran, president of the organization, in a statement commenting on the Wickersham report asserted that "to restore to the American people in the several states their ancient right of some role in the policing of their personal habits of life, the repeal must be complete.

"Any 'revision' that puts power in congress to prohibit or regulate is only a denial, in a different form, of the home rule that is essential to free us from the dangerous difficulties in which we are now involved," he said.

Automotive Experts Plan Car of Future at Detroit

BY DAVID J. WILKIE, (Associated Press Staff Writer) Detroit, Jan. 21 (AP)—While automobile manufacturers, bankers and sales executives are occupied with plans for speeding up the merchandising branch of the industry, another group of specialists in session here have placed the motorcar itself on the operating table and, in effect, are determining the major characteristics of the automobile of the future.

RUSSIA ISSUES FERVENT PLEA FOR LABORERS

THOSE WHO REFUSE TO WORK WILL NOT BE FED

BY VICTOR EUBANK Moscow, Jan. 21 (AP)—Soviet Russia, facing in these days of world unemployment the greatest labor shortage in its history, is openly sounding the battle cry "only those who work may eat."

A million and a half more men are employed in industry today than a year ago, but another two million are necessary to carry out this year's portion of the famous five-year industrialization plan.

The government, therefore, is studying every possible means of developing the last ounce of energy from the tolling masses. Railways Hardest Hit While the term "forced labor" is anathema to the Communist authorities, who characterize such a description as "non-sense," the various commissariats have issued many orders with regard to "lackers," prescribing all sorts of punishments for those failing to cooperate in Socialistic construction.

The railways have been hardest hit by the lack of workers. So serious has the situation become in the national transport that the government has ordered every man in Russia who has worked on the roads in the last five years to return immediately to his old job.

Employers of such men have been threatened with dire punishment unless they discharge them immediately. Recently plans were prepared to draft housewives and other women into industry by building more communal kitchen apartments, thus freeing the female population from what is described as "the old fashioned unsocialistic duties."

As a result of the government's campaign, the abandonment by any Russian of his job is considered almost a counter-revolutionary crime. Millions of factory workers and others have been induced by their unions to sign pledges to stick to their individual jobs until the five year plan is completed.

An American recently cast about for a secretary who could speak English. He found her. She had been working with technicians in the Ural metal trust.

She applied to her union for release but was informed that under no circumstances would she be released until the five year plan was accomplished.

A comparison of Soviet wages with those in America is difficult. For the laborer here who gets three rubles (about $1.50) a day gets living quarters and other privileges which are intended to make his wage go a long way.

Skilled workers get all the way from $75 to $250 a month, some engineers much more. But with each wage or salary go food, clothing, rooms and privileges which are supposed to take care of every good Socialist.

San Francisco, Jan. 21 (AP)—James Toner is assistant county defender. That fact, however did not prevent someone from stealing his overcoat.

A policeman, alleging he observed Martin Porter purloining Toner's protection against chill winds, filed a complaint. Porter had no funds and could not hire an attorney. So tomorrow County Defender Toner is expected to defend Prisoner Porter from a charge of stealing Toner's overcoat.

Clerk of House Maps State Apportionment Under Latest Census

PROPOSED PLAN WOULD GIVE WAYNE SIX CONGRESSMEN AND WOULD PUT U. P. IN DANGER OF LOSING ONE

Lansing, Jan. 21 (AP)—A congressional apportionment plan that would give Wayne county six congressmen under the new federal census was mapped out today by Myles F. Gray, clerk of the state house of representatives. The plan represents solely Gray's personal views and has no particular legislative bearing except that some member of the legislature could adopt the scheme and present it in the form of a bill. The current session of the legislature, however, is not expected to effect any apportionment. The federal statute for a new apportionment will become effective until March 5.

The latest apportionment map of the state keeps congressional districts closely within the new census ratio of one congressman for every 284,482 people in the state. Wayne with a population of 1,888,946 has about one third of the state population of 4,842,325. The delegation of six congressmen would give the metropolitan area approximately one third the Michigan congressional group.

Under the new census Michigan will gain four seats in congress to increase its delegation to seventeen members. Two congressmen now represent Wayne county districts and two others have part of their districts within the metropolitan territory. The Gray apportionment plan would put 27 counties of northern Michigan in the eleventh district. The change would mean that the upper peninsula would be in danger of losing one representative. It now has two in congress. Under the proposal one representative would be chosen from a district comprised of Marquette, Dickinson, Menominee, Keweenaw, Houghton, Baraga, Iron, Ontonagon, Gogebic and Delta counties and another from a district comprised of the rest of the upper peninsula and counties in the northern part of the lower peninsula to the Mason-Gladwin line. It would probably mean that the territory below the Straits could elect the congressman from this vast district.

Michigan's famous sixth district, the most populous in the country, would also undergo a change. Wayne would be made a separate territory of six districts: Oakland and Washtenaw would be joined in another district; Genesee, Livingston, and Shiawassee another; and Ingham, Eaton, Barry, and Calhoun in another.

Districts Created. Gray's apportionment plan would create the following districts: Districts 1, 2, 14, 15, 16, and 17, all of Wayne county, 1,888,946 population in the six districts. Districts 3, Monroe, Lenawee, Hillsdale, Branch, St. Joseph, and Jackson counties, 276,623 population. District 4, Cass, Berrien, Van Buren, Kalamazoo, and Allegan counties, 264,933 population. District 5, Barry, Eaton, Ingham, and Calhoun, 256,236 population. District 6, Oakland and Washtenaw, 276,781 population. District 7, Macomb, Lapeer, St. Clair, Sanilac, Tuscola and Huron (Continued on Page Two)

DEATH CLAIMS ALMA RUBENS

Former Actress Passes Away After Uphill Fight With Dope

Los Angeles, Jan. 21 (AP)—Alma Rubens, former brunette beauty of the silver screen, who reached the pinnacle of success in her life's work, only to be toppled into despair because of narcotic addiction, died tonight at the home of friends.

Death came peacefully to the young woman whose work was known and admired by thousands throughout the world. For three days she had been unconscious. She contracted a cold which rapidly developed into pneumonia, and with it came a coma from which she never recovered.

The death of the actress culminated a three-year uphill fight against a habit which she apparently was unable to overcome. Miss Rubens' last public appearance was made just a year ago in a play at the Writer's Club in Hollywood. It was a small, one act affair, but when the curtain fell, the one time film actress was accorded an ovation seldom given at the club.

Toiled to Heights Gone from her features were all traces of the mental and physical suffering she had endured for many months. Gone, too, were the effects of the narcotics by which she had been enslaved. Periodically the young woman toiled to the height of fame only to be plunged into the slough of despond, a victim of narcotics. Months later she would reappear, brighter than ever before, and soon again, would reach the top.

Last August, after her confinement in the state institutions, she had so far recovered she was offered a starring role in a New York play. But in December she returned to Los Angeles, her re-

Tax Collections Reveal A Decline

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—A sharp decline in the income of the government from tax collections in the last half of the 1930 calendar year was shown today in statistics issued by the internal revenue bureau. It reported that from last July 1 to December 31 collections were $1,396,272,075 or $107,179,672 less than for the similar period of the previous year. Admissions to theatres and places of amusement decreased from $2,094,295 in the last half of 1929 to $1,408,181 in the same period of 1930.

JURISTS HEAR DEBATE OVER CLARK RULING

LEGALITY OF BOOZE LAW IN HANDS OF SUPREME COURT

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—The life of constitutional prohibition tonight was in the keeping of the supreme court.

Within a few weeks it is to hand down a ruling sustaining or invalidating the eighteenth amendment.

Today, it listened intently to arguments supporting and attacking the recent decision of Federal Judge William Clark of New Jersey holding the amendment was improperly ratified because submitted to the state legislatures rather than popular vote conventions.

For the government, Solicitor General Thacher contended the court had already settled the issues presented in favor of the validity of the amendment, and that it was within the discretion of congress to choose the mode of ratification.

Support Decision Supporting the Clark decision Julius Henry Cohen and Selden Bacon, New York attorneys maintained it was mandatory that a proposed constitutional amendment subjecting individual rights to federal control be ratified by state conventions.

The small court room was crowded with spectators. Many members of congress were present. A long line waited outside the door seeking admittance. Only once throughout the entire argument did a member of the court interrupt to ask a question. It is customary for the judges to question counsel freely.

At the outset of the session, Chief Justice Hughes withdrew from the case. He said he had submitted a brief when prohibition was before the court a decade ago and felt this disqualified him.

Thacher's argument was based upon a contention that article V of the Constitution clearly had given congress authority to determine the manner in which amendments should be ratified. Whether by legislature or convention.

Note References He insisted the court by repeated decisions, especially in the national prohibition cases of 1920, had already decided the discretion of congress in this particular could not be limited or abridged by interpretations of the intentions of the authors of the constitution.

Cohen and Bacon argued the liberties of the people were at stake and that if legislators could legally abrogate their constitutional rights, then the government would degenerate into a despotic oligarchy.

They made frequent references to the opinions of John Marshall, famed chief justice of the early days of the republic, and to the writings of James Madison who had an important share in framing the Constitution.

British Consul Arrives In Detroit

Detroit, Jan. 21 (AP)—Leslie Charles Hughes-Hallett, veteran of the British consular service, arrived today to take over the duties of British consul in Detroit. He will have consular supervision over all Michigan and Ohio. His first post in the consular service in this country was in Chicago, where he was appointed vice-consul in 1919. Since then, he has served in five countries.

ROOT PLEADS AMERICA JOIN WORLD COURT

REVISED PROTOCOL RETAINS SENATE RESERVATIONS

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Elihu Root told the senate foreign relations committee today that the revised protocol for American adherence to the world court preserved unimpaired the reservation stipulated by the senate five years ago.

For almost three hours, America's 86-year-old jurist and statesman explained and defended the revised protocol which he helped to draft at the suggestion of Calvin Coolidge to break the deadlock existing between this nation and other powers over the senate's reservations.

Before a crowd that overflowed from the spacious committee room, Mr. Root concluded his analysis with a vigorous plea that America participate in the court as a contribution to the future peace of the world. He pounded the table and raised his voice to emphasize his plea.

After making an uninterrupted statement of more than two hours, Mr. Root submitted to questions by doubtful committee members. He parried with his interrogators willingly and only once did the throng of women break the injunction of silence which Chairman Borah had imposed.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who said he has not determined his attitude on the modified world court protocol, led in the examination given Mr. Root, a former secretary of state and former member of the senate.

Reed expressed doubt that the Trial of Dry Agent Is Begun at Mason

Mason, Mich., Jan. 21 (AP)—The trial of Paul Swafford, undercover prohibition investigator for the Ingham county's sheriff, on a charge of illegal possession of liquor opened today in circuit court.

Swafford was arrested by a motorcycle officer in November for speeding. When the officer reached police headquarters with his prisoner, the charge was changed to possession. Swafford testified today that he had made an official "buy" at Williamston and was on his way to Mason when he was arrested. The sheriff's agent has been sentenced twice previously, once on an assault and battery charge and once on a drunk driving conviction.

ACCUSE GROUP OF RECEIVING UNDUE ADVICE

COMMISSION DENIES HOOVER FIGURED IN FINDINGS

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Wickersham report with its varying conclusions for revision, repeal and retention of the 18th amendment churned up a new batch of controversy today and brought forth a resolution to inquire if the commission had been unduly influenced into changing its opinion at the last minute.

Senator Tydings of Maryland a Democratic anti-prohibitionist introduced a measure calling for a senate inquiry to determine how the commission arrived at its "conflicting conclusions" and whether advice was received from outside.

Reports that the president had intervened brought a thirty word statement of denial from Chairman Wickersham. Immediately afterward, he locked his doors to newspapermen.

Statement Issued. Late in the day, however, a two paragraph statement was issued at the offices of the commission calling "wholly without foundation" statements that the president had caused the commission at the last moment to abandon some of its recommendations.

"At no time has the president in any manner attempted to influence the recommendations of this commission," it said. The statement said suggestions that the report had been changed after it was signed were "wholly false."

At the white house, it was said there would be no statement on the matter, either of denial or of affirmation.

The combined commission report, signed by ten of the eleven members, set forth a draft of a suggested revision of the amendment with an "if" in front of it and a statement that the members were divided in opinion.

Six of the eleven, however, said in their appended statements that they favored either revision or repeal and at least two referred to revision as if the full commission was understood by them to approve of it.

A silence as baffling as that which hid the long deliberations of the commission shut out any peep into the manner by which the conclusions were drawn up.

In Richmond, Henry W. Anderson, who presented a proposed substitute for the present system of prohibition, said the report as a whole "favors modification of the 18th amendment."

Judge William S. Kenyon, in St. Louis, issued a statement joining Chairman Wickersham in denying that Mr. Hoover had influenced the commission in formulating its report.

CO-ED IN LOVE TRIANGLE SHOT

Student at University Wounded by Wife of Former Employer

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 21 (AP)—A woman student at the University of Tulsa was shot and dangerously wounded on the college campus today by the wife of her former employer.

Driving up behind Miss Charlie Caudell, 25, as she was parking her automobile, Mrs. Ashbury Endacott, wife of a Tulsa architect, left her car and fired two shots from a pistol at Miss Caudell. One bullet entered the girl's right lung and the other her left side.

Miss Caudell was secretary to Endacott when he was city water commissioner. His term expired last spring.

Police arrested Mrs. Endacott at the scene of the shooting. Officers said she told them she had attempted repeatedly to persuade Miss Caudell to leave her husband alone.

"I had purchased this pistol for protection against burglars," Mrs. Endacott was quoted. "This morning I got to thinking about it all, and I decided to see her. I meant to ask her to leave my husband alone."

Victim Makes Statement
"I saw her parking her car and I parked nearby. I walked over toward her as she was alighting from her car. She saw me and grabbed an iron bar and I took my pistol and shot her."

Endacott had been living at a Tulsa hotel for several months. He visited his home almost daily, usually taking his three children to school. County authorities said the filing of charges against Mrs. Endacott would be held up pending developments in Miss Caudell's condition.

Shortly after reaching the hospital, Miss Caudell made her only statement.

"It was our trouble—it happened because of our trouble," she whispered before lapsing into unconsciousness.

"I have nothing to say," Endacott told reporters. "I am not talking now."

Shortly before Endacott's term as water commissioner expired, Mrs. Endacott had an altercation with Miss Caudell. Entering her husband's office, Mrs. Endacott struck the young woman with a telephone after accusing her of stealing Endacott's affections.

"I'm sorry I shot her," Mrs. Endacott told reporters, after she had been transferred to the county jail late today. "I'm glad she has a chance to live."

ACCUSE GROUP OF RECEIVING UNDUCE ADVICE

also centered around the political effect of the president's official stand against repeal or revision of the Eighteenth Amendment. Statements came from two prohibition organizations saying those favoring prohibition would "rally to the standard which the president has raised."

One, from the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, said the president "has aligned himself squarely behind the American home."

The resolution introduced by Senator Tydings said:

"Whereas the confusion and contradictions embodied in the report of the Wickersham commission on prohibition are puzzling to members of congress who may be called on to enact legislation carrying out some of its recommendations; therefore be it

"Resolved, that the judiciary committee of the senate be instructed to invite Chairman Wickersham to appear before it and to make a further statement, explaining the method by which the apparently contradictory conclusions and recommendations were arrived at; and also, whether suggestions were received and acted upon by the commission in framing its final report from authorities who were not members of the commission."

The Marylander observed that "infortunately, after the commission had spent two years and $500,000 we are just where we were."

The Volstead act will have to be rewritten in order to clarify the many conflicting statutes on particularly the removal of what is called "anomalous provisions" as to elder and fruit juices with respect to uniformity on fixed alcoholic content.

Sixth, while the commission is opposed to the modification of the Volstead law "so as to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer," the very fact that the law would be rewritten to obtain uniformity means that the whole problem of alcoholic content would be reopened in congress and this would result in scientific efforts to prove that a larger alcoholic content than one-half of one percent is not intoxicating.

Means Long Wait
Seventh, the commission leaves to the public to decide whether the problem of revising the Eighteenth Amendment is immediate and urgent, some of the members of the commission being already convinced that prohibition under the Eighteenth Amendment is not enforceable while other members think a further trial should be made "with the help of recommended improvements."

But the words "immediate revision" can only mean a long time because the "process of amendment," namely the discussions in congress and in states, will require some time depending upon the crystallization of public opinion—something that is hardly likely to occur before the 1932 elections.

What the whole report does is to clarify prohibition controversy and give it definite lines of cleavage. It will mean the division of the public generally into four groups, those who favor no change at all, those who favor a further trial and ultimate revision, those who favor immediate revision with some such formula as the Wickersham commission points out or possibly other proposals along the same line, and those who favor immediate repeal and the return to the legal status which existed before the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted.

The second and third groups will tend to merge because it will take a long time for a resolution to revise the Eighteenth Amendment to get a two-thirds vote in both houses of congress and to get action by three-fourths of the state legislatures, most of which bodies do not meet until the winter of 1933 unless special sessions are called.

Similarly, the first group which wants no change at all is likely to be constantly diminished in favor of those who wish to revise the Eighteenth Amendment so that the two outstanding lines of cleavage would be "repeal" with the republican party tending toward revision and the democratic party leaning toward repeal, yet probably offering an alternative formula that would in the last analysis mean revision of the language of the 18th Amendment.

Coast Guards Get Rum-Runner After Three-Year Search

Boston, Jan. 21 (AP)—After eluding the coast guard for three years the 90-foot Canadian motor craft Firelight, carrying a $150,000 cargo of liquor, was brought in as a captive today by the patrol boat Harriet Lane.

The Firelight was captured off the north shore early this morning after a 30-minute chase. The skipper of the patrol boat reported that when captured the Firelight was running toward shore without lights and well within the 12 mile limit. A burst of speed greeted a command to halt, he reported, but the capture was made without firing.

The Firelight's papers showed she cleared New York, N. S., January 10, in ballast, for Bermuda. This indicated to officials that the cargo was taken aboard on the high seas and due to this unusual technicality the crew was not placed under arrest.

The Firelight was captured off Nantucket last June, but no liquor was found aboard her at that time and she was released.

Gandhi's Stand On MacDonald Offer Sought In India

New Delhi, India, Jan. 21 (AP)—All India looked today toward Yeroda prison at Poona, where Mahatma Gandhi sits in political incarceration, thus to learn whether the nationalist civil disobedience campaign will be called off or intensified.

For this many known as the apostle of liberty is the key man in Indian affairs, now that the British prime minister has declared for a qualified dominion status in the country. Anxious millions are eagerly awaiting comment on the Ramsay MacDonald offer from the nationalist chief.

By some this is seen as opening the possibility to release of India's 50,000 political prisoners, of whom Gandhi is the chief. It became known today Lorard Irwin, the viceroy, was considering the question.

When Mr. MacDonald closed the India round-table conference he stated the government would be willing to grant amnesty to political prisoners if assured order would be restored in India.

Gandhi spent yesterday and today studying the MacDonald declaration.

ROBINSON URGES FIVE-DAY WEEK

Democratic Leader Says Proposal Would Prevent Unemployment

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 21 (AP)—A five day week, or a six hour day in industry, and creation of reserves to bridge periods of depression were proposed tonight by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, as a preventative for future unemployment.

Addressing the National Stone Crusher Association, Robinson also proposed the slogan, "Back to the Land" for a permanent farm relief program. He said the "short sighted political policy of levying prohibitive tariffs on foreign made commodities, while the prices of comparable domestic articles are boosted by monopolistic combinations," was partially to blame for the current depression.

"It is believed," Robinson said, "that careful study will facilitate two movements of fundamental and permanent influence: 'First, the establishment in industry of the five day week or six hour day, thus making place and giving room for an increased number who must live by toil and at the same time assuring better standards of living, greater opportunities of recreation and the acquisition of knowledge.'

"Second, the practicability of reserves to bridge over periods of unemployment. Reserves established through contributions from both labor and industry is worthy of consideration as a partial permanent remedy.

"Cannot the wage earner afford to have set aside during periods of prosperity a fixed percentage of his earnings, and cannot industry justify contributing a share to the creation of unemployment reserves calculated to preserve the morale of the workers and the stabilization of enterprise during periods of contraction and depression?"

EXPERTS PLAN CAR OF FUTURE

Light-weight Diesel engines and machine tool obsolescence are a few of the other subjects on the present agenda.

To the average motorist the effect of humidity and temperature on octane numbers of secondary detonation standards, may appear to be of somewhat doubtful importance. To the automotive engineer, however, it is a matter of real significance, for it is part of the progress being made in an effort to develop a knockless fuel that can be produced economically and increase the efficiency of automobile engines by further raising the compression limit.

The popular opinion that "knocking" in an automobile engine was due to premature ignition long ago was exploded by research engineers. It is, R. E. Wilson, of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, told the society today, "a separate phenomenon dependent largely on the character of the fuel."

Measuring Anti-Knock Gas
Mr. Wilson told the engineers that in many ways of the most pressing problem facing oil and automotive engineers today is the development of a reliable and accurate method of measuring the anti-knock value of a given fuel. The difficulties in this direction, he explained, included the fact that different engines vary greatly in their knocking tendency, due to variations in compression ratio, size and shape of combustion chamber, efficiency of cooling, location of spark plugs and exhaust valves.

The significance of the "octane numbers" became clear when Mr. Wilson, explained a standard scale for comparing fuels adopted by the society last year. The scale was based on mixtures of normal heptane, a pure hydrocarbon which he said knocks badly, and iso-octane, another rare pure hydrocarbon which has good anti-knock properties. "The per cent of octane in such a blend which just matches the knocking tendency of a given unknown fuel is known as the 'octane number' of that fuel," he pointed.

Just as it all seemed very simple, Mr. Wilson added: "Anti-knock measurements for airplane fuels must be made under quite different conditions than anti-knock measurements on automobile fuels."

The premier, however, remained perfectly calm and the excitement soon subsided.

For some time the Scurr amendment and the education bill itself have been considered sources of great potential danger to the government. turn marked by her arrest a few days later in San Diego by federal officers on a narcotic charge. She was bound over to the federal district court, and was free on bail.

Miss Rubens was born in San Francisco and educated there at Sacred Heart convent.

The manner in which she obtained her first opportunity to go on the stage, which had always held a fascination for her, was somewhat obscured by the years, but her friends said her opportunity came when a chorus girl in a musical comedy became ill and Alma was sent in to take her place merely because she happened to be present. Shortly thereafter the company came to Los Angeles. After a short time she left the troupe, and at the instigation of Franklin Farnum, a member, Miss Rubens entered pictures.

The couple was married secretly. She sued for divorce in August 1928.

After several minor roles she was chosen by Douglas Fairbanks as his leading woman in "The Half Breed." In this vehicle she attracted public attention. Further fame was soon gained opposite Montague Love in "The World and His Wife."

Then came "Humoresque," "The Valley of Silent Men," "Enemies of Women," "Under the Red Robe" and many other film successes.

In November, 1923, she married Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman, author and film producer, but the marriage was short lived and they separated. A suit for divorce was filed in January, 1923.

During the following two years she made a number of pictures for the Fox organization. At the

JAPAN LEADER CONVENES DIET

U. S. Immigration Law Is Being Watched With "Keen Interest"

Tokyo, Jan. 22 (Thursday) (AP)—Baron Kijuro Shidehara, acting premier, told the fifty-ninth session of the Diet today that Japan was still watching the American immigration law with keen interest.

This law excludes Japanese and Chinese from the regular immigration quotas, admitting them only as students and in other special classes, and long has been a sore spot with Oriental nations.

"Our friendly relations with the nations of Europe and America," said the acting premier in convening the Diet this morning, "are entirely satisfactory and will, I am convinced, continue to grow in strength."

"On the question of the United States immigration law, which for the past seven years has been weighing heavily on popular sentiment in this country, there is no longer any doubt that our position is now fully understood and appreciated by a large majority of the American people."

"We shall watch further development of the question with unimpaired but keen interest."

Baron Shidehara began with a tribute to the London naval conference, but devoted much of his speech to stressing the amicable relations between Japan and her large neighbors, China and Soviet Russia.

Among his points the following stood out as high spots:

United States—Further development in the question of the United States immigration law, which bars Japanese in the regular quotas, will be watched with "unimpaired but keen interest."

World Relations—Relations with the nations of Europe and America are "entirely satisfactory" and are expected to gain strength.

Naval Competition—The London naval treaty of 1930 was hailed as ending the possibility of dangerous competition among Japan, the United States and Great Britain.

China—Leaders of the Chinese Nationalist government were praised for their constructive efforts to place China in a strong position among the nations, thus "following the trail once blazed by Japan in her struggle to emerge from a position of international inequality."

Soviet Russia—With trade greatly increasing between Japan and Russia, Baron Shidehara hoped certain questions, such as the rights of Japanese to fish in Russian waters, would be settled amicably.

end of her contract she departed upon a tour of Europe with Ricardo Cortez, to whom she had been married in February, 1925.

With their return in 1928, Alma's misfortunes began. The narcotic habit had fastened its hold upon her. She once said she had become an addict through the action of a New York physician, who had administered a narcotic during an illness.

DAISY'S TRIAL GOES TO JURY

wardly nervous and engaging in frequent conversations with friends who clustered about them in the courtroom.

Shortly before 4 o'clock the jurors returned to the courtroom to inquire about a confusion of dates of the alleged thefts in the grand jury indictment. Judge William Doran ordered the document corrected.

In his instructions to the jury, Judge Doran went into a brief legal explanation of the relation of servant and employer. Miss De Boe was alleged to have taken the money while serving as secretary to the actress.

He explained a separate ballot would have to be taken on each of the thirty-five counts and told the jurors they must be positive beyond "all reasonable doubt" if they believed the defendant guilty.

At 6 o'clock, the jurors were taken to a nearby restaurant for dinner.

PICTURE BARRED

Riverside, Calif., Jan. 21 (AP)—The Riverside board of censorship barred a Clara Bow film here today "because of notoriety" given the actress in the trial of her former secretary, Daisy De Boe on grand theft charges in Los Angeles.

The picture "No Limit" was to have opened in a theater here tomorrow. It makes use of the "It" girl's adventures in a resort at Calneva, Nev., which resulted in her ordering payment stopped on checks given for gambling debts there.

revised protocol had not impaired the reservation of the senate that the world court should not render an advisory opinion in any controversy which the United States has, or claims to have, an interest without first receiving the consent of this government.

Mr. Root replied that under the new court rule the United States has an "absolute veto power" over advisory opinion affecting it. Reed said Mr. Root took a broader view, then, than that held by Secretary Stimson.

Borah, an outspoken foe of the court, inquired of Mr. Root "if there is any circumstance under which the court may render an advisory opinion affecting the United States without the consent of the United States?"

Explains Obstacles
"I don't think so," was Mr. Root's reply.

"The senate's reservation stands unimpaired by the protocol," asked Senator Johnson, Republican, California, another foe of the court.

"Yes sir," replied Mr. Root firmly.

Mr. Root explained that two obstacles stood in the way of acceptance by other powers of the senate's reservations regarding advisory opinions.

"First," he said, "in the asking of advisory opinion of the court, the assembly and the council of the League of Nations would be obliged to proceed in ignorance of the attitude of the United States. It would throw doubt and delay around all proceedings."

"Second, there was ignorance on the part of the council of the other powers as to the meaning of the term 'impended in the reservation. There was ignorance as to the scope the United States would give to the term 'interests'."

"The problem presented to the negotiators of the protocol now before you was how to secure acceptance of that reservation without permitting interference with the regular, orderly business of the League of Nations. That is the purpose of this protocol."

Mr. Root explained that if at any time during proceedings before the court, this government felt it had an "interest" proceedings could be stayed.

"That is all we have done" he asserted, pointing the table. "It seems ludicrously small for so much fuss to be made about it."

Today's was the only hearing contemplated by the foreign relations committee on the world court. The committee has voted to defer consideration until next December.

Famous Athlete Called by Death

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—Robert Legendre, rated as one of America's greatest all-around athletes, died of bronchial pneumonia today at the age of 34.

He had been a lieutenant in the Naval Dental Corps for the last two and a half years, and death occurred at the Naval hospital in Brooklyn where he was admitted three days ago.

Most of his athletic success was scored while a student of Georgetown university, Washington, D. C. For three years he was national Pentathlon champion, and although known principally for his performances on the track and field he played halfback on the Georgetown football team and also was prominent in swimming and boxing.

In the 1924 Olympic games in Paris he established a world record for the broad jump in a leap of 25 feet, six inches. The record has since been broken.

For the past two years he had helped coach the Navy track team.

SPEAKING MEET HERE IN MARCH

Escanaba to Be Host to Sub-District Contest; Strickland Chairman

For the first time in six years Escanaba will be the host to the sub-district oratorical and declamatory contest this year. The contest will be held in the auditorium of Escanaba high school. Although no definite date for the contest has been decided upon, March 27 has been tentatively selected. Last year the contest was held at Gladstone and Gladstone and Sault Ste. Marie speakers were the winners. Principal C. C. Strickland of Gladstone high school is the chairman of this district.

Local declaimers are being coached by Miss Roma B. Irons of the high school faculty. There are now ten candidates for the honor of representing their school in the contest. After a series of elimination tryouts in the early part of next month the declaimer to represent the school will be picked. The candidates and titles of their declamations are as follows:

- Dorothy Sohn—"The Unknown Soldier," by Bruce Barton.
- Ellen Bazinet—"The Unknown Soldier," by Bruce Barton.
- Virginia Hedden—"A Vision of War," by Robert Ingersoll.
- Beatrice Canfield—"The Minute Man," by George Curtis.
- Rayne Labr—"The Liberty of Children," by Robert Ingersoll.
- Donald Bellanger—"The Plumed Knight," by Robert Ingersoll.
- Otha Shlimer—"Liberty of Man, Woman, Child," by Robert Ingersoll.
- Glen Sandberg—"At the Grave of the Unknown Soldier," by Warren G. Harding.
- Ralph Subduist—"Supposed Speech of John Adams," by Daniel Webster.
- Antia Ovist—"The National Flag," by A. J. Beveridge.

The orators who are being coached by Mr. Joseph Shipman are: Stanley Finnegan, Roland Woodard, Robert Hughes, Vincent Bergman and Vivian Gleisner. The subjects of the orations have not been chosen.

Soo Is Acquiring River Frontage

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. (AP)—The city of Sault Ste. Marie steadily is gaining ownership of frontage on St. Mary's river. With the dedication of a city park of 1,200 feet acquired by purchase last summer, the city's frontage has grown to 3,000 feet, which is 2,600 more than the amount owned in 1920. In that year a gain of 36 feet was made through a trade with the Michigan Northern Power company. Chase S. Osborn, former governor later gave 500 feet, and subsequently 800 feet at the foot of Nineteenth street were added through purchase and grant.

Reserve Officers Of Michigan Meet

Reserve officers from all over the state will attend the ninth annual convention of the Michigan Department, Reserve Officers association of the United States, which meets at Detroit, January 31 and February 1. Major General Frank Parker, commanding general of the sixth corps area, with headquarters in Chicago, will attend the convention. Several reserve officers from Escanaba and other points in the peninsula will attend.

The sessions of the convention will be preceded by a meeting of the executive committee of the association, Friday evening, January 30. The regular sessions start Saturday morning when delegates will be received by Mayor Frank Murphy at the city hall. Luncheon will be at the Michigan Cavalry club.

In the afternoon the main speaker will be Major General Parker, who will tell the delegates about "Training of the Organized Reserves." Preceding him on the program is Lieutenant Colonel Eugene L. Sanchi, officer in charge of reserve affairs for the sixth corps area, from Chicago.

The annual banquet and ball will feature the Saturday evening program. Music for the ball will be furnished by the Second Infantry band from Fort Wayne, Michigan. Business sessions will be held Sunday morning. Colonel C. D. Herron, executive officer of the organized reserves, in the war department, will give the main address. This will be followed by committee reports and election of officers.

Hospital Chaplain Dies at Hancock

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at St. Patrick's church, Hancock, for the Rev. Fr. Vincent Kreis, O. S. B., chaplain of St. Joseph's hospital, who died Monday morning at the hospital after a lengthy illness. The body lay in state at the hospital and was sent to Atchison, Kansas, Wednesday afternoon, accompanied by the Rt. Rev. Martin Veth, abbot of the abbey of St. Benedict. A brother in Germany and an uncle in Chicago survive.

The Rev. Fr. Kreis was born in Germany 52 years ago and came to the United States in 1892. He entered the abbey of St. Benedict in Atchison, Kansas, where he made his novitiate and was ordained there in 1904. He served as a priest in Burlington, Ill., and Chicago and was assigned to Marquette in May, 1918. Later he went to Menominee for a short time and on September 17, 1918, went to Hancock. Besides acting as chaplain at St. Joseph's hospital he also served the Beacon Hill and Redridge churches.

SITUATION IS UN-CHANGED

The long awaited report of the Wickersham law enforcement commission, made public at Washington on Tuesday, is as conflicting in its individual recommendations as the composite thought of the nation on the vexing prohibition question.

In addition the majority report, signed by ten of the eleven members, declares that there has yet been "no adequate observance or enforcement" and that machinery to accomplish this end "is still inadequate."

The facility with which President Hoover accepted the commission's findings, as to more adequate enforcement, machinery, and the ease with which he ignored the individual declarations of six members of the same commission, will not be heartening to Republican political leaders who foresee the wet and dry issue as the paramount issue in the next presidential campaign and who have viewed with deep apprehension, the change in national thought on this important question, as expressed in recent state elections.

The Wickersham report, after 20 months of painstaking labor, has accomplished nothing, in serving to clarify the issue. The issue is again in the hands of the people of the United States and the very best thought of the nation is that a definite test must be faced within a very few years.

NO ARGUMENT HERE

SENATOR Herbert J. Rushton is the author of a bill in the Michigan legislature which proposes an appropriation of $100,000 annually for the next two years for promotion of the tourist and resort business.

When two years ago the state undertook to assist in the development of our resort business there was an element of experiment involved. But now the enterprise is no longer an experiment. Its value has been proved.

Under the plan, as originally adopted and as included in the new bill, the appropriation will be matched by equal amounts raised by the four tourist and resort associations of the state.

While the purpose of this appropriation is to build up a widely distributed Michigan business, the fact is that the state itself undoubtedly gets back into its own treasury more than it invests in the advertising fund.

Competition in the tourist business will be particularly sharp during the coming year, because of the general depression. Michigan will need to spend every cent of the proposed $100,000, plus a similar contributed amount, on advertising, and in order that the campaign may not be delayed, the appropriation should be made available as soon as possible.—Iron Mountain News.

LETTERS HE WROTE

AN OLD lady will be watching for the mailman on Jan. 31. In fact, it is a habit that she is going to have for the next 11 years.

But the man who writes the letters will be gone. On the last day of January the hangman will knot a noose around his neck and let him swing on the gallows.

Somehow, at the end of the way, he has been looking backwards. He has been remembering how his mother watched for him so eagerly when he first started to the school house down the road; the cookies that she baked and sprinkled with sugar just because he like them; stories she told in which the boys were always upright and honorable and never stole or killed.

Sitting on the edge of his bunk one day he made a decision. He would write 132 letters to his mother. That would mean one a month for the next 11 years. He knew that she had not heard of his death sentence but had been told he was to serve a 20-year prison sentence, one that can be completed in 11 years with good behavior.

So John Walker got busy. Day after day he sits now, writing letters to his mother, on a soap box that is balanced on his knees. He has to work fast, for the gallows is casting its shadow a little nearer every day. When he completes his task a friend will take the letters and see that they are posted monthly.

And the old lady who receives the missives will read them tenderly, fold them together, and put them away in a secret place for those lonely minutes when she is a little more homesick than usual for the prodigal son who was implicated in the killing of a deputy sheriff.

There is something strangely pitiful about the man who doesn't want his mother to know. He has broken her trust in him. But he doesn't want to break her heart.

But even more pitiful is the picture of the old lady who will receive the posthumous letters and check off the months on the calendar until her son comes home.

She will wonder, now and then, if she will live to welcome him. Meantime summer will throw an emerald rug across the convict's grave; autumn rains will fall softly; spring will come 11 times with wistful magic; and winds will chant their requiems at twilight.

And a little old lady will watch for letters which prove that her boy didn't die after all.

PRIDE OF FREE CLOTHING

HUMAN pride has queer forms, and sometimes manifests itself where you would hardly expect it. The New York police commissioner reports that pride is actually a barrier to the administration of poor relief there.

Relief depends on the establishment in police stations, and people in need can come there and get free clothing; but the commissioner says that the women usually "turn up their noses if the garments are not stylish," and even when in dire need examine clothing as critically as if they were buying it in a store.

This sounds odd, but is perfectly natural. To receive charity is one thing; to wear clothing which makes it perfectly evident that one has been receiving charity is different. The attitude may be deplorable, but it isn't hard to understand.

Paris stylists are hiring stout girls in designing new creations. The models, of course, stand to gain by the trend in styles. "A man may be down but not out" is a saying which seems to apply most everywhere but in the ring.

Anniversary

BYRON'S BIRTH

On Jan. 22, 1788, Lord Byron, one of the greatest of English poets, was born in London.

Two years after he entered Trinity College, Cambridge, he issued his first volume of verse, "Hours of Idleness." It was fiercely criticized, but instead of discouraging him, it incited to continue with his poetry.

Following his return from a trip on the continent Byron published the first part of his Child Harold, which met with immediate success. A few years later he produced Don Juan, his masterpiece.

In the summer of 1823, Byron sailed for Greece, to aid with his influence and money in that country's struggle for independence. There he found nothing but confusion and contending chiefs, but in three months he succeeded in evoking some kind of order out of the chaos. His health, however, began to fail, and he died from venereal disease and fever on April 19, 1824.

FOR GINGER'S SAKE

CHAPTER VII

"I beg your pardon, madam," said a pleasant low voice, "but how would you like to exchange a good square meal of the sort that would be expected of a kitchen whose exhalation is an aroma so completely delightful, for a small crayon portrait of yourself—similar to this sketch I have here?"

"What?" asked Gooby, who was a direct woman. "I merely wondered," continued the pleasant voice, "if you would not like to have a small crayon sketch of yourself, by myself? Like this. I assure you I am quite good. I studied at the best schools in Philadelphia and New York. I won a three years' scholarship in Paris, and I have the very best of recommendations. In exchange for a square meal, with as much of the culinary fragrance as I can assimilate."

"Do you mean," inquired Gooby painstakingly, "that you think you could make a picture look like that and look like me?"

The voice coughed deprecatingly. "Alas, that even the divinest of the arts should be thus circumscribed," it mourned. "But one of this general size and style at any rate, a likeness of you—and it must be a very good dinner. Why, a true patron of the arts would pay 25, 50 dollars for a sketch like this done by an honor student of three fine art schools!"

"I think he wants something to eat," said Gooby apologetically, turning to Ginger.

Ginger had heard. She flapped across the room in her flat-heeled sneakers and set the mixing-bowl on the table with a resounding thud.

One who knew Ginger could instantly have interpreted the smoldering fire in her fine blue eyes.

"You want to do a portrait for your dinner, do you?" she inquired coldly. "All right. Do me!"

She rolled the white sleeves purposefully high above her elbows, and sat grimly down, arms folded sternly before her on the table.

"Go ahead!" she commanded. "Do me!"

'Looking Backward'

January 22, 1911

The daily output of the Escanaba Manufacturing Company's plant located on Stephenson avenue is about 1,250,000 butter dishes, 75,000 pie plates, and 720,000 clothes pins. This is an enormous number of separate pieces of manufactured material, and the number may be more fully appreciated when it is stated that it would take one person working nine hours per day, 64 days if he handles each piece of material each second of time to handle the product of one day.

Sheriff Tim Curran has appointed Supervisor Charles J. Gunderson of this city to serve as trustee officer. Mr. Gunderson has already assumed his duties. There is plenty of work in Delta County for a trustee officer.

Mrs. Gretchen Hager and Richard Perrow will be married tomorrow in St. Joseph's church by Rev. Fr. Julius. A wedding breakfast will be served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hager, 907 South Sarah street and they will leave on the eleven o'clock train for a honeymoon trip.

Manager P. M. Peterson has booked an excellent attraction "St. Elmo" to be shown at the 29.

Saturday evening a party of sixty guests were entertained at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Regis Beauchamp at Flat Rock. After a program of dancing a chicken pie supper was served to the guests.

Rev. Fr. Julius Heinze recited word of the death of Rev. Fr. Eibelbert which occurred at Lafayette, Ind. Father Eibelbert was born in England in 1831 and joined the Roman Catholic church in 1853. On August 15, 1858 he was ordained priest.

Work will be started on Escanaba's new Turkish Bath parlors in the rear of the First National Bank building. There will be a barber shop in connection and several private rooms at the disposal of those who wish to remain at the bath house for the night.

Einar Schou will be in charge and will be assisted by expert assistants. Every business house in the city has subscribed $25 to $100 for the installation of this bath house and it should prove to be a success from all standpoints.

Work has been begun on the new bridge for the county over the Escanaba River at Wells. Holes for the piles are being cut through the ice and after the piles are in place the driver will get into operation.

Health Tips

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

A little mite, called Acafus scabiei, burrows into the human skin in order to lay eggs and as a result sets up an irritation with severe itching.

The places usually selected for the burrowing are the skin between the fingers, under the arms and on the lower abdomen. Usually the condition does not spread beyond these areas, but in people who are not particularly careful about bathing and dressing it may involve almost the entire body.

Cases are known in which this itch-mite has gotten into the wardrobes or costumes of "supers" of theatrical or operatic companies and gradually infested the entire company so that the subsequent itching interfered with the performance. In children, the palms of the hands and the soles of the feet are frequently attacked.

Fortunately there is a certain method of controlling this condition when it is properly diagnosed. This method involves the proper use of sulphur which may be employed in various forms. Usually it is necessary first of all to prescribe a thorough cleansing of the patient with hot water and soap bath. He then rubs his body completely with the ointment which any physician may prescribe and leaves the ointment on overnight.

On the next day he takes another hot cleansing bath, receives a completely new outfit of clothing, particularly underclothing, and the treatment is finished.

Equally important with the treatment of the disease is the handling of the clothing of the patient. It is necessary in practically every case to disinfect the clothing thoroughly so as to destroy every itch-mite that may be present in it or on it. The condition has been described as Cuban Itch, French Itch, and assigned to various nationalities, but no nation seems to have a complete monopoly upon it.

OUT OUR WAY

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch Copyright 1931 by Douglas Malloch AHEAD Joy's just around the corner. And happiness ahead— I say it over to myself. When happiness is fled. It isn't much to say. It isn't much to say. But better than to turn around And look the other way. I had a heart I trusted. I had a friend I knew: Well, he's gone and she is gone. And all of that is through. But why should I keep thinking Of what is at an end? There must be happiness ahead And joy around the bend. So I keep singing somehow— When happiness is gone. There must be happiness ahead. Or who would journey on? "Joy's just around the corner." It isn't much to say, But thinking of tomorrow's all That gets me through today.

Today's Bridge

Article No. 101 BY EDWARD C. WOLFE Member of the National Championship Auction Team NORTH-DEALER WEST—DUMMAY S-7-6 H-K-9 7-5-3 D-1-9-8 C-10-7 EAST-DECLARER S-Q-1 10-9 8-5-4 H-None D-A-K 0-3 C-6-2 SOUTH S-A-K-3-2 H-A-J-4-2 D-10 C-K-Q-J-9

This deal invites considerable variation in auction bidding. North has a pass that cannot be questioned. Personally, as East, I would pre-empt spades with only three, inasmuch as it requires a bid of four in any other suit to overcall.

In pre-empting, however, it is usually customary to bid two more tricks than your hand calls for, and since East has eight sure tricks, to bid for 10 tricks would be bad auction. South has a legitimate double of either three or four spades regardless of results.

This should conclude the bidding. As to whether or not the double of three is a business or information double the authorities are hopelessly at issue. The fact is that this question is the one outstanding principle in auction bridge which has not been standardized. Therefore, it is well to understand that much mooted question in advance.

The Play South should open either the king of clubs or the 10 of diamonds. Generally the opening of a singleton is indeed a gamble. However, there are a few instances in which a singleton may be opened without severe criticism. South's hand is one of those instances, inasmuch as he has the trump suit stopped with both the ace-king, and is able to take the first and second trump tricks and then attempt to get his partner in the lead for the purpose of returning his singleton suit.

However, if the king of clubs is opened, North must play an encouraging card, the eight spot, but South should disregard his partner's advice and immediately thereafter play his singleton diamond. It is here when East has the marvelous opportunity of gaining an extra trick. After the jack of diamonds holds the trick, the declarer, who visualizes the possibility of this being a singleton, should at all hazards prevent North from thereafter getting into the lead and returning the diamond suit. There is only one possible method of doing this, and even that method is dependent upon the location of the ace of hearts.

At trick No. 3, therefore, West leads the king of hearts (no other heart will do) upon which East should discard his losing club. Regardless now of what South may play, it is impossible for him to ever get his partner into the lead for the purpose of returning a diamond.

Professor Wood Tells of Varied Social Problems

An address on "Co-ordination in Social Work," well worth the attention of every citizen, was delivered Wednesday afternoon before the Escanaba Woman's club, by Professor Arthur E. Wood, associate professor of Sociology, University of Michigan. The lecture was one of the finest given before the club, giving its members the pleasure and privilege of hearing discussion of important social problems by a man who has made a special study of them and who knows them thoroughly.

Professor Wood opened his talk with an outline of the history of social work, which he described as doing things for people in need in a certain way, in a certain spirit and with a certain purpose. "Social work," he said, "was done by the church in the Medieval period and the church should be interested today. However, the modern state takes over the job upon disintegration of the church." The first English Poor Law was passed in 1439 to abolish begging, he said, explaining that being poor at that time was to be a criminal. The Elizabethan Law in 1601, following provided that work should be given all able-bodied poor; that the children should be farmed out and apprenticed and not put in institutions; and that help was to be given at home when needed. Under these conditions, family life was not ruined, and this wise legislation has been the basis of English poor laws ever since.

"The Industrial revolution which started about 1760 brought tremendous consequences," he continued, "and this revolution is still going on, causing technological unemployment today. Our big problem is how to obtain technical progress and still preserve social progress. Many private organizations have sprung up to help this situation but have failed because they could not see the problem as a whole." Error in Organization Dr. Wood spoke of the founding in 1869 of the London Charitable Organizations Society, which divided the poor into two classes, worthy and unworthy. "God's" poor to be handled by the society and the second class by the government. "This," he declared, "was a gross error. Who has the right to decide which poor are worthy and which are not? What do the words mean? If unworthy, how will you deal with them? General Booth asked the above questions and founded the Salvation Army. "Henry Ford says that industry has no right to choose the pick of men who are looking for work," he continued, "and affirms that industry must bear its share. However, there can be no relief without adequate investigation, and constructive relief is imperative. England would be in the arms of Communism if she had not had 'dole' for the past ten years. Whatever is given, however, should be a stimulus to future activity. Registration is important and every agency should have registered, the names and addresses of all needing assistance in order that a record may be kept. Trained workers are absolutely necessary," he declared. "The University of Michigan has had for ten years a curriculum for training social workers. We would not dream of permitting anyone without training to run our water supply or sewage plant. Why should we allow inexperienced, untrained men or women the handling of this important problem."

Family Society—Unit "The family welfare society is the basic unit of social work today. Councils of social agencies have been formed of all agencies in the community doing all sorts of social work, and this in itself is an aid in building 'morale' for social work in the community. Community funds started during the war were 'arried through by war enthusiasm. It is more vital that organizations get together on their work and problems before getting funds together. Without exception, though, community funds raise more money and reach more subscribers than do private agencies. Better budgeting results. Detailed work reports must be turned in monthly under the fund plan. "Taking Escanaba's problems and needs in particular, you may ask: "What amount of work is done? "What are our standards of work? "How much is spent by all agencies? "What needs are not being met? "What are our possible resources? "What are our possibilities for wise leadership? "Escanaba," he continued, "should have a family welfare society and should have a leader for it in its own city. A good board of representatives of all divisions is necessary and working out of a program of social relief with city officials is necessary. The machinery of public poor relief in Michigan is out of date. Fifteen years ago an investigation committee recommended county agencies instead of what we have. "Social work," he concluded, "is an entity by itself and should stand by itself—not just be an adjunct of the Chamber of Commerce or any other city organization."

Music Selections Music numbers of the meeting, which were most enjoyable, were "The Nightingale," Wilfred Sanderson, and "As We Part," McNair Ilgenfritz, sung by Mrs. Thomas St. Jacques, with Miss Eva Cossette playing her accompaniments. Mrs. I. G. English was chairman of the meeting. Hostesses were Meses. R. A. Chynoweth, Fred Hoyer, Fred Olmstead and John Riley.

Blind Girl Scouts Expert in Sending Semaphore Signals

Mr. "Believe-It-Or-Not" Ripley can find a new one for the skeptics if he will visit Peiham Parkway, New York, some pleasant afternoon. There, on the grounds of the Institute for the Education of the Blind, he will perceive blind Girl Scouts sending semaphore signals! Of course, the use of audible signals is necessary, and the Morse code has to be translated into whistle blasts to make communication possible. Signaling is part of the regular Girl Scout program which is now being adopted for the use of the physically disabled who are known as extension Girl Scouts. So to devise the activities that they can be practiced and enjoyed by the blind, deaf, dumb, crippled and otherwise incapacitated is a difficult task now in charge of Mr. Edward Fletcher Stevens, of Wellesley Hills, Mass., member-at-large of the national board of directors. There are already throughout the country fifty troops of these extension Girl Scouts. So popular is the program among them that the executive committee recently decided to extend the scope of the work in institutions and hospitals. England has a special department for such girls, who are known as "Post" Girl Guides. They get the benefit of the program through correspondence. A letter, prepared at the meeting of the company or troop adopting a disabled girl, is circulated every two weeks to each. This contains information for merit badge work, competitions, stories, games and pictures. It is probable that some similar system will be devised for the United States and that the ingenuity which prompted the sending of the Morse code by whistle, will provide many other such surprises for the new Girl Scouts.

Talks Interestingly On Juvenile Delinquency at Elks' Temple

Speaking on the subject, "Diagnosing Juvenile Delinquency," Tuesday evening at the Elks' temple before a capacity audience composed of members of the chamber of commerce and rotary clubs, Dr. Arthur E. Wood, associate professor in the department of sociology of the University of Michigan, declared that there was no single factor which caused delinquency, it being rather a case of some deficiency in the individual plus a situation, which leads to crime.

Ben Gero, Sr., acted as chairman of the meeting and the speaker was introduced by Supt. of Schools A. F. Hall. Preceding Dr. Wood's talk, a joint banquet was enjoyed by the chamber of commerce and Rotary clubs.

Opening his lecture by discussing various detrimental environmental influences which the modern child has to combat, Dr. Wood proceeded by outlining other factors which affect the child such as its physical condition, the condition of its mind, its reaction emotionally, the effect produced by legal contact, and concluded his talk by outlining possible remedies as a curb to child delinquency.

Schools Deficient

"Schools are not equipped to handle the delinquent child or children who have delinquent tendencies," Dr. Wood declared in discussing factors of environment which affect the child. "Nothing is done in the school to change the attitude of a child of this type and it frequently leaves school at an early age to shift for itself."

Disorganization of family life is also an important factor which tends to child delinquency. Families are constantly being broken up by the death of the bread earner, divorce, unemployment, etc. The mothers' pension law in most places is not administered properly and its worth is nullified." Dr. Wood declared that the delinquent is more frequently found in the second generation of foreign born than in those who first immigrate to this country.

Patterns of the neighborhood are too mobile in these days and emulation of the child after its father is also a thing of the past.

Cities have grown so fast, stated Dr. Wood, that no provision has been made in their development with reference to the proper environment for children. Crime breeds in the slums and it is in these places that members of "gangs" later become gangsters.

In speaking of the child itself, Dr. Wood said that physical condition is relative to behavior, but that behavior is not an inherited quality but the sum total of certain established habits. Abnormal physicalities also have a tendency to affect the child's mind. Feeble-mindedness in itself does not necessarily lead to delinquency, but takes a certain situation. All morons are not necessarily delinquents," said Dr. Wood. Super-normal children are just as much of a problem as sub-normal children.

The psychiatric or emotional side of the child also has an important bearing upon. Delinquent tendencies are manifested early by truancy in school.

Law Too Impersonal

The term "juvenile court" is an anomaly, said Dr. Wood. In speaking of the effect of contact with the law by the delinquent in that the court is doing educational work which has been neglected by the school. Contact of the delinquent with the legal side of the question is more injurious than beneficial. Dr. Wood cited an experiment conducted by an eminent authority on crime in which the names of 100 criminals who had been inmates of a Massachusetts penal institution were taken five years after they had been released. Ninety of the 100 persons were located with the result that 80 per cent of them had in the meantime returned to crime.

In conclusion Dr. Wood stated that we need juvenile clinics for the study of delinquents, need a method whereby the parents of delinquents may be reached (a problem to be solved by the school,) need to change the pattern of community life, and need to reorganize the recreational program for children.

Commenting on the latter factor, Dr. Wood is of the opinion that while many movies are good, there are more which have an unwholesome effect upon the mind of the child. In reference to the Scout movement he commented upon the lack of ability and personality of its leaders and stated that it needed real close human leadership by men who really understand boys. Furthermore, he declared, in most communities Boy Scout fees are excessive for the boys who really are in need of the leadership which that organization is supposed to give.

RIALTO
Last night's audiences at the Rialto Theatre were vociferous in their applause of "The Doorway to Hell," the Warner Bros. and Vpaphone melodrama of gangland which features Lewis Ayres, who won such acclaim in his first big part, that of Paul in "All Quiet." In the current attraction he plays the part of a gang king who "gets his" with grim vengeance. Others in the cast are Charles Judels, Dorothy Matthews, Leon Janney, Robert Elliott, James Cagney, Kenneth Thompson, Jerry Mandy and Noel Madison. The story is by Rowland Brown and the screen dialogue by George Rosener. Archie Mayo directed. "The Doorway to Hell" is the most authentic of all underworld thrillers.

Lucille Russell, student at Lawrence college, will arrive here next week to spend a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Russell. This is the vacation between semesters.

ESKYMOS PLAY MAROONS NEXT

Menominee Opposes Local Quintet Here Friday Evening

Coach Puckelwartz is concentrating on an attack for Menominee high school cagers zone defense when the Maroons play at the Escanaba gymnasium Friday evening. Passing and dribbling have occupied the attentions of the Eskymos as they are being drilled for an offense which will smash through the Maroon defense.

Menominee's appearance here on Friday is the first opportunity for the Eskymos to partly avenge for the rout administered by the Maroons on the gridiron last fall. The McCannmen have not been clicking so hot on the court as they have been in recent years but local fans are discounting that fact. Menominee teams have always displayed better performances against the Eskymos than in their other games.

The same lineup that started against Negaunee last week will probably take the floor against the Maroons on Friday. This is the first of a home and home series the Eskymos will play with Menominee.

The Escanaba Reserves will meet Rapid River in the preliminary. Schell and Chard will officiate the main game while Chard will handle the Reserve-Rapid River tilt.

Basketball Topics

By Everett S. Dean, Basketball Coach of Indiana U.

Coach Dean's series of 20 articles on basketball was concluded yesterday, but due to requests from several editors, the series has been lengthened to include 10 more articles.

Advantages of keeping the ball in motion are many. Regardless of the kind of defense your team meets, keeping the ball in motion is effective.

Offenses designed to meet zone defenses should place special emphasis upon this phase of attack. Passing the ball back and forth in front of the zone, also in and out to players who have penetrated the defense, tends to draw the defensive men out of position thus leaving open some play for a good shot. The accompanying diagram represents the formation.

Keeping the ball moving is also effective against the man-to-man and other defenses because of danger of offensive men getting off balance in covering their assigned man. The guard may rush to intercept a pass or prevent a deliberate shot and thus find himself in a bad defensive position. This happened because the ball had been kept in motion until one defensive man had been pulled out of position.

The ball moving rapidly in front of a defense tends to keep the offensive men mentally alert. This should lessen the number of

Harold Gessner Appointed Chairman of Third Carnival

The third annual Winter Frolic will be held under the auspices of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce here on Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 14 and 15. It was announced yesterday by Secretary H. P. Lindsay.

Harold Gessner has been appointed general chairman of the frolic. Various committees are now being organized, and will be announced in the near future. Detailed plans will also be divulged at that time.

Last year, the winter carnival brought together about two hundred contestants in the junior and senior boys and girls skating events. The Cloverland Post, No. 82 of the American Legion will also cooperate by sponsoring the dog derby again. About twenty racing dogs were entered in this event last year.

This winter's program will be more elaborate than ever. Several new attractions are being planned, which will create added interest in winter sports in this community. About two thousand persons witnessed last year's events.

Bobby and Jimmy Are Even-Stephens

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 21. (P)—Bobby Jones, the four-way golf champion and Jimmy Johnston, former amateur champion, are great home state boosters. For years they have vied with each other—and right now the match is all square.

When Bobby was in Minnesota for the national open at Interlachen last summer, Jimmy undertook to prove what he had said about Minnesota as a great fishing state. One bright morning he got Bobby into a boat on Lake Minnetonka, assuring him plenty of black bass would be caught.

Bobby got a splendid sunburn on his neck, and during the tournament it was so sore he could scarcely turn his head. Two fish, a small bass and a pickerel, was the total catch.

Last week Jimmy went to Atlanta. Bobby prevailed on him to stay one day longer than he had intended for a quail shot, assuring him plenty of quail would be shot.

"The bag was two quail. 'And that,' said Jimmy, 'makes us all even.'"

Purdue Basketball Coach Becomes Ill

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 21. (P)—Ward Lambert, Purdue university basketball coach, ill since Jan. 12 has been taken to a local hospital with a mastoid infection. His physicians reported he will be unable to direct basketball practices for at least ten days or two weeks. Lambert was reported improved late today, after the ear drum had been split. Physicians were hopeful an operation will not be necessary.

Glen Harnesse, freshman basketball coach and star of last year's championship quintet, will be in charge of the Purdue squad when it resumes practice next Monday after a lay-off for examinations.

BEAT MUNISING IN DEBUT TILT

Schou Takes High Point Honors; Ramblers Win in Preliminary

Opening their 1931 basketball campaign last evening, the Escanaba Rangers defeated the Munising Dragons at the Coliseum gymnasium, 29 to 17. Coach Brunelle used his entire squad of fourteen men in the game and then announced the roster of the Rangers would be slashed to eight or nine players for the remainder of the season. In the preliminary battle the Ramblers defeated the DeMolays, 20 to 9.

During the first half the Rangers and Dragons battled on practically even terms but in the third period the Escanaba offense launched a brilliant drive which sent them way in front and they were leading at the close of the third period by 20 to 9. Munising fought the Rangers on even terms again in the final period when many of the reserves were carrying on for the Rangers.

Schou and Puckelwartz led the Escanaba offense with the scrappy Ranger center taking high point honors. He scored four field goals and three free throws. In addition to his scoring, however, Puckelwartz played a big part in advancing the ball down the court. Kaddy Christensen at guard also played a stellar game for the Rangers.

Beatty and E. Genry were the spark plugs of the Munising attack. Both displayed clever floor work. Beatty scored six of the Munising points.

Referee Johnson called eleven personal fouls on the Rangers and penalized the Dragons eight times. Both teams scored seven times on their foul shots.

Between halves of the feature game Coach Thompson of the Ranger football squad was presented with a gold wrist watch while Manager Hansley and Treasurer W. J. Schmit were presented with gold footballs.

Three Skiers from Upper Peninsula In Detroit Meet

Detroit, Jan. 21. (P)—Three skiers from the upper peninsula, Walter Anderson and John Erkitts of Ishpeming and Bert Wilchek of Ironwood, are entered in a meet sponsored by the Detroit ski club to be held Sunday at Rochester.

Anderson is holder of the William D. Mather gold medal and also has the distinction of having made the longest jump at the Ishpeming slide, 168 feet in 1929.

Other entries include the six Hall brothers of Detroit, headed by Henry Hall, former national champion.

McIlvaine Retires As Rowing Champion

Philadelphia, Jan. 21. (P)—Charles J. McIlvaine, Jr., Olympic champion oarsman of this city, today announced his retirement from competitive rowing in order to devote his time to business.

McIlvaine's decision will change the plans of the Penn Athletic club, of which he is a member, for the 1932 Olympiad. He was expected to row in doubles with Paul V. Costello to defend the Olympic title they won in 1928 at Amsterdam. He was also counted upon to row again as a member of the Penn A. C. senior eight, which won the world championship last year at the international regatta at Liege, Belgium.

At Boat Show

New York, Jan. 21. (P)—Directors of the National Outboard Association in executive session at the National Motorboat show today, unanimously elected Rupert B. Turnbull of Monrovia, Cal., national commodore.

William M. Eldridge, New York, was chosen vice-commodore and Clarence W. Munneley of Detroit chairman of the board of directors. James W. Mulroy of Chicago and Gates Harpell of Waukegan, Ill., were elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

More than 100 leading executives in the Marine industry, at the annual meeting of the marine institute, discussed problems of the industry and expressed a general satisfaction with the interest shown in the national exhibit.

Speed records in the motorboat field may be challenged by Diesel powered craft in the near future, says Ned Purdy, authority on speed boats. A new record for this type of craft was announced today. A specially constructed Diesel cruiser owned by Charles E. Proctor of Great Neck, N. Y., attained a mark of 31 miles per hour. The best previous speed was 20 miles an hour.

BOXING

Benton Harbor, Mich., Jan. 21. (P)—Fighting his first bout since he won the Michigan lightweight championship, Bob O'Signe of Benton Harbor tonight defeated Jimmy Keenon, Pittsburgh, in a ten round match here tonight.

O'Signe, who scaled 160½ pounds, was awarded seven rounds to one for Keenon, who weighed in at 160. Two rounds were even.

In the six round preliminaries, Joe Mosher, 158½, Niles, knocked out Jud Judkins, South Haven, 15½. In the third round, Frankie Cebrat, 127, South Bend, Ind., defeated Young Millions, 125, Battle Creek, and Kip Wilkins, 127, Niles, defeated Danny Dillsavor, 128, Battle Creek.

U. S. NET STARS WIN IN CANADA

George Lott Defending His Title Won Last Year at Montreal

Montreal, Jan. 21. (P)—Four leading tennis players from the United States, led by George Lott of Chicago who is defending his title, and a number of less famous racket wielders, won their first round matches in the Canadian indoor tennis championships today. Not one of the four stars, Lott, Berkeley Bell of Texas and New York, J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., and Eddie Jacobs of Pittsburgh, lost more than three games in winning straight set victories over Canadian rivals.

Lott Starts Defense Lott started his title defense by defeating G. F. Gordon of Montreal, 6-0, 6-1. Hall eliminated Paul Fontagne of Montreal, 6-1, 6-1. Bell beat G. H. Raper of Montreal, 6-2, 6-1, and Jacobs, recent winner of the United States junior indoor title, scored a love-set victory over a fourth Montreal player, J. G. Wayland.

C. G. Plimlin of Boston, one of the unknowns, scored the day's biggest upset when he eliminated Marcel Rainville of Montreal, (Canadian Davis cup player, 6-3, 6-3. Rainville has been ill for the past week and was not up to his usual form. Jack Wright of Montreal, veteran leader of the Canadian Davis cup forces, defeated George D. Key of Harvard, 6-0, 6-2.

Another Harvard player, R. Evans, evened things up by defeating C. A. Parker, Montreal, 6-3, 6-2. Allan McMartin of Montreal beat D. F. Niles, Boston, 6-3, 6-2.

Two more American stars turned in victories as easy as those of the quartet who led the parade. John Van Ryn of Philadelphia trounced Emil Durand, Montreal, 6-2, 6-0, and Emmet Pars of Chicago defeated M. Margesson, Toronto, 6-0, 6-2.

Results of other first round matches:

Singles:

Dr. A. W. Ham, Toronto, defeated H. Moran, Montreal, 6-0, 6-0; W. H. Martin, St. Louis, defeated G. A. D'Arcy, Boston, 6-1, 9-7.

Doubles:

Emmet Pars, Chicago, and Marcel Rainville, Montreal, defeated G. A. D'Arcy and P. Spencer, Boston, 6-3, 10-8; Berkeley Bell, New York, and Eddie Jacobs, Baltimore, defeated G. H. Raper and G. H. Stoddard, Montreal, 6-2, 7-5; George Lott, Chicago, and John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, defeated R. Evans and G. D. Key, Harvard, 6-0, 6-1; Dr. A. W. Ham and W. M. Martin, St. Louis, defeated R. J. Dawes and W. M. Hodgson, Montreal, 6-2, 6-4.

A veteran player, famed for his powerful drives, Hunter never has been able to scale the peak of the national championship. On two occasions he was runner-up, carrying the colors of the United States against Henri Cochet of France in 1928 and losing to Tilden in the 1929 finals. He was placed second in the national rankings both years.

Due to the pressure of business and the fact that Tilden, his inseparable companion in tournament play, also was out of action, Hunter took part in few tournaments during the 1930 season. As Tilden's doubles partner, Hunter made an even more impressive record than in singles play. Their big year was 1928, when they won the national doubles championship and the Davis cup doubles.

Fly Guy Improves As Time Wears On

New York, Jan. 21. (P)—As a juvenile Fly Guy was just another race horse, but with age came the result is he has won three of his five starts since turning three-year old.

The consistent colt accounted for his third triumph today, when he carried the silks of E. Schwartz home in front of a classy field of routers in the Roseben purse at the fair grounds. With J. M. Jones in the saddle, Fly Guy easily defeated Donny Johnny, the heavily paid favorite from the Simpson and Doumani stable. Third went to A. Herschfield's Brass Money, an E. R. Bradley castoff. The Schwartz color bearer stepped the mile in 1:40 and paid $940 for a $2 mutual ticket.

Jumpers Will Wear Wings In Ski Meet

New York, Jan. 21. (P)—Something new in ski jumps in which the jumper will wear wings is to be attempted at Buck Hill Falls, Pa., January 31.

Carl Messelt, skiing professional, and Haivor Garos, glider pilot, have constructed a pair of wings to be strapped to their shoulders when taking off on the ski slide. They believe they can soar with the wings at least 500 feet, twice the distance now attained by ski jumpers.

Larger Golf Ball is Better For the 'Dub', Says Association Head

BY ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Jan. 21. (P)—From the window on the twenty-third floor, we could see the steat beating down on the smoky peaks and the chimney pots of midtown Manhattan. 'Cold, miserable weather without but within the discussion turned to golf, the warmth of talk about playing under the palms—and the new ball.

"What's all the shooting for, about this new ball?" inquired stocky, genial and practical-minded Herbert Hartyley Ramsay, one time captain of the Andover golf team, one time manager of the Yale football team, now president of the United States Golf Association.

Years of Study He referred to the new, lighter and larger golf ball, standardized this year by the U. S. G. A.—a sphere that is 1.55 inches in weight, 1.68 inches in diameter as contrasted with the old regulation ball measuring 1.62 inches and weighing 1.62 ounces.

"Somehow or other," continued Ramsay, "many golfers have the idea this new ball has just been brought out of a hat as a trick to make things harder for them. I hear complaints that it cuts off too much distance, I hear it won't putt and does tricks.

"The fact is that the new golf ball adopted by the U. S. G. A. is the result of nearly seven years of exhaustive, disinterested study and development.

"It doesn't handicap the long or the medium short hitter, it gives better lies through the fairway. It is, on the whole, easier to handle around the greens.

"We started to work on this ball in 1922, the year after the 1.62 size was standardized, for the sake of having a uniform ball. Up to that time there was no standard.

"Over a year ago we decided to adopt the new ball, anyway, but served a year's notice so as to allow sufficient time for the manufacturers to make the switch.

Better for 'Dub' "I feel sure that complaints will vanish as soon as the great army of the golfing clan gets to know and appreciate the new ball. It won't cure a hook or a slice or do anything miraculous. It still will be necessary to hit the ball properly to get results but the new size will be found to have many advantages over the old.

"I have been interested in the showing of the professionals since the first of the year. A few complained at first that they lost some distance. They have changed their tune. If you have noticed, the scores at such tournaments as the Los Angeles and Agua Caliente opens have shown about the usual proportions of sub-par performances. In short, the results, so far as the stars are concerned, will be about the same; so far as the average player is concerned, much better."

MAX BAER WILL MEET LOUGHRAN

Bout Is Scheduled For February 6 at New York Gardens

New York, Jan. 21. (P)—Max Baer of California latest heavy weight hero of New York fans and the winner in the now-famous episode of the "short count," has been matched with Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight champion, for his third New York appearance. The bout is scheduled for Madison Square Garden, February 6.

Baer, although defeated the first time he appeared in the Garden ring, caught the fancy of the fans as he dropped a decision to Ernie Schaaf of Boston. This popularity carried him into the boxing comedy which brought him a technical knockout victory over Tom Heeney as before. Jack Dempsey and knockdown Timmer Arthur Donovan failed to get together on the count after Heeney had been pushed through the ropes.

His next bout will give the Californian a different and probably a stiffer test. Loughran, a brilliant boxer but a light hitter, made a great record as a light heavyweight, but so far has failed to make the grand among the bigger fellows. He was knocked out by Jack Sharkey in an early attempt to join the heavyweight title contenders, and since then has had an in-and-out career, fighting the lesser lights, losing a decision to Schaaf among others.

FORMER OFFICE BOY BECOMES BOSS OF FIRM

However that may be, he advanced step by step until, sure enough, some years ago he became chairman of the great company. In the meantime, in addition to becoming interested in the American and Canadian companies mentioned above, he also had become a director of Canadian Explosives Limited, British Dyestuffs Corporation, and the Dunlop Rubber Company. He also foresaw the great future in artificial silks and got in on the ground floor.

Effected Huge Consolidation Then his path crossed that of the late Lord Melchett, who was better known in the financial, industrial and political world as Sir Alfred Mond, Baronet. Mond did not have to struggle like young McGowan. Many years before, his father had emigrated to England from Germany, about the same time that a young Swiss named Brunner did the same thing. They both were chemists, and had experimented in the making of alkalies and sodas.

They formed the little firm of Brunner, Mond and Company, which soon was to expand into a huge concern, manufacturing not only soda, other alkalies and other chemicals, but was also to take a foremost part in the world of nickel and other metals.

Young Alfred Mond went to Cambridge and Edinburgh universities, practiced law for a while and then found the scientific business call inherited from his father too strong. He entered his father's old firm and was soon the head of it, expanding it two and three fold. He went into Parliament and became a cabinet minister under Lloyd George.

In many avenues of trade, Mond found his own concern and that of Nobel crossing each other's paths. He conceived the idea of a huge consolidation and found his chance when he and Sir Harry McGowan happened to be returning from American on the same boat. As they paced the decks on their six days' trip, they hammered out the details of the great Imperial Chemical Industries.

Employed 60,000 in Factories Lord Melchett became chairman and Sir Harry the vice chairman. They formed a perfect team, the tall McGowan and the short stocky Melchett. They housed their main offices in a palace on the Thames. They reached out and grabbed as one of their directors a man of the eminence of the late Lord Birkenhead, who foresaw politics to go into business. They made things hum with their half-billion dollar capital and their 60,000 employees.

Then Lord Melchett suddenly and unexpectedly was stricken with a fatal illness at the age of 62. Now Sir Harry has stepped into the vacant place with young Lord Melchett on one side of him and the great lawyer, administrator and statesman, the Marquess of Reading, on the other.

It is the greatest business post in the British Empire. And it is held by a man who ardently admires American methods. He has proved it not only by investing a lot of his money in American corporations, but by adopting many of their ideas.

To Plant Trees Sault Ste. Marie.—City Manager Henry A. Sherman informed the city commission Monday night that he had accepted the offer of P. W. Robbins, research assistant of the department of Forestry, Michigan State College, to supply 500 to 1,000 tree seedlings for planting in the new City Park west of the pumping station.

Mr. Robbins wrote: I am inquiring about this land, for undoubtedly it has small areas on it which are fully stocked with trees and which should be replanted. If the city has secured this land or has other lands which need planting, I think it would be a good plan to have a group of school children set out trees on such areas in connection with the George Washington bicentennial tree planting program. The planting could be done on Arbor Day in connection with regular Arbor Day school program. I will personally furnish 500 or 1,000 tree seedlings either white pine, red pine, white spruce or Norway spruce if such a project can be carried out.

The future prosperity of many areas in the Upper Peninsula depends upon the young people being taught the necessity of converting the non-agricultural lands into productive forests.

Disorderly Charge Sault Ste. Marie.—Refusing to swear a complaint against Virgil Foster, 24, 411 Ridge street, charging that he runs a disorderly house, Charles DeBoer, local drayman, was this morning subpoenaed in the case as a material witness. Foster, when arrested on a warrant charging operation of a disorderly house under the new city ordinance, pleaded not guilty in police court this morning and the case was adjourned to January 27 for trial.

Deboer claimed that he was getting no action from city officials, and while Judge Ray Gillespie said this morning that DeBoer had refused to swear a formal complaint, DeBoer interviewed the city manager about the matter Monday morning. Mr. Sherman advised that he swear a formal complaint. He refused.

Sent to Prison Bessemer.—John Smith, also known as Schmidt, was sentenced yesterday afternoon to Jackson prison by Judge George O. Driscoll after pleading guilty to a charge of burglary. A six months term was recommended by Judge Driscoll, who gave 15 years as the maximum of his sentence and six months as minimum.

Sith entered the Kelly Brothers' store in Watersmeet on the early morning of Christmas day and stole a quantity of goods, mostly food-stuff.

Albert Kinney of Wakefield township was placed on probation for six months by Judge Driscoll after pleading guilty to an arson charge in three counts. He was charged with burning the dwelling house, hunting lodge, and personal property valued at $50, of Harriet T. Borlund in Watersmeet township Dec. 20.

Power Plant Shows Profit to Newberry

Newberry, Jan. 21 (Special)—"To sell the Newberry Water and Light plant would be to kill the goose that laid the golden egg," appears to be the opinion of many local people when considering the problem confronting the city council of financing a sewage disposal plant, enlarging the electrical output and furnishing enough water for the needs of the community.

Offers from various concerns in this and other states have been made tentatively and the prices quoted has steadily risen, giving grounds for the opinion of the local tax-payer that the community has a profitable business. At the last meeting of the council a proposition was made by a representative of Suhr, Herrymann, Peterson and Suhr, a concern of engineers from Chicago. They offer to take over the installation of a new unit for the plant and to build the disposal plant, financing the improvements on a loan to be repaid from the earnings of the plant.

It is expected that formal proposal will be made at the next meeting of the council on January 26 at which time bids for the sale of the plant will also be opened. The Cleveland Cliff, Sault Edison and two other companies have presented bids.

CHILD STUDY COURSE An intensive course in child study has been outlined by Superintendent C. L. Bystrom for the Newberry Parent-Teacher's Association and the first lesson is now being prepared by the reading circle, a committee of fifteen or more persons, who will give it in the program which will be held on Monday evening next in the high school auditorium.

"Seven Ages of Childhood," by Cabot gives the basis for the study. Three divisions of the subject will be studied at this first meeting.

Hereditry and environment will be considered as one unit of study. Instincts, such as curiosity, fear, anger, play and so on, will comprise the second unit. The last division will be based on the question "Is My Child Ready for School?" The subjects will be given careful study and an attempt will be made to prepare from them a program which will be both instructive and interesting. Dr. E. H. AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT

Thrilling and rare entertainment occupied the screen at the Delft theatre last night where "Africa Speaks," an African adventure film with sound effects opened for a 3 day's run. This film, released by Columbia Pictures, depicts the absorbing adventures of Paul L. Hoelzer, Colorado explorer, on a daring trip through the hitherto unexplored regions of the dark continent.

From a scenic standpoint it is magnificent, while the intimate glimpses of native life are fascinating from a news value.

Apparently Hoelzer and his courageous band managed to penetrate into the deepest jungles of the big continent. Practically every type of native is shown—from the giant Wasara of the French Congo, to the pygmies of the Ituri forest, who seldom reach a height of fifty-seven inches. Religious rites and tribal dances of these natives are among the features of the production. Many of their customs, heretofore a mystery, are revealed.

Forest Products Starting to Move

With the coming of more snow, log movements have picked up in various parts of the peninsula, according to reports from the Chicago & North Western division office at Escanaba. The forest products business started slowly and cautiously this season, no shipments of any consequence going through until January 5. In 1929, shipments started shortly after Christmas.

At present about 15 cars of logs are going through Iron River daily. It is stated that the Wells Lumber company will ship out approximately 1,500 cars this season, as compared with 2,800 last year. A general summary shows a reduction of more than 40 per cent in the quantity of forest product shipments for 1931.

Logs are now being received at the Fort plant at Iron Mountain, some of them coming from Wakefield and Watersmeet. Pulp wood, chemical wood and mine lagging will make up a large portion of the forest product movement this year. It is thought likely that pulp shipments will not drop much more than 20 or 25 per cent because of the fact that the paper industry has held up fairly well under the economic pressure.
