

ACCIDENTS FATAL TO TWO HUNTERS

SENATE SIFTS WATSON, DAVIS STOCK DEALS

BOTH HAD PROFITED ON SUGAR HOLDINGS, FOUND

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP)—The searchlight of senatorial inquiry was turned today on the 1928 stock investments of two of the senate's own members, Watson of Indiana and Davis of Pennsylvania, disclosing evidence that both had made "paper profits" on sugar stock they purchased on credit.

At the time of the purchases, Davis still was secretary of labor in Coolidge's cabinet and Watson was a candidate against Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination.

The evidence did not show that either actually turned his paper profit into cash, both taking securities instead. It was testified that in 1929 the sugar interests from whom the stock was acquired became active in advocating a higher sugar tariff.

Watson, who is the Republican senate leader, said in a statement tonight that his transaction was purely a private matter, that neither the non-interest-bearing note he gave in payment nor the securities he received as a profit had any present value, and that the score remained "nothing-to-nothing." Senator Davis was absent from Washington.

Both Made Profits The testimony was given before the senate lobby committee, which had been called to investigate a report of a $100,000 payment to a senator by lobbyists for a sugar tariff boost.

A committee investigator, John Holland, said on the stand that he had found evidence that Watson and Davis each was at one time about $2,000 to the good on paper on deals engineered by B. G. Dahlberg, president of a number of sugar companies.

Holland also said he had been told by one of Dahlberg's associates of a conversation about sending $10,000 to Davis, but could find no record any such payment really was made.

The investigator further asserted that former Governor Alfred E. Smith, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Senator Moses of New Hampshire, were investors in Dahlberg's companies, but had paid cash for their securities.

In brief the Davis transaction was described by Holland as follows:

Davis signed a note for $22,500 in April, 1928, for 250 preferred and 500 common shares of

Federal Bond Issue For Completion of Waterways Favored

St. Louis, Nov. 23 (AP)—Following the stormiest session in its history, the Mississippi Valley association late today voted unanimously to urge congress to authorize a federal bond issue for the rapid completion of the inland waterway system of the United States.

The association named no amount for the bond issue, but the sum was variously set by speakers at from $400,000,000 to $500,000,000, which they considered necessary to "complete the barge channel system."

The debate on the proposal followed a plea by Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota to adopt the bond issue as an association policy. The Minnesota senator told the delegates the use of a complete system of inland waterways would bring in an additional $31,000,000 in federal income taxes yearly, enough to pay the interest on and amortize a federal bond issue of $800,000,000.

Six-Year-Old Girl Accidentally Shot

Chicago, Nov. 23 (AP)—Caught in the cross fire of police and bank robbers engaged in a gun battle on a suburban street today, Jane Whitehall, 6, one of a group of kindergarten children, was shot and wounded.

The children, six in all, were on a holiday shopping trip in the company of Miss Peggy Page, teacher, when seven bandits rushed to the street from the Western Springs State bank after robbing the institution of approximately $5,000. Chief of Police Clarence Burg, who had been summoned to the scene, opened fire and was answered by a machine gun fusillade.

Jane was struck down with a slug through her leg and one of the robbers was dropped by Chief Burg but the latter was dragged into a car by companions. All of them escaped.

Stolen Deer

But State Police "Track" Animal to Straits Of Mackinac

Newberry, Nov. 23 (Special)—Just one hour after a complaint had been made to the local state police that a buck had been stolen from a camp near Welch the deer was reported found by a state trooper at St. Ignace.

Minar Rowe of Detroit, hunting near Welch, had hung up a buck several days ago. Last night about seven o'clock he found it was gone. As a covered truck had just pulled out for the straits he went to Seney and called the Newberry police. He could tell nothing about the two men and not much about the truck but he did know his deer. It had a broken antler, had been shot through the stomach and had a broken hind leg. Local police phoned the story to the straits and one hour later came word that the deer and the two men had been picked up. Sgt. Keane and Deputy Sheriff Fred Young left on Monday morning. The men whose names have not yet been reported, will be taken to Manistique for trial.

NO NEW CLUES IN CROSS CASE

Investigators Indicate Probe May Extend Into Lower Michigan

Iron Mountain, Nov. 23 (Special)—Although from 25 to 30 persons residing or camping in the vicinity of the old Calumet mine location near Felch in Dickinson county were questioned Saturday and yesterday relative to the death of Carrol Cross, 32, of Niles, Mich., whose body was found Friday morning in the woods of that district, authorities today had developed no definite clue as to the circumstances of the man's death.

Previous disclosures, however, and the added statement of Dr. L. E. Hamlin, of Norway, to the effect that at least three of the four wounds about the man's head could have been caused by some instrument other than a bullet, strengthened the belief of the investigating officials that Cross met with foul play.

Marquette, county and state officials are pressing the inquiry, and indicated this morning that it may reach into lower Michigan. Unfavorable weather today prevented a more thorough inspection of the area where the body was found. It is planned to sift the earth in an effort to find whatever bullets may have been fired at Cross and thus determine their possible source.

Cross' body was taken Saturday night to his home at Niles by M. A. Rutherford, undertaker and coroner there.

Question Hunters Continuing the investigation which began immediately after the discovery of the body Friday, state and county officials on Saturday went back to the Calumet mine location and questioned the members of various hunting parties in the immediate district. Included among the officials were Paul Rahn, prosecutor; A. J. Hayden, sergeant of state police;

Better Conditions For Milk Industry In Michigan Seen

Detroit, Nov. 23 (AP)—B. F. Beach, executive secretary of the Michigan Milk Producers' association, in a statement for the Associated Press today expressed the opinion that a "healthier condition" in the milk industry in Michigan will gradually become apparent in the next few months.

"This does not necessarily mean that producers will soon receive pre-depression prices, nor that consumers will pay high retail prices," Mr. Beach said. "Rather, it means a better adjustment of supply and demand."

1,200 Men Return To Work In Mills

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 23 (AP)—Idle for a month or more, 1,200 men went back to work today in the steel mills in the Wheeling district and Ohio valley.

MACHINE GUNS LINK DRUGGAN WITH SLAYINGS

WEAPONS MAY HAVE BEEN USED IN MASSACRE

Chicago, Nov. 23 (AP)—Two sub-machine guns found in a recent raid on "the apartment of Terry Druggan, gangster and 'public enemy,'" were attached today for Coroner Frank J. Walsh to determine by ballistics whether they were among the weapons used in the St. Valentine day massacre of seven George "Bugs" Moran gangsters in 1929.

Police said the seized weapons were similar to one found some time ago in the home of Fred "Killer" Burke near Benton Harbor, Mich., and identified as one of the weapons used in the wholesale slayings.

Will Examine Guns Seizure of the two guns was not disclosed until today when Judge Michael Feinberg ordered them held for Coroner Walsh "to prevent someone else getting them." The coroner said he would have them examined at the Northwestern university "crime laboratory" for possible evidence through ballistics that they were used in the Moran gang massacre.

Druggan Under Suspicion The guns were found, officials said, when police raided Druggan's North Side apartment recently on orders of Judge Feinberg to search for hidden assets of a failed bank.

Coroner Walsh's predecessor, Dr. Herman N. Bundenes, who closed the massacre inquest last week, frequently said he believed the septuple slaying had been accomplished with several weapons of the type seized in Druggan's apartment.

Judge Feinberg's order marked the first instance in which the name of Druggan had been drawn into the investigation of the deaths of the seven men who were lined up along a wall in a North Clark street garage and mowed down by gun fire.

Members of the Capone syndicate, Fred Burke, now serving a life term in Michigan for murder; members of the Egan Rats underworld combine of St. Louis and numerous other criminals were questioned in connection with the murder but at no time during the two years investigation which was marked "closed" last week by Bundenes, had it been disclosed that Druggan was under suspicion.

Coroner Walsh, who assumed his duties Saturday, refused to disclose what information, if any, he had implicating the former South Side baron, who is at liberty on bail pending an appeal on his income tax violation conviction.

EAST IS WARM, WEST IS COLD

New Weather Records in Both Sections Are Established

Kansas City, Nov. 23 (AP)—The east basked in record winter warmth today, while November ruled the west.

New Englanders laid top coats aside; in the Rocky Mountain states residents bundled up to shovel snow in blizzardous weather. Dandelions blossomed in New York, around Cleveland flowers were out and a second fruit crop was being harvested. In contrast, smudge pots were fired in the citrus groves of southern California to fight off frost.

Temperatures in the 70's recorded in many cities of the eastern half of the country were countered by sub-zero readings in Wyoming and other mountain states.

One of the most unusual weather conditions in years, checkedmate winter's attempt to chase Indian summer from the east. A dividing line extending roughly from Duluth, Minn., to Abilene, Texas, repelled the normal movement of snow and cold from the west.

Records Shattered On the line of scurrage, a trough of low barometric pressure, there was a "squeeze" as the storm attempted to buck into the midwest against an area of high pressure carrying over Virginia and the Carolinas. Heavy rains fell, causing streams to overflow low.

State Police Divided Into Eight Districts Effective December 1

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 23 (AP)—A reorganization of Michigan state police, providing for eight zone commanders clothed with full responsibility for their districts, was announced today by Oscar G. Olander, commissioner of public safety. Heretofore, 19 posts have reported to headquarters in Lansing. The new system, which becomes effective December 1, zones the state so all posts will report to the district commander, who in turn will be held responsible by the commissioner.

Olander believes the plan will facilitate movements of state police to scenes of crimes and will be advantageous to the organization in other ways.

Operation Cures Hiccough Victim Mansfield, O., Nov. 23 (AP)—Ira A. King seemed cured today of the hiccoughs from which he has suffered for fifteen days.

For the first time he was able to rest undisturbed, eat without hindrance and talk without interruption. Physicians expressed confidence his malady had been overcome.

Relief came with an operation, performed after X-ray revealed an infection of the gall bladder. The gall bladder was removed yesterday.

King, 58-year-old garageman, began to hic-cough about two weeks ago. The first attack was mild, but within a few days he coughed seized him, sleep, eat, nor talk, could neither, sleep, eat, nor talk, only lie helpless in bed, wracked often seven times a minute.

Andy Got His Buck-- Amos Only Got Back

Iron Mountain, Nov. 23 (Special)—Amos and Andy, well known radio entertainers, left Crystal Falls last night on the Milwaukee road train after spending the day hunting with a party of sportsmen. Andy, or Charles Correll, bagged a large buck, but his partner, Amos, or Freeman Gosden, was unable to get even a shot.

William Erickson, commodore of the Chicago Boat club, Howard Balch and Dr. H. A. Hooper, all of Chicago, arrived here on Saturday in advance of Amos and Andy, who came by train Sunday morning. The train was held in Chicago for 20 minutes Saturday evening to allow the pair to complete their broadcast. At Sagola they were met by a delegation of men who drove them to the hunting camp of Balsam, near the R. C. Moore logging camps. The hunting lodge is owned by W. J. Reynolds, Harry Bradley, Tom Aberly, of Crystal Falls, and Paul Houliout of Alpha.

GEORGE VANIK RELATES TALE OF HARDSHIPS

BAG DESCENDS NEAR DEAN LAKE IN ONTARIO

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 23 (AP)—Completely recovered from the effects of his thrilling 430-mile balloon flight from Cleveland to the wilderness north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., George Vanik, 25-year-old Cleveland balloonist, arrived here today with a story of having been buffeted by Lake Huron blizzards and menaced by roving timber wolves.

Vanik landed in the woods near Dean Lake, Ont., Friday morning. He left Cleveland at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, passed over Sarnia, Ont., two hours later and then lost all sight of land. Driven north over Lake Huron by blizzards, he apparently passed over some of the islands which fringe Georgian Bay before reaching the Canadian mainland.

Vanik said he did not plan to salvage the 35,000-cubic-foot balloon as it was practically a total loss. It belonged to George Hineman, his flying companion since their university days, he said.

Describes Experience (The following story, describing his experiences on his balloon flight from Cleveland which ended Friday when he came down in the timberlands near Dean Lake, Ont., was written for the Associated Press today by George Vanik, 25-year-old Cleveland balloonist.)

BY GEORGE VANIK Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 23 (AP)—Although I fought with ice, snow and sleet for two days and lived on two sandwiches, a banana and a couple of doughnuts while making a 20-mile hike to civilization after my balloon came down in some burned over land near Dean Lake, Ont., I feel swell. . . . But it seemed good to get out of those woods.

I left Edgewater Park, Cleveland, at 8:30 p. m. Thursday. There was no visibility over the lake and the signs of Cleveland disappeared rapidly. After sailing in a northwesterly direction for two hours I entered Canada.

Council Approves Six Day Working Week In Russia

Moscow, Nov. 23 (AP)—Abandonment of the five-day uninterrupted week, which Soviet Russia adopted throughout the nation last year in an effort to speed up production, and substitution of a six-day interrupted week was authorized tonight by the council of people's commissars.

Working hours were reduced at the same time from 6½ hours to 6 hours daily to compensate for the loss of time off.

The measure, which becomes effective December 1, the decree explained, was aimed at "correcting defects" encountered in the uninterrupted week.

The new working week will apply to all enterprises and offices, except those directly connected with serving the cultural and living needs of the population, such as cooperative stores, dining halls and transportation.

One of the most significant features of the new ruling was the introduction of a common day off. Under the five day week, days of varied according to shifts, individual preferences and industries.

Four Men Killed In Train Wreck

Lexington, Mo., Nov. 23 (AP)—Without discovering additional bodies railroad workmen toiled today to clear away the wrecked "million dollar livestock special" in which four men lost their lives, fifteen were injured and thirteen valuable horses were killed near here last night.

Coroner Edmund Lisack of Lafayette county, said no inquest would be held.

BALLOONIST SAFE

Falling into wild country north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., after a 430-mile balloon flight from Cleveland, George Milford Vanik, 25, was reported safe at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. He is vice president of the Cleveland Balloon Club, and took part in the 1930 international balloon races.

GAME WARDEN IS ATTACKED

Peter Arseneau, Munising Officer, Slugged Near Gwinn

Munising, Nov. 23 (Special)—Peter Arseneau, conservation officer, was attacked near his hunting camp south of Gwinn Sunday by Toivo Koski of Munising when Arseneau attempted to place Koski under arrest on a charge of shooting rifle bullets into the conservation officer's automobile. It is alleged that Toivo Koski aided by his brother Leonard clubbed Arseneau and then escaped into the woods. They were later arrested by state police and taken to Marquette for hearing on the charges.

The Koski brothers were arraigned in justice court at Marquette today and demanded examination. They were held in jail in default of $500 bond each.

Arseneau, it was learned, found the two bullet holes in his car on Sunday morning. Near the automobile the officer found one of the discharged 30-30 cartridges. Arseneau immediately suspected Koski of firing the shots in view of the fact that Arseneau had previously had trouble with the man and had ordered him to keep away from the Arseneau hunting camp near Gwinn.

The conservation officer went to the Koski camp and attempted to place Toivo Koski under arrest. Koski resisted, and assisted by his brother, clubbed Arseneau and then escaped into the woods. Detroit hunters who were camping nearby were attracted by the noise and came on the scene just as the Koski brothers were fleeing into the woods. The Detroit men picked up Arseneau and took him to Gwinn for treatment.

Find Murderer Had Committed Suicide

Eagle River, Wis., Nov. 23 (AP)—A posse's search for the slayer of Michael Stachik, 45-year-old farmer, ended today with the finding of the body of Brono Piterlik. He had committed suicide.

Stachik and Piterlik had quarreled over the management of a farm which Piterlik had turned over to Stachik and his wife on the understanding they were to care for him the rest of his life.

Stachik's body, pierced by shotgun slugs, was found yesterday after his house and farm buildings had been set afire. A posse discovered Piterlik's body today near the Eagle River airport after an all-night search. Piterlik had been shot through the heart and by his side was a revolver. The shotgun used in killing Stachik leaned against a nearby stump.

Campbell of Detroit, head of the committee, said Detroit dealers will cooperate to the fullest extent with the reorganized gasoline tax division of the department of state.

ENSIGN YOUTH IS FOUND DEAD BY SEARCHERS

CHARLES KEDDLE OF NEW HUDSON DIES AT NEWBERRY

Sought since Saturday when he went out hunting and failed to return, the body of Joseph Mauber, 16, was found Sunday in a ditch near the railroad tracks at Ensign, his head partially blown off by a charge from his own shotgun. From circumstances reported by those who found the body, it was apparent that the boy had used the gun for a support in crossing the ditch and the gun had discharged accidentally. The charge entered the mouth and shattered the skull.

The sheriff's department and the coroner were summoned in the case, and Dr. G. C. Bartley, the coroner, found that death had been accidental. Officers said that FIFTH ACCIDENT Newberry, Nov. 23 (Special)—The fifth hunting accident was reported here today when Charles Button, 22 year old hunter from Farmington was brought to the local hospital with a badly shattered hand. Button received the wound when his gun accidentally discharged with the young man's hand over the muzzle of the weapon.

A pump gun found at the side of the body contained two shells, one empty, and the other loaded with buckshot. The fatality was the first one of the 1931 hunting season in Delta county.

Joseph Mauber was born January 31, 1915, in Marquette, Mich. The family moved to Ensign a few years ago and lived on a farm. The survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mauber, four brothers and four sisters: Antone, John, Jr., Matt, William, Anna, Stephanie, and Ed Emma, all at home.

The body was taken to the Alto Funeral Home and was removed to the family home at Ensign Monday afternoon. Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at nine o'clock at St. Charles' church in Rapid River with Rev. Fr. O. J. LaMothe as celebrant at the requiem high mass.

KEDDLE DIES

Newberry, Nov. 23 (Special)—Charles Keddle, aged 51, died at a local hospital here this morning as a result of a hunting accident north of Seney on November 21 when he received a bullet through the body. The accident happened about 8:30 near the Goodman Cedar company camp three miles northeast of Seney on the pine plains and according to the reports given officials the gun from which the bullet was fired was in the hands of Robert McDonald of Grand Marais. However, the bullet was recovered from the man's body and showed signs of being deflected so there is a chance that some other gun did the damage.

A large number of men were hunting in that locality and a number of guns were discharged at the same time. Keddle stepped

NATION VIEWS VOTE IN TEXAS

Special Election Might Decide Balance of Power in House

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 23 (AP)—Seven Democrats and one Republican, candidates for the congressional seat of the late Harry M. Wurzbach, Republican, tonight drew the attention of state and national political leaders.

Upon results of the special election tomorrow perhaps hinges the balance of power in the house of representatives.

Democratic leaders had pleaded vainly with the members of their party seeking the post to agree upon one man lest a split vote gives a Republican victory.

Of this group, Carl Wright Johnson of San Antonio and Richard M. Kleberg, Democrats, and Charles W. Anderson of San Antonio, Republican, were regarded as the strongest.

Ben L. Maloney, war veteran and Democrat, withdrew today in favor of Johnson and Dr. A. A. Luther, San Antonio Republican, withdrew in favor of Anderson.

Lines Redrawn

Democratic candidates, other than Johnson and Kleberg, are John M. Mallinck, William R. Fox, Spencer E. Bomar, Thomas B. Smiley and Harry M. Peabody. Old political lines were being redrawn and the election presented a novel situation in the district which sent Wurzbach, a Republican, to congress term after term, in spite of opposition he encountered from Democrats and the "regular" Republican chieftains.

In the present election, which has been preceded by a necessarily brief campaign, none of the candidates has a personal following such as Wurzbach enjoyed, although Anderson was Wurzbach's campaign manager.

The only issue raised was as to prohibition, Johnson and Kleberg declaring for modification of dry laws and Anderson stating he favored enforcement of the constitution and laws of the United States.

Two Men Injured In Auto Accident Here Last Evening

Here Last Evening

James Wilbur 59, 1213 Ludington street, and James Olson, 68, were injured last evening when they were struck by an automobile driven by Gilbert Lachapelle, 418 Ludington street. The accident occurred at the intersection of South Eighth street and Ludington about 8:45 p. m.

Wilbur and Olson were crossing east on Eighth street at the intersection. Lachapelle's car, turning south on Eighth street, struck the men as they were crossing. Lachapelle stopped immediately and brought the injured men to the hospital, later reporting to police.

It was learned last evening that Wilbur is suffering three broken ribs, shock and bruises. He is in a semi-conscious condition. Olson is suffering shock and bruises. Both men are expected to recover.

lands and flooding basements in parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Iowa.

Records from late November heat were shattered through the east, while along the Pacific coast it was just the opposite. The 28-degree reading at Sacramento, Cal., was the lowest since 1850; San Francisco experienced 39, one degree above the all-time November low. The minimum last night at Los Angeles was 40 and at Tacoma, Wash., 25, the coldest in November since 1911.

Some damage was done to unprotected citrus groves by freezing temperatures in southern California. Smuggling was resorted to on a big scale today to combat frost forecast for tonight.

In the topsy turvy situation this year, Chicago and Detroit have gone without snow or frost thus far.

Most of the Rocky Mountain region was still being pelted by snow today, adding to the heavy white blanket deposited since Saturday. The covering generally measured from five to ten inches with much deeper drifts in the higher altitudes.

Twenty-four motorists trapped by a blizzard for twenty hours between Salida and Wellsville, Colo., came through safely. Four feet of snow was reported around Salida.

Voorhies Suggests Township Taxes Be Put In Trust Fund

Put In Trust Fund

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 23 (AP)—A suggestion that township tax collections be deposited in banks as trust funds in cases where depositories bonds cannot be obtained has been made to county prosecuting attorneys by Paul W. Voorhies, attorney general.

The attorney general announced today that he intervened in a court case instituted in Tecumseh in which the supreme court is asked to rule whether such deposits actually constitute trusts.

The postpaid taken by Voorhies is that such trust funds constitute preferred claims against banks. Thus the township tax funds would be a first obligation upon the bank. In many townships it has been impossible to secure the depository bond to protect tax deposits, as required by law. The statutory demand for such bonds is mandatory, but in cases of absolute inability to obtain the bond the trust fund plan may have to be resorted to, Voorhies said.

According to the attorney general township treasurers may proceed with the collection of taxes, in his opinion, under the trust fund plan.

TURKEY, POTATOES GIVEN TO HOOVER

Given to Hoover

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP)—If anything is lacking from President Hoover's Thanksgiving dinner table it won't be lots of turkey and it won't be plenty of potatoes.

An extra large helping of both, in fact, a growing 30 pounds of one and a full 40 bushels of the other, arrived at the White House today in what might be called their native state. Appropriate ceremonies attended each gift.

The potatoes came from Maine. They were borne in a massive, century-old cart, drawn by two prize oxen, guided by the expert good of Young Len Hawkes of Cumberland Center. With him was Frank P. Washburn, Maine state commissioner of agriculture, who explained the growers of his state and Governor Gardner.

HUNTS ANCIENT TOMB

London—Howard Carter, famous Egyptologist, is on the hunt again. His success a few years ago in finding the tomb of the ancient King Tutankhamen, has spurred him on a search for the tomb of Alexander the Great, King of Macedonia about 356 B. C. Carter believes he will find Alexander's tomb at Sili or Pompeopolis, Asia Minor.

Southern Sugar company. The note was made out to the Almar Corporation, one of Dahlberg's private companies, and the stock was sent back as collateral.

When Dahlberg proposed this agreement with Davis, he said: "This would be a special deal, however, and would be just a 'tween us'."

In September, 1929, Dahlberg notified Davis he could sell the stock for a profit, and with the secretary's consent, cancelled the note and sent 250 shares in Southern Sugar as profit. This, together with dividends he had received, made a paper profit of $8,437, but Davis did not convert it into cash, Holland said.

An officer of one of the companies told him, Holland said, that while Davis made a profit "it was not exactly a case of the Almar corporation being a philanthropist," because the company also made a profit on the deal.

Before this other transaction, Davis in 1925 purchased 830 preferred and 265 common shares of Celotex stock, another of Dahlberg's organizations, for which he paid $94,775 cash. This stock is now selling for below what the senator paid.

AGENTS ARREST RUM RUNNERS

60 in Crew and 5,000 Cases of Liquor, Tanker Seized

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—After firing a round of shots over the heads of 60 men engaged in unloading 5,000 cases of liquor from the oil tanker Raritan Sun today, federal prohibition agents closed in, seized the liquor, confiscated the tanker and arrested the men without resistance. The tanker was at Bushey's dry dock, Brooklyn.

Customs officials valued the liquor $350,000, and the vessel at $200,000. Eight trucks also seized were valued at $50,000.

The Raritan Sun is a 533-ton vessel owned by the Sun Oil company. Charles R. Innes, maritime executive of the Sun Oil company, Philadelphia, said the seizure of the tanker was the "result of cooperation between the federal government and the Sun Oil company." He added that the owners of the vessel were working with the government to prevent members of the crews from transporting liquor.

George M. Brewer, solicitor of the port, said the Sun Oil company "obviously was without guilt" in connection with the transported liquor.

The raid was launched simultaneously from shore and water. As patrol boats approached the dry dock after a voyage from Philadelphia, agents blocked all exits from the dock. Waiting until two trucks had been loaded with liquor, the agents fired a volley over the heads of the men and then closed in. No weapons were found on any of the prisoners.

JOHN WATSON, DAVIS STOCK DEALS

When Dahlberg proposed this agreement with Davis, he said: "This would be a special deal, however, and would be just a 'tween us'."

In September, 1929, Dahlberg notified Davis he could sell the stock for a profit, and with the secretary's consent, cancelled the note and sent 250 shares in Southern Sugar as profit. This, together with dividends he had received, made a paper profit of $8,437, but Davis did not convert it into cash, Holland said.

An officer of one of the companies told him, Holland said, that while Davis made a profit "it was not exactly a case of the Almar corporation being a philanthropist," because the company also made a profit on the deal.

Before this other transaction, Davis in 1925 purchased 830 preferred and 265 common shares of Celotex stock, another of Dahlberg's organizations, for which he paid $94,775 cash. This stock is now selling for below what the senator paid.

TOKYO WARNS THREAT OF WAR

Flame Will Spread If Kai Shek Joins Chang

(By The Associated Press)

Threat of "hot war" in Manchuria in event President Chiang Kai-Shek of China combines his forces with the Manchurian troops of Chang Hsueh-Liang, as indicated in reports, came from Tokyo today.

A Peiping dispatch to the London Daily Mail said Japanese troops in Manchuria were moving southward toward Chinchow with a view to crushing all military and political forces hostile to Japan.

A new proposal to deal with the Manchurian conflict was evolved yesterday in Paris.

It contained only a vague provision for the withdrawal of Japanese troops and so was expected to prove unsatisfactory to China.

Dr. Alfred Sze, China's spokesman, telegraphed the proposal to the government after reaffirming to Aristide Briand, council chairman, China's demand for prompt evacuation.

The Tokyo government instructed its Washington ambassador to reassure the United States that Japan had not violated the nine-power treaty, the Brinck-Kollogg pact or the covenant of the League of Nations.

The ambassador had informed Tokyo the United States was evidently concerned about Japanese military activity in the Tientsin region.

Tokyo showed renewed apprehension about reports of heavy Chinese troop concentration at Chinchow.

passing over Sarnia. That was the last time I saw land. Right after that the fog closed in all around. It rained much of the time and it was mighty cold. I lost all sense of direction.

Bag Hits Blizzards

I sent the balloon up to 8,500 feet to escape the rain and ran into a blizzard which made things worse than ever. Ice weighted down the bag so I tossed out two bags of ballast and went up again. Later the balloon came back down and all warm air melted the ice. It all came off at once—about forty pounds of it—and some of it hit me on the head.

At 5 a. m. Friday I was riding 12,000 feet up and had tossed out 10 bags of ballast checking the balloon. I had no idea where I was.

A little later I came down through the clouds for the first time and saw nothing but water below me. I was about 600 feet up then. After a bit I saw an island but I did not land there when I saw it was deserted. There was a 25-mile-an-hour wind and my drag rope which I had paid out was pulling along through the water. The wind made the basket whip about like a pendulum.

Finally I cut off the drag rope which weighed about 150 pounds and shot up to 15,000 feet where I ran into another blizzard. The water in my instruments froze up so I took my altimeter and crawled under a blanket. There was about three inches of snow in the basket.

After a while I came down again and looked out to see a chain of apparently deserted islands. I decided to keep going till the gas gave out and finally I found myself over the mainland. It looked deserted, nothing but swamps and burned over timber. At 10 a. m. Friday the balloon came down in some trees. We struck at a speed of about 30 miles an hour and I found myself about seven feet off the ground. I thought I was somewhere near Alpena.

Wolf Comes Near

Cutting down the basket I crawled in and slept for the first time in 31 hours. Once I woke up and saw what I thought was a dog but it turned out to be a wolf. I got out my hunting knife, the only weapon I had, just in case he came back again.

Friday afternoon I started out to walk toward some settlement. There was nothing but timberland and I made my way by sighting from hill to hill. I was getting pretty hungry about then and had to take up some of the slack in my belt. Late Saturday I sighted a road and made for it. When I got there I fell down. I had wrenched my shoulder in landing. A farmer heard my calls for help and took me to his house where he gave me something to eat. I must have walked about 20 miles. After getting some sleep we drove in to the Canadian Sault.

FEAR IS CAUSE OF DEPRESSION

Escanaba Rotary Club Hears Rector Urge More Confidence

That uncontrolled fear is one of the outstanding causes of the present world depression and that the Thanksgiving spirit, with its self analysis and its inventory of blessings enjoyed in the past year, should do much toward the replacement of fear by confidence in the future, was the thought expressed yesterday by Rev. Thomas Foster, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, speaking before the Escanaba Rotary club yesterday, at the annual Thanksgiving meeting of that club. Mr. Foster pointed out that it is a lack of confidence in one's fellow men that engenders suspicion and fear and gave it as his belief that the passing of time has proven the unreasonableness of suspicion and is resulting in a breaking down of that mass fear which brought on a world crisis, from which we are just beginning to emerge.

Rev. Foster's address was a thoughtful presentation of a most interesting subject and closely held the attention of his audience throughout.

As a portion of their annual observance of this week's holiday, members of the Escanaba Rotary club yesterday enjoyed their annual Thanksgiving banquet, arranged under the direction of Emil Grabowski.

from behind a stump as a buck ran past just in time to receive the bullet which passed in through the side and upwards puncturing the bowel in eight places. Difficulty was experienced in getting him out of the woods. A car was taken in and a crew of men went ahead of it cutting the brush and easing it over the rough places. It was 1:30 o'clock before they reached Newberry. He was taken to the local hospital where an operation of repair was done, during the afternoon his condition continued to grow worse, death coming at 9:50 on Monday morning.

With Keddle was Mel Rudy of Detroit and Thomas Hughes of New Hudson. They arrived at camp on November 13. On Sunday morning Keddle got his buck and on Monday a black bear fell before his rifle. Rudy had just shot his buck when the call came that his friend was hurt and the deer was left in the woods where it fell.

Mrs. Keddle and her two daughters arrived on Sunday from their home in New Hudson and also a relative, a Dr. Morrill from Saint Clare Shores. Funeral plans have not yet been made.

Jack Gets Going After Poor Start

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 23 (AP)—After a slow start, Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight champion, wound up a four-round exhibition bout tonight with Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., in whirlwind style to gain a newspaper decision. Dempsey weighed 193; Hunt, 197.

Way to Get At a Cold Is Through the Bowels

As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like Cascara. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascarets.

Remember this when you catch cold: whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're head-achy, bilious, constipated. Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime?

HUNTING SEASON SIDELIGHTS

A HIAWATHA man is the first in the state to be arrested under the new law, which provides that hunters, who have been convicted of a game law violation within the last three years, are denied the privilege of hunting deer.

The constitutionality of the new law was questioned after its enactment, but Attorney General Paul W. Voorhies gave the opinion that the legislature was entirely within its rights.

The average individual has a conscience that makes him reluctant to perjure himself. Undoubtedly, most hunters coming under these restrictions, will prefer to go hunting without a license.

The mysterious shooting of Carroll Cross of Niles, who was hunting in the vicinity of Felch, has aroused considerable speculation, among the many persons interested in the case, as to just how the man met his death.

Investigating officers have discounted the suicide theory, and are certain the man was murdered. The motive, however, cannot be determined.

On Nov. 24 1917, two United States destroyers, the Fanning and the Nicholson, sank a submarine, but rescued all of its crew.

The periscope of the submarine was sighted by Coxswain David D. Loomis, lookout on the Fanning. The Fanning immediately made for the spot the periscope had been sighted, and dropped a depth charge.

The Nicholson sped up to the spot, noticing that the submarine was heading for a merchant ship in the convoy.

The submarine came to the surface and the Nicholson and the Fanning opened fire with their stern guns. Then the Fanning opened fire with her bow gun.

The crew of the submarine came on its deck, holding up hands. Presently the submarine sank, and all the crew swam to the Fanning and were picked up.

A new kind of a bit and run coward was uncovered in Menominee county last week when a hunter accidentally shot a farmer while the latter was cutting brush.

PROFESSIONALISM

HARVARD UNIVERSITY athletics authorities have barred from Harvard Stadium a radio announcer who recently referred to the playing of a Harvard football star as "putrid."

This is quite true; and yet the growing tendency on the part of announcers, sports writers and the general public to treat college football players as professionals seems to us to be at least as much the colleges' fault as anyone's.

MEXICO'S NAVY

A RECENT dispatch from Mexico City indicates that the Mexican government is considering abandoning its navy entirely.

But it would hardly be correct to say that abandonment of the navy would represent a step toward disarmament. After all, Mexico has very little need for a navy, and the Mexican government is simply recognizing the fact.

GEMS OF PERIL

CHAPTER XXXV

MR. HENRY BATES, detective, stood for a moment deep in thought. What he had just seen puzzled him greatly, apparently, and his watchers knew he would never rest until the meaning of those events was clear.

"Now what," he mused aloud, "what makes The Fly act dopey like that? Just looking at a courthouse steeple?"

"Bates jerked himself up. 'Well,' he said briskly, 'I'll be toddling along. I'll tell you what I find in here—if I find anything.'"

"But—" he paused again, impressively, in the doorway. "I'll say this much right now—you're not going to see much more of him around here. He's got the fitters over something. I look for him to take a run-out on us, maybe tonight. I'll bet if you were to go up to his room right now, you'd find him packing his grips."

"Down came Mr. Jupiter's stockinged feet. 'You think so?'"

"I do," it sounded like an oath. Mary drew a deep breath. "Well," she said resolutely, "here's one thing that won't go with him!" She held out the bracelet.

"Why, that's—Mamma's!" Mr. Jupiter exclaimed hoarsely. "Where did you get it?"

"Mary told. As he listened, blinking from her to the bracelet and back again, a light hardly sane came into the old man's eyes and spots of red burned in his faded cheeks. He reached for the necklace and his hand shook."

"Here, you don't want that, boss," Bates intercepted it, quickly, palmed it and handed it back to Mary, winking significantly as he did so. "You'd better put that in the safe, sister. You're liable to lose it if you leave it lying around your room tonight."

"You'll have to take a chance on your jury," Bates said. "If he can do it, he can make that he'd beat the murder rap—"

"He mustn't!" He mustn't! Mary cried. "We can't let him get away with that!"

"Well, well," Bates soothed her, drawing her into the hallway. "It's not likely." He called a cheerful goodby to the old man, who was pacing about, obviously excited.

"Mary!" Jupiter called out sharply after her. "You need any money for anything?" Mary felt to lose it if you leave it lying around your room tonight." He tried to mask the quick alarm in his eyes as he added "Does The Fly know you've got that?"

"No." BATES drew a breath. "Better lock it up before he finds out. He turned to Jupiter, who had relaxed a bit but was still white as a sheet. "There's your case. You can send him up on that, and if you take my advice you'll do it, and not monkey around any longer."

"You're liable to get ugly if he has any suspicion you're laying a fist into his open palm. 'Listen! It never struck me he'd be fool enough to keep the stuff on him. But if he hasn't disposed of it yet, then maybe it's in his room. When he's on the roof tonight with you, Miss Harkness, I'll make a search. If it's there, we'll wait right there and nab him when he comes down. If it isn't—"

"Nab him anyhow," Jupiter finished. "By God, I'll make him eat that bracelet, chain and all!"

"He couldn't claim, could he," Mary suggested. "That Eddie did it for him and turned the stuff over to him? I want to see him sent up, but I don't want there to be any doubt, either, about whether it was he, or Eddie, who did the killing—"

"You'll have to take a chance on your jury," Bates said. "If he can do it, he can make that he'd beat the murder rap—"

"He mustn't!" He mustn't! Mary cried. "We can't let him get away with that!"

"Well, well," Bates soothed her, drawing her into the hallway. "It's not likely." He called a cheerful goodby to the old man, who was pacing about, obviously excited.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE YES MAN Well, I'll be glad when this week's over. Of course, I, too, am quite a rover. For business takes me out a bit. And other things, I must admit. But now the case is quite another. Because, you see, this week it's Mother. When I'm away, she gets along. But now—now ev'rything is wrong.

She had to go to see that baby. She simply had to go—well, maybe. But, when I saw her go away. I knew she simply had to stay. There's no one here to answer doorbells. The front door, back door, three or four bells. And ev'ryone is on the phone. Excepting any I have known.

I've looked at sweepers, signed petitions. And promised lots of folks positions. Subscribed to seven magazines. Bought doughnuts far beyond my means. I fear I've even made a payment I upon some hose and other rainfall. Who says "no business any more?" He ought to hang around our door.

I miss my wife because I love her. But other reasons I discover. I think I'll have to send a wire. I think I'll have to send a wire. Not say "Come home," but just inquire— Because my purchases are extensive. Have made her trip much too expensive. I hope she answers "yes," just so She will be here to answer "no."

an impulse to laugh and cry at once. It was his way of thanking her for what she had done. "No," she said. "Not that I know of, thanks."

"You'd better have some. You can't tell what you're going to need it for," Jupiter insisted. The embarrassment of taking it was somewhat alleviated by Bates' presence. She would have refused, but she knew that it pleased him to give it to her. Bates closed the door and drew her away a few paces.

"That old man's not going to last if we don't get this Fly locked up pretty soon," he said. "His arteries aren't what they used to be, if I'm any judge. Best keep him as quiet as you can, and tonight I'll get the goods on that crook if they're in this hotel. Leave it to me."

Mary felt undecided, and faintly rebellious. "We're not going to hurry things too fast!" she warned him. "Wait and see what happens tonight. I'm not telling Mr. Jupiter, but—I'm going to wear the ruby necklace!"

Bates stared. "You'll be there, and Bruce. Why should I be afraid?" she added.

"Nobody would shoot into a mob like that and he'd know it!" Bates objected. "I could put a man on both exits, though—"

"Do it. I'm not ready to lose the necklace—yet. But if The Fly is jittery as you say, the sight of it might—steady him, don't you think?"

BATES considered. "Might," he conceded. "If he wants it bad enough. Only he's liable to make a wild grab for it and anybody that tried to stop him would be at a terrible disadvantage in that crowd. I wouldn't fire a gun in that mob. I know that."

"He won't try there. Leave it to me. What's the matter with taking him out to the yacht?"

"You think you could?" Mary shrugged. "My blood's up. I feel as if I could do the impossible tonight."

"Then go ahead. I'll play ball." The prospect thrilled him. She could see.

"We'll let it stand this way," Mary told him. "You search his rooms, and whether you find the rest of the plunder or not, wait there. If he comes, it will mean I've failed. And if I fail with him tonight it's not likely I could succeed another time. Arrest him. If he doesn't come, you'll know we've gone out to the yacht. Better have a man on the roof to tell you the moment we leave, and you follow. Is that clear?"

"Right. Want me to go down with you until you stow that stuff away?"

"Thanks, no. I don't think there is any danger—yet." "Wait." He stepped into his own room which was on the other side of Mary's, and took down the receiver.

"Is Mr. De Loma in his room, do you know? No, don't ring him! I merely wanted to know whether—oh, you ass!" Furious, he started to hang up, then changed his mind and held his hand over the mouthpiece until a man's voice answered.

Then, disguising his voice, he shouted at the top of his lungs. "Hello! Hello, Bill! Is this you, Bill? What? Is Bill Jones there? Hello!"

A grin overspread his face as he hung up. "Phew! He's there, all right. And mad! He should have heard what he called me!" Bates rubbed an ear tenderly. "Well, run along. You know he's not in the lobby, at any rate."

Mary walked across the half-empty lobby to the desk, stopping at the window to ask for her mail. Dirk had not written. She experienced the old, familiar sickness that swept over her whenever she let herself stop to think of him, to face the awful possibility that he did not mean to write. Aloud she said to the day clerk, who looked up startled at the depth of tragedy in the gray eyes turned to his, "I want to put some valuables in the safe."

"Will you just step around to the manager's office, please?" He indicated a door at the side which opened into an office just back of the desk itself. There was a door immediately behind the desk and it stood open now. Mary saw the sleek head of the manager bent over his books. Obediently, she walked around to the side door and entered.

THE hotel safe was in the manager's office, in plain sight of anyone standing at the desk. Mary noticed a trifle nervously. Then she realized that this was a means of protection, rather than a danger. The safe was at all times plainly visible. In fact, a light was kept burning above it day and night.

Moreover, The Fly was not a safe-cracker. It might have been among his random accomplishments, but it was certainly not his specialty, so that in placing the bracelet and the I. O. U. behind its sturdy lock she was making them as safe from The Fly's depredations as any place could be.

When she had dropped the envelope containing her two precious objects into the metal box held for it, and saw it tucked away in its pigeonhole, Mary began to breathe more freely. The necklace was in there, too, somewhere, she remembered. It occurred to her that this might be a good time to take it out, as she must do soon if she meant to wear it tonight.

Impulsively, she asked for it, and when it had been located, and she had signed the slip, she tucked it into her handbag carefully. It might have been better to have had someone with her, she reflected a trifle uneasily. On the other hand, it might be better tactics to do it in the most obvious manner possible. The fascinating psychology of "The Purloined Letter" had left its impress on her, too.

An instant later she was to doubt her Poe and regret that she had ever heard of him. For as she turned about, through the open door she saw De Loma standing at the desk! Apparently he had not seen her. He was standing with his back half-turned away, looking out into the lobby. But she could not be sure that he had not turned about just an instant before she herself had turned. Why, he could not have helped seeing her if he had faced the desk! The scene in the manager's office was directly in front of his eyes.

How had he come there so quickly, and why? Perhaps it was merely chance. Perhaps he had not been fooled by that telephone call of Bates—had suspected it was merely an attempt to locate him while the necklace was in transit.

But, what to do now? If she reached the elevator, she would have to cross the lobby and he would see her. She might ask the manager to accompany her to her room.

She was about to ask his assistance when a second glance through the doorway showed that De Loma had gone.

She waited a few minutes in the semi-darkness just outside the manager's office, to give De Loma time to leave the place. Then she took a deep breath, like a swimmer about to plunge in, and stepped out boldly on a straight line for the elevator. She was holding her breath until that foot was reached, and when she set it in it at last, and saw that it was empty, she uttered a deep relieved sigh, and sagged against the wall of the elevator. Now, if the operator would only hurry. He did—but not in time. A tall figure entered, removed his hat at sight of a woman passenger, looked again, apparently became aware of her identity for the first time, and exclaimed, "Miss Harkness! How nice to see you again!" It was De Loma.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT

Bravely labeled as simon-pure nonsense, "Palmy Days," the new Eddie Cantor song-and-gag festival came to the Delft Theatre yesterday as Samuel Goldwyn's successor to their inaugural "Whoopee."

It is a gay, comic strip kind of a yarn, in which Cantor is seen as the unwilling assistant to a gang of fake spiritualists, who hire him out as an efficiency expert to wreck a modernistic bakery that might have come out of an Arabian nights fantasy. For no bakery in this world could ever have such a collection of overdressed and under-dressed beauties as disport themselves in "Palmy Days." Solomon in all his glory nor Ziegfeld in all his life never collected such a bevy as this.

"Palmy Days" seems a logical step forward in pictures from Goldwyn's "Whoopee." That brightly colored festival of fun, music, song, dance and Eddie Cantor more or less served as the last and greatest of the old order of screen musical comedies, owing most of its style to the legitimate stage.

The new Cantor film, "Palmy Days" strikes out a new field for itself—one that is certainly to be made large as a new vogue in screen entertainment. For Goldwyn's under-clad, eye-filling beauties go through their thrilling dances only when a dance seems to have some rhyme or reason in the story,—in a gymnasium, for instance, or at a moonlight party. And Con Conrad's tuneful songs are heard not to punctuate or stop the story, but as a part of it. The songs and dances become woven into the plot.

Cantor is his old self, his old glory,—bouncing, prancing, dancing, ebullient. His beady black eyes still look up at the ever constant menace that threatens to exterminate him. In "Palmy Days," Cantor fulfills his promise in "Whoopee,"—that he is in pictures to stay, and that the screen has a definite place—a high place, for him in its roster of favorites.

BEAN FIT TOO WELL.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Little Helen Dougherty, 3, wondered if she could fit a bean in her ear. She pushed and pushed, but it wouldn't go in. She pushed harder and in popped the bean. So tightly did it fit that it had to be removed in a hospital with surgical instruments.

1931 Health Drive Begins This Week

With better health for all Michigan as their goal, millions of tiny coaches, each drawn by a quartet of diminutive horses, will journey across Michigan between Thanksgiving Day and Christmas.

The tiny horses and coaches are part of the old-time coaching scene on the 1931 tuberculosis Christmas seals which will be sent out this week by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and affiliated local societies. The seal design also includes a cheery "Christmas Greetings" and the double-barred cross, emblem of the anti-tuberculosis movement.

Christmas seals provide tuberculosis protection and prevention for the communities in which they are bought. Among the health services financed from the sale of seals are: Clinics to discover active cases of tuberculosis, nurses for special tuberculosis work, education in the prevention, symptoms and treatment of tuberculosis, and activities for betterment of child health.

The Christmas seal sale is conducted through the mails and by voluntary representatives in a number of Michigan cities and towns. For the following Delta county communities the sale will be directed by a local manager, representing the Michigan Tuberculosis Association: Bark River, Paul V. Anderson, H. A. Nelson, Rapid River; and Schaffer, J. A. Kenny.

Pennies for Taxes Keeps Clerks Busy

Montgomery, Ala., (AP)—Paying off the tax collector is a weighty problem with T. O. Gilliland, merchant at Attalla, Ala.

WHAT A SWELL LOT OF SMOKES FOR A DIME!

NO WONDER TARGET'S GONE OVER WITH A BANG!

Thousands are rolling their own cigarettes—SEEING what they smoke—and saving half a buck a week!

TARGET CIGARETTE TOBACCO

WHAT'S the sense of paying big money for a pack of cigarettes when you can roll 30 or 40 cigarettes with Target for just one thin little dime?

"A lot of men asked themselves that question and here's the answer! This cigarette tobacco is a blend of fine Virginia, Burley, and Turkish. It is manufactured exactly the same as ready-mades up to the time it is rolled into the cigarette paper. And that's where you come in—you roll 'em and save the difference.

"Ask your tobacco dealer today for Target. Here is what you'll get: A big package of darn fine tobacco wrapped in moistureproof Cellophane, and two packs of gummed cigarette papers. And if you like your 'fags' as perfect as factory-mades, trade four bits for a Target Roller and it'll pay for itself in no time. From then on, boy, you're rolling 'em on velvet! All this for one little dime; 30 to 40 cigarettes easy."

AND GET THIS!

The United States Government tax on 20 cigarettes amounts to 6c. On 20 cigarettes you roll from Target Tobacco the tax is just about 1c. No wonder you get such value for a dime!

BROWN & WILLIAMSON TOBACCO CORP., Louisville, Ky.

ROLL 'EM BETTER THAN READY-MADES! ROLL 'EM BETTER THE GOOD OLD WAY!

Your dealer will demonstrate this Target Roller. It is the most practical device for rolling perfect cigarettes. It is guaranteed by the makers to work to your satisfaction.

Shake a little Target tobacco on a Target cigarette paper. Target's long cut. It rolls even the full length of the cigarette. Tuck in the paper and roll with both thumbs toward gummed edge.

Turkey Still Reigns at Feast On Thanksgiving

When we realize that for more than 300 years the turkey has been the approved bird to provide at the annual feast of Thanksgiving we concede the justice of his importance.

However, turkey alone can't make a Thanksgiving dinner, even if the bird is traditional with the day. The "fixins" are as important as King Turk. In some parts of old New England, chicken pie ran a close second to turkey. Both were often served at the same dinner.

While we're speaking about turkey, it's well to remember that an eight to twelve pound hen-turkey makes the best dinner. It may be necessary to place your order with the butcher or poultry man several weeks in advance.

The following menu is a typical "old time" dinner. While simple, it is interesting enough to give any cook ample opportunity to display her skill.

Thanksgiving Menu

- Clear Tomato Soup
Cheese Crackers

- Assorted Relishes
Roast Turkey
Bread Stuffing
Cranberry Jelly
Mashed potatoes
Giblet Gravy
Squash Croquettes
Creamed Turnips
Thanksgiving Salad
Boston Brown Bread
Pumpkin Pie or Indian Pudding
Nuts
Coffee

Planning Is Important

If your dinner is to be a success, every item should be considered and planned ahead of the feast. Then, when it's time to cook the dinner, you can devote all your thought and energy to the actual cooking and serving of the meal.

Look over your stock of staples and replenish such things as salt, flour and sugar before the big day arrives. Be sure the table linen and china are all in readiness. Polish the silver the first of the week if you are afraid things may pile up later.

When you plan your dinner give the turkey the center of the stage. Keep the other courses simple and of such foods as will form a background for and enhance the glory of the bird.

The soup can be made tomorrow, ready to heat and serve. Home-made relishes such as pickles and chutney sauce with the addition of celery are suitable and inexpensive.

The turkey should be stuffed, ready for the oven, tomorrow. Make the cranberry jelly on Wednesday.

Cook the squash and make into croquettes, ready for egg-crumbing and frying, the day before, too.

Bake the brown bread Wednesday. It can be reheated if wanted warm with the salad.

Lettuce for Salad

Let the salad be deliciously crisp lettuce, cress or endive or a combination of the three with a French dressing.

Indian pudding is as popular for dessert as pumpkin pie and if there's room in the oven to bake it while the turkey is roasting, it will be sure to please when served with vanilla ice cream.

If pumpkin pie is chosen cook the pumpkin and run it through a colander on Wednesday. Then the pies can be baked early Thursday morning before the turkey must have the oven.

If the hostess plans carefully and does as much as possible during the time preceding Thanksgiving day she can find time to enjoy her guests even if she must cook and serve her dinner herself.

Cut it like pie crust until tiny crumbs appear. Then take out three-fourths of a cup for the first mixture, one egg, three-fourths cup sour milk, one teaspoon soda. Put cake in greased pan and sprinkle "crumbs" on top.

Mrs. Oscar Peterson,

A request was received Monday from a Bark River Betty Ann reader for an orange nut cake recipe which appeared in the Betty Ann department about a year ago, and the following, Mrs. Oscar Peterson's recipe, which the Betty Ann department hopes is the one wanted, is being reprinted.

Two eggs.
One-fourth cup hot water.

One and one-half cups sugar.
One-half cup shortening.
Three-fourths cup sour milk.
One teaspoon soda.

One cup raisins.
One orange.
One and one-half cups flour.
Cream shortening, add sugar and eggs and beat well. Dissolve soda in hot water and beat in. Add sour milk. Grind raisins and orange through food chopper, skin and all. Add this to the first mixture and lastly beat in the flour. Bake in a loaf. Make frosting by cooking one cup of brown sugar and one-half cup white sugar in two-thirds cup milk until it forms a soft ball. Add one teaspoon butter and one cup of finely chopped nut meats. Beat until creamy and spread on cake.

Mr. Merchant: HIT THE HIGHWAY TO SALES SUCCESS

Through Your Own Newspaper
Your Manufacturers Can Create A Demand For The Goods You Sell.

A CERTAIN amount of your overhead expense must include an appropriation for advertising your store and merchandise in the columns of your local newspaper. At the same time, you cannot play up one or two particular brands against the others you carry. That job belongs to the manufacturers whose products you are supplying to your community.

It is unfair to expect you to carry the manufacturer's share of advertising. It is just as unfair that your lines be advertised only in national and metropolitan publications. This advertising must reach the pages of your own Michigan newspaper before its effect will be generally felt throughout your community. The people of Michigan are entitled to know what is new in merchandise, and it is up to your manufacturer to supply that knowledge.

The highway to sales success follows the route of common sense. When you see to it that your lines of nationally distributed goods are being familiarized to your customers through the pages of your own newspaper, you are following this highway. When you tie in with this promotion through your own newspaper advertising and your displays, you are capitalizing upon the story which your manufacturer has told your public through the pages of the same newspaper which you use!

Your own newspaper represents the guideposts along Success Highway. Through its columns is local demand created. When you insist that that your manufacturers give you a proportionate share of their advertising, you are hitting this highway.

Consider the lines you now carry. Are they sufficiently familiar to the readers of your own newspaper? Do you realize that these readers form practically one hundred percent of your trading population? Only those lines which are regularly advertised to this population are the ones from which you can expect rapid turnover and profit.

Here's the Way!

When a particular brand of goods is under consideration, ask yourself: "Is the manufacturer advertising regularly in my newspaper?" Insist that he does, for herein lies sales success. Ask your newspaper about it today.

Hit the highway to sales success Mr. Merchant. You can do it by insisting on your share of national advertising in your local newspaper, by taking every advantage of this advertising.

LOCAL SINGERS DELIGHT CROWD

Well Filled Auditorium Hears "Thanksgiving" Cantata Sunday

A most pleasing one and one-half hour program in which some of the finest voices in the city participated, was presented Sunday evening in the cantata, "Thanksgiving," before a large audience in the high school auditorium. The entire downstairs and more than half of the balcony was filled with an appreciative audience which enjoyed a well-balanced program of musical entertainment.

Solos, duets, and quartets and choruses accompanied by Miss Mary Mitchell and Oren Quick, Jr., at the piano were delightfully sung by well-trained artists of local note. In addition, two piano solos, were beautifully played by Mr. Quick, Rev. F. Elmgren, pastor of the Swedish Baptist church, offered a Thanksgiving prayer and Rev. Joseph Gross, pastor of the First Baptist church, read a short five minute talk between selections.

The cantata proved to be one of the finest ever held in this city and to A. J. Lefevre, director, through whose untiring efforts the program was made a success, belongs much credit.

The churches, the First Baptist church, the Methodist Episcopal church and the First Baptist church, sponsors of the cantata, are grateful to all who so generously donated their talents and time to the production.

The entire proceeds of the cantata will go toward helping the city unemployed. No admission charge was made, all proceeds taken in being in the form of voluntary donations. A complete financial statement thereof will be published in tomorrow's paper.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Billings and son spent Sunday with friends in Gladstone.

NEGRO SINGERS HERE TONIGHT

Vocal Concert to Be at H. S. Auditorium; to Hold Matinee

Browne's Metropolitan famous colored singers will appear in the high school auditorium this evening at 8 o'clock under the sponsorship of the official board of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Their program will include choice popular selections and more of the southern plantation melodies, spirituals, and jubilee interspersed with Dunbar readings.

The bass singer will fill the auditorium with his deep bass tones like the rumble of distant thunder. The clear sweet voice of lyric soprano will register high on the scale, while the chorus will be a fitting climax to the entire offering. The repertoire of these singers seems almost inexhaustible and they are most generous with encores.

Rarely is an opportunity presented to the public of Manistique such as will be offered this evening in the appearance of these jubilee singers. All the leading cities in America have re-engaged them and they are considered one of the great harmonizing companies of the race.

By special arrangements through the courtesy of the superintendent of schools these colored jubilee singers will present a special program to all the grade school children at 4 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

RENEW APPEAL FOR RED CROSS

Enrollments Far Short of Last Year; Only 3 Days Left

With the annual Red Cross roll call due to come to a close in three more days, and subscription thus far running only a little over one-fourth of last year's quota, local roll call workers are renewing their appeal to residents of this city to enroll or renew their memberships now.

It is pointed out that membership this year means much more than on former occasions, the numbers of indigent families being increased through misfortune or unemployment. Plans for relief have been made by local agencies and the more money gained through this means, the less distress will be felt by the unfortunate.

All-but fifty cents of each membership, whether for one, five or ten dollars, is retained locally, and the funds derived will be turned over to the Child's Welfare club for distribution or use.

In order to make personal solicitation unnecessary arrangements have been made so that persons can enroll their memberships at either the Gladstone State Savings or the First National banks.

Local Hunter Gets 18-Point Buck and Another Bags Bear

Fred Moran of this city Friday downed a nice 185-pound buck with a rack of 18 points adorning his head, near Garden, where he has been hunting for the past week with Mrs. Moran and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weingartner. The party returned to Gladstone Sunday, but none other than Mr. Moran had any luck.

Another Gladstone hunter who had unusual luck was Lawrence LaValle, who had the good fortune to bag a bear as well as a good sized buck. Fred Mingay on the third day of the season shot a coyote near the Sturgeon. Another to get a big buck was Frank Surk, who brought down one bearing 10 points on the opening day of the season.

At the Walter Olson camp across the bay, Torval Kallerson, J. M. Olson, Einar Olson and John Strand were successful in getting their deer the first two days of season. At Bass Lake lodge, Sid Gordon, Glenn Jackson and E. J. Noreus, were the lucky boys.

While the poor weather has unquestionably hampered the hunters in getting their deer, there are plenty of them being brought down. The weather being too mild to permit keeping the deer in the woods many are bringing them to town and in some cases refrigeration space in local markets is at a premium. One market had as many as ten deer at a single time during the past week.

Delegation of 52 Attend Epworth Rally On Sunday

Approximately 150 members from Gladstone, Escanaba, Menominee, Hermansville and Stephenson attended the fourth annual sub-district rally of Epworth leaguers held in the Methodist Episcopal church at Stephenson on Sunday.

Fifty-two members from the leaguers of the Gladstone Methodist Episcopal church were present, forming the largest delegation to attend.

The fifth annual gathering of the Epworth leaguers will be held in Norway, an invitation to meet there in 1932 having been received and accepted during a committee meeting in the afternoon.

After being welcomed to Stephenson by Rev. William Lovejoy, entertaining pastor, Rev. R. C. G. Williams of Escanaba, took charge of the afternoon meeting. The opening devotional was by Rev. S. H. Berry of Menominee.

Talks were given by Rev. J. W. Greenwood of Norway and Rev. Louis Shanks, of Hermansville, and the committee meeting followed. Then came a social hour or get-together.

A delightful lunch was then served to the large throng of delegates by members of the Epworth league and the Ladies' Aid society of Stephenson.

Evening services opened at 7 o'clock with a psalm, "Follow the Gleam" presented by members of the host league. Rev. H. W. Colenso, city, was the speaker of the evening and used as his subject, "Drifting Apart."

A pleasing vocal duet by Mrs. Edward Lucas and Mr. Brinley Phillips of Escanaba and a vocal solo by Mrs. Lucas added greatly to the program. Benediction by Rev. R. C. G. Williams brought the rally to a close.

Ramblers "Forget" Trojan Battle; Army Next

HUNK SWAMPED BY TELEGRAMS

Notre Dame Gridders Can Take Defeat, They Show Football World

BY PAUL MICKELSON (Associated Press Sports Writer) South Bend, Ind., Nov. 23 (AP)—Notre Dame can "take it."

There were no tears or alibis in the camp of America's dethroned champions of college football today over their defeat by the roaring Trojans from Southern California. From Coach "Hunk" Anderson down to the lowliest scrub in the 120-man sized army, there was only one comment:

"Aw forget it. Even Babe Ruth strikes out."

The calmest one in the entire camp was the man to whom a victory Saturday meant the most. It was "Hunk," who naturally heard some comment here and there as to what Knute Rockne would have done in that torrid fourth period during which the Trojans turned apparent hopeless defeat into one of the most thrilling football conquests of the year.

Telegrams Pour In

Almost a thousand telegrams, offering condolence and utmost confidence, have swamped the big shouldered leader of Notre Dame since last Saturday night but the senders, Notre Dame alumni and sportsmen everywhere might have saved their money as "Hunk" didn't need them.

"It's a funny thing, this football," he reflected today. "Notre Dame has lost one game in three years of play and everyone seems to think we are hysterical. They think we don't know how to lose. Ever since word has flashed over the world that we had taken one on the chin, telegrams have swamped me. Friends, former football stars here and alumni have wired 'Keep your dober up, we're for you stronger than ever.' Of course, I can't help but be thrilled by such a wonderful spirit of good fellowship and good sportsmanship. Yet I'd like to say we do know how to lose down here at Notre Dame. Southern California has a great football team and beat us in a big way with one of the finest comebacks I ever saw or hope to see again.

"Breaks of the game? Of course, there were breaks. We suffered some penalties that looked bad but I always figure that the officials on the field can see more than a coach or his players can and far more impartially, personally. I think the thing that beat us was over confidence after we had rolled up a 14 to nothing lead at the start of the third period. The boys didn't think the Trojans could come back. They did come back and it was too late for us then."

Albino Forgotten

Since the battle, two or three players started to mention something on the penalties of the game only to lapse into silence after a stern look from "Hunk." Captain Tommy Yarr complained that Umpire Gillette of Oregon threatened to "throw me out of the game when I asked to speak to him about a penalty inflicted on us." But he never mentioned even that after "Hunk" had heard him, and, like the rest, he soon forgot about it and started talking about the Army game next Saturday.

And the Army may pay and pay for the Trojan audacity Saturday. Every man on the team promised that today and "Hunk" chuckling to himself, gave all the regulars a night off while he drilled teams two to eight on the Army formations.

THE FIGHTING IRISH LEARN THE MEANING OF TROJAN

The Notre Dame juggernaut that had rolled over all comers for twenty-six games was wrecked by the University of Southern California eleven at Notre Dame, Ind. The westerners had been held scoreless until the last quarter, when they made two touchdowns, and with only two minutes to play, Baker, husky Trojan guard, placed kicked from the 23-yard line, ending the game 16 to 14. Steve Banas of Notre Dame is shown off his feet in the arms of Captain Stan Williamson, Trojan center, after making two yards in the second quarter.

WOLVERINES IN PLAYFUL SPIRIT

Squad Plays Touchball as Start for Drill on Badger Game

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 23. (AP)—An afternoon of play just for the fun of it was Michigan football squad's reward for its victory over Minnesota. The group was divided into two teams for a game of touchball. The practice session wound up with a brief signal drill. Coach Harry Kipke is anxious to use as many players as possible against Wisconsin Saturday to give sophomores and juniors who will be available next year competitive experience. In signal drill late this afternoon, Bernard was at center, Cantrill and Goldsmith at guard, Wistert and Kowalick at tackle, Newman at quarterback, Everhardus and Fay at the halves, and Hewitt at fullback.

Teams on Par

Kipke was well pleased with the lineup which stopped the Gophers, but he may do some experimenting in the Wisconsin game. He does not underrate the Badgers, however. By comparative scores they would be considered about even with Michigan. Ohio State defeated Michigan, 20 to 7, and eked out a 6 to 0 victory from Wisconsin. Michigan and Wisconsin each defeated Chicago by one touchdown. Minnesota won from the Badgers by 14 to 0 and lost to Michigan by 6 to 0.

Practice sessions this week will be designed with the idea of keeping the Michigan team at the same fighting edge which brought Minnesota's downfall. The coaches do not wish to give the players the impression that they do not fear Wisconsin but are anxious to stay any tendency toward stalemate. The Thanksgiving Day practice will be held Thursday morning.

The squad came through the Minnesota game without serious injury. Ted Petokey, sophomore end, was bumped and bruised, but was in the thick of the touchball game today.

22 DEATHS IN GRID SEASON

Five Fatally Injured in College Football, 13 on Prep Squads

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—Football casualties over the week-end raised to 22 the total of deaths this season from injuries received in games on college and high school gridirons, sand lots and city streets, a survey made today by the Associated Press showed.

Two members of the St. Edward, Neb., high school team died within 48 hours of each other as the result of football injuries, making the little Nebraska school the only team to suffer two fatal accidents so far this year. Allan Wake, 16-year old fullback, died yesterday of blood poisoning resulting from a hip injury suffered several days ago and his teammate, William Wood, 15-year old end, received a fatal skull fracture in a game Friday.

Five college players and five of the 22 players fatally injured were on college squads. 13 were members of high school teams and four were killed in games on sand lots or city streets, among them an 8-year old boy who was fatally hurt while scrimmaging on a Chicago pavement with playmates of his own age.

There were several serious injuries Saturday, three of them occurring on one game.

John Szymanski, substitute tackle on the Fordham football team was still in a serious condition at Fordham hospital, New York City, today with a hemorrhage of the brain and with his right side partially paralyzed. He was injured in the third period of Fordham's losing game with Bucknell Saturday.

Kid Brewer, captain of the Duke, N. C. Blue Devils, was in Duke hospital suffering from concussion of the brain received in Saturday's game with North Carolina, his condition still serious.

Two other Fordham players, Conny Murphy and Paul Howell, received slight brain concussions in the Bucknell game and were still in the hospital today.

The only fatality in Michigan was the death of Raymond Yellock of Coolee high school, Detroit, of blood poisoning following injury received in game.

Antone Sarocka, of Rhineland, Wis., also is on the list of fatally injured.

Normal Team First

Michigan State Normal College had sufficient strength to retain the team championship it won last year. Normal's score was 33, with 40 for Notre Dame and 47 for Michigan State, Western State, the only other school to enter a full team, was disqualified when Herbert Pedler failed to finish the race.

The first ten finishers were: First, Chamberlain, (S); second, Howrey, (N. D.); third, Alex Wilson, (N. D.); fourth, Harold Duer, (Michigan Normal); fifth, Edward Morcombe (Michigan Normal); eighth, Vincent Richmond (Kalamazoo); ninth, Karl Kahler (Michigan Normal); and tenth, Erwin Foster, (Michigan Normal).

RANGER CAGERS PLAY MUNISING

Escanaba Team to Open Basketball Season Here Sunday

With the members of a very successful football season still fresh in their memories, the Escanaba Rangers have turned athletic attentions to basketball and next Sunday afternoon they will formally ring down the curtain on the cage season in Escanaba when they oppose the Munising Dragoons in the opening game. The game will be played at the Coliseum gymnasium starting at 2:30 o'clock.

The Rangers have been practicing regularly at the Coliseum gym in preparation for the opening tussle which is generally accepted to be a tough one for the Escanaba clan. The Dragoons have in their lineup this year such stars as Yeager, Peters, Blizel, Dorenbecker, Peterson and Larson, each a star in his own right.

Trunks to Play Here

Included on the Ranger squad are such players as Ernie Johnson and Ray Warner of last year's crack Bevenoc team, Bill Puckelgartz, Keddie Christensen, Johnny Andrews, O'Brien and other well known stars of this city.

It was also announced yesterday that negotiations were practically completed for a game here with the Taylor Trunks, national champion girls cage team, playing boys rules. The plans now being arranged if they are definitely approved would bring the colorful quintet here on Monday evening, December 14.

Contracts for the Taylor Trunk game were received here yesterday by Manager Goetz of the Chicago team but the negotiations will not be completed until the Trunks arrange a schedule of games with other teams in the peninsula. The national champions under the present plans will make their first peninsula appearance in Escanaba, then play in Iron Mountain, Crystal Falls, Ontonagon, and Ironwood in the peninsula on successive nights. They plan to move to Duluth after their appearances in upper peninsula.

BEMOANS LOSS OF TITAN GAME

Crowley Says Defeat in Final Tilt Marred Spartan Season

East Lansing, Nov. 23. (AP)—Coach James H. Crowley today bemoaned the loss of the last game to Detroit as marring a completely successful campaign for the Michigan State football team.

The student body took an inventory that showed a season of five victories, three defeats, and one tie in nine games, including the second successive scoreless tie with Michigan. Crowley's inventory, however, showed a record of three losses, one victory, and one tie in five major contests.

Crowley attributed the Detroit setback to a letdown in his team's strength and morale following closely on the hard fought Michigan battle. The team that played Detroit, he said, was not the same one that held Michigan the week before.

Few Substitutions

Despite the verdict of Crowley, Michigan State's season brought admiration for an "iron man" eleven that fought its way through a schedule regarded as a "suicide" campaign from the start. Only a few substitutions were made in the major games. The weakness of State's reserve material in the final analysis meant the difference between victory and defeat in important contests.

Crowley said today he could have defeated Syracuse and Detroit with better generalship. The quarterback problem was the first that confronted him this fall. After experimenting with a huddle for the first time in his coaching career, he decided to give the assignment to big Abe Ellowitz at fullback. Crowley did not blame Ellowitz for any quarterback deficiencies, declaring the big fellow had too many other duties in passing and kicking, and as one of the cogs of the touchdown team of Monnett and Ellowitz.

The season brought national recognition to State's great halfback, Bob Monnett. He led the nation in scoring for several weeks and was not completely bottled up in any game.

Crowley will lose only two of his "iron men" by graduation. Jake Fase, Grand Haven end, and Captain Milton Gross, guard, of Saline, will not return.

A Proclamation

In remembrance of the Pilgrim Fathers who conquered hardships in a new land and then turned to God in thanks for a bountiful season, and in line with the sturdy traditions which form the background of American greatness, President Hoover has called upon the people of this country to set aside Thursday, Nov. 26, as Thanksgiving Day.

In observance of the spirit of that day, and with a consideration for the needs of others, I hereby urge that the people of Escanaba set this day aside as a day of thanksgiving and a day when those who have plenty will share with those who are in need.

I also urge that stores and other business places be closed in observance of the day, Escanaba, during the period of unemployment, has been more fortunate than most other communities, a condition for which we may well be thankful. Let us soberly reflect on this blessing on Thanksgiving Day, and in our actions make this day truly a Thanksgiving Day and not merely a banqueting holiday.

WILLIAM H. NEEDHAM, Mayor of Escanaba.

Diamonds and Ivory, Then Came Poverty

Memphis, Tenn. (NEA)—There was a time when J. J. Thompson was a wealthy diamond miner and ivory trader in South Africa. Now he's penniless and is seeking a home for two thoroughbred bull terriers that he obtained from the kennels of the Prince of Wales.

Thompson was born in Chattanooga, and grew up in Texas. His parents were murdered by Mexican bandits in the Villa episode, and he turned a soldier of fortune, winding up in South Africa as an engineer in a gold mine. Then he tried diamonds and ivory, and made a fortune. He returned to civilization in 1927, started playing the market, and is now penniless as a result.

He's offering his dogs to anyone who will give them a good home. Falls cause about three times as many deaths among elderly persons as automobile accidents.

It is reported that more than 79,000,000 trees were planted in the United States during 1930 for reforestation.

HERE'S HONESTY.

Memphis, Tenn.—This may sound a bit far-fetched, but it is nevertheless true that a woman has sent a hotel manager here five cents to pay for the hotel stationary she used while staying here. She is Mrs. M. Engle, of Harrisburg, Pa., and she explained in a letter to the manager that she used one envelope and a sheet of paper to write a letter at the hotel. She also took another sheet and envelope with her when she left. She sent the money to pay for the latter.

Some Escanaba children are going to go toyleless this Christmas unless local people get the Santa Claus spirit and send their outgrown and discarded toys to the fire department. The firemen will repair and repaint the playthings where needed, and turn them over for distribution with Christmas baskets. The toys may be brought direct to the fire hall, or they will be collected if the department is notified by telephone.
