REPORTER SHOT FROM AMBUSH

Victim Has Figured in Civic Investigations at Canton, Ohio

Canton, Ohio, April 27 (AP)—Harry Bouklis, former under-world "informant" and reporter for the Ohio Examiner, a weekly newspaper fighting crime conditions, was shot from ambush early today.

More than 100 shotgun slugs were pumped into his body as he crouched behind a chair on the front porch of his home. He was just entering the house when two men opened fire, but he seized the chair in time to save his life. Physicians said he was in a "fair condition" tonight.

Bouklis for years has figured in Canton civic investigations, has served a penitentiary term for perjury and has been arrested several times on liquor charges.

Former "tipster" The Ohio Examiner has criticized police departments and crime conditions in Canton and other cities and his publisher, Grover Fleming, is facing three criminal libel suits.

Fleming declared the shooting, occurring almost six years after the slaying of Don Mellett, the vice crusading editor of the Canton Daily News, was an "effort to intimidate" his paper. The publisher said Bouklis was a former "tipster" for prohibition agents and "was truthful in all his stories."

Bouklis was chief witness in the hearing which resulted in the ouster of C. C. Curtis as mayor by former Governor A. S. Denney in 1923. He also testified against Curtis' brother and Safety Director, E. E. Curtis, who was convicted of accepting a bribe, and was himself convicted of perjury. C. C. Curtis was again elected mayor in 1930 on a "vindication" platform.

Bouklis also faces a charge of operating a still in Tuscarawas county, where he was trailed by Canton police. He declared he was "framed."

fixed for resuming the open investigation, but added one would be held as soon as a program could be worked out and proper preparation made.

He said President Whitney, of the exchange, probably would be called back to the stand. Asked for his impression of Whitney's testimony, in view of later developments, Norbeck said:

"The first witness we called, Matthew Brush, ruined Mr. Whitney in five minutes. We are just getting started. Those fellows said Wall Street was a second hand and as near perfect as it could be made."

"While we had to listen to all that, we know better. The worst things suspected are gradually developing."

I believe it can be demonstrated that the tax burden upon the farmer today exceeds the burden upon other groups."

He asked for greater cooperation and coordination in solving mutual problems of the federal and state governments. Lack of coordination among all governments, he said, was resulting, often duplicating taxes upon the same sources.

"All these cross purposes contribute to economic duress," President Hoover asserted. "The many provisions of multiple taxation may vary so much that a tax payer coming under several jurisdictions may find himself paying a wholly unreasonable amount for the support of the government."

Flames Destroying Huge Pile Of Pulp

Detroit, April 27 (AP)—Firemen were waging a hopeless fight tonight against flames which were destroying a huge pile of pulp wood at the plant of the Detroit Sulphite Pulp and Paper Co. in Delray community on West Jefferson avenue.

Twenty thousand cords of wood were in the pile, which was 125 feet high and a block long. Company officials said it was valued at $400,000. Firemen estimated it would burn for a week.

The fire was spectacular, drawing all fire apparatus from the west side and extra equipment from other stations. Firemen kept the flames from spreading to buildings.

their feet and urged delegates to remain seated. A policeman pulled the blazing streamers down and the tension was broken.

It was manifestly impossible to determine the stand on the prohibition resolutions without a roll call. The secretary started calling by counties and when Wayne, with its 334 votes, was reached, a poll of the delegation was demanded.

Finally Edward N. Barnard, chairman of the delegation, announced 300 votes for the absolute repeal resolution and 24 for the majority report. The outstate counties, however, went heavily for the moderate plank and the result was 847 to 545 in favor of the majority resolution.

As adopted it read: "We believe the question of repeal of the 18th amendment is not a party issue. Members of all political parties sincerely differ on the advisability of its repeal. The Republican party, however, always advocates submission of such important issues to the voters of the country. We believe the time now has arrived when this question again should be submitted to the voters."

"We therefore recommend that the question of the repeal of the 18th amendment be submitted to a constitutional convention if the people of the several states so order by referendum."

Brucker Gives Speech Once the prohibition issue had been settled the convention moved swiftly to a close. Governor Wilbur M. Brucker, in what many considered the maiden speech of his campaign for re-election, scored critics of state and national Republican administrations, declaring the state administration and the legislature are earnestly endeavoring to cut governmental costs and taxes, he challenged the fault finders.

"We shall not be swayed by criticism nor the demands of yellow journals no matter where in the state those papers are located," Brucker said. "According to the auditor general's report five million dollars were cut from state expenditures in the last nine months. Another five million will be cut and if local governments would do likewise there would be a total reduction in the state of fifty million dollars. Even if your friends have been separated from the state payroll you, as Republicans, should support this program."

Two delegations from Genesee county appeared at the convention. One was headed by Mayor William McKeighan, of Flint, the other by Vincent D. Ryan of Flint. The credentials committee decided the Ryan delegation had been regularly chosen by the county convention, and seated it. McKeighan did not appeal to the convention.

John Norton Alternate A conflict over the selection of delegates at large to the national convention bloomed and withered. Governor Brucker had a tentative list of delegates which included James B. Davidson, of Bay City, but not Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state. Fitzgerald's friends insisted they would fight it out on the floor, if necessary. The result was the withdrawal of Davidson's name.

The convention then elected Governor Brucker, Charles B. Warren, Detroit; Fred W. Green, Ionia, former governor; Fitzgerald, Mrs. C. L. Barber, of Lansing, and Thomas Clancy, of Ionia, as delegates at large. The alternates are Frank D. McKay, of Grand Rapids, John Norton, Escanaba, Judge William L. Carpenter, Detroit, Henry Baird, Port Huron; William J. Smith, Battle Creek; Mrs. Jennie Law Hardy, Adrian, and William Toomey of Ann Arbor. Francis J. Plym, of Niles, and Mrs. Alice Marshall of L'Anse were nominated as presidential electors at large.

Resolutions adopted lauded Governor Brucker for calling a special session of the legislature and other Republican officers of the state administration. Mild planks were accepted favoring consideration of old age pensions and ratification of amendment to the federal constitution prohibiting the use of injunctions in labor disputes.

The convention adopted a resolution sponsored by upper peninsula delegates recommending an import tax of at least five cents a pound on copper and proportionate protection against imported forest products in the dire distress due to the closing of most mines and the depression in the value of forest products. Continuance of present conditions will force the complete suspension of mining activity May 1, with resultant economic disaster too grave to contemplate. The evils have been brought about largely through excessive importation of low cost copper and forest products from foreign properties employing "slave labor," the resolution said.

A. H. Havatto, J. Abbott, Democratic national committeeman, sat on the platform by special invitation. Seth Q. Pulver, keynote speaker, and Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, pilloried Democratic tactics and pleaded for the renomination of President Hoover and solid support for the Republican ticket.

EVERY EFFORT NEEDED Grand Rapids, April 27 (AP)—Warning that a "grave danger" faced the party both in the state and nation, Seth Q. Pulver, as keynote speaker of the Republican state convention, urged his party leaders today to "bury all minor differences and unimportant personal animosities and unite for a political struggle in

Mills and Meyer Hit Patman Plan To Cash Bonuses

Washington, April 27 (AP)—Two administrative financial experts today heaped invective and ridicule upon plans for cashing the soldiers' bonus.

Secretary Mills stood before the house ways and means committee for ninety minutes uncompromisingly assailing proposals for making the $2,400,000,000 bonus payment in what he called "dishonest dollars"—printing press money.

Brunette Selected As Blossom Queen

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 27 (AP)—Miss Marjorie Noble Crampton, 18 year old brunette from Grand Rapids, tonight was chosen queen of the tenth annual Michigan Blossom Festival.

She was selected from a group of twenty-five beauties representing as many Michigan communities. She will rule over the 1932 blossom festival, with the other 24 girls as members of her court.

The queen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Crampton and is a high school senior.

The runner-up in the contest, decided by elimination before 1400 spectators in the Liberty theatre, was Miss Dorothy Allerton, 19, of Benton Harbor. Miss Ione Merrill of Battle Creek was third.

Farmer-Laborites Select Candidate

Omaha, Neb., April 27 (AP)—The national Farmer-Labor party convention tonight nominated Frank Elbridge Webb of San Francisco, as its presidential candidate for 1932. Mayor Jacob S. Coxey, of Massillon, Ohio, was nominated for vice president. Webb was the party's candidate in 1928.

and added: "And that goes for the soldiers' bonus, too."

Mr. Hurley devoted virtually all of his address to the economic crisis and the steps taken by the Hoover administration to deal with it. "The Hoover non-partisan reconstruction program is not only the best program devised during the present depression," he said: "it is altogether the greatest ever presented by any president to any congress."

"It is the one and only program," he said, "on which the nation is united."

"President Hoover called upon the leaders of both parties," Mr. Hurley said, "and assembled the representatives of capital and labor. He interviewed agents of agriculture and banking. He summoned practical executives and interested philanthropists. With their help and cooperation, he drew up a non-partisan program of reconstruction, rehabilitation and recovery that stands out conspicuously in the history of the presidency of this republic."

Referring to "feeble and impractical suggestions," advanced in opposition to the president's program, Mr. Hurley said: "Some would wipe out depression by a dole. Others favor bond issues anywhere from one-half billion to five billion dollars. "For the doles there are no sound or logical reasons. Doles and gratuities have ever been the prescriptions for economic ills by those who think their ailments can be cured by raids on the treasury. On one hand congress grapples with the baffling problem of balancing the budget. On the other, members of that body proceed to undo their own efforts by attempting to grant gratuities which would sink the country further into debt. "Most any ordinary mind," Mr. Hurley went on, "can devise a scheme for getting money out of the treasury. No one yet has devised a scheme for putting money into the treasury that does not ultimately revert to increased taxes on the people."

TRIBUTE TO HOOVER

Grand Rapids, April 27 (AP)—Lauding the administration of President Hoover, who he said, came into office on the eve of a great economic crisis, Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, told the Republican state convention here today that no president in our history ever "has been called upon to face so many unprecedented situations and no one has met them more squarely."

The war secretary criticized partisan activities in congress, condemned rehabilitation plans predicated on "raids on the treasury," and asserted the failure of congress to balance the budget has served to create unsettled conditions in business to a greater degree than any other influence, during the time it has been in session.

He referred to the dole and proposals for large bond issues with which to combat the depression, as "feeble and impractical suggestions," offered in opposition to the Hoover program. All, he said, were based on proposed "raids on the treasury."

Against "Bonus Raid" President Hoover, he said, "has stood and will continue to stand with all the force of his personality against such illegitimate raids upon the treasury."

DARROW ASKS FREEDOM FOR FOUR CLIENTS

able consequence. The court ruled that if the defendants conspired, on January 7 last, the day before the slaying, to kill the native suspected of having attacked Mrs. Thalia Masie, wife of the naval officer, or had conspired to threaten him with a pistol or kidnap him, and as a result—such conspiracy Kahahawai was slain, all were guilty of murder or manslaughter, even though one of the defendants was insane when he shot him.

This ruling referred to the defense contention that Masie, who admitted firing the shot, had a sudden attack of insanity the moment he stood before the native with a pistol and heard the attack on his wife.

Judge Davis told the jury that if a plea of insanity had been introduced, the burden of proof was on the prosecution to show the defendant sane. He instructed them to bring in a separate verdict for each defendant.

The court reminded the twelve men that "no man may take the law into his own hands, and the alleged fact that the deceased ravaged the wife of one of the defendants cannot be considered."

As the jury retired the courtroom was cleared and the defendants went to a hotel.

Masie Denounced

The penalty for second degree murder is 20 years to life imprisonment, and that for manslaughter, ten years imprisonment.

In his plea to the jurors Darrow asked them to apply the Golden Rule imagining themselves in the positions of the accused. He pleaded that a conviction would "place a blot on these fair islands that not all the waters of the Pacific can wash away."

In a searing denunciation of Masie, Kelley again hinted his belief the officer did not tell the truth on the witness stand when he testified he shot Kahahawai just after the native supposedly had confessed attacking Mrs. Thalia Masie, his wife.

"He couldn't hide behind the skirts of his mother-in-law (Mrs. Fortescue)," said Kelley hotly. "nor behind the two sailors who helped him."

Kelley painted Masie as a "vain egotistical man who has been the cause of trouble." He said Masie was "high" the night of the party after which Mrs. Masie was attacked.

"The best you can say for him," shouted Kelley as he marched up and down in front of the jury, "is that he lied like a gentleman."

Asserting all Hawaii was on trial in the case, Kelley "fired his fiery appeal with these words:

"Without being swayed by mercy or by admirals—for in the language of Smedley Butler I say 'to Hell with the admirals!'" There is no reason why you should not bring in a unanimous verdict of guilty. We do not ask for vengeance—only justice."

For more than three hours Darrow pleaded the insanity and unwritten law features of the defense.

Attacks Catton

Belying his 75 years by his strong voice and vigorous gestures, the defender asserted Masie and the other defendants had been enmeshed in a web of circumstances not of their own making and that they were not to be blamed for the tragedy.

He asserted that if the four were sent to prison "it won't be the first time a prison has been sanctified by its inmates."

He bitterly attacked Dr. Joseph Catton, prosecution alienist who contradicted the defense testimony that Masie became insane when he fired the fatal shot after hearing Kahahawai confess attacking Mrs. Masie.

With Darrow's conclusion, Kelley took up the argument. Judge Charles S. Davis' instructions to the jury followed.

Judge Davis instructed that it was necessary for the prosecution to have proved that the defendants killed Kahahawai and also had intended to kill him in order to justify a second degree murder verdict. The judge also said it would be necessary to find that the person who fired the shot did so with malice aforethought.

The jurist said, however, it would not be necessary for the prosecution to have shown the defendants intended to kill him if it was shown they entered into

Referring to "feeble and impractical suggestions," advanced in opposition to the president's program, Mr. Hurley said: "Some would wipe out depression by a dole. Others favor bond issues anywhere from one-half billion to five billion dollars. "For the doles there are no sound or logical reasons. Doles and gratuities have ever been the prescriptions for economic ills by those who think their ailments can be cured by raids on the treasury. On one hand congress grapples with the baffling problem of balancing the budget. On the other, members of that body proceed to undo their own efforts by attempting to grant gratuities which would sink the country further into debt. "Most any ordinary mind," Mr. Hurley went on, "can devise a scheme for getting money out of the treasury. No one yet has devised a scheme for putting money into the treasury that does not ultimately revert to increased taxes on the people."

TRIBUTE TO HOOVER

Grand Rapids, April 27 (AP)—Lauding the administration of President Hoover, who he said, came into office on the eve of a great economic crisis, Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, told the Republican state convention here today that no president in our history ever "has been called upon to face so many unprecedented situations and no one has met them more squarely."

The war secretary criticized partisan activities in congress, condemned rehabilitation plans predicated on "raids on the treasury," and asserted the failure of congress to balance the budget has served to create unsettled conditions in business to a greater degree than any other influence, during the time it has been in session.

He referred to the dole and proposals for large bond issues with which to combat the depression, as "feeble and impractical suggestions," offered in opposition to the Hoover program. All, he said, were based on proposed "raids on the treasury."

Against "Bonus Raid" President Hoover, he said, "has stood and will continue to stand with all the force of his personality against such illegitimate raids upon the treasury."

able consequence. The court ruled that if the defendants conspired, on January 7 last, the day before the slaying, to kill the native suspected of having attacked Mrs. Thalia Masie, wife of the naval officer, or had conspired to threaten him with a pistol or kidnap him, and as a result—such conspiracy Kahahawai was slain, all were guilty of murder or manslaughter, even though one of the defendants was insane when he shot him.

This ruling referred to the defense contention that Masie, who admitted firing the shot, had a sudden attack of insanity the moment he stood before the native with a pistol and heard the attack on his wife.

Judge Davis told the jury that if a plea of insanity had been introduced, the burden of proof was on the prosecution to show the defendant sane. He instructed them to bring in a separate verdict for each defendant.

The court reminded the twelve men that "no man may take the law into his own hands, and the alleged fact that the deceased ravaged the wife of one of the defendants cannot be considered."

As the jury retired the courtroom was cleared and the defendants went to a hotel.

Masie Denounced

The penalty for second degree murder is 20 years to life imprisonment, and that for manslaughter, ten years imprisonment.

In his plea to the jurors Darrow asked them to apply the Golden Rule imagining themselves in the positions of the accused. He pleaded that a conviction would "place a blot on these fair islands that not all the waters of the Pacific can wash away."

In a searing denunciation of Masie, Kelley again hinted his belief the officer did not tell the truth on the witness stand when he testified he shot Kahahawai just after the native supposedly had confessed attacking Mrs. Thalia Masie, his wife.

"He couldn't hide behind the skirts of his mother-in-law (Mrs. Fortescue)," said Kelley hotly. "nor behind the two sailors who helped him."

Kelley painted Masie as a "vain egotistical man who has been the cause of trouble." He said Masie was "high" the night of the party after which Mrs. Masie was attacked.

"The best you can say for him," shouted Kelley as he marched up and down in front of the jury, "is that he lied like a gentleman."

Asserting all Hawaii was on trial in the case, Kelley "fired his fiery appeal with these words:

"Without being swayed by mercy or by admirals—for in the language of Smedley Butler I say 'to Hell with the admirals!'" There is no reason why you should not bring in a unanimous verdict of guilty. We do not ask for vengeance—only justice."

For more than three hours Darrow pleaded the insanity and unwritten law features of the defense.

Attacks Catton

Belying his 75 years by his strong voice and vigorous gestures, the defender asserted Masie and the other defendants had been enmeshed in a web of circumstances not of their own making and that they were not to be blamed for the tragedy.

He asserted that if the four were sent to prison "it won't be the first time a prison has been sanctified by its inmates."

He bitterly attacked Dr. Joseph Catton, prosecution alienist who contradicted the defense testimony that Masie became insane when he fired the fatal shot after hearing Kahahawai confess attacking Mrs. Masie.

With Darrow's conclusion, Kelley took up the argument. Judge Charles S. Davis' instructions to the jury followed.

Judge Davis instructed that it was necessary for the prosecution to have proved that the defendants killed Kahahawai and also had intended to kill him in order to justify a second degree murder verdict. The judge also said it would be necessary to find that the person who fired the shot did so with malice aforethought.

The jurist said, however, it would not be necessary for the prosecution to have shown the defendants intended to kill him if it was shown they entered into

FROM THE CRITICS: Mae Tinee CROWD ROARS is a MOVIE that has EVERYTHING. Now I ask you—how can anybody be bored with life when there are films like the CROWD ROARS running loose, packing chills, thrills, spills and a good stiff 'stick' of what is supposed to make the world go round? It's an automobile racing picture— It's a brother against brother till a last reel that pleases you plenty and a finale that sends you smiling from the theatre. The track episodes are exciting and a couple catastrophes that make your hair stand right straight up. I would say it is the average MAN'S, WOMAN'S and CHILD'S notion of snappy entertainment.

Film Daily The season's biggest dramatic sock was delivered last night at the Winter Garden by this Warner Bros. auto racing yarn starring James Cagney and Joan Blondell and directed by Howard Hawks. The action shoots along in speedway style, pounding out thrills and excitement until it has the audience almost bewildered. So realistic are the racing collisions, explosions, and resulting deaths, that a good part of the premiere audience was thrown into genuine hysterics. This is no picture for weak hearts, and even stout ones will be left as limp as a rag when it's over. But that's just why audiences are going to take to it.

BEE OFFICIALS ARE SELECTED

Contestants and Teachers May Visit School During Afternoon

Officials who will have charge of the second Daily Press spelling bee, in which 71 senior champions of schools in Delta and surrounding counties will compete for the grand championship at the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium in the Escanaba Junior high school, Saturday evening, were selected yesterday.

They are: John A. Lemmer, principal of Escanaba high school; William J. Miller, principal of Rapid River high school; Lloyd Walker, superintendent of Cleveland Commercial college, and C. U. Woolpert, Delta county commissioner of schools.

Spelling in the finals will begin at 8:15 o'clock and an hour's entertainment, including a concert by the Escanaba high school band under the direction of R. P. Bowers, and four specialty numbers by talented high school students, will precede the contest. The program will begin at 7:15 p. m.

MAY VISIT SCHOOL

The Junior high school will be open for two hours, 2 to 5 p. m., Saturday, in order to give contestants and teachers here from outside points an opportunity to visit the school previous to the contest. R. E. Cheney, superintendent of Escanaba public schools, and Clarence Zerbel, principal of the Junior high, will be present to guide the visitors on their tour of inspection.

On the evening of the finals, contestants are requested to report at the school at 7 o'clock. They will enter the building by the Ludington street western entrance. The boys will gather in the Study Hall, Room 210, on the second floor, while the girls will be assigned to the library, the first room to the north of Room 210. Here the contestants will be numbered and given final instructions.

In the finals, it is understood that the Press may select for use any recognized spelling list as well as its own prepared word list. In judging, only the spelling as given in these lists will be considered correct.

Contest Rules

Rules used as standard in most spelling bees will govern the Press contest:

Each word given by the pronouncer must be repeated by the contestant to whom it is given before the contestant begins spelling.

If not sure of the word, the contestant may ask that it be repeated; may ask for a definition, or that it be used in a sentence to indicate the meaning.

In spelling, contestants must not repeat letters unless they are repeated in the correct spelling of the word, and once the contestant has started to spell the given word he must continue through without starting over. Such repetition of letters or respelling of words will be considered errors.

Every speller in the contest will receive a new word and no word will be given a second speller until competition has been reduced to two contestants. But, when the lines have been reduced to two spellers, the speller who first corrects a word misspelled by the other and then spells the word next on the list shall be champion. If both misspell the same word, both shall continue in the contest. Should one err, and the other after correcting the error misspell the new word submitted to him, then the misspelled new word shall be referred to the first speller for correction, and if he succeeds in correcting the error and in spelling the next word on the pronouncer's list, he shall be declared the champion.

Old Racket Works

Ironwood, Mich.—One of the oldest rackets in the world is still a profitable one, if the police do not interfere, it was proved here yesterday when an Ironwood resident paid out $190 in cash to two strangers he had never seen before in all his life, and will probably never see again, in order to possess a number of "imported" rugs that may or may not give satisfaction.

The rug peddlers appeared on the scene dressed in natty "marine" uniforms and driving a large, expensive automobile. The uniforms, they readily admitted, are the basis of the racket for they serve to excite the curiosity of the prospect and lead him to believe he is getting a great bargain in merchandise that has been smuggled into the country.

Jerry's Taxi Has Lowest Mail Bid

Jerry's Taxi, of which J. J. Boudreau is the owner, submitted the lowest of about sixty bids for the temporary contract for carrying mail between Escanaba and Gladstone. Award of the contract, however, will not be made until the bids are checked over by the Chicago bureau of the U. S. railway mail service.

The contract, which calls for five trips daily and two on Sunday between the two cities, will be limited to about three months, following which bids will be received for a permanent contract. A truck will be required for this service.

For many years, this mail service has been handled by the Escanaba Traction company, which is scheduled to abandon operations the first of the month.

PAVING OF U. S. 41

ALTHOUGH the possibilities for its early accomplishment are somewhat uncertain, the movement launched by the Marquette Chamber of Commerce to secure the paving of the present route of U. S. 41, between Marquette and Gladstone, merits the hearty support of Escanaba and the other communities along that highway.

with an increased personal interest in the boys with whom they come in contact. There should not be a single boy in this community next week whose life has not been enriched by a more intimate contact with men and their world.

THE "UNLOADED GUN"

HOW many times we hear or read the story of accidental death or serious injury that resulted because someone thought the gun was not loaded.

The hazards that lurk in the practice of keeping loaded firearms about the home or anywhere else were revealed in the accidental shooting of a Turin school boy Tuesday afternoon. But children are not the only persons who fall victims, for records compiled by the National Safety Council show that many adults meet death and injury in this manner.

After all, there seems to be no valid excuse for having a loaded gun lying around a home. The danger of attacks by Indians and wild animals is no longer present. There is more safety with an empty gun than with a loaded one.

THE SCHOOL ELECTION

ORDINARILY, Escanaba displays little interest in its school elections, and the voting in almost every instance has been light. This is somewhat of a perplexing situation for, after all, the selection of citizens to serve on the board of education is equally as important as the naming of members of the Escanaba city council.

That good men have been selected in the past despite the usual apathy of the voters should not be accepted as an indication that such good results will be continued, however. The people should see to it that the best two men available are chosen at the annual school election to be held Monday, June 13.

The man who says the right thing at the right time is rare. But not half so rare as the man who says nothing at the right time.

Anniversary

Boys are essentially the same as they were a generation ago; they like the men who like them; they respond to the men who demonstrate an active interest in their welfare. Many of the great men of today are frank in acknowledging that a large share of their success has been due to the friendly interest of some man during some period of their early development.

Germany Take Voormezele On April 28, 1918, German troops took Voormezele and Hill 60 after two days of bloody fighting. British troops were forced back all along the Lys front in severe actions. The battle was preceded by a terrific bombardment of British positions by an overwhelming number of German heavy guns. During the days of fighting, Loche changed hands five times, finally falling to the Germans. A counter-attack launched by British reserves succeeded in regaining some of the ground lost near Voormezele, where the hand-to-hand fighting continued. British troops in Mesopotamia continued their advance, following their victory the previous day.

The Man Hunters

By MABEL MCLELLIOTT

CHAPTER XXV ERNEST HEATH was in his library alone. With a sigh of disgust he pushed back the plans on which he had been working. Odd how sometimes everything seemed to go stale, he thought. He had been fighting off this feeling of futility for weeks. He awoke with it in the morning. During the day he seemed able to shake it off but when he was tired or when his brain lagged as it did now it returned in full force.

"What I need is a holiday," he told himself. He rose and strolled about restlessly, picking up small objects and putting them down. He supposed Ruth would be quite late. She was playing bridge at the Hamilton's and they had planned to go later, to the club to dance. He might as well go to bed but since he was not in the least disposed to sleep he wandered into the garden. He stood there gazing up at the cold, remote, inaccessible sky, as if it might provide an answer to his problem.

It was a perfect fall night. There was a cool, high wind from the west and a strange stillness seemed to brood over all. It was always quiet there but tonight seemed especially so. Thus it was that when a spitting sound suddenly rent the stillness the listening man felt his nerves tingle with annoyance. There was a grinding of gears. There was, just once, a faint cry. Heath began to run in the direction of the noise. Down the lane he went, hatless, a tall map in a dinner suit.

When he reached the intersection of the main road he was breathless. He looked to right and left and for an instant could see nothing. Then a little way beyond he caught sight of a lean, greyhound shape at the side of the road. He walked briskly in its direction.

For a moment Heath thought the car was empty. Then just ahead he discovered what his nearsighted eyes had previously missed. Two tall, young figures, a girl and a man. Relief surged over him and anger, too.

"Young fools," he muttered. "I might have known there was nothing really wrong."

He started to return to his quiet garden when something about the girl's pose arrested him. A fragment of what she was saying reached him. "I tell you I'm not going. Nothing could induce me to!"

THERE seemed to be some-hing tremulous and appealing about the voice. Heath squared his shoulders. He was a shy man but a conscientious one and he thought he had no choice. His long legs brought him in a few strides to the quarreling pair. "I beg your pardon," he said quietly, addressing the girl whose face was only a white blur in the darkness. "Is there anything I can do? I thought I heard a crash—"

He was shaken when the voice that answered proved to be that of his secretary. Trembling, excited, yet unmistakably Susan Carey's.

"Mr. Heath!" that voice said. "I wonder if you would be so awfully good as to take me back to the Ackroys. I'm staying there and the others have gone to another party and I have a raging headache."

Heath concealed his surprise. "I should be delighted," he said, ignoring her escort and wishing he had not left his eyeglasses on his study desk. These tall, young ruffians all looked alike.

"I should be delighted," he repeated. The youth said something in a low voice, too low for Heath to hear. The older man waited, embarrassed. Then he felt a light touch on his arm.

"Shall we start now?" Susan said. She was trembling.

"You'd better keep hold of my arm," he admonished her. "These roads are full of ruts if you're not familiar with them. I can walk them in my sleep."

His manner was as calm as though nothing unusual had happened. "We'll go along to my house and pick up a car," he continued. "It's too far to walk all the way and you're cold."

She began to speak all in a rush. "I think I ought to explain—"

Coldly he said, "Don't tell me unless you especially want to."

"Oh, but I do." She was shivering now with excitement and fatigue. "I'd like to tell you about it if you don't mind. He—he said dreadful things. She felt the man's arm stiffen under her fingers and hastened to amend what she had said.

"Oh, no, don't be angry," she begged. "It sounds worse than it was, really. He insulted my friends—made fun of them—and then he insinuated—"

"Yes?" the man's voice prompted. "Insinuated what?"

"He—he'd been drinking," Susan told him. "It was at the club. Then he and another boy fought. Oh, it was horrible!"

"Sounds rather rowdyish," commented Heath dryly. "The whole affair offended his sense of fastidiousness."

"I shouldn't have come," the girl rushed on. "It was all a mistake. My aunt said so and she was right." Piteously she demanded, "Do you suppose older people always know best?"

"I've heard it said but I'm not sure it's true."

"Well, anyhow, we were driving and he asked me if I was engaged to Ben. Ben's poor," she interpolated. "He doesn't belong to this crowd any more than I do."

"Well, what was it he insinuated?" Heath asked. "Whoever the young cad was, he needed a thrashing. They were almost at his own front door now. The lights streaming out of the lower windows illuminated the girl's pale face.

"What he said was that I was a flirt—that I wasn't being fair with Ben," she told him with passionate indignation.

"Was that all?" Heath was so relieved his voice was almost amused. "All?" she echoed. "That's enough! It was so stupid anyway. The whole evening was horrid, not a bit like what I expected. It wasn't any better than a west side dance hall," she finished with superb disdain.

Heath had led her to the garage and was helping her into the car.

"So you thought we did things better up here, eh?" he inquired sardonically. "Too bad you were disappointed." He turned to glance at her and saw that she was struggling for composure. Tears glittered on her lashes.

"I thought—oh I don't know what I thought," she faltered. "Anyhow it's over now and I've learned a lesson."

HE began to race the engine just as the lights of another car

The outstanding disgrace of America is the unhealthy and indecent housing and sanitary conditions of our slums and many of our homes. There are billions of dollars worth of sound, self-supporting and profitable projects of construction that await approval and the impulse to get under way.

THE GIRL PROBLEM

There's no one as pretty as Betty, And no one as sane as Jane, There's no one as witty as Kitty, The same in the sun or the rain. There's no one as able as Mabel, And none with a face like Grace, And never a fairy like Mary, Just dancing all over the place.

Not one fits a palace like Alice, Unless it's the queen Irene, Not one is as natty as Hattie, Not one that I ever have seen. Not one treats a fellow like Ella, Yet none is as true as Prue, Not one is as dainty as Bessie, So what is a fellow to do?

Now, one I might marry is Carrie, Perhaps I should mate with Kate, But there is no Lellin' but Ellen, Might bring me a happier fate. There's never a girlie like Shirley, And yet how you please, Louise, Not many the chances like Frances, So how can I choose from these?

A beauty, I know, is Lois, But none is as pert as Gert, Not one has the money of Bunny, So all of her friends assert. The way that it ended was splendid, The grooms that I see agree, Though the ladies were many, not any Consented to marry me.

Chairs Subject Of Art Lecture By Mrs. Conant

Mrs. John Conant of Green Bay, guest speaker of the Escanaba Woman's club, delivered a brilliant and scholarly lecture before that body at the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium, Escanaba Junior high school, Wednesday afternoon. Her audience gave spell-bound attention for an hour and a half as she spoke knowingly and feelingly of every phase of period art.

She spoke of church furniture, as depicted in paintings, of the Sarracenia chair, the Italian Renaissance chair, elaborately carved, tracing the development to England with the Drake chair of the Elizabethan period, the cock-pit chair which belongs to Eton college, the Yorkshire chair, and the Jacobean furniture of the time of James I, and the development in that country as various influences of other nations made themselves felt.

National Music Week Plans of Wide Interest

National Music Week, May 1 to 7, which will have its first general observance in Escanaba, in an elaborate program under the supervision of Mrs. E. G. Royce, general chairman, has been described as not only "a drive for music by the friends of music," but as "the occasion for participation in and receiving of pleasure, thus making it independent of any propelling force from behind."

Music Week has grown from the year of its first national observance, in 1924, to such an extent that it has taken a very definite hold upon the general public. Its strength, it has been said, comes from the universal, yet sometimes unconscious, human need for music and participation in it ranges from elaborate concert and pageant to the simple home musicale.

In Escanaba the observance is opening with the chorus concert Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium, in which nine choirs of the city will sing in unison and in individual groups. Throughout the week there will be club, school, church, programs and the closing will be a district music festival on Saturday, under the direction of R. P. Bowers, in which music organizations from upper peninsula schools of the district will take part.

The week's program will be the most extensive observance of the week ever held in Escanaba. It will attract wide interest among individuals and organizations and is certain of the fine spirit of cooperation urged by Mayor Carl J. Sawyer in his proclamation setting aside the week for special observance.

A Book A Day By Bruce Catton

The American of today seems to take a mournful delight in being told that his country's immediate future is largely in the hands of men who are ludicrously unqualified for their job. Fustian the stuffed shirts and windbags of Washington and New York and you are sure to get an en-hushtastic audience; predict dire events just beyond the horizon, and you will have people hanging on your every word.

If, in addition, you can say all of this in a cynically witty manner, you are a made man, and your book will be a best seller.

All of this is by way of announcing that Jay Franklin has written "What We Are About to Receive," a book which casts a sardonic and apprehensive eye at the forthcoming political campaign, the depression, the international situation and allied matters.

Mr. Franklin sounds like a radical, but he isn't. On the contrary, he seems to be nothing but a conservative who refuses to be kidded. But his book is such a refreshing exposure of pompous fakery, such a level-headed appraisal of half-baked philosophies and meaningless slogans, that he is apt to pass for a ruthless iconoclast.

Few people or institutions get off with a whole skin, in this book. The major political parties, the candidates, the statesmen, the leaders in finance and industry—all are nearly debunked. When you finish the book you find that he hasn't said anything particularly memorable; about all you retain is a vaguely agreeable recollection of having witnessed some sacred cows being harried into an undignified gallop. But it's all good reading, and it makes a nice preparation for the pending season's speeches.

I have no plans to leave New York or do a single thing politically. Nothing that has been said or done justifies my doing anything.

—Ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York.

Resident Of County 50 Years, Dies At Home In Bark River

Death claimed a pioneer of Delta county Tuesday at midnight when Gothard Olson, 71, passed away at his home in Bark River after having been in failing health for the past six years, suffering from asthma, later developing leakage of the heart. He was able to be about his home until three days ago when his condition became alarming and he remained in bed.

Mr. Olson was born April 12, 1861, in Sundby, Sweden, and came to the United States in 1882, settling in this city. PRESENT SENIOR COMEDY FRIDAY

Class Play at Auditorium Tomorrow; Fine Ticket Sale

Tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock members of the senior class will present to the public the charming and fascinating three-act farce comedy, "A Lucky Break."

Reservations began yesterday at the school auditorium, and as the ticket sale thus far has been highly satisfactory, the public is urged to obtain reservations as early as possible.

Finishing touches were put on the comedy at rehearsals held every night this week. The amateur performers have been well schooled in their respective parts by Miss Mary Robbins, director of the show, and the public is assured of a splendid performance.

The exciting plot centers about the activities of John Bruce, Wall Street millionaire, played by Donald Neville. The millionaire returns to his home community intent upon helping his townfolk, most of them try to obtain financial assistance in order to further their selfish schemes and desires.

Mr. Bruce becomes suspicious and believes that the people are solely interested in what they can get out of him. His business manager, however, thinks otherwise, and is convinced that Bruce's small town friends are sincere.

The test comes when the community gets the news that the company that Mr. Bruce is interested in has failed. Instead of his popularity waning, however, he finds people extremely sympathetic and desirous of helping him.

Those who had depended upon the millionaire's funds soon chose other lines of endeavor which they could finance themselves. After everybody has acclimated themselves to the new situation, it is found that Bruce's firm is still solvent and that the failure was simply an idle rumor.

Throughout the play the action moves fast with never a dull moment. Sparkling wit and humor pervade from beginning to end. Romances, including an "eternal triangle," hang in the balance, but finally end happily. Those who see "A Lucky Break" are assured of a brilliant hour and a half of entertainment.

The cast is as follows: Martha Mullet—Bertha Linderoth. Nora Mullet—Edith Bowman. Elmina Ludine—Ruth Peasley. Mrs. Barrett—Linnea Thompson. Claudia Barrett—Bernadine Bebeau. Bella MacWatt—Virginia Cutler. Alphecca Spinster—Gertrude Kleist. Alchiba Spinster—Katherine Husband. John Bruce—Daniel Neville. Tommy Lansing—Oren Quick. Benny Ketcham—Wesley Orr.

CONSERVATION DAY OBSERVED

Woman's Club Hears Fine Talk Prepared by Wm. S. Crowe

Crushing the prevailing idea in this country that Americans are more efficient than peoples of foreign countries, William S. Crowe in a paper read by Mrs. Wesley B. Orr, unfolded facts gained in his travels showing that Europeans and Orientals are, in some phases at least, far in advance of the United States.

"Conservation in America is mostly conversation," Mr. Crowe wrote, "and when we think of conservation we are apt to think only of trees and forests, but conservation in its broad sense concerns every industry and every person."

"To the average American who thinks that the eyes of the world are on the United States it is a great shock to realize that there are actually over nineteen people living outside of America for every one in it, and that to 15 of the 19, America is nothing more than a name, and that the United States might sink under the ocean tomorrow and the living conditions and habits of at least ten per cent of the nineteen would not be affected in any degree."

Mr. Crowe went on to explain that he was educated with the "little red schoolhouse complex" which inculcates the idea that one Revolutionary soldier could whip four or five red coats, that America is the only "God's country," that we are the most efficient nation upon the earth.

Mr. Crowe stated that his grandparents were born in this country and that he was just as patriotic an American as anyone, but that it is not a particular mark of patriotism to be so intensely nationalistic and bigoted.

"When we mention the American standard of living, we are apt to think of automobiles, bath tubs, and radios. According to this idea, Al Capone's standard of living is much higher than that of a certain Nazarene who lived 2000 years ago and had not where to lay his head. We are apt to forget that a standard of living should not be measured by material possessions."

Discussing efficiency, Mr. Crowe cited numerous examples where Europeans are more efficient than we are despite our modern methods. His paper stated that the Egyptians in the Nile valley feed more people from their crops than do our 50,000 people in the Imperial valley of California who use all modern methods of farming and transportation. All of this despite the fact that the Nile valley has been farmed for over 4000 years.

In conclusion Mr. Crowe stated, "As a matter of fact, Europe is much more efficient than America simply because they have to support four times as many people per acre as we do in America. We are comparatively inefficient; in fact, I believe we are the most inefficient nation on earth, because we have been living, so to speak, off our pantry shelves, but as our population increases and our natural resources decrease, we will be compelled to adopt a great many methods now common in foreign countries."

Musical entertainment was provided by Mrs. A. F. Hall with a splendid piano solo entitled "Barcarolle," and by the high school boys' glee club which sang the following selections in impressive style: "The Glory of God in Nature"; "The Winter Song"; "The Old Chariot"; and "Mosquitos." They were directed by Miss Helen Hulbert.

In the business meeting the matter of the placing of the memorial for the soldiers and sailors of school craft county who served during the World War, on highway US-2 east of the city, was discussed by Mrs. A. S. Putnam; a plea was made for old clothing for the needy by Mrs. George Nicholson, chairman of the public welfare committee; and an announcement of the finance committee's bake sale at Weber & Vaughan's grocery Saturday, was made by Mrs. A. F. Hall.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mesdames O. Quick, Lydia Roos, Donald Ross, D. E. Seller, and Ward Mumford. Mrs. Roos and Mrs. Seller presided at the tables.

THEATRES

Feature No. 1 What a plumber does not know about love is amusingly demonstrated in "The Passionate Plumber," showing tonight at the Rialto Theatre, with a cast headed by such comedy experts as Buster Keaton, Jimmy "Schnozle" Durante and Polly Moran.

The plot concerns the hilarious adventures of Keaton as a French plumber's assistant who gets into all sorts of difficulties when he attempts to repair a lady's bathtub.

Feature No. 2 The inside intrigues of a jury room are revealed for the first time at the Rialto Theatre where RKO-Radio Pictures' "Ladies of the Jury" is showing with the inimitable Edna May Oliver in the starring role.

The film is a riot of laughs and pokes the merry finger of satire at the mixed jury system which expects twelve men and women of extremely opposite types to reach a verdict.

Edna May Oliver is cast in the role of a determined, crafty social leader who is impetuous on a jury of plumbers, cooks, mechanics and flappers. She alone votes for acquittal, and by devious schemes, promises and a few lies converts the jury against its will.

THEATRES

Feature No. 1 What a plumber does not know about love is amusingly demonstrated in "The Passionate Plumber," showing tonight at the Rialto Theatre, with a cast headed by such comedy experts as Buster Keaton, Jimmy "Schnozle" Durante and Polly Moran.

The plot concerns the hilarious adventures of Keaton as a French plumber's assistant who gets into all sorts of difficulties when he attempts to repair a lady's bathtub.

Feature No. 2 The inside intrigues of a jury room are revealed for the first time at the Rialto Theatre where RKO-Radio Pictures' "Ladies of the Jury" is showing with the inimitable Edna May Oliver in the starring role.

The film is a riot of laughs and pokes the merry finger of satire at the mixed jury system which expects twelve men and women of extremely opposite types to reach a verdict.

Edna May Oliver is cast in the role of a determined, crafty social leader who is impetuous on a jury of plumbers, cooks, mechanics and flappers. She alone votes for acquittal, and by devious schemes, promises and a few lies converts the jury against its will.

Thirteen Children To Dental Clinic Thirteen Gladstone children will be taken to St. Francis hospital today for teeth extractions by Dr. H. L. Miller of the Children's Fund, who will conduct a dental clinic. Miss Emily Hanson, school nurse, will be in charge of nine and Miss Millena Tracy, Child's Welfare nurse, will have charge of four.

BOYS' HOBBIES GO ON DISPLAY

Boys' Week Observance to Start With Fair Saturday

Eighty Gladstone boys from the sixth to tenth grades will participate in the Hobby Fair, which is to open Saturday in conjunction with the observance of Boys' Week, April 30 to May 7. The fair will be under the direction of C. E. Titus, advisor of the H-Y club, and is being sponsored by the Rotary club.

The fair is to be held at Green's Hardware where the hobbies of the boys are to be exhibited in the display windows. Two distinct types of hobbies are to be included in the exhibit one of which is the manufacture of articles and the other collections.

The display of manufactured articles will include birdhouses, kites, airplanes, models, carving, leathercraft, freehand drawings, mechanical drawings, paintings, kodak pictures and numerous other items. The collections are just as varied, including Indian relics, rocks, shells, butterflies, flowers, coins and stamps.

Following the exhibit, the Boys' Work committee of the Rotary club, of which J. T. Jones, G. R. Empson, Soren Johnson, Jr., W. S. Skellenger and C. C. Strickland are members, will make suitable awards for articles which show superior workmanship, ingenuity or other distinguishing characteristics. Collections will also be considered for merit awards.

Further observance of Boys' Week will include a meeting of the Rotary club, when Prin. C. C. Strickland, of the Gladstone schools, will give a talk on boys and their activities.

Boys' Week originated in New York City in 1920 through the instrumentality of a Rotary club. A year later the week was observed by a group of five cities and in 1931, eleven years after its inception the week was set aside for observance by every country in the civilized world.

The objectives of boys week as set forth by the National organization are: To focus public attention upon the boy as one of the world's greatest assets by making the nation think in terms of boyhood. To interest everyone in boys, to interest boys in themselves, and to emphasize fundamentals in character building for citizenship.

To develop a community esprit de corps in the home, school, church, and spare-time organizations which deal with boys. To advocate for every boy an equal chance to work out his destiny without the handicap of underprivilege or overprivilege.

Senior Class Play Is Highly Praised

You've all heard of and witnessed complications set up by twin characters. You've all laughed at the significance of an English type of person. You've all screamed at the presence of a Swedish chambermaid—but when a third party tries to imitate the twins, new complications are created, more laughter is generated, and above all you forget "depression" for the evening.

These are just a few of the characteristics of the Senior high school play to be given at the Gladstone high school auditorium Friday evening, May 13.

The Senior Class presents this year a royalty play, by a famous author, Ellen M. Gall and Leslie H. Carter, and according to statistics, by the high school critics, who have viewed the play, it is to be the greatest play ever put on in the auditorium.

The cast is talented and taken from a selected group, all of whom have been in previous class plays, and who are active in the assembly dramatizations.

In addition to being humorous he play has a well-developed plot, with every incident coming to a well-planned and well-directed climax.

Sox Beat Tigers, 4-3; Pirates Lose to Cubs, 8 to 4

DETROIT GOES TO ST. LOUIS

Two Strike Out in Last Inning With Bases All Filled

Detroit, April 27 (AP)—Although the Chicago White Sox committed six misplays, Sad Sam Jones had the stop sign on the Detroit Tigers today, and the Sox won, 4 to 3, in the closing game of their series here.

The Tiger bats, which echoed loudly to bring them nine victories in twelve starts, whistled harmlessly through a strong wind at Navin field today in the thirteenth game of the season, despite a ninth inning rally, in which they filled the bases with one out, the Detroit club couldn't get a tying run. Bump Hadley entered the game in the ninth, walked Big Dale Alexander to fill the bases, and then calmly struck out Roy Johnson and Harry Davis, to wind up the match.

Vic Sorrell held the mound for the Tigers, allowing seven hits, and faltering in the third when the Sox brought in three runs. Jones also allowed seven hits, but they were well scattered.

The Tigers got off to a one-run lead in the first inning. A single by Davis, an error by Werhag that allowed Stone to lead off, and another error by Sorrell, new to the Sox lineup today, brought Davis across the plate.

Fall in Ninth
The Sox went ahead in the third inning with three runs. Watwood got to first on Gehring's error, and a single by Selph and a walk for Seeds filled the bases. Then Sorrell passed big Robert Fothergill, forcing in the first run. Blue, next up, rapped out a long single that scored Selph and Seeds.

Nothing daunted, the Tigers came back in the fourth to tie the game, 3 all. Stone drew a pass but was out at second on Gehring's long fly muffed by Hodapp. Rhel singled to right and Gehring scored when Watwood dropped the ball. Rogell's grounder went through Hodapp's legs, scoring Rhel.

Both pitchers settled down until the sixth, when Blue singled and took second on Hodapp's bouncer, and Appling singled to score Blue. From then on the Tigers tried frantically to put over a tying run, but their big chance coming in the ninth. Rogell fanned to start the ninth. Walker knocked out a single to center, and White, batting for Hayworth, singled, sending Walker to third. Hadley rapped Jones at this point, and passed Alexander, Schube running for him. Then Johnson came up with the high hopes of Tiger fans. He struck out. Harry Davis, looked upon to win the ball game, stepped before Hadley and took the count in the same way.

Tomorrow the Tigers open in St. Louis for a four-game series with the Browns.

UTERITZ BACK AS GRID COACH

Resigns as Director of Athletics at Wisconsin University

Madison, Wis., April 27 (AP)—Irwin Uteritz, named director of intercollegiate athletics at the University of Wisconsin less than four months ago, was transferred today to the post of assistant football coach at his request and that of Coach Clarence Spears.

The board of regents made the unexpected move while considering other athletic matters, chiefly the appointment of faculty members to the new athletic board which today replaced the athletic council.

Dr. Spears became head football coach here recently and it was indicated at the time that he desired to take over the post of athletic director as well as that of head coach. President Glenn Frank had referred to the Uteritz appointment as being "transitory."

Resumes Old Duties
In returning to the football squad as backfield coach, Uteritz resumes the duties he held for several years. He starred at football and baseball at Michigan and served as assistant to George Little, both at Michigan and Wisconsin. When Little resigned last December, to become director of physical education at Rutgers University, the athletic council named Uteritz to succeed him.

His selection came as a surprise and was announced by the council before the board of regents had reviewed the recommendation.

The regents asked President Glenn Frank and J. D. Phillips, business manager, to select a temporary successor to Uteritz.

Leading Batsmen In Big Leagues

(By The Associated Press)
Only two of the batting leaders in the major leagues were able to play yesterday as the weather forced the postponement of all eastern games and one of them, Gus Suhr of Pittsburgh, slipped out of the "Big Six" at the top of the list.

A homer in the first inning was the only hit Suhr could get in four times up against Pat Malone of the Cubs and his average dropped to .375, five points behind the idle Bill Terry of the Giants, who gained third place in the National League.

Pinkey Whitney went up to second. Gerald Walker, American League leader, lost 28 points from his average with one hit in four times at bat but his .472 mark still was good enough to lead the major league regulars. The standing:

CARDINALS BOW TO REDS, 6 TO 4

Cincinnati Gets 12 Hits To Take Tussle With World Champs

Cincinnati, April 27 (AP)—The cellar step tussle of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Cincinnati Reds developed into a hitting and base stealing contest today with the Reds winning 6 to 4.

Young Jimmy Shevlin got his first start of the season, playing for Hellman at first. He stole two bases, one in a double steal in the 7th in which Babe Herman scored.

Collins was the Cardinals big gun. His home run with Bottomley's single brought the Cards two runs in the 7th. His triple with Frisch ahead of him added a run to a last minute St. Louis rally.

Great Pitching
George Grantham and Babe Herman set the pace for the Reds. Grantham with four singles and Herman with two singles and a double. They figured in all but two of Cincinnati's scoring innings.

In the first they hit a single apiece and Chick Hafey added another for the first run. They also hit successive singles in the fifth to bring Leo Durocher home with the second tally. Shevlin scored in the sixth but the star duo came back in the next inning with a single and a double and a run apiece.

Silas Johnson gave the Reds some great pitching in the early part of the game. He allowed only three hits up to the seventh when Collins hit his homer. He weakened badly in the ninth, giving three more hits and two runs. Watkins and Frisch nicked him for singles and the former scored on Bottomley's liner before Collins batted in the final run. The chunky right hander tightened up at this point and retired the last two batsmen.

Ruth Gives Up Golf to Help New York Win

Golf to Help New York Win

(Associated Press Sports Editor)
New York, April 27 (AP)—Babe Ruth has given up his alternate love—golf—in order to concentrate on and conserve his energies for the business of helping to wallop the New York Yankees to the top of the American league.

"I found out last year I couldn't combine the two games and be at my best," he said today.

"Maybe I'm getting a little old—but these ball games are tough enough on the legs. I need all the rest I can get, especially since I have a little touch of water on the knee now and have to take care of that."

This sounded a bit alarming but the Babe added: "No, it doesn't amount to much. I've had it before."

The great man, meanwhile, sees no reason for changing his prediction on the order of the American league finish—New York, Washington, Philadelphia.

He's still learning
"I'm not surprised to see the Athletics slipping," he said. "I expected them to. Washington will be our toughest opposition but the Yankees should win in a walk."

Was he still experimenting with his own batting stance? "No, I've been hitting pretty well anyway and I feel more comfortable with the left foot well back. It may sound funny but I'm still trying to learn how it's done, after 19 years."

Hitting .394 for the first two weeks of the season, with five home runs already to his credit, Ruth is away to one of his best starts, despite a slight touch of "flu."

The year he set his major league record of 60 home runs, 1927, did not collect the fifth until May 1. In fact he has never before had more than four homers to show for his April efforts.

NET TOURNAMENT DRAWING MADE

Six members of last year's squad who are seeded in the tournament are Frank Bourke, Bob Bartlett, Frank Lindsley, Richard Stratton, Chester Olson and Robert Lemire. Three of these players are competing in each bracket.

Through qualification the squad lost but one player, Bob McEwen, winner of the Upper Peninsula singles title for the past two years. McEwen paired with Frank Bourke also holds the regional doubles title.

The drawings for the tourney follow: Upper bracket; F. Bourke vs. O. Kallin, J. Pepin vs. K. Genlesse, R. Stratton vs. H. Henkin, I. Smith vs. R. Bartella, Lower bracket: F. Lindsley vs. R. Dube, J. Anthony vs. R. Lemire, G. Labre vs. R. Coplan, D. Lemire vs. C. Olson.

U. S.-CANADA IN DAVIS CUP SETS

Allison and Vines Represent America in Singles

Washington, April 27 (AP)—Opening of the United States-Canada Davis cup play tomorrow is expected to show whether Ellsworth Vines has regained the form which made him the national amateur tennis champion last year.

Vines meets Dr. Jack Wright, a capable, experienced player but hardly a match for the American if the latter's game is at its top. The Californian, however, has been beaten twice this spring by Wilmer Allison of Texas. In these matches, he had trouble with both service and return, a principal difficulty being a tendency to keep the ball too high.

Allison vs. Ra'ville
Last week, however, in the finals of the White Sulphur Springs tournament he downed Allison and he impressed yesterday in an exhibition with John Van Ryn.

Allison tomorrow tackles the Canadian, Marcel Ratville. The Texan's showing this spring has been impressive and he got the call over Frank Shields, who will be available, however it needed.

Dr. Wright a veteran Davis cupper, has been regarded as a fixture on the Canadian team all along but the stocky Ra'ville beat Walter Martin yesterday in four blistering sets to get his place.

Van Ryn and Allison will meet a Canadian pair, yet to be chosen, in the doubles Friday.

In the past, the Americans have been one of the best double teams in international tennis.

The three-day class ends Saturday with Vines paired against Ra'ville and Allison against Wright.

BUDGET POLICY IS ANNOUNCED

Marquette Supervisors to Probe Various County Offices

Marquette, Mich.—Constructive readjustment of expenditures and administrative methods, not mere "ax-wielding," is the primary function of the special county budget committee named last week to probe all county offices and departments, it was declared yesterday afternoon by Charles J. Stakel, chairman, when the committee assembled here in the supervisors' room in the county building for its first session.

"This committee has a big job before it," said Mr. Stakel. "We will be expected to reduce expenditures wherever possible and make recommendations to the board of supervisors which, if carried out, will materially lower the tax burden in this county. Our job, however, if we do it as we should, is something more than weighing the axe.

"We must not make drastic cuts that will impair the work of important county departments. We must study every department carefully and make an effort to maintain and increase its efficiency and at the same time eliminate all waste and unnecessary expense. We not only must seek to pare appropriations, but also must see that methods and administration are so adjusted that every dollar of public money spent in the county will bring a maximum return."

Next Meeting May 3

The budget committee will hold its next meeting here on May 3 and it is probable that afternoon and evening sessions will be required. Yesterday the committee decided upon a definite plan of procedure, details of which will not be made public, and each member of the committee will be given, in a day or two, a copy of this year's county budget with an itemized statement of all expenses in each department. These figures will be studied by the committeemen so that they will be ready to take up the first portion of their work at

Florence Young Is Elected President Of Newberry Club

Florence Young, Newberry post mistress, was elected president of the Business and Professional Woman's club at the annual election of officers held in the community building on Tuesday evening. Miss Young, who has been in the post office as assistant and postmistress for many years, is a woman of fine ability and the club will do well under her direction. Viola Johnson is the new vice president, Ruth Stephens is secretary and Anna Hall treasurer.

Elizabeth Hall, the retiring president and the one in whose hands the new organization began its career, has been associated with the Foster Hardware company for many years. She has succeeded in keeping the interest in the club as keen as when it was first organized, the attendance being close to 90 per cent for the year. There has been a steady growth in membership and the programs of increasing interest.

April will see two of the year's leading events in the club's program.

It is probable, Chairman Stakel said, that the committee will hold 10 or 12 meetings before it makes its report to the board of supervisors in July.

It was the unanimous opinion of the committeemen yesterday that no publicity should be given to their work until "it is completed."

"It must be remembered," said Chairman Stakel, "that this committee is not vested with the authority to decide anything. We have been appointed to study the problems at hand to make recommendations to the board of supervisors. When we have completed our work and make our report, publication of our recommendations will be desirable, but not before. Published statements or announcements about our work while we are in the midst of it might do much harm and make it difficult for us to get the best results."

The vocational dinner will be held later in the month with the membership committee in charge, Anna Auten chairman.

James Robertson and Mrs. Robertson of Sault Ste. Marie were the guests of the club at the Tuesday meet. Mr. Robertson, a Sault business man, educated as an artist, spoke most instructively and entertainingly on "Cartoons and Cartooning." Arthur Neu sang two numbers with Mrs. Johnson playing his accompaniment.

Limited to County Matters

It developed during yesterday's preliminary discussions that the budget committee will, necessarily, be limited in its proceedings to investigation of county offices and departments over which the board of supervisors has control and which are supported, wholly or in part, by county tax levy.

This was brought out when one member of the committee, commenting on general conditions in the county, declared that township school expenditures in this county "would stand a lot of investigating."

"I know of one township in which it costs the taxpayers about $70 a year for each pupil in the township schools. There is another township in which the per capita cost is $300 a year and another in which it is $227. Obviously there is need of an overhauling of some of our township school administrations. Such an investigation is not within the limits of the work laid out for this committee, to be sure, but there is nothing to prevent us from making a few suggestions about township school matters if we see fit."

In its consideration of Marquette county's budget and departmental expenditures, the special committee will have access to figures showing comparative expenditures in some of the other upper peninsula counties. The figures were gathered and compiled by Mr. Stakel. The committee also will have figures showing how Marquette county's departmental expenditures have grown over a period of years.

HOW TO GROW BETTER SPUDS

Good Seed Is of First Importance, Says D. I. Clananhan

By D. I. CLANAHAN, Farm Crops Specialist

The recent success which the farmers of the Upper Peninsula have enjoyed in the marketing of special packed and graded potatoes has been responsible for an increase in interest among potato producers of this territory. It has long been known that the soil and climate of the Upper Peninsula were especially well adapted to the production of the best quality of potatoes. This fact is now known to hundreds of people in other sections of the state who have had the advantage of being able to buy our potatoes.

Care must be taken if this reputation is to be maintained. One of the first thoughts in producing good quality potatoes is the seed that is used. The use of inferior seed is largely responsible for crops of poor quality and poor yields. Ill-shaped potatoes are often the result of planting poor seed. A quality product demands that these potatoes be smooth and free from disease.

Certified seed which is grown under the supervision of the Michigan Crop Improvement Association is the best seed to use. It is true to name, practically free from disease, and is produced from hill selected stock. Crops produced from certified seed average approximately 20 per cent better in market quality than crops from ordinary seed. In 1930 tests in different parts of the state, certified seed has averaged 48 bushels more per acre than non-certified ordinary seed.

Increased yields per acre is one of the best ways to reduce the cost per bushel of growing potatoes. One of the best ways to do this would be to use good quality seed. The average yield of all potatoes for the Upper Peninsula was about 100 bushels per acre in 1929. Last year 17 of the better growers who used certified seed, treated their seed for scab and scurf, used commercial fertilizer, and sprayed their crop, average 361 1/2 bushels per acre.

It may not be possible for everyone to get certified seed and in such cases it is advisable to use seed which was grown from certified stock one or two years ago. It will pay to give this crop, which is the most important cash crop grown in the Upper Peninsula, the best of care this year.

Must Wear Tags

Sault Ste. Marie—While seven of eight agents of the Minneapolis Distributing Company were in jail serving five-day sentences imposed for failure to wear identification tags, City Manager Henry A. Sherman today declared that the city would continue to enforce the ordinance requiring the badges.

New badges for 1932 have been received. They are divided into five classes: plumbers, electric meter readers, gas meter readers, water meter readers and peddlers.

City Manager Sherman pointed out the ordinance requires all persons who are engaged in business that takes them from house to house to wear an identification tag. Tags may be obtained from the city clerk after the deposit of $1 to be refunded when the tag is returned.

The case against the eight Minneapolis agents was believed to be the beginning of a test case to show whether the city ordinance is constitutional. Word of further developments has not

THERE'S SOMETHING DIFFERENT about the taste. It is that good, pleasing taste that comes from the right kind of tobacco, cured in the right way—cured for two years or more. It means that to make CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes, millions of dollars are tied up in tobacco leaf—but it's worth it.
