WOOD ALL CUT ON 2 FORTIES

Over 300 Escanaba Jobless Chop Their Own On City Woodlot

More than 300 have responded to the city's offer to furnish wood to jobless Escanaba residents who wished to go out in the woods and cut their own, city manager T. F. Kessler reports. Two forties about three miles from the city on the Danforth road were secured for this purpose. The wood now is practically all cut on both of these forties, and the city is negotiating for still another forty in the same area to be used as a woodlot.

Most of the wood cut on the first of the two forties has been hauled, the city furnishing the truck and driver to haul the fuel to the homes of the cutters, who are also required to help load and unload trucks. Early cutting and hauling has been encouraged while roads are good and to give the wood time to dry out for winter use.

College Romance Frustrated By Dad

The following story concerning Dudley Crafts Watson, Chicago artist and lecturer who is known here in connection with a speaking engagement in Escanaba a few months ago, appeared in yesterday's edition of the Milwaukee Sentinel:

Hints of a frustrated college romance between Emily Watson, 19, daughter of the former director of the Milwaukee Art institute, and George B. Lake, Jr., son of a prominent Highland Park physician, were revealed Wednesday in a wedding license mixup in Racine.

Young Lake, who gave his age at 21 and his occupation as a student, applied for a license to marry Miss Watson at the office of County Clerk Harry Basinger, according to press dispatches.

He gave the name of his bride as Miss Watson, the daughter of Dudley Crafts Watson, noted art critic and lecturer, also a resident of Highland Park, her age at 19, and her occupation as a student at Northwestern university.

But regulations require that both applicants be present for marriage licenses, young Lake was informed. "Oked," he said, "I'll be back Monday and bring her with me."

But Miss Watson reached at her Highland Park residence decreed otherwise. "There'll be no marriage," she declared indignantly. "And I won't be there Monday."

"We are just friends. I have been out with him several times, but the idea of getting a marriage license is just a joke."

Lake at his home in Highland Park confirmed the application for license, but said: "It's all over. My application has been cancelled. I called the clerk by phone."

Dudley Crafts Watson was head of the Milwaukee Art Institute for 10 years. He resigned to take up a post of lecturer with the Chicago Art Institute.

MAINE VOTES MONDAY

THE state of Maine will hold its gubernatorial and congressional elections on Monday. The outcome of the balloting will be awaited with much anxiety as Maine has been considered somewhat of a barometer of what will happen in the presidential elections in November.

Maine has elected a Republican governor in September of every presidential election year subsequent to the civil war, however. The gauging of results in the national elections, therefore, can be made only on the size of the Republican governor's majority in Maine, and not the fact of his election.

A study of history reveals, however, in only six of the 16 elections following the civil war, the national results could have been predicted from the Maine results; in seven, the national results could not have been thus forecast; and in three, 1880, 1912 and 1924 third party tickets invalidated any comparison.

As usual, both the Republican and Democratic parties have been waxing energetic campaigns in Maine this fall. This probably is done more for the effect it will have on the voters throughout the nation because of the Maine tradition than for the capture of the electoral votes in November, since there are only six.

Political observers indicate that New York will be the pivotal state in the presidential election this year. Leaders in the Democratic and Republican ranks, not speaking for publication, have expressed the opinion that Hoover or Roosevelt will win the election by a bare margin of about fifty electoral votes. In 1928, Hoover captured the Empire State's 45 electoral votes, despite the fact that in previous years Alfred E. Smith had been elected governor by substantial majorities. Roosevelt was elected to his first term as governor in 1928, and was returned to office in 1930 by an overwhelming vote.

The Walker episode, undoubtedly, has caused him the loss of some Tammany support, and there are signs that the Wall Street interests are wary of him because of his power policy and other ideas concerning social reform. The electoral vote of New York is the big prize for which both parties will wage a hard fight for it may develop to be the deciding factor of the November election. The forthcoming Literary Digest poll of New York state should prove to be a more authentic barometer than next Monday's election in Maine.

CHEVROLET PLANT QUILTS WISCONSIN

LIKE a bombshell to Janesville came the announcement that the great Chevrolet assembling plant there, employing 1400 men, is folding up and quitting Wisconsin.

The statement that it could not bear the burden of Wisconsin's taxation will bear minute investigation. Any statement made in the thick of a hotly contested political campaign will bear investigation.

reasonable in shouldering their fair share of the burden, or even more, when they consider that the state is at least trying to act fairly and honestly with them, and just as quick to give us the cold shoulder when they think the purpose is to "soak" them.

If the exact facts can be ascertained it will be found that Chevrolet, like all the other plants we have lost, is going because of the threat of Wisconsin, of the wild talk of men like Huber and Blaine, men who make promises to "get" industry or sorely misrepresent its rights, expecting to secure votes from the misinformed ones whom they have misinformed.

To take another payroll of over a million and a half a year and see it go over the line into Illinois is an awful price to pay for keeping some of the extremists in office whom we insist upon retaining or for countenancing or tolerating in office men whom we know are the unfit, the bunglers.

WHAT PRICE? A RETURNING traveler from the far-off South Pacific landed in San Francisco the other day with news of Dr. Frederick Ritter and Frau Hilde Koerwin, formerly of Berlin, who have been living a Robinson Crusoe existence in a remote little island in the Galapagos group for the past two years, and are still quite happy about it.

They told him that they have no intention of quitting their tiny paradise, of which they are the sole inhabitants, and that they expect to live to be 100 years old in the contentment and solitude that is theirs. They have established their home in a rude open-air shack among the trees and live very comfortably, since the equatorial climate never varies.

It is difficult to understand why Dr. Ritter, once a prominent Berlin physician, and his pretty married nurse (undivored, by the way) should choose to give up civilization and his off to a far corner of the world to live like Adam and Eve on a tiny island all to themselves. But why worry over trying to understand it? It is entirely their own affair.

Yet, one can't help believing that Dr. Ritter and his companion are just as happy as they say they are. They may have lost a lot of the attractions that civilization has to offer, but likewise they have gained a lot—for civilization, after all, has its price.

Far from the world's beaten path, they have escaped many things. They have no noisy neighbors eager to pry into their affairs, or always ready to bother by borrowing sugar or coffee; if Dr. Ritter chooses to come home slightly tipsy at night (although goodness only knows where he would be coming from) he need not worry, because there is no one to see him; he is free from worries about pay cuts or losing his job, never bothered by thoughts of the depression, immune from having to crawl out of bed and hustle off to work when the alarm clock rings in the morning, never troubled with the problem of paying bills on the first of the month, exempt from both house rent and taxes, never has to listen to the weary speeches of politicians or read about the scandals of Hollywood movie stars.

Frau Koerwin has her freedom, too. She doesn't have to worry about trying to make ends meet in running the household, washing dirty dishes, getting ready for bridge parties, re-making last year's dress to conform with the new fall styles or entertaining bawdy guests who drop in at the most inopportune times and stay much longer than they are wanted.

Yes, there's a lot to be said in favor of a solitary existence on a desert island. So much so, in fact, it's liable to make one wonder when the next boat leaves for the South Seas and how much a ticket costs.

for LOVE or MONEY

(By NEA Service) BY H. W. CORLEY

CHAPTER XLIV

It was Barry's voice that Mona heard. "Oh, my darling, you've come at last!"

Barry was beside her. After all these days and weeks of courteous formality, of coldness almost, he was again the Barry she had learned to love. For a moment Mona did not speak, did not turn her head. She sank against the white linen shoulder, against the arm which enclosed her and sighed.

Then, still without speaking, she raised her hand and pressed it against Barry's face. "Yes, Barry, I—I'm here!" They stood in silence. The sands lay white around them. The sea under the white moonlight rippled quietly. The flamboyant trees close at hand swayed softly. There seemed no one else in the world except these two.

Mona did not look at Barry. Her head sank lower against his shoulder. She could feel the beating of his heart as tumultuous as her own. "Mona, why did you do it, darling?" he said at last.

"Do what, Barry?" Still she did not look at him. He had caught her hand in his own. "Do what? Oh, Mona, how could you! Why did you marry my uncle?" The despair in his voice tore her heart.

"Why did you run away?" she countered. He was miserable and she was adding to his misery. "How could I stay when I knew?"

Barry did not speak for a moment but his arm tightened about her.

"Barry! Do you think I married your uncle for his money?"

"It certainly looked that way. You knew I had none. You know—"

She shook her head. The curls of her hair touched his cheek. "How could you think that of me?" Mona demanded. "You hadn't asked me to marry you. You hadn't even said you loved me!"

"I thought I did! That was why when Mr. Garretson asked me to rush to Twilands and marry Barry Townsend I didn't hesitate! That was the way it all happened, Barry. It didn't occur to me that your uncle's name was Barry, too! It didn't occur to me that I was going to Twilands for any other reason except to marry you!"

"But when Garretson told you it was my uncle—" Barry began. "He didn't! We talked it all over without mentioning the man's name. Finally I asked him just as I was going out the door who the man was and he said 'Barry Townsend.'"

"And you thought you were going to Twilands to marry me?" Barry said slowly. Mona nodded. "Until I was there in the sick room."

"And by that time I was on board the Miranda!" Barry's head dropped miserably and Mona reached out a hand once more and touched his cheek. "It's not too late now, Barry," she said timidly. "It's not too late. We aren't old yet. And we're here—"

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch (Copyright 1932 by Douglas Malloch)

THE OLD WAY Each day it's another boy. Each night it's another place. A search for a later joy.

A smile from a newer face, She says it's a better way. She says, and she ought to know: I think of an older day.

The days of the long ago. Each day it's another girl. It's not like it used to be: One look, and a heart awl!

And only one girl for me. It's not like it used to seem: A look, and a heart astray, A walk, and a maiden's dream, And only one boy for her.

Each day 'twas the same old boy. Each day 'twas the same girl still. No search for another joy.

No quest for a greater thrill. It may be it tied her down. Her chances, perhaps, were few: She married right here in town A fellow she really knew.

THEATRES

"Play Girl," with Loretta Young, and "The Man Called Back" with Conrad Nagel, are the features of the double attraction program at the Delft theatre today and tomorrow.

"Play Girl" is from an original story by Maurine Watkins, author of "Chicago" and many other stage and screen hits. It was adapted and dialogued by Maude Fulton, the amazing lady from Kansas and New Orleans who has been successful as pianist, actress, story writer, playwright, director and theatre manager.

Miss Watkins has chosen a big department store as the principal locale for her story of young love, ambition, disillusionment and final adjustment to life. Miss Young plays the part of Buster, a clerk in the big shop. Rollicking Winnie Lightner is Georgine, her fellow worker and roommate. Buster is filled with determination to succeed on her own initiative. It is the unexpected advent of a good-looking youth, a devil-may-care playboy, who makes his livelihood by gambling, which changes her plans. He starts her out on an adventurous, changing love-guest which is compelling and genuinely feminine.

A cast of famous screen players has been assembled by Tiffany Productions for the many roles in its latest dramatic feature, "The Man Called Back." Heading the roster is Conrad Nagel, popular star who has been absent from the screen for almost a year, during which time he has been making a national personal appearance tour.

Conrad Nagel plays the stellar role of the English surgeon who fights his way back to success in Andrew Soutar's stirring story, originally known as "Silent Thunder." Opposite him, in the character of the lovely woman who aids him in his battle for regeneration, is Doris Kenyon, the striking blonde star of many screen hits. In leading roles are seen John Halliday, seasoned stage and screen player; Juliette Compton, the statuesque brunette; the exotic Mona Maris; Reginald Owen, stage actor who has just concluded a starring engagement in the Broadway hit, "Child of Manhattan"; and Mae Busch, whose screen followers are legion.

The deflation has hit Hollywood a terrible blow. Some of the biggest moguls now have only one yes-man.

Our over-cautious statementers should bear in mind that the world will forgive an occasional error if you bat out enough home runs.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

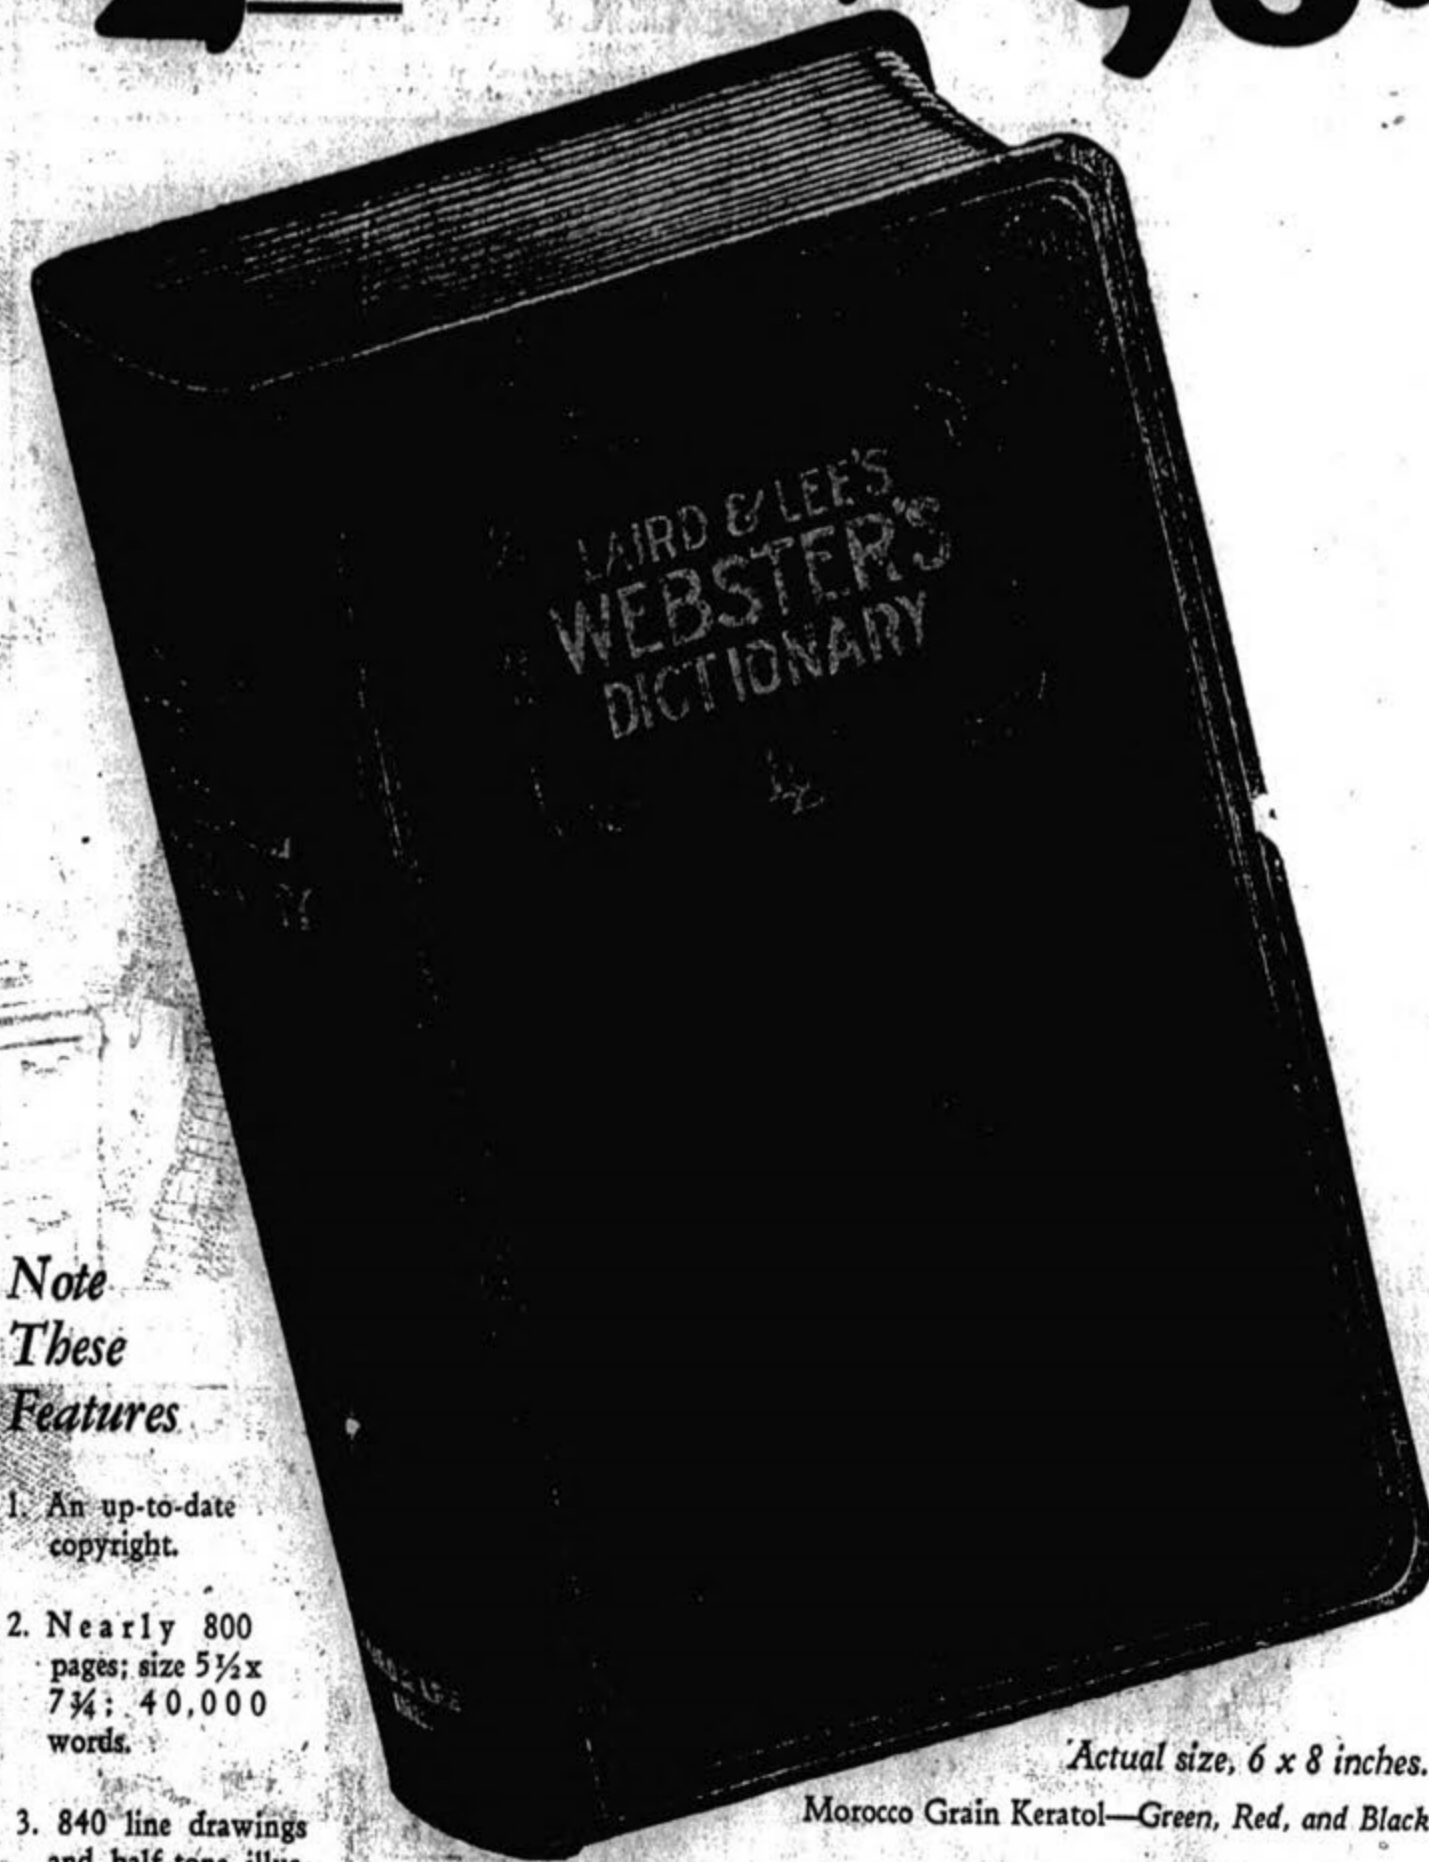

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Garden Man Finds Long Lost Ring

Garden, Michigan. (Special)—While cutting sunflowers in a three acre patch Thursday, Felix Peterson, Garden township farmer, saw something glittering on the ground. He stooped, and picked up an eighteen carat gold ring. He did not have to wonder as to the owner for he remembered distinctly the circumstances of its loss twenty six years ago.

Nearly thirty years ago, Miss Hulga Byland was engaged to Mr. Peterson's brother Axel, who gave her a ring with his own name engraved on the inside. Later they were married and the bride received another ring. The two men subsequently went to work in the woods, leaving their wives to do the farm chores. Mrs. Axel Peterson was feeding hay to the cows one day, when, unknown to her, the engagement ring, which was a trifling large, slipped off her finger. As soon as she noticed its absence, the whole household participated in a long and diligent search in and around the barn, but it was futile.

Several years later, Mr. Peterson tore down the old barn and rebuilt on a new site, using the old site for growing various farm crops. During those many years, many crops have been raised. The mowing machine, binder, plow, harrow and cultivator have been over the ground repeatedly, turning it over and stirring it around but nothing was seen of the ring until Thursday when it was perhaps lying in exactly the position that it was left when upturned at the time of the last cultivating some weeks ago. Not a scratch is on the ring, neither is it tarnished. The inscription is as distinct as the day upon which it was made.

In the meantime, soon after the loss of the ring, Mr. and Mrs. Axel Peterson moved out to N. Dakota where they have since been operating a farm near Almont. Probably they often think of the ring but not with the hope of ever finding it. They do not yet know that it is found but in all probability, by this time, it will be speeding across the continent in the mails on its way to its owner. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Thibault

Record Primary Vote Forecast; Delta Had 8,129 Back in 1930

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON (Associated Press Staff Correspondent) Lansing, (AP)—A record-breaking primary election vote was forecast today by department of state officials. Their estimates are based upon unofficial reports that registrations in Michigan have shot over the 1,500,000 mark.

A primary vote of 1,000,000 or more votes is not unlikely, it is believed. The previous high mark was two years ago when 853,050 votes were cast in the gubernatorial primary. Four years ago, in a presidential year, the primary vote was only 669,713. In the 1930 primary balloting 317,028 votes were cast in Wayne county. This year the registration is approximately 575,000. Similar heavy advances in registration over both the registration and the number of votes cast in the last general primary have come in from nearly every section of the state.

Likewise a new record for the general November election is looked for. The greatest vote ever cast for governor in the general election was in 1928 when Fred W. Green defeated William A. Comstock, Democrat, by more than 500,000. The total vote for governor in that election was 1,374,341. Election officials predict 1,500,000 or more this year.

To achieve a vote of 1,000,000 in the primary election the average county increase must be around twenty per cent. Many local organizations, and many candidates, have urged the electors to not only register but to vote in the primary. Normally there is far less general interest in the September nominating election than in the general November balloting, and this is particularly true in presidential years. However, unprecedented fields of Democratic candidates, with contests in that party for almost every important nomination, may bring out a vote which ordinarily does not interest itself in the primary.

In the previous record making primary in 1930 the vote for governor, on all tickets, by counties, was: Alcona, 1,441, Alger 2,534, Allegan 6,634, Alpena 4,575, Antrim 2,680, Arenac 1,597, Baraga 2,779, Barry 4,578, Bay 13,727, Benzie 1,561, Berrien, 15,983, Branch 3,002, Calhoun 10,456, Cass 3,121, Charlevoix 2,864, Cheboygan 2,651, Chippewa 5,143, Clare 2,231, Clinton 4,806, Crawford 862, Delta 8,129, Dickinson 7,315, Eaton 6,446, Emmett 3,587, Genesee 25,672, Gladwin

Michigan Farmers Not Likely to Join Strike

BY SAM B. McCOLL.
Agricultural leaders of the state today expressed the opinion there is little danger of a general "farm strike" in Michigan.

Although one source reported the movement of grain the slowest in several years, all were agreed the Michigan farmer is little likely to join in a movement to pluck the highways or join in any similar activity associated with a strike. Any bid for higher prices is more apt to be a quiet, individual, curtailment of selling, leaders said.

While other leaders were saying they had seen few signs pointing to a concerted effort to force an advance in the price of farm commodities through strike methods, Horbert E. Powell, state commissioner of agriculture, depreciated the principle of the movement in the west. Although favoring higher prices for farm products, the commissioner said he believed the object "can best be achieved by curtailed sales rather than by a complete strike."

The closest approximation to a strike movement in Michigan is the proposal to hold beans until the price has advanced to $2.50 a bushel, suggested by Rep. James N. McBride, of Burton, the plan will be aired before a meeting of Central Michigan bean farmers at Corunna Sept. 10.

Two factors appeared to combat any general strike in this state. The first is the diversified type of farming practiced here. Farmers with a variety of crops are less likely to interest themselves in a strike for one commodity.

Perhaps the most important factor, however, is the financial condition of most farmers. Leaders frankly admit that the need of cash is too great on Michigan farms to permit a strike. Farmers must sell to pay pressing obligations.

L. E. Osmer, general manager of the Michigan Elevator Exchange, said he had seen no indication of a strike movement although "there has been the slowest movement of Michigan grains in ten years."

He attributed the tardy shipments mostly to individual decision to withhold grains at this time in the hope that rising prices are on their way.

Louis A. Thomas, manager of the Michigan State Farm Bureau Services, Inc., said he had seen no evidence "of concerted action on the part of farmers to hold their crops off the market." The Farm Bureau, he said, is taking no sides in the strike issue although the president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Edward A. O'Neal, recently denounced the movement. Thomas said that many farmers were storing their wheat but that their action did not appear to be the outcome of an agreement.

A. C. Baltzer, extension specialist in dairying at Michigan State college who is in close touch with farmers, said: "Michigan farmers generally consider themselves fortunate in comparison with city people. When they read of the city bread lines, any ideas they have of a strike movement generally departs."

"The farmer cannot succeed in his effort to increase prices by shutting off food from the consumer," Commissioner Powell said. "While I am convinced that prosperity will never return until the trend starts at the bottom—with the farmer—I don't believe a strike is the remedy. The farmers' object can best be achieved by curtailed sales through mutual agreement rather than by a complete strike."

Michigan bean farmers have a better opportunity of dictating prices than any other class of agriculturist. This is not only due to the state's leadership as a bean-producing area but also the relationship of the state crop with national production this year. While the nation's crop is expected to decline about 24 per cent, indications point to a substantial increase in Michigan. Estimates range as high as 7,000,000 bushels in this state compared with about 5,750,000 bushels in 1931.

Richter Is Ruler Of Tented Village At Bay City Park

LANSING—The mayors of metropolitan centers would admit that when it comes to administrative problems they would have to take a back seat from "W. L. Richter." Richter is superintendent of the Bay City State Park. Richter is mayor, chief of police, fire chief, municipal judge, head of the board of public works and chief advisor to a tented city of from two to five thousand people and which has a Sunday population oftentimes of a hundred thousand.

And he isn't administrative head of a well organized city. He is mayor of a community whose population changes every week. From June to September the Bay City State Park, consisting of less than 200 acres accommodates from 500 to 1000 tents, each of them with from two to five people. The average stay of each camper is a week so that they are constantly arriving and departing. As superintendent of the park it is Richter's job to assign locations for tents, to act as policeman, to keep the place clean and orderly, to ensure safety for the bathers, to provide sanitary facilities, and all of the other duties that involve the administration of a small city.

Every week Richter holds "court," when he serves as judge, jury and officer. Then he tries to iron out campers' difficulties and correct those who have broken park rules.

Campers, however, represent but a small proportion of the people who make use of the park. Warm Sundays will see often 100,000 people crowded along the bathing beach. Because of the fact that this park is near a large center of population its annual attendance figures far exceed those of any other park in Michigan's system.

ALLIED ADVANCE SLACKERS On Sept. 3, 1918, the great German retreat from the positions won in their spring offensives was virtually complete and fighting was principally of a local nature, with only minor objectives.

British forces advanced on a four-mile front south of Havrincourt wood, taking positions which dominated the wood they had taken the previous day. On other sectors of the British front, activity was confined to trench raids and minor gains.

An American advance which had been rapidly developing near St. Gobain was practically stopped by several German reserve divisions.

French troops reported minor gains across the Crozat canal. The westbound Canadian liner Missanable was torpedoed in the Atlantic.

$5000 Slander Suit Menominee—Summons in a $5,000 damage suit alleging libel and slander against Alex Bouty of Powers, county probation officer, by Supervisor Frank J. Kowalki, First ward, and Royal J. Harris, Spalding garage operator, were filed today in Circuit Court here.

The civil action was filed by Kenneth O. Doyle of the Doyle law office, counsel for Mr. Bouty.

FEEL LOW? GO UP AND JUMP!

Feel low? Then fly high and jump. That's the blues-shaking formula of Mrs. Marie McMillan of Cleveland, Ohio. Mother of a four-year-old daughter, Geraldine, who also likes to fly, Mrs. McMillan made her first parachute jump two years ago. "Just for the fun of it." She's been parachuting "whenever I feel I need it" ever since and recently tried for a new women's record by stepping out of a plane at 25,000 feet, nearly five miles.

COLOR THE MENU

If your family isn't fond of vegetables, watch the color scheme when you serve them. Choose dinner plates which are divided into sections and prepare each vegetable as carefully and as colorfully as thought it is the only one you are serving. Have crisp toast for the asparagus, make sure the beets are as red as beets can be, rice the potatoes, or whip them into something fluffy.

Canned Grapefruit

Canned grapefruit is just as appetizing as pineapple when served with meats.

Hookless Fasteners

You now can buy hookless fasteners in different lengths and colors. Next time you are making a dress, decide on the length of placket and buy your fasteners before you finish the seams to make sure it is just the right length.

Serve Tomatoes In Varied Ways

Tomatoes in some form are available throughout the year at prices within the reach of all of us. Every home-maker should make the most of her good fortune, for whether canned or fresh, tomatoes are good sources of all the vitamins.

Scalloped Tomatoes and Peppers
Four ripe tomatoes, 4 green peppers, 1 package Philadelphia cream cheese, 1 cup cracker crumbs, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1-1/2 teaspoon white pepper, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/2 cup milk.

Scald and peel tomatoes and cut in slices about one-fourth inch thick. Wash peppers, remove stems and seeds and cut in crosswise slices about 1-8 inch thick. Put layer of tomatoes in a buttered baking dish and cover with a layer of pepper slices. Sprinkle with salt, sugar and pepper and crumbled cheese. Cover with cracker crumbs. Repeat layer for layer, until all is used, making the top layer of cracker crumbs. Dot with bits of butter and pour milk over the whole. Bake thirty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Serve from baking dish.

Tomatoes and Mushrooms on Toast
Four large tomatoes, 2 sweet green peppers, 2 small onions, 1/2 pound mushrooms, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-1/2 teaspoon pepper, 4 squares hot buttered toast.

Scald peel and chop tomatoes. Wash peppers and remove seeds and white pith. Cut flesh in thin strips. Peel and slice onions. Combine peppers and onions and cook in butter over a low fire for ten minutes. Add mushrooms which have been peeled and sliced quite thin. Cook five minutes longer and add tomatoes. Cook about fifteen minutes, until all are tender. Serve on hot buttered toast.

Stuffed Tomatoes
Four large smooth tomatoes, 3 cups coarse stale bread crumbs, 1 cup chopped cold meat, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 2 tablespoons melted butter, sugar, parsley.

Cut a piece from the stem end of tomatoes and scoop out pulp with a spoon. Take care not to injure the shape of the tomatoes. Sprinkle inside with salt and invert to drain. Mix bread crumbs and meat. Add onion, salt, pepper and enough tomato pulp to make moist with sugar and melted butter. Fill each tomato with stuffing and arrange in a shallow baking pan. Cover tops with fine bread crumbs and put a dot of butter in center of each. Bake about twenty minutes in a moderate oven. When done slide a spatula or broad cake turner under tomato and lift carefully to hot platter. Garnish with parsley and serve.

Fruit Luncheons

Fruit plates are much more appetizing than vegetable plates as the basis of a luncheon on a warm day. An all-fruit meal, once a week, is approved by many people as a health promotion measure.

or whatever he wanted it to go to and marry me! There was a rustle in the shrubbery close by. Then a shadow flung itself across the sand at their feet and separated from the clump of trees as if torn away by someone's hands.

"So this is where you are, Mona! Why didn't you tell me? I went into your room for some water—my thermos was empty—and couldn't find you. I was worried stiff! You know those snakes—oh, Barry! We'll, thank goodness, I didn't have the fire department out!"

"Walt Lottie, I'm coming." Mona rose from the sand and walked slowly toward the girl in the pathway.

"Say, I don't want to interrupt anything—Lottie began uncertainly.

"We've finished talking," Mona assured her.

"Are you sure there isn't anything more to say?" asked Barry.

"We'll talk it over in the morning, Barry."

"There's nothing to talk over. You can simply say 'yes' or 'no.'"

Lottie interposed cheerfully. "Don't mind me. I'll run ahead."

"Let's wait until tomorrow, Barry. Please!"

"Say yes or no, Mona, tonight!"

"Do you mean that?"

He nodded seriously. "I do."

Then it will have to be 'no,'" the girl said slowly. "I'm sorry, Barry."

Of course, there are many things you want and need... but you may be letting many of them wait until you see in a store or a window exactly what you have in mind, at an especially alluring price.

Those are the very things you will find in advertisements. Attractive articles, new and improved ones, prices that make quick action an economy. Think how many steps it can save you to hunt out these things, and find them, in comfort at home! If a special opportunity is offered, you'll know about it in time. When new articles are announced, you can have them before they are the least bit out of date. And you can save hours of waiting and asking, miles of steps—and money too!

These are but a few of the ways the advertisements in your newspapers can serve you. If you read them every day, you are sure to grow wise in the ways of purchasing... and saving.

Surprised by Friends Mrs. Kenneth VanEyk was pleasantly surprised at her home, 120 Lake street, Tuesday evening. A single board wall is not so recommended, but a storage room with such a wall gives better results than storing in the same room with the furnace.

Outside Cellars or Caves Outside cellars are usually preferable to house-cellars, providing they are so constructed as to prevent freezing of the vegetables and are so located and built as to be of east access during the winter.

Successful Storage Requirements The three chief essentials of storage are: sound vegetables, proper temperature, proper moisture. With certain vegetables maturity and ventilation are also of prime importance.

Press Want Ads Cost Little, Accomplish Much.

Directions Given For Storage of Vegetables

Storing is the best way of preserving vegetables for winter use in many instances. Storing is cheaper, requires less work, and with many crops preserves more of the characteristic flavor than when the vegetables are canned or dried.

The house-cellar is by far the most frequently used storage place of vegetables grown in gardens. If it does not contain a furnace and the temperature does not fall below freezing point, there will be little difficulty in keeping the vegetables well into the following spring.

Additional information can be secured from the county agent.
