The reason so many men make a failure of business is because of their total lack of the knowledge of the value of a dollar. Parents make a serious mistake in not allowing their children to handle moreor less money.
A boy that sees a dollar only a rare intervals, will, when he attains a position with a salary attchment, make ducks and drakes of his money.
There is a young chap in this village whose parents are to be commended.
He was given the care of a number of chickens. He purchases the food for these chickens and cares for them so well that eggs are never a stranger to the family larder. The surplus eggs, he sells, and places the money where the draws interest. The boy in question has not emerged from the knickerbocker period yet he is receiving a business education that will be invaluable to him in after years. The wealthy men of soday are those who early followed the practice of saving a portion of their earnings no matter how small the amount. Give the boys something to do; pay them for it, and impress them vinith he fact that there is virtue in saving. The
