BURNS RELEASED UPON FURNISHING BAIL OF $10,000

Alleged Detroit Racketeer Is Bound Over On A Second Charge

Prosecutor And Sheriff Are Called To Stand As Defense Witnesses

Patrick Burns, alleged Detroit racketeer, and charged with obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with a fictitious motor stock making scheme, was released on $10,000 cash bonds and has returned to Detroit. The original bail placed on Burns was $50,000, events in the case of Harvey Goehra and ten thousand in the case of John Carlson.

James J. Herbert, defense counsel, maintained at all times that the bail was excessive and unfair, and that it was just to reduce it to $10,000. He offered to raise a $10,000 cash bail now as it was to raise $50,000 a few years ago. He reduced this week to $10,000 covering both cases.

Examination in the Carlson case was held last Friday afternoon and resulted in the result that Burns was bound over to circuit court on a second charge. The testimony in general was much the same as that produced in the Goehra case. Carlson and Isaac were the only two witnesses for "The People." William A. Sheehan and Sheriff Hewitt were called to the stand as defense witnesses. The prosecutor was called to the stand in Detroit but the testimony in general was much the same as that produced in the Goehra case. It did not need to be produced. He went to Detroit to tell of a conversation between Lieutenant Hoffman and the Detroit police, and Burns in his presence. The court ruled that this was hearsay evidence and that it was not admissible to answer. The sheriff said that he had never discussed the case with Burns.

"This has been an unusual case and has aroused more than usual interest and comment," said Judge Storer in fixing the amount of bail. "I propose to make the judgment of the court clearly understood at this time by both the defendant and the people. First of all, I wish to say this court regards the respondent as coming before me with presumed innocence, and that presumed innocence still remains with him.

"A justice court, he, or should be, should be the same implies, justice and truth are relative terms. An effort has been made in this examination to bring out sufficient truth to aid in the administration of justice. Considerable testimony has been brought out that appears to be in facting the respondent with racketeering. I regard racketeering as the most heinous crime with which we are confronted and which we are sure people are chafing over the activities of the racketeer and the kidnapper and they have determined that this crime must be suppressed or society is doomed and they look to the law enforcement officers and to the courts to safeguard their rights. With that in mind, the bond in this case has been set at $10,000. Considerable comment has been made over the amount of the bond and it has been referred to as an unprecedented bond and I am sure that it is placed upon an unprecedented indictment and will remain as set unless reduced to some one in authority over this court."

SPRING SURPRISE CERTIFIED SEED MUST BE PLANTED

Club Members Must Plant At Least A Peck Of Certified Seed

G. Leslie Bouschor

A number of Schoolcraft County farmers are treating or plan to treat their seed stock this coming week with Corrosive Sublimite in order to control Black Scurf, Scab and Blight. This treatment has been the only one found by the Farm Crops Department of Michigan State College to effectively control these three diseases on the seed stock. It should be noted that treating with Corrosive Sublimite will not eliminate scab in the crop produced, because infection comes from scab which may be found in the field. The treatment merely kills what scab there may be on the seed stock. Using a long rotation, that is, not growing potatoes on the same ground often for four years, and keeping intervals as long as possible will help in controlling scab which may be present in the soil.

A pound of Corrosive Sublimite will treat from 35 to 40 bushels of seed. The treating solution is prepared by dissolving 4 ounces of Corrosive Sublimite in 30 gallons of water. This amount of solution will be sufficient to treat the crop producers, and keep intervals as long as possible, which will help in controlling scab which may be present in the soil.

Sam Rutledge, son of Dr. and Mrs. S. H. Rutledge, former well known Manistiquette residents received a lot of publicity in Chicago and Evanston newspapers recently in connection with his role as the leading man in Northwestern University's annual circus carnival. Sam recently attended Manistiquette high school. His picture and that of Helen Blackburn, leading lady, appeared in many of the newspapers. In one of the pictures Sam is shown seated atop a huge elephant.

An feature article on the circus reads as follows:

Helen Blackburn and Sam Rutledge will carry on the tradition of Circus Sully and Circus Solly at the Northwestern University Alumni Association Foundation Fair which will be held at Dyche stadium on May 11, 12 and 13. The election of Sully and Solly took place last spring following the Silver Anniversary collegiate circus.

The Purple carnival will be a personal thing, riveting circus. An all-out effort will be made to sell the student loan fund known as the University Foundation.

The Alumni Association executive secretary of the organization, stated that the foundation hopes to replace $50,000 from the carnival which is an innovation on this campus.

Included in the twenty-two professional acts that are already engaged for the affair are animal, trapeze and tight rope acts, and a circus clown, a high diver into a tank of fire. In addition, there will be a ferris wheel, merry-go-round, confectionery and many other attractions, according to Floyd Arpan, publicity director, senior in the class of 1933.

SEVEN HOUSES AND LOTS GIVEN TO CO.

Poor Commission Acquires Property Once Owned By Charcoal Iron Co.

The Newberry Lumber & Chemical company, owners of the Charcoal Iron company property in this city, have decided to give the county poor commission seven double houses and lots owned by the company. The houses are situated on the plant property. The county acquires the house and lots for the payments of a total of approximately $800 in state taxes which no doubt will be rebated by the state later on. The donation was made by Paul S. Hamilton, manager of the company, who was here this week and conferred with Mayor Harry Erskine, City Assessor W. G. Stephens and Walter M. Moon, secretary of the poor commission.

Work at wrecking the houses has already started by the poor commission. The lumber will be offered for sale. After the houses are torn down the commission plans to plow the land and make it available for garden purposes. Persons receiving aid from the county should themselves materially last year by planting gardens, and the same program is being put into effect again this year by the commission.

ANNUAL MEETING OF WOMAN'S CLUB

District Chairman Of Upper Peninsula Federation Is Among Guests

The annual meeting of the Manistiquette Woman's club took place on Tuesday afternoon of this week, when members of the local club and guests from other parts of town gathered at the Elks Temple for a 1:00 o'clock luncheon followed by the presentation of a one-act play.

During the business session reports of the several committees presented their reports for the past year's work. The play was under the supervision of a committee and was an interesting and psychologically study work of four characters taking part in being Mrs. George Vezina, Mrs. Paul Gero, Miss Adelyn Peters and Miss Helen Hubbs.

Present at the club were Mrs. Susan C. Taylor, of Sault Ste. Marie, district chairman of the Upper Peninsula Federation of Women's Clubs, who delivered an interesting talk; Mrs. William Ferguson, of Hamilton; and Mesdames Jordan, Hamilton, Moon and Robertson.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. George Vezina, Mrs. J. H. Nelson, Mrs. L. B. Chittenden, Mrs. J. J. Herbert, Mrs. H. J. Neville, Mrs. R. C. Currier, Mrs. E. Lida, and Mrs. J. A. Cockran.

EXAM FOR WARDEN ON NEXT THURSDAY

Will Be Held At City Fire Hall; Casino Refuge Job Also To Be Filled

It is expected that Manistiquette will have two conservation officers on the job shortly after an examination to be held here next Thursday morning at 8:00 o'clock, for the purpose of selecting an officer. The examination will be held at the city fire hall. It is understood that quite a number will take the examination.

Announcement by the Conservation Department is to the effect that the applicant must be between the ages of 25 and 45.

Action on the part of the Department in placing another man in Manistiquette comes as the result of a conference some weeks ago between George C. Fowler and Colonel W. A. Borjg, chief of conservation forces in the Upper Peninsula.

The Pioneer Tribune fought for an additional conservation officer for several months and expressed the sentiment of the local public along this line.

Manistiquette has only one conservation officer, he being Lee Marlette, who was transferred here from the city of Newberry in the person of Paul Knuth. It has long been felt that one conservation officer working in the Manistiquette territory was not sufficient and the idea of two officers has been the whole-hearted support of Commission Fowler.

Another examination for the position of keeper of the Casino Refuge will be held at the Community Building in Newberry on Friday, May 26, at 8:00 o'clock. Both the examination in Manistiquette and that at Newberry will be opened on Central Standard Time. The same provisions as to age also applies to the applicants for the Casino position.

FARMERS PLAN ON TREATING OF SEED

Local Growers Will Combat Black Leg

"Word is being sent out to club members, who plan on taking a potato project this summer, that they will be required to use certified seed. This requirement has been adopted throughout the Upper Peninsula in order that the club boys and girls may get started this year with the best of seed possible. Club members are being urged to secure either certified White Russia or Green Mountains, due to the unusual demand and better varieties being paid for these two potatoes in the Upper Peninsula. A supply of certified Green Mountains, sufficient to start out twenty potato club members, is on hand and additional seed will be ordered. Club members who notify the agricultural agent's office promptly of their intention to enroll in a project in 1933. Boys and girls who are planning to enroll in a potato project this summer are asked to notify the County Agricultural Agent as soon as possible in order that seed for them may be provided.

Richard Hughson, former Manistiquette resident and brother of John and Ed. Hughson, of this city, has entered business for himself at Sault Ste. Marie, according to the following story appearing in the Soo News this week:

Rev. Morrison Is Given Honor

Rev. C. E. Morrison, local Presbyterian missionary, was honored by the commission of the district, at the Presbytery meeting held at Escanaba on April 19. This honor was awarded to the oldest Presbyter in terms of service.

This commission is to the annual general assembly, held this year at Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday, May 24, and Mr. Morrison expects to leave on May 22. General assembly is at once the place of splendid inspirational addresses by men of national prominence and also the highest court of appeal in the church. To it many non-commissioners expect to see there two former local pastors, the Rev. S. Edsbotham and the Rev. Mullenberg.

Will Ask Strict Law Enforcement

Licensed Beer Dealers Will Ask That "Blind Pigs" Be Closed Up

Manistiquette dealers in legal beverages will demand that city and county officials enforce strict law to the public which is derived which still remain on the statute books, it was announced today by a spokesman for those who are licensed to sell beer. The matter will be called to the attention of city officials at Monday night's meeting of the council.

Complaints have already been heard locally that there are still "spots" in the city where home-brewed beer is being dispensed. Those who are licensed to sell legal beer will demand that these places be closed. They look upon the matter as being unfair to themselves and unfair to the public which is deriving a tax through the sale of legal beer.

Officials do not anticipate any problem in living up to the requests of the licensed dealers. Most of those who were in the illegal beer business are expected to have "folded up" when the legal beer was ushered in. However, it is reported that a number of places are still selling.

Check Up Amount Of Canadian Peas

A. L. Chamberlain of the Chamber of Commerce, Port Huron, Michigan, conferred with the county agricultural agent this morning to learn the amount of Canadian Field and Scotch Green peas being raised in Schoolcraft County. The Chamberlain is being put on as one of their projects that of furnishing split peas to the trade throughout the eastern part of the state. The Chamberlain is a Michigan company they are, of course, interested in promoting the growing of peas in the state. The Chamberlain stated that they were willing to contract for a price of $2.00 per bushel.

Appeal Is Made For Old Clothing

The Welfare Committee of the Manistiquette Woman's club are sponsoring a drive for used clothing on May 24. Those persons having old clothing which they wish to give are asked to place the bundles where they can be seen from the street and the city trucks will collect them, or to call Mrs. Geo. Fowler or Miss Mary Clark.

W. R. "Bill" Stewart received a cracked brick, broken hand and cut bruises on Tuesday when a milk truck from Engadine struck a new Ford panel sedan owned by Mrs. E. J. Shaw, Mrs. J. H. Nelson, Mrs. L. B. Chittenden, Mrs. J. J. Herbert, Mrs. H. J. Neville, Mrs. R. C. Currier, Mrs. E. Lida, and Mrs. J. A. Cockran.

No Decision On Running Bureau

No definite plans have as yet been made by the Manistiquette Chamber of Commerce for the operation of the Tourist Information Bureau during the coming season.

Whether the Chamber will move the information building from its present site has not been decided either. The organization has been requested to move the building from its present site to the Chamber of Commerce, Captain Frank Warfield plans to move another building on the present site. Captain Warfield has had seven years of experience in the information bureau.

Complaint Made On Dogs In City

The chief complaint is that dogs are doing much damage to gardens and flower beds. Chief Peterson advises dog owners to see that their dogs do not run at large.

Manhattan Strolls

By Mark Farrell

New York City—Springtime in Manhattan brings flowers, tourists and panhandlers. The old place is alive with all three of these. Probably, there is no other place in the world where people in general, from the lowly to the high, have done more, look on rows of monuments, some decadent, others trim modern apartment dwellings, than in New York. The streets in their windows, studded by curious tenants with all of the care that grandma gives to her old-fashioned garden in Iowa.

In Greenwich Village, gardeners spring up unceasingly and using by hundreds of little courts that each spring are planted into flower beds and cared for by thoughtful hands. It is all very inspiring to witness such a sight in the midst of all the hustle and hurly-burly of the New York streets. And it is just a note pathetic. For honestly, most of those ancient gardeners tend their little plots in Michigan or Indiana where they spent their youth amid acres of blooms.

Those who are less fortunate are content with a dime bunch of daffodils or iris purchased from a corner flower peddler. The street corners are dotted with green from the Bronx to Bowling Green.

Spring, too, brings the tourists to New York. The theatres begin to get a larger number of requests from tourists. One of our agents received a mail request from Keokuk, Iowa, this week for a block of seats.

And the tourists show a slightly larger percentage of individuals gazing skyward at the peaks of Manhattan skyscrapers. It is a grand town, our New York, in the springtime, but strangely tourists never see the New York of New York. They follow the beaten path of those who have gone before them, see the sights as they have been outlined for them for years back and that is all. There's a lot more to it than that, but maybe that should be left to the rather jealous of our channels away, so probably it's just as well the way it is.

"Brother, can you spare a dime?"

It's a song now, but it's more than a song. It's the song of the stroll on Manhattan streets. Warm weather brings out the beggars, the panhandlers in full regalia. And they really cash in on it. There are just plain panhandlers who boldly hail passersby with a request for money. Then there are the beggars without arms and without legs, beggars with legs and without eyes, and others playing violins and saxophones. The salient feature is that there are beggars.

They are good actors, those fellows. I envy their skill at times. They ask for a dime as though it means the best of life to them. And in their pockets they probably have more money than nine out of ten average pedestrians.

There is the story of the three well-dressed young tipplers who were accosted by a man as they wandered their way from a party to lamp post, enroute home. They looked like a good bet and the man followed them. Finally they stopped and made a bargain with him. He claimed to be broke. The three agreed to turn their pockets out if the beggar would let them see them. The combined findings of the three equalled what he possessed, they were to hand the entire amount to the panhandler. If the beggar's funds ran higher than their total capital on hand, he was to turn his money over to them.

The beggar handed over three dollars and some change to the trio.

Policemen in Brooklyn this week were scratching their heads over the strangest case that has come under their jurisdiction in a long time. They've arrested the man in a time past with just cause.

But now they are holding six youths for the theft of two coffins

Rod License Is Given Approval

Lansing, May 18.—Ninety days after the state legislature ends its 1933 session over persons over 18 years of age fishing in any of Michigan's inland waters will be compelled to have a license.

The General Rod License adopted by the Legislature will not go into effect until early in the fall and in the meantime all fishing license regulations, except that for trout, will remain as in 1932. The Legislature provided that 1933 resident trout fishing licenses cost $6.00. In the meantime the non-resident fishing license fee is $4.00, the charge made last year.

The General Rod License, to be effective probably early in September, provides for the licensing of all persons over 18 years of age fishing in any of the inland waters of the state. Under the present law the so-called "non-resident" including the St. Marys River and St. Clair River, Lake St. Clair and the Detroit River are "inland waters" but a bill is now before the legislature which would class them with Great Lakes waters. If this bill should become a law, fishing in these waters will not necessitate the securing of a license.

The General Rod License briefly provides:

Residents: No person over 18 years of age who is a resident of the state may catch or attempt to catch fish in any of the inland waters of the state without a license. The fee shall be $4.00 for a license holder for fish which he exhibits and $6.00 for a license holder for fish which he does not exhibit. Any person actually residing in the state who is a resident of the state for a period of 10 days will be considered a resident for the purpose of such license. License holders may obtain a similar license for the purpose of fishing in the inland waters of the state for a period of 10 days without a license if the holder is actually residing in the state for a period of 10 days without a license. License holders may obtain a similar license for the purpose of fishing in the inland waters of the state for a period of 10 days without a license if the holder is actually residing in the state for a period of 10 days without a license.

Because he had told his friends that the size of a fish he had caught, a 21-year-old angler of Prague, Czechoslovakia, took his life in a fit of remorse.

Manistique in Former Days

Forty Years Ago

P. August Johnson and Miss Augusta B. Nelson were married last Saturday, May 8. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Albert Torbet at the Presbyterian church. They will reside on a farm near Gulliver.

The new game law restricts fishermen from catching more than five fish in one day and as a result Dr. Bowen, and Amos Hill have about decided to "cut out" trout fishing this season.

Go. H. Orr is placing a cement walk about his residence.

Miss Georgia Fydel returned from Marquette Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Fydel Miller were over from Thompson on Sunday.

Branded Sturgeon Caught By State

Lansing, May 18.—A 75 pound Michigan sturgeon with the number "41" branded on its side is swimming in one of the Paris Fish Hatchery Ponds waiting for someone to identify him.

The sturgeon was one of five taken below Newwaygo Dam during the fish rescue operations carried out by the Department of Conservation and the Consumers Power company late in April.

The Conservation Department believes that the fish was branded by a commercial fisherman or some other agency and its identification may reveal some interesting history concerning the fish. Apparently the brand was made many years ago. While dim, the numbers are unmistakable. The fish will again be released into Lake Michigan.

Five sturgeon taken from below the Newwaygo Dam, four weigh about 75 pounds each. The largest of the quintet, about five feet four inches long and weighing 125 pounds, was placed for exhibition purposes in the Paris Hatchery pond.

Farm Act Provides For Needed Changes

East Lansing, May 18.—Changed agricultural conditions will not nullify the helpfulness of the new farm adjustment Act as it is so worded that the Secretary of Agriculture can adjust at any time the manner in which the law is administered, and its gears can be shifted to run in high, low, or intermediate.

The Secretary can determine which of the farm products named in the Act shall participate in the benefits provided by the law. If one of the products, such as tobacco, increases in price so that its producers are receiving a profitable price for their crop, the Secretary can discontinue the tax on the processors of tobacco and stop bonus payments to tobacco producers.

The Secretary, after proper hearings, may decide that the acreage of corn should be reduced 10 per cent in that particular year. Adverse weather conditions of the opening of new markets might reduce the crop carry over so that the 10 per cent reduction is not needed the next year. The necessary new regulation can be made without loss of time by the Secretary.

Trade agreements with processors or distributors to provide for orderly marketing can be entered into by the Secretary at any time. This can be done without violating the provisions of the anti-trust laws now on federal statute books.

The success of the farm adjustment Act will depend upon the familiarity of people with the new papers will carry stories about the Act and about any changes in its provisions.

Spread Of Beaver Claimed By State

Lansing, May 18.—A general spread of beaver through the lower peninsula and in some instances the actual establishment of colonies adjoining the borders of some of the larger cities, is reported by the Game Division of the Department of Conservation.
 For the past five or six years there has been a steady growth in the number of beaver reported in the southern third of the state. Where they all came from is a question. A few of the colonies are thought to be the result of fugitives from beaver farms but the origin of most of these colonies is as much a mystery to the Department of Conservation as it is to those living in the vicinity of the beavers. The extent of their natural migrations is unknown but occasionally beaver have shown up in places many miles from any other known colonies.
 Several colonies are working in Ingham county, two near Park Lake, one on Sycamore Creek less than three miles from Lansing's city limits, and a fourth colony is being worked near Perry in Shiawassee county. Because of complaints of damage, the Perry colony is being live-trapped by the Conservation Department and will be moved elsewhere.
 There are beaver colonies in Allegan county near Scotts south of Kalamazoo; near Sparta in Kent county; near Howell and in Mason county near Romeo. Beaver formerly reported in the Muskegon State Park have moved north and some are now found along the White River.
 Recently the Department received a report of beaver near Northport in the Leelanau peninsula about 30 miles from any previously known colony.
 So far the invasion of beaver to the more highly settled and cultivated sections of the state have caused relatively little trouble according to the Department.
 Where colonies have established themselves they have aroused considerable local interest. Should these animals continue to increase and spread in the farming districts it may be necessary to live-trap a number of them and move them to areas where their dam building activities are less likely to do damage.

FROM THE WORLD'S FAIR

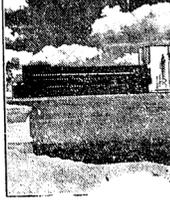

Chicago, May 17.—The main facade of the Administration building is 350 by 150 feet, of modernistic design and located on sloping, filled-in land between the lake shore and the outer drive at Fourteenth street. On the lake side three wings are stepped down in terraces to the water's edge. On this side the building is three stories high. The central wing contains a restaurant for exhibition employes, the president's and manager's suites, trustees quarters and a reception room for distinguished guests. This was the first exposition structure to be completed.

Report Is Made On State Crops

Lansing, Michigan, May 18.—The 1933 wheat crop in Michigan is estimated at 33,812,000 bushels, according to the May 1 report of the Michigan Co-operative Crop Reporting Service at Lansing. Frequent rains and favorable temperatures during April improved the present outlook. The May 1 condition being reported at 75 per cent of normal compared with 69 per cent a month earlier. Despite this improvement, present prospects are relatively unfavorable, the May 1 estimate being 16 per cent less than the 16,684,000 bushels harvested in 1932 and 11 per cent below the 16-year average production of 15,081,000 bushels. Abandonment of planted acreage in the state amounted to only 3.0 per cent, losses being confined chiefly to late-sown fields and acreage on low ground where damage from soil heaving and flooding occurred. The acreage remaining for harvest is estimated at 795,600, an increase of 15 per cent over the low record acreage of 1932.
 The United States wheat crop was estimated on May 1 at 327,485,000 bushels, an increase of only 3,898,000 bushels over the April 1 report and an indicated production the smallest since 1904. Losses of acreage were heavy in the Great Plains Area and in the Pacific Northwest. The average abandonment for the entire country amounting to 22.2 per cent compared with 16.7 per cent last year and a 10-year average loss of 12.2 per cent. The condition on May 1 was reported at 68.7 per cent of normal as against 75.1 per cent on May 1, 1932 and a 5-year average condition figure of 81.9 per cent.
 The outlook for the Michigan rye crop is relatively better than for what as most of the acreage is grown on light soils where earlier seeding is possible and where there is less winter damage from heaving and flooding. The condition of the crop on May 1 was 79 per cent of normal compared with 88 per cent a year ago and 85.5, a 10-year average. The average rye remaining for harvest as grain is estimated at 135,000 which is 65 per cent of the 207,000 acres sown for all purposes last fall, the remainder being utilized for pasture and plowed down for fertilizer. The indicated production of grain acreage in the May 1 report of the Crop Reporting Service was 1,620,000 bushels compared with 2,035,000 bushels harvested in 1932.
 The United States rye crop is estimated at 30,552,000 bushels as against 33,855,000 bushels for 1932 and 32,026,000 bushels for 1931.
 The condition of Michigan pastures on May 1 was reported at 71 per cent of normal, 6 points better than for May 1, 1932 and 1 point above the 10-year average for that date. Tame hay conditions were reported at 11 per cent of normal

Woods Experiments Being Conducted

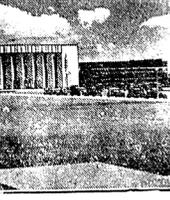

Extensive experiments with rutabagas as a market crop will be carried on by Michigan State College workers this summer. A number of cars of this crop marketed in Chicago last winter showed that while winter was good, quality was below the Canadian crop which furnishes the majority of the Chicago supply, as well as that of Milwaukee and Detroit.
 The most extensive experiment will be carried on at the State College experiment station at Chatham under the direction of R. R. Churchill, research assistant in farm crops. Mr. Churchill plans to use nine different varieties as follows: Detmar's Bingham, Millport, Hazard's Improved, Perfect Model, Canadian Gem, Welch's New Masterpiece, Good Luck, and Hall's Westbury.
 Cultural experiments with the crop planned by Mr. Churchill include a time of planting, one lot being planted June 1, a second lot June 15 and a third lot July 1. Other cultural tests will include spacing between the rows and within the rows. Rows will be planted with the following spacing—24 inches, 30 inches and 36 inches. Spacing within the row include six to eight inch spacing and a nine to twelve inch spacing. Studies of yield and quality of the crop will be made from the variety and cultural standpoint. "We are trying to find out," states Mr. Churchill and G. W. Putnam, director, "whether the most important factor in high quality and high yield of rutabagas is a question of culture or variety. We believe this year's experiments will indicate some results. The experiments will of course be repeated." Variety tests will be carried on in series Upper Peninsula specialties in farm crops. The varieties to be used by Mr. Churchill include Canadian Gem, Millport and Perfect Model.
 Rutabagas are grown extensively in the Upper Peninsula for livestock feed, but until the past winter have been used only locally as a market crop. For those men who plan to grow it for market, the State College men offer the following suggestions:
 1. Obtain the best seed available.
 2. Prepare an excellent seed bed.
 3. Plant the crop in rows about 30 inches wide.
 4. Thin to single plants in the row six to eight inches apart.
 5. Cultivate deeply first time, with more shallow cultivations later.

A great thing has occurred amongst us.

We have made a complete turn-around, and at last America's face is toward the future. Three years—1929 to 1932—we Americans looked backward. All our old financial and political machinery was geared to pull us out of the depression by the same door through which we came. It failed. We thought it simply a case of going back the way we came. It failed. We now realize that the way out is forward—through it.
 Thanks for that belongs to President Roosevelt. Inauguration Day he turned the Ship of State around. Having observed the failure of sincere efforts to haul us back the way we came, he designed a new method—new political and financial machinery—to pull us out the way we are going—forward. He is clearing international obstacles out of the way; he does not stand in awe of tariffs; The people begin to feel that he does not take advice from the "interests"; that he has courage and loyalty to work for one supreme interest only—the welfare of the American people. That is a big achievement for two months in office.
 And now we all look to what is coming; we grow less and less concerned with what is behind. We are looking for a hand-hold on the haul rope. Every man wants to do what he can, and all he can. The best thing I can do for the Country is to create industry by building good motor cars. If I knew anything better to do, I would do it. Industry must be my contribution. Motor cars must face ahead to the future, like everything else. They are so much a part of the Nation's daily life that if they lag behind they hold the Country back.

A MIGHTY POOR MOVE

According to reports from Lansing the state is intending to discontinue the use of calcium chloride on gravel roads this year. The measure is designed as an economy move but there is a grave question as to its feasibility. Before the use of calcium chloride on Michigan roads there was nothing but clouds of dust on the gravel stretches. The calcium chloride not only prevents the dust but it holds the gravel together. The top surface on many of our gravel roads would blow away were it not for the calcium chloride and that would mean a lot of repair work which might cost more than the treatment. Discontinuance of the calcium chloride treatment of gravel roads would be a blow to Michigan industry. Our own county is interested in the matter because thousands of tons of limestone are used each year in the manufacture of calcium chloride that is used on Michigan highways. The state can have no complaint on the price paid for calcium chloride because it has dropped from $33 to $22.50 per ton in the past five years. Autoists don't like to ride on dusty roads. They are paying a gas tax for road building purposes and they expect that the money is going to be spent on the roads. There is no one who will complain of an economy measure but it would seem that there are other ways in which economy could be better practised than by giving Michigan dusty roads and at the same time striking at one of the state's major industries.

NEED THE MONEY

Municipal authorities who have heretofore winked at prohibition law violation at the high school end there will now find they have a financial interest in the sale of light wines and beer, denied them during the era of prohibition. Vendors of the newly legalized beverages must pay a license tax, 56 percent of which is returned to the municipality in which the vendor resides. It follows that dealers in illicit liquors will find determined opposition to their business while legitimate dealers will be encouraged. Cities and villages need the license money to carry on local government and this one fact, more than any other, will have the effect of driving more blind pigs out of business.

FINE EXHIBITION

Those who witnessed the gym exhibition put on by physical education classes at the high school end there will not only thoroughly enjoyed themselves but they were very much surprised at the training shown by the students. The gym was packed and well it should be for the type of program given was to be justly proud of. Those who didn't see the exhibition should not be at all disappointed in the next year. Much credit is due Oscar Wassberg and Mrs. W. B. Orr, physical education instructors, for the success of the exhibition. It was a high class entertainment that would be a credit to any school ten times the size of Manistique.

GOOD FOR EVERYONE

The suggestion that everyone have a garden this summer is a good one. It should not be necessary to repeat it or to argue its advantages. A garden gives two things. One of them is the best kind of exercise that may be obtained under the most pleasant circumstances. The work may be as hard as you wish it. It may be taken easy, if you wish. In fact, you can let the wife do a good share of it.

But the chief value of a garden is in its food. Food is very useful. More people know the value of food from a garden now than have known it in times past. The garden produces the best food that human beings can get. It is fresh. It is economical. It is what you like. Not only does the food of the garden prove good and attractive in summer but much of what the garden produces may be put aside for winter.

Of course, there is no argument against a garden and plenty of argument for it. The special point for consideration is this. The depression is not yet over. It will be some time before the people of the United States can stop worrying about the vital question of food. A garden this coming summer is just as necessary and important as ever before. Thrifty people will have a garden. Every family should have one.

UNFAIR TO MANY VETERANS

The economy program which the Democratic national administration has authorized in connection with the cutting of compensation from world veterans and those of other wars is hitting a real snag in some sections. Some veterans have already been advised of their new ratings by the Veterans bureau. One striking example of unfairness has arisen in a case at the Soo. A veteran shot through the abdomen by machine gun fire in France has been notified that he has been cut from $90 a month to $8. Unable to work at all, he acquired a small tract of land and started a chicken farm. From his compensation he was able to keep his family and make payments on his property. The case has been given wide publicity in the Soo News and Michigan's representative.

Legislation to Consider Proposals Made by Secretary of State Lansing, Mich., May 10.—Dra- stic changes in the gasoline tax law are contained in the bill which will receive final consideration by the state senate during the present week. The bill contains the recommendations of Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald contained in a report submitted to the governor and legislature last January. One of the most important provisions is that requiring wholesale distributors to post a surety bond to protect the state against loss of tax money collected by the distributors. Under the present law, the distributor receiving the gasoline for distribution to retail outlets assumes the tax to be collected from the retail dealer. A distributor is required to report each month's business and to pay the tax by the 20th of the succeeding month. He therefore has at all times the large sums of tax money accumulated between the time of collection and the time of payment to the state, and it is to protect the state, that the bond was recommended. Any distributor who cannot secure the necessary bond or who fails to insure, but he would be denied the right to handle untaxed gasoline and have the use of the tax collections. Another problem faced by the Department of State is that of the use of such fuels as kerosene and Diesel oil when used in heavy-duty trucks. Engines using these fuels are being developed rapidly and the present tax evaded very largely the tax on the motor fuel. The governor's provisions provide for the proper keeping of books and accounts by dealers; the prohibition of night-time deliveries of fuel; and the requirement that the owner's name be painted on all gasoline delivery trucks and all amendments to the present law that will prevent tax evasion.

DON'T GO WEST

Horace Greeley's word to "Go West, young man, go West," have been sterling advice to the fortune hunters of the nineteenth century, but no more unsound counsel can be given today to the person with sick lungs who is hunting for health. That there still persists in Michigan the notion that in the Golden West lies a magic cure for tuberculosis is evidenced by requests for pamphlets received by the Michigan Tuberculosis association for financial assistance it getting to Colorado, Arizona or New Mexico. As a matter of fact, according to the association, the climate of the southwest is not an important element in getting well from tuberculosis. Its one contribution lies in making outdoor living simpler and more agreeable at certain times of the year. On the other hand, sick persons who travel to one of these distant states soon find, unless their pockets are well lined with money, that they are homeless and friendless. Without a legal settlement, they cannot secure hospital care at a legal expense, as is their right in Michigan. Rather than improved opportunities for health, they find that their chances for recovery are definitely decreased if not completely wiped out.

The best place for Michigan's tuberculosis patients to get well, regardless of how much or how little money they have to spend, is in one of Michigan's eighteen modern sanatoriums. Labels on packages, signs painted on farmer's barns and showcards in store windows may be the highest forms of art, but they often represent the early efforts of many men who have reached artistic fame. Every spring hundreds of sign-painters start out from Chicago of the outdoor advertising industry, and busily cover the country side with their displays. It is a field of endeavor that motion picture labels have become ever more important. It follows the background of "Face in the Sky," a Fox picture shown at the Gero Theatre, Saturday. Spencer Tracy, Marian Nixon and Stuart Erwin have the leading roles in "Face in the Sky" and the cast includes Sarah Padden and Sam Hardy. Myles Connolly wrote the original story and Humphrey Pearson the screenplay, with William Collier handling the dialogue direction.

TEA CUP TOPICS
In Paris a woman ready to be admired may be attired in any of the following costumes:
An afternoon ensemble in yellow chamois velvet and satin trimmings with silver fox. The fulness of the skirt is concentrated in the front, and the blouse uses the satin the same yellow as the neckline veil or white lace. The skirt and the palette trimmed with the fox. Mid-arms gloves of white. White gloves had skirts and puffs sleeves accented by pleated ruffles of white organdie. This costume complemented by small fabric hats of white straw fabric, yellow daisies trimming the brim on the lifted side.

Helpful Hints
When making pie soup always thin in a slice of bread. It prevents the soup from sinking to the bottom of the pot and burning. Milk stains on velvet upholstery will yield if you sponge with warm water, rinse with more warm water and then dry by rubbing down with a soft cloth. Put in a warm place to air.
If you are one of the women who always wear their stockings out first at the toe, where the joints are, try the following: Informing three socks and forth across those spots before you wear new stockings at all. If you wear them out at the heels, turn your new hosiery wrong side out and stitch through some reinforcing threads.

It is sign being given an opportunity to select the programs they want to hear. The features up for consideration this time are those by the station announcement bands, and the early morning program, "Opera." WTMM will broadcast the program on a temporary schedule until it can be determined whether the listeners want the features or not. The service band will be heard on four mornings a week and "Cheer," the unknown voice of the air, will be heard daily except Sunday from 7:15 to 7:45 a. m. WTMM believes that these programs are both popular but wishes to have an evidence of interest from the listeners before making them a permanent fixture on the schedule.

You may remember Ned Weaver, formerly co-star with Eklund, but whether you do or not, you probably heard him Thursday night when he took the part of Conrad Thibault. Mary Lou's new love interest on Captain Henry's Maxwell Home Showboat. As a matter of fact, the whole program is joggled up as to the identity of the speaking parts. Rosaline Greene and Ned Mariel Wilson plays Mary Lou; Captain Henry is played by Charles Winnebeck and little Henry Maxwell's crying is done by Sally Belle Box. The radio audience of Wisconsin

Jane Froman has been definitely signed to accompany Vincent Lopez on his "stocking" programs Sunday nights. She will fly by plane when Lopez comes to Chicago—a fact which will make her a record commuter. Wayne King's Mikovick engagement is practically settled and Wisconsin listeners will undoubtedly hear the Waltz King during July and August this summer. At the present time, Benny Merol's circus is holding forth three times a day on WTMM. . . The World's Pair begins Spring dance on Monday evening at Chicago this week, when Guy Lombardo arrives to take up his string. He is followed by Ben Benini, Buddy Rogers, Mark Fisher, Vincent Lopez, Steve Masters and possibly Paul Whiteman.

There are a number of nurses, nursery school directors, and county extension workers. Several these are consultants or demonstrators for commercial firms specializing in food or household equipment. Some are engaged in social service work or are visiting housekeepers. Many are doing research work in textiles and foods.

THE WASHINGTON MIRROR

By Leona R. Horton

Washington Although it cannot readily be reduced to a formula, the new deal is advancing a new American policy in foreign affairs and that policy is off to a flying start.

The President's procedure of inviting a series of private conferences representative of all nations is the same he has employed in trying the groundwork for his own domestic measures. At first, on every issue, he collects data and sounds opinion of first hand. He begins wherever possible with personal informal conferences, believing that "truth will out" in circles of official masks and reach to end.

He seeks the information gathered in such a fashion and the recommendations received, modified by his own sense of timing and the popular mood, decides on a course of action.

This is the new policy being applied by President Roosevelt in foreign affairs. Whether the American people as a whole realize it or not, the world has been invited to the Washington conference which represents a new approach to world problems. For the conference is, even though it delegates their next course of action in the waiting room or at the dinner table. The statesmen are all gathered at the White House and are taking their turn in confiding in the President of the United States.

The world comes to Washington less because Mr. Roosevelt invited it than because it has no where else to go. That is why the White House party is so much bigger than it started out to be. It grew from four guests to eleven, and from eleven to fifty-five.

And President Roosevelt saw the stress and shouldered the job. He maintains his attitude of "Let's try" and is willing to meet world statesmen on a common ground and feel that he has accomplished something. It is this mood of defeatism and save the world economic conference at London.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Edouard Herriot, French envoy, and Prime Minister Bennett of Canada have all been invited with the President. And they have returned by their respective lands, bearing a feeling that they had made a contribution to the world which to the depression with the United States. Press attaches from France, Italy, and Herriot's conversations at the White House proclaimed the American foreign policy interest as a welcome relief from the "Spasmodic interferences" of past administrations in European affairs.

President Roosevelt cherishes no messianic illusions about his conference. He does hope however to arrive at some concrete means of establishing a world monetary standard. He is of the firm belief that such a world standard will be the world's economic life. Tariffs, war debts and other problems are minimized by this one bill, he holds, and he is anxious to remedy the situation. His conversations with Premier MacDonald were an excellent start toward that end.

They Long in Bad

Sen. Henry Long, the "Kingfish" from Louisiana, who has been charged with graft and corruption by his constituents' Senate Leader Robinson saved his skin by planning the investigation in the hands of the judiciary committee, instead of the election group. That body is strongly influenced by Sen. Carter Glass of Virginia, who hates Long, and would be likely to make quick work of him.

But Sen. Robinson, though he has had just once, it would seem, to appear before the latter, found the upper house leader in Arkansas is about caught up with the "Kingfish." The other day he turned the scriptures on Long with devastating effect. Long was interfering in a vote on the amendment to the nation program, which Robinson halted the Louisiana, who is always offering Bible quotations, with "into circles of official masks and reach to end."

Robinson said the words of his mouth be like a strong wind!

The administration is contemplating a step, admittedly audacious and experimental, which, if successful, would figure prominently in national economic recovery.

Drafted as the "national industry recovery act," it envisages complete control of industry through a national board modeled after the War Relocation Authority. As now designed, the act sets aside the anti-trust laws and the Federal Trade Commission act, and empowers the national board to designate any industry as one affected with a public interest, permits price fixing under government supervision for the period of the emergency and agrees to a plan of self-organization of industries through trade associations.

The bill would, its proponents believe, stabilize and increase employment and an enlarged purchasing power. The scheme would set up a board of control of the national board headed by the Secretaries of Commerce and Labor.

Ramond Moley, assistant secretary of the national board, and James P. Warburg, New York banker, are generally believed to be behind the measure. The President has not completely sanctioned it and it is questionable whether Congress would set to the plan.

However, it may constitute a modified form, a vital part in the deal formula and warrants close observation on the part of those interested in the administration program.

Silhouette

An interesting man, is Henry Agard Wallace, secretary of agriculture, who will probably be entrusted with the nation's purchasing power any man ever had over agriculture.

Tall, lantern jawed, the firecracker of this man, and he is willing to fight to the last drop for what he believes.

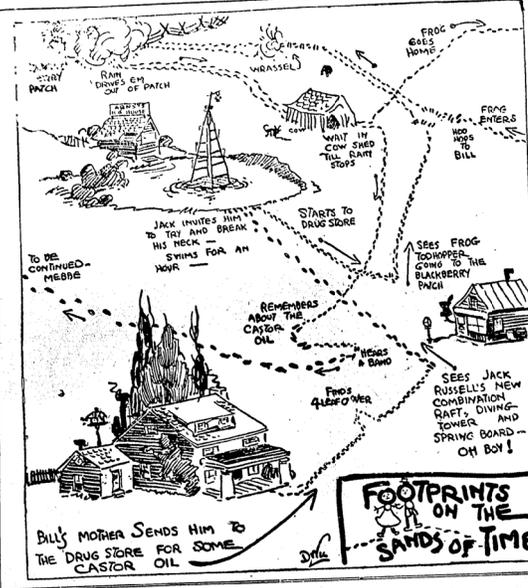

He is the son of Henry C. Wallace, who served as secretary of agriculture under President Harding, and the grandson of Theodore Roosevelt's Centry Life Commission. He comes from a dynasty of dirt farmers who raise corn.

He claims to be neither Democrat or Republican, but he says he will "go back home and raise corn" if he cannot help the farmer out. He is solidly for carrying out President Roosevelt's campaign promises and he will accept no compromises.

He has been fighting for the farmer for years. In fact he is held as something of a prophet. He was born on a farm here in 1888 and has lived all his life on the farm.

Since youth he has been in touch with farm questions. Trad-

New Law Will Help Michigan Farmers

East Lansing, May 18.—The passage of the farm adjustment act by Congress and the signing of it by President Roosevelt is the beginning of a national program to increase the purchasing power of farmers, with a consequent effect of bettering the economic condition of all classes of people.

The act, as passed, has three main sections. The first concerns the betterment of farm conditions by a plan of increasing the prices of farm products. The second deals with the matter of agricultural credits and the third gives the President and aides power to change present national financial and currency measures.

Michigan farmers are more immediately concerned with the first part of the act, which part will be commonly referred to as the Farm Act. This section of the law provides three means of increasing the prices of farm products: first, acreage reduction; second, payment of allotment benefits; and third, marketing agreements with processors and handlers of farm products.

Farm products listed as coming under the provisions of the Act are wheat, cotton, field corn, rice, tobacco, hogs, and milk and its products. Any of the products may be excluded from the operations of the Act by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Participation by farmers in this act will be entirely voluntary. The first step in the administration of the Act will be an attempt to inform everyone of the purpose of the law and how it will affect those farmers who aid in its operation.

All weekly newspapers in Michigan will have timely information concerning all features of the Act and the means taken in this state for its administration.

Mrs. C. H. Lyons of St. Louis testified in her divorce suit that her husband deserted her because she was lonely when she went to work to support him and herself.

Legal Beer and Where You Can Get It

LEGAL BEER CAUSES LITTLE EXCITEMENT

Legal beer was ushered in last Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock with little pomp or ceremony so far as Manistique was concerned. All places that had applied for permits were ready to serve the trade as a result of the promptness and foresight of local distributors, Liebi's Inc. and the Williams Bottling Works. There was a hot minute rush for revenue stamps as a result of the arrival of the state in getting them ready for distribution but the local beer distributors had their beer delivered on Thursday afternoon after having made special effort to see that the Manistique trade was taken care of.

The only two beers placed on the local market when the fifteen year ban on beer was lifted. Other brands appeared later the same evening and more on the next day.

Local dealers are operating under temporary permits issued by the state. It was expected that state inspectors would be around this week to formally approve the various applications but thus far none have appeared. All applications have been approved by local governing bodies, the city council approving the city applications and township boards approving township applicants.

Minerals Bring Large Sum In 1931

Lansing, May 18.—Minerals and mineral products produced in Michigan in 1931, the last year for which figures are available, reached a total valuation of about $83,000,000, a drop of $43,000,000 under the 1930 figure and representing but 50 per cent of the production valuation for 1929, it is indicated in a summary report issued by the Geological Survey Division of the Department of Conservation.

While production of iron ore in Michigan in 1931 was less than one third of that for 1929, the value of iron ore shipped from the mines in 1931 fell that of any of the 30 or more mineral products listed in the Division's report. In 1931 iron ore mined in Michigan had a value at the docks of $15,886,000 as compared with $47,597,000, the value of production in 1929.

Copper valuations dropped to third place giving way to coke which had the value of $12,190,000 in 1931. The value of coke produced in the state had dropped but $2,000,000 since 1927. The 1931 value represents the production of 2,650,000 tons.

Michigan copper experienced its greatest year in 1929, when its value reached an aggregate of more than $32,000,000. The following year its value dropped to $22,000,000 and in 1931 it had diminished to $10,745,000.

Production of pig iron in 1931 reached 537,350 tons with a total valuation of $8,954,000.

Portland cement which brought producers more than $20,000,000 in 1927 had dropped of unit in 1931 production was valued at less than $7,000,000. It represented in that year 6,132,000 barrels.

Salt production in the state has been relatively stable with a drop in annual value of from $8,848,000 in 1929 to $5,250,000 in 1931. The 1931 value of other important minerals and mineral products as listed by the Geological Survey Division were:

Limestone $5,805,000; sand and gravel $3,361,000; miscellaneous products (amorphous graphite, peat, marl, mineral waters, silver, etc.) $3,277,000; petroleum $2,840,000; brick and tile $1,700,000; coal $1,694,000; lime $354,015.

In summarizing its report, the Division includes salt, sand lime brick, bromine, calcium chloride, magnesium and magnesium sulphate as being among minerals productions of which gives Michigan first rank among the states. Michigan is second in production of iron ore, portland cement, pyrites and graphite. It holds third rank in production of stone and sand and gravel; fourth in copper and is ninth in the total value of its mineral products.

NEW RULINGS IN BEER LAW GIVEN

Grocery Stores Not Limited To Sale Of Six Or More Bottles

Important rulings concerning Michigan's beer bill have been made within the past week by the state liquor commission which is headed by Frank A. Picard, of Saginaw. One is to be effect that grocery stores may sell as low as one bottle of beer. The beer, of course, must not be consumed upon the premises. Previous instructions were to the effect that not less than six bottles of beer could be sold.

An original ruling of the commission to the effect that wholesalers could also sell in a like manner has been held to be unconstitutional, according to a ruling from the attorney general's department. Wholesalers may only sell to the retail trade. All sheriffs and chiefs of police in the state have been notified by Oscar G. Olander, commissioner of public safety, of the following ruling of the commission:

"Saginaw, Michigan, March 13, 1933; Oscar G. Olander, State Police, Lansing, Michigan. Some confusion exists regarding sale of beer over counter or bar. Regulations passed by Commission prohibit sale of beer to anyone seated or standing in front of a counter or bar, irrespective of whether there are tables in the same room or not. The word 'Table' does not mean or include a bar or counter in the shape of a table. So-called 'one arm' restaurants may serve provided beer is carried to the consumer at his chair. This regulation has the force of law. Restaurants, clubs and gardens may sell for consumption on the premises only, hotels may sell for consumption both on and off the premises. Drug stores, grocery stores and wholesalers may sell for consumption of the premises only and may sell one bottle at a time. This also rule of weight upon the premises. Received Secretary of State approval. No other retailer may sell at present. License must be prominently displayed and telegrams sent by Commission is a temporary license. Authority of local legislative body not sufficient. Will you ask the several police authorities of villages, cities, townships, counties and state to explain these regulations to all concerned and to see that they enforced in their respective localities. Timely Information On Recent Blatz Analysis

THERE has been considerable discussion on the alcoholic content of New Beer and the public is experiencing disappointments daily because of their selection of "green beer" or "beer that is not fully-aged."

Blatz Old Heidelberg, however, is leading the parade today because every case and barrel shipped is guaranteed FULLY-AGED as well as conforming to all Government Specifications.

Articles, similar to the reproduced clipping below, are being featured in newspapers everywhere unsolicited. Read it carefully and inform your friends and customers to drink and stock up with Blatz, the FULLY-AGED Beer, which is close to the limit as proved in this recent laboratory test.

Test Shows "Old Heidelberg" Meets Specifications

Always striving to give his patrons quality products and eager to learn the alcoholic content of Blatz's "Old Heidelberg" beer, for which he is local agent, Col. J. Barbour Russell recently sent two bottles of that famous Milwaukee brew to the experiment station at Lexington to be tested. He received a report of the test Thursday, showing the beer contains 3.07 per cent alcohol by weight and 3.86 per cent by volume. The limit, as fixed by Congress, is 3.2 per cent weight or 4 per cent by volume, thus indicating that Blatz's product is but slightly under the limit specified by the government.

There has been much comment regarding the alcoholic content of the new beer and Mr. Russell was anxious to learn definitely the exact quality of the Blatz beer.

Blatz's "Old Heidelberg" Close To Limit

Beer lovers who have been laboring under the belief that, for various reasons, none of the brew which has been offered for sale here since the beverage became legal on April 7 has contained more than two and a half per cent alcohol, if that, have a pleasant surprise in store for them.

Contrary to this belief, there is at least one make of beer being sold here that contains more than three per cent alcohol by weight or nearly four per cent by volume. That make is Blatz's "Old Heidelberg," distributed by J. B. Russell.

Mr. Russell recently sent two bottles of that famous old Milwaukee beer to the experiment station at Lexington to be tested. He received a report of the test Thursday, showing the beer contains 3.07 per cent alcohol by weight and 3.86 per cent by volume. The limit, as fixed by Congress, is 3.2 per cent by weight or 4 per cent by volume.

Mr. Russell is highly gratified with the outcome of the test and desires to advise his customers of it.

Large Runs Of Fish Reported

Lansing, May 18.—Unusually large runs of trout and pike reported by the Marquette and Muskegon rivers this spring are reported by the Fish Division of the Department of Conservation which has completed rescue operations at Junction and Newsgay Dams. The rescue work was made possible through cooperation of the Consumers Power company.

At Newsgay Dam almost 50,000 pike-perch, averaging two pounds in weight were lifted over the dam to the river above. The figure represents more than the combined total of pike-perch rescued at this point over a period of several years. In addition to the pike-perch 728 rainbow trout were lifted over the dam that they might continue on their spawning run up the river.

Several large catches were made during the brief period of the run. Richard Peacock, operating a dip net rescued 500 fish in one day and Charles Wahler of Newsgay succeeded in rescuing more than 5,000 fish during the period of the run.

The run of suckers was reported unusually small, although about 1,000 of them were taken. They were not returned to the river but were turned over to the local welfare organization for distribution to the needy.

Twelve brown and five brook trout and two small mouth black bass were among other species taken.

At Junction Dam on the Manistiquette River, 2,250 rainbow trout were rescued. The amount of fish rescued there was more than the total fish taken at that point during the past two years. Operations were supervised by A. J. Wolcott of the Marietta Fish Hatchery who was assisted by Don Franz representing the Consumers Power company. About 1,000,000 rainbow trout eggs were stripped from the fish before they were lifted over the dam.

Sparring Season Closed On May 15

Lansing, May 18.—Sparring in all Michigan inland waters ceased May 15.

Sparring in non-trout streams for carp, suckers, redearheads, dogfish and gar pike was permitted until May 15. Extension of time for sparring in southern Michigan streams until May 15 had been granted by Director George R. Rogarth of the Department of Conservation.

There is no closed season for sparring in the Great Lakes waters for any species other than large and small mouth black bass, warmouth, white catfish or strawberry bass, crappie, rock bass, sunfish, green sunfish, brook, rainbow or brown trout, muskellunge or surgeon. The species enumerated may be taken or had in possession in the same manner and time provided for fishing in inland waters.

Farm Act Provides Money For Farmers

East Lansing, May 18.—The farm adjustment Act provides an original appropriation of $100,000,000 to meet the cash payment to farmers for acreage reductions or other means of reducing farm surpluses, and further amounts of money will be obtained by taxes paid by the processors of farm products.

These taxes on the processors will also be used to reimburse the federal treasury for the original $100,000,000. The amount of tax to be levied will be kept within reasonable bounds, and will be determined for each farm commodity after hearings at which both the farmer and the processor will be heard.

The farm commodities named in the Farm Act are wheat, cotton, field corn, rice, tobacco, hogs, and milk and milk products. The tax on these commodities will be levied on the net domestic processing of each of the named products. This will mean the miller in the case of wheat, and the butcher or packer in the case of hogs. The Federal Internal Revenue Department will collect the taxes. These taxes will provide a large fund which will reimburse farmers for their voluntary reduction of surpluses. Farmers who do not cooperate with the provisions of the Act will sell their crops on the open market at prevailing prices and will receive no benefit payments under the provisions of the Farm Act.

The hearings to determine the amount of tax to be assessed will be held immediately. Reports of these hearings will be sent to your home town newspaper.

FARM VOICE HEARD IN NEW RELIEF LAW

East Lansing, May 18.—Michigan farmers will have an authoritative voice in the administration of the new Farm Act in this State, according to the tentative plan of Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Definite plans for the establishment of governing bodies in the State and in the counties could not be made until the passage of the Federal law, and this passage is so recent that complete plans are not yet available. A preliminary announcement, however, states that one farmer will be a member of the five-man state board of control.

In addition it has been suggested that a member of the state extension service, which has worked with farm organizations for many years, shall be a member of the Board. Another suggested farm representative on the Board is the State Commissioner of Agriculture, who is appointed to represent the farm interests of the state. The other two suggested members are the Governor and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

The membership of this Board is not definitely settled and may be changed.

The workings of the Act within the counties will be supervised by a committee composed entirely of largely of farmers. The organization of this committee was suggested by the county agricultural agent and he will assist committee members.

The provisions of the Act are entirely voluntary. No farmer aid in its operation unless he is convinced it will benefit him. Hometown newspapers will have all information regarding the Act.

Another Tribute To W. T. S. Cornell

An appreciation of William Tecumseh Sherman Cornell, ex-commissioner of schools, Schoolcraft County.

Deep is the feeling of the personal loss when a good and valiant soul passes to the Great Beyond. These left behind are a little enterprise. Mourners are uncompanionable. The mind of the departed is indistinct. His health is ill. There is much evidence in the world that Mother Nature expiates the mourners and melancholy. We grieve for ourselves. "Ye that mourn, let gladness mingle with your tears."

Second nature begets and sustains human life with a prodigal hand. May we not rejoice that not all human units are worthless, and there are those who give to life more than they take from it. Such a man was W. T. S. Cornell. His contribution was not only to the State of Michigan, but to the world. The things that count in life cannot be counted. President Burton of the University of Michigan said: "The things that count in life cannot be counted."

Influence can be measured only by the yardstick of infinity. And the influence of Cornell was not in Schoolcraft county alone, where Mr. Cornell was commissioner and teacher for 47 years, but throughout the entire State of Michigan. He will testify as his rare ability as a teacher. Some spend their lives leaving nothing behind.

Wherever he met men and women, boys and girls, he was instructing them. Upon the day of his death he was demonstrating to Rural Schools the Babcock Milk Tester. He died in the harness while on his life.

The writer well remembers two of the many memory gems with which his active mind was stored. "I like to think when death is near, that in my children I shall live. No monument of stone could give me greater glory, year by year. Than sons and daughters treading on in truth and honor when I'm gone." Who leaves a stalwart son a noble daughter sweet and pure. Hath monuments that long endure. He needs no staff to prove his worth. The lustre of his children's deeds is all the monument he needs.

And another: "I would be true for there are those who trust me. I would be pure for there are those who care. I would be strong for there is much to suffer. I would be brave for there is much to dare. I would be kind of all, the foe, the friend, the enemy. I would be giving and forget the gift. I would be humble for I know my worth. I would look up and laugh and love and lift. These he recited to me along with others as we drove to the various schools to visit.

These he recited to me along with others as we drove to the various schools to visit. The motto of "fine minds." If the principal ingredient in a successful school man is sympathy, Mr. Cornell was indeed rich in this respect. He was counsel and friend to all. The constructive work he did cost him many a sleepless night. He was measured by mortals many an able but his exceptional influence among his teachers.

The public has lost a servant whose example is something over which to rest. If the public has held office, and are entrusted with public funds, would be as conscientious and careful as W. T. S. Cornell. His tax payers would be his; his taxes; the banks would be safe and sound and business would advance. He was a true servant of the people.

Sincerely,
C. C. Wiggins,
Northern Michigan Teachers College, Marquette, Mich.

Bingham Funeral Held On Tuesday

A few years previous to his coming to Marquette, he had resided at Calmar with his son, Leon. Immediate survivors are three sons, Frank and J. Relatives who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bingham of Detroit, and Leon of Calmar.

SALIENT BILLS

JAM CALENDAR

By Elton R. Eaton
Lansing, Mich.—Not until the very day that the Michigan legislature decided to adjourn its present session and go home will the people of Michigan know how they are going to be taxed. Neither will they know how much money has been appropriated for state expenditures and how much has been cut from the budget of past years.

Seemingly all of the important legislation, all of the tax relief measures and many of the important appropriation bills are being turned into the legislative hopper at one time when the representatives and senators are anxious to quit their long tedious legislative grind and get back home. Not to this year, however, has been any definite welfare legislation advanced to a point for final consideration. The bill that counts to the fact that many members of the house are not in accord with the executive and senate idea of aid to the unemployed people of Michigan. This money must be diverted from one of the only sources the state has for getting money from the automobile weight tax, or the federal government will no longer give any money to Michigan.

In fact the Michigan welfare department has already been advised that no federal money will come to Michigan for the year. My allotment. That means that cities and counties that have contracted debts upon the assumption that they would have the federal money to pay these bills will not be able to pay the bills for supplies contracted for the various welfare units of the state.

Michigan is one of the few states that has not yet complied with the demand of Washington that it must provide some state aid for the support of its unemployed people in order to get federal money. The federal government cannot and will not help a state that refuses to help itself.

Upon promulgation of the enactment of the Kulp bill that provides funds for welfare, the state government during the past few months has been advancing money to the state, but now the federal aid has been withdrawn.

So it can readily be seen that important legislative welfare questions are going to be jammed into the final days of the session for consideration.

Bills that provide finances for the public school system of Michigan are making progress. Fear expressed a few weeks ago that the school system of the state was about to collapse has been dispelled. The school system of the state has been dispelled. The school system of the state has been dispelled.

Some progress is also being made on the Moore delinquent tax bill that has been passed out two or three times but in some ways find sufficient new vitality to arise again and carry on. Possibly it is due to the fact that even though the original bill wasn't all that it should have been, there is merit in the spirit of the bill.

Representatives and senators to give some aid to property owners who are unable to pay their taxes. The one stumbling block that has stood in the way of the Moore bill, the fear that it was designed to aid some of the big city real estate sub-dividers who in the past have milked the public, has been somewhat overcome by the presentation of facts which show that most of these fellows do not now own the land they originally disposed of as nice, attractive homesites. House and senate committees are working on some of the legislation, all of the tax relief measures and many of the important appropriation bills are being turned into the legislative hopper at one time when the representatives and senators are anxious to quit their long tedious legislative grind and get back home.

Prison appropriations have been cut by both senate and house committee. A bill providing for the release of prisoners will go out as a result of these curtailments.

Four-H club work, one of the excellent features of the work of the extension department of the Michigan State College, has met with the approval of the house appropriation for this work among the boys and girls of rural Michigan, having been passed without difficulty. The bill is now in the senate where it doubtless will meet with the same consideration.

Villages and cities will not be able to raise property assessments of a high percentage in the house should be passed.

Another veteran state employee passed out of the picture during the past few days, Thomas Buckingham, for nearly twenty years assistant superintendent of built-up lands and grounds, having been retired by the state board of auditors. His place has been filled by a brother of State Treasurer Figg. Possibly this indicates that the new assistant superintendent, who has proven to be a very likable chap, will be elevated to the position that Wallace Brown has held so well and so efficiently over a long period of years. Figg's term of office expires July first unless the board should decide to retain him.
