80,000 Acres Compose Upper Michigan National Forest

The Upper Michigan National Forest, embracing about 80,000 acres, is part of one of the best forest systems in the world. This National Forest consists of 50 units, the Hiawatha and Marquette, which are located in the eastern half of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Each citizen of the United States is a stockholder in the national forests, according to the current annual report of Lyle F. Watts, chief of the U. S. Forest Service. His report summarizes a half-century's activity in public forestry, and though addressed to the secretary of Agriculture, it might well serve as a report to 140,000,000 citizen stockholders.

Some 80 million acres of national forest land—most of it in the west—are suitable for grazing. They are only a small part of the 728 million acres of western range but because they are for the most part located at high elevations they help carry livestock through the summer months when other suitable range is limited.

Wildlife is abundant in the 86 states, Alaska, and Puerto Rico, contain 180 million acres more than an acre apiece for every man, woman, and child in the United States. Major resources total big game population—live on the national forests. The forests contain 90,000 miles of unspoiled streams and 1 1/2 million acres of fish-producing lakes. In 1948 they yielded host to 4 1/2 million hunters and fishermen.

Recreation
Recreational facilities on the national forests include 4,500 camping and picnicking areas, 230 winter-sports areas, 400 organization camps for group outings, 77 wilderness and roadless areas, and 50,000 miles of highways and secondary roads. More than 26 million people visit the forests each year through them.

Water
Watershed protection—one of the primary reasons for the establishment of the national forests—is tied in to activities and in critical areas takes precedence over all others. The Forest Service has direct responsibility for watershed management on the 180 million acres of national forest land; in addition, because the nation's water supply is a problem of growing concern, the Forest Service is cooperating with other federal and state agencies in promoting improved conditions on watershed lands in all ownerships.

Costs and Returns
For operation, management and protection of the national forests in 1948 the Forest Service expended approximately $32,000,000. In addition approximately $15,000,000 was spent from appropriations by Congress for roads and trails and for purchase of land. Part of these expenditures can be classified as capital investments. These expenditures are offset in part by national forest receipts, which totaled nearly $25,000,000 in 1948.

Many of the national forests more than pay their own way, their cash income exceeding operating costs. On others, especially those containing large areas of cut-over and burned-over land recently acquired, receipts may be expected to increase as new timber growth is built up. Some national forest land, such as areas above timber line and noncommercial forest lands like the chaparral forests of southern California, are largely of non-revenue-producing character. However, vital watershed and other values make protection a necessity, and the benefits exceed the cost many times.

DAIRYMEN SET UP BREEDING PLAN

Total Of 282 Cows To Be Bred By Artificial Insemination

At a meeting held at the Cooks high school last Thursday night, 23 Schoecraft county dairymen and six East Delta county dairymen signed up for artificial insemination service. Clayton D. Reid, county agricultural agent announced ced this week. To date, 201 Holsteins and 81 Guernseys have been enrolled in the Schoecraft County Artificial Breeding association.

"These cows will be bred to outstanding sires owned cooperatively by members of the Michigan Artificial Breeders Cooperative of which Schoecraft county farmers are now becoming a part," the county agent explained. "The sires are housed on Michigan State college property. Most of the sires already have official U. S. D. A. proofs showing the high level of milk and butterfat production being passed on to their daughters. Some bulls are bought before the official proof can be completed if their daughters show promise of being better than their dams."

"The use of these sires which have the proven ability to pass on high productivity to their daughters will do more to make dairymen profitable in Schoecraft county than any other one thing," Reid declared.

The members already signed in and the number of cows enrolled are as follows:

It doesn't take much to START A FIRE!

A carelessly tossed cigaret... a match that seemed to be out... defective electrical wiring... a frayed lamp cord... it doesn't take much to start a fire that can cause great financial loss. Protect your property by removing fire hazards and carrying adequate fire insurance coverage. And remember, when you insure against fire, you can save half a year's premium by paying three years in advance. Insure NOW. If you already carry fire insurance, check over your policies and increase your insurance to cover increased valuations.

Traditional white satin was worn by Arlene Rae Carley Thursday morning for her marriage to Charles Cole Bush, of the Michigan state police. The attractive daughter of the Robert D. Carleys became the bride of Trooper Bush, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bush, of Waterford, at a 10 o'clock high mass at St. Francis de Sales church officered by the Rev. E. H. Bonenden. The bride's gown was simply styled, with close fitting bodice and yoke of illusion, full skirt with train and bustle of foot and long leg of mutton sleeves. Her illusion veil was edged with satin and fastened to a shirred headpiece. She carried a white prayer book with a spray of white flowers contoured by an orchid and white satin ribbons. Her father gave her in marriage, Miss Joan Weber was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Jean Hamblum, Miss Shirley Heintz and Miss Arlene McNamara. The attendants were given aloft in full-skirted faille gowns of pastel shades, styled with off the shoulder necklines and narrow collar, single-fitting bodice and cap sleeves. GOING NO PLACE with the roar and rattle of high speed is the streamlined locomotive Sir Sied Crestley, named after a famed British railroad engineer, as demonstrated at $800,000 test bench, consisting of rollers fitted with rims like railroad tracks, at the opening of the British Railroads' new research station at Rugby, England. The bench carries out tests up to 120 m.p.h., and has, as seen in the picture, a mobile chimney for placing above the loco's smokestack and taking off the exhaust. If anybody had any doubts in their mind that you can still remain free and compromise with Communism, the tragedy of Cardinal Mindszenty should serve as an object lesson. Cardinal Mindszenty's trial and sentence to life imprisonment by the infamous Communist Hungarian controlled court has shocked the Christian world.

Soon after this tragedy fifteen churches of Bulgaria were charged by the Communist Bulgarian government of treason to their government. It is evident that the Communists are renewing their purge against Christians. We remember when a similar purge took place in the later 30's and thousands upon thousands of Christians were killed or imprisoned, church property confiscated, and halls of worship closed.

The philosophy of a Communist state is based upon materialism and has an utter scorn for Christian teaching. Today it is a Catholic leader who is tortured for believing in God—tomorrow a Protestant minister—the next day a Rabbi. All religion is threatened. The danger signals are up.

Communism is not just anti-Catholic, anti-Protestant or anti-Jewish—Communism is anti-Christ. If any Americans have been duped into believing that Communism is a new social order which will bring us boundless living, let these incidents be their warning.

By Fred C. Bernhardt, District 4-H Club Agent

We appreciate the cooperation of Mrs. J. J. Herbert and the local cancer unit for the use of the cancer films; they were shown to 275 boys and girls in eight 4-H club groups and 75 adults in two groups.

Mrs. Evelyn Miller, Woods District, will receive a pearl studded pin for fifteen years of 4-H club leadership at the recognition banquet March 3. Ten year gold awards will be given to Mrs. Beba Hough and Mrs. Minnie McGuck of Manistique.

We hope that the artificial breeding program materializes. 4-H dairy club animals receive complimentary membership and need only pay the breeding fee. It will be an opportunity to get outstanding breeding.

At the Palmer School, Carol Peterson knit a pair of mittens with variegated yarn. They certainly are attractive. In the first year of knitting the girls make scarfs, dish cloths, and other articles. After that, it's anklets, cardigan sweaters, and pattern stitch articles.

Lack of snow has held up deer yard studies in spite of the snow falls the last few weeks the deer are still moving. The boys at the Millar School have their skis and snowshoes in shape for this project.

Governor Says Small Business Won't Suffer From Tax Plan

Governor G. Mennen Williams' proposal for a four per cent tax on corporate profits will have almost no effect on small business, the Governor said in an interview this week.
The Governor recommended the tax to the legislature in his special message of February 2. It is not a new tax, he said, but an adjustment and equalization of the present corporate franchise tax which is now Michigan's only tax on corporate income.

Business Taxes Low
Business taxes in Michigan are the lowest of any of the 10 leading industrial states. In the 48 states as a whole, about 22 per cent of state revenues are derived from business taxes. Pennsylvania gets 36 per cent of its revenues from business taxes, and Massachusetts, 33 per cent.

Bachunas Against Rate Increases In Tourist Business

Like many another business, the resort industry has become a "buyers' market" and vacationists are shopping around. J. J. (Joe) Bachunas, who operated Blaney Park last year, says in a letter to the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau which he opposes resort rate increases.

"This is a time to work along on a smaller profit, if necessary, to give better service in every way to hold the business you have and to try and get some new operators," he believes.

The Development Bureau, echoing Bachunas' advice, blames high rates for the "principal disinclination" of proprietors of resort areas and individual resorts with the volume of resort patronage and the size of their tourist dollar income in 1940.

Blaney's Park's history. This wasn't entirely due to the low rates, but the publicity on them brought in many inquiries and we turned many of them into guests."

Michigan's biggest resort operator suggests a "check on the trend of the times" to see that rates, radiators, refrigerators and other commodities are being offered with premiums, that better and eggs are down about 20 per cent and that merchandise is being obtained from manufacturers and wholesalers at special reduced prices.

"I've watched these trends for 20 years in the resort business," Bachunas said, "and my advice is don't raise prices. But increase your advertising and sales expenditures. Be courteous."

"If you don't, your business is going to suffer."

Scout Notes

By Rev. Paul Sobel
Scout Commissioner

Scouting has reached another milestone in Manistique. Celebrating the 35th anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout Movement in the United States two of our local troops were hosts to the parents of the boys in each organization. Troop 460, meeting in the Lincoln school, officially entered the ranks of the greatest movement among boys when the membership cards were presented to the boys before a good group of parents on Tuesday night, Feb. 8. Participation of the boys in the troop created much interest as they displayed their skill with knots and general knowledge of Scouting facts. Sid Bouwer as Scoutmaster and Lionel Tyrnell as his assistant gave evidence of good leadership as they conducted the different activities of the evening. A fitting climax to this first Parents' Night of the Lincoln PTAs, Scout Commissioner, Paul Sobel, led in an impressive Tenderfoot Investiture. The three boys who received their first pins as Scouts will not forget the candlelight ceremony and the moment when one of their parents pinned the hard-earned pin on them. The evening closed with lunch being served by the troop committee which consists of John Hanson, chairman, Raoul Bertrand, Harvey McLaughlin, Everett Pasino and Carl Wedell.

The men responsible for the leadership of Scouting in Manistique are to be congratulated on the progress this program for boys is making locally.

Women's Club Slate Submitted; Talk By Morenus is Feature

(Continued from page 1) warmly in sub-zero weather brought forth the remark "I was walking in a cloud of steam." He learned then that it was not how much one wore, but what one wore that kept a person comfortably warm in temperatures of -30 degrees and -40 degrees. Once it reached as low as -60 degrees, "Indians are very good trappers in the winter and very good visitors in the summer, but they won't work," the speaker said, and he had to do all his own work to survive.

Obtaining water from a lake covered with ice 5 to 6 feet thick was a problem to be solved during the first winter. Chopping with an axe was not too successful a method. In succeeding winters it was accomplished by using an ice chisel to keep an open hole in the ice.

A six foot saw was hardly an adequate instrument for cutting ice 8 feet thick in the spring time, said Morenus was cutting it to save for summer use. After chopping and sawing ice all spring, he had put up 18 tons.

Use of trail dogs, or huskies, Morenus learned, was the way to transport supplies over the 14 miles from town to camp. The three huskies he purchased were named Pal, Sport, and Chum. The command, "Mush" an expression so common in Jack London stories, was the only command to move that the huskies obeyed, "so we munched and hoed all day long," he said.

One day the lead dog disappeared so the other two dogs would not "mush," and since Morenus had to "mush" that day, he said, "it was a sight to behold to see the lead dog's harness over my head." On their return to camp, the lead dog was waiting for his

THE AMERICAN WAY

Trend to Larger Farms
Noted in Census Figures
That a trend toward larger farms a under way may be deduced from figures of the U. S. farm census. In 1945, the average American farm was nearly 200 acres, which is 20 acres more than in 1940, 80 acres more than in 1920.

While total farm acres increased from 258 millions in 1920 to 1.1 billion in 1945, the number of farms declined, in the same period, from 14 million to 6.5 million. An increase which seems significant has occurred in really outside farms of 1,000 acres or more. These big units, since 1920, have registered a 98 per cent gain, numerically. Middle-sized farms of 100, 200 or 300 acres accounted for one-third of all farms in 1920, but today they represent less than one-fourth of the total.

As further indication of this trend, farm population figures have declined, too, despite a national increase which seems significant has occurred in really outside farms of 1,000 acres or more. These big units, since 1920, have registered a 98 per cent gain, numerically. Middle-sized farms of 100, 200 or 300 acres accounted for one-third of all farms in 1920, but today they represent less than one-fourth of the total.
