

Local group urges parking action

With downtown merchants just about evenly divided on the question of off-street parking, City Council must now face the question of whether to act or not to act.

A Chamber of Commerce committee headed by William Putvin appeared before the Council at the regular meeting Monday night to urge the city to go ahead with the proposed plan, which had been presented two weeks earlier at a special Chamber meeting.

In a prepared statement to the Council, Putvin said: "It is the unanimous vote of this committee that parking is needed if Manistique is to grow, hold its own valuation, and perform its duties as heart of this county."

"Cities that have provided parking grow internally. Cities that have not provided parking suffer. Growth occurs in the townships which provide their own parking. This leaves the city providing police protection, fire protection and other maintenance, trying to pick up tax losses from home owners. No one can dispute the fact that by not providing downtown parking we are forcing more building outside the city limits.

"One fact stands out among the 'No' votes, age of land owners. The average age of the dissenting vote is well over 62 years of age. Does not the present generation deserve a chance or is Manistique to be dictated to by those parties who were successful 30 and 40 years ago and are against progress and refuse to give the next generation an opportunity to succeed as they did?"

"Many will say downtown parking will materialize in a few more years which is very true. As businesses move into the townships there will be many vacant buildings downtown, the owners will find it would be cheaper to tear down the buildings and pay taxes on an empty lot than to pay taxes on both the building and the lot. "You councilmen are the chosen leaders for the city. Let us project into the future. We all know that sooner or later there are more and more cars, and the majority of families are of two car ownership. At the present time Manistique does not provide adequate parking. In many instances people do not shop at the store of their choice but are forced to shop where the parking is available for their convenience. Manistique is fortunate in having customers from Delta, Luce, Alger and Mackinac counties. Let's keep them and keep these people coming to the downtown area. "We are lucky to have the business route of US-2 through our city. Have any of you realized how advantageous it would

At left, William Henschel, owner-agent of the Savings Assurance Agency, breaks ground for his new office building to be located on S. Cedar St. With him is his son William, now home on leave from the Navy, before leaving for Vietnam service as a Marine corpsman. He plans to join his father in the local firm upon his return and release from service.

Seney pools yield pike

Michigan Department of Natural Resources personnel, in cooperation with the Seney National Wildlife Refuge, have completed this year's pike removal from the refuge pools. A total of 52 northern pike were trapped and transferred between April 10-22.

They released 130 legal size pike in the refuge Show Pools: 105 in Mackinac, Mackinac Island County; 60 in Sturgeon Marsh, Schoolcraft County; 15 in Brevoort Marsh, Mackinac County; and 100 in Pike Lake, Lapeere County. In addition to the pike, 250 yellow perch, 200 bluegills and 20 sunfish were transferred to the Show Pools.

The main portion of the refuge pool system has been used as a source of pike for other areas for many years. The pike in the interior of the refuge are closed to public fishing, but through the pike removal program many of these fish are made available to the public.

Inland closes Bristol mine

Inland Steel Company last week, announced it would close its Bristol iron ore mine at Crystal Falls, in late July. "Continued lessening in the demand for Bristol-type ore has necessitated the company's decision to discontinue operation of the mine," said Philip D. Pearson, general manager of U.S. mines for Inland.

Pearson said that many of the mine's approximately 122 employees will qualify for early retirement pensions, and that the company expected to be able to offer employment opportunities at other Inland operations to those who desire to continue working.

Inland operates the Sherwood mine at Iron River, Mich., and the Inland and crushing plant of Inland Lime and Stone Company at Gulliver, near Manistique. A new taconite mine and pellet plant at Black River Falls, Wis., is scheduled to be in production this year.

Bristol employees will be considered for placement at all three operations, Pearson said.

Shutdown of the mine will begin this month and will continue until the mine is closed in late July.

The mine was opened in 1922 and closed for brief interruptions, operated continuously until 1932. Inland acquired the mine in 1938 and re-opened it in 1946. It has operated continuously since then. Approximately 15 million tons of ore have been shipped from the mine.

Confused partridge is window crasher

A bird in the hand may be worth two in the bush, but what is one in the bedroom window?

An errant partridge that came sailing through a bedroom window in the Karl Krumrey home on State Road early last Wednesday morning was worth a big surprise.

Mrs. Krumrey reported that her son, Karl, Jr., had just gotten up when the bird crashed through the storm window and regular window, and landed on the pillow.

Social security here is big business

A record $124,000 in monthly social security benefits was being paid to residents of Schoolcraft County at the end of December, 1968, an increase of 7 per cent above the amount payable at the end of February, 1968, according to Arnold T. Williams, district manager for social security.

"Throughout the country, monthly benefits payable at the end of 1968 amounted to nearly $2.4 billion, some $350 million higher than at the end of 1967," Williams continued. "Approximately three-quarters of the increased monthly amount resulted from higher benefit rates authorized by the 1967 Amendments to the Social Security Act. The remainder of the increase was simply due to a greater number of beneficiaries.

By the end of May 1969, social security will be paying monthly benefits to more than 25 million people -- 1 out of every 8 Americans. Although retired workers comprise the largest group of beneficiaries, almost one-fourth of all people receiving benefits are under 60. There are currently more than 3.8 million children and 1.5 million young widowed mothers receiving payments. Yet the public continues to think of social security as a program for old people.

In Schoolcraft County, 298 people under 60 are receiving benefits. That figure breaks down into 155 under 18, 21 from 18-21 and 122 from 22-59.

Many students would have been unable to continue their educations were it not for the 1965 Amendments to the Social Security Act which extended survivors and dependents insurance benefits to students until their 22nd birthdays. In 1968, that provision resulted in continuing benefits for 470,000 students.

Monthly payments to the family of a worker who dies leaving a widow and two or more children range from $32.50 to $44.40 a month, depending on the worker's average earnings, and social security payments to the young family of a worker who dies at an early age could total as much as $65,000.

Williams also pointed out that by the end of 1968, approximately 30 per cent of Americans 65 and over were either receiving cash benefits or would have been eligible for such benefits if they or their spouses had not been working.

In terms of Medicare, almost all people in the country 65 or over are eligible for hospital insurance benefits. Likewise, 99 per cent of all older persons in the country have elected coverage under the voluntary supplementary medical insurance plan which pays physicians' fees.

Williams continued, "Approximately three-quarters of the increased monthly amount resulted from higher benefit rates authorized by the 1967 Amendments to the Social Security Act. The remainder of the increase was simply due to a greater number of beneficiaries.

Clean-up committee reports are given

Schoolcraft County is getting ready to put its best feet forward for Michigan Week.

A summary of activities sponsored by the Operation Pride Clean-up Committee was given at a Monday evening meeting of the group held at the Fireside.

Area 4-II Club members, under the direction of VETA worker Jan Strasma, collected 23 plastic bags of trash Saturday during a work bee along the Lake Michigan shoreline, near Lakeview Park. Plans are underway to continue the clean-up effort, from the park to the Coast Guard station.

The Inlake Park area, ski hill and Senior Citizens Center areas have been cleaned by a Job's Daughters work crew, while Lake Girl Scouts have been assigned cleaning and landscaping the areas around the monuments at River and Elk Sts. and by the stadium.

Lions Club members have been assigned to work in the sand shell area and near the old hockey rink.

City manager Robert Nee reported that the trash barrels, provided by the local business, would be put out before Memorial Day.

Home evaluation sheets have been distributed to local residents by members of the Senior Contemporary History class, it was reported. Members of the local VFW are preparing a survey of vacant lots and junk cars.

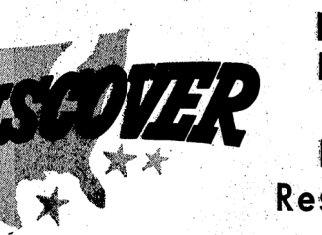

Seney and Hiawatha have completed their township roadside pickups. It was reported, and plans are being made in Seney, Germfask, Doyle, Manistique and Aucler township, with the work probably to be done this week. No plans have yet been made for Inwood and Thompson townships.

A discussion on disposal of junk cars was held by the committee.

Nee reported that the city would take care of collecting owners within the city limits, and it was agreed that township listings would be submitted to County Saltarian Boy's Brigs for action through the health department.

An evaluation meeting is planned by the committee May 26.

Gov. Milliken scores student violence

Governor William Milliken, speaking at a Schoolcraft County Republican Committee fund-raising dinner Wednesday evening, drew applause from the 350 persons present when he declared that violence on college and university campuses "will not be tolerated in Michigan."

The governor stated that he firmly believes in the principle of dissent. He added that we should recognize the feeling of the student body on our campuses. "However, there must be a sharp line of demarcation between legitimate dissent, free and open criticism, and violence and takeover of public buildings by force," the governor stated.

Milliken pointed out to the audience attending the dinner at the St. Francis de Sales Parish Center, that the single most important issue in the state is the quality of education. He urged the legislature to adopt his proposed school aid budget with the pledge that he would submit a blueprint for educational reform at a special session of the legislative body this fall. The governor urged teachers and educators to exercise restraint until the reform has been presented.

The speaker stated that he was scheduled to fly to Washington following the Manistique meeting to join a group of governors and mayors of major cities for the purpose of discussing housing needs with George Romney, secretary of housing and Urban Development. He expressed the opinion that progress can be made in low and middle income housing if we adopt some of the mass production methods utilized by them.

Prior to the arrival of Gov. Milliken, Congressman Philip Ruppe told the audience that the 1970 election will set the national tone in Michigan for the next decade. He pointed out that 1970 will be the year that Milliken runs for his first full term as governor. It will also be the election just prior to reapportionment of legislative seats under the 1970 census.

Ruppe praised Gov. Milliken for his first 100 days as chief executive of the state. He added that we must slow down non-essential government spending as a means of controlling inflation and that we must step up efforts to turn the fighting in Vietnam over to local government troops.

Representative Charles Varnum, speaking on campus disorders, stated that the legislature is now conducting hearings on the matter. He added that a very small minority are responsible for the violence and that steps will be taken to deal with them.

John Moffat, chairman of the Schoolcraft County Republican Committee, served as master of ceremonies. Mrs. John Moffat and Mrs. George Wood were co-chairmen of the dinner.

Official Proceedings OF THE SCHOOLCRAFT COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

April 26, 1969

A regular meeting of the Manistique City Council was held on April 26, 1969, at 7:30 P.M. at City Hall. There were present: Councilmen DeMars, Reque, Carlson, Caya, Westgartner, City Attorney Hood and City Manager Noe. Absent: None.

The minutes of the regular meeting of April 14, 1969, were approved as correct.

Mrs. Mary Moffat, co-chairman of the Operation Pride Committee, was present and read a letter to the Council thanking them for their operation in this year's clean up campaign and asked that signs be placed in some areas. She also explained that letters had been sent out by a local individual without the knowledge of the committee criticizing local residents and businesses and although some of the items in the letters may be true, the form and wording of the letters were not correct. The committee had attempted to contact each person who received a letter to explain and also had taken out signs of explanation.

Mr. George Videtich, North Maple Street, requested action on a building permit and said he had been denied issuance of one. Mr. Noe said he had turned down the request as he had no assurance of when the project would be completed. The Council directed that a meeting between Mr. Videtich and the Zoning Board of Appeals be arranged.

The City Manager reported on a meeting held recently in Duluth with EDA officials and said that Councilman Reque, Mr. Fred Haine & Mr. George Rusel had attended and they believed that favorable action would result in their request for 50 per cent EDA funds for the local harbor project.

The Clerk read a communication requesting attendance of local officials at the regional Michigan Municipal League meeting to be held in Escanaba on June 12 and 13.

Mr. Noe announced that the Mayor of Rochester and his wife would arrive in Manistique on May 16 for Mayor Exchange Day and he would be accompanied by the Fire Chief and his wife.

Mayor DeMars announced the appointment of Lawrence Gorsche as local chairman for United Nations Day on October 24.

Moved by Councilman Reque, supported by Councilman Carlson, RESOLVED, that the Ordinance concerning regulating the partitioning and dividing of lots be tabled for revision.

Yes: Councilmen Reque, Carlson, DeMars, Caya, Westgartner. No: None.

Mr. Marvin Van Eyck, of the firm of McNamee, Porter and Sealey was present at the request of the Council and discussed the City's need for treatment of wastewater and said there were three possibilities to be studied. First, would be whether the plant be used only for city sewers or possibly the outlying area in the townships

Democratic party needs outlined

"There are two ways the Democratic Party can become effective," State Party Chairman James McNeely told county party members at a Thursday breakfast meeting at the Fireside. "First, it has to be a good vehicle for influencing public opinion and public policy. Secondly, it has to address itself to problems with a broader context than purely local problems."

The Democratic chief kicked off a six-day tour of the Upper Peninsula with his meeting here, and about 30 people turned out for the session.

While outlining his ideas and thoughts on the Democratic party and its future, McNeely also found the opportunity to jab at the opposition Republicans.

Discussing changes in the party, and party reform as being studied by the higher Commission, McNeely said that "The political system is the way to solve our problems, and we must provide room for dissent within the framework of the political party, or you force these people out of the system. In Michigan, the Republican Party is fat, contented and happy with process. We Democrats will have differences. We may not be of one mind, but we are of one spirit. There is plenty of room in the party for these differences. However, the Republican Party is totally unaware of even the need for political reform."

McNeely, in mentioning political reform, took note of the differences and disturbances at last year's national convention in Chicago, and pointed out that he, for instance, was not a lacker of Sen. Eugene McCarthy. There was later a spirited contest for the state chairmanship, he noted, adding that he felt such competition was healthy.

McNeely noted that the Republicans, in their state convention, had picked a chairman and passed seven routine resolutions honoring elected officials.

He added that Democrats in the Upper Peninsula will have to be taking a "good, hard look" at their candidates in the next election and "indicated that there was evidently great dissatisfaction along the line with some candidates in the last election."

County committee member Earl LeBrasser commented that he felt that Congressional candidate Ray Clever and State Representative candidate Elmar Erlanson presented a "bludgeon image" to the voters by attacking their opponents, rather than their records. It was pointed out that Hampshire carried the U.P., while the local candidates were defeated.

McNeely said that any state political party could only be as strong as the 83 county political organizations. "This is the basic unit," he said, and urged stronger efforts to attract the younger voter, under 35, who

Keep It Beautiful
If America hired people for the job, it would take the

But there's no need to hire anyone. It's a job we can do for ourselves. All of us. Every family that spreads a

Pride needed, students say

Manistique's greatest need? Pride, and confidence in the community, according to the students who took over the job of the Manistique City Council Monday night in a preview of Michigan Week activities here.

be if we were able to provide off-street parking for these people to visit our business area?
"In closing, the real hard facts are that 50 percent of our merchants are progressive, 50 per cent regressive. Which side are you on? We, as a committee, have spent much time and thought on this project, and sincerely request you give it your serious consideration and approval."

Members of the committee include: Fred H. Iltis, Francis DeCelle, Dr. C. L. Nowak, Clyde Strasser and O. F. Simons.

Clarence Peterson, representing the Peoples Store reported that he had conferred with Stanley Smith, president of Gift House Stamps, Inc., which owns the local store, and that Mr. Smith had indicated his whole-hearted support of the parking plan, despite the fact that his firm would end up paying the largest net assessment in the plan, more than $6,000.

The possibility of the city bonding for five or 10 years to provide money for resurfacing of major streets in the community was discussed. Under the proposal, state highway department funds for major streets would be pledged for the period of the bond issue. City Manager Robert Noe pointed out that instead of $20,000 per year income from the state, which allows only minor projects, the city could spend $100,000 this summer and do a more complete job, then pay off the bonds over the next five years. No vote of the people is required, and no local tax dollars are involved.

In other action, Council set 7:30 p.m. May 26, their regular meeting, as the date for the public hearing on the budget.

Approved commendation of a building at 210 Weston Ave., on state-owned land, owned by the Fox Co. Active pallbearers were Richard Demars, Robert Thoms, John Michael Fox, Alfred Dean Poppy, Donald Roe and Joel Carley, Jr.

regular Council session Monday night, and after the routine business was taken care of, conducted their own meeting for an hour.

With minds uncluttered by financial problems, the young councilmen not only discussed a host of problems, but unanimously voted to proceed with the off-street parking project, and suggested fixing the drains, sewers and gutters before paving the streets, as well as creating a new park area by leveling the old city sheds at the north end of Cedar St., adjacent to the Manistique River.

Creation of a swimming area at the quarry was also discussed, although the young councilmen failed to generate much enthusiasm for the suggestion of A. J. Cayia, Jr., a regular councilman, and a lighted fountain at the quarry would be a major improvement.

Mabel Fox dies Sunday

Mrs. Michael (Mabel) Fox, 85, of Cooke died at 9:30 a.m. Sunday at Schoelkopf Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient for two days. Mrs. Fox was born June 17, 1885 in Cooke and had spent all of her life there.

She and Michael Fox were married July 10, 1903 in Escanaba. He died April 19, 1952. Mrs. Fox was a member of the Congregational Church at Cooke.

Surviving are three sons: Florence of Pontiac, Eugene of Rochester, Mich., and Virgil of Grass Lake, Mich.; six daughters, Mrs. Clarence (Irene) Thorsell of Manistique, Mrs. Wilfred (Mary) Demars of Pontiac, Mrs. Alfred (Wesley) Poppy of Pontiac, Mrs. Gladys (Eleanor) Parrish of Cooke, Mrs. Joseph (Alice) Carley of Cooke and Mrs. Leonard (Violet) Roe of Troy; a brother, Harvey Gibbs of San Jose, Calif.; 60 grandchildren, 100 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday from the Messier-Broullier Funeral Home with Rev. Richard Hooker pastor of the Cooke Congregational Church officiating. Burial was in the Cooke cemetery.

Pallbearers were all grandsons and also included three honorary pallbearers, Earl Parrish, James Fox and Lyle Fox. Active pallbearers were Richard Demars, Robert Thoms, John Michael Fox, Alfred Dean Poppy, Donald Roe and Joel Carley, Jr.

No solutions were found for lowering littering, vandalism, traffic violations and marijuana, although it sounded as if they approved a suggestion from regular City Manager Robert Noe that pipe smoking be outlawed in the city—a move obviously aimed at the editor of the Pioneer-Tribune, who was busy sending up a smoke screen at the time.

Their outlook on the city and its problems was perhaps best summed up by student City Clerk Sue Hanson, who said, "If everybody feels that the community is no good, then it will never change. If enough people care to get out and do something, then perhaps other people will also care and do something."

Carole Peterson presided as the student mayor, while councilmen were Mary Lequia, A. J. Cayia, III, Peter Holk, M. J. Berger and Dean Peterson. Also participating were Georgia Meroy, city manager; Debbie Heminger, city clerk; and Sue Hanson, city clerk.

The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide.

Churches and politics

LOCAL FOLKS OF THE POLITICAL PERSUASION have had a busy week, what with Gov. Milliken's appearance here last Wednesday, followed by the visit of State Democratic Chairman James McNeely the next morning.

The chances are good that not too many people attended both affairs, and although the surroundings and purpose of each differed, they both dealt with a basic theme of political involvement.

And the more they talked of political involvement, the more it becomes obvious that what they are preaching is almost identical with the themes currently being advanced by many contemporary religious leaders—becoming personally involved in socially significant movements and activities.

We don't mean to be flippant when we compare our major political parties to our major religious organizations. They are similar in many ways.

The membership in both covers a wide spectrum, from fanatically faithful to casual observer. Both suffer from cumbersome and largely irrelevant ritual and dogma and hierarchy. The membership of both includes many who have a tendency to drive away anyone with new ideas or new thoughts or suggestions that might possibly change an old, established and comfortable status quo.

Both also contain elements who are impatient for change, who seek to shrug off the inertia and apathy that hinders effectiveness, and to find new approaches that will attract the large numbers of uncommitted youngsters who will eventually hold the balance of power and assume, willingly or otherwise, the responsibilities of future leadership.

The Founding Fathers, of course, saw these similarities and made a point of separating the functions of church and state. It was, and still is, a sound approach, but it does not rule out the pulpit and the statehouse both tackling the social problems of the times.

Churches and political parties each have tremendous capacities for influencing public opinion and moulding public attitudes. Both have the potential of becoming active and effective agencies for attacking the mounting problems of our complex society. To be effective, however, both must learn to relate to the needs of the people. Both can be most effective at the local level, for this is where their true strength is, in the people.

Both must face up to the day, rather than yesterday, and attempt to cope with the sense of urgency that frustrates and alienates so many young people, who feel that existing institutions are insensitive and incapable of righting wrongs.

Neither can be satisfied with protecting the status quo, neither can afford to rest on past laurels, neither can rely on verbiage and verse to solve these problems that face all of us.

Both have the potential for all that is good and great, and both must find the key within each person to unlock their energies and capabilities that can make both the church and the political party a vital and exciting part of our lives.

A prize-winning weekly newspaper published every Thursday at Manistique, Michigan, at the Top O' Lake Michigan in the heart of Michigan's beautiful Upper Peninsula.

Minny, minny years ago, long before the white man came to the shores of the Shining Big Sea Water, a band of Chippewas lived happily by the mouth of the Glumpf River, where it emptied into the big lake.

Today we call it the Manistique River, but according to the Indian legends that have been handed down to us, for minny, minny winters it was known as the Glumpf. When the Indians first settled here they had to have a name for the river, and in accordance with their customs, they selected a fair young maiden and dressed her in the skin of the albino deer, loaded her down with vestments and trappings, and trund her head first into the water to see what the Great White Spirit had to tell her.

When they hauled her out all she could say was "Glumpf!" and so they called it the Glumpf River until the White Man came along and changed things.

This was a happy tribe and a

ALONG THE SIDELINES... VIM DAK

prosperous one. Many new lodges were built until the settlement occupied both sides of the river. During the winter the braves roamed the pine forests, seeking the whitetailed deer that abounded in the region, and during the summer they fished the many streams that flowed into the mighty Glumpf.

During the evenings the braves would gather at the tepee of Nor Mijahn, the medicine man, and drink pine extract and tell lies about the big fish they almost brought to the campfire, and the squaws would tan the deerskin and make jackets and gloves to sell to the minny, minny visitors who came to the Glumpf during the summer.

Twice a moon the elders would meet in council around the lodge campfire and argue for minny, minny hours about wampum and listen to complaints about the sorry shape of the pathways through the village.

Their wise leader, Chief Wind-in-the-Mouth, always let everyone speak, for he knew that sooner or later the cold winds would come down from the north, and everyone would stay in their lodges and forget about the pathways.

During the warm summer months many of the tribe moved to the shores of nearby Urk Lake. (We know it now as Indian Lake, but they threw a maiden in one cold November night to see what the Great White Spirit had to say, and that's all she could report--- "Urk!")

Many of them built lodges by the shores of Urk Lake, where they stayed all summer, and in a clearing on the east shore some of the braves laid out a lacrosse course, which they named the Urk Lake Lacrosse and Country Club. Despite the fact that many squaws complained about the long hours they spent there, the braves would pass the time of day playing shinny and drinking pine extract, and many of them would not come home until late at night.

The tribe had lived here for minny, minny winters when one spring day a canoe was sighted, coming from the direction of the rising sun.

Etienne Brule, handsome young devil-may-care voyageur, was still seeking a water passage to the Indies, and on this bright spring day in 1622, he was sure he was on the right track.

A great inland sea stretched before him for many leagues, and as his canoe coasted along the shoreline, he became more and more convinced that he would soon discover the fabulous land of riches, gold, spices and teakwood.

In the canoe with him was his faithful but slightly deaf companion, Brother Jacque, a poor but honest friar who was noted throughout all of New France for his devotion and loyalty in proclaiming land in the name of the King.

Now Etienne was handsome and devil-may-care, but he was also extremely near-sighted, and almost missed the Indian settlement at the mouth of the Glumpf. When he did see it, he thought it best to stop and ask directions, and perhaps inquire if anyone had seen any fabulous riches, gold, spice or teakwood around.

The usual bunch of idlers and loafers were at hand when his canoe grounded in the sawdust on the beach, and Etienne looked them over carefully, squinting horribly all the while.

He saw no fabulous riches, gold or spices, but one of the welcoming committee was whittling on a piece of white pine, and Etienne grabbed that and tried to take a closer look. "Teakwood!" he shouted and turning back towards the canoe, he shouted to faithful old Brother Jacque, "Man! It's Teak!" The faithful old friar cupped his hand to his ear to catch the words, murmured, "Et tu, Brule?" then stood up in the canoe and hollered out, "I proclaim you 'Manistique' in the name of Louis the Umpteenth!"

Then he fell out of the canoe into the water. "Glumpf!" he coughed as he stumbled ashore. "Urk!"

Aviation and the A B C's

One thing you learn from attending a conference where everyone knows more about the subject than you do, is that you had better learn the language and abbreviations in a hurry.

That's what happened to me at the aviation education conference at Northern. Nearly everyone except me was connected with aviation. I met pilots, aircraft dealers, airport managers, directors of vocational schools and community colleges with aviation programs (including pilot training), air force personnel, and commercial airline representatives.

My responsibility was to chair two group sessions. That's when the chairman got in trouble with the language. It was Bob Welch, owner of Alpena Flying Service who said, "What we need are more A & P mechanics." My thought was, if the owner of Alpena Flying Service says we need more A & P mechanics, then I guess we do. Everyone nodded. They knew what an A & P mechanic was--so I nodded too.

I still hadn't recovered when Don Hogan from Kenosha Tech, with great concern, "One problem with training A & P mechanics is the FBO's don't want to pay the going rate."

I correctly concluded these must be an employer-employee relationship between A & P mechanics and FBO's but didn't have the foggiest of what either of the two was supposed to do.

That led to comment from Mark Fontana of Fontana Aviation. "The A & P mechanics are usually snapped up by the airlines so the FBO's in general aviation don't get a chance."

Now I really had a problem "A and P Mechanic" and "FBO's" and "general aviation."

I was about to call a halt and suggest that the group get a discussion leader who knew the language when, R.J. Hemmelbach, president of Flight Line Inc. (Detroit) suggested that what aviation needed was more "education."

"Ah hah." Now they were getting around to me. Somebody used a word I knew. "Education."

But "oi gevalt" what they meant by "education" --- changing the attitude of citizens toward aviation, educating local supervisors so they'll improve the airport, educating the businessman on main street so he'll support the improvements, educating all the kids in grade schools so they will understand the importance of aviation in their lives, credit hour courses in high school beginning with "Principles of Flight" and covering 14 separate units including "Flight Planning," a vocational course to train technicians to service customer aircraft and college programs all the way up to aviation electronics and aeronautical engineering and that's what they meant by "aviation education."

So I explained to my knowledgeable aviation friends that "education" in a "K-12" system is considerably different from the "Vo-Ed" or "T & I" training program.

Now they had a problem with language and abbreviations too, and I concluded, "It's about time people in aviation and people in education get together. How else are we going to learn each other's language?"

Cisler drive plans ready

Plans for the operation of the Walker Cisler fund drive in the tri-county area have been announced by Frank Holobik of Manistique, general chairman for the state-wide drive.

A goal of $100,000 in cash and pledges is expected to be raised toward the construction of the one million dollar center at Lake Superior State College, which will serve the Eastern Upper Peninsula as a cultural center, conference center, and student center for the college.

Named to head the local Sault Sainte Marie area fund drive is Richard Y. Burnett, president of Edison Sault Electric Company.

Walter Drevdahl, president of the Central Savings Bank, will be the treasurer for the state wide campaign.

The state wide fund drive is for $500,000, or half the cost of the key structure for the college.

Burnett indicated that other groups have been organized and are proceeding with plans and procedures for the drive.

Skating hours are posted

By Jan Strasma
VISTA Volunteer

People are always getting my partner Jerry Abrams and me confused -- they call him Jan or me Jerry. But last week this confusion took a new twist -- Jerry's writing was labeled as mine. He wrote last week's Schoolcraft VISTA Report and there, at the column's head, was "By Jan Strasma."

On the second floor of Manistique High School is a small room that formerly housed the teachers' lounge. "The Crier Room," a sign on the door now reads. Next to it is a three-page list of assignments for the next issue of The Crier, the high school newspaper.

Inside, the room shows evidence of use; baskets of assignments, newspapers from other schools on a bulletin board, a file cabinet filled with back issues, and a brimming waste basket. "Happiness is a clean Crier Room" reads a sign on the wall -- a sign made necessary by the tendency of staff members to use the room as auxiliary lockers.

One corner, the advertising manager's, is labeled "Nirvana" (the Buddhist idea of heavenly peace). On the other side of the room hangs the charter for Quill and Scroll, the national honorary society for high school journalists, first established at Manistique High School in 1929.

On the work table in the center of the room is a vase with a wilting rose, one of two given by an unknown staff member to the co-editors, Diane Pace and Paulette Nelson.

Every three weeks this room becomes the center of activity for The Crier's staff of 30. Deadlines become important as publication time approaches. Students write and edit the stories and prepare the newspaper for printing. They are involved in all steps of publication except the printing itself.

"Our aim is to offer a newspaper that is read because it contains something students want and need to know." With that declaration The Crier sounded the death knell of its gossip column, "The Shadow," and launched its new printed format.

The printing made possible by financial assistance from the school, makes The Crier look like a newspaper. The students

-- as reporters and editors -- make it read like a newspaper.

A look at the assignment sheet on the door shows the type of paper that The Crier is striving to be: Included are: stories of coming events like the prom and the freshmen-sophomore mixer; sports stories; a report on the recent student council workshop at Blaney Park; articles on new courses for next year and the proposed co-op vocational education program; a story on student participation in Operation Pride's clean-up and beautification campaign; and a review of the proposed dress code.

"The Shadow" is gone -- "The Shadow was not news, but gossip," stated an editorial in November. "Actually it was worse, because it tended to make gossip look like news."

The Crier's editors this year, I hope that the paper will continue to seek the news -- not just the obvious news, but that which lies below the surface as well. Digging for this news is not easy, but it is worthwhile for both reporters and readers.

Reporting like this creates an awareness and an involvement in what is going on around us -- both in school and in the community. And at the same time students are learning to express themselves clearly and concisely.

In high school journalism there is a growing trend away from a newspaper that is little more than a combination of bulletin board and gossip column. Student journalists are beginning to look at their school -- and their community -- to find stories of significance to students.

"But we already know that," many students complain as they look over their school newspaper. "From some of the news is already generally known. The job of the newspaper, then, is to seek news that is not generally known -- or to provide a new or different view of the generally known.

What is needed in many stories is the answer to the question: "What does this mean to students." Adding this dimension of meaning to the news is will read. "The Crier is exciting." And for the budding journalists who work there, it is.

SPRING IS HERE. And when you drive along the highway you see a collection of the winter's litter - beer cans, glass bottles, paper. The highway crews are busy picking up all of it so our highways can be beautiful again. This time and expenditure seems so unnecessary - but how can we get through to the people who are being so careless?

Do you really "see" our beautiful Upper Peninsula? Dr. Jacobson and I talked about this on our way to Manistique last Wednesday. We're so accustomed to the lake shore drive and sand dunes that we really don't see and appreciate them. I'm sure a visitor driving along is quite amazed at all of the natural beauty all around us.

WE'RE HEARING A LOT ABOUT COMPUTERS THESE DAYS. Everything is going through a computer - including a dress pattern. Notches, new lines, buttonholes, grain lines, darts, pleats, pockets - all are electronically recorded on punch cards. The cards are then fed into a computer that works along with a pattern generator. The generator is the pattern grading machine that cuts the patterns in any size range. Patterns at one time were hand graded and this took days now, with a computer, it can be done in hours. The computer figures the maximum cloth width needed, spots errors in the patterns, computes seam lengths, matches sewing lines and many of the other details we take for granted.

The computer still doesn't tell how to fit patterns on cloth without the jigsaw puzzle work now done by hand - but the computer is working on this.

Delivered on the road - includes all Taxes and '69 Licenses. $150.00 Down - Payments of $63.68 monthly.

In fact, when it comes to money, a VW will save you a lot of counting after you buy it, too.

On gas bills. (It gets up to 27 mpg.)

On oil. (It hardly ever needs any between changes.)

And, since the engine is air-cooled, you never have to dish it out on anti-freeze.

So if you don't like to count, buy a Volkswagen.

He marvels at the majesty of the clouds and the vastness of the sky. He thrills at the reflections cast upon the water by the rainbow palette of the setting sun. He is awed, humbled — yet, at the same time, fiercely proud.

His feelings contradict each other. For he knows he is a small creature dwarfed by the overpowering glory of nature, yet, at the same time, a man — a man created in the image of God.

Of course, we all need to be humble, but we also need to be proud. In one sense we are insignificant, and in another we are all-important. The problem lies in finding the proper balance between the two.

To understand the whole man — the all of you, you must turn to His Church where God is forever revealing the mysteries of His universe. Here we are taught truths that have endured throughout the ages. Here we must come if we are to find the proper balance in life.

THE GOOD NEIGHBOR

God bless him! We all need the good neighbor--for the pleasure of his company, for sharing joys, for his sympathetic interest in our problems, and for comforting strength in adversity. One could rightly count his riches in terms of the number of friends that are his. But beware of his medical advice! However well intentioned, remember, he is not a doctor. What he recommends, even though it may not harm, may keep you from the doctor too long, or spoil the "picture" your symptoms would present for diagnosis. When the good neighbor expounds on lemon peels and vinegar, or how quickly sawdust and honey cured his Aunt Amelia's arthritis, or when your hairdresser or butcher gives you a very confidential diet for losing pounds or growing hair, watch out. You know about the place that's paved with good intentions.

Your doctor is the only one for medical advice. It is he that has the knowledge, training and experience, not the back fence, self-appointed specialist.

It's sound advice for you to come to us with your prescriptions. Our reputation was made and earned on the solid basis of service, knowledge and sincerity. A.S. PUTNAM & CO., 201 South Cedar...Phone 341-2264.

Capsule Review

"Adventures Of An Elephant Boy," by Leonard Wibberly is a political satire and concerns Dr. Panloss, President of Best Of All Possible Nations and his personal quest for life, liberty and happiness. This is satire indeed, and Swiftian at that--highly pertinent to our times and sharpshooter-sure.

Wibberly, the author wrote "The Mouse On The Moon" and a "Feast of Freedom," he was born in Dublin, Ireland in 1915 and became a reporter, coming to the United States in 1943 where he was engaged in newspaper work for 10 years. He now devotes himself full time in writing.
