ANNUAL WAGE PROPOSED FOR FORD PLANTS

TENSION IS EASED IN MICHIGAN'S STRIKE AREA

Detroit, April 25 (P)—The Ford Motor Co. gave a cool reception today to a proposal that it guarantee its hourly rate workers a minimum annual wage of $1,600.

The only Ford comment on the proposal made by the Ford Brotherhood of America came from Harry H. Bennett, personnel director.

"An annual wage would be a fine thing," he said, "but who is going to guarantee the company an annual market to support employment for any specific period? It is the market that determines the employment."

Other labor developments of the day included a new sit-down strike that closed two Detroit plants of Gar Wood Industries, Inc., but progress was reported in settling other Michigan industrial disputes, and tension generally was eased.

Representatives of General Motors Corp. and the United Automobile Workers of America began conferring here on grievances cited by Buick and Chevrolet employees who voted Saturday to strike, subject to approval of international officers of the UAW.

Five hundred employees were involved in the strike at the Gar Wood Industries, named for the famous speed-boat driver. The UAW, which called the strike, said it was precipitated by the company's refusal to negotiate a new contract unless the union agreed to accept a 20 per cent reduction in the basic wage rate, abolition of the shop-steward system, and allotment of two per cent of the bonuses for piece work to foremen.

Gives you Golden Ply blow-out protection, too.

Come in today for a demonstration that will give you one of the greatest motoring thrills you've ever had. For safety's sake, ride on Goodrich Safety Silvertowns.

READ THE REPORT— from America's Largest Independent Testing Laboratory

Both regular, and also the premium-priced tires of America's six largest tire manufacturers were submitted to a series of exhaustive road tests made over a three month period by us, to determine their resistance to skidding and wear, with the following results:

"NON-SKID—The new Goodrich Silvertown with the Life-Saver Tread gave greater skid resistance than any other tire tested, including those tires listed at from 40% to 70% higher in price.

"MILEAGE—The Goodrich Silvertown gave more non-skid mileage than any of the other tires tested in its own price range—averaged 19.1% more miles before the tires wore smooth.

Tour of Drummond Island Deer Yard Shows Why Large Number Starve During Severe Winters

Evidence as to why deer, especially the younger and smaller animals die during severe winters in the crowded deer yards was shown in an unmistakable manner during a deer yard tour conducted by men of the game division of the conservation department Sunday on Drummond Island. I. H. Bartlett, state deer yard investigator for the division, conducted the tour party and at the deer yard led a discussion of the situation.

The party made up of 29 persons met on Sunday morning at the settlement of Drummond, on the island, and in a caravan of automobiles crossed the island to the Johnwood area where a hike of a little over two miles brought the men to the heart of the Jarvinen marsh in the Bass Cove deer yard.

Here the men found dense cedar cover that had been browsed clean up to a height of more than six feet from the ground and an almost complete absence of young growth on the ground. In the openings there were a few young cedars, balsam and spruce, none of which showed green higher than about eighteen inches from the ground. From the conditions it was easy to reconstruct the winter appearance of the yard when with snow on the ground nothing green would be showing for a height of nearly five feet.

One dead deer had been located and was shown to the party. The animal, a doe, had been shot in the leg and thus crippled had been unable to survive, despite the unfavorable weather of the past winter. Other than the crippled doe no starved deer were found on the island this spring, although members of the party saw bones of animals which died previously.

Roosevelt Haken, resident conservation officer on the island since 1929 gave the history of the deer herd on the island.

He said that according to old settlers who had lived more than fifty years on the island, the first deer known on the island appeared in 1900 when seven or eight were seen. They increased rapidly because of the excellent food conditions and doubtless also because of little hunting. The island has a population of only 490 persons, according to the last census.

The first intimation that food supply was being curtailed was in 1927 when a logger on the island reported that 150 dead deer had been found on the island. An investigation at that time failed to substantiate the report as to the large number of deer dying and the dead deer that were found were regarded as an odd case as the belief throughout the state was that deer would not concentrate in such large numbers as to cause wholesale starvation.

Browse Line Formed

That the browse line apparent today is not a sudden appearance, was brought out by Haken who said that when he came to the island it was already visible on the yard visited. Today, he added the browse line is beginning to show on all of the yards on the island. At the time that Haken noticed the browsed out condition he reported it to the department officials and because of the widespread disbelief in the possibility of serious starvation nothing was done.

In the spring of 1935 a large number of deer died in the spring after leaving the yard and before new growth could furnish a summer food supply. Investigations revealed the Bass Cove yard was completely overbrowsed and the Potagannising on the northern part of the island was beginning to show a browse line in the cedar.

Then came the severe winter of 1935-36 and in the spring of 1936 42 dead fawns were found by six men in one-half day in the Bass Cove area. It is estimated that 500 deer starved in this one yard alone. Local reaction developed into a request to have the department feed the deer. After a discussion of conditions and remedies the most logical solution seemed to be herd control.

The island is an isolated area and relatively accurate information can be obtained regarding the number of hunters and the number of deer killed during any one season. Between 700 and 1,000 hunters hunt there each year and about 390 bucks are removed each season. The area of the island being approximately 130 square miles, this means that deer hunters are killing about three bucks per square mile on the island. Estimates of the deer population of the island made from the observations of officers, hunters and residents are that the total number is in the neighborhood of five thousand. And the sex ratio, from the same source, seems to be one buck for each six other deer or in all probability, one buck, three does and three fawns. From this information it is supposed that the annual fawn crop is about 2100 fawns. If only 400 deer are taken each year the annual increase is such that the already browsed yards are in danger of being completely denuded of all food.

Suggest Law Change

Figures have been worked out indicating that under a short antlerless deer season following the regular buck season a total annual take far above the yearly kill of bucks was possible without any appreciable reduction in the remaining breeding stock.

With local public sentiment in favor of this, it only remains now for the legislature to so change the regulating statute that this form of herd control may be put into effect.

I. H. Bartlett, state deer yard investigator, told of the similar conditions existing in other yarding areas, principally in the lower peninsula, and L. A. Davenport, who has been conducting feeding experiments at Casino, told of the results there and gave figures showing that feeding would be impractical from the standpoint of cost. The tour on Sunday was the fifth and last to be made this spring, the other four being made downstate. They were at Grayling on March 20 when 14 persons attended, at Alpena on March 27 with 22 in the party; on April 4 at Baldwin with 28 in the party. The fourth tour was at Alpena on April 10 when 77 people went to the yard and in overbrowsed swamp and Jack pine yards found 40 dead deer.

Making the Drummond Island trip were: I. H. Bartlett, Lansing, deer yard inspector; L. A. Davenport, Lansing, conductor of the Casino feeding experiments; L. N. Jones, Marquette, U. P. regional supervisor for the conservation department; Robert McLaughlin, Marquette, educational supervisor, Louis Smith, Trout Lake, Assistant district director, and "Buck" Smith, Trout Lake, D. B. Boatswain Deegan Of Coast Guards Given Promotion

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C.—The commander of the Marquette life saving station this week became one of the beneficiaries of the greatest wholesale promotion of warrant officers in the history of the U. S. Coast Guard. It was revealed today by treasury officials.

Boatswain Thomas E. Deegan, commander of the station since January 10, 1917, was advanced to Chief Boatswain, with the promotion for pay and seniority purposes taking effect as of Feb. 15.

Deegan's advancement was one of 49 given other lifesaving boatswains, and one of 232 such promotions in all arms of the coast guard service. In the mass step-up, sea-going boatswains, gunners, radio electricians, machinists, carpenters and pay clerks were elevated to chief warrant officers rank by the zeensons.

The raise came as the result of agitation by the warrant officers themselves against the stagnation of their position, contrasted with the periodical promoting of regular commissioned officers, such as ensigns or higher ranks.

The warrant officers had asked for legislation providing for a six-year promotion law. Instead, by order of President Roosevelt, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau set up examining boards all over the country to test warrant officers eligible for advancement.

Chief Boatswain Deegan was appointed boatswain January 10, 1917 and immediately was assigned to the Marquette station where he has remained in command ever since. His prior service totalled more than 22 years.

Euclid made all his geometrical tabulations on a smooth surface of sand strewn over the floor of his home.

Among those at the funeral were Mrs. Del Kniskern, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Micheau, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Fewless and Knut Wright of Rapid River; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hart, Wallace Maynard and Dencil Young of Gladstone and

Plans for a banquet, to be held for all Upper Peninsula alumni during the M. E. A. convention here in October, were discussed by the group. About 200 are expected to attend the banquet, when a total of about 2,000 teachers will be in the city for the M. E. A. meet.

Ward and Land will be brought here for the banquet, and plans are under way to secure Emanuel Clark, Karl G. Merrill and Ray Newton of the Ferris faculty as speakers. Outstanding graduates of Ferris who have been invited to speak are Jerry Totake, Lansing's director of drugs and drug stores, and Commissioner of Public Safety Oscar Olander of the Michigan State police.

Washington, D. C.—Never before in the history of the gold standard has monetary gold been so unevenly distributed among the nations of the world as now. The precious metal dodges back and forth across the seas, either actually in physical form or through bookkeeping transfers and earmarking, like a shuttlecock.

To begin with, it should be pointed out that while all nations are theoretically off the gold standard in that their paper currency no longer is redeemable in metal, actually the gold standard remains the one measure of currency worth.

Holland has long been a great banking and trading center but never before has it held gold in such amounts as at present. Holland, too, has a tradition of neutrality but not nearly so long a one as Switzerland.

Further to emphasize the maldistribution of gold in the world, it may be mentioned that of all the monetary gold in the entire world the United States holds almost exactly half or approximately $12,000,000,000.

The Capital Parade

BY AISO AND KINTNER Washington, April 25—The wisecracks, who nod their heads and whisper cheerfully that the new depression will destroy the committee for industrial organization, have not been wise enough to find out what John L. Lewis and his C. I. O. are up to.

LABOR FACES DEPRESSION The history of the C. I. O.'s by now far-flung network of unemployment committees is pretty fascinating. It begins at a time last fall, when Mr. Lewis and certain of his advisers realistically concluded that a depression was upon them. They knew that the gains of the C. I. O. were boom-time gains, and they set themselves to finding some means by which the gains could be conserved.

Arbutus Time Brings Lovely Pink Blossoms

The trailing arbutus, loveliest flower of the north country and among the earliest fragrant blooms of spring, is receiving its annual share of attention this time of the year...

The flowers grow in abundance in northern Wisconsin, where they are protected by law, and in northern Michigan...

Usually they are found in light, sandy soil, such as that in which oak and pine trees predominate. They require soil decidedly acid in character...

Of Heath Family The arbutus is a member of the heath family, to which belong a large number of plants both in the shrubby and herbaceous forms.

The average blossoming time is between April 20 and May 1, but this season the flowers have been unusually early...

WE, the WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

Possessiveness is one of the most common faults that women bring to marriage.

Perhaps the only wives who are entirely free of it are those who don't care enough about a husband to want to be "all" to him, and those women who are so wrapped up in an interest of their own that they haven't time or energy to want to completely possess another person.

Most of the others would like to mean more to their husbands than they do. They resent any influence that is strong enough to make their husbands forget them, even for a little while.

The foolish ones show their possessive streak in so many annoying ways that they soon have a husband thinking that marriage is too "close."

But the smart ones try to overcome the instinct with common sense, and if they fail, still win by hiding their possessiveness.

They don't show jealousy of a husband's work, or of his friends or of a girl he is a bit obvious in admiring.

They don't stick by his side at parties or disturb him when he is at work.

They don't show resentment when a husband goes off into his own thoughts and makes absent-minded answers to their questions.

They give a man a chance for some privacy in his own home. They know better than to demand an accounting of his time away from home.

They wait for compliments, instead of "fishing" for them. They make themselves find friends of their own, so that they aren't completely dependent on one person for companionship.

In time some of them even come to realize the hard truth of the light line—"No one worth possessing can quite be possessed."

William Bonifas Memorial Auditorium and Gymnasium Dedicated

MANY ATTEND FINE PROGRAM

Tribute Paid Lumberman By Bishop Plagens And Others

Impressive ceremonies, which were attended by dignitaries of the Catholic church and hundreds of persons of different faiths, featured the dedication on Sunday of the new Bonifas Memorial auditorium and gymnasium, the gift to St. Joseph's parish of the late William Bonifas, widely known lumberman.

Glowing tribute was paid during the dedicatory exercises to Mr. Bonifas, his widow, Mrs. Catherine Bonifas, and Miss Mary Hogan for their kindly interest over a long period of years in the welfare of St. Joseph's church and school.

Opens With Mass

The dedicatory program opened with a Pontifical high mass at St. Joseph's church at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The Most Rev. Joseph C. Plagens, bishop of the diocese of Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie, was the celebrant. The officiating of the mass were: Rt. Rev. Msgr. Henry Buchholz, Marquette, assistant priest; the Very Rev. Fr. Thomas A. Kennedy, deacon; Rev. Fr. Lester C. Bourgeois, sub-deacon; Rev. Fr. B. J. P. Scheyers, Manistique; Rev. Fr. Peter Bleeker, deacons of honor; and Rev. Fr. Joseph L. Zyrd, Marquette, master of ceremonies.

Rev. Fr. Antonine Brockhuis, O. F. M., Cincinnati, Ohio, representing the Province of St. John the Baptist of the Franciscan Order, preached the sermon of the mass. Fr. Antonine discussed at length the serious problems that face modern youth, and expressed his gratification that in Escanaba the building of a community center, through the generosity of the late Mr. Bonifas, will greatly assist the boys and girls in developing themselves to be upstanding Christian and American citizens.

Memorial Blessed

Following the mass, there was a procession from the church to the Bonifas Memorial building, where the ritual of blessing was conducted. In the procession Bishop Plagens was escorted by a guard of honor, composed of the cross bearer, acolytes, servers, pages, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, Holy Name Society members, and the clergy.

Members of the clergy attending the dedication day banquet, which was served at noon by women of the parish in the school building, were His Excellency the Most Rev. Joseph C. Plagens, the Rt. Rev. H. A. Buchholz and the Rev. Joseph Zyrd of Marquette; the Rev. Antonine Brockhuis, O. F. M., of Cincinnati, Ohio; the Rev. Edward Leary, O. F. M., the Rev. Pascal Kerner, O. F. M., the Very Rev. Thomas Kennedy, the Rev. Nolan McKeivitt, the Rev. Peter Bleeker, the Rev. D. J. Breaud of Bark River, the Rev. Alphonse Colquard of Perkins, the Rev. George Laforest of Flat Rock, and the Rev. Francis Scheringer of Rapid River.

Other guests were Mrs. William Bonifas, Miss Mary Hogan, Isaac Bonifas, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Lemmer, Mrs. Margaret Lemmer, Mrs. Joseph Gleich, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Hirm, Miss Jean Adamson, Oliver Groleau, Arthur Messier, John P. Greis, Nick Moran, Mr. and Mrs. John Bartel, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Berners of Green Bay, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jahn of Green Bay, Roger Moras, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Nantelle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kobas, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Arntzen, Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Carlton, William J. Duchaine, Mr. and Mrs. George Bean, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Logan, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Titus, Mr. and Mrs. William Miller, Mr. and Mrs. John Bartella and Joseph Gorman.

Students Give Pageant

A colorful and inspiring pageant, in three episodes, was presented by the students of St. Joseph's parochial school at the Bonifas Memorial auditorium following the banquet. Scores of children, attired in attractive costumes, took part in the program.

The pageant depicted the days of the Indian in Escanaba, the arrival of pioneer settlers, and the growth of industries. In the first episode also was shown the formation of St. Joseph parish, the building of the Catholic school and the arrival of the Notre Dame Sisters to assume the duties of teaching the Catholic youth.

The second episode traced the growth of the various church societies, and the coming of the Franciscan Fathers to take charge of the pastorate here in 1883. The final episode was replete with colorful pageantry, presenting the spirit of patriotism of the St. Joseph parishioners, the "St. Joseph" a Melting Pot of Nations scene, and other phases in the progress of the church and school.

During the program, music was provided by the St. Joseph school orchestra, with musical specialties by Bernard Peltier. The prologue was read by Donald Richards.

Supt. Lemmer Presides

A speaking program preceded the pageant, with Supt. John A. Lemmer of the Escanaba public schools presiding. Supt. Lemmer, in opening this program, gave a word description of Escanaba's social, civic and business life when St. Joseph's church was built 65 years ago. He then introduced the various speakers.

Mayor Peter N. Logan paid tribute to Mr. Bonifas for his benefaction to St. Joseph's parish and

Hundreds Take Part In Events Of Opening Day

PONTIFICAL HIGH MASS STARTS DEDICATION—Conducted by His Excellency the Most Rev. Joseph C. Plagens, bishop of the diocese of Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie, the impressive service in St. Joseph's Catholic church opened the day's ceremonies.

GUESTS OF HONOR AT DEDICATION-DAY BANQUET—Those seated at the first table at the banquet served by women of the parish were (left to right) the Rev. Fr. Antonine Brockhuis, O. F. M., of Cincinnati, O., representing the Franciscan order; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Henry A. Buchholz, vicar-general of the diocese and an alumnus of St. Joseph's school; Mrs. William Bonifas, widow of the donor of the building; His Excellency the Most Rev. Joseph C. Plagens, bishop of the diocese; Miss Mary Hogan, trustee of the Bonifas estate; the Rev. Fr. Edward Leary, O. F. M., pastor of St. Joseph's parish, and the Rev. Fr. Thomas Kennedy, pastor of St. Patrick's parish.

congratulated the parishioners upon their good fortune. He also pointed out that their good fortune may be considered as that of the entire community since the new building, he said, would contribute to the well-being of many.

Greetings were extended in behalf of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce by Fred J. Earle, president of the civic organization, who briefly mentioned the benefits that would accrue from the opening of the memorial auditorium and gymnasium.

City Manager George E. Bean commented upon the spiritual and cultural values that must be credited to this new institution.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Buchholz, in his talk, mentioned the fact that he was born in Escanaba 64 years ago, and had been baptized and confirmed in St. Joseph's church. He also told of some interesting incidents in the life of Mr. Bonifas.

Rev. Fr. Antonine, in addition to discussing the need for an auditorium and gymnasium for the training of the boys and girls, praised Rev. Fr. Edward Leary, pastor of St. Joseph's church, for his splendid work in this parish and for the important part he played in planning the construction of the memorial building.

Rev. Fr. Edward also spoke briefly, paying tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Bonifas. He also cited the importance of the new building in training the youth for future life.

Bishop Plagens Speaks

"I am happy that emphasis was laid during this dedication on the fact that this memorial building will be a gathering place, not only for the youth of St. Joseph's parish but for all the youth of Escanaba," Bishop Plagens said in his address. "I am glad that the mayor of Escanaba and the president of the Chamber of Commerce said that this Catholic hall is going to have influence on all."

Bishop Plagens said that he was also pleased to note that more minds nowadays are raising to the realization of the necessity of religion in this life. He praised the American system of education, but expressed regret that God, religion and morality are left out of necessity, because the children are of parents of varying religious convictions. He also emphasized the need for genuine goodness in man, and decried the practice of some who make an outward show of goodness while secretly they harbor animosities toward their fellow-men and other irreligious ideas. In his closing remarks, he lauded Mr. Bonifas for his thoughtful contribution to the future welfare of this community.

Introduced from the auditorium stage were: A. M. Arntzen, contractor who built the structure; Edgar Berners and John Somerville, Green Bay architects; and others who were identified with the construction project.

RAIL PROBLEM IS DISCUSSED

Hopkins Gives Address At Rotary Club Meeting Here

The situation confronting railroad systems and transportation problems involved in them are grossly misunderstood by the public today due to too many persons solving the railroad's difficulties who are not fully aware of the salient facts, stated Z. G. Hopkins, representative of the Western Association of Railroads, at Monday's meeting of the Rotary club.

The speaker outlined the financial situation of railroads in general and told of the problems facing them today due to regulations, gross incomes, operating expenditures, fixed indebtedness and bonded indebtedness and the changes that have been made in these parts of railroad management by public policy controls.

Hopkins stated that some railroads need financial reorganization in order to get out from under the heavy load of fixed expense they now carry. During the first three months of 1938 gross revenue has surpassed the same period in 1933 by 85 million dollars. During the same comparative period, freight rates have been reduced six percent and passenger rates much more. For the same time operating expenses of railroads has increased 115 millions making the margin of gross revenue over operating expense the smallest in the history of the industry. The reduction in rates alone has accounted for a loss in gross revenue two and one-half times more than has the loss of gross revenue from the declining amount of business the railroads are now doing.

Some students of railroad problems are suggesting mergers and consolidations of carriers, but, the speaker said, during his life of railroad work he has never seen consolidations work out satisfactory because wages account for 60 percent of railroads operating expense. Another place where costs would be cut would be in service offered. Neither one of these two suggestions are a solution to the problem, said Hopkins.

One feasible solution is to make a complete reversal of situations, over which the railroads have no control, that are the cause of many of the present ills and problems, without retarding service or adding to the unemployed lists.

The members of the student group were: Arthur Wicklund, David Thorsen, Florence Anderson, Carol Heidemreich, Gladys Schmeiter, Lois Johnson, Martin Lutz and Burton Andrews. They sang several songs.

The Kiwanis club observed United States and Canada Good Will Week at yesterday's meeting. Harold Gasman, program chairman, read a message from T. Trafford Taylor, Winnipeg, international president of Kiwanis, while Ted Baldwin read a message from Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada and the proclamation issued by President James Monroe in connection with signing of Rush-Bagot Agreement.

Announcement was made that the Kiwanis club will sponsor the junior high school Boy Scout troop.

At next Monday's meeting at the Sherman hotel, an educational movie will feature the program.

Artillery Range Planned in Forest

Lansing—Permission has been granted the state military board for the use of 4,327 acres in the Au Sable state forest as an artillery range and for other military training purposes.

Due to dense forest growth the Hanson military reservation is no longer suitable as a range, while the tract in the Au Sable forest is only sparsely covered and is crossed by few roads.

The same arrangement by which use was made of the Hanson reservation will prevail in the Au Sable agreement, with the state retaining all mineral, oil and gas rights, and oversight of game, fish, fire and forestry interests and public hunting rights.

has something to say about how different cigarettes can be!

"How about it, Joe, do you find that Camels are different from other cigarettes?"

"Any all-cigarettes-are-alike talk doesn't jibe with my experience. There's a big difference. I've smoked Camels steadily for 5 years, and found that Camel is the cigarette that agrees with me, in a lot of ways. Good taste. Mildness. Easy on the throat. And Camels don't give me jumpy nerves. Like a lot of other people I know, I'd walk a mile for a Camel!"

BILL GRAHAM, seeing Joe DiMaggio pull out his package of Camels, asked his opinion on smoking. Joe came straight to the point: "There's a difference, a big difference, between Camels and the others." You, too, will find in Camels a matchless blend of finer, more expensive tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic.

JOE KEEPS his hand in on mending nets. His family are fisher folk. DiMaggio is 6 feet tall—weighs around 185 pounds. His nerves are h-e-a-l-t-h-y!

IN THE KITCHEN of his picturesque water front restaurant, Joe says: "I eat pretty much what I like all season long and smoke Camels with my meals and afterwards, 'for digestion's sake.'"

CLOSE-UP OF JOE'S GRIP. "Ball players go for Camels in a big way," he says. "I'm a steady smoker myself. Camels have real mildness all right—don't irritate my throat."

ONE SMOKER TELLS ANOTHER "Camels agree with me"

"TOBACCO GROWERS FAVOR CAMELS FOR THEIR SMOKING!"

— is the majority opinion in a survey of well-known tobacco planters

"When Camel says 'costlier tobaccos' I know it's right," says Mr. Edward Estes, capable young planter, who knows tobacco from the ground up because he grows it. "Take my last crop, for instance. Camel bought all the best parts—paid me the most I've ever gotten. The men who grow tobacco know what to smoke—Camels!"

"Last year I had the dandiest crop ever," says Mr. Roy Jones, another experienced planter who prefers Camels. "I smoke Camels because I know they bid higher and pay more for the auctions for the choice lots of leaf tobacco. They paid the highest price I ever got from anybody. Considering that Camel uses finer, costlier tobaccos, it's not surprising that Camel is the leading cigarette with us planters."

Mr. Harold Craig, too, bases his preference for Camels on what he knows about the kinds of tobaccos that go into the various cigarettes. "I get the check—so I know that Camels use more expensive tobaccos. Camel got the best of my last crop. That holds true with most planters I know too. You bet I smoke Camels."

Japan Faces a Crisis
If the United States were spending $25,000,000,000 a year instead of approximately $7,000,000,000 our budget would be in the same unhappy position as Japan's. Although the campaign against China is only beginning, Japan is already spending 40 percent of the national income in the prosecution of this undeclared war. Small wonder that there is a Cabinet crisis in Japan. The so-called elements of that country led by Prince Konoye, the Japanese Premier, have finally come to a full realization of the desperately dangerous adventure in which their country is engaged.

For the first time modern Japan has sustained a severe military defeat. In Shantung Province well-equipped Japanese armies have been fought to a standstill by poorly equipped relatively untrained Chinese armies. Inefficient leadership, tactical mistakes and an inadequate service of supply combined to place the Japanese divisions fighting for Su-chow in a precarious position. On the Chinese side excellent leadership and the successful use of guerrilla tactics have combined to isolate and destroy advanced Japanese detachments. Neutral and Chinese reports agree that a Japanese army of some 62,000 fighting for Su-chow, a key railroad point in the Province of Shantung, has been reduced 20,000 men. The other 42,000 have been killed, wounded, scattered or captured.

Japanese Beginning to Wonder
The immediate effect of this military disaster has been a Cabinet crisis in Tokyo. Strict censorship has prevented the Japanese public from learning what has happened. As always in such cases rumor replaces fact and there is consternation or apprehension throughout Japan. When a nation has been brought up to believe that its armies are invincible, even momentary defeat at the hands of an underestimated enemy will seem incredible. The people have been taught to idolize the military establishment, so that the army cannot and will not be blamed. But some scapegoats will have to be found before the public can be permitted to know just what has happened in China. Already the people wonder why the Chinese "incident" is lasting so long.

In Tokyo the demand of the militarists for complete mobilization has met opposition. When the mobilization bill was forced through the Japanese Diet a short time ago, the Premier agreed that it would not be used unless a national crisis developed. The civilian government hesitates to admit such a crisis. It would prefer to slow down military operations and rest content with maintaining Japanese lines where they stand. But the military leaders burn to avenge their defeat. They are determined to conquer all Shantung Province, and then march on Hankow, the new Chinese capital.

They are not concerned with the difficulties of budget-making and care not how military operations are financed. The civilian government does care. Japan invaded China at a time when her financial position was already precarious. For years her budget has shown an annual deficit. Because of import restrictions all over the world Japan's foreign trade declined. The price of silk, her chief article of export, has gone down. China, her chief export market, apart from the United States, purchased fewer goods because of the boycott and the direct results of Japan's military aggression.

Time on China's Side
Six months after the present war began Japan's tax burden had increased by two-thirds. Yet the taxes bring in less than one dollar for every four dollars that are now being expended. Since Japan's foreign credit has entirely disappeared, the money must be raised by internal borrowing. Japan must continue to import large quantities of foreign war material and has already exhausted a large part of her gold and foreign exchange. Wholesale and retail prices are advancing and the process of inflation is well under way. The flight of capital is prevented by government regulation, raw materials are rationed, there is strict control of exports and imports. Only the war industries are prospering.

In a very real sense Japan has already lost the war. Her only hope was a quick and decisive victory. This she has failed to achieve. Today China stands united and determined to carry defensive war to the bitter end, and this end will be more bitter for Japan than for China. It may come in Japan through economic collapse or internal revolution.

What interests the world at large is that Japanese militarism has suffered a decisive defeat. It will achieve a few partial successes in the effort to restore its prestige, but time is against Japan and on the side of China. For once, at least, wanton aggression has failed.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOYCE MILNER, heroine; she took an Easter Cruise.
DICK HAMILTON, hero; he bumped into the heroine.
ISOBEL PORTER, traveler; she sought a mate.

Yesterday, Joyce realizes at last that she really loves Dick but for the moment she does not admit it.

CHAPTER XVII

In the afternoon they hired a car and drove across the island to the little town of Port Antonio. Every mile was picturesque; here the road was a narrow trail, winding up a mountainside where they could look down into the valley and follow the course of a rippling river cascading over rocky falls; in other spots it followed the shore line, curving in horse-shoe fashion around some little blue-green inlet of the sea, bordered by tall coconut palms bent toward the water's edge by the force of hurricane winds.

At Port Antonio the road was high above the water; the harbor was a deep blue lagoon almost encircled by high hills of verdant palms and papayitas, and gleaming white ships lay at anchor upon the bright water, catching the rays of the sun in their brass trimmings.

Only one event marred the perfection of the day. Returning along a different route, they rounded a bend and stopped suddenly, to see the road ahead entirely buried under an avalanche of loose dirt and rocks. But their driver, a bright young colored lad, who combined chauffeur in the afternoon with the study of medicine at the college in the morning and evening, calmed their fears. They would not be late getting back to the ship, he assured them; he knew a detour, not half a mile away.

Despite the detour, which took them four miles out of their way, they were back at the wharf a full half hour before the Empress was scheduled to sail. And to Joyce's quick delight, the waterfront was still crowded with vendors. Their stocks seemed but slightly depleted, and many of the other passengers were engaged in last-minute shopping.

She realized, with a sudden pang, that this was the end of her foreign travel. From Kingston the Empress would sail to Miami, and thence to New York. But Miami was no quaint tropical village. There the shops would feature the same smart novelties that she could pick up along Fifth avenue. On the entire cruise, she had bought nothing but the set of dishes this morning. Aunt Martha would grunt and frown at the thought of spending good money for what she might call foreign junk, but nevertheless she'd like some of the beads, to offer at the next church bazaar, with a superior explanation: "My niece, you know, bought them in the West Indies."

So she bought beads: vivid, colorful strands, some made of dyed seeds and pods, some of carved fish bone (shark's backbone, the native boys told her, to make the sale more exciting), some of a jet-black glass, which looked far more expensive than the one shilling they cost. She bought an enormous hand-woven straw hat, which Aunt Martha could wear about the garden while spraying June bugs off the rambler roses; she bought bright baskets for mending and marketing.

"For heaven's sake," Dick complained, "where are you going to put all this?"
"Oh, I'll find a place," she replied vaguely, hurrying toward a pile of the wicker furniture, from whence she added two small tables and a rocking chair to her collection.

"There!" she said with satisfaction. "I think I've got enough."
"I'll say it's enough. If you have any idea of walking through the Grand Central Station loaded down with this—"

"Dick, look!" She laid a detaining hand on his arm, indicating with a quick nod the three men who were coming down the wharf toward them.

"Why, it's Gregory!" he exclaimed, following her direction. A very different Mr. Gregory it was, however. A fearful, furious Mr. Gregory, his face white and drawn, his mouth a thin horrible line of hatred and desperation. Behind the thick glasses his eyes were two pin-points of cold steel, and as he looked over and saw them standing there, he offered no sign of recognition.

"I wonder what it's all about," Dick mumbled curiously. "That's a Kingston policeman with him."
"And the other man must be from New York," Joyce pointed out with unconscious clarity.

"He's the only one around wearing a dark business suit. But he hasn't been on the boat."
They watched as the three men hurried toward the street and stepped into a waiting car; they noticed that the strangers pushed Mr. Gregory in before them, unceremoniously.

Dick shrugged. "Looks as if he got himself into a jam," he decided without much concern. "He'd better talk himself out of it quickly or he'll miss the boat."
Then for the time being they forgot Mr. Gregory, as they struggled up the gangplank with the clumsy assortment of Jamaican merchandise.

It was not until they were at dinner that evening, two hours after they had left Kingston, that they thought of him again. Then it was to wonder why he was not at dinner.

Isobel smiled mysteriously. "He's probably worn out from our day ashore," she said proudly. "We had the most marvelous time! Just before we came on board we stopped at the Myrtle Bank for cocktails, and someone suggested an Iron Heel to Hilary."

"So it's Hilary, Joyce thought. I knew Isobel and he would be congenial."
"Of course he hadn't the slightest idea what it was," Isobel ran on, brightly. "But he's such a good sport! He had two of them. I wonder what effect they're having."

She laughed in gay abandonment. "Something's wrong with me Joyce told herself. If Mr. Gregory is a good sport, then I don't know my onions. I wonder if they were running him to a hospital. The Iron Heels might have kicked back."

"Mrs. Porter shook her head reprovingly. "I think it's very foolish, Isobel, to try these strange drinks. . . ."

She lacked her usual spirit this evening; it was plain that she did not approve Isobel's plan of burying her romance with Dick in a quick new affair with Mr. Gregory. Or perhaps she was not ready to admit defeat. She turned to Dick now, and asked him with forced brightness: "Did you have an enjoyable day, Richard?"

"Perfect," he replied, and proceeded to outline the highlights of the trip to Port Antonio.

Isobel's lip curled with a new show of disdain. "We were going to Port Antonio," she boasted, "but everybody said there's nothing to see out there since the terminals ate the Titchfield Hotel. We went to the golf club—it's very exclusive, you know—but Hilary had friends. . . ."

She smiled airily. "He's such an assuming person, don't you think? But he comes from a splendid family. And he's been in the banking business for years . . . knows every detail of it, inside and out. . . ."

At the moment Joyce felt a little sorry for her. If she was talking this way to stir up some show of jealousy on Dick's part, her tactics were very crude and very obvious. Particularly since she had made no previous pretense of affection for Mr. Gregory.

"Dr. Gray seems to be late for dinner, too," she remarked, endeavoring to change the conversation.

"Perhaps he's out on deck looking for the sunken city by moonlight," Dick laughed. "The old sailors might have seen the reflection of electric street lights through the water. You've heard the old legend, Mrs. Porter?"

"About the earthquake? Of course. It's no legend, however. The earthquake is an actual fact of history."

"Have you ever seen the sunken city?" Joyce asked hopefully. "No. I think that might be a sailor's myth. The wreckage is all there, however, and even now, occasionally, an old relic of the past is brought up by fishermen."

"Rubbish!" Isobel contradicted rudely. "These old West Indian fairy-tales make me sick. Sunken cities and voodoo worship and pirates' gold. . . it's ridiculous, all of it. Only ignorant people would give it a second thought."

Her mother's face became a little bitter. "Then perhaps I'm an old ignoramus, Isobel. I've always been fascinated by the tradition of the islands."

Presently the doctor joined them, apologizing for being so very late. "Had to check up some details for the captain, you know, in this Gregory affair."

"Is he ill?" Isobel demanded, pretending a tremendous concern. "Ill?" The doctor's voice was flat. "No, he isn't ill. I thought you'd all heard about it."

"We were just wondering why he was so late to dinner," Mrs. Porter told him.

Dr. Gray frowned. "He was arrested in Kingston," he said quietly.

"Arrested?" Isobel echoed, thunderstruck. "What for?"

"Embezzlement. Ran off with some bank funds, back in New Jersey." He spoke shortly, reluctant to discuss the man who had been a guest at his table for so many days. "Let's forget it; shall we? It's a very unfortunate affair. Very."

In amazement, they turned their attention to the food on their plates, each one too thoroughly shocked to make any attempt at light conversation. Mr. Gregory arrested! Joyce remembered her vague mistrust of the man; she recalled his peculiar outburst on the beach at La Playa. "I only live once. Why shouldn't I have the same as anyone else?" So he had stolen, to get it.

Mrs. Porter looked at her daughter, and her glance dripped contempt. You would make a fool of yourself, it said plainly; you would come back here tonight and boast of his banking ingenuity.

Yet of them all, Isobel was the first to regain her composure. "Well, it certainly goes to show," she offered philosophically, "you never can tell. I'm glad he had those two Iron Heels. He'll have a long time to cool off."

STOCKS SLUMP; TURNOVER LIGHT

Table with columns: Net change, Monday, Previous day, 1938 high, 1938 low, 1937 high, 1937 low. Lists various stock performance metrics.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER (Associated Press Financial Writer) New York, April 25 (AP)—Stocks slipped their moorings in today's market and leaders drifted lower by fractions to a round a point, with a handful of inactives down as much as 4 or 50.

No special importance was attached to the set-back inasmuch as the turnover of 395,880 shares was the third smallest for a full day in nearly four years. It compared with 1,116,200 last Friday.

Faint buying support appeared now and then and enabled many issues to finish well above low marks for the session. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .6 of a point at 39.8. The sluggishness of the proceedings was exemplified by the fact only 605 individual issues changed hands against a normal number of around 900.

Trade news was hardly of a character to encourage speculative forces and the Washington scene produced little in the way of stimulation.

The market was untroubled by the president's communication to congress asking removal of tax exemptions on federal, state and local salaries as well as future government, state and municipal securities.

The financial district, on the whole, seemed to be well content with this idea but more interested was expressed in the message which the chief executive was expected to deliver later this week on anti-monopoly legislation.

The cloudy outlook for the steel industry depressed stocks in this category. Current mill operations were estimated off .4 of a point.

Motors were behind throughout as labor troubles confronted this field and first quarter earnings of the principal manufacturers, due soon, were thought likely to make poor reading.

Rails acted fairly well on word Senator Wheeler had called a joint congressional conference to map out emergency relief for shaly carriers.

Allied Chemical, along with a number of other corporations, disclosed a substantial drop in profits for the first three months. On meager dealings Allied stock was down 4 points at 142.

Most aircrafts were unable to get ahead, although a bolstering influence was seen in the arrival of the British mission which is to inquire into the feasibility of large-scale plane orders in the United States.

Bonds were uneven and major commodities lower. Wheat at Chicago was off 1 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel and corn down 1/2 to 3/4.

Cotton yielded 45 to 55 cents a bale.

European markets were nervous over the latest Czechoslovakian crisis, but the French franc rebounded sharply in terms of the dollar as Premier Daladier received cabinet approval of his financial program. Sterling also tilted moderately higher.

Table with columns: Net change, Monday, Previous day, 1938 high, 1938 low, 1937 high, 1937 low. Lists various stock and bond performance.

New York, April 25 (AP)—Thin trading and profit-taking frustrated an irregular bond market today. Volume totalled $4,831,050, lowest since April 7.

With decisive news missing, dealers tended to cash in on early gains and last week's advances, especially in the secondary rails and utilities. Industrials resisted the weak trend at the close and the foreign dollar list was steady.

The low yield group slipped off a bit, according to the Associated Press average.

Adjustment of investment portfolios based on yield appraisals, after last week's more or less indiscriminate buying of government obligations, produced rather wide changes at the close with treasury obligations varying from a 1/2 point advance to a 1-3/8 decline.

OVER 40 GOING TO ROAD MEET

Delta County Will Have Big Delegation At Grand Rapids

More than forty Delta county residents will attend the first annual banquet of the Michigan Good Roads Federation to be held Thursday, April 28, at Grand Rapids.

Among those planning to attend are: Delta county board of supervisors, Carl B. Johnson, C. J. Burns, Escanaba; O. J. Thorsen, Wells; Carl Person, Rapid River; Mayor LaFramboise, of Gladstone; Delta county road commission, J. T. Sharpsteen, E. J. Noreus, M. S. McNabb, Escanaba; August Larson, Rock; A. E. Olson, Gust Asp, C. G. Bridges, Escanaba; Senator James Dotsch, Garden; Gerald J. Cleary, H. J. Norton, Peter Jensen, R. A. O'Neil, M. S. Council, Frank L. Bette, Coleman Nee, Charles Olson, Oscar Raymond, Grover Lewis, Escanaba; state highway department, Ben F. Sparks, A. H. Watkins, J. A. Owens, E. J. Kremer; City Manager George E. Bean, Harold Gasman, A. V. Aronson; Messrs. Milroy of Brebner-Sinz company; M. B. Jensen, Escanaba; Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, Harold P. Linday, J. F. Bentz, Wm. Warmington and L. J. Jacobs.

George Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, is issuing a call to all good roads advocates to join the peninsula delegation.

An attendance of 1,500 is expected, and of these not less than 300 should be from the upper peninsula. Bishop said: "The occasion comes at a highly psychological moment in the road affairs of Michigan and the nation—Michigan's additional fund recommended by President Roosevelt for the employment of WPA labor in highway construction is yet to be determined. The continuance of federal highway appropriations for state road building and improvement depends on the passing of the bill pending in congress.

U. P. Must Be Present
The meeting is being sponsored by the federation for the purpose of crystallizing Michigan good roads sentiment and the uniting of Michigan's highway leadership. Out of it will come no doubt a Michigan-wide request, in no uncertain terms, to both state and federal governments regarding the state's needs for better highways. The upper peninsula must be in the picture, hence the need for united action by the whole district at this time. There isn't a highway project in the area, approved or contemplated, that cannot, in all probability, be hastened or advanced in its construction, depending upon the influence which a strong upper peninsula delegation at this conference may develop.

Some outstanding speakers will have part in the program. Governor Frank Murphy, U. S. Senators Arthur H. Vandenberg and Wendell M. Brown, nearly every Michigan congressman, and the members of the Michigan administrative board are to be in attendance. It is particularly desired that members of the Michigan Engineers' association, state and local highway department officials, members of the Michigan Road Builders association, county road commissioners and representatives of county boards, municipalities and civic organizations interested in additional road surfacing and in securing the necessary funds, be on hand at this very important meeting. Reservations for the meeting should be made in advance if possible, through local county highway engineers or the state highway department. Among the upper peninsula committee members for the affair are Louis Levin, of Sault Ste.

U. P. Airmail Flight Cachet

Hundreds of letters will leave the upper peninsula by airmail on Thursday, May 19, bearing the above cachet designed by the U. P. committee for Air Mail Week. Four flights will be made by flyers resident in the peninsula, carrying mail to Sault Ste. Marie for transfer to a regular mail plane, flying to Detroit.

DICK CARLTON GIVES RECITAL

Local Youth Graduates Soon From Illinois University

Richard (Dick) Carlton, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Carlton of this city, voice student at the University of Illinois, recently gave his senior recital at Smith Music Hall at Champaign.

Of the recital, Eloeno Watson of the Daily Illini said: "Another senior of the school of music put the result of four year training before a recital audience last night in Smith Music hall and that audience judged that Richard Carlton, baritone, had spent four worthwhile years. "Displaying the same dramatic ability which he showed in 'La Boheme', Carlton sang the difficult 'Wotan's Abschied', the farewell of the god to his Norse love, Brunhilde.

"An appreciative audience listened to Carlton's program, which included the songs 'Non Piu Andrai', from Mozart's 'Marriage of Figaro', and 'Arm, Arm, Ye Brave', from Handel's 'Judas Maccabaeus'."

The complete program was as follows: Non Piu Andrai, from 'Marriage of Figaro' — Mozart
Star Vicino — Rosa
Arm, Arm, Ye Brave, from 'Judas Maccabaeus' — Handel
So Sweete is Shee — Old English

Verborghheit — Schubert
Aufenthal — Schubert
Le Miroir — Ferrari
Ouard in flamme, from 'La Jolie Fille de Perth' — Bizet

Wotan's Abschied, from 'Die Walkure' — Wagner

Do Not Go, My Love — Hageman

WPA HEADS TO HOLD MEETING

Recreation Centers Are Closed As Leaders Attend Session

All Escanaba recreation centers will be closed all day today while Delta county recreation leaders attend a joint meeting with Alger county leaders at Munising. All members of the local WPA recreational department staff will attend the session, which will be held under the leadership of Zania Rivers, Delta county WPA recreation head.

The meeting will be held in the Munising recreation building, which has just been completed. Similar joint institutes are held regularly by the recreation workers.

Those from Delta county attending are: Clifford Anderson, Herman Groleau, Albert Tatrow, William Groleau, Charles Johnson, Wilford DuPont, Joseph Bussineau, Alfred Trombly, Fritz Frederickson, George LaFave, Herman Palmgren, Blron Whitney, Glen Wellman, Percy Jozue, Claude Fisher, Bernice Anderson, Rose Laux, Gordon Haga, Dolores Costley and Marie Schuster.

Advised to Hold Mail
The upper peninsula committee suggests that, to make the most of the opportunity to advertise the recreational advantages of the peninsula as carried on the cachet, business houses hold any mail during the week of May 15 until Wednesday night or Thursday morning, use a cachet envelope and attach six cents postage to it. Mail also may be deposited earlier in the week with a note to postmasters requesting it be held for the flight, commemorating the twentieth anniversary of the first airmail flight in the United States and commemorating the first flight of a heavier-than-air machine by the Wright brothers, Wilbur and Orville, at Kitty Hawk, N. C.

One of the cacheted envelopes will be sent to Orville Wright of Dayton, Ohio, and another will go to President Roosevelt, one of the nation's leading stamp collectors. The cachet has been so designed that there will be room at the top for each of the participating cities to print its own slogan.

Back from Meeting—Local teachers who have returned from the conference at Marquette over the week end are Mrs. Margaret Semer, Margaret Dwyer, Barbara Kennedy, Agnes Bourko, Marie and Margaret Bezold, Elsie Nelson, Irene Sheahan, Mary Teusink, and Irene Tushak.

Visit Local School—Misses Lillian Thompson and Aldelle La Vaque of Superior, both of whom will be teachers in local schools next year, visited the junior high school yesterday.

Hit by Auto—Howard Goodneau reported to city police that he was struck by a hit and run driver on US-41 west of Escanaba at 1:30 o'clock Sunday while walking on the highway with two companions, Carl Sylvester and Harvey Counterman. He was only slightly injured.

Pleads Guilty—Leo Yagodzinski of Harris pleaded guilty in Justice George Carr's court to a charge of reckless driving as an aftermath of an accident which occurred Friday night on highway US-2-41 west of the city. The case was continued until next Saturday, pending outcome of financial arrangements between parties involved.

Rooms Wanted—Residents of Escanaba who have rooms available for teachers in the Escanaba public school system for the coming school year, opening this fall, are asked to call Supt. John A. Lemmer's office, 2121.
