CZECH TOWNS ARE OCCUPIED FOR HUNGARY

SUDETEN REFUGEES NEW PROBLEM FOR PRAGUE

Prague, Oct. 11 (AP)—Hungarian troops today completed symbolic occupations of two former Czechoslovak border towns—Ipolyysag and Satoralja Ujhely—pending settlement of Hungary's territorial and minority demands.

The Prague government, meanwhile, wrestled with problems arising from German occupation of Sudetenland, particularly the presence in Czechoslovakia of 10,000 refugees from Sudetenland.

The Bohemian provincial government appointed a committee of ten former residents of Sudetenland to investigate registration lists and determine which refugees could be sent back home without personal danger.

Demand Thought Excessive The registration of refugees proceeded under the orders of Bohemian Provincial President Karl Sabotka while the national government's plans for return of many refugees were held in abeyance.

More than 4,000 residents of Ipolyysag, near the border 50 miles north of Budapest, sang and danced to fiery Hungarian music as the Hungarian troops took over at 1:20 p. m. (7:20 a. m. E.S.T.) today.

The occupation of the Czechoslovak part of the border town of Satoralja Ujhely was completed last night. This town is 150 miles northeast of Budapest.

Hungarian troops had been arrayed at the border for forcible occupation, if necessary. About 1,000,000 Hungarians dwell in an area of more than 600 square miles demanded by Budapest.

Prague authorities have indicated they consider the demand excessive, but the matter had been placed in the hands of a delegation headed by the prime minister of newly autonomous Slovakia, Dr. Joseph Tiso, for settlement at Komarom.

Many Anti-Nazi The Slovak part of Czechoslovakia was principally involved in Hungarian demands.

Refugee committees appointed by the president of Bohemia said they would deal with each case individually, considering the refugee's status, the amount of his possessions and his prospects if he should return to Sudetenland.

A possibility was that the committee might arrange an exchange of Germans now inside Czechoslovakia for Czechs who remained in Sudetenland after German occupation.

Most refugees from Sudetenland were believed to be Social Democrats, politically anti-Nazi, who fled rather than live under the expanded Berlin regime.

In addition to the Sudetenland refugees there were some from territory granted to Poland.

Fitzgerald Favors Free State Ferry Service At Straits

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 11 (AP)—Concluding his campaign in the Upper Peninsula, former Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, (Rep.) gubernatorial candidate, tonight proposed that a vehicular tunnel rather than a suggested $30,000,000,000 PWA financed bridge be constructed between Mackinac City and St. Ignace to link Michigan's two peninsulas.

Fitzgerald said the engineers had assured him that a tunnel is just as feasible as a bridge and probably would cost less to build. He suggested that engineering surveys as to the feasibility of the bridge be broadened to include estimates for constructing a tunnel.

If elected to office, Fitzgerald said he would recommend to the legislature an immediate provision so that travelers could cross the Straits of Mackinac on state highway department ferries without charge.

"Until a straits highway link is established, free ferry service should bind the two peninsulas," he said.

Discussing the bridge and tunnel proposals, Fitzgerald said that he favored a connecting link "in terms of concrete and steel rather than as a political vision based on a gaudy appeal for votes."

Relief Workers Exploited The former governor said that he was convinced many persons on relief in the Upper Peninsula would vote against the New Deal.

"The new dealers, national and state, would be lost if they did not have humanitarianism to prattle about," Fitzgerald charged.

"They never speak about the governmental interference with business, about labor sensationalism, about wasteful spending which has driven industry to cover up and workers from pay-envelopes jobs to welfare. It is their policies which made relief necessary."

"Now these workers, drawing $44 a month, are being exploited politically by their friends, even that may not last x x x. They are determined in this election to do something about bringing back sanity and soundness in government to restore confidence in industry and a future of regular jobs."

Fitzgerald will cross the straits Wednesday for a meeting at Gaylord. He will speak at Rosecon and Bay City Thursday.

JOB INSURANCE PAYMENTS FALL

Industrial Upswing Cuts Number of Michigan Unemployed

Lansing, Oct. 11 (AP)—The industrial upswing in Michigan is decreasing the number of persons needing job insurance payments, the unemployment compensation commission reported today.

In the week ending October 1 the number of compensable claims filed amounted to 180,212, compared to 192,626 in the previous week. This was a drop of 6.9 per cent.

The commission said more than 1,500,000 checks have been written for the jobless in this state in two months, the checks amounting to more than $20,000,000 and being paid to 268,000 persons.

The commission said $43,000,000 was left still in its fund on October 5 and that quarterly contributions for July, August and September would add another $10,000,000 by October 25.

Benefits paid in the past two months ranged from $10.54 in Menominee county to a maximum of $14.55 in the Flint area. The average payment was $13.07.

JAPANESE LAND IN SOUTH CHINA

Canton Attack Expected As Next Move In Far East War

Shanghai, Oct. 12 (Wednesday) (AP)—The Japanese forces in China were reported to have cut the northern railway communication with Hankow today, and simultaneously to have landed troops in south China in preparation for a drive on Canton, China's last big coastal city.

The Japanese army and navy in a joint communique officially announced their combined forces made a landing "somewhere in south China early this morning." No details were given, but usually reliable sources in Hongkong stated the landing was made at Hsuehng, in Bias Bay, a few miles north of Hongkong and about 20 miles east of the Kowloon-Canton railway.

Almost simultaneously Domei (Japanese news agency) announced from the front that Japanese troops long pushing westward north of the Yangtze finally had captured Sinyang, Peiping-Hankow railway town 100 miles north of Hankow and a key objective of the central China drive.

Minnesota Border Fires Claim 17 Lives; 3 Families Trapped

(By The Associated Press) Four more deaths late Tuesday brought to 17 the toll from the northern Minnesota and nearby Canadian brush and forest fires. Provincial police at Fort Frances, Ont., said several persons were missing in the area fifty miles northwest of that city where twelve others were burned fatally.

The latest victims were Maxine LaBelle, 11, who died in a Fort Frances hospital; Joseph Dardis, 67, international Falls, Minn., who died of a heart attack while aiding in rescue work; and Ben Fultz, 60, whose body was found near his burned cabin in Dance township, Ontario. An unidentified man also was found dead in Dance township.

Twelve of the dead were members of the Frank, William and North LaBelle families, living in Dance township, province of Ontario. A Park Rapids, Minn., CCC youth was killed in the crash of two forestry service fire trucks and a fire fighter suffocated near International Falls. The fire dragger was diminished somewhat by overnight showers but a brisk south wind was again fanning flames crowding fire lines manned by more than 3,000 men aided by airplanes.

Details of the Canadian province tragedy were received by provincial police at Fort Frances. The three LaBelle brothers' families tried to escape first by horse drawn rig and then stood after burning trees blocked the road. Frank LaBelle directed the trapped group, including mostly small children to lie on their faces in the woods trail. Those who did so, were saved but one of the mothers who perished became panicky and with a one-year old child in her arms, tried to outrun the flames. In the excitement, other children followed her. DETROIT TEACHERS LISTED AS WIVES OF AGITATORS

Detroit, Oct. 11 (AP)—A charge that "several" Detroit physicians examined Michigan recruits for the Loyalist army in Spain, then billed the city for the service under the guise that it was for tuberculosis tests for indigents was made today before the Dies committee investigating un-American activity.

The accuser was Emmett O. Collier, former Detroit automobile worker. He was one of three witnesses who appeared at the opening hearing today before Rep. Martin Dies, Texas Democrat, and Rep. Harold G. Mosier, Democrat, of Ohio.

"Recruited" for Spain Collier, chewing his nails nervously, told the committee he met "Sol Green, an official of the medical bureau to aid Spain" during a period when he (Collier) was unemployed and "looking around for anything I could find." Green, he testified, directed him to the Communist party headquarters in Detroit, from which point he was "recruited" for service with the Loyalist forces in Spain.

"Phil Raymond, secretary of the Friends of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, gave me a note which enabled me to get a thorough physical examination from a Detroit doctor and a Detroit dentist," Collier testified. The doctors, he said, then made him sign City of Detroit poor aid slips stating he had received a free tuberculosis test and was unable to pay for it. This, he asserted, enabled the Communists to obtain free examination for prospective Loyalist recruits and the doctors to receive remuneration for the work.

Joined Communists Collier said the Detroit office of the Communist party paid his fare to New York and gave him a letter of introduction to a man he knew only as "Manny," a member of the Communist party there. Because he was unable to produce his birth certificate, needed to allow him to leave the country, he was returned to Detroit, where he joined the Communist party.

Collier, a 28-year-old ex-soldier who admitted he had once deserted from the United States army, testified that the Communists maintained a "camp" on the outskirts of Detroit and that a requirement of membership in the Michigan division of the Communist party was affiliation with an accepted union. He offered to name "high-ranking officials" of the United Automobile Workers Union of Michigan, political arm of the Communist party, Industrial Organization, who, he said, were members of the Communist party. Dies, however, said the testimony would be accepted later.

The first witness today was Chester Howe, committee investigator, who has been in Michigan for several weeks preparing for the arrival of Dies' house committee.

Howe charged in a formal statement that the sit-down strikes in Michigan automobile plants last year were instigated by well-known Communists and that the wives of some of the most prominent agitators in the nation are members of the Detroit school system.

Seven-Story Fall Is Laughing Matter

Still not quite able to believe the miracle is Mrs. Mary Babak, of New York, pictured holding her 14-months-old son Michael, who will probably go through life dubbed "Lucky Mike." The baby was playing on a bed in his home on the top floor of an apartment house. He plunged through an open window level with the bed and fell seven stories to the ground. Mrs. Babak rushed downstairs to pick up, as she feared, his crushed and bleeding body. She got there in time to see him rise without a whimper and walk over to her. "Lucky Mike" and his mother are shown after the accident, whose total damage, thanks to a network of clotheslines that broke the baby's fall, were abrasions on his head and wrist.

Lindbergh In Germany, Silent On Soviet Slap

Berlin, Oct. 11 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, silent on bitter charges made against him by a group of prominent Soviet Russian aviators, arrived today by plane to attend the annual meeting of the Lilienthal Society for Aerial Research.

The American aviator declined to comment on the Soviet flyers' accusation that he belittled the Russian airforce and thus encouraged Anglo-French capitulation to Adolf Hitler's demands for Czechoslovak territory.

Lindbergh and his wife were greeted by Lieut.-Col. Truman Smith, military attaché of the United States embassy, who will be their host while in Berlin.

The Lindberghs spent a quiet afternoon at Smith's home and then went to dinner at the Neues Palais in Potsdam.

(Eleven Soviet flyers published a letter in Moscow yesterday, alleging that Lindbergh made "insolent anti-Soviet utterances" following a trip to the Soviet Union. The aviators charged that Lindbergh stated before guests of Lady Astor, member of the British house of commons, that the Soviet airforce was inefficient.

Lady Astor said today there was "no truth" in the statement and that the Daily Worker, London Communist newspaper, was responsible for the report. The Daily Herald, labor newspaper, quoted her as saying it was "a complete lie" that Lindbergh ever made "any sort of pronouncement about the Russian airforce or about anything else during a dinner party at my house."

Two-Price System Is Advocated For American Farmers

Wichita, Kas., Oct. 11 (AP)—Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich.), advocated tonight a two-price system for American agriculture—"an American price for American consumption and the world price for unrestricted surplus."

Vandenberg, who has been mentioned as a Republican presidential possibility in 1940, said in an address prepared for a Republican rally, the American farmer is entitled to "complete and non-compulsive control" of the domestic consumption.

"The starting point to deal with the farm problem, is less the size of the crop than the assurance that the portion intended for domestic consumption shall be sold at an American price, commensurate with other American prices, and not pressure of foreign competition and world prices."

With the American farmer given the domestic market, he said, "we may then hope to develop the two-price system for agriculture."

Admitting there are "many favorable features of the existing law" Senator Vandenberg said the need is for "open minds to which congress—not closed minds to which only Mr. Henry Wallace and his vast army of policemen hold the key."

He questioned the advisability of a farm program which stressed surplus.

"This everlasting emphasis upon the menace of 'big crops' produces an inevitable psychology which invites depressed prices the moment a big crop is in sight. * * * Yet big crops are not always fatal. Abundance is not yet an automatic sin."

ALLEGED SPY'S PLEA IS DENIED

German Girl Must Stand Trial In New York Espionage Case

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—Fraulein Johanna Hofmann, 26, red-haired alleged "pay off" agent for an international spy ring operating in the United States, today lost a legal battle to quash evidence seized by federal agents in the espionage trial on Friday.

Held incommunicado in $25,000 bail with three others, the pretty German girl sought to have the evidence outlawed on the ground it was obtained without a search warrant, but Federal Judge John C. Knox denied a motion to suppress the documents.

Assistant United States Attorney John W. Burke told Judge Knox that Miss Hoffmann surrendered the disputed papers "of her own free will and admitted that she had brought letters for persons in this country."

She was arrested last February as she departed from the liner Europa on which she worked as beauty salon operator.

Three others quickly fell into the net after the federal grand jury had indicted 18 alleged members of the espionage syndicate. Held on $25,000 bail each, they were Guenther Gustav Rummich, former U. S. army sergeant, once stationed in the Panama Canal Zone; Erich Glaser, former army private, stationed at Mitchell Field, Long Island; and Otto Hermann Voss, a mechanic, formerly employed at a Bristol, Pa., airplane factory.

United States Attorney Lamar Hardy has charged that the four conspired to steal vital American defense secrets.

Loyalist Armies Lash Insurgents Back To Gandesa

Hendaye, France, Oct. 11 (AP)—Government armies were reported to be driving quickly down the slopes of the Pandols mountains tonight lashing insurgent battle lines back toward Gandesa in heavy fighting.

A surprise attack started the successful offensive, government dispatches said, carrying their troops into control of two hill-tops.

One hill dominates the terrain sloping toward Gandesa, important communication center in eastern Spain and the objective of three months of fighting.

For two weeks government lines had given stiff resistance to repeated attacks which government reports asserted cost Generalissimo Francisco Franco thousands of casualties before the Czechoslovak crisis and inclement weather brought a lull in fighting.

The government's offensive, starting late yesterday, sent waves of militiamen under the protection of heavy artillery fire across the Santa Madalena ravine for successful hand-to-hand fighting.

LEWIS OFFER TO RESIGN IS CALLED FRAUD

HENRY FORD TALKS WITH MARTIN, UAW CHIEF

Houston, Tex., Oct. 11 (AP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor tonight placed his future as head of the federation in the hands of 5,000,000 workmen. He called John L. Lewis' offer to resign as C.I.O. chairman, if Green would step down as A. F. of L. president "an attempted fraud on the public."

"It is obvious," Green said, "that even if he (Lewis) resigned as chairman of the C.I.O. he still would remain its dictator."

Green, as yet unopposed, is up for re-election Friday. In Washington today Lewis offered to resign as C.I.O. chieftain if Green would relinquish the A. F. of L. presidency. Lewis' offer came after the A. F. of L. convention yesterday adopted a resolution saying Lewis' removal or resignation would help to bring labor peace.

Spokesman for 5 Million The presidency of the American Federation of Labor is an elective office," Green said. "The chairmanship of the C.I.O. is an entirely different proposition. The officers of the C.I.O. are not elected by the workers they presume to represent. They are self constituted, self appointed, self perpetuating."

"I conceive it to be my duty as president of the A. F. of L. to be the spokesman for the majority of the 5,000,000 workmen who rule the federation. I have never sought and I do not now seek to impose my personal views on the members of the federation, nor to control or dominate its policies. In every statement and in every act of the A. F. of L. I have sought earnestly and honestly to present the majority viewpoint."

"Big Grandstand Play" "On the other hand, the chairman of the C.I.O. as everyone knows, is the dictator of the C.I.O. He has not once even consulted the membership of the C.I.O. during his regime."

"Now he offers to resign if I will. Well, the world series is over, but the chairman of the C.I.O. is still making grandstand plays. His offer is an attempted fraud and deception on the public. To anyone familiar with the labor situation, it is obvious that even if he resigned as chairman of the C.I.O. he would still remain its dictator behind the scenes. Because he would remain as president and dictator of the United Mine Workers of America, the union which is the financial angel of the C.I.O. and whose funds are being wastefully wasted in a vain effort to keep the C.I.O. alive."

PLANS FOR WAR DRAFT MAPPED

Registration By Regular Election Boards Part of New Setup

Fort Sheridan, Ill., Oct. 11 (AP)—Army officers rehearsed on paper today the national setup of a proposed civilian-operated selective service act and estimated it would cost between $6,000,000 and $10,000,000 to mobilize 300,000 men in the first month in the event of war.

Plans for a draft act calculated to improve on the mobilization of 1917 were outlined at the first regional conference by army, navy, marine and national guard officers of midwestern states.

State election machinery would be utilized for the registration of citizens in wartime and the possible induction of 9,000,000 or 10,000,000 able bodied fighting men. Major Lewis B. Hershey of the war department general staff said the group estimated 750,000 could be inducted in the first three months.

Major Hershey explained forms would be printed and mailed to every election precinct, where citizens between the ages of 21 and 30 would be registered by the regular election officials. Local boards of three citizens would mail questionnaires and interview 15 or 20 persons daily, deciding on their fitness for service.

Those registered would be classified by the board in four groups: (1) able bodied men with no valid excuse from service (conscription would be made from this group); (2) men working in industry or agriculture judged vital to the nation; (3) men with dependents who might become public charges if the family head was inducted; and (4) the physically unfit, aliens, etc.

Colorado, North Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Ohio, were represented at the meeting, which will continue through Thursday. Tomorrow, the officers will attempt to visualize the state setups.

Other conferences will be held in San Francisco, New Orleans, and Washington.

Public Education Cuts Forest Fire Damage In State

Although forest fire hazards are getting higher, and the hunting season is calling many more to the woods, there have been very few forest fires this season. George Frisbie of the U.S. Forest service told members of the Escanaba Lions club at their meeting this week. This reduction in forest fire losses is due mainly to the cooperation given by the public and to education measures in fire prevention, the speaker said. He told of the part the forestry service is taking in eliminating fire hazards and calling attention to the danger of carelessness with fire in the woods.

Frank Raack was chairman of the forest service portion of the Lions fire prevention week program.

lessly vetoed every fair proposal to restore peace in organized labor, who has even refused to sit down again in conference without prior commitments to seek the kind of labor peace which everyone in this nation wants, now trying to mislead the public with an empty gesture.

"The public can no longer be fooled by the grandiose bluffs of the chairman of the C.I.O.

"The question of my service with the American Federation of Labor will be placed squarely and fairly before this convention for a vote," Green said. "I will be guided by the Democratic decision of the 5,000,000 workers who make up the A. F. of L."

Green said the federation workers, through their delegates, would decide whether it is in the interest of organized labor "to reject me or to retire me from the office I have held for 14 consecutive terms."

Workers Below Standard

Foremost of the resolutions before the convention today were those proposing removal of reconstruction finance corporation officials for reputedly lending funds to employers maintaining below-standard labor conditions, and a proposal to study public works planning at long range.

The R.F.C. resolution, supported by the Pottery union, was referred to the federation's executive council, after James Duffy, president of the Pottery International, had pleaded from the floor that the convention take some action against "the pouring of federal funds into the hands of employers who are paying 40 per cent less wages than employers who use organized workers."

"This is our bread and butter," Duffy said. "Please do something about it. Unless you do, I am mightily afraid the per capita assessment of the Pottery union will begin to decline."

Duffy charged "some individuals who couldn't go to any bank to borrow money, because of their political influence, are able to obtain federal funds to finance plants that pay low wages."

President Green said the Pottery resolution would be placed high on the executive council's calendar.

LUNCHES WITH BENNETT

Detroit, Oct. 11 (AP)—Henry Ford had a brief conversation today with Homer Martin, head of a CIO union seeking to organize Ford's employes.

Labor problems were not discussed, but afterwards Martin lunched and talked with Harry Bennett, Ford personnel director, about the union's attempt to obtain a 32-hour work week in the automotive industry during periods of re-employment.

At the same time other leaders of the United Automobile Workers were discussing the shortened week with officials of General Motors and Chrysler corporation, others of the industry's "big three."

No conclusions were reached in any of the conversations.

Chief speculation centered about Martin's visit to the huge Ford Rouge plant, where some of his UAW associates once were driven away by fist-swinging Ford employes.

Martin said, "I was told that I could not see Mr. Bennett. I called up, and here I am."

Short Week Discussed

Ford, whose views that labor unions are unnecessary were made part of the record at a labor relations board hearing in a UAW complaint a year ago, entered the Rouge plant administration building ten minutes after Martin arrived.

Bennett explained, "Mr. Ford comes by my office about that time every day and he simply dropped in to shake hands with Martin."

Observers seeking to determine if Martin's visit heralded the start of amicable relations between the UAW and the Ford company, searched the statements of Martin

Girl, 17, Is Victim Of Hammer Slayer On Way To Church
Larchmont, N. Y., Oct. 11. (AP)—The body of pretty 17-year-old Mary Coyne, who left home Monday night to attend a church service a few blocks away, was found brutally beaten today in a parking lot in the business district of this New York City suburb.

An autopsy disclosed an assault had been committed and she had been beaten, apparently with a hammer or a wrench. There was a small hole in her forehead and a bigger one in the back of her head.

A brown coat she had worn was missing and detectives indicated a belief she was killed elsewhere. Her body was found by the owner of a cocker spaniel, attracted by the animal's barking.

The only apparent clue consisted of strands of blond hair clutched in her hands.

The girl was regarded by her family as deeply religious. When she failed to return home last night a five-stake alarm was broadcast.

Newberry News LOCAL SCHOOLS 'STREAM-LINED'

Newberry Educational System Molded to Fit Community

Newberry, Oct. 11.—Newberry schools are being "stream-lined" to fit the needs of the times and the necessary changes can be made efficiently and personnel can be found to teach the new department of education on the part of C. L. Bystrom, local school superintendent, as it has been in progress several years.

The trend towards consolidation was felt here several years ago. The Newberry system is unique in that it is the only school in the township, which is one of the largest, if not the largest, in the state. Up until about 15 years ago there were four schools in the township besides the two in the village of Newberry. A three room school served Dellaville, a two-room school was at the Four Mile corner, and there was a school at Deer Park. Gradually all three were discontinued, buses bringing the students in to the Newberry schools where they would have the advantages of the departmentalized system. After the present Junior-Senior school was completed, about 13 years ago, the high school students in the other three townships, Lakefield, Columbus and Pentland, began to come to the local school. Two years ago the grade children from Pentland township, from the fifth grade up, were brought to the Newberry schools, and the board of education for that township would like to bring in all the children. That problem has not yet been solved.

For the Non-College

For many years school people have realized that the educational system was not properly functioning in a world where changes were coming so rapidly. In the older days, when the "four R's" were the main consideration, the student learned to work at his living by, through the close associations of the home, the farm and the woods operations. But with the industrial age these opportunities were lost. The schools continued to be operated on the classical idea of preparing the students for college, or for the normal schools. For instance, the home economics course was organized to prepare the girl to be prepared to teach home economics instead of having the high school prepare her for the care of her own home. As more and more students continued into and through high school and smaller and smaller per cent of them continued into and through schools of higher learning. The education of the student dropped at a dead end with the completion of the high school course. It has long been recognized that not even the majority of the honor students were able to continue their education. It was also realized that the mass-education in vogue in this country presupposed that all students had equal capacity to learn, and that this theory brought an all-together too high a percentage of failures. To fall is a major tragedy to the young, and it was realized that the "habit of failure" carried on through all of the school life, was too great a handicap for many of the students.

The department of mechanics was enlarged, wood working, machine work, small home repair work, the use of tools, are all given proper attention in the local schools. Home economics now prepared the girl to care for a home, to budget a small income, to make the most of small advantages, to mend and make over garments. The pre-vocational courses attempt to develop special skills among the students, and clubs, Scouts, and hobby groups are organized. Physical education has extra time given over to it. Music is emphasized, both in group work of band, orchestra, chorus singing, and glee club work, and also solo work in both instrumental and vocal music.

Health Not Neglected

Nor is health left out of the scheme of the Newberry school. For, at the beginning of the depression and even before, teachers realized that in many cases fall-

Flop Red Wings Try Bonus Plan

Detroit, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, prize "flop" of the last National Hockey League championship, today adopted a "cash for goals" plan for some players in the 1938-39 season.

The bonus plan was revealed as a training squad of 50 began its first workout on ice.

Agreements will call for cash bonuses for goals above a number agreed on by Adams and the individual player. What separate arrangement would be made for defenseman

CRISLER CALLS SQUAD RAGGED

Gopher Game Looms as Tough Test for Wolverines

BY GEORGE A. STAUTER
Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 11. (AP)—Michigan's football team, which has its hardest test of the season Saturday against mighty Minnesota, romped through a disappointing practice today which included an hour-long scrimmage.

Stressing both offense and defense, Coach Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler, with only two full drills remaining in which to whip a team into shape, frequently found fault with the team's play and said a similar workout would be held tomorrow.

Apparently bothered by the hot sun, the Wolverines, conceded by many to have a chance against the Golden Gophers, had difficulty in solving Minnesota plays and looked ragged in testing their own.

Crisler, however, attributed the failure to stop some of the Minnesota plays to a defense which he has yet to map. He said the remaining defensive formations would be studied tomorrow.

On offense, the Wolverines polished up plays they haven't used to date and spent considerable time in perfecting a pass attack that so far has been used infrequently.

Today's drill was longer than usual as Crisler, aside from the scrimmage, had the squad work on blocking assignments.

Capt. Fred Janke and Bill Smith, were back at their tackle posts on the line and indications were that no shake-up would be forthcoming. With them on the line were Ralph Helkkinen and John Brennan, guards, Archie Kodros at center, and John Nicholson and Vincent Valek at end.

A squad of about 36 players will train for Minneapolis late Thursday afternoon. The team will hold a brief workout Friday in the Minnesota stadium.

Enjoys His Meals First Time In Years Without Distress; Digestion Now Fine, Bowels Regulated

"I am glad to give credit where credit is due and that is why I am lauding KruGon for what it has done for me," said Mr. W. P. Walters, 113 E. 3rd St., Sterling, Illinois. "For many years my stomach had been a constant cause for distress with me. I was unable to eat anything without suffering as my foods would not digest properly at all but would sour and cause such severe attacks of gas and bloating it was almost beyond endurance. My bowels were irregular and I was tired, run-down and had no pep or energy it seemed. I had become discouraged and thought there was nothing that could help me... but that was before I had given KruGon the opportunity."

"Little did I expect such wonderful results from any one medicine," continued Mr. Walters. "This remedy was wonderful and gave me complete relief from my stomach suffering. My appetite has returned, and I enjoy my meals and am no longer troubled with that gas, bloating, sour stomach or distress after eating. Even my bowels are regulated. I feel as if my system has been toned too and would not take anything for what KruGon has accomplished for me."

ORE SHIPMENTS INCREASE HERE

Traffic on Upgrade; Far Behind Total to Date for Last Season

Iron ore shipments from the Chicago North Western railway's docks were on the upgrade during September, with a total of 399,491 tons leaving the port. The situation was similar on all ports of the region, which enjoyed increased traffic although the total tonnage remained far behind that handled last season.

Shipments during September from docks at Escanaba, Marquette, Ashland, Superior, Duluth and Two Harbors totalled 3,284,800 tons, a decrease of 64 per cent as compared with last September's traffic. The month's shipments were heavier than the average for the season, however, for the cumulative total of shipments for this season was 74 per cent below that of last year.

Escanaba docks handled a larger percentage of the total shipments this September. Last year 4.35 per cent of the ore going out of this region went through the local docks. This year 5.82 per cent of the total tonnage is being shipped to Escanaba by rail, loaded into boats here, and dispatched to the steel mills.

Fur, Fin and Feather

By George Rintamaki

"If you don't want to pass up a good bet, give the pike lakes one more whirl after partridge season is over with," says Jim Ostrander of Big Manistique lake. "You'll be surprised how the fishing has improved over August and early September. The northerns and the walleyes are hungry at this time and seem to gobble everything in sight and they can furnish some real sport; they seem to be livelier and much more gamier somehow as the water temperature begins to drop."

There's a lot in the tip Jim passed on to this column recently and it's sure worth a try. Even if you do take the old "pukin sling" along, you might enjoy a tussle with one of the finny lads after you've "shot your arm off" or the ducks quit coming in.

The pike seems to grab almost any artificial lure at this season, but the live minnow will still produce the best catches, though a June bug spinner with a gob of night crawlers or a streamer of pork rind will often do the trick.

One may find some good black bass fishing in the fall, too, but after the water temperature begins to drop down below 50 degrees they become dull and sluggish and begin to "hole up" for the winter, for the bass is the woodchuck and the bear of the waters, hibernating in some hollow sunken log or in some rock crevices during the winter months.

Incidentally, from a fisherman comes a tip on duck retrieving that's worthwhile passing on and it's really invaluable if you have no boat or raft to aid you in getting in your dead game, also if you don't care to create a lot of disturbance in going out after the game in a boat.

He has fashioned a heavy wooden plug with three large hooks, shaped like the common treble hook, on one end of it, which he casts out and drags in the dead ducks with and he says you get so that you can hook them easily with a little practice. The hooks must be quite stiff, sharp and have about four inches of curve to them.

Other hunters have tried using ordinary plugs but the hooks are usually too small to catch into the bird and hold it. These plugs are also too light for any accuracy in casting into a wind. Even so, unless you've had a lot of practice during the summer, you may have to make a lot of casts to lay your line across your target.

MURPHY OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN

Graft and Corruption Is Eliminated, He Claims

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Oct. 11 (AP)—Governor Frank Murphy said in an address here today that "graft and corruption" had been eliminated from the state purchasing department during his administration.

The speech, which the governor described as the opening of his campaign for reelection, was before a group of Mt. Clemens businessmen.

Governor Murphy, the Democratic nominee, charged that during the administration of former Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald, his Republican opponent, purchases by the state were "completely subject to the supervision of a boss spoilsman," and the privilege of bidding was restricted to "favored vendors."

"Now," he said, "all bids are publicly exhibited; four times as many firms are sharing state business and the state is buying from the lowest qualified bidder and not from political favorites."

Governor Murphy praised the men he appointed to high positions and asserted that not one of the key men of his administration was a "Democratic stalwart."

"They have no more interest in party politics than the average citizen," he said, "but they know their jobs and by the quality of their work they have helped to put Michigan on the map as a progressive state."

Detailing the achievements of his appointees, he mentioned Charles Fisher and Alvan Macaulay, Jr., of the state banking department; Harold Smith, budget director; Elmer Gellein, head of the corrections department, and James Bryant, of the welfare department, and added that "they are just a few."

Previously the governor had conferred at Detroit with State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner and G. Donald Kennedy, business manager of the highway department, and announced that he had been assured the full support of the highway department organization in his campaign.

Hunters Out Today For Last Birds Of 1938 Fall Season

Hunters will invade the plains for prairie chicken and the hardwoods for partridge today, the last day of the 1938 open season on these birds in the Upper Peninsula. Shooting began the morning of October 1 and will close this evening.

Prairie chicken were reported as plentiful in the west end of the peninsula throughout the season, and many partridge were also shot there. In this end of the peninsula the birds were not as plentiful, although they are said by conservation authorities to be on the increase again.

For both birds the daily bag limit is five, the possession limit is 10 and the season limit is 25.

With the close of bird shooting hunters will turn to the ducks, on which the season opened October 1 and will close November 14. Good duck hunting is reported on Portage Point and at Garth, and better shooting is expected later in the season as the flights become heavier.

The rabbit season is now open in the upper peninsula, but will not open below the Straits until next Saturday, October 15.

World Affairs Reviewed

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—The Dominion of Canada pursues a different system in paying Indians for their land than has the United States. In this country by far the greater part of the Indian lands were taken without compensation of any kind and, of course, in the earlier years of Canadian settlement the same was true there.

In the United States Indians have been left in possession of reservations or of specially allotted land which they have been free to dispose of themselves. In Canada vast tracts in the West and Northwest provinces were purchased by the Dominion Government, but not by payment of a single purchase price.

This is in line with the old English idea of money. In England and in other English-speaking countries, save the United States, a man's lump fortune is likely to be disregarded. This, doubtless, is because long experience has taught that the man who is rich today may meet reverses and be poor tomorrow.

So it was probably natural that this system should be applied to the Indians, especially as it was felt they would not prove sound administrators of their own fortunes. The payments for the land, therefore, are on an annuity basis but the advantageous arrangement for the Indians is that, under the treaties, these payments shall be made "as long as the sun shines and the rivers run."

Late every summer, at harvest time, the treaty payments are made. The paying of these sums has just been concluded in Canada for this year and the ceremony has been accompanied, as always, with rejoicing and merrymaking as well as by the more serious official palavers between the chiefs, the councillors, and the Government agents.

—TRADITIONAL CEREMONY— The first land treaties were made just about a century ago. The peace pipe was smoked by the English conquerors and the Indian headmen and warriors. Since those first treaties many more have been made with other tribes. With the passage of the years the white man has advanced farther and farther to the West and to the North and it has been necessary to acquire Indian lands to bring them under cultivation.

In Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia, and the Northwest Territory treaty payment stations are designated each year, usually the same ones save where entirely new country has been opened up. These are trading posts, often so far in the wilderness that no habitation lies within many miles, but the Indians know their locations. They are on streams or lakes. The Indians come overland sometimes but also in canoes. With them they bring their families. At the payment stations they erect their tepees and, for a few days, there is a complete Indian village at each post.

When the set day arrives the Government Indian Agent sits before a table on which is spread the British Union Jack. Another British flag is hoisted to its staff-rod to indicate that the time for payment has arrived. There is no rush. The Indians are orderly and come in regular precedence governed by age and rank.

Small sums are involved but then money of any kind is a comparative rarity in this northern country. Most of the business is done by barter, the trading of furs for flour, guns, knives, and whatever else the Indians desire. The average payment is $5 to the Indian. Some of the treaties call for $4. But every member of the tribe, from the Old Man to the youngest infant receives his stipend. The father of a large family, therefore, is the biggest income man of the day.

Chiefs are paid more, in some cases as much as $25 and councillors of state may receive as much as $15 each—whatever the original treaty calls for. The money is paid over in crisp brand new dollar bills to each Indian who comes to the table and identifies himself.

The Indian Agent who does the paying also handles the vital statistics of the tribes. Each chief reports the number of deaths which have occurred during the year and the number of births. The names and ages of those thus concerned are entered on the register of the tribe which the Agent keeps. Of course, when a man or woman dies the annuity to that person ceases, as there is no inheritance of the treaty payment, but, on the other hand, when a papoose is born that child goes automatically on the roster and payments to him begin.

cannot believe they will, but they can cause much trouble, confusion, heartache and disappointment. They are political racketeers in a brutal confidence game.

WHERE DANGER LIES (Fergus Falls, Minn., Journal) The dangerous people in the United States are not the men who come out and advocate Communism openly and fairly, but the undercover Communists, the government officials, state and national, who are bringing on Communism by indirect methods.

A. In the summer of 1929 a 350-pound black bear found its way from the woods near Duluth into the city streets in search of food and drink. Bruin followed a fish wagon for several blocks, and was then attracted by the smell of food in the kitchen of the Duluth Hotel. New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York—The dictators are having their way with things in Europe, usurping whatever territorial stakes they happen to claim, and living the life of the Rileys.

Meanwhile, an ex-dictatorial figure stalks through New York and his everyday pursuits, unmoved by what happens on the front pages.

He is none other than Gerardo Machado, former Iron Man of Cuba, who escaped from the hot little island in the dead of a violent night, in order to save his life at the height of a revolt.

Ex-Iron Man Machado, an elderly, lonely, swarthy-skinned man with steely eyes, a scrubby grey moustache and a wan expression, has resided in New York for several years, ill in health and, they say, in spirit, too. Yet he is a frequent visitor at the Stork Club, where he prefers an inconspicuous corner from which to watch the couples on the dance floor. Hovering near him always are two hulking "companions," for Machado did not depart Cuba as a popular idol. By way of vicarious fulfillment of nostalgia, this aging exile gets around to Manhattan's rumba dens once or twice a week and, with four vigilant eyes ever on him, he even has ventured out to dance.

The reports are that he is well-heeled in millionaire style and that he lives amidst lavish surroundings. We saw him in the Stork at about the time Hitler was storming into the Sudeten zones. The conversation all around him dealt with that subject. Cuba's former Iron Man listened indifferently, however, to talk about the totalitarians who rule as he once did.

As Wallace's ideas are comparatively moderate, it cannot be said that the contemplated state socialism is now upon us. He will hold out against it as long as he can, and he will probably have the support of the strongest farm pressure group, the farm bureau federation.

But the fact remains that the American economy may be subjected to some grandiose goodness or other at any moment. In spite of the "David Harum" tradition, the congressional representatives of the farm states are notable for their perfect irresponsibility. From Elmer Thomas, preacher of soft-headed schemes for soft money, to Cotton Ed Smith, who has been talking farm plans for thirty years without ever offering a viable one, they are ready to promise the farmers anything for their votes.

Moreover, the farm areas are full of economic medicine men, talking such contraptions as the domestic allotment plan and general price-fixing. It is said that a majority of Texas farmers favor the domestic allotment, while the strength of price-fixing among the wheat-growers may be gauged from Wallace's concessions to it. Every sensible person, reasonably well-acquainted with the operation of the economic process, knows that price-fixing the domestic allotment and the other plans of muddled minds are pretty certain to end in general ruin. Wallace's own program may not be the answer, but it's about time for all thinking people to get together, to find the right answer and beat the wrong ones.

The Capital Parade

BY ALSOP AND KINTNER

Washington, Oct. 11.—Within the last two weeks, a responsible member of the President's cabinet intimated that complete state Socialism might be necessary in his department of the government. In the excitements of the world's troubles, this extraordinary pronouncement escaped attention. It certainly deserves the most careful consideration now.

It was made by Secretary of Agriculture Henry Agard Wallace, speaking to the nation's wheat farmers at Hutchinson, Kansas. Faced with desperately poor farm prices, immense surpluses and farmers suddenly turned rebellious, Wallace was touring the country to defend his program. Among the wheat farmers, who may have to cut their planted acreage in half next year, price-fixing has suddenly become a popular remedy. Wallace attacked simple, uncontrolled price-fixing as sure to lead to disaster, but then he went on: "If you must have price-fixing a plan might be worked out whereby the government would buy at a fixed price all the wheat produced on the acreage allotted by farmers cooperating in the farm program. A certain portion of this wheat could be made available for domestic consumption at a price that would get back what the government has paid for it. Other wheat, produced by non-cooperators, could be taxed to deprive it of competitive price advantage. Any surplus would be available for export, or to maintain an ever-normal granary. Such a plan would mean a virtual monopoly by the government of the nation's wheat-marketing system."

—REDUCTIO AD ABSURDUM—

If a "virtual government monopoly of the nation's wheat-marketing system," plus government power to dictate farmers' plantings, does not mean state socialism, it's very hard to find any other name for it. To be sure, Henry Wallace prefers his present farm law, with the addition of processing taxes and new methods of subsidizing domestic consumption of surpluses. But the fact that the highest official involved should be ready even to discuss such a scheme is sufficient testimony to the seriousness of the farm crisis.

The events leading up to the crisis were reviewed here yesterday. The nature of the crisis itself lies in a reductio ad absurdum. Voluntary production control, which is pleasant to the farmers, cannot succeed without such huge bribe-payments that the taxpayers will rebel. This Wallace has wisely avoided. Compulsory production control, which may succeed, is extremely disagreeable to the farmers. If the weather defeats compulsory production control one year, as it has done this summer, the acreage reductions of the succeeding year have to be so big as to put the farmers almost out of business.

Wallace realizes these defects in his present compulsory program, yet regards it as the best available. One of his subordinates summed up for him—"It may be a rubber crutch, but it's the only real crutch the farmers have, and God knows they need one." In order to increase the benefit payments to the farmers, Wallace proposes to fight for his processing taxes at the next session of congress. He also proposes to try out his ideas for domestic consumption subsidies, although heaven alone knows how the vast surpluses in cotton and wheat can be consumed by the unemployed or anyone else.

—GREAT GOODNESSES—

As Wallace's ideas are comparatively moderate, it cannot be said that the contemplated state socialism is now upon us. He will hold out against it as long as he can, and he will probably have the support of the strongest farm pressure group, the farm bureau federation.

But the fact remains that the American economy may be subjected to some grandiose goodness or other at any moment. In spite of the "David Harum" tradition, the congressional representatives of the farm states are notable for their perfect irresponsibility. From Elmer Thomas, preacher of soft-headed schemes for soft money, to Cotton Ed Smith, who has been talking farm plans for thirty years without ever offering a viable one, they are ready to promise the farmers anything for their votes.

Every sensible person, reasonably well-acquainted with the operation of the economic process, knows that price-fixing the domestic allotment and the other plans of muddled minds are pretty certain to end in general ruin. Wallace's own program may not be the answer, but it's about time for all thinking people to get together, to find the right answer and beat the wrong ones.

Republicans Active

THE big overflow crowd that greeted former Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald at the Coliseum on Monday night, was called by the former governor definite evidence of an awakened interest on the part of the people of Michigan in the affairs of their state. Throughout his tour Mr. Fitzgerald has been greeted by tremendous throngs of people at every point at which he has stopped, so that the big crowd of interested people that greeted him here was not an isolated instance.

The interest on the part of the people evidenced in Mr. Fitzgerald's candidacy for reelection to the governorship, has given new heart to Republican workers in this and every other county in the peninsula. Two years ago practically every county in the peninsula was a push-over for the New Deal forces but if attendance at Republican gatherings in this campaign can be accepted as all as a criterion, the New Dealers are going to have to fight for everything they get in this district at the coming November election.

Monday night's meeting here has heartened Delta county Republican workers to redouble their efforts to bring victory to their cause, even in this before strongly Democratic county.

The Best Place

INCREASED emphasis on safety training in the schools was urged by safety experts attending the National Safety Council jubilee congress in Chicago this week.

"The prime essential of safety work is the education of an individual to his responsibility," said William C. Knoelk, chairman of Milwaukee's safety commission. "Schools are a good place to begin this education."

In this connection, the issuance of the first number of the safety magazine, "Field and Street", by the Michigan State Police and State Department of Conservation, is timely. Service clubs and other organizations are assisting in the financing of the publication venture so that copies may be widely distributed among the school children of the Upper Peninsula.

The first issue of Field and Street deals with various phases of accident prevention in the streets, highways, woods and homes. Its main purpose is to impress upon the boys and girls the need for the observance of the rules of safety. Going to the schools every month, the magazine should contribute much toward the safety education program, which can be done so effectively in the classroom and with youthful minds that are receptive to new ideas.

The First Whites

WE WHO are accustomed to the belief that the first white persons to visit the Northwest came to the upper Great Lakes country in 1634, or possibly in 1618, can appreciate the flutter of interest now agitating northern Canada over the recent find of that appear to be genuine relics of Norsemen at Beardmore, near Port Arthur.

A mining claim near Beardmore and the Canadian National railway, has yielded at the depth of several feet a set of ancient European weapons such as the roving vikings carried in the eleventh century. The relics have been forwarded to the Royal Ontario museum at the University of Toronto, and pro and con arguments about their age and authenticity are adorning the pages of many Canadian papers.

The articles were found by the original owner on the property of James E. Dodd, at a point some distance from a highway. They appear to have belonged to one man who may have died on the spot, and was buried with his warrior equipment there, as was the old Norse custom. The pros are strongly of the opinion that Norsemen came into Ontario by way of James Bay, probably before 1,100 A. D., and traveled by the Albany and Kenogami rivers to the Lake Superior country—the easiest route and an age-old trail to Lake Nipigon which runs close to the little mining town of Beardmore.

The surmise is a fascinating one, and projects for scientific excavations in the vicinity are under way, in the hope that further evidence of early white explorations can be unearthed. The news, while not deemed conclusive by everybody, adds interest to this romantic and traditional north country, with its prehistoric and amazing mining pits on Isle Royale, and the ancient Indian flavor which intrigues the imagination of so many travelers and visitors.

THE Superior Sugar Refining company at Menominee has resumed operations and will furnish employment to about three hundred men while the refining of 60,000 tons of beets is in progress. It is expected that the plant will run until December.

Besides furnishing employment to Menominee residents, the sugar refinery also puts cash into the pockets of farmers of Menominee, Dickinson and Delta counties and also of northern Wisconsin.

HITLER THE POLITICIAN (Milwaukee Journal)

Getting about everything he asked without fighting for it, it might be expected that Chancellor Hitler would turn to problems of reconstruction and improvement of German economic life. Instead, he goes to the border of France and makes another sword rattling, double-dare-the-world speech. Two weeks ago he was assuring the world that he had given guarantees to all Germany's neighbors; now he tells Germans they must go on arming. And with this, he tells democracies how he wants their governments run.

One way to receive this is for people in democracies to get angry about it. A good many of them will. In England there will be new converts to the slogan that Eden was right and Duff Cooper was right and perhaps even Churchill; that you have to meet Hitler's challenge now or later.

There are others ways of looking at the Hitler fulminations. Americans, in the midst of an election campaign, may find around them examples of how politicians work. And a dictator has to be a politician. We hear speeches in which men promise more than they can perform; in which men attack the opposition with exaggeration and falsehood; in which men engage in childish antics in the belief that they are appealing to intelligences they deem lower than their own. Just about that sort of speech Hitler may easily have been making.

For it must be remembered that Hitler has been living and thriving on "defending" the German people, on "restoring" their position as an equal of any nation, on "triumphs" such as rearming, annexing Austria, taking Sudeten Czechoslovakia. Now that chapter comes to a halt. He has said he wants nothing more in Europe. He has said, and he even repeated Sunday, that the Germans want a chance to work out their domestic affairs in peace.

But working out problems of near bankruptcy in peace isn't thrilling. It lacks glamour. Moreover, a natural supposition would be that now the devotion of money and energy to armament might be slackened. That doesn't suit the Hitler book at all. As a matter of fact, in other countries than Germany the relaxing of arming when it comes will present severe economic problems.

So Hitler has to keep mad at somebody, and the somebody is the democracies. The contradiction of saying, "We don't bother about Britain's affairs," and then turning right around to say, "The construction of the democracies is such that men of peace can at any time be supplanted by others," is rabble rousing—the old game of keeping the Germans compactly behind Hitler by picturing a ring of foes around them. And, just as the politician sets up a personal enemy, Hitler names men high in British public life and ascribes to them a will to attack Germany.

It would be too optimistic to say that there is no danger in the Hitler attitude. There is danger when any dictator finds that the easiest way to hold his following is to inflame it over other nations. He may have to make good on his threats at some time. There is a fundamental antagonism between the kinds of government that prevails in Germany and free governments. The instinct of Hitler and Mussolini when they attack democracy is sound. They attack it because they fear their own people will become envious of free peoples.

Hitler made a political speech with a certain amount of sound and fury. Anything less would have fallen tamely on the ears of people who heard his rabble rousing only a few weeks ago.

WORK TO BEGIN VERY SHORTLY

Plot Will Be Opened for Constructing Gym at Rapid River

Work is expected to start shortly on breaking ground for the new Rapid River high school gymnasium, it was learned here yesterday from William J. Miller, member of the Masonville township board of education.

The contractor, General Building Corp., of Green Bay, yesterday began moving equipment into the school grounds and it is expected that operations will start before the end of the week. The contract requires that the job be completed in not more than six months. The building is to be constructed under a PWA grant from the federal government with the local school furnishing approximately 60 per cent of the funds. The project was delayed several weeks because of some red tape but the go ahead order has been received. The plumbing contract has been awarded to Moersch and Degan of this city; heating and ventilating to E. C. Anderson of Marquette; and electrical to Washington Street Electrical Shop of Marquette.

The building will be of brick construction and will join the present high school structure on the north side of the building. When completed, it will give Rapid River one of the finest small town high school gymnasiums in the peninsula.

Contingency Fund Leaps As Error Is Discovered In Delta County Budget

The contingency fund of Delta county's budget took a sharp upward spurt yesterday as an error in the method of estimating tax returns was revealed. When the board finally passed the budget at the end of an all-day session Monday, the contingency fund was $529. After revision of the figures yesterday it had risen to $1,459.57, and the budget had not been rechecked for any other possible errors.

Two different evaluations of the taxable property in the county were the cause of the erroneous basis upon which the budget was set up. The supervisors based their budget on tax money shown to be available through the state tax equalization board's figures, which listed $16,983,000 as the total evaluation of property taxable by the county. This would provide only $127,864, when taxed at the 8-mill rate.

William J. Miller, county prosecuting attorney, stated yesterday that the budget should have been based on the total valuation of the county as equalized by the supervisors, instead of by the state board. The figure reached by the supervisors was $16,166,446, which at the 8-mill rate would yield the county $129,323.57 or $1,459.57 more than the original estimate upon which the budget was based. The surplus will become a part of the contingency fund automatically, and the accident which created it will not require an extra session of the board.

tion coming out of the amount set aside for board for prisoners, which was cut from $3,600 to $3,300.

The supervisors voted an increase in the mileage and per diem appropriation for their meetings, which was raised $500, from $1,500 to $2,000. This would make possible more regular meetings per year or special meetings would become possible without dipping into the contingency fund.

No change was made in the county's annual appropriation of $3,640 to the county health department. The department's actual budget is $12,990, county figures reveal, but $9,350 is supplied in refunds by the state.

The 1938 budget, as passed by the board, appropriates the following sums for the 22 departments which are maintained by the county. (Figures to the left are for 1938—to the right are the new figures from the 1939 budget.)

Poor Fund Raised

Among the budget items changed was the fund for indigent relief, which was set at $25,300. The fund was drawn heavily on the board's contingency fund during the past nine months.

The miscellaneous item in the budget was raised from $5,280 to $6,665. Under the heading of donations in this section of the budget are itemized: Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, $400; Michigan Children's Aid, $100; Good Will Farm, $100; Starr Commonwealth, $100. The miscellaneous fund was heavily overdrawn during the first 9 months of this year with $7,975 spent where only $5,280 was budgeted. The new figure set in the 1939 budget strikes a medium between the amount spent and the amount appropriated for this year.

Other changes occur in many departments of the budget. Among them is the reduction of the costs in the office of register of deeds, which has been combined with that of county clerk by the supervisors. Here the register's salary of $2,200 per year is eliminated, the salary of the deputy is raised from $1,260 to $1,380 and a decrease of $200 in printing and binding costs is affected.

Compensating in part for the reduction in the register's department is an increase from $4,145 to $4,690 in the appropriation for

NEURITIC PAIN RELIEF AT LAST Superior Wisconsin Man Praises RUX

ALECK NELSON

"I am glad of the opportunity to express my appreciation for the great relief RUX has brought me in relieving my neuritic pain agony." This is a word for word expression made by Mr. Aleck Nelson, 219 John Avenue, Superior, Wisconsin. Nelson has lived in Superior for the past 42 years, was formerly in business and is now retired.

According to Mr. Nelson, he suffered terribly with the pain of neuritic agony. He states: "At times the attacks of the pain in my shoulder and right arm was so severe that it interfered greatly with my work. At night I suffered so that I was unable to sleep at times. One day I read about RUX Compound and decided to try it. Today I am a supporter and an advocate for RUX and I certainly recommend it to all who suffered as I did."

Thousands of people throughout the United States have written similar letters. Many of these letters tell of amazing pain relief from the use of RUX. Many people have been tortured with muscular rheumatic pains in arms, shoulders and legs that they could scream with pain, and RUX relieved those attacks in an almost unbelievable way. If you suffer from the terrible pains of rheumatic, neuritic or neuralgic agony, you will be interested in talking to your druggist about the RUX test. Ask Peoples Drug Store to tell you about RUX. They will tell you about the remarkable powers of salicylates in relieving the pain of rheumatic fever and tell you that RUX contains salicylates and that it is pure. You owe it to yourself and your family to ask Peoples Drug Store about the RUX test today.

Since 1878, the telephone instrument has taken many forms, each representing continuing improvement in efficiency and convenience. Meanwhile, all the other equipment went through the same process of improvement. This was largely due to the constant research of the Bell Telephone Laboratories and the manufacturing skill of the Western Electric Company.

Membership in the Bell System, which puts these improvements at our disposal, has enabled us in the past . . . as it will in the future . . . to keep your telephone service on a par with the best in the world.

Local Chapter Sends Gifts to D.A.R. Museum

A beautiful wampum belt made by the Indians of the Menominee reservation near Shawano, Wis., has been presented to the National D. A. R. Museum at Washington by Lewis Cass Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Acknowledgement of the gift was read at the Chapter meeting, held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. R. Andrews at Talbot.

Made of blue and white beads, the belt has a beautiful design of brightly colored birds upon it; is about five inches in width, and is finished at one end with a handsome buckle. The gift was made possible through the generosity of Mrs. R. J. Riley, of Gladstone, and was originally the property of Mr. Riley's mother. A letter from Mrs. Jeanette Hayslet, of Ludington, state chairman of the D. A. R. Museum, expressed appreciation for the gift and asked for further information concerning it.

In recognition of Founders' Day, which was October 11, a communication was read concerning the celebration of the society's Golden Jubilee which will be held October 11, 1940. Mrs. Henry M. Roberts, Jr., president general of the D. A. R., says that all members should enter into a united effort to gain from the Golden Jubilee an inspiration for greater service in the years to come. Her message in part is as follows:

"Let each and every Chapter, according to its means and numbers, decide upon an anniversary project and plan for its completion by the time of the fiftieth Continental Congress. Choose carefully and plan wisely, that the benefits of our Jubilee may reach beyond our own membership to bless our fellow citizens."

Paper by Miss Andrews Miss Mary Andrews, daughter of the hostess, presented an interesting paper which dealt with the needs of Tamasee school for mountain children which is located in South Carolina. This school is owned, controlled and operated by the national society, D. A. R. In her paper she told of the summer work which the pupils do at the school, getting it ready for the winter session, of the long waiting list, and closed with the thought that the faculty of the school is looking forward to the day when Tamasee need not say to any worthy child, "There is no room."

Guests of the Chapter at the meeting were Mrs. H. B. Mitchell and Mrs. C. W. Cram, members of Menominee Chapter at Menominee.

Bradley Says GOP's Will Lead State Back to Sane Government

"Experience has proven that spending does nothing to end the additional burden of unemployment," said Fred Bradley, Republican candidate for congress from the eleventh district, at a rally at the Coliseum Monday evening in a plea for return to the principles of sane, sound and solvent government.

"The government's own figures tell us," said Bradley, who preceded former governor Frank Fitzgerald to the platform, "that, whereas the average number of unemployed per year between 1933 and 1937 was a little over 11 million, today we have more than 14 million out of work, and more than five million working only part time. And all this at a cost of 17 billion dollars."

Raps at President

"All the New Deal offers us for the future is the same aimless, experimental cycle of theory under which the president told us 'we are coming back more soundly than ever before because we are planning it that way—and don't let anybody tell you differently.'"

Bradley cracked at the president for his 1938 statement in which he said: "I am glad that prosperity is back with us again and, believe me, it is going to stay."

"Sugared promises," Bradley countered, and high sounding theories may be all right for vote getting purposes, but you can be sure they are not going to solve our present difficulties—and you can't eat them either."

Communists Back Luecke

The candidate for congress rapped indirectly at Congressman John Luecke of this city. In connection with activities of the state Communist party in the present campaign, Bradley said:

"Governor Murphy has received that (Communist) endorsement and has not repudiated it. I might add that the only congressman in Michigan who also carries that 100 per cent endorsement is the one from this district."

In opening his address, Bradley paid his respects to Joseph Sturgeon, Gladstone publisher who opposed him in the primaries.

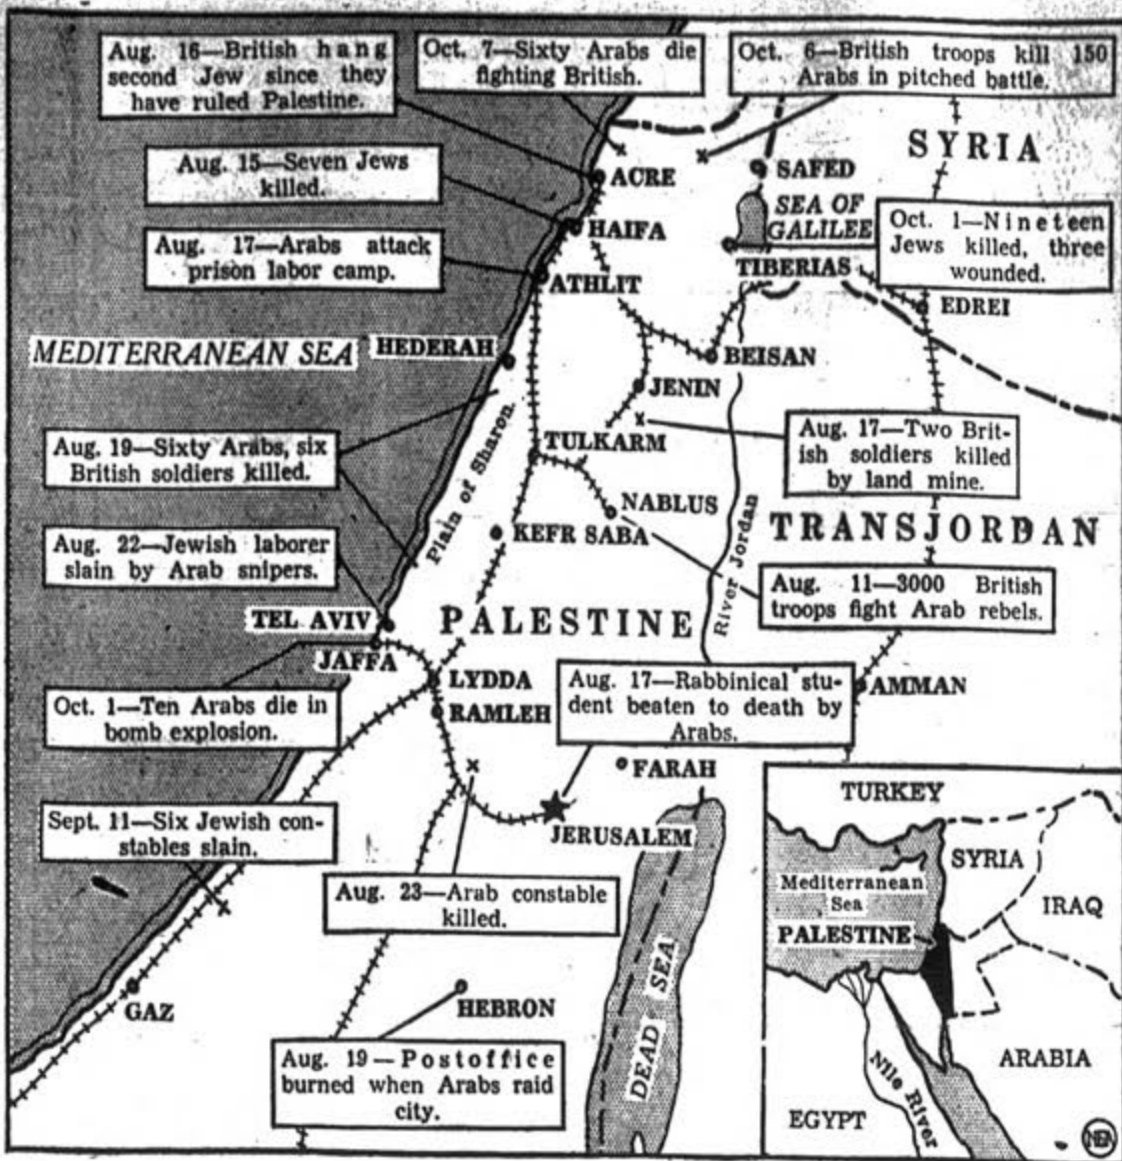

"My opponent in the primary campaign—and I found him to be a worthy, fair, honest and square dealing opponent—was a friend and neighbor of yours," said Bradley. "I am happy to tell you that Joe Sturgeon is a good friend of mine. He typifies the true Republican spirit. He fought a clean fight and he has enlisted for the duration of the campaign as my Upper Peninsula representative. Today we are joined in a common cause to restore faith in our government through a decisive victory in November."

COUNTY IS BROKE

Menominee, Mich.—Menominee county is broke and will have to borrow $25,000 on anticipated 1938 tax collections to operate until January 10, when first tax payments come in, the county board in annual budget session was told today by Sup. P. H. Bresnahan, finance committee chairman.

A gloomy picture of mounting deficits for the remainder of this year and a lessened budget for next year because of proposed advance borrowings on 1938 tax revenues was given the board by Sup. Bresnahan. Stringent economy was urged by the county's "watch-dog of the treasury."

PHONE SYSTEM 60 YEARS OLD

Escanaba Now Has More Than Three Thousand Telephones

Telephone people here and throughout Michigan are joining in an informal observance of the 60th anniversary of the founding of the state's first telephone exchange and the issuance of its first telephone directory, both of which occurred in Detroit in the early fall of 1878.

Sixty years ago there were less than 100 telephones in the state, all of them in Detroit; there were only a few hundred in the entire world, all of them in this country.

Today, there are more than 2,000 in the Escanaba exchange, alone. Michigan today is served by three-quarters of a million telephones, of which the Michigan Bell Telephone Company operates 550,000 in 252 towns and cities. The lines of the Michigan Bell and of the Bell System make available to every local telephone, connections with 35,000,000 others in 70 countries.

Labor Peace?
I doubt very much whether the President's appeal for peace between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. will succeed, unless one considers something like the Munich pact to be "peace." Peace might have been possible in the winter of 1937, when parleys between the two great organizations of American labor took place. At that time agreement was at least reached on the technique of making peace. But when it became clear that agreement might be possible John Lewis stopped it by sheer personal power, and since then he has developed an effective technique of avoiding it.

The present chaotic situation, which, if it goes on will wreck the entire labor movement, is not due to the wishes of the rank and file of organized American workers. They are paying the price for it. The American workers, by and large, want industrial rather than craft organization for the excellent reason that on no other lines can mass production industries be efficiently organized. Employers in mass production industries know the same thing. The so-called "company unions" set up with their collaboration were industrial unions, and with the passage of the Wagner labor relations act and elections held under it, most of such unions went over to the C. I. O.

Also, at the beginning, a large proportion of all the local branches of the Federation of Labor were for amalgamation with the C. I. O., officially or unofficially, and were sabotaging the National A. F. of L. administration.

Local A. F. of L. organizations were often helping to organize the C. I. O., because the realistic sense of the workers indicated that a new kind of set-up was urgently necessary and the opportunity for it at hand.

But this movement of amalgamation has shattered on the ambitions of Lewis, the bureaucracy of the A. F. of L., and the theories of the extreme Left in the C. I. O., who follow the Communist party line.

John Lewis thinks of himself as the "Second Public Figure in the United States." He wants to cement his power. He has been described as vain, able, tough and unimaginative. But the cementing of his power means a protracted struggle.

The C. I. O. started, as its name implies, as a committee, a rather loose organization to promote industrial organization and affect a new and more modern set-up. So far, so good. In the beginning there was no thought of breaking up the American labor movement into two hostile organizations. And until the final break in negotiations last winter, the C. I. O. had all the cards in its hands. Since then, it has not.

The hope of peace was made more remote last week, when a call was issued by the C. I. O. for a convention to be held in Pittsburgh in November. The present outlook seems to indicate that this convention will freeze the C. I. O. into a fixed pattern and make any compromise, thereafter, impossible. It will be victory or capitulation for one side or the other after that, and neither is strong enough to force victory.

This will almost certainly be the outcome if the highly centralized form of organization is "frozen," as Lewis and the extreme Left want it to be.

The issue is whether the parent organization is to be given wide powers of control over its affiliates or whether the various unions are to have broad autonomous powers. If the unions really had broad powers, compromise would sooner or later begin at the bottom. But the centralization idea has won, at least for the time being, in the strongest C. I. O. unions—the United Mine Workers and the American Automobile Workers.

The fight between the two organizations of American labor can only lead to four results: The first is the disintegration of the unions from within. This is already happening.

The second is a rise on the part of the employers who pay for it in demoralization of industry at a time when unity and co-operation are desperately needed. We have got a situation now where workers are sabotaging each other. To take a specific example: A. F. of L. electrical workers at the World's Fair have balked at installing wires manufactured in a firm which has a C. I. O. union.

The third is the alienation of public sympathy from the labor movement. And the fourth will almost certainly be government intervention on a big scale, with much greater restrictions on union liberties than they have ever had.

SERIAL STORY MURDER TO MUSIC

BY NARD JONES

CAST OF CHARACTERS
MYRNA DOMBEY—heroine. Wife of the sensational swing band leader.
ROBERT TAIT—hero. Newspaper photographer—detective.
ANNE LISTER—Myrna's closest friend.
DANNIE FEELEY—officer assigned to investigate Ludden Dombey's murder.

CHAPTER VIII
"Go ahead," Tait said. "I've said that Dombey's financial affairs are in a mess. I won't go into that in detail, because you're welcome to look at the books at any time. And, if I may add it, they've been gone over regularly by a certified public accountant. For the moment, let me simply assure you that Ludden Dombey died a bankrupt, and that his hand isn't worth a nickel without some smart managing from here on."

"I'll accept that," Tait said slowly. "Let's have the rest of it." "Did you ever hear of a song called 'The Cat's Meow'?" "Of course I've heard of it." "And who had not? 'The Cat's Meow' might have been well called the theme song of the jitterbugs, the disciples of swing. It was on records in a dozen ways, always by permission of Ludden Dombey and the copyright owners. It popped up in radio programs, and it had been featured in a smash hit musical motion picture. They whistled and sang 'The Cat's Meow' from New York to Walla Walla and back again. The song had skyrocketed and, amazingly, retained most of its popularity. The leader-composers of other swing bands had tried to produce a song that would stick as well in the mad world of swing music—and had failed.

"You think, like everybody else, that Lud Dombey wrote that song," Harris Rogers said. "If Dombey didn't, then who did?" "Rogers smiled. 'It's been good business to keep that name a secret, and I think it still is good business. I'm telling you that Dombey didn't write it. It was brought to him by a broken-down musician who wanted Dombey to plug it in his band because he hadn't been able to sell it. Dombey could see that with a little fixing he might make it into a big hit—with its introduction by The Swingsters. He offered to buy it outright, but the man was just a little too cagey for that. So he did offer to turn it over to Lud on a royalty proposition. To the world it was to be Dombey's song—words and music. But the real author was to get a percentage of any and all types of revenue from 'The Cat's Meow.'"

"Well, Dombey couldn't be hanged for that, Rogers. It was a business proposition—and with Dombey's name behind it the musician probably made hundreds of times what he would have made on his own."

"Yes," answered Rogers. "He would have—if Dombey had kept his affairs in decent shape. But Dombey was always broke. He let payment after payment slip. Time and again I've had to scrape up enough money to keep the fellow quiet. A thing like that would have cracked Dombey wide open, and this fellow began to realize it."

Tait moved impatiently, and Rogers hurried on. "I'm not quite finished. There is the matter of Lud's contract with the recording company. He was supposed to make records for them exclusively—but he got into a jam and needed quick money. He went out into a little venture of his own. He began getting a few of the boys in the band and making bootleg records for shipment into the foreign market. That's not according to his contract. I happen to know that an investigation—and they'll sue. Rogers paused a moment. "Do you want to hear any more?" "Make it snappy, then."

"A lot of women were in love with Dombey, you know. Some of them knew him pretty well. And extended investigation into his past is going to kick up some things that would wreck his reputation with the swing fans, and thereby make The Swingsters useless as a name to draw the crowds. I've managed to hold the Pacific-Plaza to its contract—but this business is forgotten, they won't renew. And if Pacific-Plaza doesn't renew, we couldn't get a job in a fourth-rate beer tavern tomorrow."

Tait turned his hand on the knob of the door, opened it. "I appreciate your telling me this," he said slowly. Rogers picked up his hat. "You're going to forget your curiosity, then?" "I'll think it over, anyhow." The band manager seemed unsatisfied. "My advice is to do more than that, Tait. I'm not going to tell you any more than I have—but I've an idea that it isn't going to be very healthy to show too much interest in who killed Ludden Dombey."

Tait stiffened. "Listen, Rogers. I never did like to have guys tell me what was healthy for me. The way I figure it is this—I may quit trying to play detective, and then again I may not. But whichever it is, I won't worry too much about what you think of it. Is that clear enough?" Rogers' expression did not change. "I never took you for a fool, Tait. I'm sorry now that I tried to give you a tip."

Tait watched him down the hallway. Then he went to his own front window to be sure that Rogers gained the street and started on his way. When he had made certain of this, he hurried down into the alley. Myrna and Anne were in the car, nervously puffing cigarettes. "We were just about to come up," Anne confessed, her voice heavy with relief. "It's lucky you didn't. I had a visitor!" Myrna started. "The police?" "No. Harris Rogers. He looked at her. "What do you know about him?" "Only—only that I never quite liked him. But Lud seemed to think he was all right. He trusted him with everything."

Tait nodded. Poor Dombey, he told himself, had to trust Harris Rogers with everything. The band leader had got himself in too deep to do anything else. "Come on," he told the girls. "The coast is clear now."

They went to Tait's apartment. "Myrna, I want you to hit that bed of mine in there. Ann's going to do some shopping—and I think I'll trot down to have a talk with Feeley. I don't want to get you down there at headquarters and have them spring the trap. I've known Dannie a long time and I think I can get him to talk sense." He turned to Anne. "Get back here as soon as you can, will you, Anne? There's some coffee and grub in the kitchen. I'll call for you around noon."

On the way out, Tait went into the apartment's basement and rang the janitor's bell. That sleepy individual appeared warily. "Say, Pete—I wish you wouldn't let anybody in my apartment when I'm gone. Not even if they pretend to be my grandmother." "Let anybody in your apartment, Mr. Tait? I didn't let nobody in your apartment."

"You didn't let a fellow in last night who said he was a friend of mine and wanted to wait until I returned?" "No, sir, Mr. Tait." "Who else has a key to the apartments?" "Nobody," said Pete. "Nobody but me."

BOARD ACTS TO CURB SPENDING

County's Bills for Ann Arbor Patients Run Into Thousands

The Schoolcraft county board of supervisors Monday afternoon moved to "set the brakes" on excessive spending of county funds in the treatment of Schoolcraft county patients at the University of Michigan hospital. The board unanimously passed a resolution shifting the investigation of such cases from the county agent to the superintendent of the poor. Bills totalling approximately $18,000 have been presented to the county from the University Hospital for hospitalization and medical care of county patients at Ann Arbor. Most of this amount is for bills incurred within the past two years, and does not include the cost of transporting such patients from their homes in this county to Ann Arbor. Judge of Probate John J. Hruska, who appeared before the board to explain the procedure being followed in the handling of such cases, reported that his office has adopted the same policy in effect prior to the beginning of his term of office. Patients first have received recommendations of local physicians that their cases should be treated at the university hospital, the judge explained. Then the cases have been investigated by the county agent, and a complete form filed, which contains the patient or his guardian's financial position. In cases where it appeared the patient or guardian could reimburse the county for the expense incurred, such patient or guardian was required to sign a statement that repayment would be made. Unfortunately, however, only a percentage of such patients ever showed any inclination to reimburse the county. Judge Hruska suggested to the county board of supervisors that the prosecuting attorney be advised to start suit against those persons who had agreed to pay but failed to do so. Prosecutor Sheehan retorted that the prosecutor's office should not be set up as "collection agency to straighten out bad accounts incurred by the probate office." Sheehan suggested that the system be changed to eliminate much of the trouble at its source. Some members of the board of supervisors expressed a belief that the unusually high cost of hospitalization from this county is probably due to the fact that few persons realize that the county is billed for expenses incurred in the treatment of patients at the University hospital. After checking through the list of bills, members of the board agreed that some of the patients, or their guardians, are financially able to reimburse the county for the expense involved in treatment of their ailments. Frank Fouchard, county agent, yesterday morning explained to the board that investigations made by him were merely for fact-finding, and that the final decision and commitments could only be made by the probate office. He also declared that only expenses incurred in the treatment of adult cases were charged against the county, asserting that the cost of treating children was borne by the state. Transportation costs in all cases, excepting those of crippled children, however, are paid by the county, Mr. Fouchard declared. The county agent informed the board that in each case, he expressly advised the patient or guardian, that the cost of hospitalization should be repaid to the county or state.

PETITIONS ASK FOR FAST TIME

Proposals May Be Submitted to Voters This Fall

Petitions requesting the city council to submit to the voters the question of the adoption of eastern standard time in Manistique the year around were presented to the council Monday night, and tabled until next meeting which will be held October 24. Indications that the council may submit the proposal to the voters in the general election November 8, were made at the meeting, but it was decided to take no action Monday night. If the council agrees at its next meeting to submit the issue to the people, there would be sufficient time remaining before the November 8 election to prepare ballots, it was reported. Manistique operates on eastern standard time during the summer months, but reverts to central standard time for the fall and winter. Proponents of the movement to adopt eastern standard time in Manistique the year around claim that an additional hour of sunlight in the evening is as important in the winter months as it is during summer months. The council approved a transfer of the liquor license held by Louis Tebo to George Mero.

TRADERS LOOK FOR SET-BACK

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES. Compiled by The Associated Press. Includes tables for Dow Jones Industrial Average, S&P 500, and various market indices.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER. New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—Stocks look more "corrective" medicine in today's market and the majority yielded fractions to a point or so.

Comfort was still found in the general run of business news and foreign affairs were not particularly depressing, but some analysts felt the market was due for a greater set-back because of its lengthy upturn and many traders lightened commitments accordingly.

An assortment of new highs for the year was in evidence, and low-priced issues were turned over on large volume. A few utilities, coppers and aircraft managed to edge forward, but backwardness of steel, motors and rails throughout cast a slight shadow on speculative optimism.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 1/4 of a point at 51.8, the same as the day before. Transfers amounted to 1,534,000 shares compared with 1,663,960 Monday.

Spectacular gyrations of Loft held most of the attention in boardrooms. This issue jumped to a new year's peak at 9, up 2 5/8, then lost most of this in reports the company was confronted with further litigation pertaining to its holdings of stock in a beverage concern.

Cerro De Pasco and Phelps Dodge were a trifle higher as export copper topped 11 cents a pound for the first time this year. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem lacked vitality as it was learned cuts of $4 a ton had been posted on automobile steel.

On the retreat were Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, American Telephone, Western Union, Sears Roebuck, Philip Morris, Dow Chemical, Anaconda and American Smelting.

Bonds were uneven, as were commodities. Wheat at Chicago was unchanged to off 3/4 of a cent a bushel and corn also was unchanged to 1/2 lower.

Ahead fractions to more than a point in an irregular curl list were Lockheed Aircraft, Atlas Plywood, Aluminum Co., and Lake Shore. Humble Oil dipped more than 3 and smaller losers included Newmont, Crocco Petroleum, Cities Service and Rosser & Pendleton.

Volume of 261,000 shares compare with 244,000 Monday.

Days Markets in Brief. New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—Stocks: Irregular; motors and steels lag.

Bonds: Uneven; U. S. governments firm. Curb: Mixed; oils in supply.

BONDS STRIKE LOWER LEVELS

BOND MARKET AVERAGES. Compiled by The Associated Press. Includes tables for various bond indices and yields.

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—With the exception of a small and selective group of utility issues which advanced slightly on light demand, the bond market rested at slightly lower levels today.

Secondary rail liens, strong spot of Monday's sessions, were in supply transactions were made at higher levels, and industrials were a trifle backward.

U. S. government obligations followed a zig-saw line, some of the longer term treasury obligations advancing as much as 9-32 of a point, while other maturities were 1-32 to 3-32 lower.

The Associated Press average of 20 rails ended .4 of a point lower at 60.2, but the compilation for 10 utilities made a new 1938 peak at 94.5, up .3 of a point principally as a result of upturns in Laclede Gas 5 3/8, Tennessee Electric Power & 58 and Columbia Gas 58.

Nickel Plate 6 and the 5 1/8 were in a class by themselves. The former ended 6 3/4 points up at 84 1/4 and the latter gained 1 1/4 at 50.

The management has made no new appeals to holders for deposit of all the six percent notes due October 1 for a three-year extension.

Among foreign dollar bonds ending higher were Uruguay 6 and Finland 6. Losers included Rome 6 1/8 and German 7 1/8.

CARPET PADS. No matter how thick the pile of your rugs or carpets may be, it is always wise to use a reasonably thick base pad underneath for the sake of the longevity of the rug.

Such a pad will make a thin rug much more luxurious and rich in its feeling underfoot, and will add life to any rug.

STORIES IN STAMPS

How an Ohio Rain Made Harding President. The caprice of circumstance has whisked many a man to lasting fame and high honor, as witness the career of Warren G. Harding.

Harding was running for the Ohio state Senate back in 1898. He was campaigning near Richmond when suddenly he was caught in a terrific downpour.

Afterward he was washing the mud of the rain-soaked roads from his shoes at a country school-house pump when Harry M. Daugherty stepped up. There began a friendship that nearly a quarter of a century later was to send Harding to the White House and Daugherty to the office of attorney general.

For Daugherty became Harding's Damon and Harding his Pythias. They developed a staunch acquaintance and it was Daugherty's keen political strategy at the Chicago convention of the Republican party in June, 1920, that won the nomination for the former Ohio farm boy and newspaper publisher.

Campaigning on an anti-League of Nations platform, he was elected President overwhelmingly, even denting the "Solid South." During his term he called a world conference on disarmament, vetoed the soldier bonus bill, assailed wet forces, pleaded for formation of world court. He was stricken ill on return from a trip to Alaska in 1923 and died shortly thereafter. He is shown here on a stamp of the new U. S. regular series, enlarged.

Redskin Tells Boys How To Avoid Grid Injuries

GOOD CONDITION LEADS THE LIST

Budding Football Stars Get Tips From Champ Pro 11 Captain

Washington, Oct. 11. (AP)—Captain Turk Edwards of the world champion Washington Redskins—a giant tackle who has stood the grind of professional football for six years—gave the boys of America some hints on how to avoid injuries today.

1—Be in good physical condition which means eating muscle-building food.

2—Do lots of running to harden the muscles.

3—Do not take part in a game when you are not in good condition.

4—Learn your team's plays. "I have seen serious injuries, caused by a player running the wrong way," he explained.

After accomplishing these four fundamentals, Turk said, a boy should look to his equipment, especially head gear, shoulder pads and shoes.

"It is better," he said, to have a good strong headgear if you can afford it, but it is more important that it fit.

Shoulder pads should fit closely enough around the neck to protect the collar bone, and be large enough to cover the tips of the shoulders.

"Injuries to the collar bone and the shoulder tips are the most common ones in football and many of them are caused by equipment too large or too small."

Shoes must fit like those of a dancer—a player with sore feet is no good to a team.

Of great importance, Turk said, is being alert.

"Know what's going on around you. Don't let an opponent slip up and block or tackle you without your seeing him, for then you don't have a chance."

Knowing how to fall, Edwards said, is one of the most important knacks of defensive football.

"When you are hit hard, learn to fall relaxed or with a roll to break the fall."

Most important of all, he concluded, is:

"Never play football if you already have an injury that is at all serious."

SPILLING the DOPE

Here and there in sport... Defeats suffered by Yale, Harvard, and Princeton, Oct. 8, were perhaps the worst ever inflicted on the one-time unchallenged rulers of intercollegiate football in a single afternoon... Yale 0, Pennsylvania 21; Harvard 0, Cornell 20; and Princeton 0, Dartmouth 22, give Big Three Old Grads ample reason to view with alarm... Francis Xavier Reagan, a 185-pound sophomore quarterbacking product of Philadelphia, is the chief exponent for the well-rounded Pennsylvania organization built by the new coach, George Munger... Pointing the Ellis into knots, pivoting, whirling, and stampeding by turns, the Quakers' new sparkplug set up one touchdown and scored the other two on 21-yard rushes... Holy Cross has one great backfield, another almost as good, and a stream of more than capable replacements for all positions.

Sid Luckman of Columbia no doubt will... and is entitled to... go down in the books as the passer of the year... but they also are shouting the praises of Art Gottlieb, 191-pound sharpshooter of Rutgers... who also learned his football in Brooklyn... With two or three would-be tacklers draped around his neck or chasing him to the sidelines, Gottlieb was little short of amazing in completing six out of 11 tosses for 104 yards as New York University sunk Rutgers, 25-6... Successful passes... the first for 44 and the second into the end zone for 18... accounted for the Scarlet's touchdown... Two

LIONS IN PINK

Detroit, Oct. 11. (AP)—The possibility that the Detroit Lions will be a peak strength for their game with the Washington Redskins, champions of the National Professional Football league, existed today after the squad went through a brisk workout. Ernie Caddell and Fred Vanzo, backs who were injured October 2 when the Lions suffered their only defeat at the hands of Cleveland, were back in action and are expected to start.

Coach Earl (Dutch) Clark spent considerable time polishing the Lion passing attack today, indicating that the Detroit club may use fire to fight fire against a team whose main asset is an aerial game built around "Slinging Sammy" Baugh.

Local Teams Prepare For Saturday's Games

Escanaba and St. Joseph high school football teams are busy this week in preparation for two important games Saturday, the Eskymos meeting the Soo Blue Devils on the local field and St. Joseph traveling to Manistiquie.

Although pleased at the improvement shown by his boys against Menominee, Nordberg is driving the boys hard this week to make up for three losses on the consultation list. The boys who fell down in their studies were Slug Hansen, regular full-back, Meunier and Peltier, reserve tackle and back respectively. If they make up their deficiencies, they will be eligible for the following game but will not be able to play Saturday.

As the result of the loss of Hansen, Nordberg will have to do further shifting of his backs. As yet yesterday, he had not indicated what alignment he would use but he is likely to call on Bennett, Bender, Barron, Potent-hauer and Anderson, changing them as he sees fit.

The Parochials came out of their gruelling game against Gladstone in tough shape. Young and Ferrin were quite badly injured and it is quite likely that the former will not be in the ball game against Manistiquie. This will necessitate a shift, probably bringing Gray back into the backfield after the latter had been tried at tackle in last week's game. The starting lineup probably will depend largely upon the outcome of practices this week.

Walters Leads Tech Gridders

Houghton, Oct. 11—Faced with a hard job in repeating here on Oct. 15, their last year's surprise 6-0 win over Detroit Institute of Technology. Don Sherman's Michigan Tech gridders will go this week through the most strenuous workout of the 1938 campaign. The Engineers opened their season by holding to a 13-0 score the powerful St. Norbert eleven of West De Pere, Wis. Last year the Saints whipped Michigan Tech 33-0. Last Saturday the Shermites lost to Northland college of Ashland, Wis., 14-0.

However, Sherman will call this week on nearly 20 candidates who did not report until the eve of the St. Norbert contest. Consequently Michigan Tech's greatest weakness to date, the lack of reserve strength, should not be evident when Detroit Tech invades Houghton Saturday.

The Engineers are counting strongly on their pile-driving full-back, Captain Charlie Walters, and on their elusive open-field runner, Quarterback, Bobby Stephens of Michigan City, Ind.

The Michigan Tech roster includes six men from upper peninsula cities outside the Copper Country. They are Ernie Alvord, half-back, and Russell McCombie, tackle, Marquette; William Jerow, half-back, and Fred Can Stratum, tackle, Ironwood; Bert Youngs, half-back, Iron River; and Bert Cocco, end, Stambaugh. Jerow and Alvord are veterans. Cocco, McCombie, and Van Stratum have also been used a great deal in the first two games this year. Youngs is a capable reserve who is expected to play for part of the game Saturday.

COMMUNICATION

ORCHIDS FOR BILL PETERSON
Escanaba, Oct. 10, 1938

Dear Inkslinger:

Here's another boost for Bill Peterson. I've been waiting for weeks to write this communication. I've seen all of Escanaba's games so far this year, and I'm afraid your prediction of Barron is a complete flop. Barron will never be the back Bill Peterson was. I may also add he has not been hampered by slow interference. He has not yet acquired the ability to pick his holes combats.

But to change the subject. Have you noticed Bender lately? To the older fans I know he brings back shades of Herman Mielke, who slashed the lines back in '24 and '25. Remember, fans? Bender certainly is the outstanding man today in Escanaba's backfield. He runs low, fast and hard. At Menominee Saturday he was excellent. He broke through the line so fast that several times his speed caused him to stumble with an open field ahead. As a blocker he has no peer on Nordberg's squad. Roses to Bender.

Roses to Nordberg, also. He has another fine team again this year. That line of his is impregnable. But his ends are woefully weak. All of Esky's opponents have made their gains around end. Let's hope they improve, or Iron Mountain will run them ragged.

Kindly print this, Johnny, and may I add, you've got a swell column—keep up your good work!

Yours, for Continued Success.
A Rabid Fan.

Janke Has Score To Settle Sat'y With Minnesota

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 11 (Special)—"This is my game," Captain Fred Janke has been telling his Michigan teammates as they prepare for Minnesota at Minneapolis Saturday.

More than any other member of the Michigan squad, Janke personally felt the sting of Gopher trappings in the last two years.

Two years ago as a sophomore Janke helped check the power-Gophers briefly, but left the game in the second period with a broken collar bone. Last year he appeared in the game, which the Gophers won, 29 to 6, as a reserve tackle after moving back to the line following a short turn at fullback.

Of the Michigan squad's seniors only two others have played twice against the Gophers. Ralph Helkline appeared briefly as a substitute guard two years ago and Don Siegel started last year's game and relieved Janke after his injury in 1936.

The Titans went through a light workout today at Fenway Park, scene of the battle.

Visitors Hold Edge Over Detroit Titans

Boston, Oct. 11 (AP)—University of Detroit battles Boston college for the fourth time in history in a Columbus Day football engagement here tomorrow that is expected to attract a holiday throng of 25,000. The Titans have never lost to Boston in the series which started in 1921 when they triumphed 28 to 0. In 1922 Detroit won 10 to 8 while last year victory was achieved 14 to 0 in a game played on a muddy gridiron.

Boasting a line that averages 188 and a backfield that averages 188, the Eagles will have a big weight edge over Detroit. Charles E. (Gus) Dorais, Titan coach, indicated his team would resort to one of its favorite plays—the quick kick—in an effort to keep Boston in its own backyard.

Ira Jivlektian, star halfback of the Eagles, is definitely out of the game with injuries. Detroit's starting lineup will include two sophomores in the backfield in Jack Halpin and John Charbenau. Ed Palumbo and Jack McDermott will be the other Detroit backs.

Wrigley Reveals Plan To Inject Zip In Cubs

Chicago, Oct. 11. (AP)—In a determined effort to make a real championship team out of the Chicago Cubs, Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the team, today revealed a six point program for the rebuilding of his club.

The program is:

1—The contract to be offered Manager Gabby Hartnett will be for one year only.

2—Veteran players, rather than younger men, will be used as trading material but the "finger" has not been put on any player.

3—A system of cooperative ownership of minor league clubs is planned to fortify the Cubs' weak supply of young talent.

4—Tony Lazzeri, if he wants it, will have a place with the organization in 1939 though not necessarily with the Cubs proper.

5—Dizzy Dean remains a very strong hope for 1939 although no special winter program except rest has been prescribed.

6—Although physical limitations prevent a wholesale shake-up, every possible effort to strengthen the club will be made.

Sitting shirt-sleeved at his desk, the young multi-millionaire smiled at the reaction to Hartnett's impetuous statement that "only four of the Cubs were sure of their jobs." Hartnett had named them—Stanley Hack, Clay Bryant, Bill Lee and Dizzy Dean.

"Gaby dropped in today to explain that," Wrigley said. He was worried over the stress the newspapers put on it. I told him I could understand how everybody might feel that was the thing that might be done.

"A wholesale shakeup is ridiculous, of course. There is no sense in trading players just to be trading or just because they have slipped a trifle from their peak for one season.

"That's why we're going to wait a few weeks before doing anything. I don't think we will have any difficulty getting together on terms for Hartnett. The contract, however, will be only for one year. None of ours are ever for any more."

"We've got the best club in the league and we have to do our trading in our league," Wrigley continued. "That means we will have to trade with inferior clubs, doesn't it? Besides, those recent newspaper stories have hurt us a lot. If the best club in the league can't use its players, how about the other clubs? It would be like holding a distress sale—and at a distress sale you can only get thirty cents on a dollar."

Rumor Says Reds May Buy Columbus

Columbus, O., Oct. 11 (AP)—The Columbus Dispatch said today that sale of the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association to the National League Cincinnati Reds was "a distinct possibility for the immediate future."

The newspaper stated that Branch Rickey, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinal baseball chain, which owns the Columbus franchise, had discussed the matter last week with Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati club.

The Cardinals' asking price of $500,000 for the franchise, stadium and players was said to be the only barrier to the deal.

Columbus finished in seventh place in the association pennant race this season.

Sports Editor Will Manage Louisville

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 11 (AP)—The Courier-Journal announced tonight Bruce Dudley, its sports editor since 1923, was resigning to become executive manager of the Louisville American Association baseball club.

Dudley will be succeeded by Earl Ruby, assistant sports editor. The change is effective Oct. 15.

The Louisville baseball club recently was purchased by Thomas Yawkey, owner of the Boston Red Sox, Donnie Bush, former manager of the Minneapolis American Association club and Frank E. McKinney, Indianapolis capitalist.

SPARTANS FACE BIG ASSIGNMENT

West Virginia Keyed Up for Battle With Michigan State

East Lansing, Oct. 11. (AP)—The football game Saturday at Morgantown, W. Va., between Michigan State college and the University of West Virginia will feature two teams which both had pointed for early big games and have faltered since then to regain their strides.

West Virginia pointed for the Pittsburgh game and lost. Michigan State pointed for the University of Michigan game and it too lost.

Both outfits made poor showings last Saturday—Michigan State in beating Illinois Wesleyan and West Virginia in tying Washington and Lee.

West Virginia has virtually the same team which was undefeated last year and which beat Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl. Michigan State was weakened in the line by graduations and has found this the most serious handicap in recovering 1937 glories.

This week, Coach Charley Bachman recognized clearly that the Spartans will be facing a Mountainier squad which is apparently stronger and will be keyed as much as his players will be to regaining their stride. It will be a battle of squads out for revenge. Next to Pitt, the Spartans are reported to be the team the Mountaineers want to beat, while the Spartans are again pointing for games farther down the schedule.

With only two more practices left before leaving for the east, Bachman had his players give their all in rough scrimmages today and he was apparently still unsatisfied with their recovery. If the scrimmage produced any decisions as to Saturday's line-up it was not immediately apparent.

Helge Pearson, the only letter-winning tackle left from last season, was switched to end at his own wish. Sophomore tackles have been pressing him hard and there is a shortage of good Spartan ends. Pearson played end in high school at Norway, Mich.

MOUNTAINEERS BRUSH UP
Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 10. (AP)—West Virginia's Mountaineers, preparing for their important engagement here next Saturday with Michigan State, brushed up today on formations in lengthy dummy scrimmages.

The lack of timing has proved a glaring weakness in the team's attack. Coach Marshall Glenn is expected to make one change in his backfield, letting fullback Sam Oudia run the plays, and John Carlisle, a sophomore, play at one of the halfback positions.

BOARD CHOOSES HARRY BURROWS

Road Commissioner and Poor Commissioner Are Appointed

Munising, Oct. 11—Harry W. Burrows was elected road commissioner for a three year term at the meeting of the Alger county board of supervisors held in the courthouse here on Monday. Two nominations were presented at the meeting, there being no applications. Supervisor Nelson of Munising township nominated Frank Debelak and Supervisor Hill of Rock River township nominated Harry Burrows, who was appointed for the balance of the term of Walter Toebe last year when Toebe's resignation was accepted by the board. Burrows was elected by a six to four vote, Thompson, Coaster, Saul, Lindquist, Hill and E. Lezotte voting for Burrows and Kellan, Gregg, Nelson and Johnson voting for Debelak. John Hannah did not vote. Harry Gollinger was appointed poor commissioner by a six to five vote, George Coates being the other candidate for the office. Gollinger's appointment is subject to the referendum on the welfare act on November 8, the office being abolished if the act should pass. Both the poor commissioner office and that of road commissioner are for three-year terms. Gust Johnson was appointed janitor at the courthouse by an eight to three vote. Johnson, together with Albert Bovan, were the applicants for the office. The board made appropriations to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Commission of $200, requesting that the judge of probate make the necessary appointments to bring this committee up to date; Michigan Children's Aid, $25; Goodwill Farm, Houghton, $25; and Starr Commonwealth for Boys, $25. The county's share of the Lure Book ad for 1939, $150, was appropriated and the payment of $10 to the State Association of Supervisors for annual dues was authorized. The purchasing committee of the board of supervisors was ordered to investigate coal prices and purchase locally if the local price did not exceed outside prices by more than 15 cents. MAYOR OUSTED AT MENOMINEE

PWA Grant for Utility Plant Rescinded by Officials

Washington, (AP)—Public Works administration officials yesterday reported that a $588,500 loan and $214,500 grant for the city of Menominee electric plant had been rescinded October 3 because the city failed to vote bonds.

Menominee, Oct. 11—Today's developments in the Menominee municipal light plant controversy follow:

Council installs its president, Ald. Frank J. Heraty, Sixth ward, to act in place of Mayor Michael C. Olsen in applying to PWA for advance on light plant grant, by 9 to 5 vote.

Mayor Olsen makes public letter from PWA Regional Director D. R. Kennicott, Chicago, advising him that the regional office has recommended to Washington cancellation of city's PWA grant and loan for light plant.

Olsen's veto on last Friday's action by council to proceed with a competing diesel-engined municipal plant ruled invalid by City Attorney William J. Clancy, tabled unannounced by aldermen.

Menominee & Marinette Light & Traction company files in writing with Mayor Olsen concessions to be granted city in event of withdrawal from municipal light plant field.

Cheers and boos greet Mayor Olsen and former City Attorney K. O. Doyle at last night's council meeting attended by largest crowd in years.

LUND TALKS ON U. P. PLANNING

Former Local Man Urges Long-Time Program for Prosperity

"Sound prosperity can be brought back to the Upper Peninsula through a careful planning program," Wendell Lund, chief of the family selection division of the Farm Security administration, told a crowd that overflowed the council chambers of the city hall last night. A former local resident and the son of Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Lund, pastor of Bethany Lutheran church, the speaker was introduced by Henry Wylie of the Escanaba high school faculty whose work on land zoning in Delta county is closely related to the program of which Lund spoke.

He advocated a three-fold program for the Upper Peninsula, based on his experience with the government in other regions throughout the country which have been faced with similar economic problems.

Main points were: conservation of those resources that are left; replenishing of those resources which have been depleted; utilization to the fullest possible extent of those inherent resources which have not been fully developed.

Advocates Resorts

It was on the third point, utilization of inherent resources, that the speaker dwelt most fully. "There are whole sections of the country based on the tourist business," he declared, "and a sound economy can be built upon it." He pointed out how the recreational development of the land is linked up with conservation and restoration of resources which have been depleted, and urged that streams be restocked, forests replanted and wildlife conserved to aid in the region's recreational development.

In discussing Upper Peninsula agriculture, the speaker advocated the planting of a wider diversity of crops for consumption through the local market, and for sale outside only at a special advantage on a highly favorable market. In connection with rural problems, he praised as a step forward the rural zoning ordinance which was tentatively passed by the Delta county board last Monday. "Such legislation may be of value in preventing future problems," he said, "which would result in unnecessary costs to the county. Merely one way in which

THE NEW WORLD THAT HAS NOT BEEN DISCOVERED A Columbus Day Message For ages mankind has been voyaging toward a New World which would be ruled by Peace, Love, and Justice. Many false cries of "Land Ho!" have been raised. The voyage has been long and stormy.
