

THE WEEKLY AGITATOR.

ISHPEMING, MICHIGAN, DEC. 27.

The shaft being sunk on the Iron Cliffs property is now down about 10 feet.

The shaft being sunk on the Lake Superior Iron company's property has reached the ledge, and a diamond drill will be placed in position there this fore part of next week.

The diamond drill working on the Iron Cliffs property just west of Lake Hancock, has, excepting less than one hundred feet, reached the ledge at a depth of 575 feet, and are still in ore.

The president of the Deer Lake Iron & Lumber company, Gardner Greene, is expected to arrive here about the middle of the present month, accompanied by a prominent iron man from New York, and the chances for the future being soon again in blast, are favorable.

JOSEPH WARRER, who has been doing considerable exploring on the Standard property, some four miles from the Republic mine, is expected to visit here in a few days.

The shaft being sunk at the Magnetic mine, preparatory to putting the diamond drill at work, has not yet reached the ledge, but it is thought it will be reached shortly, the pipe having been sunk some 60 feet.

The work of shipping away the debris caused by the cave-in at Sell-wick's pit, Cleveland mine, is about completed, and the skip road will be built to the ore deposit and hoisting commenced in the course of a few days.

At present the free traders number seven of the eleven members of the house committee of ways and means. Behind them stand five important factions of the population of the country, demanding of congress that it restore the tariff.

The assertion, for almost every day new discoveries are being made in that section, and its prospects are constantly brightening as the work of development goes on.

The Iron Age, of New York, is getting considerably worked up over what it terms a strong determination on the part of many members of the present congress to attempt what are called tariff reforms.

At least half a hundred strangers were in town New Year's night in attendance at the entertainment and dance.

They "got it" on Kestney and Ball at the entertainment by following the example of "Meg" in the drama and pinning the word "Engaged," cut from the programme, on their backs.

On New Year's night the Republic Amateur Dramatic association again appeared at the Town hall in one of their popular entertainments, and once again one of the AMATEURS was present as a spectator.

Happy New Year. Mudge is holding forth at Johnson's, Born, to Mr. and Mrs. John McFarlan, a boy, last Thursday.

Second, an active, aggressive, mercenary, commercial class of people in the large seaboard cities, who import foreign merchandise, and are vexed by duties and custom house officials, and, as they believe, are prevented from gaining perfect control of the traffic in unmanufactured goods by the high tariff.

It is with much regret that we note the death of Mrs. Joshua Culbert, which occurred in this city on Sunday last. She had been afflicted for some years with consumption, which caused her death, and which disease her husband died of about a year since. Mr. Culbert was a truly Christian man, kind and affectionate to her many children, and a true friend to all who were acquainted with him. Her funeral took place from the Catholic church on Tuesday afternoon, and was attended by a number of persons attending through their appreciation of the deceased.

THE WEEKLY AGITATOR.

The Plot to Blow up the Car.—At last Russian letters and papers are allowed to convey more details relative to the terrible incident of the last inst. Though at a distance of two miles from the station, the spot where the attempt was made is situated in a densely inhabited part of the suburbs.

About the middle of October the new tenants commenced to sink a well in their court yard, telling the neighbors they required a large quantity of water for trade purposes. As has since come out, the well was only sunk to account for the quantities of sand removed from a shaft dug in a wooden sled forming part of the premises.

While the Emperor, who, thanks to an inversion of the usual order of the trains, had passed the fatal spot unscathed, was paying homage before the wooden statue of the Virgin at the Kremlin gate, the second train reached the spot opposite the mine's house and was blown into the air.

As no one dared to acquaint the Emperor with what had occurred, his Majesty learned the incident only on the following morning. Two more days elapsed before the St. Petersburg press was permitted to allude to the event.

The labor expended by the conspirators in digging the Moscow mine is truly astonishing. Taking the length of the subterranean passage at the figures given above, the earth dug out cannot have weighed less than 12,000 hundred weights. If we assume five minutes to be required for every man to dig out and bring to the surface a quantity weighing forty pounds, 2,800 hours, some four months, must have been needed to construct the entire passage. Even this gives no idea of the amount of work done. It being alleged that the entire passage, as well as the cavern at its termination, was bricked, no fewer than 12,000 bricks can have been wanted to accomplish this work.

For Killed by Electricity.—A son of a merchant of Land and Water says: A curious incident of the whole of the occupants of a fish pond being destroyed by a flash of lightning, is reported from the Grand Duchy of Nassau.

A YOUNG INDIAN'S LOVE.—That the course of true love never did run smooth was again exemplified here in the trial of Richard Black, a young Indian, charged with making a false affidavit in order to procure a marriage license, and also abducting Francis Margaret Taylor, a young lady whom he made his wife. The facts brought in the evidence are these:

Richard Black belongs to the band of Chippewa Indians settled at the village of Alderville, in the township of Alderick, in the county of Northumberland. Black has fifty acres of good land of his own on the reservation. He is about twenty-one years of age, with intelligent features, has received a very fair education, as the letters before him indicate. He had been working in the township as a farm hand and as a bricklayer laborer. Everybody speaks well of him. Rev. Mr. Beatty, the Presbyterian minister, who performed the marriage ceremony in question, says of the young man in his evidence: "He appeared to me to be more intelligent, more straightforward—in fact, he made a better appearance than half of those who do come before me. Black has been paying attention to Francis Margaret Taylor, the daughter of a farmer in the same township, who worked what is called the mission farm, and also a farm of his own not far off. She was born November 13th, 1864, consequently she is now within a month of sixteen years of age. She is said to be good-looking, of prepossessing address, and of well developed proportions, which led the clergyman to believe her to be eighteen years of age. The charges against the prisoner was that he willfully committed perjury in making an affidavit that the girl was eighteen years of age, and that he had her father's consent to the marriage. The license issued proved the affidavit. The parents denied that they had ever given their consent, and the clergyman testified to marrying the couple on September 25th last. The father said that he had once heard of their keeping company, and he then forbade it. The parents knew nothing further till the daughter was missed about three weeks ago, and the window of her bedroom found open. The prisoner was found guilty on the second count. The following letter came out in the trial.

"That 'ERE TENNYSON."—"I'm kinder lookin' around for a book of poetry to give my daughter on Christmas," explained an old-looking man the other day as a clerk in a Woodward avenue book store came forward to wait on him. "Yes, sir. Have you any choice of poems?" "Waal, I s'pose they are all off the same place," replied the old man, as he scanned the shelves. "I don't know much about 'em, but the gal she seems to think a heap of 'er 'ere chap named Tennyson."

"Tennyson, you mean?" "Waal, I guess so. I ain't no hand to remember names. Do you know anything about this 'ere Tennyson?" "Why, he's one of the besting poets," "Married man?" "Yes."

destroyed by a flash of lightning, is reported from the Grand Duchy of Nassau. The Nassau Reporter states that during a very heavy thunder and lightning storm a small pond, well stocked with various kinds of fish, the property of the pastor of the parish. The following morning the whole of the fish were discovered dead upon the surface of the water. They had all the appearance of having been half boiled, and crumbled to pieces at the least touch, just as the case with fish after being boiled. Neither any external nor internal injury could be observed, the scales being intact and the swimming bladder filled and well preserved. The water in the pond was still muddy and dull the morning after the storm, as if the lightning had only then struck it.

TWEAKING HIS OWN NOSE.—If the correspondents don't belie him, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes is a good deal of a wag outside of his books. The story goes that he wagged a friend that he could make the pompous Dr. Osgood, the publisher, tweak his own nose. This seemed so absurd to the friend, who had conceived a high notion of Osgood's dignity, that the wag was accepted. After the business of a call on Osgood was concluded, Holmes artfully led the conversation up to the subject of noses, a particular in which Osgood was not deficient. "Have you not noticed, doctor," said Holmes, "that all men of intellect and good character have large noses?" A pause ensued, when to the joker's delight, Dr. Osgood responded: "It is, I believe, an indisputable fact," and, as he spoke, slowly raising his hand to his nasal appendage, following its outline with the thumb and forefinger, and concluding with a gentle satisfied tweak, or rather pluck, as it were, that the whole of the intellectual feature were there.

"Waal, I s'pose they are all off the same place," replied the old man, as he scanned the shelves. "I don't know much about 'em, but the gal she seems to think a heap of 'er 'ere chap named Tennyson."

"Well, I guess I won't buy any to-day. I did think some of looking at some button shoes."

"Certainly. Here is a large variety. Do you wish kind?" "Oh, yes," she answered, as she wet her finger and rubbed the heel of a shoe, "that kid will wear longer than moccasin."

"I guess I'll try them on," she faintly remarked as she sat down.
