How ragged does a flag have to get before you replace it?

Jim Moyle

Mr. Wilfred (Babe) Beauchamp, custodian superintendent in Kaye Hall, checked the flag and, sure enough, found that it was on the tattered side even though it had only been up for two months. A new one is now flying in its place.

Why is the juice in the Charcoal Room of the University Center 20 cents when it is 15 cents in the Learning Resources Center lounge and at the lounge in Kaye Hall, both of which are run by the Charcoal Room?

Unsigned

Basically, most of the food and beverage items in the Charcoal Room cost a wee bit more because of overhead differential (persons are not required to bus their own dirty dishes, etc.).

During the Easter vacation managed to enter a few bookstores away from this immediate proximity (i.e., the Upper Peninsula). Again I discovered that there were some books available in paperback series, books that were and are being sold only in the hard-cover editions in the University's bookstore. I am not sure whether the bookstore or the individual faculty members are responsible for these decisions; however, since many students have precarious financial means to meet their expenses with, could the University possibly consider the fact that most students would prefer the inexpensive paperbacks when they are available? Perhaps a memorandum to all faculty members and the bookstore management would make them more cognizant of this?

Unsigned

Whenever possible, faculty members do order paperback editions. If a student is aware that a paperback edition is available when a hard-bound is being used or has been ordered for use, he may want to bring it to the attention of the instructor. It should also be kept in mind that publishers make constant changes in their texts and at times there are time lags between hard cover and soft cover editions which in some cases might account for using the hard cover edition, which usually precedes the printing of a paperback. For your information, publishing companies periodically send out book lists to departments and to the bookstore. Forms are then sent from the bookstore to department heads who pass them on to their faculty.

Richard Hodges

High administrative officials said this week that Director of Auxiliary Enterprises Richard Hodges has been given a termination of employment notice by Northern Michigan University, effective June 30, 1970.

Hodges received the notice 14 days ago and has since filed a strong protest with University President John X. Jamrich and individual members of the NMU Board of Control, the officials said.

Contacted by the News Tuesday, President Jamrich said that the University is "contemplating changes in personnel within Auxiliary Enterprises to be effected by next year."

He said, however, that no definite decisions have yet been made.

Jamrich said that he expects that changes in A-E personnel and/or operation may be announced at the next regular meeting of the Board of Control.

The News received several unofficial reports that Hodges' proposed termination was on the agenda of an executive Board of Control session held April 29. The reports were never confirmed.

The executive session preceded the Board's regular monthly meeting, held April 30. The April 29 session was closed to the public.

Neither Hodges nor Auxiliary Enterprises were discussed at the April 30 public meeting.

Hodges has been head of Auxiliary Enterprises since coming to the University six years ago.

Recently, his office was moved from the A-E office suite, located on the second floor of the University Center, to a Kaye Hall suite occupied by Vice President for Financial Affairs Leo VanTassel.

If Giacomo Puccini was correct in declaring that "art is a kind of illness," then, at least in this photo, the illness is spring fever. With the coming of spring weather, several Northern art students took leave of the classroom to pursue inspiration on the rocks surrounding the University Center.

ELIMINATE APATHY: O'DONNELL

New Board In 1st Meet

The newly elected ASNMU Governing Board for the 1970-71 academic school year held its first meeting Monday night.

At the outset of the meeting ASNMU President Kevin O'Donnell stated that one of his primary goals for next year will be "to start eliminating the apathy on this campus."

"The way to begin to eliminate that apathy," O'Donnell said, "is to recognize the various organizations on this campus and their individual problems."

O'Donnell stated that "in the past the Governing Board has had the appearance of being just another student organization on campus" and that as a result "tremendous animosity has occurred between the Governing Board and the other organizations because it is felt by the organizations that the Governing Board was in competition with them."

This animosity must be eliminated," O'Donnell firmly stated to the newly elected Governing Board.

O'Donnell also stated in his opening remarks to the Governing Board that if next year is to be a successful one "we must not work against the administration as it is here for the good of the University."

O'Donnell, in closing his remarks, stated that as president of ASNMU he was "going to try and broaden student government by bringing in more students into its function."

In action taken by the Board, petitions were let out for the positions of Executive Secretary and Treasurer of ASNMU. Petitions are available in the Student Activities office on the second floor of the University Center.

In the meantime, though, O'Donnell asked and got the approval of the Board to appoint Wayne Brady and Tom Klander as interim Executive Secretary and Treasurer respectively until the permanent appointments are made by the Appointment Committee.

In other action taken by the Board, it:

- Tabled until the next meeting consideration of a proposed Student Bill of Rights.

- Tabled a motion that would have restricted the way in which student government leaders in the future could use the money that may be given them for "services rendered."

Plan On Free-U At Meet

An organizational meeting to establish a "Free-University" on campus was held last Sunday, and it is reported that considerable interest has been shown in the establishing of such a program.

Over 260 people have indicated an interest in the creating of a "Free-University" at NMU according to a spokesman for Northern's Drug Committee, which has been providing the organizational base for its establishment.

A "Free-University" is an extra-curricular program in which those interested in a particular subject matter get together in a group for its study. There is no tuition or credit involved and the program is completely separate from the normal academic operations of the University.

The spokesman for the Drug Committee said that a "Free-University" can include such studies or programs as: Astrology, Mysticism, flytying, Zen, bird watching, Organic Cooking, Black-White Dialogue, Poetry, Sufism, Organic Farming and photography.

The idea for establishing a "Free-University" on campus, the Drug Committee spokesman said, drew out of the appearance on campus several weeks ago of drug-expert Dr. Allan Cohen. His bringing up subject areas for which there are now means within the University's academic program for their study provided the stimulus for seeking to create a "Free-University" the spokesman said.

It is the hope of the Drug Committee, the spokesman said, that the concept of a "Free-University" will be able to get off-the-ground this spring so that next fall the program can "become an active part of the NMU community."

Members of the University community interested in the program may contact one of the following people: Mary Johnson, 225-0772; Carol Huntton, 227-2440; Jerry Michaels, 226-3941.

TICKETS ON SALE MONDAY

'Bacchae' Final NMU Play

Tickets for Euripides' The Bacchae, the final production of the current NMU theater season, go on sale Monday in the box office of the Forest Roberts Theater.

All seats will be reserved for the production, an updated version of an ancient Greek play.

The special NMU student admission price is 50 cents. Regular admission is $1.50.

The box office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. Reservations may be made by phone by calling 227-3533.

NMU's production of The Bacchae will be directed by Jerome Cushman, instructor in the department of speech. Assistant director is Karen Kargemian, a junior majoring in speech education.

Sets will be designed by P. Gibson Ralph, technical director and speech instructor.

In charge of lighting is Bill Gwynne, also an instructor in the department of speech at NMU.

Arnie Bellis, a freshman theater major, will play Dionysus, the young god of ecstasy and rebirth.

Jim White will play Pentheus, the conservative young king of Thebes. The Bacchae are the band of young followers of the orgiastic Dionysus.

Other members of the cast include Donn Bollenberg in the role of Teresius, Ed Kovachich as Cadmus and Colleen Neuman as Agave.

Members of the chorus are Mary Meldrum, Yvonne Russo, Karen Ventro, Debbi Lewis, Christy Johnson, Sandi Dorau, Deb Holland, Kathy Sabella, Chris Metzger, Chris Fowler, Bette Linck and Sue Brown.

Attendants include Al Glenn, Pat McCarron, Keith Tally, Pat Featherston and Bruce Bennett.

Playing Coryphaeus are Les Washington and Thomas Holt.

The part of the messenger will be played by Tom Emmhizer.

The production will have a five-day run May 19-23. Curtain time for all performances will be 8:15 p.m.

Northern Michigan University's last major production of the semester will be Euripides' "The Bacchae," which will be staged May 19-23. Tickets for the play go on sale Monday in the box office of the Forest Roberts Theater. Pictured here is the Bacchae chorus from the play.

Northern Notes

by Jim Jordan

One of Northern's finest performing groups, The N.M.U. Saxophone Quartet, will be making an extensive tour of Michigan High Schools during the coming week. Performances will be given in various cities including Alpena, Detroit, Flint, Ironwood and Munising.

The program to be presented during the time of the tour is designed to be educational and at the same time entertaining. To demonstrate the versatility of the saxophone, the group will present music of both the classic and rock styles. Elda Tate and Thomas Falcone, woodwind instructors at Northern, will also present flute and clarinet solos respectively. The quartet members and the soloist also plan to conduct clinics on their instruments which should be of special interest to music students. Also traveling with the group will be Larry Henery—percussion, and Ronald Caviana—bass. Henery, a freshman music major, and Caviani, Associate Professor of Music at NMU will assist on contemporary jazz and rock arrangements written especially for the quartet by Caviani.

While being in existence for four years, the quartet has achieved a level of performance equal to that of some of the finest professional groups of its kind! During this period the quartet has performed concerts on numerous occasions, including on-campus recitals, U.P. solo and ensemble festivals, K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base, and was featured with the NMU Wind Ensemble on their 1970 tour. The quartet was also invited by Fred Hemke, the world renowned saxophonist, to assist him in a clinic for Wisconsin band directors. It is indeed fortunate that we have such a fine group of musicians representing Northern!

The present members of the Saxophone Quartet are: Soprano Saxophone, Dennis Diamond—Senior from Alpena, Michigan, Alto Saxophone, Thomas Falcone, NMU Music Instructor and Director of the NMU Concert Band; Tenor Saxophone, Ken Medal—Junior from Roseville, Michigan and Baritone Saxophone, Gene Domrase, Senior from Ossineke, Michigan.

20th Century Concert Set Here Tonight

Northern Michigan University's Department of Music will present a 20th Century Music Concert at 8:15 p.m. tonight in room 102 of the Instructional Facility building.

The concert will open with Bohuslav Martinu's Trio for Flute, Cello and Piano, with Elda Tate playing flute, Daniel Mellado, cello, and Ruth Matthews, piano. This selection will be followed by Stravinsky's Three Pieces for Clarinet, featuring J. Thomas Falcone.

In the final selection for the first half of the program, Ed Hoffman, trumpet, will play Variations on an Original Theme for Amplified Trumpet by John Wolfe.

Opening the second half of the program will be Kenneth Gaburo's Line Studies, played by Elda Tate, flute, Falcone, clarinet; John Kolpitcke, viola; and Robert Stephenson, trombone.

Eleanor Pool, soprano; Rene de la Garza, french horn; and C. Arthur Dimond, piano, will then present Gene Narmour's Two Songs for Soprano, French Horn and Piano.

The concert program will finish with three numbers making use of the university's new Buchla Synthesizer and electronic tape.

The first will be The Bacchae, an improvisation for flute and Buchla Synthesizer, with Elda Tate playing flute and Eric Chapman running the synthesizer.

The final two selections are Leslie Bassett's Collect for choir and electronic tape, and Richard Felciano's Double Alleluia for choir, organ and electronic tape. These two arrangements will feature the NMU Arts Chorale with Ann Toupin as accompanist, under the direction of Dr. James McKelvy.

Car Wash Set

On Saturday, May 9th, the Gamma Sigs will sponsor a car wash. It will be at Lindy's gas station, on the corner of Third and Fair, and it will last from 9:00—5:00. The price—only $.99.

IN STATE COMPETITION

NEWS Sweeps 2 Divisions

The NEWS swept first, second and third place awards in editorial writing and individual photo competition at the annual Michigan Collegiate Press Convention held recently.

Official results released this week of the MCPA's "contest for excellence" also indicated that the NEWS took a second place in each of three other areas: photo stories, news stories, and sports columns.

Competitors in the MCPA contest along with the NEWS were the student newspapers of Ferris State College and Central, Eastern and Western Michigan Universities.

The winning editorials for the NEWS were "Clear UP Meaning" by Joel Smith in first place, "Precedent Bad" by NEWS Editor-in-Chief Lowell Easley in second, and "Spiro T. Agnew" by NEWS Associate Editor Don Curran in third. Photographs by Chuck Bowen, Don Pavloski and Dave French took the first, second and third places respectively in the photo competition.

Charles Stratford, Editorial Writer of the Saginaw News who judged the editorial division of the MCPA contest, said that it was "across-the-board quality of editorial expression, form content and style (makeup) that compelled awarding the 1-2-3 sweep" to the NEWS.

Taking the second place in photo story competition was the four-color Homecoming Special of last fall and in news stories and sports columns it was works by Curran and NEWS Sports Editor Mark Kelly respectively.

NMU Fraternity Sigma Beta Chi Goes National

Northern's Sigma Beta Chi fraternity was colonized as a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon national fraternity Monday night in closed ceremony in the University Center.

Mike Williams, staff representative of SPE for this area, performed the ceremony.

Sigma Phi Epsilon is the second largest fraternity in the country in terms of number of chapters (187). Other chapters in this general vicinity are located at Michigan Tech, Wisconsin State—Superior and Wisconsin State—Stevens Point.

The NMU colony has 22 members and hopes to obtain its charter within the year.

The new SPE colony at NMU is under the leadership of Robert Fisher. Robert Thomsen of Marquette is president of the chapter, and Dale Sharkey of powers is vice president.

This spring various student groups and organizations have staged clean up campaigns of the campus grounds. NMU President John X. Jamrich says he is pleased with the initiative that students have shown in this matter. Pictured are members of the Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity picking up litter around the University Center.

Women Seek Support For Kids' Art Center

The Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority is seeking both financial and personnel assistance in its efforts to establish a "Performing Arts Center For Children" which would begin next fall.

Minnie Walker, spokesman for the sorority, said that the sorority is in need of people who are willing to contribute two to four hours of their time on Saturday afternoons next fall to help children develop their creative abilities in art, dance, music, drama, creative writing, reading and sports.

Walker said that financial assistance will be needed from the area if the program is to be successful.

The program is scheduled to begin next September 19 and run for eight weeks.

"Urgently needed now is resource people for coordinating and planning of the entire program," Walker said.

Interested people are urged to call Walker or Sherlyn Fleming at 226-8841 or Denise Jones at 227-1288.

Godard Film This Weekend

The Jean-Luc Godard film Sympathy for the Devil will be shown tonight, tomorrow night and Sunday night in the NMU Instructional Facility.

Admission to the film, the showing of which is being sponsored by the NMU Art Students' League, will be $1.50.

Show times are 6, 8 and 10 p.m. tonight and tomorrow night and 9 p.m. on Sunday night.

The topical film has been hailed by Newsweek as Godard's most brilliant work.

Topic of the film is revolution as expressed through both white and black movements.

RHA APPROVED

The Constitution of the Residence Halls Association was approved Tuesday by students living on campus.

The document officially organizes all on-campus residents into the "Northern Michigan University Residence Halls Association," the governing body of which is the Residence Halls Council.

Out of approximately 3,200 eligible voters, 145 cast ballots in the referendum Tuesday. The final vote tally was 112 "yes" and 33 "no."

The Residence Halls Council is now officially the highest governing body for students living on campus. The RHC ranks just below the ASNMU Governing Board in the student governmental hierarchy.

The Governing Board is the highest student governing organization at the University for both on- and off-campus residents.

You Deserve It!

The governing structure of the Associated Students of Northern Michigan University (ASNMU) is staging a manpower drive once again this spring. And once again the response on the part of the NMU student body to this plea for warm bodies is the now-typical apathetic indifference—indifference which will last at least until the current ASNMU president reaches the end of his term and the Governing Board decides to pay him for services rendered.

The feathers will fly.

Another twelve-hundred students will sign one of those ubiquitous petitions calling for an end to that HORRIBLE practice of paying a student body president just because he's done a little work. And another delegation of irate students will come to the Governing Board meeting to find out why the "student council"—is that what you call it?—is squandering their tax money.

It's pretty darned easy to go down to the dorm lounge to yell at the dean when he's on the firing line. It's just as easy to sign a petition. It's a little bit harder, though, to put one's money where one's mouth is—an art few Northern Michigan University students have mastered.

In journalism classes, the bright-eyed young writer is told that one never preaches in an editorial. "One must say, 'We should do this,' not 'You must do this,'" he is told. Well...rules are made to be broken.

The plain and simple fact of the matter is this: If YOU don't take steps to correct conditions on campus, YOU are going to be shafted for as long as you stay at Northern—and probably for the rest of YOUR life, if the attitude persists.

And, dammit, YOU DESERVE IT!

Watch The Wash

Our world dies a little every time you wash out a batch of underwear in the bathroom sink with one of the high phosphate detergents. These phosphates are the chief cause of our present water pollution problem, according to a recently completed five-year study of pollution in Lakes Erie and Ontario by the International Joint Commission, the U.S.—Canadian water regulating agency. The phosphates speed up the growth of algae. The algae in turn, rob the water of oxygen which fish and plants need to stay alive.

Only national awareness and immediate action by every concerned citizen can stem the tide of pollution until such time as detergent formulas are changed and improved sewage systems constructed.

Individual efforts must be directed to switching back to the old methods of laundering...using soap flakes or powders in combination with water-softening washing soda. According to laundry product testing by United States environmental engineers, soap products and washing soda each contain less than one percent phosphates, and when the two are used together they produce a good wash.

The major hang-up is locating the soap and soda. Although both are staples on supermarket laundry supply shelves, they're so vastly outnumbered by the high-phosphate products that it takes some searching and reading of package ingredients to find them. To further add to the confusion, those who have grown up in the detergent generation do not realize that a detergent is not a soap.

So check labels and buy only products that won't pollute our waters.

A Frank Look At The Issues

'A' Is For 'Ambiguous'

Anyone who reads this column knows that it borders on the ludicrous. (That's the right word, I looked it up.) The very far side of ludicrous. In line with that tradition of a near approach to mediocrity, I have this week pulled off a literary (or at least journalistic) coup. On a recent visit to my former home state of Wisconsin I met, and interviewed, one of our most famous public servants, A. Phillip Osepher, known to his friends as Phil. Here are some excerpts from the three hour interview.

Reporter: What do you think of the Viet Nam war, Senator.

Osepher: Well, let me make one thing perfectly clear—I am morally opposed to the war. However, in this day and age, our great country has taken on moral and economic responsibilities involving the entire free world. It has become a cold, cruel fact of our lives that the war must continue, at a slowly declining pace, until it is economically feasible to end it. In spite of mounting protests by radicals like Dr. Spock, these remain the facts, and as Americans it is our duty as citizens of a great nation to accept them with humility.

Reporter: Then you don't sympathize with the anti-war faction?

Osepher: Oh, don't get me wrong, I sympathize with them. It is never an easy task to endure the suffering of war. It is only their reasoning I disagree with. They want to end the war, to bring the boys back home, and as I have explained, it is just not economically feasible to end the war at this time. But that doesn't prevent me from sympathizing with them in principle. As a matter of fact, when I was in Congress I introduced a bill which would have appeased both sides. The simple, Solomon-like logic of the bill was this: Since it would be un-American to create an economic crisis and end the war, and a large part of the complaints are that our boys are fighting a meaningless war in a faraway part of the world; both factions would have to be agreeable to my solution. Bring the war back home, where it belongs. We could hold it in Nevada, which has the least population per square mile of all the states, and, as an added attraction, much of the terrain in Nevada is not unlike the hilly regions of Viet Nam after a few napalm hits. We could even charge admission to the war, and further boost the economy. Think of it, my boy!

Reporter: I'd rather not, sir, I just ate. Well, now that you have expressed your views on Viet Nam (Editor's note: since the interview has taken place, the words Viet Nam have been replaced by a more melodic, and economic, Indo-China), I'd like to get your opinion on the issue that college students consider second only to the war.

Osepher: You mean drugs?

Reporter: No, sex.

Osepher: Yes, yes, of course, sex. Just what are my views on sex? I think I covered that in one of my books, Sex, and the Single Politician. Let me see if I can find it here on my bookshelf...I think I have it in paperback...here it is. Let me just quote for you from the prologue. "Lance, don't—you know what that does to me!" "I can't help it, Beverly, the sight of you makes my blood boil!" "Please Lance, don't! Why are you stopping Lance—you know what that does to me!?" "I'm sorry Beverly—I think I lost my graduation ring. 'Surely you don't think it's in there!'" "Where else could it be? It's all your fault, you know I break out in hives every time I see you, and that the only thing that cures them is a soak in a tub of grape jello, and you break out from being in the same room as grape jello. You must be a masochist!" "Good Heavens, did I write that? Then that must be my view on sex."

Reporter: Begging your pardon, but that book is Unusual Allergies I have Known: Case Histories, by Dr. Seymour Crud.

Osepher: So it is. Well then, I believe that sex between a man and his wife is a healthy and reproductive outgrowth of marriage, provided it is acted out with the proper dignity and reserve, and only on state occasions.

Reporter: Thank you, former Senator A. Phillip "Phil" Osepher. By the way, what does the A. stand for?

Osepher: Ambiguous.

Money Breeds Concern

It seems that a great number of students are angry over the money voted to student body President Harry Campbell and Vice President Jack LaSalle. A petition, asking the ASNMU not to give Campbell and LaSalle the money drew 1220 signatures. Now there are several rumors flying around about how the money will be spent. And both Campbell and LaSalle have been called or cornered by students complaining about their money. "Most of these students are people I never heard of before," LaSalle told me.

The students have an interesting complaint. The ASNMU Governing Board voted a total of $450 to the two officials for recognition of outstanding work done. That money comes out of the pockets of every student on this campus. You should be concerned about where your money is going.

But where were you the rest of the year?

The ASNMU has been spending your money all year. Why are the students aroused now? Under normal circumstances, the one obvious characteristic about the student body is that they couldn't care less about anything! For evidence, we only need to look as far as the recent ASNMU elections. On a campus of nearly 8,000 students, 600 Greeks were able to tell you who your President should be.

Part of the problem, of course, was the weak field of candidates. (Someone told me that if I complained about the candidates, I should have run. Perhaps I would have if I was eligible—I'm a graduating Senior.)

When there is no one to vote for, almost nobody votes.

Perhaps we have a ready made solution to the problem. We have seen that the students are interested when the President gets a paycheck. We also see that nobody is very interested in holding the job for nothing. It has become traditional to give the outgoing President money at the end of his term of office.

So why don't we pay the President a set salary, and see that he gets a check every two weeks? If you are spending money on the President all year, maybe you will be interested in what he is doing all year. And if people know ahead of time that there is a salary involved, perhaps we will have better candidates than the ones who popped up in the last election. Or, perhaps, there will be more of them.

There is another reason why students are not interested in what their student government is doing. That is, they are not AWARE of what the student government is doing.

Last spring, the ill-fated campus underground Peace ran a regular article called "Faculty Senate Watchdog," which reported all of the activities of the Faculty Senate on a regular basis. Perhaps what we need now is a "Student Senate Watchdog" in this newspaper to keep the students informed about their own government.

And then, maybe there is a slim chance we might be concerned about what is going on.

NORTHERN WOODS AND WATERS

Haunts And Lairs Of The Experts; How To Get Straight Scoop

By Butch Sapp
NEWS Outdoor Writer

Officially, trout season opened nearly two weeks ago but for all practical purposes, the fishing is just starting to be profitable. Oh sure, fish have been caught for over a month, but only by persons who knew what they were doing very well or by rank amateurs who happened to fall into some lucky circumstances.

Waters are warming up now and the fish are becoming less dormant. The rainbow runs have peaked and the specks are beginning to come to the surface. As a result, fishermen are scattering to their favorite hide-aways and are concentrating less on overcrowded, early season spots.

There is a mystique surrounding anglers and their favorite waters. By nature, most successful fishermen like to relate their experiences to their buddies. On the other hand, most of these same persons are super-paranoid about sharing their knowledge concerning the exact location of a hot stretch of stream. There is a definite fear apparent in any conversation among fishermen that, if the location of a favored beaver dam, rapids or undercut bank is given, the spot will be exploited by uninitiated meat-fishermen who don't rate the quality of fishing available there.

Fish-talk sessions, therefore, are incomplete conversations. Each participant may have his opportunity to tell of an exciting experience, but when the question of "where" is brought up, the conversation turns into a guessing game.

Ways of learning the location of secret spots are available. Occasionally, in the heat of a vivid account, the answer to "where" may be blurted out mistakenly. A celebrant angler under the influence of an intoxicating substance may be induced to reveal his cherished secret. An extremely loyal and patronizing protege may receive the blessing of such knowledge from his benevolent tutor. Threats of bodily harm seldom produce favorable results.

Perhaps the most used method is the offering of a trade. One fisherman will write down the location of his favorite hole while another does the same. At the same instant, the papers are passed across the table and both parties memorize the location. The papers are then eaten, burned ceremoniously, or otherwise destroyed so no undeserving eye may peruse such sacred material. Security is maintained at all times.

Why Black Culture?

We bear witness to a profound change in the way we now see ourselves and the world. And this has been an ongoing change. A steady, certain march toward a collective sense of who we are, and what we must now be about to liberate ourselves. Liberation is impossible if we fail to see ourselves in more positive terms. For without a change of vision, we are slaves to the oppressor's ideas and values—ideas and values that finally attack the very core of our existence. Therefore, we must see the world in terms of our own realities.

Black Power, in its most fundamental sense, stands for the principle of Self-Definition and Self-Determination. Black Power teaches us that we must have ultimate control over our own lives. It teaches us that we must make a place on this earth for ourselves, and that we must construct, through struggle, a world that is capable with our highest visions.

Along with the Black Power movement, there has been developing a movement among Black artists. The movement we call the Black Arts. It is primarily concerned with the cultural and spiritual liberation of Black America. It takes upon itself the task of expressing, through various art forms, the Soul of the Black Nation. And like the Black Power movement, it seeks to define the world of art and culture in its own terms. The Black Arts movement, therefore, reasons that this link, in a highly conscious manner, art and politics in order to assist is the liberation of black people.

The Black Arts movement preaches that liberation is inextricably bound up with politics and culture. The culture gives us a revolutionary moral vision and a system of value and a methodology around which to shape the political movement. When we say "culture," we do not merely mean artistic form. We mean instead, the values, the life styles, and the feelings of the people as expressed in everyday life.

Black people, you are Black Art. You are the poem, as Ameer Baraka teaches us. You are Dahamey simile. You are slave ship and field holler. You are Blues and Gospel and, Be-Bop and New Music. You are Carolyn's poem, and Eleo Pamari's dance. You are Buddy Bolden's memory; you heard him play in Funky Butt Hall and in Congo Square. You are both memory and flesh.

Black Liberation to you Baby. Hey Now.

MEET THIS AFTERNOON

Track Team Home; Fresh From Victory

Northern Michigan's track team, fresh from a sweeping 119-29 victory over Lake Superior State last Saturday in Sault Ste. Marie, makes its first home appearance of the season this afternoon hosting that school and St. Norbert in a triangular event.

The event this afternoon is slated to get underway at 1 p.m. at Memorial Field. This home appearance represents the halfway mark of the season for the NMU thinclads.

The NMU field and track team was in Houghton yesterday where they took part in the annual Michigan Tech Invitational.

In action last weekend at Lake Superior State, despite the adverse weather conditions, one NMU varsity record was broken when Scott Hempsted ran the 440 yard intermediate hurdles in :58.8 to chop eight-tenths of a second off the former mark.

Twenty-one Wildcats shared in the scoring, one of the highest dual meet totals ever recorded by Northern, as coach Pat Arsenault's squad placed first in 15 of the meet's 17 events.

Double winners were weightman Pat Egan in the shot put and discus, sprinter Johnny Hutton who won the 100 yard dash and tied in the 220, John Vardigan who won the pole vault and shared the 220 with Hutton and LSSC's Brad Shouldice who copped both hurdles events.

The Hutton-Vardigan dead heat was the result of an error in laying out the 220 course. It was discovered after the race that the event had been run 240 yards.

Shouldice was the day's leading scorer with 14 points while Vardigan led NMU with 11½ by placing in four events. Hutton had 10½, Egan scored 10, and Hempsted, Mike Burke, and Tim Foley, who

Golfers In Lansing For Meet

Northern Michigan golfers (out to improve their 1-2 dual competition record,) are in Lansing this weekend to take part in the annual Michigan State Invitational.

Gil Canale's linksters won a 16 stroke decision over St. Norbert at the Brown County Country Club last week to gain their first victory of the 1970 season.

Junior Russ Herron led the 422-438 win with an 81 as he put together nine-hole rounds of 41 and 40. Freshman Don Fuller had an 82 and senior Dave Koskey an 83.

Rounding out the Wildcat scoring were a pair of 88s by freshman Matt Pinter of Ypsilanti and junior Ron Gilkey of Marion, Ind., both making their first appearances of the season.

St. Norbert's Greg Befera was medalist for the dual meet with a 79.

Northern, now 1-2 in dual competition, is idle until May 8, when coach Gil Canale's linksters take part in the annual Michigan State Invitational at East Lansing.

also won four places, each had eight.

"There were some very pleasant surprises in spite of the bad weather," commented Thinclad coach Pat Arsenault. "I was greatly pleased with the improvement of our distance runners who have progressed well in the past two weeks."
