Barry Notes State Police Recruit Drive

With the opening of a State Police recruiting drive, Sgt. Grant C. Barry, commanding officer of the Marquette post, is urging young men to call at the post to inquire about this career and the new advantages of a five-day week and a higher pay scale. "This is the first recruiting drive since 1960 and is being conducted in connection with a training school scheduled this fall," Barry said. "It is an opportunity that should not be passed up because of the many advantages and benefits of being a state police officer. But candidates must act now, because applications for this school must be turned in or postmarked by mid-night July 28." Young men between 21 and 29 years of age, married or single, not less than five feet 10 inches in height and with a high school education or its equivalent are eligible to apply. They may call at the Marquette post for details and application blanks or write to the Michigan Civil Service Commission at Lansing. In addition to the new shorter five-day week, the recruit receives a starting salary of $191 biweekly, with step increases up to $7,200 annually in the trooper rank alone. Given Subsistence He also receives a daily subsistence allowance, longevity pay, paid vacations and paid sick leave, opportunity for promotions with higher pay, and other benefits. At the end of 25 years of service he is eligible to retire on a pension of one half his pay and if his wife survives him she receives the same pension, so the security problem is solved. National Reputation "This is, as I said, a fine and interesting career with varied work," Barry said. "Young men should apply now while positions are open and remember, applications for this school must be turned in or postmarked by mid-night July 28. "The state police ranks as one of the finest in the country with not only a state, but a national and international reputation and the members are proud of their department and their associates. Ishpeming's Blue Notes Win State Championship

L'Anse Golden Eagles Take Second Place

ISHPEMING — The Ishpeming Blue Notes Drum and Bugle Corps are the 1963 state champions as a result of their brilliant performance in Detroit yesterday.

Topping the large field of competitors by a point spread of 4.3, the Blue Notes staged a big surprise by defeating the second place L'Anse Golden Eagles by such a large margin. The Golden Eagles were the defending champions.

Placing third was Detroit. Menominee was fourth.

The Blue Notes, who won the preliminary competition at Mackenzie Field in Detroit yesterday morning, performed even better in the afternoon to win the state's highest honor in drum and bugle corps competition.

Parade Tomorrow Night

The American Legion Post 58-sponsored unit will be greeted tomorrow night by its "feeder corps" and the Blue Notes' many fans in Ishpeming.

A parade is being planned today for tomorrow night, starting at the American Legion building. From there the parade will proceed north on Pine St., east on Division to the city square on the corner of Main and Cleveland Ave.

At the city square the Blue Notes' feeder corps will play a short concert.

To Lead Detroit Parade

The Parents Club of the Blue Notes was to meet this afternoon to work out details for a big welcome for the champions.

In Detroit today the Ishpeming Blue Notes have the honor of leading Detroit's largest parade of the year through a large section of the city.

In bringing back the honor, the Blue Notes, by their spectacular exhibition in the statewide competition, have kept Ishpeming in the state's spotlight.

The Blue Notes' performances completed last year when Joe Paul of Ishpeming was elected state commander of the American Legion. Then, just a few days ago, Kathy McLaughlin of Ishpeming was elected Miss Michigan, putting Ishpeming on the map with brains, beauty and talent.

Officers said the driver cut to the left in an attempt to avoid the accident but his car hit the deer anyway.

The right front of Pope's 1963 convertible was damaged and the vehicle was driven from the scene under its own power.

The carcass of the deer was turned over to the Michigan Department of Conservation for disposal.

Two Vehicles Involved In Tilden Crash

ISHPEMING — Two vehicles were involved, but no one was injured, in a traffic mishap which occurred at 4:25 Thursday afternoon on County Road PPZ, 10 feet north of the Drake Lake Rd., in Tilden Township.

State police said a car being driven northwest on Road PPZ by Donald W. Mattson, 32, RFDX 1, Ishpeming, was struck by an oncoming truck operated by Herbert Romback, 52, Princeton, as the drivers came into a sharp curve in a narrow section of the roadway.

Attempt To Avoid Crash

Officers said Mattson saw he wasn't going to have room to pass by and had backed up onto the bank. Romback drove off the right side of the roadway, they added, but the left rear wheel of his truck struck the left front of Mattson's car, a 1963 coach, in passing.

Apparently no damage resulted to the truck. Both vehicles were driven from the scene under their own power.

STEPS

You can't see any farther ahead from the second step than you could from the first. But you know you are closer to the top.

And that very aptly describes one aspect of man's quest for spiritual understanding.

ONE SUNDAY IN CHURCH DOESN'T MAKE US CHRISTIANS. And sometimes a month of Sundays finds us still struggling with doubts and wrestling with temptations. Prayers don't always seem to have been answered. And parts of the Bible may constantly baffle us.

But the truth of the matter is that every spiritual step we take is exactly that — a step. It may leave our perspective unchanged for the moment. But it is bringing us closer to that higher level of life from which man's vision enlarges.

Until we reach life's spiritual crest, the most important step is always the NEXT. Join the millions who'll climb a little closer to the summit Sunday.

4-H Conservation Club Members Gather At Chatham

Nearly half of the Upper Peninsula becomes an outdoor laboratory each year as the 150 top-ranking 4-H conservation club members from throughout the state are bussed to Michigan State University's Camp Shaw near Chatham. One of the arts they learn is fly fishing, taught by Camp Manager Les Latvala (above) of Chatham.

Between lectures and field trips, campers have ample time to use the camp's recreational facilities, which include an archery range, rifle range, volley ball courts and horseshoe pitching courts.

On a side trip to the Seney National Wildlife Refuge, group of 4-H conservation club members saw this Canada goose giving her goslings swimming lessons. Other trips were taken this year to the Forest Lake Reservoir in Alger County, the Munising Paper Co. Mill, Upper Peninsula Experimental Forest at Duques, the Marquette area shoreline, Republic Mine and the Cusino Wildlife Experiment Station. The conservation camp and the Upper Peninsula 4-H Club Week (July 22-26) are the two large camping sessions scheduled at Camp Shaw this year. Later this summer (Aug. 4-10) Camp Shaw will be site of annual teachers' conservation scholarship school, which attracts teachers from both Peninsulas. Scholarships are provided by sportsmen's groups, garden clubs, civic organizations and others. The many new and improved county camps in the Upper Peninsula, however, have reduced use of Camp Shaw by youth and adult groups, MSU officials stated.

Waterfowl Population Looks Better In U. S., Canadian Nesting Area

Waterfowl numbers and nesting conditions have taken a general turn for the better in breeding grounds of Canada and the northern United States, but continuing summer rains are needed to bring off a successful hatch of young birds. The cautiously-optimistic report comes from the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, summing up extensive ground and aerial surveys carried out in the prairie pothole country of North America this spring.

Survey crews noted more potholes than a year ago in the continent's so-called "duck factory," but a high percentage of these water areas were shallow and of low quality. Waterfowl breeding populations showed slight to moderate increases over 1962 in most areas. Canada's grassland areas in southern Alberta and Saskatchewan are still suffering from the drought which has plagued the prairie pothole country for several seasons. However, in the Dakotas and western Minnesota, prospects for duck production are the best in many years.

Hare Clubs In U.P. Schedule Five Events

Five events are on the late summer and early fall schedule of field trials for Northern Michigan Hare Association member clubs, according to E. C. Vickstrom, secretary of the Ishpeming Beagle Club. The events start with the Marquette Beagle Club's ninth annual AKC licensed hare trial, Aug. 17-18. This will be followed by the Ishpeming Beagle Club's 23rd annual AKC licensed hare trial, Aug. 24-25; the 26th annual AKC licensed hare trial of the Lake Superior Beagle Club, Chassell, Aug. 31-Sept. 1; the 13th annual AKC licensed hare trial of the Gogebic Range Beagle Club, Ironwood, Sept. 7-8, and the second annual AKC licensed hare trial of the Cherryland Beagle Club, Traverse City, Sept. 14-15.

Imprinted Goslings, Crows At Seney Tame As Chickens

Andrew White, parasitologist for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has 14 goslings and two crows walking in his footsteps at the Seney National Wildlife Refuge. They're so close to him, in fact, that they walk all around him and are a work problem. They amaze and delight tourists, as they follow him in the national bird sanctuary. Study Of Disease. The goslings and crows were imprinted to White in an annual procedure in which the first thing the gosling see, in the few hours after birth, becomes their "parent." Thus White and tourists at the big wildlife refuge are "parents" for the birds.

White is making of diseases affecting the birds, particularly leucocytoson, a blood disease nearly always fatal in geese. Fortunately, only three or four died from it at Seney this year, White said. Michigan Water Weeds

Rare is the Michigan lake, especially in the southern part of the state, that doesn't have aquatic weeds. Here are some of the common water plants which are much discussed and cursed by shoreline owners and fishermen in Michigan. They can be a downright nuisance to swimmers and boaters, or provide a good fishing spot to the delight of anglers. When and where these weeds become too thick, however, they lead to lake management problems by promoting overpopulations of stunted panfish. There are two approaches to controlling water weeds--both effective, both with drawbacks. Mechanical control can be done by using a floating sickle-bar type of mower, by drawing a pipe covered with barbed wire through the weeds, or by raking aquatic plants loose. Chemical control is a more ticklish proposition because it can pose dangers to public health, fish and wildlife. That's why permits are required from the Conservation Department for some types of chemical treatment. Before starting a "de-weeding" project this summer, it would be wise to check with the Department's fish division at Lansing for permits, lists of safe aquatic herbicides, and more detailed information on control measures.

Quick Shots

While casting for pike, a Crystal Falls angler hooked a submerged beaver instead of the other day and had a heated battle until the line broke. The beaver then emerged from the water with the fisherman's spoon attached to the side of its head.

Fire Officer Cecil Taylor of Paradise in Chippewa County found a ruffed grouse lying on the ground outside the conservation department equipment station after it had flown into a window there. He picked the bird up, whereupon it revived, and he released it.

William L. Daoust, chief of the conservation department's geological survey division since 1954, has announced he will retire Aug. 10 because of poor health. His retirement will end a career in state service which started 39 years ago.

James Huffman of Menominee uses his noon lunch hour for fishing off the lower swing-bridge over the Menominee River. It paid off the other day when he landed two carp, a 25-pounder and then a whopping 40-pounder. It took Huffman about 20 minutes to land his 40-pounder, and he had to fight it to the shore to land it.

Fred Dahl of the U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries is conducting a pilot study in Les Cheneaux waters of Mackinac County to evaluate the chemical sea lamprey control method. He is using an electronic beam trawl which causes young lampreys to leave their burrows on the bottom of the lake to become captured in nets, giving Dahl an estimate of the number of lampreys in the area.

Sports fishermen whose hooks caught in a gill net apparently abandoned in Little Bay de Noc waters in Delta County reported the net was filled with dead and decomposing fish. "There must have been several hundred fish in the part of the net that was raised after our hooks were caught," said Firman Bishop of the Stonington Peninsula.

"It seems a shame this should happen when sports fishermen are talking about how pleased they would be to make a good catch now and then."

Lake trout trolling and bobbing has been fair to good in L'Anse and Keweenaw Bays recently. Some fish have been taken in the five to six-pound class, and one area fisherman took seven by bobbing one day this week.

William Munro of DeTour in Chippewa County landed a 22-pound, 50-inch muskellunge while fishing off DeTour recently.

Marquette Shooter Wins Distinguished Expert Medal

David Henry Vallar of 233 Baraga Ave., Marquette, became one of America's top riflemen when he was awarded the Distinguished Expert Medal, highest rifle qualification award in the nation, the National Rifle Association announced. The shoot high ranking shooter had the new hundreds of targets over a period of several months and climb through 14 lower qualification NRA ratings. Vallar is a member of the Marquette Rod and Gun Club, whose instructors are Walter Nuska and Wayne R. Schwenke.

Crop Damage Brings Death To Eight Deer

Henry Trudell, who operates a farm near Hermansville, has killed eight deer so far this summer after receiving permission to shoot deer which have been damaging his 30-acre oat field. Conservation Officer Gerald Welling of Hermansville said all of the deer that have been killed under permit from the conservation department by Trudell have been dressed out and turned over to public institutions for meals. It was estimated that between 14 and 25 per cent of Trudell's oat crop was nipped clean by deer.

U.P. Leads In Archery Deer Hunt Success

Archery deer hunting success in the Upper Peninsula was vastly better last year than in the Lower Peninsula, according to a tally by the conservation department. Almost 11 per cent--10.9, to be exact--of archers who hunted above the Straits last fall killed a deer. This compares with a 4.8 per cent success ratio in the northern Lower Peninsula and 2.5 in the southern Lower Peninsula.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST

CAMPERS WILL FIND THAT A LARD CAN MAKES A SUITABLE REFLECTOR-TYPE OVEN. PLACE BISCUITS OR WHATEVER YOU ARE BAKING ON THE CAN'S LID AND THRUST IT SIDEWAYS INTO THE CAN. THEN LAY THE CAN ON 2 SHORT LOGS, BETWEEN WHICH A FIRE HAS BEEN BUILT. PROP 1 OR 2 BLAZING LOGS TO FACE THE CAN'S OPEN END. USE LID AS A SKILLET, ALSO! GIVING SLACK LINE IN SPIN-FISHING. PICKUP OPEN. WHEN A GAME FISH TAKES A MINNOW OR OTHER BAIT AND RUNS, GIVE HIM SLACK LINE SO HE FEELS NO RESISTANCE BEFORE HE STOPS TO SWALLOW IT. THE REEL'S PICKUP IS USUALLY CLOSED (ENGAGING LINE) WHEN BAIT IS TAKEN, SO YOU MUST PULL OFF SOME SLACK LINE QUICKLY BY HAND, OR FLIP PICKUP OPEN SO THE LINE SPIRALS OUT. CLOSE PICKUP AGAIN TO SET HOOK AFTER FISH STOPS. SOME REELS HAVE RAIL PICKUPS THAT OPEN AUTOMATICALLY WHEN CRANKED IN REVERSE--THEY FREE LINE INSTANTLY.

Strange Squirrel Act

Dear Sir: This is something that might interest the sportsman and bird lover alike. I had never heard of, or seen, anything like this before in 23 years in the great outdoors. At a camp here in Chocoley Township we noticed all the bird families busy building nests. We knew of one robin's nest under the eaves of an old shed. Another nest was built about 14 feet off the ground in a maple crotch by the porch of the camp. The robins were happy with their homes and we were glad that we would soon see the young ones around and be able to watch the parent birds teach them to eat and fly, as we have witnessed before. One day I noticed the robins' nest under the eaves of the old shed was not occupied, and the eggs were gone. I still am not certain what happened. Apparently, their young hatched and we were unaware of it. One day last week there was an awful commotion outside, and upon investigating, we found Mother and Father robin diving at something in the grass. There we saw a horrible sight. A red squirrel had a baby robin by the bill and was eating it alive. I chased the squirrel away, but he tried to fight me and didn't want to leave. The little robin's bill and legs had been severed and it soon died. I found another little robin under the maple the same way, dead with part of its head eaten away. I noticed the mother was still sitting on the nest, so I knew she had a baby left. The squirrel returned that afternoon, and I chased him away again. He came back toward evening, while I was in camp. I saw the parent robins fighting something by their nest, and there was Mr. Red Squirrel pulling the last of the babies out of the nest. By the time we shook him out of the tree, the robin was dead. Why didn't I shoot the red squirrel? Well, I didn't have a gun. But, do you know where I'm going to be this fall? Yes, you guessed it, out there in those woods trying to get my share of those innocent looking little red squirrels. I have found since that time and ground squirrels also eat their share of young birds. And, Mr. Deer Hunter, have you ever been posting for deer in squirrel territory? They'll make you a nervous wreck. MRS. TED HALVORSEN 2100 Longyear Ave. Marquette

Large Numbers Of Sea Gulls Die In Menominee County

For the second consecutive year, large numbers of dead sea gulls have been found along the shore of Green Bay in Menominee County. Conservation department biologists are speculating that the die-off may be caused either by consumption of rat poison or by botulism. It may be that the gulls have been feeding in dumps where rat poison has been spread or they may have been victims of botulism, a disease which usually strikes during periods of dry, hot weather where low water levels leave mud flats exposed to feeding birds. Botulism is caused by a chemical toxin which is produced in the soil and mud by small organisms. When the toxin is consumed by birds, they become weakened, lose their muscle coordination and literally waste away. In order to test for poisoning, however, biologists must examine carcasses soon after death occurs.
