TWO BABIES ARE CREMATED IN A FIRE AT KIPPLING

TOTS LOCK THEMSELVES IN ROOTHOUSE AND SET FIRE TO BUILDING

Escape out off by a sheet of flame... The fire lasted but a half hour and when it had been brought under control, the bodies of the children, burned to a crisp and unrecognizable, were taken from the shack.

Children Got Matches

It appears that the children came into possession of some matches and then went to the root house to play. There, a quantity of vegetables and potatoes had been stored with straw and it is assumed that the little folks managed to ignite this straw, being innocent of their peril. The door of the root house closed behind them as they entered and the mother did not notice them. It is also apparent that once inside the house, the children in some way drew the bolt and were securely locked in when their fate leaped upon them.

Smoke issuing from the root house attracted the attention of Mrs. Flory and at the same time she heard the frenzied shrieks of the imprisoned children. With the strength of a mad woman she battered down the heavy door, only to be driven back by the sheet of flame which sprang out and all but enveloped her. Several attempts to enter the house failed.

Father Plunges into Flames

Neighbors knew the situation almost instantly and Mr. Flory came running from his work to plunge into the fiery caldron despite protests of friends. Stumbling and groping about inside in the smoke and fire, he fell over the body of one of the children, carried it out and returned for the other, never stopping to see whether the first child was still alive. The little one was dead—burned to a pitiable blackened, crisped mass. On his second trip the father was driven from the burning building without finding the body of the second child, but he remained inside until he was severely burned about the face and arms.

By this time neighbors had come in sufficient numbers to extinguish the blaze and it was then that the body of the second child, its lifeless little hands still clutching a tiny bit of straw was discovered. Both parents were almost frantic with grief.

No Inquest Necessary

Coroner Bjorkman was summoned and viewed the remains. He decided no inquest was necessary and the bodies were taken in charge of the undertaker.

Today the little bodies, both in one casket, were returned to the stricken home in Kipling and funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, Rev. O. J. Bennett of St. Sain's church officiating.

The circumstances of the most tragic in recent history in this section and the sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved and grief-stricken parents.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR CORNERSTONE CEREMONY HERE

LADIES OF PARISH PREPARE A TEMPTING MENU FOR GREAT SUPPER

Elaborate arrangements have been completed by the ladies of All Saints' parish for the big chicken supper to be served Sunday evening following the ceremonies incident to the laying of the cornerstone of the new church. A detailed program of which appeared in Monday's Reporter.

The ladies have prepared to feed at least 500 persons. This feature of the day's observance is in charge of a committee of which Mrs. Joseph Brugg is chairman. All of them have worked diligently and the result will be a great success, it is believed.

Mail Is Decorated

The parish hall is being appropriately decorated by the Girls' club and the ladies of the parish and here the general public will be served. Arrangements have been made for serving Bishop Eke and the visiting clergy in one of the rooms at the school building.

A charge of $1.00 a plate for adults, and 50 cents for children under 10 years of age will be made.

The following menu has been prepared:

Fried Chicken	Boiled Ham

ARMISTICE DAY PLANS INDICATE GLORIOUS TIME

FINAL TOUCHES TO BE GIVEN TO ARRANGEMENTS AT MON. DAY MEETING

With the exception of a few final touches to be put on arrangements for the observance of Armistice Day in this city, an important meeting will be held Monday evening, everything is now in readiness for what promises to be one of the greatest celebrations the city has ever seen.

Officials have been appointed to look after every detail. Reception committees will meet incoming delegations and they will be cared for in royal style during the day. Word received yesterday indicates that the vacant lot at the corner of N. Main, Rapid River, Perkins, Brandon, Isabella and many other outlying towns, will send representatives to the big party.

The parade in the morning will be one of the features. Governor Sleeper has issued a proclamation making it a holiday and it is desired that every patriotic citizen display the national colors.

"Flags, Lots of Flags"

"Lots of flags, that's what we want shown," explained Commander Dayton of the local post today. "We want people to use the national colors in decorating, but we especially desire to see an abundance of flags flying on the main street and we hope the business houses will be in gala attire on this occasion," Mr. Dayton said.

A great day of entertainment has been provided for the visitors. The vacant lot at the corner of Delta avenue and Tenth street promises to be a miniature midway if the weather be at all favorable, as many concessions have been granted and there will be in gala attire on this occasion," Mr. Dayton said.

In the afternoon a great football game is to be staged at the Gladstone park and following this the Legion men and one hundred or more business men will partake of a great banquet to be served at Wassa hall by the ladies of the Auxiliary to the Legion. Neither organization has spared time or effort or expense in preparing this feature of the day's entertainment. It is going to be a turkey feed without a parallel in the history of this city and the women of the Auxiliary putting in long hours now in preparation for the event.

Escanaba Military Band

The Escanaba Military Band has been secured to furnish music and lead the parade. The band will be on duty all day long and at noon a one hour concert is to be given at Ninth and Delta avenue. The band also will furnish music at the banquet, as also will a local orchestra and a quartet from Nahma.

In the evening a monster military ball is to be put on in the Gladstone opera house and this will be the cap sheaf on a day of events which it is believed will go down in local history as being without a precedent.

Prominent Speakers

The two prominent speakers at the banquet will be T. M. Judson, of Escanaba, Chairman of the Delta County War Relief Association, and E. J. Willman, Superintendent of the Gladstone schools, who was just recently elected president of the Upper Peninsula Educational Association. Supplementing these two who will make set speeches, will be a number of others including local men of prominence and some of the visiting Legion men.

A message was received today which indicates that the boys will have received their issue of army rifles in time for use in the parade. This means a don't rifle to be used by the color guard and firing squad, the rifles being issued for use on occasions of this kind and at military funerals.

It is going to be a great day and all citizens are asked to get in tune with the spirit of the occasion and help make it what it really should be.

Slightly improved
Mrs. John Peeney who became very suddenly ill a week ago is reported slightly improved today.

Our Next President

GROSBECK IS STILL GAINING OVER OPPONENT

FERRIS DEFEATED BY VOTE OF MORE THAN TWO TO ONE

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 4—Michigan had given Senator Harding a lead of 496,715 over Governor Cox, polled up a majority of 353,413 for Alex. J. Grosbeck, republican candidate for governor, and elected republicans to all the state seats in congress on the face of returns today.

Substantial majorities were also given republican candidates for state offices and the legislature.

The vote for president in 2,919 precincts out of 2,781 was:

Harding	565,432
Cox	154,713
For governor, 2,927 precincts gave:
Grosbeck	561,751
Ferris	228,338

Returns from 1,841 precincts gave a vote of more than two to one against a constitutional amendment which would in effect abolish parochial and private schools.

Returns from the mining region of the northern peninsula swelled Grosbeck's plurality.

Republican aspirants to state offices below that of governor had a lead of five votes to one in the first precinct to report a precinct in Ottawa county. A precinct in Calkaska county, the first to announce returns, gave 20 votes to each republican office seeker below that of governor and five votes to each democrat. A precinct in Sanilac county gave the republican state ticket about 14 votes to 1.

Returns indicate the election of the upstate republican congressmen.

IRON MOUNTAIN TEAM COMES HERE TO BATTLE WITH LEGION SUNDAY

The next to the last football game of the season will be staged at the Gladstone ball park Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock between the local American Legion team and the husky Iron Mountain aggregation Iron Mountain was said to have one of the strongest teams in the upper peninsula, and the way the locals walked into Monday last Sunday is pretty fair evidence that a great struggle can confidentially be expected.

The victory last Sunday gave the boys a lot of new confidence and they have shown marked improvement in their nightly workouts this week. It is not likely that the locals will meet Escanaba either here or in Escanaba this season. Negotiations did not reach concrete form previous to the Iron Mountain game and it is doubtful whether the locals will play any other game this year except the big Armistice Day battle.

No Council Quorum

The regular meeting of the city council was not held Monday night because of the lack of a quorum. Due to the unpropitious weather and pressing business and political affairs which prevented several members from appearing.

HARDING AND COOLIDGE RIDE TO VICTORY ON AN UNPRECEDENTED WAVE

Chicago, Nov. 4.—As election returns continue to be assembled it becomes more apparent each hour that the Republican landslide is one of the greatest in the history of this nation. Harding's plurality today seems destined to rest between 5,000,000 and 5,000,000. The coast is now swept in without precedent and carries with it assurance of a healthy Republican house and senate. It was unofficially estimated today that Senator Harding and Governor Coolidge will have at least 250 electoral votes. Champ Clark, speaker of the house was caught in the Republican deluge and swept into political oblivion.

Fuller Paid Another High Compliment By State Of Michigan

Votes from all parts of Michigan show the overwhelming victory secured by Oramel B. Fuller for auditor general of Michigan. High in the interest of election was the race of Mr. Fuller, a former Delta County man who made his early home at Ford River.

At no time in the race from the period of first record until the late ballots were received this afternoon was there a question in Mr. Fuller's election.

Altho getting in the path of the Republican landslide the popular candidate ran far ahead of his ticket in many places. Very few votes were reported.

LOCAL VOTING SPIRITED AND SHY CONFUSION

G. O. P. NATIONAL AND STATE CANDIDATES GIVEN FINE MAJORITIES

The largest vote ever recorded in Gladstone was polled at Tuesday's election. A total of 1275 ballots were cast, which is more than twice as many as ever were cast before on a similar election. This, of course, is due to the large number of women who exercised the right of suffrage for the first time. The ladies waded into the political pool without fear and boldly strode forth to record their choice for the various offices for which they are permitted to vote. And to their credit, it may be said that it took them no longer in the booths than to look max men. They seemed to have had their minds made up and voted that way. Also the result shows that the women of this city were strongly in favor of Senator Harding for the presidency.

Delay in Fourth

Some delay was reported down in the fourth ward where a number of voters were compelled to wait for long periods before being able to cast their ballots, but as a general proposition, the election passed off more smoothly than had been anticipated in view of the increased number of votes to be cast.

Returns from the first ward were in shortly after 8 o'clock, 223 votes being polled there. The second reporting finished about 11 o'clock and the fourth finished about 11 o'clock with 352. The third, the largest ward in the city, did not finish the count until 12:30 when the ballots had been cast.

On the head of the ticket, national and state, the following results were shown:

First Ward	Harding 121, Cox 81, Grosbeck 144, Ferris 60.
Second Ward	Harding 214, Cox 57, Grosbeck 201, Ferris 35.
Third Ward	Harding 201, Cox 62, Grosbeck 201, Ferris 62.
Fourth Ward	Harding 186, Cox 115, Grosbeck 224, Ferris 95.

In the exchange of telegrams between Senator Harding and Governor Cox no words were wasted on either side.

"In the spirit of America," telegraphed the governor, "I accept the decision of the majority, tender as the result candidly my congratulations, and pledges as a citizen my support to the executive authority in whatever emergency might arise."

To which Senator Harding replied: "As the successful candidate I thank you for your message of congratulation and pledge of support."

RAILS SHOWING BIG INCREASE IN EFFICIENCY

RECORD MADE DESPITE LOSS OF EQUIPMENT AND OTHER HANDICAPS

New York, Nov. 3.—Railroads of the United States are being operated at a degree of efficiency, which is the equivalent of adding 500,000 freight cars, valued at $2,000,000,000, to the nation's transportation system, as it existed on March 1 last when Federal control came to an end.

Definite figures to confirm this statement were read to more than 100 railroad executives who met yesterday at the New Haven board room to hear reports, to discuss results of private operation, and to agree on a policy regarding section 592 of the transportation act, which deals with relations between the management and labor. The executives themselves were amazed to find so great an improvement in operation as compared with the days of Government operation and the report of the committee which deals with such matters was received with applause.

Conditions Improved

At the end of Federal control, the average number of miles per car per day was 22.2, and the average tonnage of such car was 28.3. On September 1 the average number of miles per car per day was 27.4 and the average tonnage of such car was 29.6. Translated by railroad experts into terms of efficiency, the gain in car movement alone was 23.34 per cent, and this was topped by a gain of more than 7 per cent, in capacity loading. As there are in use in the United States at present 2,550,000 freight cars, it was made clear at once to the executives that such a growth in efficiency had added as a minimum the equivalent of 500,000 cars to the service of the shippers of the United States and the saving at $4,000 a car in capital requirements, was no less than $2,000,000,000.

One of the executives present raised the point that the roads must have had more cars to work with than the number available for the United States Railroad Administration under Federal control, but the figures presented showed that during February last there were in use 2,490,000 freight cars and that on September 1 last there were in service 2,550,000 cars, some 135,000 freight cars having been scrapped since March 1, although portions of such cars may be used for rebuilding purposes.

In other words, the railroads have been carrying since May 1 a tremendous amount of traffic with fewer cars than were available prior to the resumption of private operation. At the same time it was pointed out that not until September 1 were the railroads able to break even on bad order cars, and that by the end of that month the reduction in the number of bad order cars had been reduced only a few tenths of 1 per cent.

An authorized statement says: "The traffic has been the heaviest in the history of the railroads, heavier even than it was at the height of the war movement in 1918. The railroads have been confronted with the task of moving this traffic with facilities and equipment admittedly inadequate, but the traffic has been moved."

That Would Be Enough

A gentleman took his little daughter to a toy shop to buy her a doll. "Now, what sort of a doll would you like, my dear?" said he, as a large assortment was placed on the counter by the shopman. After some hesitation the little girl replied: "I think I'll have twins, please."

BREITUNG MINE PROPERTY WILL BE DEVELOPED

IMPORTANT CHANGE MADE IN DIRECTORATE OF BIG IRON COMPANY

A business development of great importance and interest in iron mining circles, specialists in Marquette county, was brought to light Wednesday with the announcement of changes in the official personnel of the Marquette Iron company, its subsidiary the Marquette Ore company and Breitung & Company Inc., of New York City. The changes were effective Nov. 1.

Probably the most important change in the election to the presidency of the Marquette Iron company of John W. Dougherty, prominent eastern mining expert and metallurgical engineer. Another important change is the election of John W. Peddie, New York banker, as president of Breitung & Company, Inc., which was organized a few weeks ago. Mr. Peddie recently resigned as vice president of the Garfield National bank of New York City, to become president of Breitung & Company, Inc. Mr. Dougherty, in addition to being president of the Marquette Iron company, becomes a director of Breitung & Company, Inc. C. B. Dupier, of Cleveland, whose headquarters were formerly in Marquette, is general manager of the Marquette Ore company, which will succeed E. N. Breitung & Company in the sale of iron ore.

Will Develop Property With these changes, which place the administration of the three companies in the hands of men of wide experience and prominence in the mining and financial world, it is expected that much will be done to develop and improve the Marquette Iron company's properties in the Mesabi area with a view to increasing production and sale of ore.

EXPERT TELLS ABOUT SUCCESSFUL WAY FOR PICKING OUT EMPLOYEE

There was a time when picking employees was a hit-and-miss job, a trial and error matter which few employers believed could be corrected. This is the day of doing things right and the modern employer is now selecting his associates, from the office boy to the man highest up, with as much care as he would launch on an entirely new business venture. William Marvin Jackson, director of the Personnel Development service, writes:

"If employees are carefully selected with an eye to their real adaptability and fitness for the work to be done, it goes without question that they are much more likely to take an interest in their work, and hence, the business itself. If they are interested, they will get along well with their superiors. All of which means that they will grow, and there is no satisfaction for the employer greater than that which accompanies the knowledge that he is getting somewhere. Pating him on the back may make him feel good, and paying him a good salary may make him work harder. But giving him a new job and bigger job will alone make him supremely happy, will alone make him work with complete abandon, with thoroughgoing enthusiasm." - Forbes Magazine.

Canadian Whiskey Bound In Pigskin

Canada is no oasis in the American fish and illicit trafficking is being developed into a fine art. All manner of clever dodges are resorted to by the whiskey runners, possibly one of the most original being the shipment of a large consignment of liquor packed in the carcasses of pigs. The liquor was discovered by officers as the "pork" was being unladen from the freight cars.

AERIAL METHODS TO BE CHANGED

RADIO INVENTION TO LOCATE PLANES IN FLIGHT AND FIX DIRECTION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—Discovery of a new method of sending and receiving radio messages, which is expected to revolutionize the methods now used, is announced by Major General George C. Squires, chief of the United States signal corps.

Discussing some of the powers of the new invention the scientists list the following: It is possible to locate an airplane in flight, to tell the direction of the flight, to tell how high it is flying and to tell by the use of two coils and mathematical deductions the distance of the airplane from the wave coils.

To use the instruments as range finders and in the same manner they are used for accurate finding. To receive and send radio messages from airplanes without trailing wires now used.

To reduce greatly static interference. To so "indirect" the instrument, both for receiving and sending of messages, as to preclude anyone not directly in line of flight of the message from receiving it.

With the wave coils, the soldier of the future can carry a plant on his shoulders with the ease that he carries a blanket roll now, can secrete himself in a shell hole and have a wireless survey of the front and of the rear.

Kipling Party Tips Over But Is Unhurt

A car owned and driven by Joseph Rossman, of Kipling, was turned over at the turn south of the Wells crossing between Wells and Escanaba Monday evening and the four occupants were held prisoners until released by passersby. Fortunately no one was injured but the car was so badly damaged it had to be towed back to Gladstone for repairs. Although they were unable to get out of the car until it had been righted, none of the party were pinned beneath it in such away as to suffer injury.

DOELLE SPEAKS ON CLOVERLAND

EMPHASIZES ITS ADVANTAGES FOR TOURING, FARMING AND INDUSTRY

John A. Doelle, secretary manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, spoke before the Calumet chamber of commerce last Thursday evening, and at the Lake Linden high school Friday morning. In both addresses Mr. Doelle emphasized the advantages of Cloverland for touring, agriculture and manufacture, pointing out the region's vast wealth in natural resources.

The Agricultural Booklet. Leo M. Geisner, agricultural agent for Houghton county and one of Cloverland's most enthusiastic "boosters", is cooperating with the officials of the Development Bureau in the composition of a new agricultural booklet, to supplement the one used for advertising purposes during the past several years.

The Development Bureau is now at work compiling the data on the tourist traffic through upper Michigan during the past season. In this connection it is asked that all hotel and garage proprietors, the secretaries of their community and heart submit to the Bureau, at Marquette, their estimate of the number of summer visitors to their city this year. This information will not only aid the Bureau in its work, but may result in a decided increase in the traffic next year. Shopkeepers, too, can assist by submitting an estimate of the amount of money spent by tourists in their places of business. It is hoped, in this way, to further impress the people of upper Michigan with the actual value of the tourist business.

Needs Pictures Attention is again called to the fact that the Development Bureau is in need of good illustrations of all kinds, roads, scenery, farms, manufacturing plants, and in fact, any good descriptive views. The Bureau's publicity department is putting these illustrations to excellent use, and they are being used widely in the trade journals throughout the country.

AUXILIARY TO THE AMERICAN LEGION TO MEET THIS EVENING

An important meeting of committees representing the American Legion and the Women's Auxiliary to the Legion, will be held downstairs in the Eagles' hall at 8 o'clock this evening. It is vitally important that all members of the committees be present, as final arrangements are to be made for feeding the big crowd of Legion men and their friends here on Armistice Day.

The ladies are preparing to serve upward of 500 persons and the task is a big one. It means that there must be no hitch in the arrangements of the affair in its progress, and this, in turn, means that every person must fully understand just what he or she is expected to do.

If you are a member of either of the committees be sure and make special effort to be present at tonight's meeting.

The interesting announcement was made yesterday that information just received assures one of the best Lyceum course programs ever put on in Gladstone. Four splendid numbers already have been signed and Supt. Willman of the public schools is now negotiating for further numbers. The course will be conducted under the auspices of the local high school and the high order of its excellence goes without saying.

The courses are really too expensive for a city of this size, it was explained but it is expected that every person interested in the welfare of the local schools will support the enterprise by purchasing a ticket.

The first number is to be staged until next February but in the meantime it is hoped that local people here and in the area are so interested to help this worthy project along when the proper time comes.

Yellow Men Sleep

"Sit down and let's have your word."

"Chee Ming sank into a great padded chair and seemed lost in it, his body as frail as a child's. For a moment longer he did not speak, but seemed to be assembling his energies for the task. Levitation stood near, staring at his strange visitor.

"In a moment, they will find Fu Ah's body. Then what?"

"Chee Ming raised his hand. "You do not understand," he said with effort, the familiar twisting of his lips again a fascinating to the white man.

"Did you come alone?"

"The yellow man nodded. Levitation was not one of Chee Ming's shortcomings.

"I suppose you stabbed Pansa, too—and who else?" The visit about his head slowly, and a light was coming into his eyes. "But you were looking for your princess."

"Yes, I would have speech with her also. I do not come with a sword. I come without price. Fu Ah foolishly would not let me pass, or it would not have been necessary to release him."

"The voice, too, had undergone a change.

"How did you get away from Tan Kuan?"

"That is of no importance," said the Chinese. "It is no longer the Realm of Yellow Gods. It has become a warren of madness, a sty, a by-word along the roads of heaven. It is gone, and the hope of the world is destroyed. My work is ended, yet it is never complete. There is none to continue. My riders have formed a new camp in the South, and there still be wars. I shall never return Asia, our mother. I have not far to go. My word is but the wish of an enemy whose power you have humbled."

"What is it?"

"Do not betray the tradition of beauty and holiness into which you forced your way?"

"Betray?"

"Do not make public your knowledge. It is a sacred realm you have entered. Was it not enough for you to destroy it, to carry away its treasure, and wreck the present, without throwing into shame the great past of the empire?"

"I see what you mean," said Con, thinking of the report he had turned in thirty minutes since.

"And can you not be of large heart?"

Levitation was silent. He thought of the fanaticism, the drug, the surprising cruelty of that fallen empire, and the justice of his own mission, and was not sorry. Yet Chee Ming had come to the end, and there is a courtesy due the humbled foe. Almost inaudibly the old voice went on:

"You come of a race of merchants, a race of hirelings, having no tradition, desiring none. You lifted your mind higher than their commerce. You dared strange things, and brought them to pass. You have defied me, as none of them could imagine. Do not tell them. It is the soul of my fathers, of my kings, you would betray. Do not, I beg—"

"The ancient lined face was gray, the neck very thin, the shoulders pressing sharply through the faded robe. Save for the expanse of brow, and the deep torture in his eyes, Chee Ming might have been a beggar from the gates of Peking. There was a feverish tension about his mouth. He seemed impatient to drink Con's answer, yet half knowing it would be bitter.

"Speak," he whispered.

"Con heard steps in the hall beyond, and realized that this interview was at an end. Glancing back to Chee Ming's face, he was startled to find a look of intense supplication, the aged throat caught into silence. The eyes were pitiful. Ignoring the facts, Levitation nodded, slowly. At once the Chinese closed his eyes, wrinkled his face more tightly, then slipped forward in the chair. A line of blood dripped from one corner of his mouth. Chee Ming had lived only to receive the promise of his conqueror."

CHAPTER XVII.

The Malted Covenant.

The urgent Mrs. Ames was admitted, her rendering her speeches. Out in the vestibule, Pansa had thrown herself across the body of her brother, and yelled softly. Stephens March was hastening down stairs. Levitation explained rapidly in a low voice. "Helen must never know," he concluded. Stephens March nodded.

Together they stood for a moment in silence before the crumpled body of the grand visitor. Then Mrs. Ames went along for the heathens, since they were dead, and Con was quick to close the door, that the screams might not reach the girl in her room at the head of the stairs. He felt a peculiar warm satisfaction over the impossible promise he had given the visitor. After certain telephone business with the Chinese consul, involving two dead bodies, he went out into the garden, because he wanted to be alone.

At first he believed he would return to Donovan, but a sudden bitter memory of grasshoppers on dusty lace curtains, and loaves of cake beside the front porch, nauseated him. He realized that he had no home.

Out of the road-wisdom of the doctors, he regarded himself now. The fancies of boyhood were still with him. He had seen much, and was not satisfied.

He resolved to go to his beloved in the morning, mention his greatest and shining wish, accept inevitable defeat from her, and depart with such remnant of grace as he might retain.

Gently a hand touched his sleeve. He turned to face Helen. Her robe was pallid against the dark lawn. Amethyst of Mongolia, some dainty upon her bodice. Her eyes were staring.

"Did they permit you to come?" She thought of "Why not?" "You have not walked so far before."

"Tonight I begin, then."

His supporter's arm gently, much alarmed and elated.

"But—"

"She was magic upon him; his voice was a melody of nerves. The words walked slowly at the edge of the pond. "These many days—why have you been so silent? He glanced away to avoid her intensely inquiring eyes. "I wish to hold myself from me," she added.

His covenant with himself was dissolving, as her words swiftly altered his point of view. He recognized in Helen the Westerner, who perhaps did not so urgently need the protection of a lover's silence. She was bending toward him. The golden hair of the grass went up its fragrance.

"Why do you not tell me what is in your heart?" she insisted.

He could not say just what she had drawn so very near, nor why they seemed together, nor how his arms came to hold her fast. She caught her breath. Close to his lips, her laughter was barely audible.

"Helen—" he began.

"We must be going in," she said. THE END.

PUBLIC ROBBED OF MILLIONS BY COAL CAR PLOT

U. S. CLOSING IN ON BAND OPERATING FROM MINES TO TIDEWATER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—Department of Justice officials have information which indicates that more than thirty car distributors in different sections of the country have been receiving bribes for displacing and placing coal cars in the interest of favored corporations and individuals.

The officials are convinced that a gigantic system of graft has extended from the soft coal mines along the lines of some of the coal carrying railroads to the piers, the dumps and the tide-water piers and that there have been involved in its ramifications clerks, inspectors, dumpers and many of the minor officials of the common carriers, who are believed to have been "traced" by the illegal use of money.

Those assertions are warranted by admissions made by Gibbs L. Baker, one of the best known of attorneys who have specialized in law in its relations to coal production and traffic. Mr. Baker is general counsel to the Wholesale Coal Trade Association of the New York City. He acted also in an advisory capacity to the Association of Coal Operators of North Carolina and West Virginia, whose pledges made to the Attorney-General, committing themselves to fair dealing and the elimination of the profiteer, and graft have been made a model for operators of other parts of the country.

Graft is Colossal.—The colossal system of graft through which coal speculators have collected millions of profit at the expense of the consuming public included not only freight train conductors, division officials and local agents of the railroads at points which ordinarily would be considered of minor importance. The trail leads higher up. It is pretty well established that there has been an illicit traffic in forged car permits and preferential orders— not unlike that which has been rife in the illicit whiskey traffic conducted through forged revenue stamps and spurious permits for the removal of liquor from bond.

In certain instances it has been found, so it is said, that by the criminal process familiarly known as check raising the figures on car permits issued by authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission have been forged so as to add a round 1,000 cars in the annuals originally written. In other cases the investigators have found indisputable evidence of the common use of false permits and car assignments. There are said to be indications of collusion even in the clerical force in the office of the Interstate Commerce Commission itself. All these reports, Mr. Baker asserts, it is the fixed purpose of the Department of Justice to investigate thoroughly and to sift to the bottom.

This Means You—When you get up with a bad taste in your mouth, a dull feeling, no relief for food and are constipated, you may know that you need a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets. Twelve Cent Dress Wins Thrift Prize and probably not a record for this and a number of other states.

Miss Eunice McLane, young and pretty, looked very attractive in her gown costing a dime and two cents.

This is how she did it.

In her search for available material she found a piece of old cloth that had been used on the kitchen table for seven years. She boiled it, making it a thin, soft material, bought five cents worth of dye, and colored it pink.

Then wishing to embroder it, she had to pay seven cents for an embrodering pattern.

She used ravelings of the material to sew the dress up and the ravelings of a silk stocking to embroder it with.

Peculiar Accident
Lee W. Gordon, victim of a peculiar accident four months ago, has left the Union hospital at Ironwood to return to his home in Wascom, Gordon, and another Wascom man each suffered a fractured leg June 25 when a dead tree fell across their tent while they were asleep in the woods near Black Sliding. The tree fell in such a manner that it fractured the left leg of each man. Both men were engaged in timber craning.

Spoken on Soldiers
Sault Ste. Marie civilians, according to a soldier from the 37th Infantry, now stationed at St. Brady, look down upon the "peace time" soldier and will have nothing to do with him especially. A letter received from this soldier deprecates this apparent feeling which he has encountered in Sault Ste. Marie and elsewhere and wishes for some way to convince the public that they have a wrong opinion of a soldier.

Small Pox at Sault
There are three cases of smallpox in the Sault and two in the county, and according to Dr. J. J. Griffin, health officer, there will be more in the Sault before next week. "The cases are very mild ones," declared the health officer, "and the rumor that the schools are going to close is false." The cases are under the care of doctors now and it is expected that an epidemic can be stopped.

Farmers Organize
The farmers of Daguerre and vicinity have organized a corporation at the latter village, which is to be known as the Daguerre Farm. Their purpose is to handle their own produce and sell it direct to the consumers. The corporation is incorporated for $10,000, and no one person is allowed to own over one share, which is $100, the capital stock being already sold to 100 farmers. They will start marketing their produce as soon as the articles of incorporation arrive from Lansing.

Survey Party at Work
The work carried on by the Chippewa county survey party on the Roosevelt highway is nearing the Luce county line. The roads are now in fairly good condition but will be much better in the spring. This highway will run nearly parallel with the South Shore railroad.

Gibson Given Two Years
Edward Gibson, who was brought to the Soo recently from London Ontario, to answer to charges of stealing $467 in cash and two Liberty bonds from the home of A. M. Cobb this summer, pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny before Judge Louis H. Ford in circuit court. Gibson was sentenced to serve two years in Marquette prison but the judge declared that his term would be shortened to one year and a half providing the prisoner exhibits good behavior during his sentence.

"Must Get Back to Normal"
The Manistiquet box factory plant of the Goodwill Bros., announces that a short shut down is contemplated. It appears that this concern, in common with many others, is suffering from a slight reaction in business. Manufacturers who use its product are buying sparingly, with a view of taking advantage of possible lower prices. When asked to describe the present condition and future outlook of the box business, E. W. Goodwill stated that every indication in his opinion pointed to a readjustment of prices on commodities and costs of labor. "The manufacturers as well as the working men must come down to normal," he said.

Assured of Water
That the people of the city of Ironwood have little foundation for any misgivings that there is not sufficient water at Spring Creek to meet the demands of the city, was the gist of a statement made by a member of the board of water commissioners. Estimates made by R. L. Howson, engineer for Alvord & Burdick, who is supervising the work, recently stated that present wells indicated that a supply of a minimum of 5,000,000 gallons per day, enough for a city twice the size of Ironwood, would be available when the plant is completed about January 1, 1927. Mr. Howson is an authority on ground water supply.

NO DECLINE SEEN IN CEMENT PRICE

NOT LIKELY TO DROP UNTIL 1922 IS FORECAST OF DEALERS

Gladstone residents who contemplate building next summer, when many expect that the price of materials will have taken a considerable decline, will not be comforted with the announcement that was made through dealers handling cement that they do not look for lower prices on Portland cement before 1922.

While the cost of cement of all grades was almost prohibitive in this section during the past summer, there were few contractors who were able to obtain it at any cost. For several weeks at a time there was not a sack of cement to be had from any of the building material dealers in the county, and whenever a carload shipment did arrive it was impossible to satisfy the demand of all who wanted it.

Some of the prominent manufacturers over the country have issued statements to the effect that they do not look for any over-production of cement next year, and they consider that the possibility of a price reduction depends on the supply of coal and labor. They assert that scarcity of labor is the chief difficulty confronting cement manufacturers, and with coal prices high, costs of production have been soaring.

On account of the conditions with which they have been confronted cement plants have been operating at only part capacity since early last season, and the country's production has fallen short of requirements by a wide margin. That resulted in tying up road building projects to a great extent over the northwest, and considerable work throughout the upper peninsula and the surrounding district was held up owing to the inability of contractors to obtain any assurances regarding cement supplies.

The demand for cement this year is estimated to have been unequalled in the country's history, but owing to the shortage of cars the mills were unable to bring in their supplies of limestone and other materials in adequate quantities.

Only a Cold
Are you ill? In often answered "Oh! it's only a cold," as if a cold was a matter of little consequence, but people are beginning to learn that a common cold is a matter not to be trifled with, that some of the most serious diseases start with a cold. As soon as the first indication of a cold appears take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Remember that the sooner you get rid of your cold the less the danger, and this remedy will help you to throw it off.

ARMISTICE DAY PROCLAMATION

(By the Governor)

The eleventh day of November next will be second anniversary of the signing of the Armistice in the Great War, and, inasmuch as the Michigan Legislature in the session of 1913 passed an act making it the duty of school officers and teachers to have said day observed with appropriate commemorative exercises, it is fitting that the day should not be allowed to pass without attention being called to its significance.

Therefore, I, ALBERT E. SLEEPER, Governor of the State of Michigan, do issue this proclamation and hereby request a proper and appropriate observance, on the part of the people of the state, of Thursday the ELEVENTH DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1925.

Following the proclamation of President Wilson, I further request that on Sunday, November the fourteenth, 1925, memorial services be held for our heroic dead, for the soldiers, sailors and marines who gave up their lives in our cause in the World War, and that on this day flags be displayed at half staff.

Given under my hand and the Great seal of the state, this twenty-eighth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty, and of the Commonwealth the eighty-fourth.

ALBERT E. SLEEPER, Governor.
By the Governor: COLEMAN C. VAUGHAN, Secretary of State.

STATE WILL BACK HURLEY ATTORNEY

PROMISES EXTRADITION OF FEDERAL MEN IF THE EVIDENCE IS GOOD

Wisconsin state authorities will, if they find that evidence taken so far justifies such a movement, aid District Attorney Marion F. Reid, of Hurley, in prosecuting six federal men who it is alleged, shot and killed John Chappuzo, saloonkeeper.

Governor E. L. Phillips is quoted as saying he would issue extradition papers for six prohibition officers charged with responsibility for the shooting of the Hurley man if the district attorney shows him evidence to substantiate manslaughter charges. Three of the six men are in Marquette and the other three in Chicago.

Because general election day was so near, Mr. Reid postponed his trip to Madison until after election. He pointed out that it was probable the governor would be busy and would leave for Milwaukee where he cast his vote.

Practically all testimony taken in Hurley during the inquest has been transcribed and the district attorney has additional affidavits which, although they had no bearing on the inquest, will reveal the nature of conditions with regard to the federal men's operations in Hurley and vicinity.

It is reported that judgment will be asked by relatives of the slain saloonkeeper for the automobile, which John E. Pilon, federal prohibition agent, purchased from Chappuzo before their trip to Milwaukee.

NEW BUILDINGS ARE STAKED OUT

ADDITIONAL UNITS OF BIG FORD PLANT ARE INDICATED NOW

J. A. Minnear & company report that three large buildings not heretofore shown on the plat of the Ford plant at Iron Mountain, to be known as the transfer building, green storage and dry kiln building, have been staked out. The transfer building will be 45 by 200 feet, the dry kiln 100 by 200 feet and the green storage 150 by 100 feet.

The three buildings are in addition to the saw mill and power house, which are now being erected. Other buildings to be built will be the maintenance building and the two auxiliary plants, each 120 by 700 feet. The latter will be constructed as soon as ground can be broken in the spring.

The Ford plans so far call for the erection of buildings that will cover 245,420 square feet, and men familiar with the situation at Iron Mountain believe that in a year from now these figures will look small.

The transfer building, green storage and dry kiln will be located south of the saw mill, towards Breitung. The construction of the transfer building will be started immediately. Minnear & Company say the saw mill will be in operation by March 1.
