Chats with The Editor

M.L.H. was expected of Gov. Al Smith's address of acceptance of the Democratic nomination for President, and perhaps for this reason, it did not take the Nation by surprise, as did that of Herbert Hoover who expected to have some difficulty in getting his message to the people in words and in a manner that would be readily grasped. Friend and critic alike had to concede, nevertheless, that the New York governor presented his position in a manner that commanded attention.

As this writer sat listening in via radio, there was one topic upon which the nominee's position was awaited with more interest than was attributed to the many other phases of our national life covered. It was pretty well anticipated what he would say about the prohibition amendment and the Volstead act, about agriculture, industry, immigration and several other points no surprises were registered. But it came to the Great Lakes-to-the-Sea way. As Governor of New York, Al Smith has opposed the St. Lawrence route and advocated an "All-America" passage through the state of New York. Herbert Hoover on the other hand, as secretary of Commerce, had recommended the St. Lawrence route, and as nominee of the Republican Party proposed its early completion with a view of bringing the 22 states affected closer to the world markets, thus reducing the distribution cost.

And Al Smith addressed the issue! Admitting candidly that he had previously opposed the St. Lawrence route in favor of that through the State of New York, he promised if elected President to restudy the whole proposal after a careful report had been made, and to make his decision accordingly. That may satisfy some voters in the states concerned but those numbering among the staunch advocates of the Canadian route will not want to risk its future disposal at the hands of a leader who has been untried over a period of time and who even now is not in a position to commit himself definitely.

PROHIBITION is a live issue, according to our view, and those who place it and above all other issues, will be won over by Gov. Smith's address. The necessity in proposing to reinstate the question to the people. Those concerned about the enforcement may have been reassured by his declaration to do all in his power to enforce the Volstead law, in keeping with his oath of office. Gov. Smith's record in office gives assurance that he would do all in his power to enforce the law. Efforts would compare favorably with the record under an administration committed to enforcement, and yet which placed this duty in the hands of a department head financially interested in the distillery business. Certainly no worse case could be made of enforcement that already recorded, as any unbiased observer familiar with conditions will admit.

Perhaps Gov. Smith may say as governor of the state of New York, it was his right and his duty to work primarily for the best interests of his state, thus justifying his stand as it has been in regards to the waterway. The port of New York was alarmed about a threatened loss of revenue if traffic were diverted away from that point, and furthermore the state had the Erie canal on its hands as a liability, one that it would be good business to unload onto the government. So Gov. Smith was admittedly working in favor of his own state. Now the people must decide whether he would be faithful in working for the common welfare of the Nation with regard to any particular group.

THERE is one issue that both parties have failed to stress. That is the conscription of all wealth and production as well as man-power in case of a declaration of war. They can afford to ignore this as an issue in the present campaign because the people are not yet awake to the possibilities of such a law. But the time is coming in the not too distant future when the people of the United States will realize the selfish interests that divide Nations into wars and when they do, they will understand that if a means is adopted of taking out all profit in international murder, these same selfish interests will not be so active.

The conservative elements will brand such proposals as radical and will succeed in keeping in submerged for an indefinite time but not always. The people do rule in the end and they will in this as in everything else. The government's right to conscript man-power is now generally recognized. If it is right and proper to use the flower of the nation's manhood to stop the enemy's bullets, why is it not as logical to use the man-power to furnish the supplies and all necessities of war? The soldier is paid an insignificant wage, why should the man who is allowed to glory and gloat at the expense of his country's misery?

SECRETARY OF STATE Kellogg is credited with one peace proposal to which 14 nations will attach their signatures to an agreement not to resort to warfare in any disputes that may arise among them. It all sounds very good, and may have some merit, at the beginning of something really worth while. Casting a backward glance, one learns that all agreements of past generations have been mere scraps of paper to be torn up at the least provocation. International animosities and jealousies, fostered and inspired by the greedy machines of war, have touched off the spark that set nations of the world in a turmoil, which when once started must burn themselves out by the plunger, waste and ravages of war, that sets no value to human life and liberty.

This being election time, consider issues that are being judged as such. Then compare them with issues of the past. Woodrow Wilson, after being elected in 1912 and providing the Nation with a good, sane, progressive administration, was re-elected in 1916 largely on the campaign cry, "He keep us out of war!" And while the party managers were stressing the issue, the Nation was making haste in preparation for entry into the World conflict. The Republicans, with Teddy Roosevelt in the front, preached a doctrine of peace and an entangling alliance. The people of the United States, not wanting to interfere in European family quarrels, elected Wilson. He was inaugurated Mar. 4, 1917 and hardly more than a month afterward issued the declaration of war against Germany. The few party leaders who lived up to campaign promises of the past, and Woodrow Wilson, after one successful administration, proceeded to lead the United States into what history may record as the most disgraceful era ever indulged in by a supposedly enlightened, free nation. Our President may have had honest, sincere, human ideas, but these were relegated to the back ground when once the gods of war were allowed their way. All this might have been saved by a law providing for the conscription of the nation's wealth, as well as its man-power. The United States, under such a law, might have remained neutral in fact as well as in claim, for the sacrifice of hundreds of thousands of lives made unnecessary. Yes, conscription of wealth is an issue, even though both major parties have seen fit to ignore it in the present campaign.

THE U. P. FAIR ESCANABA, SEPT. 13-21 1923

There will be an abundance of horse-racing in the Upper Peninsula this year for those who enjoy that brand of entertainment. Five of the county fairs on the Upper Peninsula fair circuit have Tuesday afternoon five weeks of the first ward entered the Clear building at the east end of Delta Ave. and received occupancy by Adolphe Leroux as a soft drink parlor and broke in the candy machine. A message received Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. Barney Hoverson of Rapid River announcing that their son John has been killed in action in France, August 20th. John was 31 years of age, and among the first men to enter the service. He is survived by his parents, one brother, with the colors in France, and a half brother, Heine Bieber, who never thought for a minute.

The dates for the various racing programs in the peninsula are as follows: Chippewa County Fair, Sault Ste. Marie, August 22 and August 24. Luce County Fair, Newberry, August 30 and August 31. Escanaba—An effort to make so representative that there will be no doubt that the winner of the horse-tournament at the Upper Peninsula state fair is truly the Upper Peninsula champion, is being made by the fair managers. It is the hope of the management that every county in the peninsula will send their champion show-toser to the tournament, George E. Harvey, secretary, declares. Teach your cows Little Mabel is a lass Of twenty-one short years. She wears her hair bobbed a la mode And never sheds her ears! You can't take with a woman. The other day a Gladstone man heard a new countrypartner and decided to try it on his wife. "Do you know why I'm a mule?" he asked. "No," she replied. "I know you are, but I don't know why."

We hereby offer a beautiful pair of hand water utcher to anybody who can walk down the main street of Gladstone with a coil of rope without somebody asking him if he's going to hang himself. Or appear in public with an axe, without somebody inquiring if he's taking home a present to his wife.

It won't be long now before we'll be getting shells from Lake Superior when a little fire in the furnace will be needed, to take the chill out, and don't forget the coal bin should be filled before the season of ice and snow, just give us a ring we do the rest.

TAXPAYER ASKS FOR INFORMATION

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING SATURDAY CALL AT REQUEST OF TAXPAYERS

A special meeting of the Masonville school board will be held Saturday evening in the high school building. The meeting has been called at the request of a taxpayer and matters of importance to taxpayers and parents will be discussed.

The number of children in the township of school age is 472. In 1926 it was 519. The Escanaba school law passed in 1925 and became effective and unconstitutional by the state supreme court withheld 5% of the 1925 primary money. This sum amounting to $192 for this township will be sent to the school board next month. The primary money base on the 472 children of school age at $15.20 per child will amount to $7,174.40. This money will also be received in September, making a total of $7,527.32 of primary money.

At a recent meeting of the school board the tax levied for 1928 was fixed at $35,000.00, an increase over last year of $5,000.00. During the past year a little over $6,000.00 was wiped off the school indebtedness leaving a balance of approximately $26,000.00. It is doubted by many if the increase in the school tax levied will result in more school money as it is believed it will cause a larger percentage of tax. It is certain that the taxes next January higher than ever before because the township courts and state taxes have not been decreased any. The economical administration of the school financial affairs during the past year cost $6,000.00 from the indebtedness and if possible to continue this economy for a few years would wipe out the tax for this purpose means a saving in interest on the indebtedness but is a hardship to many taxpayers to whom the present tax rate is extremely high.

MINOR ACCIDENT AT TACOOOSH RIVER BRIDGE

A more serious accident was narrowly averted Tuesday afternoon when a Chevrolet truck and a Nash car attempted to cross the Tacooosh bridge at the same time. The bridge is very narrow—too narrow for a truck line road and it is only with extreme care that two cars can meet on the bridge. Mrs. I. Cameron, driver of the Nash, with her mother Mrs. M. Burman were going to Gladstone traveling at a low rate of speed. A car was approaching the bridge from the opposite direction and according to Mrs. Cameron was still a little distance from the bridge when she drove on it. The Chevrolet apparently intended to stop but then decided there was room to pass. Mrs. Cameron stopped her car but did not have time to back off the bridge. Both cars had jammed wheels, fenders and axles. Mrs. Burman, received a small cut on the forehead when she was thrown against the framework on the windshield.

Let Us Be Clean! As the present campaign for the primaries is drawing to a close I hear once in awhile about the POWERFUL COMBINATION I am up against. I hear it said that my opponent has a POWERFUL ORGANIZATION working for him. I am told that on election day they will have an army of workers at the polls, and automobiles in every ward and precinct and township to carry voters to the polls. All of which is both amusing and entertaining. I am not afraid of ANY POLITICAL MACHINE. I think I will have one of my own in this election. And it will work voluntarily and willingly for a principle. It is going to determine whether this will be AN ELECTION to nominate a candidate for probate judge, or a CORONATION to crown the present incumbent with a life tenure in the office. And the organization which I shall have will ABIDE BY THE LAWS FOR THE PURITY OF ELECTIONS. I make no secret as to who the members are of the new organization which will do this. They are—the PEOPLE. Perhaps not THE people, but certainly THE PEOPLE.

So far as I am personally concerned I shall live up to the law and shall expect my organization to do so, regardless of what anyone else may do. And that there may be no mistake about it, let me advise those who are good enough to favor my candidature, that: 1. THE LAW FORBIDS THE HIRING OF PAID WORKERS BEFORE OR AT THE ELECTION. A candidate is guilty of a misdemeanor who buys votes with money or promises. A candidate is guilty who buys workers with money or promises. 2. AUTOMOBILES CAN NOT BE HIRED TO CONVEY VOTERS TO THE POLLS. Unless the voter is PHYSICALLY UNABLE TO WALK to the polls. A candidate or his friend or worker, can hire cars only to carry INFIRM OR DISABLED VOTERS. A worker is guilty who tries to influence voters in return for cash or promises. 3. THE FINE MAY BE $1,000.00 PLUS TWO YEARS IN PRISON FOR INCURRING ANY ILLEGAL ELECTION EXPENSES OR VIOLATING ANY OF THE OTHER PROVISIONS SUCH AS SPENDING MORE THAN 25% OF HIS FIRST YEAR'S SALARY (about $1,000), FAILING TO FILE TRUE STATEMENT OF EXPENSES, ACCEPTING CORPORATION OR ANONYMOUS CONTRIBUTIONS, THREATENING EMPLOYEES, PUBLISHING FALSE STATEMENTS ABOUT OPPONENT. A candidate for an office in such a small district as a county, should not find it necessary to operate with a MACHINE and should not be permitted to do so. If he stays in office long enough to build up a machine with which to manipulate the voters it is time he was shorn of his power THAT THE GOVERNMENT MAY REMAIN WHERE OF RIGHT IT OUGHT TO BE—IN THE HANDS OF THE PEOPLE. With this understanding I ask the members of the only machine I would care to belong to—the great majority of right thinking voters—to give me the final pull we need to get over the hill. I thank you. Respectfully, Submitted Torval E. Strom Political Advertisement

Copyright, 1921, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. Dolores Costello in "OLD SAN FRANCISCO" in a Warner Bros. production of this novel.

"I know, my dear, but when he came you did not know who he was, and Buckwell is clever! He would not have such power and influence in San Francisco unless he had the ability to bend others to his will. Don't take it to heart. You were not to blame," consoled Terry cradling her hand in his.

"Perhaps not, but if I had only known then that he wasn't a white man I would have suspected some thing," continued Dolores.

Terry started noticeably. "Not a white man? What do you mean?"

He hurt her hand without realizing his cleop had tightened.

"Oh, Terry, I forgot to tell you—Senior Buckwell is an Oriental—a half caste Chinaman. I am sure of it." Terry leaned forward intently as she continued. "The day that Grandfather died when Senior Buckwell was here—and I accused him of being responsible for Grandfather's death—and even threatened him with the sword—he underwent a complete transition—he was terrified and kept looking at me and into the chapel—and then such a queer change came over him—he mustn't. It is impossible, and risky. No girl should venture into such a place. I can do it for you just as well. Don't think of it please!"

But Dolores was insistent. The chance to fulfill her obligation to her lineage thrilled her with eager anticipation and quickly pulled Terry by the hand she led him into the living room.

As soon as they disappeared from view a shuffling figure arose from behind a bush near the fountain where Dolores and Terry had been sitting, and made off towards the gateway to the road that led into San Francisco.

It was "limmy." If he ever had any other name it had long since been forgotten. Not that it mattered either to him or to those with whom he mingled, for one name was about as good as the other, and typical harbored alley rat and with his hat pulled down over his eyes and a cigarette stuck in one corner of his lips he was no one with whom to become better acquainted. But more than that, limmy was a stool nigger for the crew of the Tenderloin—Chris Buckwell. No one knew it but limmy, and Buckwell and that made him all the more useful to the leader of the underworld. All the gossip that was rife in the haunts of those who lived without the law found its way into limmy's ears and sooner or later reached Buckwell—much to limmy's profit and Buckwell's satisfaction. Buckwell was a hard master without delay. "Boss, they think they're wise to you. The man's got a catty idea that she spotted you for a Chink the day the old man kicked in." (Buckwell flushed, but watched with tightening lips as limmy continued.) "She just spilled the beans to young Terry. It didn't mean nuttin' to her until he sneed her what to do. They're gonna sneeze at Lu Fong and are patten' their selves on the back that it's gonna make trouble for you. They were just startin' when I left—and by now they're with him unless some thing happened."

Buckwell turned to his feet, moistening his lips nervously.

"Limmy," he said, "this lie might cause serious trouble. We must act quickly. Stand by me now and your fortune is made. Limmy nodded. "And now," continued Buckwell, you beat it pronto to La Fung's aid keep me advised. And here take this—where you want more let me know." And he dumped a handful of gold coins into limmy's waiting palms.

Limmy sid through the door like a shadow.

CHAPTER XIV

Night Life in a Chinese Cafe

A great happiness took possession of Terry—the kind of peaceful contentment that only a man in love can feel when he begins doing favors for the woman of his heart.

the carriage that had brought him out to the rancho was headed back toward San Francisco's Barbary Coast, and Dolores was at his side. They were on their way to Lu Fong's to report Dolores' discovery regarding Buckwell. To anyone who passed them on the road they were merely a remarkably handsome couple, dervies engaged in one another and apparently enjoying an evening's drive. Nothing about them indicated tragedy and vengeance except possibly the fact that Dolores wore mourning. It was the only costume she had ever owned that was totally devoid of Spanish influence. It was essentially modern and ravishingly becoming.

"Dolores, you are beautiful!" he whispered confidentially, his hand on the cushion beside him. She stared happily. "I love you with Spanish lace affairs on your head and you carry yourself so enticingly like I am liking them. It's the first time in my life, but I prefer you in a modern hat. It makes you look more real, and I want you to be very real dear."

"Then I shall keep my hat on all the time," laughed Dolores, pushing it down more securely on her head.

Any asphalt shingle may beautify a house temporarily but the question is how long will that beauty last.

From outward appearance most asphalt shingles look alike—but consider what's on the inside. That's the thing that really determines how long a roof will remain beautiful.

If you could see the fine selected ALL RAG FELT that goes into every Mule-Hide Shingle—if you could see how heavily this felt is saturated thru and thru with genuine Mexican Asphalt, the best waterproofing material on the market today—you would appreciate why Mule-Hide beauty is lasting beauty—beauty that endures thru the years—beauty that protects when the rain comes down in floods.

We are the authorized Mule-Hide Dealer in this community. When you are ready to roof your home see us. Apply it yourself or let us estimate the job applied complete by a competent local contractor.

30th DISTRICT Robert G. Gille

IN THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARY ELECTION, SEPTEMBER 4, 1928

I earnestly ask your vote and support and I will serve you faithfully if elected.

A Weekly Panorama of Events in the National Capital by Peter Keegan, Special Correspondent for Delta Reporter

FOR THE first time since the enactment of prohibition there is a clean-cut national wet and dry issue. No matter how wet politicians in some parts of the country attempt to divert attention to something else the voters, it is now apparent, are going to the polls to vote wet, or dry—or Al Smith or Herbert Hoover.

AL SMITH, with boldness seldom displayed by a politician, stakes his chance to land in the White House on anti-prohibitionism. It is an issue that he will fight to win. With a mortgage on the 10 states of the "solid south," the Democratic party expects to hold these states usual and leave it to Al Smith to capture the wet east. Republicans receive reports that encourage them to believe North Carolina and Virginia will bolt Smith, but the Al Smith party smiles about such claims. Virginia (a Republican) never, say the Smith boomers.

JOSEPHUS DANIELS, Bryan Democrat, describes himself as "drier than desert dust," but he must remain moderate. So he came back after a night with Governor Smith, to go along with the ticket even though he has no sympathy whatever with the Smith wet faction which was captured the Democratic honors and is out to de-brainize the party.

IN VIRGINIA the Republicans have purposely made no nomination for United States Senator. They permit Senator Swanson, Democrat, to win without a fight. Therefore it is unnecessary for Senator Swanson to make a campaign. He can remain on his front porch and win. By refraining from contesting them, Swanson, permitting his election by default, the Republicans believe they increase their "chance" although it may be, to give Virginia's electoral vote to Herbert Hoover.

WHAT WILL the East do? What will the South do? These two questions dominate in political interest. The hot spots of the campaign now getting under way center on the east and south. Will the dry South and wet East vote for the same man for President? That is a nifty subject for every night debate in the corner barber shop.

THE BARBER shop debates settle many a burning question. Representative Fred S. Parrish tells it that when he wants to know what the people are thinking and talking about he drops in at a certain barber shop in his home town, Attica, Ind. It is in this barber shop, with protracted debate that all the world problems are discussed and settled, says the Congressman. And every community has its barber shop as a forum.

THERE IS a lot of "spiffledinking" about the prohibition question. Prohibition is "used" as an issue in some communities the politicians take the wet side and in others the dry side, dependent on the side considered the winning side. In Congress there are members who vote wet but never touch a drop, while there are other members who vote dry and take an occasional nip. Politically speaking, Congress is overwhelmed by dry.

SENATOR Charley Curtis, G. O. P. Vice Presidential nominee, who is part Kaw Indian, is called "The Chief" by many of his intimates.

THIS IS ONE campaign year in which every voter, man and woman, surely is informed about the issue. There appears to be utterly no excuse for any man or woman to have failed to read in the newspapers or hear over the radio the pronouncements of the two presidential candidates. If everyone reads the acceptance addresses of Hoover and Smith they will at once understand the political philosophy of each man who offers himself for President.

FORTUNATELY THIS is one presidential year when business is undisturbed. No business man is afraid of the November results. There is no radicalism in the making of either presidential candidate. So business as usual is the slogan. Naturally there is the seasonal quietness of July and August, but with these two months out of the way there is every reason to expect a lively pick up of business in every community. The country has buying power that is simply tremendous, evidence of which is the constantly increasing sale of automobiles. Better business is in prospect with the beginning of September. Merchants are preparing to increase their newspaper advertising to get the business that is in prospect.

ONLY ABOUT 40 per cent of the women have heretofore gone to the polls on election day. Both parties will strive this time to greatly increase the woman vote. It remains to be seen if the "sink" responds.

FUNERAL SUNDAY FOR GUST JOHNSON

Gust Johnson, 69 years of age, a resident of Gladstone since 1893, and who has been ailing for the past five years, passed away Friday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Adolph Johnson, 1302 Minnesota avenue. Another daughter, Mrs. Roger Miller of Chicago, was at the bed side when death came, having been here attending to her father during the past several weeks. The body was prepared for burial at the Swenson Funeral Home and services were held from the home Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. C. E. Olsson, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church officiating.

The body was borne to Fernwood cemetery by friends of the deceased: Soren Johnson, Ole Peterson, William Olsson, Peter Peterson, Charles Brandt and Nels Biorik.

Gust Johnson was born at Swenson, Sweden, December 21, 1859. He came to this country as a young man and visited in the states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. He returned to Sweden where he was married and in 1893 he came with his bride to Gladstone. He has been a resident here since, having been employed for several years at the Pittsburg Coal Dock and then later as a road builder. Five years ago his health failed him and he went on the retired list. Death was caused by pernicious anemia.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Adolph Johnson of this city and Mrs. Roger Miller, of Chicago, also

Mrs. O. Elmen of Chicago, and three sons, Andrew, Arthur and Carrol of this city.

The death of Mr. Johnson marks the closing of another old time resident. Floral offerings at the home bore testimony to the esteem in which he was held by many friends.

Gustave Brown of Allenville was brought to Newberry with a bullet in his back fired from some unknown source. Mr. Brown, a farmer with a wife and seven children, was working on a chicken house when something struck him in the back with enough force to turn him around. X-ray pictures show an object about the size of a twenty-two caliber bullet. He was admitted to the Perry Spinks hospital where an attempt will be made to remove the object.

STATE MONEY FOR TWO UPPER PENINSULA PARKS

The State Administrative Board has recently approved the expenditure of funds for the improvement of two state parks. The Straits State Park located in the Upper Peninsula, about 3 1/4 of a mile from St. Ignace, will draw $1,500 for the construction of a water line. Most camps were made in this park in 1927 than in any other, amply justifying the expenditure of funds for improvement and the addition of better facilities. From the camp, the large liners that pass from Lake Michigan to Lake Huron or vice versa may be seen, thus adding to its many attractive features. Four hundred acres of virgin hardwood forest are one of the assets of the Gogebic Lake State Park. The Park has a mile frontage on Lake Gogebic. This lake has the largest volume of water of any inland lake in Michigan. Many declare that it ranks first in actual shore line measurement.

Announcing
A change of Policy of
E. A. Erickson R.C.U. Store
From a Credit to a Cash System

The new policy takes effect Tuesday, Sept. 4, 1928. We have decided to eliminate a costly service and give the customers the advantage of a strictly cash buying power. We buy for cash, you buy for cash, both pay less.

This new policy in conjunction with our strictly cash purchasing power with 1033 R. C. U. stores whose annual buying power of over $125,000,000 will show you amazing savings.

Buying on a credit basis is costly and this cost must be met regardless of who or where you are. From manufacturer down to the consumer, merchandise cost is increasing when the credit system is employed. This we completely eradicate from our business, because we buy with 1033 stores for cash only and pay less. We pay and you pay more where the credit method is used. Credit is only a fashion and a very expensive one too. In order to render to you the service which you have a right to expect and which you have the buying power of every dollar which you spend with us we will put our store on a strictly cash basis beginning Tuesday, September 4th.

This plan is neither new nor original but has been employed for years and has been the real secret of some of the most successful men. Great businesses have been built upon this plan. We, in our small way will try to build for you a better store in Gladstone, where better merchandise will be sold at lower prices. A store where you will pay for your own goods that you buy and not for the other fellow who does not pay his bills. It's nothing more or less than the up-to-date business method and we are anxious to keep pace with the times. Modern merchandising makes it necessary to buy for cash and sell for cash, to undersell outside competition who get the cash while the credit merchant has to operate under an expensive credit system and charge you more for what you buy.

CASH OR CREDIT PRICES
It's one of the things that compel merchants to get high prices from those who pay. Even when you pay cash at a store doing a credit business you have to pay the credit prices.

A cash store charges you for the goods you get. A credit store charges you for the goods you get as well as the things some other fellow has bought and is slow in paying for or never pays at all.

A credit store carries two stocks of goods. One in the store, the other on it's books scattered among its credit customers. The store that sells on credit is bound to loose money more or less.

No business house on earth has ever succeeded in doing a credit business without meeting losses. Who makes the loss good? Why bless you, the customers who pay their bills and no two ways about it. We could go on endlessly here with arguments in favor of the cash plan of doing business. Buying for cash, selling for cash, truthful advertising, enterprise, and modern methods are the principles that this store is built on. A fair cash plan, no bad debts, no slow accounts, each paying his or her own. Cash gets greater value, when we pay cash, when you pay cash.

This new merchandising method in our store will also open a drive for hundreds of new customers. The new method will also be an incentive for new customers to seek this store out as a place to buy, and by paying cash buy for less. We firmly believe that folks who pay cash should pay less. This makes it necessary for us to cut every corner on expense. We must eliminate credit 100% which is a great expense including costly bookkeeping, the interest on money to carry accounts, the expense of mailing statements, the time in checking and supervising accounts, also the grief that oft times arises over misunderstandings. With a complete elimination of all these things, we can and will save you money on high grade merchandise. You pay for what you buy and no more.

We want to thank our many customers for their liberal patronage under the old system of doing business. Under the new strictly cash system we are going to have quicker TURN-OVERS, give better service and greater savings to you and a well meant smile for every one.

We believe you will like our store better as the days go by. GREAT SAVINGS! BETTER SERVICE! FRESHER STOCKS!
