Republican Nominee for Sheriff

Republican Nominee for Prosecuting Attorney

JAMES B. BRADLEY
Republican Nominee for Governor

JOHN N. FORSHAR
Republican Nominee for Treasurer

One of the hottest contested campaigns ever held in this county was concluded at the close of the polls Tuesday evening. It was not a mudslinging campaign and but little, if any, enmity existed during the long drawn out fight. Some of the candidates rolled up a large vote, even beyond the expectation of the most sanguine.

The following were the winners:

Sheriff—A. J. Smith.

Clerk and Register of Deeds—Alfred Dufstrom.

Treasurer—John N. Forshar.

Prosecuting Attorney—James C. Wood.

Judge of Probate—Cornelius Klagstad.

Coroners—Sven Johnson and William F. Kefauver.

The county gave Warner for governor some 230 majority.

It is stated that Bradley carried six upper peninsula counties.

The following table gives the county returns for all but two offices:

The contracting parties are among the most popular of our young people and enjoy a wide acquaintance. Their host of friends extend to them bon voyage over the sea of life.

They left that evening for the Twin Cities, there to remain for a week with friends. Only a very few knew of the marriage thus there was no demonstration at the depot when they departed.

MATT ZIMMERMAN PUTS A BULLET THROUGH THEO. DESMARETS LEG.

FAMILY QUARREL THE CAUSE

Shooting Occurred Monday Night in Field Near Zimmerman's Home.

Matt Zimmerman is under arrest for shooting a neighbor, Theo. Desmaretz, near his home Monday night about 9 o'clock. It is stated that Zimmerman had a stump and when Desmaretz was passing sent a 38-55 bullet into his right leg just above the knee and on the inside. The injured man was taken to a neighbor's house and medical attention for. Zimmerman was arrested later by Under-Sheriff Orr and Chief of Police Rediker. The participants reside near the "dump" about three miles north of this city.

Zimmerman was arraigned Tuesday before Judge Klagstad and bail was given for his appearance Friday.

THURSDAY, Sept. 3, 1908

REPUBLICAN NOMINEES.

For President, WILLIAM H. TAFT For Vice-President, JAMES S. SHERMAN

Every loyal republican in Schoolcraft county should give his support to the nominees of Tuesday's primaries.

"Jim" Finch of Thompson, candidate for sheriff at the primaries, showed his running qualities Tuesday. He was second in the race for office.

Every enrolled voter in the third ward, except two or three who were out of the city, and one confined to his home, voted at the election Tuesday.

In two wards there was opposition for delegates to the republican county convention at the primaries: 21 ward, John A. Hall and John H. Hickey, the latter winning, and in the 3d ward W. J. Jam F. Crane, Chas. R. Orr and A. M. LeRoy were defeated by Magnus Klagsstad, E. A. Carrington and Alex. La-bombard.

A story is being circulated that a dissatisfied bunch of Republicans talk of putting a Citizen's ticket in the field this fall in hopes of defeating some of those nominated Tuesday. It takes all kinds of people to make up a world, and Manistique, it seems, has a full assortment.

The number of idle freight cars is growing smaller on all of the railroads of the country, owing to the increasing demand for rolling stock for the movement of crops. In a comparatively short time the cars of the railroads of the United States will be quite fully employed, and this activity will give a lift to business in general which ought to have a beneficial effect throughout the approaching winter.

A HUNDRED YEARS OF PEACE.

Lord Grey who was once called in Canada "the governor of happy inspirations," proposes for the year 1914 a festival of the hundred years' peace between the United States and Canada. President Elliot, conspicuously moralized, three years ago, on the significance of a boundary of 3,000 miles without a fort or gun. Elihu Root, speaking at Ottawa some months later, dwelt on the same thought. It was for Lord Grey to propound a celebration. It is likely to be a popular idea on both sides of the invisible line.

A revival of talk concerning the project to connect Lake Michigan with the Maumee bay near Toledo and thus establish a short cut for lake traffic from Milwaukee and Chicago and Lake Erie port may be due to the lack of veranda subjects during the closing days of the summer resorts. This proposed ditch would be an exceedingly long and costly short cut whose construction is hardly warranted by the amount of time that could be saved by cross-country trails of coal, ore and grain steakers.

THE HOPEFUL SIDE OF COMMER-CIAL PROSPECTS.

In some respects the situation in the mid-summer of 1908 is similar to that of 1896. Then, as now, trade was stagnant. But the causes of the stagnation are much less serious now than they were then. At that time the country had not recovered from the effects of the panic of 1893, and that convulsion was far more widespread and disastrous than was the setback of 1907. In 1896, as in 1908, politics was a disturbing element in the situation. As all of us remember, the disturbance came from the same candidate who causes it this year. The candidate, however, was far more formidable then than he seems to be today. The cause for the alarm at that time was real, and imminent, and the business torpor registered the alarm.

There are three favorable factors at present—crops, money and politics. The general aggregate of the crops promise to be greater than ever before. Money is plentiful and low. The result of the elections in 1896 and 1900 stands an excellent chance to be repeated in 1908.

While the country's population has increased twenty-four per cent since 1896, the corn yield this year promises to be twenty-five per cent greater than it was then, the wheat crop is forty per cent larger than it was in that year and the cotton output is eighty per cent greater than it was then, while the aggregate value of all the farm products in 1908, according to the forecast made by the Secretary of Agriculture, will be $8,000,000,000, which is 140 per cent more than that of 1896.

In the same twelve years in which the country's inhabitants increased twenty-four per cent its circulation has grown 100 per cent. The banks of New York, Chicago, St. Louis and the rest of the money centers seldom held more cash than they do now.

In the fiscal year which ended with June 30, 1908, our sales of merchandise to the outside world exceeded our purchases to the extent of $666,000,000. It is a fact of profound significance, too, that much of this increase in exports was in manufactured articles. This great trade balance, the largest which has ever been accumulated in our favor in a single year, has equipt us with a fund in Europe's financial centers which we can draw on at any moment when we need the money. For the time to profitable use, and are lending it to any county which pays the price. This is the explanation of some of the recent gold outgo.—James W. VanCleave, President National Association of Manufacturers, in American Industries for August.

Life As We See It.

"A DANGEROUS FRIEND" is a remarkable drama of every-day events and is further remarkable for the fact that it is excellently handled by a splendid cast. Life as we see it about us every day, as we read it in the newspapers, as we meet it in our homes, is presented in a most fascinating style. It brings forward the same questions and is on the same plan as "Paid in Full," "The Servant in the House" and the "Witching Hour," and both author and actors deserve the good things which the theatre goers are saying about them. "A DANGEROUS FRIEND" will appear at the Opera House, Monday night, Sept. 7.

Last winter I tried many advertised remedies, but the cough continued until I bought a 50c. bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery; before that was half gone, the cough was all gone. This winter the same happy result followed; a few doses once more banished the annual cough. I am now convinced that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best of all cough and lung remedies." Congress St., Chicago, tells of a way to become strong: He says: "My mother, who is old and was very feeble, is deriving so much benefit from Electric Bitters, that I feel it's my duty to tell those who need a tonic and strengthening medicine about it. In my mother's case a marked gain in flesh has resulted, insomnia has been overcome, and she is steadily growing stronger." Electric Bitters quickly remedy stomach, liver and kidney complaints. Sold under guarantee at E. N. Orr & Co's drug store. 50c.

MEXICO'S SIGN LANGUAGE. Gestures With a Meaning Understood by Every Tribe.

Mexico is a land of many tongues, but above the Indian dialects and Spanish there is one universal language, the language of signs. It is the most expressive of all. The Mexican eye and hand are eloquent members. It is capable of infinite variation. Its shadings and suggestions are beyond all translation. But there are certain gestures that have a fixed meaning, a signification well understood by every nation and every tribe from Guatemala to Texas.

A general upward movement of the body, shoulders shrugged, eyebrows raised, lips pouted and palms outward spread varies in meaning from "I don't know and I don't care" to a most respectful "Really, sir, I do not understand you."

The index finger moved rapidly from right to left generally before the face means "No more" or simply "No." To move the right hand palm outward from the body toward another person means "Just wait; I'll be even with you yet."

The right hand held to the lips, three fingers doubled, thumb and little finger erect, varies from "He drinks" to "Have one with me."

The right hand over the forehead with reference to the mirror "playing the barber" and means "to father."

All four fingers and the thumb held points together and moved toward the mouth means "to eat."

The right hand held before the face, the two middle fingers moving rapidly, is a familiar salutation.—"Modern Mexico."

The Helpmate. The author's young wife burst in on him joyously. "Oh, Mit," she cried, "I know now why the magazine has returned all your stories."

Milton Wiskar seemed to see light. "Why is it?" he demanded, with hopeful eagerness.

"It is because you have always inclosed stamps," said the young woman. "Haven't you ever read the notice on the editorial page which says that no MSS. are returned unless stamps are inclosed.—New York Press.

Russian Marriages.

The celebration of a Russian marriage... At the wedding festivities the bride is expected to dance with the men one after another until she drops with sheer fatigue. It is a matter of pride with her to keep going as long as possible, and it is not unusual to find a bride dancing gayly after three days and nights of vigorous frolic. When a girl is dancing with a man she always holds his pipe. It would be regarded as extremely rude if a man should continue to smoke his pipe in such circumstances.—London Tit-Bits

HIS NINE CHEESES.

An Old Time New England Story of a Stingy Parson.

Anecdotes in which the mean and grasping man is outwitted or held up to ridicule are popular everywhere and always. Few ancient fables or traditional instances of stinginess punished or sharp practice defeated. In one village of New England, says the Youth's Companion, there is still current such a fable concerning an unpopular parson of more than a century ago.

Although a learned man of impressive manners, this clergyman was noted for undue reluctance to expend and readiness to acquire. He had a habit of pleading poverty and hinting for gifts.

The parish, although with some murmuring, had responded with fuel for his kitchen, hay for his horse, Thanksgiving turkeys for his table and a "subscription cloak" of black satin for his wife when her wedding maitreau became shabby. The murmurs increased when it was found that the parson turned an honest but over-shrewd penny by selling instead of using many of these donations. But they were not loud enough to disturb his stately calm, and he went his way without condescending to notice them. At last, however, fortune played him trick for trick.

One pleasant winter day he made a round of calls, and at each house, when just about to leave, he casually asked his hostess if she could let him have a little piece of cheese, as his wife happened to have none in the house and unexpected company had arrived. In each case the good housewife, instead of a little piece, generously presented him with a whole cheese, which he graciously accepted. As he turned from the door stone at the close of the last visit, while the mother of the family and her brood of nine children stood politely gathered to watch him drive away, he carelessly pulled the wrong rein, the sleigh dipped sharply on a drift, and out from under the ministerial lap robe rolled nine large cheeses, which spun friskily away in all directions on the icy crust.

His hostess understood the situation at a glance.

"Don't disturb yourself, pray, sir," she said politely as he made a motion to descend. "It is quite unnecessary. The children will gather them up, and none will be overburdened or will there be any quarrelling for the privilege. See! It is just a cheese to a child."

So it was, and the embarrassed parson, unable to escape, was obliged to receive back his cheeses, with due thanks to each giggling volunteer as they came up in glee-filled procession one by one.

Too well he knew that by the next day the whole parish would be laughing at his misadventure, although he could scarcely have guessed that the joke would be recalled a hundred years later.

Nature's Cunning.

Protective mimicry, that cunning device of nature to preserve animals from their enemies, is well known in the eggs of certain fishes, notably the California shark, known as Gypnocheilus francisci. The shark is of sluggish habit, lurking among rocks, and its dark egg resembles a leaf of kelp or seaweed folded up spirally. It is deposited among the beds of kelp and clings to the leaves by the edges of the spirals. The young shark bursts open the end of the egg and swims away. Another shark's egg of the Pacific coast has tentacles which clasp the seaweed and also imitate its appearance.

Mozart and Bretzner.

When Mozart was at the height of his fame he composed the music of Bretzner's "Belmont and Konstanze" ("The Abduction From the Seraglio") at the request of Emperor Joseph II. The author of the drama was so angry at this that he inserted the following notice in the Leipzig Zeitung: "A certain fellow of the name of Mozart has dared to misuse my drama, 'Belmont and Konstanze,' for an opera text. I hereby solemnly protest against this invasion of my rights, and I reserve to myself further procedures." (Signed) Christoph Friedrich Bretzner, Author of "Rausch-chen."

Long Necked Belles.

Eastern standards of beauty differ, like the customs, from those of the west. In Malacca, we are told, the small waist and velvet eyes do not count, but instead the length of the neck is the criterion of beauty. The girl of Malacca at a very early age is fitted with a metal collar, which compels her to keep her head erect, and as she grows the collar is increased in size, and by this means the neck is gradually elongated.

Quite Enough.

"I should think you'd go slow," said the cautious friend. "You know, as Lincoln said, you can fool all the people some of the time and some of the people."

"That's all right," interrupted the sharper, "but I find it's always possible to fool enough of the people enough of the time."—Philadelphia Press.

ELIJAH AND THE RAVENS.

A Story Which Did Not Fit This Particular Minister's Case.

North Carolina probably never produced an abler preacher than Dr. Francis L. Hawkes, who once was pastor of Grace Episcopal church, New York. Short, thick set, swarthy, black eyed and black haired, he was a striking personage. He was not only a great pupil orator, but considered the best reader in the New York episcopacy. His rather luxurious family deterred him from accepting a bishopric, which would have otherwise been tendered. One day a delegation from a Buffalo church waited upon him and invited him to accept a pastorate in that city.

"Well, gentlemen, other things being satisfactory, the question of acceptance narrows down to a business matter," said Dr. Hawkes. "What salary do you offer?"

"Dr. Hawkes," said the spokesman, "we recognize that you have a high reputation and are willing to be liberal. Our recent pastor received $2,500, but on account of your standing we have decided to offer you $3,500."

"My good man," cried the doctor, "do you know what salary I am receiving here?"

"No, sir."

"I get $15,000 and this parsonage, and, as I have an expensive family, I do not see my way clear to accept your offer."

The spokesman looked rather sheepish, but made another essay.

"If we had known that, sir, we would undoubtedly have looked elsewhere, but you should remember that the work of the Lord must be done, and, as for providing for your family, you know the story of Elijah and the ravens."

"Now, my friends," responded the clergyman quietly, "I have made the Bible my study ever since I was twenty-eight. I have read it through carefully and prayerfully over 100 times. I remember the raven incident perfectly, but nowhere can I find any reference to the Lord's providing for young Hawkes."

THE CHARTER OAK.

Bells Told and Funeral Dirges Played When It Fell.

The charter oak of Hartford was a white oak. The story goes that when James, duke of York, ascended the throne of England and sent Andros to take away all colonial charters Connecticut alone refused to surrender hers. Andros was furious over the defiance, and Oct. 31, 1687, he returned to the assembly hall of Hartford with a body of soldiers and demanded instant surrender of the charter, which lay in a box on the table. A hot discussion followed. Finally Andros stretched out his hand to seize the disputed paper. Then the candles were suddenly extinguished, and the people who had gathered at the street outside rushed in a disorderly crowd into the hall. There was a period of wild confusion in the dark, and when the candles were finally relighted no charter was to be found. It had been removed by Captain Wadsworth and concealed in the oak, which ever afterward bore its name.

The oak was even then old. "When the first settlers were clearing their land the Indians begged that it might be spared. 'It has been the guide of our ancestors for centuries,' they said, 'to the time of planting our corn. When the leaves are the size of a mouse's ears, then is the time to put seed into the ground.' The Indians' request was granted, and the tree, afterward becoming the custodian of the lost charter, became famous for all time. It fell in a windstorm Aug. 21, 1856, and so deeply was it venerated that at sunset on the day of its fall the bells of the city were tolled and a band of music played funeral dirges over its ruins.

At the time of its fall its circumference one foot from the ground was twenty-five feet, and it was estimated to be over 600 years old.—Kansas City Star.

"How about this next one?" inquired the friend.

"He's guilty of something," asserted the keen observer. "No man stares at people in that bold, defiant way if he has a clear conscience."—Youth's Companion.

PRINTERS' BLUNDERS.

Comic Effects Frequent in the Days When Bad Copy Was the Rule.

Typographical errors that produced weird or comical effects are described by the St. Louis Republic in an article recalling the days when all of that newspaper's type was set by hand, before the introduction of typesetting machines, when the copy, instead of being typewritten, was turned over to the printer in an infinite variety of good, bad and indifferent chirography.

Comparatively few of the errors were allowed to contribute to the gratuity of the subscribers, as the majority were squelched in the "house of correction," as the proofroom was facetiously termed. From a collection made by a proofreader the following instances of ridiculous misreading of copy are taken:

"His blushing bride" was transformed into "his blustering bride."

A captain was said to have "served with distinction in the Confederate army," but the writer thought he wrote "distinction."

Two pictures entitled "The Galley Slave" and "Each in His Turn" were referred to as "The Galley I Love" and "Each in Shila Town."

Having in mind the influence of former citizens of the land of the shamrock upon the political destinies of the town, what more natural than that the printer man should set up an "Irish district court" where it had been the "first district court?"

Professor Frank Geddes was mentioned as having rendered "violent sections" rather than "violin selections."

Somebody was quoted as saying that "all the singing folks on the vaudeville stage have hundreds of wives," but the copy, when carefully examined, was found to read "husbands or wives," and a sensation in the theatrical world was averted.

"They sailed for three days around the cape and finally slaughtered a small Italian" was corrected to read "sighted a small island."

On one occasion the reporter wrote of certain "dwarfed and hungered children," who were made to appear perhaps more pathetic when the compositor substituted the words "doorfed and baggard."

He takes delight in talking on his family shame" was a shameful thing to say about him, for "favorite theme" was meant.

"Red Cross Society Will Fight Corbett" was the way the typesetter transformed the copy concerning a crusade against cholera.

AN HONEST ARTIST.

He Would Not Paint a Lie Even For a Napoleon.

There was no love lost between the Emperor Louis Napoleon and his cousin, Prince Napoleon, whom the Parisians called "Pion, Pion." The prince used to make abusive speeches against the emperor, which people were only too ready to repeat to him. "Get him alone," Louis Napoleon would reply. "He is too well known. No one would turn me out to place him on the throne."

The emperor was correct, for no one said a good word about "Pion Pion." He was commonly believed to have shown the white feather in the Crimea and never exposed himself where the lead was falling. An English lady who in her younger days mingled with French society tells in her "Foreign Courts and Foreign Homes" a story as discreditable to Prince Napoleon as it is honorable to a French artist.

While the artist was painting the historical picture of the battle of the Alma, which the emperor had ordered, Prince Napoleon called at the painter's studio to make known to him the facts. On leaving he said he wished the prominent figure in the battle to be himself mounted on his white charger. He sent the horse to the artist, so that he could paint its exact portrait. When the picture was finished and invitations were sent out for a "private view," the white charger was seen, a prominent figure in the battle, but without a rider.

On hearing of this terrible omission the prince sent an aid-de-camp to ask the reason. The honest artist said the horse should remain if the prince wished, but no rider would be on it. "Tell the prince I have never yet painted a lie." The hint was taken. The prince ordered the horse to be rubbed out.

Fortunate, Indeed.

TRIALS FOR ANIMALS Curious Custom That Prevailed in the Middle Ages.

PROSECUTED FOR HOMICIDE.

A Bull That Killed a Man Found Guilty, Sentenced to Death and Executed—Fate of a Cock That Was Charged With Having Laid an Egg.

Among the many curious customs of the past is recorded a singular feature of the jurisprudence of the middle ages, when animals were indicted for injuries inflicted upon human beings.

There is some Biblical precedent for these proceedings, for in the twenty-first chapter of Exodus one finds, "If an ox gore a man or a woman that they die, then the ox shall be stoned and his flesh shall not be eaten."

An early instance of the custom was in 1314, when a bull escaped from a farmyard in a village in France in the duchy of Valois and gored a man to death.

The prisoner's advocate admitted the facts of the case, but contended that no evil intention had been proved and that no evil result had taken place.

Even stranger than this were the proceedings instituted in 1445 and 1487 against certain beetles which had made havoc in the vineyards of St. Julian.

That was in 1445. In 1487, however, they reappeared, and a complaint was thereupon addressed to the vicar general of the bishop of Maurienne.

A BROKEN PANE OF GLASS.

One That Once Cost Citizen George Francis Train $50,000.

A broken window pane once cost George Francis Train more than $50,000. It was this way: Citizen Train, "with the brains of twenty men in his head, all pulling different ways," went to Omaha in the spring of 1864.

And he did. The contract was let that day. Scores of men were put to work. The site selected was Ninth and Herndon streets, near the Missouri river.

The building alone cost $40,000. The furnishings cost $20,000 more. In the basement was a gas plant, the only one west of St. Louis.

After the business part of Omaha moved back from the river the Herndon House declined and finally relapsed into a state of innocuous destitution.

VOODOO DOCTORS.

Belief of Negroes in Their Ability to Work "Spells." A well educated and clever negro in Philadelphia related, with obvious sincerity, an experience of his own with a famous voodoo "doctor" of that city.

"Once a person had a writ out against me," this negro said. "The constable had it. The magistrate was set against me. I went and got a charm from the 'doctor.' I met my enemy, but I was not seen. I met the constable, and he walked by and never noticed me.

This same negro related another incident of his experience: "Once I was nearly killed by a voodoo black cat, which used to come into the house. I threw a stick and hit it.

REGARDING SCHOOLS

ASSIGNMENTS GIVEN THE TEACHERS IN THE SEVERAL SCHOOLS

TERM WILL OPEN TUESDAY NEXT

Short items introducing the New Teachers to the Patrons and Pupils.

Next Tuesday morning the teachers and students of our city will begin their school work for another year. At that time every boy and girl here will be given educational privileges equal to any in the state. It is hoped that all unemployed young people will make arrangements to take up some line of school work.

During the vacation all of the buildings have been carefully cleaned, the woodwork painted, and all necessary repairs completed. At the Central buildings new hardwood floors have been put in two rooms; the double seats have been replaced with single ones and new doors leading out of the building have been placed in two rooms. New fire gongs have been added and push buttons have been placed in the basements and all of the halls. Fire extinguishers have been conveniently arranged in different parts of the building. Every precaution has been taken to facilitate escape in the event of fire. New furnaces have been placed in the west side building, single seats have been put in some rooms and the building has been modified to allow a simple exodus in the case of fire. At Lakeside two rooms have been carefully fitted up for domestic science and domestic art. One room will be used entirely for sewing. Nine oak tables have been placed in this room. The other room is provided with cooking tables, cupboards and all of the equipment needed for the proper teacher of this work.

The owners of the gymnasium building have repaired the windows and doors and have reshingled the roof. New stoves will be provided this year and the regular work will be carried on under more favorable conditions.

The course of study has been slightly modified to arrange for domestic science and domestic art in the course. The work will be as follows:

- Grade 4, handwork.
- Grade 5 and 6, sewing.
- Grade 7 and 8, cooking.
- Grade 9 and 10, sewing.
- Grade 11 and 12, cooking.

It will be noticed that the teaching corps has changed considerably during the past two years. A fault of the Manistique system as well as a defect in a large number of schools in the state, is the inability to keep teachers for any length of time. Unless the salary is as large as that given by other cities and unless the teachers are made a part of the social life of the community, the general public must expect that many of our best teachers will leave us and that a large amount of experimental work will be done in the schools. Following is the list:

HIGH SCHOOL:

- L. Reichle, Ph. D., Harvard, Prin. of High school.
- Gretta Bagley, A. B., Alma, history.
- Pearl Davidson, A. B., Chicago, mathematics.

At commencement she received a $50 prize for maintaining the highest rank in the sciences and mathematics throughout her college course.

Miss Maud Wilson, who will have charge of the English department, is a graduate of the University of Michigan. During her university course she has taken 22 courses in English and 14 courses in History. In addition to her degree she was given a Teachers Diploma in English and History. Miss Louise Nowack will have charge of the Music and Drawing. She is a graduate of our State Normal at Ypsilanti and comes highly recommended.

Miss Carmelita Martin, who graduated from the Domestic Science and Art Department of the Ypsilanti Normal, will do excellent work in installing this new work. She is one of the strongest students of this year's class.

Miss Grace Atchinson will have charge of the ungraded room. She has had two years' experience teaching in the rural schools and is well fitted for this work.

Miss Jennie Pattinson, in addition to her two years' work in Albion College has had considerable experience teaching in the country. She is a graduate of the local high school and is well fitted for the work.

Miss Helen Havlichek is both a graduate of the Manistique High School and the Ypsilanti Normal. She has an excellent record in both schools. She has had two years' experience in ungraded schools.

Miss Fannie Blaine is a graduate of the Ypsilanti Normal (Limited Certificate) and has had five years of successful experience. She will acceptably fill the position here.

Miss Josephine Leith is a graduate of the Limited Certificate Course of the Marquette Normal and comes highly recommended by her critic teachers.

Miss Floy Borner graduated from Ypsilanti this year and has had three years of successful experience. While at Ypsilanti she was editor of the College Annual and was identified with the social life of the college.

Miss Edna Kilmer is a graduate of the Kindergarten department of the Mt. Pleasant Normal and has had four years' experience. She has been teaching at Mass during the past year.

REGARDING SCHOOLS

ASSIGNMENTS GIVEN THE TEACHERS IN THE SEVERAL SCHOOLS

TERM WILL OPEN TUESDAY NEXT

Short Items Introducing the New Teachers to the Patrons and Pupils.

Next Tuesday morning the teachers and students of our city will begin their school work for another year. At that time every boy and girl here will be given educational privileges equal to any in the state. It is hoped that all unemployed young people will make arrangements to take up some line of school work.

During the vacation all of the buildings have been carefully cleaned, the woodwork painted, and all necessary repairs completed. At the Central buildings new hardwood floors have been put in two rooms; the double seats have been replaced with single ones and new doors leading out of the building have been placed in two rooms. New fire extinguishers have been added and push buttons have been placed in the basements and all of the halls. Fire extinguishers have been conveniently arranged in different parts of the building. Every precaution has been taken to facilitate escape in the event of fire. New furnaces have been placed in the west side building, single seats have been put in some rooms and the building has been modified to allow a simple exodus in the case of fire. At Lakeside two rooms have been carefully fitted up for domestic science and domestic art. One room will be used entirely for sewing. Nine oak tables have been placed in this room. The other room is provided with cooking tables, cupboards and all of the equipment needed for the proper teacher of this work.

The owners of the gymnasium building have repaired the windows and doors and have reshingled the roof. New stoves will be provided this year and the regular work will be carried on under more favorable conditions.

The course of study has been slightly modified to arrange for domestic science and domestic art in the course. The work will be as follows:

- Grade 4, handwork.
- Grade 5 and 6, sewing.
- Grade 7 and 8, cooking.
- Grade 9 and 10, sewing.
- Grade 11 and 12, cooking.

It will be noticed that the teaching corps has changed considerably during the past two years. A fault of the Manistique system as well as a defect in a large number of schools in the state, is the inability to keep teachers for any length of time. Unless the salary is as large as that given by other cities and unless the teachers are made a part of the social life of the community, the general public must expect that many of our best teachers will leave us and that a large amount of experimental work will be done in the schools. Following is the list:

- HIGH SCHOOL:
- L. Reichle, Ph. D., Harvard, Prin. of High school.
 - Gretta Bagley, A. B., Alma, history.
 - Pearl Davidson, A. B., Chicago, mathematics.
 - Lewis Anderson, Alma college, commercial.

ated from the Domestic Science and Art Department of the Ypsilanti Normal, will do excellent work in installing this new work. She is one of the strongest students of this year's class.

SHERIFF HAD LEG BROKEN

Both Bones of Leg Broken Midway Between Knee and Ankle.

Magnus Klagstad, sheriff, while attempting to catch a setting hen at his barn Friday evening, slipped on a wet board and fell breaking both bones of his left leg midway between knee and ankle. He was carried to his home and the fracture reduced. He has for a few days past been resting well but will be laid up for some time. His many friends sympathize with him on account of his misfortune.

The sheriff has one satisfaction that of saving one of the eggs he had in his hands when he fell.

Because It Has Merit.

"A DANGEROUS FRIEND" claims the distinction that during its firm season it weathered one of the worst financial panics the theatrical business has ever known. Very few new productions outside of New York and Chicago can make that assertion. Why? Because it has merit and the public recognized it and patronized it. We will have a chance to see Mr. Conrad's "Panis" success at the Opera House next Monday night.

"A DANGEROUS FRIEND" claims the distinction that during its firm season it weathered one of the worst financial panics the theatrical business has ever known. Very few new productions outside of New York and Chicago can make that assertion. Why? Because it has merit and the public recognized it and patronized it. We will have a chance to see Mr. Conrad's "Panis" success at the Opera House next Monday night.
