DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS TOURS IN INTEREST OF THE RED CROSS

Popular Movie Star Actor To Make Trip From Coast To Coast— Pays Own Expenses

Escorted by a bevy of attractive Women War Workers from the Y. W. C. A., the Women's Division of the Y. M. C. A. and the Salvation Army, all in overseas uniform, Douglas Fairbanks, who was recently appointed special publicity representative for National activities, of the United War Work Campaign for One Hundred Seventy Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars, raided the offices of New York's prominent department store owners, yesterday which accounts for the First Two Million Dollars turned over to John D. Rockefeller Jr., Chairman of the New York City Committee. The screen acrobat worked his famous smile over-time. Few resisted him. Those who complained they were financially embarrassed because of their Liberty Bond investments, Douglas recommended that they come through with some of Uncle Sam's certificates. Everyone who is not in active service has to put their hands in their pockets and shell out," said Fairbanks yesterday afternoon at the National Headquarters. "I'm going to get my Twenty five million. That's a cinch. Americans never fail. They always deliver the goods. Ask the Kaiser."

Fairbanks is scheduled to leave New York in a few days and will speak from the back platform of the train at every stop from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. He is personally paying for this planned tour as his contribution to the Campaign. He has pledged himself to collect Twenty-five Million dollars during the campaign week of November 11th to the 18th.

The Methodist Ladies' Aid Society will meet next Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors, at 2:30. Please bring your fruit for Wesley Memorial Hospital.

Can Now Eat and Sleep in Comfort

If troubled with indigestion or sleeplessness you should read what Miss Agnes Turner, Chicago, Ill., has to say: "Overwork, irregular meals and carelessness regarding the ordinary rules of health, gradually undermined it until last fall I became a wreck of my former self. I suffered from continual headache, was unable to digest my food, which seemed to lay as a dead weight on my stomach. I was very constipated and my complexion became dark, yellow and muddy as I felt. Sleeplessness was added to my misery, and I would awake as tired as when I went to sleep. I heard of Chamberlin's Tablets and found such relief after taking them that I kept up the treatment for nearly two months. They cleansed my stomach, invigorated my system, and since that time I can eat and sleep in comfort. I am today entirely well."

Help Make Our County 100% One of the biggest things we ever did in this County was in putting over our War Chest Drive. We wanted a fund to help maintain the magnificent work of the Y. M. C. A., K. of C., Salvation Army, and those other splendid organizations who are doing so much to keep up the morale and fighting spirit of the American soldier. We made our quota in dollars, but we are not 100% in subscribers. Newcomers If you have moved here since our War Chest Drive closed, consider this as a special invitation to share our patriotic privileges. The Huts and Canteens in France should have the support of every man, woman and child in America—you need not be deprived of your right to help because you were not here when the Drive was on. Sign the Coupon and add your name to our Honor Roll. Old Residents Who Are Not Subscribers In spite of the hard work of our Patriotic Fund solicitors, they could not see everyone. Don't feel slighted if a solicitor didn't see you while the Drive was on—probably he called when you were out. You still have an opportunity to join with your neighbors in caring for our boys in France. Do it now—sign and mail that coupon! Delinquents We hate to say it, but there are some delinquents in this County—men who have promised weekly or monthly payments and have not made good. A few are unfortunate—sickness or other misfortunes made it impossible for them to keep up their payments. But there are others—too many others—who have no excuse except a lack of backbone. The enthusiasm and spirit of the Campaign induced them to subscribe and they have been either too selfish or too weak-willed to stand by their promises. Delinquents—here is another chance for you! Start right now with your current payment—make future payments as soon as they come due—make up back payments as fast as possible. Prove your right to be called an American! WILHELM AND NAPOLEON

The Allied council now sitting at Versailles, determining the conditions upon which Germany can secure peace and preparing to readjust the map of Europe calls vividly to mind a similar council held at the same place 103 years ago. For twenty-two years France had rudely disturbed and in fact, well nigh ruined the balance of power in Europe, the smaller kingdoms had been overturned and reorganized in the interests of France, while every major nation had been humiliated on the field of battle, with the exception of England and that nation is still paying interest on the enormous debts resulting from her subsidies to other nations during that period.

In 1815, however, the Allies met not in the interests of Democracy but to crush it, England alone of all the Allies preserved at home institutions of a fairly liberal character. The Russian was still a serf and the German peasant had been released from peonage but seven years before. The gospel of human rights laid down by the French revolution and vindicated by its citizens armies for twenty years was overpowered by the weight of autocracy and compelled to accept again the theory of the divine rights of the Bourbon kings. It was then that the disposition of the French emperor occupied the attention of the Allies to the exclusion of nearly every other subject, just as today the ultimate fate of the Kaiser overshadows all other issues in settling the war.

The first Napoleon was of the common people, no royal blood called for the kingly protection of his conquerors. It has always been more or less a custom to assassinate royalty when it became "de trop." With bomb, bullet or dirk, complicated situations are frequently clarified, but the spectacle of the head of one of the oldest royal houses in Europe being brought to court and tried for his crimes and punished in a perfectly legal manner, is a sight that will hardly gratify the democracy of this day and time.

Napoleon was declared an enemy to society and incarcerated on a desert island in charge of an industrious goaler, but at the same time it must be remembered that he was the popular leader of the French nation. The first sovereign of history to be raised to power through unrestricted vote of the common people, Napoleon never lost the love, admiration and confidence of his subjects.

The Kaiser on the other hand has made it his business in life to keep from the common people the right of self government and the privilege of the vote. That they are today within measurable distance of self-government is not due to the efforts of their ruler but rather in spite of him. His lifelong ambition has been the aggrandizement of himself and his class and it has been due solely to the desire for an efficient and powerful machine that the common people have been allowed to reach a moderately prosperous level. The injection of brutality and the sinister destruction of innocent and harmless civilian interests during warfare are among the charges that a scandalized world lays squarely at the feet of the German Kaiser. That there is not a child in Poland under seven years of age and that ten million Russians are upon the verge of starvation are among the dreadful consequences of the Kaiser's lust for world dominion.

Embodying the very spirit of autocracy his face has been turned away from the common people except at such times as he deigned to address them on the "Me and Gott" proposition. He was the Lord's anointed and could do no wrong and unlike the prophet, received honor in his own country. The mailed fist became a nightmare to his subjects and a menace to his neighbors until swollen with pride and insolent ambition he calmly planned the partition of America. The attributes and characteristics of the Hohenzollerns have been carried in the person of the present emperor to a point where they are no longer anything but ridiculous. Were it not for the price the world has had to pay to reduce him to the ranks, his career from the time he kicked Bismarck from the council chamber would be fit material for an opera bouffe.

For sheer ability loftiness of character and these qualities that go to endear a man to his fellows be he royal or common. Napoleon the First outranks any of the Hohenzollern and if the council of Versailles in 1815 could reduce him to the necessity of selling plate and furniture in order to supply his table, the present council should be able not only to strip the Kaiser of his power and privilege but also obtain material redress for the crimes he has committed.

THE KAISER

We may catch the Kaiser and lock him up, we may confiscate his estates and imprison him in a Rhenish castle or we might take him into captivity and exhibit him as Mark Twain tells of the 'Royal Nonesuch' in Huckleberry Finn, but it is doubtful if any destiny a capricious fate could bestow would equal the bitter humiliation of the enforced abdication of himself, his family and his heirs from the throne of his fathers.

He who thirty years ago assumed control of the most powerful kingdom of modern times, has sacrificed his power and destroyed its substance in the vain pursuit of ambitious dreams. He has brought mourning to every family in his realm and has mortgaged the material prosperity of his people for a generation to come.

He who told Gerard two years ago that he would stand no nonsense from America has now learned that the only nonsense America would not stand is the silly pretensions of divine right. Amusing himself in the palace at Potsdam in making a toy and a mock of the Bolshevik element in Russia, he has since viewed from the safe refuge of Holland the red flag of anarchy replace the royal banner of Prussia.

There is not probably a man in America who can adequately judge the feelings of the former Kaiser. Tried by the method that he himself is sponsor for, the right of might, he has failed and in failing, if the analogy holds good, has proved himself unfit to succeed. Formerly the busiest of men, from now on to the day of his death he cannot do a thing that will count for good or evil. His teeth are drawn and to recoin a phrase of the late Grover Cleveland, his future will be a state of "Innocuous Disentude." He will shortly disappear into the obscurity that has swallowed his partners in crime and misfortune, King Constantine and Ferdinand and the Emperor Karl.

WHO IS THE VICTOR?

With the coming of peace the attention of the civilized world is directed to the terms upon which Germany may resume her place among peaceable nations. It must be remembered that save in man power, Germany is no whit the worse for the war. Industrially she is undoubtedly in a better condition to compete for the world's trade than in 1914.

She may give up her armament, surrender her navy and demobilize her armies without decreasing her earning power or affecting the prosperity of her people. While the French, Belgians and the destroyed states of Central Europe are painfully accomplishing their reconstruction, Germany, if allowed to, will increase her production and enlarge her foreign trade to the point where her superiority temporarily eclipsed by four years of war, will again be maintained.

By the payment of an enormous indemnity and in no other way can the German people be made to taste the real fruits of defeat. A figure that would reach well up into the billions should be named and payment insisted upon. Punitive damages should not be assessed but neither should the appraised value of the former German colonies be used to offset her debt to the weak and defenseless nations she has ruined and destroyed.

A NEW GERMANY

The kingdom of Austria-Hungary having some days ago ceased to exist, the future of German Austria will doubtless become more and more identified with that of the various other German states.

For 175 years it has been the national policy of Prussia to exclude Austria from the Germanic confederation. In both population and territory this country will exceed Prussia and having no national destiny of her own, will undoubtedly become sooner or later, a part of the German empire.

Having met unparalleled disaster under the leadership of Prussia, the other German states, especially those of southern Germany are already beginning to assert their political independence. With the addition of Austria and under the leadership of Bavaria, a new Germany will in time to come number among its secondary states the once powerful and arrogant Prussia.

HISTORIC SEDAN

When in 1870 France was cajoled or tricked into a disastrous war with the rising power of Prussia, the crowning humiliation occurred at Sedan when the second great army of the empire together with the emperor was cut off and compelled to surrender.

Since that time the great German holiday has been "Sedan Day." Not a year has gone by that impressive programs have not extolled the military glories of Prussia at the expense of its humiliated neighbor.

There has been nothing generous in the German attitude in this matter, the anniversary does not celebrate the triumph of a principle or the vindication of national rights. It is merely the commemoration of a military event and marks the only epoch in European history where the unaided weight of Prussian arms prevailed against the French.

He preserves a dignified silence concerning that day some sixty years before when in two battles fought on succeeding days, the French totally destroyed his military power and dictated peace within a fortnight of the declaration of war.

It is to the credit of the French nation that the military humiliation of her foes have never been the occasion of national holidays. With far more glorious military traditions than her bigoted eastern neighbor, she has ever been generous and forgiving, and has speedily assumed friendly relations with her defeated enemies. Germany on the contrary, has endeavored by every means in her power to keep alive the smouldering hatred and animosity until at the outbreak of the present war, the vindication of French wrongs was the pivot that involved first England and then America and it is gratifying to know that it was the American army with a strategy far superior to that of the enemy in '71 who avenged the honor of France at Sedan. With a force nearly equal to the assailants, the Germans allowed themselves to be forced back to a point where the signing of the armistice alone permits them to withdraw in safety upwards of a million men.

WAR RELIEF WORK

Those who imagine that with the cessation of hostilities the work of the army and its subsidiary organizations will automatically cease, have failed to properly understand conditions in Europe.

It will not be sufficient for the great powers of the Entente to create by fiat twenty or more nations along racial or religious lines and turn them loose to work out their own salvation. Councils of workmen and soldiers revert by natural processes from democracy to anarchy.

The strong hand of control will be in evidence in the Balkans and the western Russian for two years to come and the Poles if nationally reconstructed, will require a much longer period to assume the natural proportions of smooth working democracy. America and her allies, feeling a moral responsibility for these new nations, are preparing to police practically the whole of eastern Europe and where the army goes, there will also be found work for the various charitable organizations recognized by the government and supported by gifts from the purses of patriotic Americans.

The Hour-a-Week plan in Schoolcraft county has a long and useful future. Boost it.

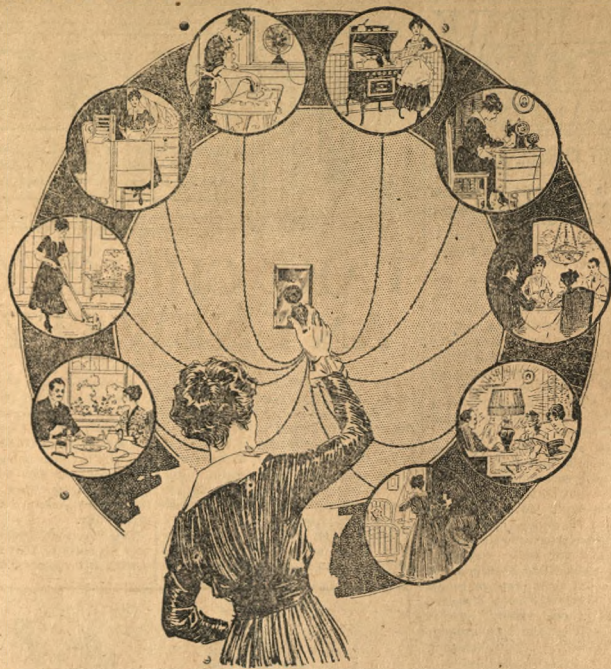

THE INFLUENZA

Among the most fortunate counties of the state in avoiding the ravages of the present epidemic, Schoolcraft hardly knows whether to pat herself on the back for her successful precautionary measures and the strictness of her quarantine or to thank the Lord that a visitation passed by with a margin of safety.

The statement of a prominent local physician that not a single authentic case of Influenza has been developed in the city, is worthy of consideration but at the same time the numerous cases of fever and other symptoms running true to form can hardly be ascribed to sympathetic illness.

STRIKES NOT PERMISSIBLE

Townsend Scudder, Supreme Court Justice, has granted a permanent injunction of Rosenwasser Brothers Inc., of Long Island City, restraining the United Shoe Workers of America from striking during the war. In what is considered as one of the most important decisions on labor rendered since the war began, Justice Scudder said the production of war industries is so closely and immediately connected with the actual military operations of the United States that it may be said to be a part of them. "Can it be," he asks, "that with means afforded by the Government to adjust differences between employers and employes in our war industries, a labor union has the right, for any cause whatever, to induce or incite workman in such industries to strike, or not to work, and thereby to jeopardize the successful outcome of our country's military operations, and all that depends upon them, even though so to do would have been lawful in times of peace? Any answer other than "No" is unthinkable.—Michigan Investor.

RED CROSS PREPARED TO CARRY ON WORK

Extensive Program Arranged For Reconstruction Era—Untold Misery To Be Relieved

"On February 10 last year nearly six weeks before the United States declared war, National Red Cross Headquarters advised its chapters to prepare for war. That which has followed in the record of the Red Cross in helping to win this war and to relieve the suffering growing out of it, constitutes something of which every American citizen has a right to be proud. Every American Red Cross worker must feel a sense of gratitude in having had a share in it all.

The moment is now come to prepare for peace. Actual peace may come at any moment; it may be deferred for some time, until peace is really here. There can be no relaxation in any Red Cross effort incident to active hostilities. But even with peace let no one suppose that the work of the Red Cross is finished. Millions of American boys are still under arms. Thousands of them are sick or wounded. Owing to the shortage in shipping it may take a year or more to bring our boys home from France. But whatever the time, our protecting arms must be about them and their families over the whole world which must elapse before the normal life of peace can be resumed.

Our soldiers and sailors are enlisted until the commander in chief tells them there is no more work for them to do in the war, let every Red Cross member worker show our returned soldiers and sailors that to care for their health, welfare and happiness we are enlisted for no less than a period that they are:

The cessation of war will reveal a picture of misery such as the world has never seen before, especially in the many countries which cannot help themselves, the American people will expect the Red Cross to continue to act as their agent in repairing broken spirits and broken bodies. Peace terms and peace conditions will determine how we may best minister to the vast stricken areas which have been harrowed by war and in this great act of mercy the heart and spirit of the American people must continue to be mobilized through the American Red Cross.

On behalf of the War Council, we accordingly ask each member of our splendid body of workers throughout the land to bear in mind the solemn obligation which rests upon each one to "Carry On." We cannot abate one instant in our efforts or in our spirits. There will be an abundance of work to do, and specific advices will be given, but even at the moment of peace let no Red Cross worker falter.

Our spirits must now call us to show that it is not the roar of cannon or the blood of our own alone that directs our activities, but that a great people will continue to respond gratefully and freely to its obligation and opportunity to serve mankind.

GOOD-BYE MY SOLDIER BOY

The following song written by Lillian Russell, the fifteen year old colored girl at the Manistique High School, has been copyrighted and sold to an Eastern publishing house. It is printed in The Courier-Record by permission of the authoress:

See that Southern lassie kiss her soldier boy good-bye,
 Her eyes are dimmed with tears
 Her heart is filled with fears
 She is thinking of the day when he will sail away
 With drooping head and tender words she says:

(Chorus)
 Good-bye my soldier boy,
 I hate to see you go,
 You are my life, my joy,
 You are my all you
 But you belong to dear Uncle Sammie,
 You must help to win this war,
 So remember me when o'er the deep blue sea
 And don't forget your Northern Lassie.

You must leave me now to go across that deep blue sea
 To fight autocracy
 And win Democracy
 So go and be a soldier brave and fight it like your dad
 And make America right glad to have such lads.

Subtle Youthful Reasoning.
 Jimmy had been coaxing his mother all day for some of the new jam that she had made, and in order to discourage him she tried to tell him that it did not turn out well and that she would have to give it to the little dog, Toodles, next door. A few hours later she found him in a corner in the pantry, all smeared up with the jam and the jar half empty. In answer to his mother's questions as to what he was doing he said: "Toodies don't like jam, and you mustn't frow anything away, so I thought I would eat it."

LONDON IS STIRRED BY FUEL SAVING

New Gas and Electricity Regulations Fall Heavily on Household.

The regulations regarding the reduction of the use of gas and electricity have caused considerable feeling in London among households using these supplies for lighting and cooking purposes. The effect of the order has been to place the careful person who has kept down her bills in a more difficult position than her neighbor who has been wasteful.

Many families in view of the coal rationing scheme have installed gas or electricity for heating and warming purposes, and they now find that under the conditions of the order these appliances will be insufficient for their needs.

The object of the order was stated as being the saving of coal, but the effect, especially in the middle-class homes, will be to rely more on the coal fire for cooking and heating purposes than the other means, and as a result more coal will be burned.

The London traffic problem was never in even a fair way of solution until the American experts came over and took the matter in hand some years ago. But they succeeded in doing more than solving the problem of rapid transit—they taught the people to use their systems, and the passenger traffic of London has grown enormously in consequence.

Today experts are needed more than ever as the situation of London traffic under the present conditions goes from bad to worse. The commandeering by the military authorities has reduced the supply of motor omnibuses to a mere dribble, while the saving of coal and electricity has caused the withdrawal of many of the surface cars and the subway trains.

In consequence every vehicle is crowded, and to attempt to board either train or car or bus during the rush hours is only a possibility for the athlete.

Letters from Our Soldier Boys

Ninety-First Division, (Wild West) Co. B, 347th M. G. Brigade, Dear Home Folks:—

This is the full amount of my paper but that does not lessen my love for you all. All is well and I am enjoying a short rest. You see it is this way—I wrote Mother as fully as possible two weeks ago when we were back of the lines for three days.

We were called in again and this time, although the drive still went on we did not get in such dangerous positions as we followed in support, most of the time. This does not lessen the hardships, however, and my cold told on me then I got complications and it was hard to do the work it made me so weak.

A machine gunner needs heaps of strength all the time, but I hung together until our division was relieved and gave out as we marched out. I dropped in the grass and slept, I don't know how long. A driver picked me up and took me to the field hospital where they examined me and I was sent to this base—I feel much better now and in a few days will be alright again.

Little do you realize how good the cot felt. I slept my first night of real sleep for over a month. What a privilege it is to us to be here where we can relax and rest and have a shower bath too. Just to think that we can sleep without a gas mask on and we are not bothered by gas alarms and all is quiet.

We are not bothered by the sputtering of the machine guns, either, nor by the bursting of high explosives or the roar of the artillery behind us. The Devil made war but God rules the hospitals.

Here we can get a little taste of Heaven upon earth. If anyone deserves credit on earth it is these nurses. I know they will get it in Heaven.

Everyone of the hospital corps that I have come in contact with is a credit to the cause for which we go over the top. I may get a chance to drop a line and will do so when I know just when I return to my company.

STANLEY TROWSELL
Four days later—
I am up and feeling much better.

The Man in the Tobacco Store Says

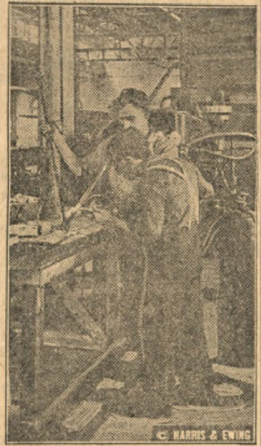

It does beat all how men are taking to Real Gravely, now that they know it costs nothing extra to chew this class of tobacco. All you have to do is to get a man to take his first plug of Gravely. Let him get the pure, satisfying Gravely taste, and learn for himself how much longer the small Gravely chew stays with him than a big chew of ordinary plug.

It goes further—that's why you can get the good taste of this class of tobacco without extra cost.

SKILL ESSENTIAL IN AIRPLANE WORK

The highest grade of workmanship is required in the preparation of metal parts for airplanes. Every part must be finely tempered and accurately fitted to prevent collapse under hard strains. These men are welding parts of a navy hydroplane. The navy is guarding carefully publication of any parts or the whole of a finished plane.

BREAKS POLE WITH HEAD

Soldier From Here is Still After the Kaiser.
Joseph McKinley Walker, Company C, Eighteenth Infantry, First battalion, Camp Grant, en route with colored troops East, while dreaming of the Huns jumped from his berth, which was No. 13, in nightmare, and struck an iron signal pole with his head, breaking the pole. He was taken to the hospital at Hammond, Ind., apparently dying. Recently he appeared at the depot and begged the agent to get him East so he could rejoin his comrades, who, he said, were bad actors and liable to catch the Kaiser before he could get there if he didn't hurry.

MOTOR COP MAKES GOOD

Joins Tank Squad After Completing Task Set Self.
"If I get the fellows that stole that car I'll feel that I am a good man and will enlist in the 'tank' service," declared Leo Hays, a motorcycle policeman of Omaha, to his fellow workers at the police station. Then he left the building in search of two men who had stolen a car from A. L. Gillinsky. Half an hour later he returned with the car and two men.

Hays, who is an expert gas engine mechanic, is now in the tank service.

All Wish to Wed Soldier.

A soldier at Camp Beauregard wrote the editor of a paper at Pine Bluff, Ark., saying he would like to correspond with a Pine Bluff girl with a view to matrimony. The editor published the letter. The following day the soldier received ten proposals from as many girls. Proposals are still pouring in.

Is This Your Boy?

He's in France, thousands of miles from home. He's lonesome and homesick—his only consolation and recreation is in the Huts and Recreation Camps maintained by the Y. M. C. A., the K. of C., and the others of the seven recognized War Organizations.

Suppose, at his bluest moment, he is told that these Camps and Huts must close because you—and others like you—will not give the dollars that are necessary to keep them open. Just suppose that it's your boy—would your sorrow and indignation be as deep and strong as his?

Then Back Him Up!

The citizens of this County as a whole responded generously when our War Chest Drive was on, but there are many whose names do not appear on our rolls.

We need you and we want you now! The needs of our splendid organizations are increasing hourly as more men are landed in France, Italy and Belgium, and as the battle line advances farther and farther into the districts devastated by the Huns. They need more money—they count upon you to supply it.

If it isn't for your boy—then for your friends and your neighbors who are there. Back them up with your dollars—make them feel that every American is back of them!

Every one has an ambition which he some day hopes to attain—every one has the right to have an ambition. Our ambition is to "dig in" and make a big success of this embryo journal.

Both papers are issued by two individual "lit" societies, predestined to be enthusiastic opponents and we can assure you of interesting competition between the two editorial staffs.

Unlike Topsy— Swift & Company Has Not "Jest Grown"

Swift & Company, in fifty years of well ordered growth, has become one of the great national services because it has learned to do something for the American people which they needed to have done for them, in the way in which they preferred to have it done.

It has met each successive demand, in the changing conditions of national life, by getting good meat to increasing millions effectively, efficiently, economically, and expeditiously.

The Swift & Company packing plants, refrigerator cars, car routes, branch houses, organization, and personnel of today are the practical solutions, born of practical experience, to the food problems of half a century.

Because of all these elements working in correlation and union, Swift & Company is able to supply more and better meat to more people than would have been possible otherwise, at a net profit per pound of meat so low (a fraction of a cent) that the consumer price is practically unaffected.

Strip away any portion of this vast, smooth-running human machine, and you make a large part of the meat supply uncertain, lose the benefit of half a century of fruitful experience, and scatter the intelligent energies of men who have devoted a life work toward meeting the needs of a nation in one vital field.

The booklet of preceding chapters in this story of the packing industry will be mailed on request to Swift & Company, Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Illinois.

FRESHMAN NOTES

We, the Freshman class—but stop what is the Freshman class usually called? Freshies. "Freshies, Freshies, green as grass," is quoted to us several times. Are we the Freshman class, who consider ourselves quite an important class in M. H. S. going to give the other classes a chance to say we are as green as grass? We won't. We'll show 'em.

In the first place we are going to organize. Mr. Milton has appointed a committee to draw up a constitution, and we elected Raymond Frye as our treasurer to see that all of our money lands safely in the new Student Bank, and also to see that there are no Freshman slackers. Slackers? We won't have any!

JUNIOR NOTES

"Pay your dues and bribe the blues." —To put it mildly the Juniors don't seem to have improved in English, since they packed their eighth grade grammars in the family chest. Nouns and pronouns put forth their magnetic power as they draw scores of Juniors to their after-school sessions. It's great stuff—English grammar.

Last Friday morning amid the bustle and bustle of the Chemistry laboratory, the clinking and crackling of hard glass test tubes, Ann Golden's tremulous voice was heard: "Oh! Goodness this chlorine is terrible." She voiced the thoughts of the entire class. Putting it mildly it was awful! The chlorine test seems to be the dread of each chemistry class from year to year.

Fourthly sympathy is a thing of the past; the Juniors look upon it as something which never again will exist. It has been decided upon that each student shall read and outline eight books, five to be selected by the English instructor, instead of the five of previous years. The selected books are those which are covered with about two inches of dust.

The Athenian Literary Society wishes the co-operation of all the English instructors in the high school, whose literary talents are not already occupied for the coming year.

There may be a genius amongst us, and we know it not. A Junior class meeting was held Monday night in Room 3. The new class colors, Maroon and Gold, were chosen by a majority vote. The class officers for the coming year were also elected as follows:

Charles Albin, President; Evelyn Schuster, Vice-President; Julius Rubin, Secretary; Julius Rubin, Treasurer.

If disorder should ever prevail at a meeting we fear Master Albin would be forced to mount a stool or chair to keep order, owing to his exceedingly limited height. His great pride behind the "teller's window" of the school bank, as he 'pulls' in a quarter and pushes out a nickel to the Junior on the outside. His motto is "Stay clear of the hole."

We, the Juniors, sincerely thank Ann Arbor for one thing on earth at least and that is our French instructor, who, through some unknown power or mysterious recourse, has adopted a very mild and invariable disposition. She neither smiles nor weeps as the students blunder and fail with their Yankee accents, over a very simple looking French word. A brilliant Junior suggested a strong mouth wash with Listerine before coming to French class. This makes the teeth smooth, allowing the tongue to slip nimbly about.

Owing to the celebration of Nov. 7, the classes of the following day were anything but interesting. However, Miss Orr, Miss Boston and Miss Millard opened their hearts and eyes to the situation. They carried whole classes away from the earth with Cobb's humorous story, "Speaking of Operations" and some respects the human mind never matures.

We advise that the Juniors who are in the habit of stumbling on the stairs, or wandering idly about in the upper halls, should keep the following in mind:

"Little feet be careful where you take to — or a gentle teacher might me to my room 'shoot'!"

"You remember last year Isadore's feet were the main theme of the editor's work?"

The program is entirely changed. Isadore's feet are rare objects; they are seldom seen. What's the matter, Isadore, becoming touchy in your old age? We sincerely hope not!

The truth must be known, Esther, Stanley Reed has gone forth to capture another deer! Weep not, fair one.

FRESH JOKES

We Freshmen would like to know why Miss Orr was so happy when she heard peace was declared.

We all wonder what the initials L. R. B. in our notebooks mean.

Forrest Strickler accompanied Hil-dur Lin—to the movies on Friday evening. When asked how he enjoyed the pictures, he answered: "I don't know."

Miss Mc. Howard when are unwritten wills used?

H. D.: When sailors are in the army and the will can't be delayed.

Edward Des.: May I go in my coat pocket to get my pencil?

SOPHOMORE NOTES

At the first meeting of the Sophomore class the following officers were elected:

President, Harry Olson Vice-president, Florence Peterson Treasurer, Earl Sellers Secretary, Helen Millar

At the second meeting of the sophomore, Mrs. Brem explained to the class the new system of paying the class dues. It was also decided to change the dues to 10 cents a month.

instead of 5 cents a month as it was last year.

One of the freshies took an aerial ride the other day when the principal showed him where his seat was. The only regret was that he chose a hard landing place. Poor Freshie!

At one of the meetings of the sophomores, Earl Sellers, our class treasurer, was asked to make an estimate of the expenses for the coming year. He said he thought 10 cents would cover the expenses for the year.

Our ex-president surprised himself as well as his friends when he accompanied to the show one of the freshman girls. He claims he saw the show but we doubt his word. Don't you?

SOCIETY

A very delightful little dancing party was enjoyed at the "gym" last Monday evening, celebrating Peace day. The only regret of those who attended is that it didn't last long enough.

High school students! If you've got any news you want people to know about just tell the society editor. He will spread it for you.

Miss Gates, the physical director has resigned her position in the Manistique schools and left for Chicago Nov. 6. She has accepted a civil service position in the South Parks of Chicago, as itinerant instructor in games. Miss Sophia Narbut has been secured as her successor.

The L. E. T's. entertained Nov. 4 at a farewell party for Miss Gates.

The Athens is the name of a literary society which was organized recently in high school for the promotion of debating, public speaking and other literary work. The following Athenians were elected as officers:

Carl Anderson, President; Ada Wilson, Vice-president; Olive Moulton, Secretary; Roland Follo, Treasurer.

Miss Bestow is leader and Mr. Milton was chosen critic for the society. Meetings are to be held every two weeks in Room 3 of the High school at 7:30 in the evening.

Music seems to have regained lost interest among the boys in M. H. S. again. At least the membership in the Boy's Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Wanless, has increased rapidly each week lately. Practices are held every Tuesday evening. With lots of songsters, a good quartette ought to be "easy picking" this year.

Miss Owen, our Latin instructor and talented violinist has organized a high school orchestra. A number of instruments and musicians have been recruited from among the students, and the organization bids fair to be a success.

The student's association has purchased a player-piano for the "gym" which makes the editor glad of one thing. It will make society "notes" for his column.

"Kidnedeamavin!"—You've got to be a Senior in order to twist your tongue correctly to say it and then some can't do it—and it means "memories" in the red man's language. It is the name of our Senior annual, you see, and, being the first one of its kind to be put out by a graduating class, we are starting out with the name to make it a "Humdinger."
