DOWN TO ZERO

In December, 1918, there were 140,000 more employes on the railroads than in December 1917. Yet the amount of freight handled in December, 1918, was considerably less than in the corresponding month of 1917.

We are doing less in a day now, and manufacturing less, so there is not as much wealth as formerly. We are all gradually getting poorer.

In Kansas City there is a concern whose lumber mill turned out 70,000 feet a day five years ago. Now it turns out 45,000 feet, although it has the same number of employes as before.

A factory which employed 700 people and did a large business in manufacturing overalls, has found that contracts made on the basis of previous output are now incapable of fulfillment. Working hours in this factory have been so much reduced that, figuring the per capita loss of time, there are 4,800 fewer working hours each week than a short time ago.

A cement concern has reported that a large increase in the number of its employes shows only a serious decrease in production as the outcome. There is also trouble in the garment trade. Suits have become hard to get because suits have not been made.

This is what has happened already. But cheer up; the worst is yet to come. There will soon be a falling off in the production of coal. The program now includes a six hour working day (more wages of course,) and soon coal will be considerably scarcer than it is now. And the general movement to limit output continues in all lines of activity, with the result that the working man, like everyone else, pays twice as much as he did for everything.

We may consent or refuse to face facts. We are careful, systematically, and calculatedly preventing the production of the necessities of

BRONCHOS AND FISH

The activity of the press agents concerning the performances of the Prince of Wales is disturbing the serenity of the Jeffersonians. He has lately succeeded in subduing a bucking broncho, and society editors have chronicled the fact. So that the Jeffersonians consider that we are being altogether too polite to royalty in paying attention to the circumstance.

The matter is really worth little attention. There are plenty of men on the western ranges who break bronchos every day, and whose names never get into the society columns. Why put the Prince of Wales there?

There is, of course, a certain languid interest in the fact that breaking bronchos is difficult and hazardous; it is, perhaps, a gratifying surprise to find that the Prince of Wales can do it. The idea that people of royal blood hardly know how to shave themselves receives a slight setback here. But the importance of the matter is trifling.

At Avalon, Catalina, Cal., the wife of one of the twenty richest people in the United States, caught a fish lately weighing 225 pounds, and the reporters bleated the fact all over the papers. In one metropolitan daily the item covered a third of a column, ending: "Tired?" said she. "No I'm not a bit tired."

This episode is about as interesting as the adventures of the Prince of Wales and the broncho. And as long as we, as a people, consider it worth while to devote newspaper space to the recreations of the wives of the very rich, we can hardly call other nations snobs for making a fuss over the pastimes of princes. But we are getting wiser all the time; we are less vulnerable to the disease than formerly—and other nations appear to be attaining the same stage of convalescence.

YOUR NEIGHBOR'S YARD—AND YOURS

We all take a look at our neighbor's yard as we pass by. If it is attractive, and appeals to the eye, we have something nice to say of it, or we think it without saying.

If it is rusty, and weather beaten, and neglected, we wonder what ails our good friend across the way. We may even pity him in his apparent inability to keep up to date.

In time we may even begin to look upon that yard as a sort of eye sore, and become just a little peevish at his carelessness.

Because, you know, we do not think much of careless people, anyway.

But what of our own yard? Do we give it that care and attention that insures it from just such thoughts and remarks by our neighbor?

Do we look it over carefully each week, with a view to eliminating the undesirable and enhancing

AN ODE TO EUGENE SAYLES

Mariar, you should order, been to Chocolat County Fair
The blooming idjit that sailing in the air.
They had the balloon ascensions and they called for men to hold
The big bag til they could fill it, then let go when they were told.
This here Sales warn't right far-sighted, for he wrapped his guy-rope tight
Round his wrist, then couldn't drop it, like the rest what did things right
He went sailing up toward Heaven-first I pretty nigh went wild
Thinking him atrick balloonist; then
I heard his little child
Saying to her Grandma, skeered like-Pop's up in the bal-loon, see?
And the way the old dame took it,
explained the who'e durn thing
to me.
Weren't a thing to do to help him,
and the thousands standing around Was expectin' evry moment, he'd come dashing to the ground.
But that there balloonist lady, Jiminy
but she's a peach—
Told him how to swing his rope round, till her trapeze was in reach.
Then they went off, both together, in a pesky parachute
And it brought them down, by cracky,
As the French say 'toot de soot.'
But the man let go his holding, just moment he touched ground—
Like as not, we'd all a-done it—but it made the girl rebound
Till she hit the wires above her—there she caught then dropped like lead
Luck, she only broke her ankle—you'd a thot she would be dead.
And that Eugene Sales, Mariar? Oh
of course he was alright
Thought twas plain from sundry actions, that he wasn't built for flight.
He was mottled white and greenish and his feelings showed right plain
And I do mistrust Mariar, if he'll ever fly again.

Educational Ass'n

Plans for the annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Educational Association, to be held in Marquette, Oct. 15, 16 and 17, are practically complete, and indications are that it will be the most instructive, and largely attended, of any session held thus far by the Association. A feature heretofore unannounced will be the alumni banquet, to be held Thursday evening, Oct. 16, in the Normal school "gym."

Marquette has been chosen for this year's meeting on account of its central location to school districts throughout upper Michigan, and because of the facilities offered by the Normal school both for the thorough conduct of the discussions and for the facilities provided for accommo-

Fair Week Notes

BY HECK

High and Twist was driven by Siples to a magnificent finish when he went from fourth to second place in the free for all trot and pace in the last quarter of the first heat in that event.
This was without doubt the spectacular feature of the entire racing program of the Fair.

Quinlan's Wiggle Pointer was never in danger in the 2:20 trot and pace Thursday.

F. N. Cookson's comment when the man was seen soaring away toward the heavens was: "Well there's an exhibition of gall for you, a man running away with another man's wife in broad daylight right before the other man's eyes." And a voice in the crowd replied, "Yes, but isn't it the time honored privilege of women to have a string attached to a man?"
The manner of his going did not appear to have the necessary reassuring effect upon the man who made the involuntary balloon flight Thursday, to inspire him with a thought of anyone's safety but his own.

A Garden gentleman in red breeches entertained the crowd in the Grandstand with an exhibition of fancy dance steps for a few minutes on Thursday. The audience wanted more of it but "Smithy" was either bashful or out of mind and refused to respond to an encore.

Mrs. S. Grover, who suffered considerably from a fractured heel, caused by the accident at the balloon ascension during Fair week, is getting along nicely. It is expected that she will be sufficiently recovered to remove her to her home in Seney next Sunday.

Herman Saladin went to Manistique Tuesday morning to have dental work done.

One of the biggest dances ever held in the Garden hall was given Friday night by the Nahma dancing club, Johnson's orchestra of Escanaba furnishing the music. The hall was filled to its capacity but in spite of the fact that it was so crowded, everybody had a good time and are anxiously waiting for them to come again.

The ladies of the Congregational church served midnight luncheon to 100 couples.

At 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon the Manistique team drove here to play the game that was supposed to be played a week ago but which was postponed on account of rain.

The game started at 4 o'clock and at 6 o'clock when it was called to a close, only eight and one-half innings were played. The score was 4 to 6 in favor of Manistique. Our boys were gaining on them and we feel confident that if the nine innings had been played we would have won. The pitchers for Manistique were Vassau and Ludlow (the baby giant) and Norton was the catcher. Prokop twirled for Garden and Bailey caught.

Something very unusual happened in Garden Sunday night. While the town was fast asleep and everything was wrapped up by the darkness of a moonless night, someone broke into Casper's store and got away with several pairs of shoes, men's shirts and $12 in cash which they found in the till. The entrance was effected by means of a trap door underneath the building where the sweepings are thrown out. Evidence shows, that the culprit was in an awful hurry because the floor was strewn with boxes and shoes that he didn't take time to put back on the shelves. The Casper Bros. have not as yet been able to make an accurate estimation of the total loss.

Doesn't it seem queer that in a town of this size we must have among us some one who will not live up to the laws and be on brotherly terms with everybody as would naturally be expected? Now this isn't the first time such an offense has been committed but several times this summer people have complained of having garden stuff stolen and cellars have been robbed of canned fruits. Only two weeks ago two prominent business men despaired of having their apple and plum trees shorn of their burdens. What is this old world coming to? Guess it's nearly time for a thorough investigation to be made, don't you think so Mr. Constable and Mr. Sheriff?

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Griffin of Cooks were in Garden Sunday to witness the ball game. They drove home after the show.

Pauline Boudreau leaves Thursday morning for Chicago where she will enter the Chicago Art school. She will take a course in music, art and designing. Pauline graduated from the Garden High school in May last, with high honors and it is almost a certainty that she will be successful in her new undertaking as that line of work is her hobby. Best wishes for your success, Pauline.

A big baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chandanois Monday. Both mother and babe are doing nicely.

Tuesday morning Mr. and Mrs. Henry Deloria and Father Dufort started on an auto trip to Escanaba, Oconto, Green Bay and DePere. They will be gone a week. Mrs. Charles O'msted and daughter, La Verle, rode as far as Escanaba with them.

The following is a communication received by the Courier-Record from one of our Fayette farmers, in answer to a quip under the heading of the (Passing Show) in the editorial columns of the Record, under date of Sept. 11, which reads as follows: "The farmer who is getting $60 for his butter and eggs is especially bitter against high prices of sugar and shoes."

many happy returns of his birthday when they departed.

Tuesday of next week will be another treat for the young people of this peninsula when Johnson's Orchestra of Escanaba will come and play for a dance that will be held at the Fayette Hall. The evening of that day, no need saying that there will be a crowd for the occasion.

Miss Amanda Birk and Miss Mildred Collinson left here yesterday for Escanaba, where they will take in the Northern Fair and spend a few days with relatives and friends while there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Grathen and children of Grand Rapids, Mich., arrived here yesterday to spend a few days visiting at the home of the former's brother, Mr. Mike Grathen. It is about ten years since Mr. Grathen left here and he remarks that Fayette still looks good.

Several carloads of joyseekers attended the Garden dance Friday night in spite of the weather. Among the cars motoring was one which had a very exciting experience on their homeward journey. When the dance broke up and they were about to leave everything went well until they were a short ways from Garden the car refused to go. After spending four hours on the road trying to find out what was the matter they finally reached their destination. Nevertheless they had a very enjoyable time.

Miss Florence and Helen Lauson have returned to Escanaba after spending a week's vacation with relatives here.

Mrs. Peter Hanson spent Wednesday in Escanaba.

Leila Gierke spent the week-end with her parents.

COOKS

Eighteen members of the Food Study Club of the Hardwood School District at Cooks, met at the home of Mrs. William B. Casemore, Saturday afternoon, Sept. 13.

Miss Pratt, Home Demonstrator of the Soo, visited the Club.

as Delbert was in need of a doctor's services, as he had the misfortune to put a bad gash in his knee. But he is getting along nicely at present.

A dance is due for Tuesday night. Some say it is a birthday affair, others more suspicious, hint at a wedding dance. Anyway the cigars are promised to the gentlemen to kind of hush things up. You know people at Steuben are such a suspicious lot.

The folks have all returned from the Fair and report a good time.

Mrs. Anna Gordon and Myrtle McManus spent Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Moore.

"I went to New York to get my share. I wasn't going to be ousted, I, who had been one of the discoverers. I don't know how much Carson paid Louis, but I meant to demand half. I thought he had the money in his pocket.

"I followed him all that afternoon after he had left Carson's office. I watched him in the street. At night he went to a room somewhere—at the top of a tall building. I followed him. When I got in I found a woman there. Louis was talking to her and threatening her. He said she was his wife. How could she be his wife when he had married Jacqueline Duchaine?

"I didn't care—it was no business of mine. I couldn't see them, because there was a curtain in the way. There was no light in the bedroom. There was a light in the room in which I was. I put it out, so that neither of them should see my face. She might have betrayed me, you know, Simon.

"He spun round when the light went out, and pushed the curtain aside. I was waiting for that. I had calculated my blow. I stabbed him. It was a good blow, though it was delivered in the dark. He only cried out once. But the woman screamed, and a dog flew at me, and I couldn't find his money. So I ran away.

"And then there were only three of us who knew the secret. Then Simon died and there were only two, and now there are only Hewlett and I, and he is dead, poor fool, and I have my gold here. For God's sake give me a knife, Simon!"

His fingers tore at my sleeve in his last agony, and I was tempted sorely. And it was his own knife that I had. The irony of it!

He muttered once or twice and cried out in fear of the man whom he had slain. I heard him gasp a little later. Then the hand fell from my sleeve. And after that there was no further sound.

"Paul!"
It was the merest whisper from the wall. I thought it was a trick of my own mind. I dared not hope.

chaine. The whole aspect of the region had been changed; there was neither glacier nor cataract, and the lake, swollen to twice its size and height, slept peacefully beneath its covering of ice and snow.

When we returned to the cabin we were amazed to see a sleigh standing outside, and dogs feeding. Two men were seated at the priest's table, smoking.

"Diable, monsieur, don't you keep a stove in your house?" shouted a well-known voice to Pere Antoine. Then, as Jacqueline and I approached the entrance, the man turned and sprang toward us with outstretched hands that gripped ours and wrung them till we cried out in pain.

It was Alfred Dubois.
But I was stupefied to see the second man who rose and advanced toward me with a shrewd smile. For it was Tom Carson!

Presently I was telling my story—except for that part which more intimately concerned myself and Jacquenow, wanted to sell me the biggest gold mine in the world for fifty thousand dollars, and from what I know of Leroux I am ready to believe that he would try to hog it if it really exists.

"But how about Leroux?" I cried, more amused now than vexed.

"That," answered Tom, "is precisely why I want to get hold of you again, Mr. Hewlett."

"But here is Mlle. Duchaine!" shouted the old priest in despair.

Tom Carson raised his fat old body about five inches and made Jacqueline what he took to be a bow.

"Pleased to make your acquaintance, miss," he replied. "Ah, well, it doesn't matter. I guess that man, d'Eprenay, was lying to me. However, I am ready to look at your gold mine if you want me to."

"You'll have to do some blasting then," I said, nettled. "It's just about two hundred feet below the ground."

"Never mind," said Tom. "Lumber is better than gold. Next time I'm here I shall be glad to have another look round. And now, Hewlett, if you want a job at five thousand a year to start—to start, mind you, you play fair and tell me where Leroux is hiding himself."

I was too mortified to answer him. But I felt Jacqueline slip her hand into mine, and suddenly the memory of the past made Tom's rallery an insignificant affair.

"Mind you," he pursued, "he'll turn up soon. He's got to turn up, because the lumber company's all organized now and in fine running order. What do you say, Hewlett?"

"Nothing," I answered.

"All right," he said, turning away with a shrug of his shoulders. "Unpractical as ever, ain't you? Think it over, my son. Glad to have met you, Mr. Priest, and as I'm always busy I guess Dubois and I will start for home this afternoon."

"Messieurs," said the priest, "do you know what day this is?"

Tom started. "Why, good Lord, it's Christmas day, isn't it?" he asked, a little sheepishly.

"It's a bigger day for us," I said to Tom.

He squinted at me in his shrewd life. Dollar bills are, we know, plentiful. More so than ever. Nearly everyone has them in abundance (on pay day) and it feels fine to drag them out of our pockets—to unroll the fat wad, and gloat over it. The only drawback is that we can never eat it, or wear it, and it isn't of much use in buying things. We can of course, burn it; and at the rate we are going it may soon be cheaper to do that than burn coal; but it takes a lot of them to make a fire that will last. We can stick a bunch of bills together into a patchwork quilt, and sleep under them; it may soon be cheaper than buying blankets, but not quite so warm.

But we will all have one consoling chance of reprisal. The coal miner can have the fun of compelling the tailor's cutter to freeze; and the cutter can get even by keeping the coal miner in a state of perpetual nakedness.

There is no room for doubt as to what is in store for this country, unless we return to sanity.

WHEN COPS WALK OUT.

We may congratulate ourselves in Manistique that we do not employ a large police force. If the sheriff of the county went on strike, it would probably not result in promiscuous looting by hoodlums up and down the streets.

This has been the condition in Boston, where the police force recently declared a strike; and all the local toughs and hard-boiled eggs went out on a window-smashing expedition.

If we have need for police action on a grand scale in Manistique, all that is necessary is to muster a posse—of amateur policemen, who do not belong to a union, and are not likely to strike. They will simply do the job that is to be done, and return to their ordinary avocations upon dismissal.

We have this advantage over places like Boston, Chicago, New York and other large towns. With us law and order form part of everybody's responsibility. Enforcement of the law is not a trade in which a few professionals specialize. We are all ready to do police work here, because it is natural for us to insist on public orderliness—not because we are paid to maintain it.

If the League of Nations kicks up this kind of a row in the beginning, what will it do when it is firmly seated in the saddle?

After all, about the worst punishment we could dole out to Mexico would be to let Japan in.

view to eliminate the undesirable, and enhancing that which beautifies the community?

Are we a beautifier or just a critic?

If every man in this town will take this little lesson home and give it serious consideration, it will be but a short time when we will not criticize our neighbor's yard, and our neighbor will not criticize ours—because there will be nothing to criticize.

The king and queen of England are encouraging royal princesses to marry commoners, there being not sufficient royal males to go around. But possibly their majesties are far seeing, and are providing a bulwark among the common people against the day when the throne begins to wobble.

Our friends the French are preparing to turn the horrors of war to financial account. The French government is arranging an elaborate system for touring the battle fronts, and soon the American of means will be invited to step up and satisfy his curiosity and disgorge his wad. He will.

"Darling, I offer you my heart and hand," said a local swain recently.

"Where's your pocket book?" inquired the practical maiden.

No deal.

Time to begin saving your hundred dollar bills, William. Christmas is rushing right along again, and your girl will expect a trinket or two.

No, we have no objection to price fixing by the government, provided the prices are such as to meet our individual approval.

No chance whatever of dying of ennui these days. When we can't have a strike we can generally scare up a race riot or two.

After Being Relieved of Organic Trouble by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Oregon, Ill.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for an organic trouble which pulled me down until I could not put my foot to the floor and could scarcely do my work, and as I live on a small farm and raise six hundred chickens every year it made it very hard for me.

"I saw the Compound advertised in our paper, and tried it. It has restored my health so I can do all my work and I am so grateful that I am recommending it to my friends."—Mrs. D. M. ALTERS, R. 4, Oregon, Ill.

Only women who have suffered the tortures of such troubles and have dragged along from day to day can realize the relief which this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, brought to Mrs. Alters.

Women everywhere in Mrs. Alters' condition should profit by her recommendation, and if there are any complications write Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of their 40 years experience is at your service.

OLD AGE STARTS WITH YOUR KIDNEYS

Science says that old age begins with weakened kidneys and digestive organs. This being true, it is easy to believe that by keeping the kidneys and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person.

For over 200 years GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been relieving the weakness and disability due to advancing years. It is a standard old-time home remedy and needs no introduction. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil is inclosed in odorless, tasteless capsules containing about 5 drops each. Take them as you would a pill, with a swallow of water. The oil stimulates the kidney

WHERE HE WOULD GET COLOR

Mr. Gloom Seems to Have Definite Opinion of Denizens of Certain Kansas City Locality.

"If I were a sensational preacher, and wanted more notoriety than I was getting," a trifle grimly said J. Fuller Gloom, "I would not waste my time infesting boxing matches, rowdy dances and the like. Instead, I would array myself in a guileless countenance and a set of false neck whiskers. In my right hand I would wear a cane of weeping willow with a hook on one end and a thimble on the other. With my left hand I would clutch by the ears such a gripsack as we seldom see in real life. Of course, I would wear other and equally appropriate garments. And thus arrayed I would ramble around in the vicinity of the Union station, and let the denizens of that locality play with me. I fancy that in a short spell I would accumulate more novel experiences that I could otherwise acquire in a year's time."—Kansas City Star.

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezone costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!

COAL SHORTAGE IN STATE IS IMMINENT AND ONLY RE-LIEF IS PROMPT RE-LEASE OF CARS

Chamber of Commerce Requested To Notify All Consignees That Critical
Situation of Freight Movement Can Only Be Relieved By Returning
Empties With All Possible Haste.

The first intimation that a coal shortage was impending in this section was received at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday morning when a letter from the Public Utilities commission at Lansing was received stating that the coal situation in Michigan is apt to become serious this winter unless the car situation is improved.

The acute shortage of cars threatens seriously the coal supply and the commission issues the following letter to the consignees in Manistique:

Sept. 23, 1919

Manistique Chamber of Commerce:

The Michigan Public Utilities Commission is constantly in receipt of complaints from concerns using various commodities regarding the difficulty with which they are contending in obtaining these commodities from the railroads.

This Commission has repeatedly taken up the matter with railroad executives with more or less success. However, the situation is very serious, due to the present car shortage, and it is so serious that it seems advisable to issue a general letter to consignees in this state strongly urging the very prompt release of cars that have been received with shipments of coal, gravel and like commodities.

The situation as to coal and its receipt in Michigan is not at all good, and probably one of the reasons for this is the car shortage which is affected by undue retention of loaded cars.

The Public Utilities Commission urges each commercial organization in Michigan to take up the matter with such consignees as are located in its city where it is active and that everything be done to reduce the time that cars are retained by consignees for unloading.

Yours very truly,

MICHIGAN PUBLIC UTILITIES
COMMISSION

Men who know tobacco, chew the best without its costing them any more. They take a little chew and it's amazing how the good taste stays in a rich, high grade chewing tobacco. For lasting tobacco satisfaction, there's nothing like a small chew of that rich-tasting tobacco.
